4. Insurance premiums tax. The Commission recommends an amendment to Section 24, Act of June 1, 1889, as amended, so as to allow domestic insurance companies credit on premiums paid for re-insurance and premiums returned on cancelled policies. The purpose of the bill is to bring deductions allowed in ascertaining the tax due from domestic companies in harmony with those allowed foreign companies. (Draft of Bill, No. 4a, page 72.)

The Commission also recommends a bill providing for the taxation of marine insurance companies at a rate of five per centum on net underwriting profits instead of the present tax on gross premiums. (Draft of Bill, No. 4b, page 74.)

5. Bank stock tax. The Commission recommends an amendment to Section 1 of the Act of July 15, 1897, P. L. 292, so as to remove the objectionable features from the tax on bank stock, which permits the bank to elect to pay at the rate of ten mills on the par value instead of four mills on the book value of the stock. (Draft of Bill, No. 5, page 77.)

6. Notaries public gross receipts tax. The commission recommends the appeal of the several acts which provide for the taxation of the gross receipts of notaries public. (Draft of Bill, No. 6, page 79.)

7. Inheritance tax. The Commission recommends an amendment to Section 1 of the Act of June 20, 1919, P. L. 521, so as to eliminate the collection of taxes on personal property of non-resident decedents. (Draft of Bill, No. 7, page 79.)

8. Subjects of local taxation. The Commission recommends an amendment to Section 32, Act of April 29, 1844, P. L. 486, so as to include among the subjects for local taxation "privately owned improvements erected on public lands." (Draft of Bill, No. 8, page 81.)

9. Abatements on county taxes in third class cities. Under the present law abatements are granted on county taxes to residents in boroughs and townships, but no such abatements are granted to residents in cities. The Commission has prepared optional bills on this subject, one providing for rebates on county taxes in cities similar to those now allowed in boroughs and townships. (Draft of Bill, No. 9a, page 81); the other providing a uniform system for the collection of all county taxes in cities, boroughs, and townships, and eliminating all rebates. (Draft of Bill, No. 9b, page 82.)

10. Four-mills county tax on intangible personal property. The Commission proposes an amendment to the Act of June

17, 1913, P. L. 507, so as to simplify, as far as possible, the assessment of the four-mills county tax on intangible personal property. To a great extent the draft of the bill preserves the present law, although an attempt has been made to include certain kinds of intangibles now wholly escaping taxation within the State. The important changes are the elimination of bank accounts from this tax, and the restriction of the State tax on corporate loans to the loans of corporations for profit, leaving the loans of corporations not for profit taxable for local purposes in the hands of individuals. (Draft of Bill, No. 1, Section 1, page 64.)

11. Exemptions from local taxation. The Commission proposes an amendment to the Act of July 17, 1919, P. L. 1021, as amended, which act enumerates the classes of property now exempt from local taxes on real property. The amendment would permit exemptions only of improvements actually used as places of religious worship and all public property. This recommendation carries with it a repeal of the Act of June 29, 1923, P. L. 928, which provides for the exemption of property occupied by two or more charities. (Draft of Bills, Nos. 11a and 11b, pages 83 and 84.)

12. Proposed constitutional amendments submitted for passage the first time, to prevent delay in the adoption of a permanent policy of taxation. The Commission recommends four proposed constitutional amendments for enactment for the first time by the Legislature. These amendments are submitted so that they may be enacted a second time in 1927, if by then a permanent policy of taxation for the Commonwealth shall have been agreed upon. Three of these amendments are proposed by the Commission, and the fourth is a copy of an amendment which passed for the first time at the session of 1923. The Commission is uncertain as to the correct years when constitutional amendments should be adopted. Under the decision in the Soldiers' Bonus Amendment case, the Supreme Court held that the Constitution could be amended only at five-year intervals. The Court went out of its way to point out that the amendments submitted in 1915 and in 1920 were in the correct years, and the amendments submitted between 1915 and 1920 and after 1920 were incorrectly submitted. Two lines of argument have been advanced following the decision of the Court. First: That the amendments subsequent to 1920, which were improperly submitted, could not destroy the correct sequence of years, and that, therefore, 1923 and 1925 were the proper sessions of the Legislature for the passage of proposed amendments to be voted upon by the electors in 1925. The other line of argument is that notwithstanding the illegal submission of amendments since 1920, they are nevertheless now a part of the Constitution, and valid amendments, and that the Constitution was actually amended as late as 1923. From this line of argument it follows that the correct years for the submission of amendments will be 1925 and 1927, the vote being taken thereon in 1928, which would be five years after the last constitutional amendment.

(a) The Commission, therefore, recommends the re-enactment of the proposed amendment to Section 1, Article 9 of the Constitution, passed at the session of 1923, and which would permit exemptions in the case of inheritance taxes as to subject and as to the amount. (Draft of Resolution, No. 12a, page 85.)

(b) The Commission has proposed a new amendment to Section 1, Article 9 of the Constitution, to allow the General Assembly to define and impose different rates of taxation on earned and unearned incomes, direct and collateral inheritances, and to allow the General Assembly to grant exemptions from taxes on incomes, inheritances and profits derived from business. The proposed amendment would prohibit any rate of taxation on incomes, inheritances or profits derived from business in excess of six per centum. (Draft of Resolution, No. 12b, page 85.)

(c) The Commission has prepared a proposed constitutional amendment authorizing the granting of rebates and exemptions to residents or estates of residents of other states which grant similar exemptions and rebates to residents or estates of residents of Pennsylvania. The purpose of this constitutional amendment is to insure the constitutionality of any reciprocal legislation which may be enacted in case it becomes necessary to re-enact the inheritance tax on personal property of non-residents decedents. (Draft of Resolution, No. 12c, page 86.)

(d) The Commission also proposes to amend Section 8, Article 9 of the Constitution, which relates to municipal indebtedness. The purpose of this amendment is to provide that the indebtedness of counties and of the city of Philadelphia shall hereafter be measured by the assessment valuation of taxable realty instead of taxable property. The amendment provides for an increase in the percentage of the assessment in the case of counties from seven to ten per centum, and in the case of the city of Philadelphia, from ten to twelve per centum. The underlying purpose of the amendment is to increase the borrowing capacity in these districts on taxable realty in case the four-mills tax on intangible personal property is abolished, and the assessed valuation of these districts thereby reduced. (Draft of Resolution, No. 12d.)

SECTION III.

THE FINANCIAL PROBLEM OF THE FUTURE.

In Sections I and II the Commission has considered the existing fiscal system of the State and has made certain recommendations looking toward immediate amendment, based upon the idea that for the present there will be no marked expansion of the functions of government. Looking ahead, however, not for a biennium but for a ten-year period, it is obvious that in no very long time the present system of taxation will prove inadequate to meet the necessities of the Commonwealth. A proper attention, therefore, to the duties committed to use requires study of the problem with reference to the distant future.

At present, as a rule of thumb, it may be stated roughly that about one-third of the revenue of the Commonwealth is required for highways, one-third for public schools, one-sixth for welfare and one-sixth for general administration. Assuming that the expenditures for general administration will be kept under control, the question arises as to what will be the probable course of expenditure with reference to highways, public schools and welfare.

Highways.

Assuming that the state system provided by existing legislation and amounting to a construction of approximately 10,377 miles, of which more than one-third is in the primary system and less than two-thirds in the secondary system, is to be completed and maintained as provided by existing law, special attention should be directed to the answers of William H. Connell, Deputy Secretary of Highways, dated December 19, 1924, to questions submitted by the Commission.

First: When, in your judgment, will the state program of construction, involving approximately 10,000 miles, be completed, and how much of an additional loan will be required to do this work?

When the money form the present $50,000,000 bond issue is exhausted, there will still be 3,470 miles of unimproved road on the state highway system. Based on an average cost of $46,000 per mile, it will require additional loan funds or appropriation in amount of $159,620,000 to complete the paving of the system. A conservative rate of progress for this work would be about 700 miles per year, provided the funds are available. It would, therefore, take five years under such conditions to complete the paving.

Second: What would be a fair annual average for maintenance after the highway system is completed? In maintenance include re-surfacing, surface treatment of roads, etc., but do not include cost of sinking fund on highway bonds.

The average annual cost per mile of maintenance of the hard surface roads on the state highway system today is $4,742 per year. This includes labor, material and administrative costs applicable to the maintenance of the roads, elimination of grade crossings and all the general costs applicable to the upkeep of the system; in fact, everything but costs applicable to new construction. It also includes the cost of operation of the Motor Vehicle Registration Bureau, Highway Patrol, etc. While all of these costs are assumed to be the same when the mileage is increased, still some will be more and some less. The actual maintenance costs of the pavement will increase, the grade crossing costs will run along about the same, the overhead for supervision and collection of license fees will, of course, not be the same per mile with double the mileage, but this is a small portion of the total cost so that I think that the best way to project the possible expenses in the future would be to take all construction costs out, as we have, and reduce the rest of the general expenses to a mileage basis. Traffic, of course, is increasing at a rate that will double it within the next ten years and this may increase the average annual maintenance cost per mile due to the wear and tear of increased traffic by at least 50 per cent. When the highway system is completed, there will be 10,377 miles of hard-surfaced pavement to be maintained. Based on the assumption that the mileage cost will be approximately the same as stated above, the total cost will be $51,600,000 per year. Assuming a 25 per cent increase in maintenance expenses, which is almost certain due to the increased trucking, etc., the total maintenance cost would be $64,500,000 per year.

Third: Looking ahead ten years, and assuming that all of the work of construction is done by that time, can you give us an idea as to what the annual appropriation for your Department should be ten years hence, assuming that there will be no marked change in the standard of costs in that time?

You will note that assuming there is no new construction the general appropriation of the Department ten years hence, based on the above calculations, would have to be from $51,600,000 a year to $64,500,000 a year.

My answers to your questions are simply estimates based on the best available information, that may be very materially altered by changes in the uses to which the highways will be put within the next several years. Maintenance costs, of course, vary with the traffic and these figures are based on the estimated future traffic on the highway system.[1]

It is to be noted that the above expenditures do not include interest and sinking fund upon a bond indebtedness for highway purposes, which will then amount to approximately $250,000,000. Assuming that interest and sinking fund will amount to $18,000,000 per year, it is evident that the total highway expense for the biennium 1935-37 will be approximately $80,000,000 per year.

Public Schools.

Reference is made to the following estimate of Francis B. Haas, Deputy Superintendent of Public Instruction, in answer to questions from the Commission as to the probable appropriations for the biennium 1935-1937 made necessary by existing school legislation.

ESTIMATE FOR BIENNIUM 1935-37.

1.	Administration	$1,050,000
2.	Blind children	21,000
3.	Children placed by courts, etc.	19,000
4.	Cornplanter, Indiana school	1,800
5.	County superintendence	1,855,307
6.	Scholarships	56,000
7.	School employes retirement	10,600,542
8.	Special education	1,101,910
9.	Teachers' salaries and closed schools	61,124,745
10.	Transportation	2,000,000
11.	Vocational education	2,174,189
12.	Water conservation, etc.	6,000
13.	Normal school maintenance	6,500,000
	Total	$86,510,493

It will be noted that the above estimate does not include any capital outlay for the normal schools. It may fairly be considered that this would amount to sufficient to increase the total to $90,000,000 for the biennium, or $45,000,000 per year.

Public Welfare.

Reference is made to the letter of Ellen C. Porter, Secretary of Welfare, dated January 9, 1925, which is printed in full as Exhibit G. In this letter an estimate is given of the probable costs of this important branch of the State's activities for the ten-year period from 1925 to 1935. The summary would seem to indicate that, for the biennum 1935-37, the probable costs for this work would be as follows:

ESTIMATE FOR BIENNIUM 1935-37.

For maintenance—
Penal and correctional institutions	$4,142,300
Soldiers' and Sailors' Home, Erie	500,000
Institutions for the feeble minded	3,925,000
Medical and surgical hospitals	1,212,000
State and county insane	7,366,200
Defective delinquent males	600,000
Epileptics	660,000
Repairs and replacements—
Penal and correctional institutions	894,440
Mental hospitals	950,000
Additions to be constructed during ten-year period	600,000
Capital outlay—
New buildings and extensions to buildings	5,000,000
Mothers' assistance fund	3,500,000
State-aided institutions	4,554,000
General administration and mental health and orthopædic program	500,000
Total	$34,403,940

In view of the weight and gravity of many of the problems of this Department, the Commission feels that these estimates represent a conservative minimum, and that it is probable that in the budget for 1935-37 an appropriation of at least $25,000,000 per year will be necessary for welfare work.

The Financial Outlook.

To the above totals for highways, public schools, and welfare, there should be added at least $25,000,000 to $30,000,000 per year for the biennium 1935-37 for general administrative expenses of the State, and ordinary prudence would dictate that at least some allowance should be made for new functions which may be assumed by the State Government within a decade. If, for instance, the loan of $25,000,000 for forestry purposes should be authorized, an annual expenditure of upwards of $1,500,000 per year would be required for interest and sinking fund.

To summarize the above estimates, the following totals will aid the General Assembly in appreciating the immensity of the financial problems which confront the State.

ESTIMATE OF STATE EXPENDITURES FOR THE YEAR 1935-36.

Highways	$80,000,000
Public schools	45,000,000
General administration	30,000,000

In other words, within ten years the probable expenditures of the State for existing functions may fairly be expected to amount to at least $180,000,000 per year, as compared with a present total of $100,000,000 per year. We do not believe that the present tax system of Pennsylvania can produce this revenue, nor do we believe that the present system of special taxes on particular industries or classes of business can be carried much further than its development at the present time.

Moreover, the Commission doubts whether some of the existing sources of revenue will continue to increase at the same rate as in the past. For instance, there is every reason to believe that the income from motor licenses will increase at a less rapid rate as the number of cars approaches the "saturation point."

A comparison of present state taxes in Pennsylvania with those in other states would seem to indicate that expenditures in Pennsylvania are not greater than in the average state. Reference is made to the following summary, based upon figures of the United States Census Bureau for the year 1922, which gives the following data for 16 states and for the United States:

(a) Per capita cost of state government.

(b) Revenue receipts of the state for each $1,000 of wealth.

(c) The general cost of state government per $1,000 of wealth.

(d) Total taxes (state and local) per capita.

(e) Total taxes (state and local) per $1,000 of wealth.

[1] In answering the above questions, Mr. Connell has given consideration to the probability that within ten years from 3000 to 4000 miles of dirt roads may be added to the system. If there should be no additional mileage of dirt roads added to the system, he estimates that the annual costs for maintenance would be from $48,419,800 to $60,462,600 per year.

With reference to the items entering into road maintenance, see Table 20 of Exhibit F.

State	Per capita cost of state government	Revenue receipts per $1,000 of wealth	Governmental cost per $1,000 of wealth	Total taxes (state and local) per capita	Total taxes (state and local) per $1,000 of wealth
All states	$11.82	$3.70	$4.09	$38.85	$13.76
New York	13.32	3.64	3.83	57.55	16.54
Pennsylvania	9.89	3.00	3.08	34.04	10.61
Illinois	7.83	2.03	2.34	40.76	12.21
Ohio	11.35	2.90	3.66	45.64	14.72
California	19.03	3.97	4.61	59.96	14.53
Massachusetts	10.81	3.96	3.31	53.63	16.42
New Jersey	16.94	3.57	4.71	49.00	13.64
Michigan	24.07	5.42	8.12	51.44	17.35
Iowa	13.27	3.04	3.08	52.50	12.19
Wisconsin	12.92	4.77	4.42	47.54	16.28
Connecticut	13.97	4.13	4.79	45.22	12.28
Maryland	12.06	4.63	4.49	31.47	11.72
Indiana	8.10	2.90	2.74	43.69	14.76
Kansas	6.46	1.98	1.84	42.56	12.13
West Virginia	7.91	2.64	2.56	28.75	9.30
Delaware	24.89	7.76	9.08	35.67	13.01

The above table would seem to indicate that the proper basis for complaint in Pennsylvania is not the total of state and local taxation, but rather the inequalities and special exemptions, which, as has been indicated in Section I, are the necessary result of any system of special taxes.

In considering this subject, therefore, the General Assembly should give attention to the fact that it is probable that within ten years a system must be devised which will produce a revenue of at least $180,000,000 per year, and we here state as our conclusion that an adequate system to this end can not be devised to the satisfaction of the public without some more inclusive plan of general taxes universally applied.

SECTION IV.

A SUGGESTED PLAN FOR A PERMANENT FINANCIAL POLICY.

John P. Wood, member of the Commission, has devoted special attention to the question of an adequate, equitable fiscal plan for the future. He has submitted to the Commission a plan which is herewith forwarded to the Legislature with the statement that in the brief time which has elapsed since the organization of the Commission and with the inadequate statistics upon the subject of taxation, particularly with reference to local government, the Commission has found it impossible to make any present recommendation with reference to this plan. We do recommend either that the Commission be continued for another biennium or another commission appointed to give careful attention to the problems contained in this report.

A full consideration of the working out of the proposed plan would require statistical information which is not now available to the Commission. Moreover we believe that before any drastic change is made in the fiscal policy of the State, there should be adequate opportunity given to all of the interests of the State which will be affected by the plan to consider the same and to give testimony as to its affects. For the collection of this testimony another biennium will be required.

But, without expressing a conclusion on the merits of such a plan, the Commission believes that at this time the preliminary constitutional steps should be taken, so that if such a plan is favorably received by the citizens of the Commonwealth it may be possible for a future General Assembly to carry it into effect without undue delay. The plan itself will involve amendments to the Constitution of the Commonwealth, which have been submitted in Section II of this report. We recommend that these amendments be approved at the Session of 1925, so that if approved at the Session of 1927, they may be submitted to the vote of the citizen body in 1927 or 1928. Otherwise we believe that under the recent decision of the Supreme Court it might not be possible to secure a vote upon the amendments until 1933, and by that time the financial necessities of the State may be very urgent. Also, before 1927, other plans may be suggested which will not require constitutional amendment.

The plan in detail is submitted below, but in general it may be stated that it proposes a net profits tax upon business, based upon the average of the profits for the preceding three-year period, to replace all other business taxes, and a flat rate income tax, with a distinction in rate between earned income and income from investments, to replace all forms of taxation upon personal property, the proceeds of the income tax to be distributed one-third to the county, one-third to the school districts and one-third to the State Government.

The Commission has already commended the principle of the profits tax. With reference to the income tax, the Commission would view its imposition in the State of Pennsylvania with great reluctance, in view of the fact that the Federal Government obtains its chief revenue from this source, and would only be willing to consider it as a substitute for existing taxes. In considering both the profits tax and the income tax, careful attention should be given to the practical objections which have been raised against the Federal laws in their present form, namely, their complexities, their delays, and uncertainties, and the indirect economic burden upon the taxpayer in complying with the requirements of law. It is hoped that, before these questions are ultimately decided in Pennsylvania, simpler and more equitable methods of administration of taxation may be devised for the Federal Government, so that the State may profit by the Federal experience.

In proposing any new system of state and local taxation, certain practical requirements must be met. These requirements have been well summed up in the report of the committee appointed in 1917 by the National Tax Association to prepare a model system of state and local taxation, and are here in part repeated:

A. The proposed system must yield the required revenues, state and local.

B. It must be practicable from an administrative standpoint.

C. It must be adapted to a country with Federal form of government.

D. It must respect existing constitutional limitations, Federal and state, or else point to practicable methods of constitutional amendment.

E. It must represent as nearly as possible a general consensus of opinion.

The Wood Plan.

The Wood Plan, as presented and explained by its author, is as follows:

1. Business taxes.

(a) Abolish all other forms of business taxation (except franchise bonus for incorporation, which should be lowered in rate to one-tenth of one percent on authorized capitalization), including capital stock, corporate loans, gross receipts, mercantile license, anthracite coal and other business taxes, and substitute therefor a uniform rate upon the net profits of business, whether conducted by corporation, association, limited partnership or individual, with an exemption to those businesses the aggregate annual receipts of which do not exceed $10,000, and an exemption of the first $1,000 or fraction thereof for all concerns subject to the tax, based upon the average net profits of the previous three-year period.

(b) This change will require a constitutional amendment authorizing the exemptions indicated. The amendment should also fix a maximum rate which this tax should not exceed; and it should empower the Legislature to define "business" for the purpose of legislation under this provision.

2. Personal property and individual taxes.

(a) Abolish the present 4-mills tax on personal property.

(b) Abolish the poll tax.

(c) Abolish occupation taxes and the school capitation tax.

(d) Enact a tax on net income at the rate, for illustration, of 2 per cent on earned incomes and 4 per cent on unearned incomes; these taxes to be computed upon duplicates of the returns to the Federal Government for the Federal income tax.

(e) Adopt a constitutional amendment authorizing the same exemptions from income tax as are provided by Federal law for exemption from the Federal income tax.

3. Real estate.

(a) In each county but one assessment to be made, and it used as the basis for all local taxes—county, city, borough, township and school.

(b) Real estate of utilities (except rights-of-way) to be included in the assessment for all taxes.

(c) Remove the exemption of the land value of church property and remove the exemption for both land value and improvements of all other than public property and improvements of church buildings.

4. Inheritance taxes.

(a) Repeal so much of the existing law as taxes personal property of nonresidents.

(b) Initiate a constitutional amendment to permit the exemption from inheritance taxes of—

(1) Distributive shares which do not exceed $5,000.

(2) Legacies to charitable or educational institutions to an amount not exceeding $50,000 in any one estate; bequests exceeding $50,000 to be taxed upon the excess only.

(c) Adopt appropriate resolutions conveying to the senators and representatives from Pennsylvania in the Congress of the United States the opinion of the Legislature of Pennsylvania that the Federal Government ought to discontinue the taxation of inheritance or decedent's estates and leave that field to the several states.

(d) Authorize the Governor to designate representatives of the Commonweatlh to meet with representatives of any or all other states for the purpose of considering a uniform policy to be recommended to the legislatures of the several states, in respect to the taxation of the estates of decedents; and requesting the Governor to take the initiative in instituting such a conference, if one has not already been called by other authority. Appropriate the necessary funds for the expenses of the representatives of Pennsylvania in such conference or conferences as may be held within the two ensuing years.

5. Motor vehicle license tax and motor fuel tax.

(a) The permanent tax on motor fuels to be increased from the present rate of 1 cent per gallon to 2 cents per gallon.

(b) License fee and registration fee to be merged in one charge, and the rates on heavy motor trucks to be increased.

6. Tax on insurance premiums.

(a) The tax on the premiums of insurance companies to be retained as at present because of state comity on this subject.

(b) When, however, the opportunity is ripe for joint action of the states, these taxes should be replaced by a tax on net profits.

7. Natural Resources.

(a) Assessment of coal and mineral lands to be on the basis of surface value.

(b) Separation taxes to be levied upon mineral produce either upon the basis of the quantity or value of the annual production, to be collected by the State, and 50 per cent to be returned to the local unit.

8. Apportionment of State revenue to local purposes.

If and when the changes herein recommended are made, in order to relieve the tax situation with local governmental units it should be provided that the income tax should be collected by the State and apportioned one-third to the counties to replace the personal property tax which these units will lose, one-third to the school districts as a fund to assist in the construction of new buildings, and one third to the State.

It will be noted that in this plan there will be a considerable gain to the local unit from including the real estate of public utilities and the land values of religious properties and the land value and improvements of charitable properties.

It is believed that a tax of 4 per cent on net profits of business, including all businesses except building and loan associations, and without any of the exemptions authorized by the emergency profits tax of 1923, and a tax on income of 2 per cent on earned income and 4 per cent on income from investments, together with inheritance taxes, which by constitutional amendment will never exceed 6 per cent, and the motor license fees and the gasoline tax, will provide an adequate revenue for the Commonwealth.

The advantages of the proposed plan may be briefly summarized as follows:

First—By general taxes at uniform rates, such as the proposed tax on net profits and the proposed tax on income, the State will be given an elastic revenue, readily increased in times of emergency and decreased in periods of prosperity or economy.

Second—It will give the Commonwealth a system which is simple and easily understood in contradistinction to the present involved and complicated system, which, even with the advantage of numerous interpretations from the Supreme Court, becomes yearly more difficult to comprehend and more burdensome upon business and individuals.

Third—It is a universal system, uniform in its application upon all classes of business, and yet, since it is based upon profits and income, the true bases for taxation, it removes the evils of the present system, which has resulted in the arraying of class against class and business against business.

In Conclusion.

The Commission desires to record again its appreciation of the assistance which it has received not only from public officials but also from private citizens. It believes that during the next generation the subject of taxation is bound to be the urgent question of the day. It submits its report as an honest attempt in a brief time, with the available facilities, to throw some light upon the situation. It recommends that the general problem be recommitted either to this or another Commission with an appropriation sufficient to provide for a thorough survey of the burden of taxation in Pennsylvania, national, state, and local, and for a study in detail of the economic effects of the various forms of taxation as applied to this State. It is the hope of the Commission that when the General Assembly of 1927 shall meet, there may have been developed a consensus of opinion as to what is best in the field of taxation for the general interests of the Commonwealth.

Respectfully submitted,

Franklin S. Edmonds, Chairman

I agree with my colleagues in the recommendations in this report, with the exception, however, that I find myself unable to concur in the proposal to amend the Constitution so as to porvide for the taxation of incomes, inheritance and business profits at flat rates, with the limitation that in no case shall the rates be in excess of 6 per cent. Believing as I do that the principle of progression with respect to rates on incomes and inheritances is both desirable and practicable, candor compels me to register my opposition to the proposal in the above form and to express my approval of an amendment that will empower the General Assembly to exercise its judgment as to whether or not progression shall be adopted.

Furthermore, I desire to go on record as being in substantial agreement with the principles embodied in the suggested plan for a permanent tax system, as outlined in Section IV of this report, subject however to the above qualification with respect to rates. But in the absence of more complete statistical data I am not prepared to endorse the proposed change in all its details.

STATEMENT AND RESOLUTIONS CONCERNING DEATH TAXES ON THE PERSONAL PROPERTY OF NON-RESIDENT DECEDENTS.

Harrisburg, December 22, 1924.

The undersigned desire to direct the attention of the Legislatures of the several States of the Union to the increasing dissatisfaction with the present imposition of death taxes, arising out of the fact that the personal property of non-residents is the subject of unjust multiple taxation.

It is admitted that the pressure of overlapping inheritance and estate taxes may cause the impoverishment of the principal of the estates. As most citizens do not have their attention directed to the present legislation on the subject, except when serving as executors, administrators, or as expectant legatees, a brief statement of the facts which underlie the present situation is hereby presented.

First. The state in which a man resides may impose a tax or series of taxes upon the property of which he was possessed at the time of death, except real property located outside of the state.

Second. If a portion of the estate is in real or tangible personal property, located in a different state from that in which the decedent had his legal residence, such other state may tax such property.

Third. (a) If the estate includes stock and bonds of a corporation incorporated under the laws of a state other than that in which the decedent had his legal residence, this second state may also exact a tax; if such corporation holds property located in other states, such other states may also exact a tax.

(b) If a corporation has an office for the registry and transfer of its stock certificates in a different state from that where its charter was obtained, or in which its property is located, or in which the decedent had his legal residence, this fourth state in which the transfer office is located, may also tax the value of its shares.

(c) If the securities in the form of certificates of stock or bonds are kept in a place of safe deposit in a still different state, this state may also impose a tax upon their value.

Fourth. If the lines of a railroad company extend through different states, each of the states in which it operates may levy a death tax upon the shares of that company. This multiplication of taxes may also apply to the shares of any other corporation with property located in more than one state.

Fifth. In addition, the Federal Government collects death taxes if the value of the estate exceed $50,000.

Sixth. The complexity and the variance of the laws of the several states, both as regards rates and methods of administration, are causing an unfair burden upon decedents' estates. In the various states, rates of taxation may differ according to the degree of relationship of the inheritor to the decedent. Furthermore, the rates imposed by the Federal Government and by many of the states increase progressively according to the net value of the estate, or the amount of the inheritance (distributive share), and at various rates of progression, extending from one to forty per cent. The sum total of these various overlapping and cumulative taxes may more than wipe out the entire estate.

Seventh. Even in cases where the value of the property located in a particular state may be so small that there would be no tax, or the tax would be negligible, the expense of complying with the inheritance tax laws and the local probate procedure, amount to a considerable burden on the estate, and often the delays thus imposed prove even more costly. The growing practice among the states of taxing personal property of non-resident decedents is questionable on the ground of sound public policy. It causes a far greater expenditure to the estates in preparing themselves to comply with the provisions of the taxlaws than the return to the states in question would seem to justify.

Eighth. Where these overlapping and cumulative taxes form a total so great as to be a serious menace to the estate, inasmuch as the tax must be paid in cash, and amounts to more than the sum of the ready cash in the estate, some of the assets of the estate must be sold in order to obtain the money to pay the taxes; and frequently such sales must be made at a sacrifice because at the time when the money is needed, market conditions may be unfavorable.

We recognize that the great difficulty in the way of repealing this tax lies in the fact that the state which would take the initiative in the matter would suffer a loss in revenue, and yet at the same time the estates of its citizens would be subject to the tax from the other states retaining the law. The State of New York in 1911 repealed this tax, but was impelled to re-enact it in 1919 as a measure of self-protection. The Commonwealth of Massachusetts in 1912 repealed this tax but was impelled to restore it in 1920. In the latest re-enactments, both New York and Massachusetts modified the tax by limiting its application to certain classes of property.

It is believed that the yield from this tax to the various states is not very great. The best estimate which has been presented to us is that the total collections by the states on both personal property and realty non-resident decedents does not average more than ten million dollars per year, of which approximately one third is from realty. For instance, New York in the year 1920 collected about $1,800,000 from non-resident decedents; Massachusetts in 1924 collected about $220,000; Pennsylvania in 1924 collected about $870,000. We believe it is fair to state that the burden to the estates in additional counsel fees, expenses of compensation and distressing delays, is greatly disproportionate to the amount realized by the various states, especially in estates of small or moderate size where the expenses of administration are greater in proportion than in large estates.

In view of this situation, this Conference unites in the following resolutions which will be duly forwarded to the various State legislatures:

Resolved, That in the judgment of this Conference, death taxes on personal property of non-resident decedents are contrary to sound public policy, and, as imposed at the present time, result in a greater burden upon the estates of decedents than the returns to the states justify.

Resolved, That this Conference recommends to the legislatures of the several states the repeal of all death tax laws upon the personal property of non-resident decedents.

Resolved, That in the judgment of this Conference, death taxes should be reserved to the state governments, and that inasmuch as the Federal Government entered this field because of war emergencies, it should now withdraw and leave to the states exclusively this much-needed source of revenue.

Resolved, That we indorse the plan of the National Tax Association to call a conference of the states in February of 1925, and we further recommend that at this conference a careful study be made of inheritance taxation on the personal property of non-resident decedents, and that a strong effort be made to procure united and harmonious action by the various state governments on this subject.

AN ACT

To amend section one and section seventeen, as amended, of an act approved the seventeenth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen (P. L. 507), entitled "An act to provide revenue for State and county purposes, and, in cities coextensive with counties, for city and county purposes; imposing taxes upon certain classes of personal property; providing for the assessment and collection of the same; providing for the duties and compensation of prothonotaries and recorders in connection therewith; and modifying existing legislation which provided for raising revenue for State purposes."

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That section one of an act approved the seventeenth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen (P. L. 507), entitled "An act to provide revenue for State and county purposes, and, in cities coextensive with counties, for city and county purposes; imposing taxes upon certain classes of personal property; providing for the assessment and collection of the same; providing for the duties and compensation of prothonotaries and recorders in connection therewith; and modifying existing legislation which provided for raising revenue for State purposes," is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1. Be it enacted &c., That the word "foreign" as used in this section means incorporated, formed or organized under the laws of the United States, or any foreign country or any state other than Pennsylvania.

All personal property of the classes hereinafter enumerated, owned, held or possessed by any person, persons, copartnerships, or unincorporated association or company, resident or located, (or liable to taxation) within this Commonwealth, or by any joint-stock company or association, limited partnership, bank or corporation whatsoever, formed, erected, or incorporated by, under, or in pursuance of any law of this Commonwealth or of the United States, or of any other state or government, and liable to taxation within this Commonwealth, whether such personal property be owned, held, or possessed by such person or persons, copartnership, unincorporated association, company, joint-stock company or association, limited partnership, bank or corporation in his, her, their, or its own right, or as active trustee, agent, attorney-in-fact, guardian, committee, assignee, receiver, fiduciary or in any other capacity, for the use, benefit, or advantage of any other person, persons, copartnership, unincorporated association, company, joint-stock company or association, limited partnership, bank, or corporation,—is hereby made taxable, annually, for county purposes, and, in cities coextensive with counties, for city and county purposes, at the rate of four mills on each dollar of the value thereof, and no failure to access or return the same shall discharge such owner or holder thereof from liability therefor; that is to say,—

(a) All interest paying mortgages, except those issued or assumed by corporations for profit incorporated under the laws of the Commonwealth;

(b) All interest paying promissory and judgment notes, except notes discounted or negotiated by any bank, banking institution, saving institution or trust company and notes issued or assumed by corporations for profit incorporated under the laws of the Commonwealth;

(c) All interest paying bonds, except bonds issued or assumed by corporations for profit incorporated under the laws of the Commonwealth, bonds issued or assumed by foreign corporations upon which a state tax is paid by the corporation under the provisions of section seventeen of the act to which this is an amendment, bonds accompanying mortgages, and bonds of the United States, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and any county, city, borough, town, township, school district or poor district of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania;

(d) All dividend paying shares of stock of foreign corporations, foreign limited partnerships, foreign banks, foreign joint-stock associations, or foreign companies, except shares of stock of National banks and shares of stock of such foreign corporations, limited partnerships, associations and companies as pay a tax on capital stock in Pennsylvania for state purposes;

(e) All interest paying equipment trust securities, except those issued or assumed by corporations incorporated under the laws of this Commonwealth upon which a state tax is paid by such corporations under the provisions of section seventeen of this act.

(f) All interest or rental paying certificates of interest, all interest or rental paying participations in trusts and all other interest and rental paying securities, evidences of indebtedness and instruments, except those issued or assumed by corporations incorporated under the laws of this Commonwealth upon which a state tax is paid by such corporation under the provisions of section seventeen of this act;

(g) All vehicles used for transporting passengers for hire including those owned by corporations, partnerships and individuals, except steam and street passenger railway cars.

The provisions of this section shall not apply to personal property owned, held or possessed in its own right by any (a) building and loan association, (b) savings institution having no capital stock, (c) corporation not for profit, (d) fire company, (e) firemen's relief association, (f) life or fire insurance corporation having no capital stock or (g) secret and benefical society, labor union or labor union relief association, or beneficial organization paying sick or death benefits from funds received from voluntary contributions or assessments upon members; nor shall this section apply to (h) mortgages, bonds, securities and evidences of indebtedness owned in their own right by corporations, limited partnerships and joint-stock associations liable to a tax on capital stock under the laws of this Commonwealth.

[All mortgages; all moneys owing by solvent debtors, whether by promissory note, or penal or single bill, bond or judgment; all articles of agreement and accounts bearing interest; all public loans whatsoever, except those issued by this Commonwealth or the United States, and those made taxable for State purposes by section seventeen hereof; all loans issued by any corporation, association, company, or limited partnership, created or formed under the laws of this Commonwealth or of the United States, or of any other State or government, including car-trust securities and loans secured by bonds or any other form of certificate or evidence of indebtedness, whether the interest be included in the principal of the obligation or payable by the terms thereof, except such loans as are made taxable for State purposes by section seventeen hereof; all shares of stock in any bank, corporation, association, company, or limited partnership, created or formed under the laws of this Commonwealth or of the United States, or of any other State or government, except shares of stock in any bank, corporation or limited partnership that may be liable to a tax on its shares or its capital stock for State purposes under the laws of this Commonwealth, or relieved from the payment of tax on its shares or capital stock for State purposes by the laws of the Commonwealth; all moneys loaned or invested in other States, Territories, the District of Columbia, or foreign countries; all other moneyed capital in the hands of individual citizens of the State; all stages, omnibusses, hacks, cabs, and other vehicles used in transporting passangers for hire, except steam and street passenger railway cars, owned, used, or possessed within this Commonwealth by any person or persons, or by any corporate body or bodies; all annuities yielding annually over two hundred dollars; Provided, That this section shall not apply to bank notes, or notes discounted or negotiated by any bank or banking institution, savings institution, or trust company: And provided, That the provisions of this act shall not apply to building and loan associations or to savings institutions having no capital stock; but nothing herein contained shall be construed to relieve or exempt individual depositors in savings institutions having no capital stock from any taxation to which such depositors may be subject; and,]

If at any time, either now or hereafter, any persons, individuals, or bodies corporate have agreed or shall hereafter agree to issue his, their, or its securities, bonds or other evidences of indebtedness, clear of and free from the said four mills tax herein provided for, or have agreed or shall hereafter agree to pay the same, nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to relieve or exempt him, it or them, from paying the said four mills tax on any of the said such securities, bonds, or other evidences of indebtedness, as may be held, owned by, or owing to the said saving institution having no capital stock. [And provided further, That the provisions of this act shall not apply to fire companies, firemen's relief associations, life or fire insurance corporations having no capital stock secret and beneficial societies, labor unions and labor union relief associations, and all beneficial organizations paying sick or death benefits, or either or both, from funds received from voluntary contributions or assessments upon members of such associations, societies, or unions: And provided further, That corporations, limited partnerships, and joint-stock associations, liable to tax on capital stock for State purposes, shall not be required to make any report or pay any further tax, under this section, on the mortgages, bonds, and other securities owned by them in their own right; but corporations, limited partnerships, and joint-stock associations holding such securities as trustees, executors, administrators, guardians, or in any other manner, shall return and pay the tax imposed by this section upon all securities so held by them as in the case of individuals: And provided further, That]

None of the classes of property made taxable by this section for county purposes, and, in cities coextensive with counties, for city and county purposes, shall be taxed or taxable for any other local purpose or for State purposes under the laws of this Commonwealth.

Section 2. That section seventeen of said act which was amended by an act approved the thirteenth day of Junly, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three (P. L. 1085), entitled "An act to amend section seventeen of the act, approved the seventeenth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen (Pamphlet Laws, five hundred and seven), entitled 'An act to provide revenue for State and county purposes, and, in cities coextensive with counties for city and county purposes; imposing taxes upon certain classes of personal property; providing for the assessment and collection of the same; providing for the duties and compensation of prothonotaries and recorders in connection therewith; and modifying existing legislation which provide for raising revenue for State purposes,' as amended" is hereby further amended to read as follows:

Section 17. That all scrip, bonds, certificates, and evidences of indebtedness issued, and all scrip, bonds, certificates, and evidences of indebtedness assumed, or on which interest shall be paid, by any and every private corporation for profit incorporated or created under the laws of this Commonwealth or the laws of any other State or of the United States, and doing business in this Commonwealth, [and all scrip, bonds, certificates, and evidences of indebtedness issued, and all scrip, bonds, certificates, and evidences of indebtedness assumed, or on which interest shall be paid, by any county, city, borough, township, school district, or incorporated district of this Commonwealth] are hereby made taxable in the year one thousand nine hundred and nineteen, and annually thereafter, for State purposes, at the rate of four mills on each dollar of the nominal value thereof: Provided, That whenever under the provisions of this section any private corporation for profit shall become liable for such taxes upon evidences of indebtedness by it assumed, or on which it shall pay interest, it shall be the duty of such corporation, not later than ten days thereafter, to give notice in writing to any person who may at such time be liable for the payment of any taxes upon such evidences of indebtedness under the provisions of the first section of the act, [approved the seventeenth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen (Pamphlet Laws, five hundred and seven)] to which this is [a further] an amendment, that the corporation has assumed such indebtedness or the payment of the interest thereon, and will deduct and pay the taxes imposed thereon by this section. Such notice shall also be given before the first day of October of each and every subsequent year during which such corporation is liable for the payment of such interest. Where any private corporation for profit shall assume such evidences of indebtedness or the payment of interest thereon prior to the first day of October in any year, and shall give notice as hereinbefore provided, such corporation shall be relieved from the duty of deducting and paying the taxes imposed by this section for the balance of such year, but shall deduct and pay said taxes for the ensuing year; and the person to whom such notice shall be given shall, for such ensuing year, be relieved from the payment of tax, under the provisions of section one of [said act of June seventeen, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen] this act upon such evidences of indebtedness so assumed or on which the corporation shall pay interest. Where any private corporation for profit shall assume such evidences of indebtedness, or the payment of interest thereon, on or subsequent to the first day of October in any year, and shall give the notice as hereinbefore provided, such corporation shall be relieved from the duty of deducting and paying the tax upon such evidences of indebtedness by it assumed, or on which it shall pay interest, for the balance of such year and for the ensuing year; and the person to whom notice is so given shall pay the tax for the period for which the corporation is relieved upon such evidences of indebtedness so assumed, or on which the corporation shall pay interest, so provided for in section one of [the act of June seventeen, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen] this act. Neglect or failure on the part of any corporation upon assuming any evidences of indebtedness, or becoming liable for the payment of interest thereon, to give the notice as herein provided, and within the time prescribed, shall make such corporation liable for the payment of taxes from the time when such evidences of indebtedness are assumed or for the entire period for which interest shall be paid. Neglect or failure to give such notice before the first day of October of each and every subsequent year during which such corporation is liable for the payment of such interest shall make the corporation liable for such taxes for the year following, without any deduction from interest due as hereinbefore provided: Provided, That this section shall not apply to bank notes or notes discounted or negotiated by any bank or banking institution, savings institution, or trust company: And provided, That the provisions of this act shall not apply to building and loan associations, or to savings institutions having no capital stock; but nothing herein contained shall be construed to relieve or exempt individual depositors in savings institutions having no capital stock from any taxation to which such depositors may be subject; and if at any time, either now or hereafter, any persons, individuals, or bodies corporate have agreed or shall hereafter agree to issue his, their, or its securities, bonds, or other evidences of indebtedness, clear of and free from the said four mills tax herein provided for, or have agreed or shall hereafter agree to pay the same, nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to relieve or exempt him, it or them from paying the said four mills tax on any of the said such securities, bonds, or other evidences of indebtedness as may be held, owned by, or owing to the said savings institution having no capital stock: And provided, further, That the provisions of this act shall not apply to fire companies, firemen's relief associations, life or fire insurance corporations having no capital stock, secret and beneficial societies, labor unions and labor union relief associations, and all beneficial organizations paying sick or death benefits, or either or both, from funds received from voluntary contributions or assessments upon members of such associations, societies, or unions: And provided further, That corporations, limited partnerships, and joint-stock associations, liable to tax on capital stock for State purposes, shall not be required to pay any further tax under this section on the mortgages, bonds, and other securities owned by them in their own right; but corporations, limited partnerships, and joint-stock associations, holding such securities as trustees, executors, administrators, guardians, or in any other manner, shall be liable for the tax imposed by this section upon all securities so held by them, as in the case of individuals: And provided further, That none of the classes of property made taxable by this section for State purposes shall be taxed or taxable for county, school, or other local purposes.

It is the intent of this act that all scrip, bonds, certificates, and evidences of indebtedness made taxable under this section are not taxable under section one (1) of the act to which this is an amendment, and that only such scrip, bonds, certificates and evidences of indebtedness which cannot be made taxable under this section are to be taxed under section one (1) of said act.

Section 3. Nothing contained in this act shall be construed to prevent the collection of any taxes levied and assessed prior to the passage of this act under the act to which this is an amendment.

No. 2.

AN ACT

To amend and supplement section one of an act approved the third day of May, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine (P. L. 189) entitled "An act to provide for the payment of bonus on charters; and upon the authorized increase of the capital stock of certain corporations, and authorizing corporations to increase their capital stock for corporate purposes," by reducing the bonus payable on charters and increases of capital stock of certain domestic and foreign corporations, limited partnerships and joint-stock associations.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That section one of an act approved the third day of May, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine, (P. L. 189), entitled "An act to provide for the payment of bonus on charters, and upon the authorized increase of the capital stock of certain corporations, and authorizing corporations to increase their capital stock for corporate purposes," is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1. Be it enacted, &c., That all domestic and foreign corporations, limited partnerships and joint-stock associations, hereafter created under any general or special law of this Commonwealth [except building and loan associations, and excepting all corporations named in the first class of section two of an act, entitled "An act to provide for the incorporation and regulation of certain corporations," approved the twenty-ninth day of April, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four], shall pay to the State Treasurer, for the use of the Commonwealth, a bonus [of one third of one per centum upon the amount of the capital stock which said company is authorized to have, and a like bonus on any subsequent authorized increase thereof, and a like bonus shall be paid by all such companies heretofore incorporated upon an increase of their capital stock hereafter authorized,] as hereinafter provided under the following conditions, to wit:—

(a) All domestic corporations, limited partnerships and joint-stock association, except building and loan associations and except all corporations named in the first class of section two of an act approved the twenty-ninth day of April, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four, (Pamphlet Laws, seventy-three) entitled "An act to provide for the incorporation and regulation of certain corporations," as amended, shall pay to the State Treasurer, for the use Commonwealth, a bonus upon the capital stock which said corporation, limited partnership or joint stock association is authorized to have at the time of its incorporation or consolidation, a like bonus on any subsequent actual increase thereof, and a like bonus shall be paid by all such companies heretofore incorporated upon any actual increase of their capital stock hereafter authorized.

(b) All foreign corporations, limited partnerships and joint-stock associations except foreign insurance companies, chartered or created by or under the laws of any other state, or of the United States, or of any foreign country, whose principal office or chief place of business is located in this Commonwealth, or which have any part of their capital actually employed wholly within the State, in addition to complying with the laws now in force as to such corporations, limited partnerships or joint-stock associations, shall pay to the State Treasurer, for the use of the Commonwealth a bonus upon the amount of their capital actually employed or to be employed wholly within the State of Pennsylvania, and a like bonus upon each subsequent increase of capital so employed.

The bonus payable under the provisions of this act shall be one-tenth of one per centum.

And no company as aforesaid shall have or exercise any corporate powers until the said bonus is paid, and the Governor shall not issue letters patent to any company until he is satisfied that the said bonus has been paid to the State Treasurer. And no company incorporated as aforesaid shall go into operation, or exercise any corporate powers or privileges, until said bonus has been paid. The Secretary of the Commonwealth shall not permit the filing in his office of any proceedings for increase of capital stock until he is satisfied that the said bonus upon said authorized increase has been paid to the State Treasurer.

Section 2. The following acts or parts of acts, in so far as they exact a bonus from certain corporations, limited partnerships and joint stock associations, are hereby repealed:—

Section one of an act approved the eighth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and one (P. L. 149), entitled "An act providing for raising of revenue for State purposes, by imposing a bonus of one-third of one per centum upon the capital and increase thereof of certain partnership associations."

Section one of an act approved the eighth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and one (P. L. 150), entitled "An act providing for the raising of revenue for State purposes, by imposing upon certain foreign corporations, limited partnership and joint-stock associations a bonus of one-third of one per centum upon the capital actually employed in Pennsylvania and requiring the filing of certain reports in the office of the Auditor General."

Section three of an act approved the twenty-ninth day of May one thousand nine hundred and one (P. L. 349), entitled "An act supplementary to an act, entitled 'An act to provide for the incorporation and regulation of certain corporations,' approved the twenty-ninth day of April, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four; providing for the merger and consolidation of certain corporations."

Section one of an act approved the thirty-first day of March, one thousand nine hundred and five (P. L. 95), entitled "An act to amend section three of a supplement to an act, entitled 'An act to provide for the incorporation and regulation of certain corporations,' approved the twenty-ninth day of April one thousand eight hundred and seventy four, providing for the merger and consolidation of certain corporations, approved the twenty-ninth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and one; requiring the filing of all reports required by the Auditor General, and the payment of all taxes due the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, by corporations, before merger or consolidation."

All other acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

No. 3.

AN ACT

To amend section twenty-three of an act approved the first day of June, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine (P. L. 420), entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act to provide revenue by taxation' approved the seventh day of June, Anno Domini, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine"; providing for the collection of taxes upon gross receipts of persons, individuals, companies, joint-stock associations, and limited partnerships engaged in freight, passenger, oil and motor transportation and from water-power and hydro-electric companies; and providing also for the payment of taxes upon gross receipts where works are operated by others than the owners thereof.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That section twenty-three of an act approved the first day of June, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine (P. L. 420), entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act to provide revenue by taxation' approved the seventh day of June, Anno Domini, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine," is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 25. That every railroad company, pipe-line company, conduit company, steamboat company, canal company, slack water navigation company, transportation company, street passenger railway company, taxi-cab company, autobus line company, trunk transportation company and every other company, joint-stock association or limited partnership now or hereafter incorporated or organized or under any law of this Commonwealth or now or hereafter organized or incorporated by any other State or by the United States, or any foreign government and doing business in this Commonwealth, and owning, operating and leasing to or from another corporation, company, association, joint-stock association, pipe line, slack water navigation, street passenger railway, canal or other device for the transportation of freight or passengers or oil and every individual, partnership, firm or unincorporated association engaged in or hereafter engaged in the transportation of freight or passengers or oil within the State, and every telephone or telegraph company, incorporated under the laws of this or any other State, or of the United States and doing business in this Commonwealth, and every express company incorporated or unincorporated doing business in this Commonwealth, and every person, individual, firm, co-partnership or joint-stock company or association or corporation doing express business in this Commonwealth, and every electric light company, water power company and hydro-electric company incorporated or unincorporated without regard as to how such companies were originally formed or incorporated and every palace car and sleeping car company, incorporated or unincorporated doing business in this Commonwealth shall pay to the State Treasurer a tax of eight mills upon the dollar upon the gross receipts of said person or persons, individuals, corporation, company or association, limited partnership, firm or co-partnership received from passenger and freight traffic transported wholly within this State, and from telegraph, telephone or express business done wholly within this State or from business of electric light companies, water-power companies and hydro-electric companies, and from the transportation of oil done wholly within the State the said tax shall be paid semi-annually upon the last days of January and July in each year, and for the purpose of ascertaining the amount of the same, it shall be the duty of each individual doing such business in an individual capacity and the duty of the treasurer or other proper officer of the said company, firm, co-partnership, limited partnership, joint-stock association or corporation to transmit to the Auditor General a statement under oath or affirmation of the amount of gross receipts of the said persons, individuals, companies, co-partnerships, corporations joint-stock association, or limited partnerships derived from all sources and of gross receipts from business done wholly within the State during the preceding six months ending on the first day of January and July in each year, and if any such person, individual, company, firm co-partnership, joint-stock association, association or limited partnership or corporation shall neglect or refuse for a period of thirty days after such tax becomes due to make said returns, or to pay the same, the amount thereof, with an addition of ten per centum thereto, shall be collected for the use of the Commonwealth as other taxes are recoverable by law: Provided, That in any case where the works of (one) any person, individual, corporation, company, joint-stock association, or limited partnership are [leased to and] operated by another person, individual, corporation, company, association or limited partnership the taxes imposed by this section shall be apportioned between the said persons, individuals, corporations, companies, associations or limited partnerships in accordance with the terms of their respective leases or agreements, but for the payment of the said taxes the Commonwealth shall first look to the person, individual corporation, company, association, or limited partnership operating the works and upon payment by the said person, individual, company, corporation, association or limited partnership of a tax upon the receipts as herein provided derived from the operation thereof [the] no other person, individual, corporation, company, joint-stock association, or limited partnership [from which the said works are leased] shall [not] be held liable under this section for any tax upon the proportion of said receipts received by it [as rental] for the use of said works.

No. 4a.

AN ACT

To further amend section twenty-four of an act approved the first day of June, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine (P. L. 420), entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act to provide revenue by taxation,' approved the seventh day of June, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine," by eliminating from said section twenty-four the words "or accumulated reserve' in respect to insurance companies doing business upon the purely mutual plan, and by authorizing the deduction, for the purpose of the State tax thereby imposed upon insurance companies, of the amounts paid by them as return of premiums in whole or in part upon policies cancelled or not taken, or at the expiration of said policies, and of the amounts of all premiums actually paid by them for re-insurance affected in insurance companies, associations or exchanges organized under the laws of this Commonwealth or duly licensed to do business within this State, and by changing the time for making report to the Auditor General, and for the payment of taxes settled thereon.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That section twenty-four of an act approved the first day of June, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine (P. L. 420) entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled "An act to provide revenue by taxation,' approved the seventh day of June, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine," (P. L. 112) as heretofore amended by section one of an act approved the twenty-eighth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five (P. L. 408), entitled "A supplement to the twenty-fourth section of an act, entitled 'An act to provide by taxation, approved the seventh day of June, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine,' approved the first day of June, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine, amending the twenty-fourth section, by providing for the payment by the State Treasurer of one-half of the two per centum tax on premiums paid by foreign fire insurance companies to the treasurer of the several cities and boroughs within this Commonwealth," is hereby further amended to read as follows:

(That hereafter) it shall be the duty of the president, secretary or other proper officer of each and every insurance company, (or) association or exchange, incorporated by or under any law of this Commonwealth, except companies doing business upon the (purely) mutual plan without any capital stock (or accumulated reserve), and purely mutual beneficial association whose funds for the benefit of members, their families or heirs are made up entirely of the weekly or monthly contributions of their members and the accumulated interest thereon, to make report in writing to the Auditor General (semi-annually upon the first day of July and January in each year) on or before the first day of March in the year one thousand, nine hundred and twenty-six, and in each year thereafter, setting forth the entire amount of premiums, (and) premiums, deposits or assessments received by such company, (or) association or exchange during the (preceding six months) year ending with the thirty-first day of December preceding, whether the said premiums, (and) premium deposits or assessments were received in money, or in the form of notes, credits or any other substitutes for money, and whether the same were collected in this Commonwealth or elsewhere; and every such company, (or) association or exchange shall pay into the State Treasury (semi-annually on the last days of January and July), on or before the thirty-first day of March following the date for filing such report, in addition to any other taxes to which it may be liable under the first twenty-first sections of this act, a tax of eight mills on the dollar upon the gross amount of said premiums, (and) premium deposits and assessments received from business transacted within this Commonwealth.

Such company association or exchange in reporting for taxation may deduct from the gross premiums, premium deposits and assessments, all amounts returned on policies or not taken and all premiums paid for reinsurance where such reinsurances are effected in companies, associations and exchanges authorized to transact business in the Commonwealth; and mutual companies, associations and exchanges, which may for any reason be required to report under this act, in addition to the aforesaid deductions, may deduct that portion of the advanced premiums, premium deposits or assessments returned in cash or credited to members whether as dividends, earnings, savings or return deposits, upon the expiration or termination of their contracts.

Insurance companies, associations or exchanges incorporated by or under any law of this Commonwealth, shall, in making payment of tax hereunder or or before the thirty-first day of March, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-six, upon premiums, premium deposits and assessments received in the year ending on the thirty-first day of December preceding, be entitled to credit for the amount theretofore paid by them into the State treasury or settled against them by the fiscal officers of the Commonwealth as tax on premiums and assessments received by them during any part of said year.

Provided: That said reports shall be made under oath or affirmation, and it shall be the duty of the accounting officers of the Commonwealth to add ten per centum to the account of any company, (or) association or axchange whose officers shall neglect or refuse for a period of thirty days to make said report or to pay into the State treasury the tax imposed by the section;

And provided further, that hereafter the annual tax upon premiums of insurance companies, associations and exchanges of other states or foreign governments shall be at the rate of two per centum upon the gross premiums of every character and description received from business done within this Commonwealth within the entire calendar year preceding.

Section 2. All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed.

No. 4b.

AN ACT

Imposing a tax for State purposes on marine insurance underwriting profits; and providing for the collection of such tax.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the terms "marine insurance" and "marine business" and "marine risks" shall mean insurance or reinsurances against any and all kinds of loss of or damage to:

(a) Vessels, craft, aircraft, cars, automobiles and vehicles of every kind (excluding automobiles operating under their own power or while in storage not incidental to transportation), as well as all goods, freights, cargoes, merchandise, effects, disbursements, profits, moneys, bullion, precious stones, securities, choses in action, evidences of debt, valuable papers, bottomry and respondentia interests and all other kinds of property and interests therein, in respect to, appertaining to or in connection with any and all risks or perils of navigation, transit, or transportation, including war risks, on or under any seas or other waters, on land or in the air, or while being assembled, packed, crated, baled, compressed or similarly prepared for shipment or while awaiting the same or during any delays, storage, transshipment, or reshipment incident thereto, including marine builder's risks and all personal property floater risks, and

(b) Person or to property in connection with or appertaining to a marine, inland marine, transit or transportation insurance, including liability for loss of or damage to either, arising out of or in connection with the construction, repair, operatoin, maintenance or use of the subject matter of such insurance (but not including life insurance or surety bonds); but, except as herein specified shall not mean insurances against loss by reason of bodily injury to the person.

Section 2. Every insurer organized, admitted or licensed to transact the business of marine insurance within this Commonwealth, shall, with respect to such marine written by it within this Commonwealth, pay a tax of five per centum on that proportion of the total underwriting profit of such insurer from such marine insurance written within the United States which the gross premiums of the insurer from such marine insurance written within this Commonwealth bear to the gross premiums of the insurer from such marine insurance written within the United States. The term "underwriting profit," as used herein shall be arrived at by deducting from the net earned premiums on such marine insurance contracts written within the United States during the calendar year (1) the losses incurred, and (2) expenses incurred, including all taxes, state and federal, in connection with such net earned premiums.

Net earned premiums on such marine insurance contracts written during the calendar vear shall be arrived at as follows:

Gross premiums on such marine insurance contracts written during the calendar year, less any and all return premiums, onpolicies not taken any and all premiums paid for reinsurance.

Add unearned premiums on such outstanding marine bnsiness at the end of the preceding calendar year.

Deduct unearned premiums on such outstanding marine business at the end of the current calendar year.

Losses incurred, as used herein, shall mean gross losses incurred during the calendar year under such marine insurance contracts written within the United States, less reinsurance claims collected or collectible and salvages or recoveries collectible from any source applicable to the aforesaid losses.

Expenses incurred shall include:

(a) Specific expenses incurred on such earned marine premiums, consisting of all commissions, agency expenses, taxes, licenses, fees, loss-adjustment expenses, and all other expenses incurred directly and specifically in connection with such premiums, less recoveries or reimbursements on account of or in connection with such commissions or other expenses collected or collectible because of reinsurance or from any other source.

Section 3. Every insurer transacting such marine insurance in this Commonwealth shall file on or before the first day of June in each year with the commissioner of insurance, and in the form prescribed by him, a report of all the items pertaining to its insurance business as enumerated and prescribed in the preceding section of this act. To determine the basis of the tax on underwriting profit, every insurer which has been writing such insurance in this Commonwealth for three years shall furnish to the commissioner of insurance a statement of all of the aforementioned items, in the form prescribed by him for each of the preceding three calendar years. An insurer which has not been writing such marine insuarnce for three years shall furnish to the commissioner of insuarnce a statement of all of the aforementioned items for each of the calendar years during which it has written marine insurance.

If the commissioner of insurance finds the report of the insurer reporting correct, he shall, if the insurer has transacted such marine insurance for three years, (1) to ascertain the average underwriting profit, as defined by this section derived by the insurer from its aforesaid marine insurance business written within the United States during the last preceding three calendar years, (2) ascertain the proportion which the average annual premiums of the insurer from such marine insurance written by it in this Commonwealth during the last preceding three calendar years bears to the average total marine premiums of the insurer during the same three years, (3) compute an amount of five per centum on this proportion of the aforementioned average annual underwriting profit of the insurer from such marine insurance, and (4) charge the amount of tax thus computed to such insurer as a tax upon the marine insurance written by it in this Commonwealth during the current calendar year. The commissioner of insurance shall each year compute the tax, according to the method described in this section, upon the average annual underwriting profit of such insurer from such marine insurance during the preceding three years, including the current calendar year, namely at the expiration of each current calendar year, the profit or loss on the marine insurance business of that year is to be added or deducted, and the profit or loss upon such marine insurance business of the first calendar year of the preceding three-year period is to be dropped, so that the computation of underwriting profit for purposes of taxation under this Act will always be on a three-year average, provided, however, that an insurer which has not been writing marine insurance in this Commonwealth for three years shall, until it has transacted such business in this Commonwealth for that number of years, be taxed on the basis of its annual underwriting profit on marine insurance written within the United States for the current calendar year, subject, however, to an adjustment in the tax as soon as the commissioner of insurance, in accordance with the provisions of this section, is enabled to compute the tax on the aforementioned three-year basis: and provided further, that in the case of mutual companies, the commissioner of insurance shall not include in underwriting profit, when computing the tax prescribed by this section, the amounts refunded by such companies on account of premiums previously paid by its policy-holders.

When the commissioner of insurance has computed tax on an insurer's underwriting profit, he shall forthwith mail to the last known address of the principal office of such insurer a statement of the amount so charged against it, which amount the insurer shall pay into the State Treasury within thirty days after receipt of such notice from the commissioner of insurance, provided, however, that in assessing taxes under the retaliatory provisions of section two hundred and twelve (212) of "The Insurance Department Act of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one" as amended (Act No. 285, approved 17 May, 1921) credit shall be allowed for any taxes paid or payable under this section.

Section 4. The act approved the twenty-eighth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five (P. L. 408), entitled "A supplement to the twenty-fourth section of an act, entitled 'An act to provide revenue by taxation, approved the seventh day of June, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine,' approved the first day of June, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine, amending the twenty-fourth section, by providing for the payment by the State Treasurer of one-half of the two per centum on premiums paid by foreign fire insurance companies to the treasurers of the several cities and boroughs within this Commonwealth," is hereby repealed in so far as it applies to the taxation of gross premiums of marine insurance.

All other acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

No. 5.

AN ACT

To amend section one of the act approved the fifteenth day of July, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-seven, (P. L. 292), entitled "An act to provide revenue by taxation;" eliminating from said act the provisions for the taxation of bank stock on the par value thereof.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That section one of the act approved the fifteenth day of July, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-seven, (P. L. 292), entitled "An act to provide revenue by taxation," is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1. Be it enacted, &c., That from and after the passage of this act every bank or savings institution having capital stock, incorporated by or under any law of this Commonwealth or under any law of the United States, and located within this Commonwealth, shall, on or before the twentieth day of June in each and every year, make to the Auditor General a report in writing, verified by the oath or affirmation of the president, cashier or treasuerr, setting forth the full number of shares of the capital stock subscribed for or isused by such bank or savings institution, and the actual value thereof, which shall be ascertained as heerinbefore provided; whereupon it shall be the duty of the Auditor General to assess such shares for taxation at the same rate as that imposed upon other moneyed capital in the hands of individual citizens of the state, that is to say, at the rate of four mills upon each dollar of the actual value thereof; the actual value of each share of stock to be ascertained and fixed by adding together the amount of capital stock paid in, the surplus and undivided profits, and dividing this amount by the number of shares. The Auditor General shall have the power, and it shall be his duty in case he shall not be satisfied with the correctness of the report as made by the officers of any bank or savings institution, to summon the officers of said bank or savings institution to appear before him, upon notice to do so, on a day to be fixed by him, and to bring with them the books of said bank or savings institution for his examination; and he shall have the right to have further evidence to satisfy himself as to the correctness of the report made to him on the question of the value of the shares of stock of such bank or savings institution according to the rule hereinbefore stated. After the Auditor General shall have fixed the value of the share of stock in any bank or savings institution by the method hereinbefore provided, and settled an account according to law, he shall thereupon transmit to the president cashier or treasurer of such bank or savings institution, a copy of such settlement, showing the valuation and assessment so made by him, and the amount of tax due the Commonwealth on all such shares. And it shall be the duty of the president, cashier or treasurer of any such bank or savings institution, immediately upon the receipt of said settlement, to post the same in a conspicuous place in such bank or savings institution so as to give notice to the shareholders of such valuation; and it shall be the duty of the Auditor General to hear any shareholder upon the subject of the valuation of such shares of stock at the Auditor General's office within a period of thirty days from the date of said settlement. It shall be the duty of every bank or savings institution, within a period of forty days after the date of such settlement by the Auditor General, at its option, to pay the amount of said tax to the State Treasurer from its general fund, or collect the same from its shareholders and pay over to the State Treasurer: Provided, That if any such bank or savings institution shall fail or refuse to make such report, or to pay such tax at the time herein specified, or shall make any false statement in such report, or shall fail or refuse by its officers to appear before the Auditor General upon notice as aforesaid, or shall fail or refuse to produce its books for examination when required to do so by the Auditor General, he shall, after having ascertained the actual value of each share of capital stock of such bank or savings institution from the best information he can obtain, add thereto fifty per centum as a penalty, assess the tax as aforesaid, and proceed according to law to collect the same from such bank or savings institution: Provided further, That if the president, cashier or treasurer of any such bank or savings institution shall neglect or refuse to post the copy of the settlement in a conspicuous place in such bank or savings institution immediately upon the receipt of the same, so as to give notice to the shareholders, such president, cashier or treasurer shall be adjudged to be in default, and as a penalty for such default such bank or savings institution shall be responsible to the Commonwealth for the amount of the tax assessed against the shareholders of such bank or savings institution: And provided further, That in case any bank or savings institution having capital stock, incorporated under the law of this State or of the United States, shall collect, annually, from the shareholders thereof said tax of four mills on the dollar upon the actual value of all the shares of stock of said bank or savings institution according to the rule hereinbefore stated that have been subscribed for or issued, and pay the same into the State Treasury on or before the first day of March in each year, the shares and so much of the capital and profits of such bank or savings institution as shall not be invested in real estate, shall be exempt from local taxation under the laws of this Commonwealth; and such bank or savings institution shall not be required to make any report to the local assessor or county commissioners of its personal property owned by it in its own right for purposes of taxation, and shall not be required to pay any tax thereon. [Except however, that any bank or savings institution incorporated as aforesaid, in lieu of the method hereinbefore set out for ascertaining the actual value of the shares of capital stock thereof, may elect to collect annually from the stockholders thereof a tax of ten mills on the dollar upon the par value of all shares of said bank that have been subscribed for or issued, and pay the same into the State Treasury on or before the first day of March in each year; and the shares of such bank or savings institution, and so much of the capital and profits of such bank or savings institution, as shall not be invested in real estate shall be exempt from local taxation under the laws of the Commonwealth].

No. 6.

AN ACT

Repealing all acts and parts of acts general, local and special, which impose a State tax on the fees of notaries public.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That all acts and parts of acts, general, local and special, imposing a State tax on the fees of notaries public, be and the same are hereby repealed.

No. 7.

AN ACT

To amend section one, and section two as amended, of an act approved the twentieth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen, (P. L. 521), entitled "An act providing for the imposition and collection of certain taxes upon the transfer of property passing from a decedent who was a resident of this Commonwealth at the time of his death, and of property within this Commonwealth of a decedent who was a nonresident of the Commonwealth at the time of his death, and making it unlawful for any corporation of this Commonwealth, or national banking association located therein, to transfer the stock of such corporation or banking association, standing in the name of any such decedent, until the tax on the transfer thereof has been paid; and providing penalties, and citing certain acts for repeal;" Discontinuing the collection of the tax on the personal property of nonresident decedents.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That section one of an act approved the twentieth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen, (P. L. 521), entitled "An act providing for the imposition and collection of certain taxes upon the transfer of property passing from a decedent who was a resident of this Commonwealth at the time of his death, and of property within this Commonwealth of a decedent who was a non-resident of the Commonwealth at the time of his death, and making it unlawful for any corporation of this Commonwealth, or national banking association located therein, to transfer the stock of such corporation or banking association, standing in the name of any such decedent, until the tax on this transfer thereof has been paid; and providing penalties; and citing certain acts for repeal," is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1. Be it enacted, &c., That a tax shall be, and is hereby imposed upon the transfer of any property, real or personal, or of any interest therein or income therefrom, in trust or otherwise, to persons or corporations in the following cases:

(a) When the transfer is by will or by the intestate laws of this Commonwealth from any person dying seized or possessed of the property while a resident of the Commonwealth, whether the property be situated within this Commonwealth or elsewhere.

(b) When the transfer is by will or intestate laws of real property within this Commonwealth, [or goods, wares, or merchandise within this Commonwealth, or of shares of stock of corporations of this Commonwealth or of national banking associations located in this Commonwealth,] and the decedent was a non-resident of the Commonwealth at the time of his death.

(c) When the transfer is of property made by a resident, or is of real property within this Commonwealth, [or of goods, wares, and merchandise within this Commonwealth, or of shares of stock of corporations of this Commonwealth or of national banking associations located in this Commonwealth,] made by a nonresident, by deed, grant, bargain, sale, or gift, made in contemplation of the death of the grantor, vendor, or donor, or intended to take effect in possession or enjoyment at or after such death.

(d) When any person or corporation comes into the possession or enjoyment by a transfer from a resident or nonresident decedent, when such nonresident decedent's property consists of real property within this Commonwealth [or of shares of stock of corporations of this Commonwealth or of national banking associations located in this Commonwealth,] of an estate in expectancy of any kind or character which is contingent or [defeasibly] defeasible, transferred by an instrument taking effect after the passage of this act, or of any property transferred pursuant to a power of appointment contained in any instrument taking effect after the passage of this act.

No. 9a.

AN ACT

Relating to the collection of county taxes in the several cities of this Commonwealth; requiring persons to whom the duplicates of such taxes are issued to give notice to each taxable; providing an abatement on all such taxes paid within ninety days after the duplicate is issued, and adding a penalty on such taxes not paid within six months after the duplicate is issued.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That all persons authorized by law to collect county taxes in any city of this Commonwealth, and to whom a duplicate of such taxes is delivered shall, within thirty days after receiving such duplicate, properly notify by mail or otherwise through a written or printed notice, every taxable on his duplicate.

Such notice shall contain the rate of taxation, the valuation of the property of such taxable, the occupation of such taxable, the full amount of taxes for which such taxable is liable for the current year. Such notice shall further state that such taxes are payable, designate a place and time when they shall be paid; and shall further state the time within which an abatement of tax will be allowed, when full amount of tax will be collected, and when an additional percentage will be added as a penalty.

All persons who shall, within ninety days from the date such duplicate was issued, make payment of any taxes charged against them in said duplicate, shall be entitled to a reduction of five per centum from the amount thereof; and all persons who shall fail to make payment of any taxes charged against them in said duplicate, for six months after the duplicate was issued, shall be charged five per centum additional on the taxes charged against them, which shall be added thereto by said collector of taxes and collected by him.

Section 2. It shall be lawful for the collectors of said taxes, to retain out of the respective taxes collected by them, such actual printing and postage expenses as shall be incurred by them in performing the duties herein prescribed.

Section 3. All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

No. 9b.

AN ACT

Relating to county, borough, township, school, and poor taxes; requiring the collectors of such taxes to give notice to each taxable; fixing a time for the payment of such taxes at face, and adding a penalty on delinquents.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That all county, borough, township, school, and poor taxes hereafter charged in the several duplicates and delivered to the proper tax collector, shall be due and payable at face within ninety days from the day such duplicate was issued. Every such collector of taxes to whom a duplicate is issued, shall, within thirty days after receiving such duplicate, properly notify by mail or otherwise, through a written or printed notice, every taxable on his duplicate.

Such notice shall contain the rate of taxation, the valuation of the property of such taxable, the occupation of such taxable, the full amount of taxes for which said taxable shall be liable for the current year. Such notice shall further state that such taxes are payable, shall designate a place and time when they shall be paid, and when additional percentage will be added as penalty.

All taxes which are not paid within the time herein set forth and fixed for payment, shall become delinquent. No abatement on any of the taxes herein mentioned shall hereafter be made.

To all of the above taxes not paid on or before the day the same becomes delinquent, a penalty of one per centum for each month or fractional part thereof shall be added and collected by the tax collector, which penalty shall be added from the date when such taxes become due.

Section 2. It shall be lawful for the said tax collectors to retain out of the respective taxes collected by them, such actual printing and postage expenses as shall be incurred by them in performing the duties herein prescribed.

Section 3. All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

No. 10.

No. 11a.

AN ACT

To amend section one of an act approved the seventeenth day of July, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen, (P. L. 1021), entitled "An act to exempt from taxation public property used for public purposes, actual places of religious worship, place of burial not used or held for private or corporate profit, and institutions of purely public charity, and repealing prior acts relating thereto;" as amended; restricting the classes of property exempted from taxation.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That section one of an act approved the seventeenth day of July, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen (P. L. 1021), entitled "An act to exempt from taxation public property used for public purposes, actual places of religious worship, places of burial not used or held for private or corporate profit, and institutions of purely public charity, and repealing prior acts relating thereto," which was amended by section one of an act approved the ninth day of April, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one, (P. L. 119), entitled "An act to amend the act of the seventeenth day of July, Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and nineteen (Pamphlet Laws, ten hundred twenty-one), entitled 'An act to exempt from taxation public property used for public purposes, actual places of religious worship, places of burial not used or held for private or corporate profit, and institutions of purely public chari[illegible] and repealing prior acts relating thereto,'" is hereby further amended to read as follows:

Section 1. Be it enacted, &c., That all churches, meeting-houses, or other regular places of stated worship, (with) not including the ground thereto annexed necessary for the occupancy and enjoyment of the same, all burial grounds not used or held for private or corporate profit, (all hospitals, universities, colleges, seminaries, academies, associations, and institutions of learning, benevolence, or charity, with grounds thereto annexed and necessary for the occupancy and enjoyment of the same, founded, endowed, and maintained by the public or private charity, provided that the entire revenue derived by the same be applied to the support and to increase the efficiency and facilities thereof, the repair and the necessary increase of grounds and buildings thereof, and for no other purpose,) and all schoolhouses, belonging to any county, borough, or school district, all courthouses, jails, poorhouses, and all other public property uses for public purposes, with the ground thereto annexed and necessary for the occupancy and enjoyment of the same, be, and the same are hereby, exempted from all and every county, city, borough, township, county, road, school, and poor tax: Provided, That all property, real or personal, (other than that which is in actual use and occupation for the purposes aforesaid, and from which any income or revenue is derived,) shall be subject to taxation, except where exempted by law, for State purposes, and nothing herein contained shmall exempt same therefrom: And provided, That all property, (real and personal,) in actual use and occupation for the purposes aforesaid, shall be subject to taxation, unless the person or persons, association or corporation, so using and occupying the same, shall be seized of the legal or equitable title, (in the realty and possessor of the personal property absolutely.)

No. 11b.

AN ACT

To repeal the act approved the twenty-ninth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three, (P. L. 928), entitled "An act to exempt, from county, city borough, road, school, and poor taxes, real property owned by one or more institutions of purely public charity used and occupied partly by such owner or owners and partly by other institutions of purely public charity and necessary for the occupancy and enjoyment of such institutions."

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the act approved the twenty-ninth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three, (P. L. 928), entitled "An act to exempt, from county, city, borough, township, road, school, and poor taxes, real property owned by one or more institutions of purely public charity used and occupied partly by such owner or owners and partly by other institutions of purely public charity and necessary for the occupancy and enjoyment of such institutions," is hereby repealed.

A JOINT RESOLUTION

Proposing an amendment to Section one, Article nine, of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the following amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania be, and the same is hereby, proposed, in accordance with the provisions of the eighteenth article thereof:

That section one article nine is hereby amended to read as follows:—

All taxes shall be uniform, upon the same class of subjects, within the territorial limits of the authority levying the tax, and shall be levied and collected under general laws; but, in the case of inheritance taxes, exemption as to subjects of taxation or as to amount may be granted by general laws; and the General Assembly may, by general laws, exempt from taxation public property used for public purposes, actual places of religious worship, places of burial not used or held for private or corporate profit, and institution of purely public charity.

A JOINT RESOLUTION

Proposing an amendment to Section one, Article nine, of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the following amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania be, and the same is hereby proposed in accordance with the eighteenth article thereof:—

That Section one of Article nine of the Constitution of Pennsylvania is hereby amended to read as follows:—

Section 1. All taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects within the territorial limits of the authority levying the tax, and shall be levied and collected under general laws; but the General Assembly may by general law define and impose different rates of taxation on earned and unearned incomes, and direct and collateral inheritances, and may grant exemptions from taxes on incomes or inheritances or profits from business, or classes of business; but no laws for the taxation of incomes, inheritances, or profits derived from business shall impose a rate exceeding six per centum; and the General Assembly may by general laws exempt from taxation public property used for public purposes, actual places of religious worship, places of burial not used or held for private or corporate profit, institutions of purely public charity, and real and personal property owned, occupied and used by any branch, post, or camp of honorably discharged soldiers, sailors and marines.

A JOINT RESOLUTION

Proposing an amendment to Article nine, Section eight, of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the following amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania be, and the same is hereby proposed in accordance with the eighteenth article thereof:

That Article nine, Section eight, of the Constitution of Pennsylvania is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 8. The debt of any city, borough, township, school district or other municipality or incorporated district, except as provided herein, and in section fifteen of this article, shall never exceed seven (7) per centum upon the assessed value of the taxable property therein, and the debt of any county, except as provided in section fifteen of this article, shall never exceed ten (10) per centum upon the assessed value of the taxable realty therein, but the debt of the city of Philadelphia may be increased in such amount that the total city debt of said city shall not exceed twelve (12) per centum upon the assessed value of the taxable realty therein, nor shall any such county, municipality or district incur any new debt, or increase its indebtedness to an amount exceeding two (2) per centum upon such assessed valuation of taxable property, or taxable realty, without the consent of the electors thereof as a public election in such manner as shall be provided by law. In ascertaining the borrowing capacity of the city of Philadelphia, at any time, there shall be deducted from such debt so much of the debt of said city as shall have been incurred, or is about to be incurred, and the proceeds thereof expended, or about to be expended, upon any public improvement, or in the construction, purchase, or condemnation of any public utility, or part thereof, of facility therefor, if such public improvement or public utility, or part thereof, whether separately, or in connection with any other public improvement or public utility, or part thereof, may reasonably be expected to yield revenue in excess of operating expenses sufficient to pay the interest and sinking-fund charges thereon. The method of determining such amount, so to be deducted, may be prescribed by the General Assembly.

In incurring indebtedness for any purpose the city of Philadelphia may issue its obligations maturing not later than fifty (50) years from the date thereof, with provision for a sinking-fund sufficient to retire said obligations at maturity, the payment to such sinking-fund to be equal or graded annual or other periodical installments. Where any indebtedness shall be or shall have been incurred by said city of Philadelphia for the purpose of the construction or improvements of public works or utilities of any character, from which income or revenue is to be derived by said city, or for the reclamation of land to be used in the construction of wharves or docks owned or to be owned by said city, such obligations may be in an amount sufficient to provide for, and may include the amount of, the interest and sinking-fund charges accruing and which may accrue thereon throughout the period of construction, and until the expiration of one year after the completion of the work for which said indebtedness shall have been incurred; and said city shall not be required to levy a tax to pay said interest and sinking-fund charges as required by section ten, article nine of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, until the expiration of said period of one year after the completion of said work.

EXHIBIT E.

ESTIMATED YIELD OF A CORPORATE NET PROFITS TAX AND A PERSONAL INCOME TAX IN PENNSYLVANIA.

1. Corporate Net Profits Tax.

The figures which follow are based upon the Federal income tax returns and relate to the net income of those corporations which filed income tax returns in Pennsylvania. A corporation is expected to file its return in the district in which its principal office or principal place of business is located. But there is no way of determining, except possibly by a detailed examination of each separate return, how much net income was earned by these corporations within the State, how much was derived from sources outside the State, and how much net income of other corporations which filed returns elsewhere was in fact earned within the State of Pennsylvania. To some extent, at least, net income earned in Pennsylvania and reported elsewhere is necessarily counterbalanced by net income reported in Pennsylvania but earned outside the State. At all events, these are the only figures of corporate net income obtainable, and they probably indicate with a fair degree of reliability the amount of income that could be reached by a State tax on corporate net profits.

The following tabulation shows the amount of corporate net income earned during the three years 1920, 1921 and 1922, as returned in Pennsylvania, and the yield of a tax on such income at rates of from one-half per cent to 5 per cent.

Year income was earned	Corporate net income reported in Pennsylvania	Yield of a net profits tax at the rate of— ½ per cent	1 per cent	2 per cent	3 per cent	4 per cent	5 per cent
1920	$971,581,884	$4,857,909	$9,715,819	$19,431,638	$29,147,457	$38,863,275	$48,579,094
1921	431,800,206	2,159,001	4,318,002	8,636,004	12,954,006	17,272,008	21,590,010
1922	683,697,493	3,418,487	6,836,975	13,673,950	20,510,925	27,347,900	34,184,875
Average	695,693,194	3,478,466	6,956,932	13,913,864	20,870,796	27,827,728	34,784,660

Because of the fluctuations of business, a three-year average is likely to be a better indication of the normal yield of such a tax than are the figures for a single year. Particular attention is therefore directed to the average yield shown for the the three-year period, 1920-22, which includes first a year when business profits were high, followed by a year of drastic liquidation, and then by a year of business recovery. For this three-year period the average corporate net income reported in Pennsylvania was $695,693,194, on which sum a tax of 2 per cent would yield very nearly $14,000,000 and a tax of 3 per cent would yield about $21,000,000. If, however, net profits should equal those of 1920, a tax of 3 per cent would yield nearly $30,000,000.

The share of a state net profits tax, which each major class of business or industry might be expected to assume, is indicated by the following analysis of the Pennsylvania returns for 1922.

Business or industry	Net income, 1922	Per cent of total
Agriculture	$543,488	0.08
Mining and quarrying	54,668,275	8.00
Manufacturing:
Food products, beverages, tobacco	33,748,159	4.94
Textiles and products	93,035,226	13.61
Leather and products	7,141,520	1.04
Rubber and rubber goods	1,313,855	.19
Lumber and wood products	8,849,215	1.29
Paper, pulp and products	4,069,513	.60
Printing and publishing	38,724,957	5.66
Chemicals	28,660,115	4.19
Stone, clay and glass	31,925,222	4.67
Metal and metal products	106,124,482	15.52
All other manufacturing industries	23,423,971	3.43
Total manufacturing	377,016,235	55.14
Construction	5,236,121	0.77
Transportation and other public utilities	80,590,936	11.79
Trade	68,585,635	10.03
Public service—Professional, amusements, hotels, etc.	8,081,757	1.18
Finance, banking, insurance	87,513,129	12.80
Combinations	1,461,917	.21
Total for Pennsylvania	683,697,493	100.00

Data similarly classified are available for the abnormal year 1921, but not for 1920 or 1919, and hence it seems best to base any conclusions upon the foregoing analysis of 1922 incomes. It will be observed that, of total corporate net income returned in Pennsylvania, the various manufacturing industries together accounted for 55 per cent; the mining industry made up 8 per cent; banking, 13 per cent; public utilities, 12 per cent; and trade (wholesale, retail commission houses, etc.), 10 per cent. In the manufacturing group the metal and textile industries, as would be expected, are of most consequence, these two classes together returning more net income than all other manufacturing combined.

2. Personal Income Tax.

In the estimates that follow, the Federal income tax returns from Pennsylvania for the year 1922 are used as a basis. Personal net income fluctuates far less from year to year than does corporate net income, and consequently a fairly typical single year such as 1922 provides a reasonable basis of calculation. This procedure, furthermore, does away with uncertainties arising from varying personal exemptions permitted by the laws for different years.

It is a simple matter to estimate the yield of a state income tax at a single flat rate, allowing the general deductions and exemptions permitted by Federal law. Complications and uncertainties arise either in estimating the yield of a tax at progressive rates or of a tax at different rates on different classes of income, such as "earned" and "unearned" income. An estimate of the latter description will be presented later on, but it is desirable first to see what the yield to the State would have been on the net income of 1922, if taxed at a single flat rate applicable to all taxable net income alike.

Net income returned for Federal tax purposes in Pennsylvania amounted to $2,055,570,020 for the year 1922. From this sum there must be deducted personal exemptions, dividends, interest on Government obligations not wholly exempt from tax, capital net gain from sale of assets held for more than two years, and deductions for prior year losses; and to this result there must be added the amount of exemptions in excess of net income, in order to arrive at the net income subject to the normal Federal tax. In 1922 the net amount returned as thus taxable in Pennsylvania was $620,359,879. If to this sum we add that portion of total dividends which might be subjected to state taxation, making allowance for dividends reported by persons whose exemptions exceed their net income, we obtain a total of $860,002,590 as an income base from which to calculate tax yields. The following table shows the tax that would accrue on taxable net income of the above amount at flat rates of from one-half per cent to 4 per cent.

Rate	Tax
½ per cent	$4,300,013
1 per cent	8,600,026
1½ per cent	12,900,039
2 per cent	17,200,052
4 per cent	34,400,104

Coming now to the distinction between "earned" and "unearned" income, that is, income derived from wages, salary, profession and business as distinguished from investment income, rents, etc., it is obvious that if earned income should be taxed at any of the rates shown in the preceding table while unearned income was taxed at a higher rate, the tax yield would be substantially higher than that shown for the flat rate. The precise yield can, of course, only be estimated, a fact which should be fully recognized in any use that is made of the data.

Earned and unearned income can be fairly well separated in the Federal returns of gross income, but uncertainties arise in apportioning the numerous deductions and exemptions between the two classes of income, so as to arrive at proper figures for taxable net income. It will be useful first of all to show the various items that make up gross or total income in Pennsylvania. According to the Federal returns for 1922, these were as follows:

	Amount, 1922
Wages and salaries	$1,238,758,338
Business	346,466,497
Partnerships	130,816,076
Profits from sales of real estate, stocks, bonds, etc.	73,186,736

Capital net gain from sale of assets held more than two years	25,802,265
Rents and royalties	85,411,555
Interest and investment income	172,010,037
Interest on Government obligations not wholly exempt from tax	4,266,472
Dividends	281,932,601
Fiduciary income	40,357,900
Total income reported in Pennsylvania	2,299,008,477

In the foregoing classification of income according to source, we may fairly consider the first three items as earned income, namely, wages and salaries, income from business, and income from partnerships. The remaining items may reasonably be designated unearned income. This separation gives us for earned gross income a figure of $1,616,040,911, and for unearned gross income $682,967,566.

The problem now resolves itself into properly apportioning the various deductions and exemptions between earned and unearned gross income in order to arrive at taxable net income. The following exemptions from the normal Federal tax are at once clearly applicable to unearned income alone:

1. Dividends.
2. Capital net gain from assets held for more than two years.
3. Interest on Government obilgations not wholly exempt from tax.

The remaining deductions, exemptions, and adjustments may be applicable either to earned or unearned income:

1. General deductions.
2. Contributions.
3. Deduction for prior year loss.
4. Personal exemptions.
5. Exemption in excess of net income (an addition rather than deduction).

Considering now the second group of items, general deductions, amounting to $245,713,525, are almost wholly items of business expense, etc., which should be deducted from earned income. Some deductions are made, however, from rents and possibly from other unearned income to a small extent, so that it seems fair to apportion 90 per cent of this item to earned income and 10 per cent to unearned income.

Contributions might be deducted from either earned or unearned income, whichever should be provided for in the state tax laws. For the present purpose it will be assumed that contributions are deducted from earned income.

Deductions for prior year losses are comparatively small ($4,583,190) and would effect the result but little, however they are treated. As a matter of fact, they apply almost wholly to income from business or partnerships, and in the present estimate they will be assigned entirely to earned income.

Personal exemption is the most important of any of these deductions, amounting in 1922 to $1,293,894,149. Like contributions, this item might be deducted from either earned or unearned income, according to the provisions that are written into the state tax law. Because this item greatly exceeds total unearned income, however, and because it would doubtless be unwise to permit so great a deduction from income taxed at a higher rate, personal exemption will here be considered as a deduction primarily from earned income. In order to allow for cases of fiduciary income and others in which there is no income that is classified as earned, or in which there is less earned income than the amount of the allowable personal exemption, 10 per cent of the exemption will be deducted from unearned income and 90 per cent from earned income.

Exemptions in excess of net income serve as a book-keeping adjustment to correct the gross exemptions already mentioned by the amount that the gross exemptions have exceeded net income in the case of many of the smaller incomes. A technically correct method of distributing these exemptions in excess of net income (amounting to $225,268,536 in the aggregate) between earned and unearned income would involve more complicated calculations and estimates than the circumstances warrant. For the present puprose it is sufficient to note that in 1921, of those net incomes reported as being exceeded by exemptions, less than 7 per cent of the income was derived from dividends. Details are not available to show what additional proportion of such net incomes was derived from other unearned sources, but it seems unlikely that the total unearned portion of such small incomes, including dividends, was more than 15 per cent. Personal exemption, moreover, was responsible for nearly 95 per cent of total exemptions in excess of net income. These facts make it clear that such exemptions apply almost wholly to earned income. Without making any elaborate calculations, therefore, it seems fair to add 90 per cent of exemptions in excess of net income to the earned column and 10 per cent to the unearned.

We may now summarize the results obtained by distributing the various deductions and exemptions between earned and unearned income in the manner described. The total amount of each deduction and exemption in 1922 and the amount distributed to earned and unearned income are given below.

Items	Total	Amount distributed to— Earned income	Unearned income
Deduct from gross income:
General deductions	$245,713,525	$221,142,172	$24,571,353
Contributions	47,724,932	47,724,932	.....
Prior year losses	4,583,190	4,583,190	.....
Personal exemption	1,293,894,149	1,164,504,734	129,389,415
Dividends	281,932,601	.....	281,932,601
Interest on Government obligations not wholly exempt	4,266,472	.....	4,266,472
Capital net gain from sale of assets held over two years	25,802,265	.....	25,802,265
Total deductions	1,903,917,134	1,437,955,028	465,962,106
Add:
Exemption from normal tax in excess of net income	225,268,536	202,741,682	22,526,854
Net deductions from gross income	1,678,648,598	1,235,213,346	443,435,252

When these net deductions are made from the figures already given for gross income, the following results are obtained:

	Net income (dividends exempt)
Earned	$380,827,565
Unearned	239,532,314
Total	620,359,879

If dividends should be made taxable, a considerable sum would thereby be added to unearned income. Total dividends returned in Pennsylvania in 1922 amounted to $281,932,601, but about 15 per cent of that amount was reported by persons whose income was not subject to tax. Making allowance for this fact, the income figures work out as follows:

	Net income (dividends taxable)
Earned	$380,827,565
Total	860,002,590

With these figures as a basis, the yield of an income tax at any desired rates on earned and unearned income can readily be estimated. We give below the taxes which the foregoing amounts of earned and unearned net incomes would yield at several pairs of rates, the rate on unearned income being in each case twice that on earned income. The tax yields are shown first with dividends exempt, as under the Federal law, and also with dividends included as part of taxable net income.

EXHIBIT F.

STATISTICAL TABLES TO ACCOMPANY REPORT.

The table shown on the following pages represent part of the statistical data compiled for the use of the Pennsylvania Tax Commission in drafting the present report. Some of the data was obtained from existing pubilshed sources, such as the reports of state departments and of the United States Census Bureau; some of it was prepared from departmental records by state officials at the request of the Commission; and some of it was furnished to the Commission by local officials in answer to specific inquiries. Much additional data bearing upon taxation in Pennsylvania was prepared for the Commission's use and is on file, but considerations of space prevent its inculsion in this report.

In spite of the very considerable amount of statistical information which has been collected by the Commission through its Statistician and the many officials, state and local, who have co-operated, the Commission wishes to emphasize that definite quantitative information is lacking on certain important aspects of taxation in Pennsylvania. For example, any study of relative tax burdens in different sections of the State would require the collection and analysis of much more data on local revenues than is now available. Likewise, the total burden of Federal, state and local taxation upon different classes in the community and upon businesses of dicerent kinds is a major problem about which many of the basic facts are not known. It is highly desirable that the data now lacking on these and other aspects of state and local taxation should be assembled, analyzed, and presented to the General Assembly and to the public in connection with the formulation of any new system of taxation for this State.

In order to make the data now presented as clear as possible, a brief explanation is here given of the statistical tables which follow. The first 14 tables have been compiled from the reports of the United States Census Bureau entitled (1) Financial statistics of states; (2) Financial statistics of cities having a population of over 30,000; and (3) Wealth, debt, and taxation. The remaining tabels have been obtained from Pennsylvania sources, partly published and partly unpublished heretofore.

Tables 1 to 4 inclusive, present a comparison of the state revenues, expenditures, and indebtedness of Pennsylvania with that of nine other states, and of all states, for the years 1915, 1919, and 1922. The ten states selected are arranged in order of wealth and include the eight states whose wealth is highest. Table 1 gives the amount of revenue receipts, expenditures for the costs of government, and net debt in thousands of dollars. Tables 2 and 3 show the same basic data (a) as percentages of the total and (b) per capita. Table 4 presents a similar comparison for the single year 1922 on the basis of revenues, expenditures, and net debt per $1,000 of weatlh.

A full definition of precisely what is included under each heading of Table 1 may be found in the Census reports, "Financial statistics of states," but reference will here be made to some of the more important distinctions.

Revenue receipts, as distinguished from non-revenue receipts (which are not shown in these tables), are receipts which increase the assets without increasing the debt liabilities on which decrease the debt liabilities without decreasing the assets.

General property taxes, as defined by the Census, include taxes on personal property, as well as on real property, provided they are apportioned and levied by substantially the same methods as are employed in the case of real property.

Special taxes are direct taxes assessed, levied, and collected by methods which are not generally applied in the case of privately owned real property. Illustrations of such special taxes are the capital stock tax, corporate loans tax, insurance premiums tax, taxes on mortgages and investments, and income and inheritance taxes.

Business taxes are defined as "taxes upon business and business activities exacted, with or without the issue of licenses, from persons natural and corporate (1) in proportion to the volume of business, (2) by reason of the business in which they are engaged, or (3) by reason of some activity which constitutes a part of their business." Illustrations of business taxes are the various kinds of business licenses, such as the wholesale and retail mercantile license taxes levied in Pennsylvania.

Earnings of general departments refer to revenue receipts of general departments (excluding public service enterprises) derived from fees, charges, etc., which represent the actual compensation for services performed.

Governmental cost payments represent "all amounts recorded in the books of the several states as having been paid on account of expenses, interest, and outlays, other than payments in error, payments of accrued interest on investments purchased, and payments for outlays balanced by amounts credited in outlay accounts." All other payments are considered Non-governmental cost payments, which, however, are not shown in these tables. Most of the headings under governmental cost payments are reasonably clear without further elaboration, but a word of explanation is necessary in the case of Outlays. Included under this heading are "all payments for the purchase and improvement of land, the erection of new buildings, the acquisition and extension of public service enterprises, the purchase of equipment more or less permanent in character, purchases to increase the collections of libraries, museums, and art galleries, and all other acquisitions which add to the number and value of the permanent possession of the state." By far the largest of these outlays are spent for highways, for charities, hospitals, and corrections, and in some states for schools.

The foregoing explanations apply, with a few minor modifications, to the other Census tables showing the receipts and expenditures of Pennsylvania cities and the taxes collected by Pennsylvania counties. The remaining tables, other than those based on Census data, are, it is believed, largely self-explanatory, and it will be sufficient merely to indicate their source.

Table 15 was compiled by the Commission from the published reports of the Auditor General, supplemented by the records of the Department for the fiscal year 1924 and for certain items in the years 1922 and 1923.

Table 16 was specially prepared in the Auditor General's Department at the request of the Commission. Because of the unusual importance of the facts set forth in this compilation, and because of the considerable amount of labor involved in its preparation, the Commission desires especially to thank the Auditor General for this service.

Table 17 was compiled by the Commission from data supplied by the Auditor General's Department.

Table 18 is a summary of the returns received by the Commission in answer to a questionaire sent to the County Clerk of each county in the State. Some counties which are not shown sent replies, but did not supply all the data asked for. The Commission takes this opportunity to thank all the officials who assisted in this inquiry by their replies.

Table 19 was originally prepared by the Department of Highways for its own use, and was furnished to the Commission along with much other data.

Table 20 was prepared at the request of the Commission by William H. Connell, Deputy Secretary of Highways, to whom special thanks are due.

Table 21 was prepared in the Department of Internal Affairs under the direction of M. H. Gottschall, Director of the Bureau of Statistics and Information, to whom the Commission desires to express its appreciation.

The data for Table 22 were compiled in the Bureau of Statistics and Information, Department of Internal Affairs, as part of the regular reports of the Bureau.

[1] Also the aggregate of payments and cash balances at close of year.

[2] Aggregate of receipts and cash balances does not agree with aggregate of payments and cash balances, because receipts and payments for States having biennial fiscal periods are estimated for 1903, while figures for cash balances are actual amounts.

[3] Aggregates of receipts and cash balances and of paymentsand cash balances do not agree with this figure because of exclusion of one county in Michigan for which no statement of cash on hand was obtainable.

EXHIBIT G.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Department of Welfare

Harrisburg, January 9, 1925.

Hon. Franklin Spencer Edmonds, 1418 Packard Building, Philadelphia, Pa.

My dear Mr. Edmonds: In reply to your letter asking for an estimate as to the costs of operating the welfare activities for the next ten years, I submit the following estimates. They are based on very carefully assembled figures, they take into consideration the slow and conservative development of our institutions, and I believe under ordinary circumstances can be considered reasonably reliable and conservative.

For Maintenance—Penal and Correctional Institutions.

Present bed capacity	5,300
Estimated increase by 1929	7,100
Estimated capacity by 1934	8,300

Cost of maintenance by biennial periods:

1925-27	$2,665,000
1927-29	2,665,000
1929-31	3,571,000
1931-33	3,571,000
1933-35	4,142,300
Total	16,614,300

Soldiers' and Sailors' Home, Erie.

Present capacity 600, with but 150 beds occupied.

Estimated census by 1929, 400.

Estimated census by 1934, 600 (which is the present bed capacity).

Cost of maintenance by biennial periods:

1925-27	$200,000
1927-29	200,000
1929-31	400,000
1931-33	400,000
Total	1,700,000

Institutions for the Feeble-minded.

Present bed capacity	4,605
Estimated bed capacity, 1929	6,600
Estimated bed capacity, 1934	8,000

Cost of maintenance by biennial periods:

1925-27	$2,175,000
1927-29	2,175,000
1929-31	3,262,500
1931-33	3,262,500
1933-35	3,925,000

Medical and Surgical Hopitals.

Present bed capacity	940
Estimated bed capacity to provide for the necessary maternity service in a number of these hospitals by 1934	1,145

Cost of maintenance by biennial periods chargeable to the State (a large amount of the maintenance charges of these institutions is now paid out of the earnings of these institutions):

1925-27	$1,010,000
1929-31	1,010,000
1931-33	1,010,000
Total	5,252,000

The maintenance cost of caring for the insane in the state and county hospitals is based upon the studies previously made which show an average increase of approximately 600 per year over the last long series of years with the exception of the years of the Great War. These figures also take into consideration that the type of care which can be afforded in the county institutions for which the State pays at the rate of $2.00 a week, is not sufficiently good, and that as time goes on the State ought to be required to pay $3.00.

State and County Insane.

Cost of maintenance by biennial periods:

1925-27	$5,493,600
1927-29	5,868,000
1929-31	6,242,400
1931-33	6,616,800
1933-35	6,991,200
Total	31,212,000

New institutions which ought to be established before the end of the next ten year period are an institution for defective delinquent males; an institution for the care of epileptics; and the Pennsylvania Training School at Morganza should be developed into two units—one for girls and one for boys, with practically double their present capacity.

There are, of course, as you know, projects under way for the development of a new Eastern Penitentiary; the completion of Rockview; the enlargment of Muncy to accommodate all women offenders; the enlargement of Pennhurst to a capacity of 2,500; Polk, to a capacity of 2,500; Laurelton, to a capacity of at least 2,000.

With the exception of the institutions for defective delinquent males and epileptics, the increased cost of maintenance has been taken into consideration in the figures already given.

As to the latter two, the best that I can do is to figure on the present day costs of caring for the mental defectives, allowing something more than the present cost because of the criminal types which must be handled in the defective delinquent institutions for males.

I have also estimated that neither of those institutions, badly as they are needed, will be ready for occupancy until 1931; therefore, that there will be but two biennial periods for which appropriations for maintenance will be needed.

Defective Delinquent Males and Epileptics.

Cost of maintenance by biennial periods:

Defective delinquent males:	1931-33	$300,000
	1933-35	600,000
Epileptics	1931-33	$660,000
	1933-35	660,000
Total			1,320,000
Total, both classes			2,220,000

Summary of Maintenance for 10-Year Period.

Penal and correctional	$16,614,300
Soldiers' and Sailors' Home, Erie	1,700,000
Feeble-minded	14,800,000
Medical and surgical	5,252,000
State and county insane	31,212,000
Grand total		$71,798,300

This disposes of the estimated costs for the maintenance of the State-owned institutions.

Repairs and Replacements.

Now as to the figures in regard to repairs and replacements. We estimate on the basis of 2 per cent of the value of the properties, which we understand is good practice. Taking the group of penal and correctional institutions—the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home, the institutions for the feeble-minded, and the medical and surgical hospitals—we have had valuation figures brought together during the summer by our engineering staff, which show a valuation of $22,361,000, which at 2 per cent would require an expenditure of approximately $447,220 per year to keep those institutions in good order.

As you are aware, the years 1925-27 require a greater expenditure because of a long period of neglect, covering in some of the institutions at least nine years.

The following, therefore, are the figures for this group of institutions:

Repairs and replacements by biennial periods:

1925-27	$1,008,000
1929-31	894,440
1931-33	894,440
1933-35	894,440
Total	4,585,760

For the mental hospitals, using the same method, the valuation of these institutions being estimated by our engineers at $18,300,000, we find the biennial appropriation needs as follows:

1925-27	$700,000
1929-31	800,000
1931-33	850,000
1933-35	900,000

In regard to the up-keep of the institutions which should be built during the next ten years and the expansion of present institutions which should be undertaken, amounting in value to approximately $15,000,000, as estimated by our engineers in co-operation with the superintendents of the several institutions, the biennial appropriations, beginning with the years 1931-33, should be as follows:

Repairs and replacements by biennial periods:

1931-33	$600,000
1933-35	600,000

Adding together the estimates above presented, we have a grand total for repairs and replacements during the 10-year period, 1925-35, of $9,785,760.

Capital Outlay.

New buildings and extensions to buildings and equipment needed during the next ten years, if Pennsylvania is to keep abreast of developing needs, will require capital outlays as follows:

Penal and correctional group	$14,755,000
Soldiers' and Sailors' Home	75,000
Mental hospital group (inclusive of an Eastern and Western psychopathic hospital)	24,755,000
Institutions for the feeble-minded	8,205,000
General medical and surgical group	1,000,000
Nurses homes and housing for employees	1,000,000
Total capital outlay	49,790,000

The only things which will help to reduce the continuing need of a building expansion are:

1. An aggresive mental health program, such as our Department has already started through 37 clinics in various localities throughout the State, but which ought to be available in every county.
2. A Central Parole Board, combined with an indeterminate sentence act, such as Massachusetts and Illinois have, and which has successfully reduced the need of prison space.
3. A more effectively functioning Probation System, adult and juvenile, to operate in connection with the suspended sentence.
4. More active parole and social service in connection with our mental hospitals and institutions for the feeble-minded which can successfully supervise from 15 per cent to 20 per cent of the patents in their own homes at a minimum cost. One such worker can supervise approximately 100 outside of an institution.

Appropriations to Mothers' Assistance Fund.

1927-29	2,000,000
1929-31	2,000,000
1931-33	2,500,000
1933-35	3,000,000
Total	11,250,000

The above figures do not cover the full need as it is known today by about one-third.

Appropriations to Private Charity.

The hospitals which have been under our very careful supervision, and in which we have approved for payment only those cases which were proved to be needy, have in the past year shown an ability to earn $3,899,190 at a per diem rate of three dollars, or for a biennial period $7,798,380.

We have, however, estimated very conservatively on a basis of $4,000,000 for a biennial period and for the State-aided homes we have estimated on the basis of the approximate sum received this last biennium, $554,000.

Appropriations to State-Aided Institutions.

1929-31	4,554,000
1931-33	4,554,000
1933-35	4,554,000

Appropriation to Department of Welfare.

The amounts which we estimate as being required for general administrative purposes and for the mental health and orthopaedic program are given below:

1925-27	[1]$375,000
1929-31	[2]500,000
1931-33	500,000
1933-35	500,000
Total	2,350,000

[1]Present shortage of state income so limits the allocation to the Department of Welware that we cannot carry on the mental health program desired.

[2]Orthopaedic unit expansion.

Summary of Total Requirements for the 10-Year Period, 1925-35.

Total maintenance	$71,798,300
Total repairs and replacements	9,785,760
Total capital outlay	49,790,000
Mothers' Assistance Fund	11,250,000
State-aided institutions	22,770,000
Department of Welfare—administration, mental health, and orthopaedic program	2,350,000
Grand total, 10-year period	167,744,060

This has proved to be a long story, but I have been so deeply concerned over the long-neglected "Welfare Institutions" and program that I have made a very exhaustive study of present conditions and future needs.

It gives me at least this satisfaction, that it will not be my fault if the needs are not met, for I have tried to tell the people how great the neglect has been and I have tried to make them plan for the future in a comprehensive fashion.

Also, I have attempted to make them realize that money put into a program of prevention of poverty (not by doles), prevention of mental disease and defect, and prevention of crime is our only safety as a democracy.

Very truly,
Ellen C. Potter, M.D.,
Secretary of Welfare.

REPORT OF THE COMMISSIONERS APPOINTED TO REVISE THE PENAL CODE.

CODE OF CRIMINAL PROCEDURE

REPORT

To the Honorable, the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in General Assembly Met:

Under the Joint Resolution of July 25, 1917, P. L. 1188, a Commission was appointed to revise, collate and digest all acts and statutes relating to or touching the Penal Laws of the Commonwealth. By a Joint Resolution of June 23, 1919, P. L. 1211, the Commission was continued and directed to make a report to the General Assembly of 1921, which report was duly submitted. By a Joint Resolution of May 27, 1921, P. L. 1187, the Commission was continued for two years and authorized to revise, collate and digest all acts and parts of acts relating to criminal procedure, including the law of evidence.

The Commission submitted to your Honorable Body at its last session two proposed acts, one a Code of Criminal Law and the other a Code of Criminal Procedure.

By a Joint Resolution approved June 14, 1923, P. L. 699, the Commission was again continued and provision was made for the appointment of two additional members who were subsequently named by the Governor.

The Commissioners have submitted in a separate report the proposed Code of Criminal Law, and herewith submit a Code of Criminal Procedure, entitled "An Act to consolidate, revise and amend the laws of this Commonwealth relating to penal proceedings and pleadings, and imposing certain costs therein upon the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the various counties thereof."

After thorough consideration, the Commissioners deem it inadvisable to submit any act codifying the laws relating to criminal evidence, for the reason that the statute law is fairly clear and the decisions are well settled. Any changes in this law which are deemed wise may be made without a codification of the entire law.

The Commission has followed in large part the general classification contained in the Act of March 31, 1860, P. L. 427, generally known as the "Criminal Procedure Act of 1860." Some changes in classification were necessary because there had been added to the law by way of supplement, amendment and new legislation a number of matters not covered by the Act of 1860. Our effort has been to arrange this later legislation under its appropriate article and title and to include in the proposed act all legislation of a general nature upon the subject of procedure and pleading.

Some explanation of the difference between the subject of "Indictments and Pleadings" in the present Report and in the Report of 1923, is necessary.

In our Report submitted to the Session of 1923, we recommended the adoption of short forms of indictments, designed to simplify criminal pleading. Such forms, under legislative enactments, are in use in England, Canada, New Zealand and India, as well as in some of the States of the United States, including Massachusetts. The problem confronting the Commissioners in determining the validity of such short form of indictment differed from that presented in England and in its Colonial possessions, because of the existence here of a written Constitution prescribing the method of instituting criminal prosecutions, and the form of the written accusation.

Our Constitution gives the accused the right to demand the nature and cause of the accusation against him and provides that no person shall, for any indictable offense, be proceeded against criminally by information except in the cases there specified. So that these constitutional rights of the accused might have due recognition, the Commissioners followed the course pursued by the Legislature of Massachusetts when it adopted the short form of indictment, by providing that a defendant should have an absolute right to a bill of particulars where the indictment by reason of its brevity did not inform him of the nature and cause of the accusation against him with sufficient fullness to enable him to prepare his defense. With this purpose Section 35 of our Report of 1923, as supplemented at the suggestion of the Commission at the last session, gave the defendant an absolute right to a bill of particulars in the limited class of cases mentioned.

The proposed Code was discussed with the members of the State Association of District Attorneys at a number of meetings with the Commissioners before the Session of 1923, during said session, and in November of the present year. No serious objection was made to the short form of indictment but the desirability of Section 35, relating to bills of particulars, was vigorously questioned. The general opinion of the District Attorneys was that frequent applications would be made for bills, if the section were enacted, and their work would be increased rather than diminished by the provision. They preferred the old form of indictment without an absolute right to a bill of particulars to the new form with a right to such bill, even in the limited class of cases mentioned.

The Commissioners yielded to their wishes in this matter and decided to eliminate from the proposed bill the section in controversy. In the opinion of the majority of the Commissioners, however, this decision made it necessary to abandon the proposed short form of indictment.

The Commissioners therefore recommend the rule laid down by Section 11 of the Procedure Act of 1860 for determining the validity and sufficiency of an indictment and have retained it as Section 401 of the proposed Act. A number of provisions of the Indictment and Pleading title of our Report of 1923, to which no objections were made and which in our opinion simplify indictments to some extent, have been retained. In large part these provisions are taken from a draft of a Code of Criminal Procedure which was the report of Committee "E" of the American Institute of Criminal Law and Criminology, published in Volume 5 of the Journal of said Institute for the year 1914 and 1915.

We have further recommended the repeal of the Act of May 11, 1923, P. L. 204, which amended Section 1 of the Act of May 5, 1921, P. L. 379. The purpose of the Act of 1923 was to limit the power of the Court in imposing indeterminate sentences by a provision that the minimum limit should not exceed one-half of the maximum sentence prescribed by the Court. We believe that the general feeling in the Commonwealth among the Courts and the District Attorneys is that the power of determining the minimum and maximum terms of imprisonment should be given to the judges of our Courts. While we have hesitated to make a recommendation for the repeal of an act passed so recently, the members of the Commission are of one mind on this subject. They feel that the experience in our State, both before the amendment of 1923 and under that amendment, justifies this recommendation.

The commentary herewith shows as to each section of the proposed bill whether it is a re-enactment of existing law, a modification thereof, or a new provision. It is not possible to state in brief form all the changes proposed by the act, but an examination of the commentary in connection with the sections proposed will make it evident that in a large measure the act is a mere codification of existing laws, except so far as the new provisions in relation to indictments suggest changes looking toward further simplification.

The State Association of District Attorneys spent a number of days with the members of the Commission at Harrisburg and their assistance was of great value to the Commission in its work.

The commentary showing specifically the changes in the existing law proposed by the present act is as follows:

ARTICLE I.—OF PROCEEDINGS TO DETECT THE COMMISSION OF CRIMES AND FUGITIVES FROM JUSTICE.

Section 1 re-enacts Section 1 of the Procedure Code of 1860. The language is slightly changed, and other courts of record having jurisdiction added to the courts named in the original act.

Section 2 is Section 2 of the Procedure Code of 1860 with the word "offense" substituted for the word "felony," and other courts of record having jurisdiction added to the courts named.

Section 3 takes the place of Section 1 of the Act of May 2, 1899, P. L. 173, which amended Section 3 of the Procedure Code of 1860 and rendered obsolete Section 4 of the last mentioned act. It gives the magistrate in the County where the arrest is made the right to take cash bail and provides for its transmission to the clerk of courts of the county where the alleged crime was committed.

Section 4 re-enacts Section 5 of the Procedure Code of 1860.

Section 5 re-enacts Section 1 of the Act of May 24, 1878, P. L. 137 with slight verbal changes.

Section 6 re-enacts with slight verbal changes Section 1 of the Act of June 4, 1879, P. L. 95, which amended Section 2 of the Act of May 24, 1878, P. L. 137.

Section 7 re-enacts Section 3 of the Act of May 24, 1878, P. L. 137, and refers to the section of the proposed Penal Code, punishing the offense referred to by the section.

Section 8 re-enacts Section 4 of the Act of May 24, 1878, P. L. 137.

Section 9 re-enacts Section 1 of the Act of June 4, 1879, P. L. 95, and changes the time of detention permitted from ninety to thirty days.

ARTICLE II.—OF BAIL AND HEARING.

Section 201 replaces Section 7 of the Procedure Code of 1860. It adds to the crimes in which the committing magistrate may not take bail the following: kidnapping, abortion, pandering, treason, sedition, blackmail, entering a building with intent to commit a felony by use of explosives, and stopping or injuring a railroad train with intent to commit a felony thereon.

Section 202. This section is new and replaces the Act of April 7, 1921, P. L. 118, and May 12, 1921, P. L. 548, in so far as they relate to bail in criminal cases.

Section 203. This section is new and empowers the trial court to determine the forfeiture of cash bail.

Section 204 replaces Section 1 of the Act of April 21, 1915, P. L. 145, and extends the class of magistrates who may take bail and provides the manner in which it shall be taken.

Section 206 re-enacts Section 8 of the Procedure Code of 1860.

Section 207 is new. It empowers the courts by general rule to authorize district attorneys to fix the amount of bail and to approve sureties, subject to review by the court.

Section 208 is new and requires that bonds shall contain a clause authorizing confession of judgment upon default. Its purpose is to facilitate recovery on forfeited recognizances.

Section 209 re-enacts Section 1 of the Act of April 9, 1915, P. L. 76.

Section 210 replaces Section 1 of the Act of May 27, 1919, P. L. 306, and changes the character of the prosecutions mentioned from assault and battery to conform to the new Penal Code.

Section 211 replaces Section 2 of the Act of May 27, 1919, P. L. 306. It eliminates the provision allowing the magistrate to put costs upon a discharged defendant because this section has been held unconstitutional in a well reasoned opinion in Commonwealth ex rel. Heydt vs. Bossler, 29 D. R., 171.

Section 212 adopts the rule of the Act of June 11, 1885, P. L. 110 relating to returns by committing magistrates and extends it to all crimes, instead of limiting it to felonies as did the Act of 1885.

ARTICLE III.—SETTLEMENT OF CASES, NOLLE PROSEQUI AND SURETY OF THE PEACE.

Section 301 replaces Section 9 of the Procedure Code of 1860 with the language changed to conform to the proposed Penal Code in reference to assault and wilful and malicious bodily injury or disfigurement.

Section 302 re-enacts Section 29 of the Procedure Code of 1860.

Section 303 is Section 6 of the Procedure Code of 1860 changed to require appearance of the defendant forthwith instead of at the next session of court and adding other courts of record having jurisdiction to the courts named in the original section.

Section 304 re-enacts Section 1 of the Act of March 18, 1909, P. L. 42, with slight verbal changes.

Section 305 re-enacts Section 2 of the Act of March 18, 1909, P. L. 42.

Section 306 re-enacts Section 3 of the Act of March 18, 1909, P. L. 42.

Section 307 replaces Section 1 of the Act of April 27, 1909, P. L. 260, changing the section to require the return to the proper court instead of to the Court of Quarter Sessions.

Section 308 re-enacts Section 2 of the Act of April 27, 1909, P. L. 260, with the same character of change as mentioned in Section 307.

ARTICLE IV.—OF INDICTMENTS AND PLEADINGS.

Section 401 re-enacts Section 11 of the Procedure Code of 1860.

Section 402 is new. It makes it unnecessary in charging any offense to set out the means by which it was committed.

Section 403 combines Section 30 of the Procedure Code of 1860, with Section 1 of the Act of April 28, 1871, P. L. 244.

Section 404 replaces Section 21 of the Procedure Code of 1860, and further simplifies indictments for perjury.

Section 405 is new. It provides a short form of indictment for the new offense of stealing. This section permits but does not require the use of this form and it may be added to at the discretion of the pleader by giving further particulars of the offense.

Section 406 is new. It replaces Section 1 of the Act of April 14, 1905, P. L. 153, and extends the principle of that act to all offenses relating to the criminal appropriation or conversion of property.

Section 407 is new. It provides that where the offense relates to certificates of stock, bonds, bills of lading, etc., and all other non-negotiable securities for debt, it is sufficient to describe the same as funds, without specifying the particular characters, denomination, etc.

Section 408 is new. It provides for the sufficiency of an indictment for libel.

Section 409 re-enacts Section 18 of the Procedure Code of 1860, with slight verbal changes.

Section 410 is new. It provides that spoken or written words or pictures may be pleaded by their general purport.

Section 411 is new. It provides the manner in which the accused may be identified or referred to in an indictment.

Section 412 is new. It provides how the time of the commission of an offense may be pleaded and its effect.

Section 413 is new.

Section 414 is new. It provides for general descriptions of persons, places and things.

Section 415 is new. It provides the manner of describing persons other than the accused.

Section 416 is new. It provides that the general legal rules of interpretation shall apply to indictments.

Section 417 is new. It provides a short method of pleading a previous conviction.

Section 418 is new. It provides a method of pleading a private statute.

Section 419 is new. It provides a method of pleading judgments.

Section 420 is new. The rule requiring exceptions contained in a statute to be negative in certain circumstances and not in others is artificial and the legislature has power to alter the rule.

Section 421 is new. It permits allegations in the alternative where the offense may be constituted of several acts or may be committed by several means.

Section 422 is new. It provides that indirect allegations shall not render an indictment invalid.

Section 423 is new. Under it repugnancy does not vitiate an indictment if it is sufficient under Section 401 of the act.

Section 424 is new but merely adopts the accepted rule which allows surplusage to be disregarded.

Section 425 is new. Section 12 of the Procedure Code of 1860 provided for the amendment of variances between any matter in writing or in print and the recital of it in the indictment. Section 13 of the same act dealt with a large number of specific variances in names of places, names of persons who were alleged to be the owners of property or to be injured by the commission of the offense. The present section covers all variances.

Section 426 is new. Provision was made by Section 24 of the Procedure Code of 1860 for the joinder of larceny and receiving stolen property and by Section 28 of the same act for the joinder of distinct acts of embezzlement, not exceeding three, committed against the same employer within six months.

The purpose of the present section is to allow the joinder in the same indictment of charges which are founded on the same facts or form or are a part of series of offenses of the same or a similar character in all classes of crimes.

Section 427 re-enacts Section 27 of the Procedure Code of 1860.

Section 428 is a modification of Section 10 of the Procedure Code of 1860. It requires that the names of witnesses shall be endorsed on the indictment but expressly provides that the failure to endorse the name of any witness shall not render the indictment defective but the defendant shall have the right to compel the Comomnwealth to furnish omitted names.

Section 429 is substantially a re-enactment of the Act of May 15 1895, P. L. 71, which in connection with previous acts abolished arraignment except in murder cases.

Section 430 is substantially a re-enactment of Section 26 of the Procedure Code of 1860.

Section 431 re-enacts Section 30 of the Procedure Code of 1860.

Section 432 re-enacts Section 1 of the Act of April 15, 1907, P. L. 62.

Section 433 is new. It provides that the previous provisions of the article on indictment and pleadings shall not affect the rules of evidence nor relieve the Commonwealth of the necessity of proving all essential elements of the crime.

ARTICLE V.—GRAND JURY, COURTS, JURISDICTION, VENUE AND CHANGE OF VENUE.

Section 501 is Section 10 of the Procedure Code of 1860 changed to empower the foreman or any member of the grand jury to administer the requisite oath to witnesses appearing before the grand jury instead of "to any person whose name may be marked by the district attoreny upon the indictment." In connection with Sec. 428 it clarifies a doubtful point in criminal procedure.

Section 502 replaces Section 31 of the Procedure Code of 1860. It makes certain changes in the jurisdiction of oyer and terminer necessitated by the changes in the proposed Penal Code and adds to the exclusive jurisdiction of the Court of Oyer and Terminer blackmail, sedition, the offense of entering a building with intent to commit a felony by the use of explosives and the stopping or attempting to stop a railroad train with intent to commit a felony thereon. It saves from implied repeal the laws relating to the Municipal Court of Philadelphia.

Section 503 replaces Section 32 of the Procedure Code with no substantial change in the jurisdiction of the court of quarter sessions. It saves from implied repeal the laws relating to the jurisdiction of the Municipal Court of Philadelphia.

Section 504. This section is new. It provides for jurisdiction in homicide cases where the cause of death is inflicted in one place and the death occurs at another.

Section 505 re-enacts Section 43 of the Procedure Code of 1860.

Section 506 re-enacts Section 48 of the Procedure Code of 1860 with slight verbal changes.

Section 507 re-enacts Section 49 of the Porcedure Code of 1860 with automobile and airplane added to the vehicles mentioned and the words "felony" and "misdemeanor" changed to "offenses."

Section 509 re-enacts Section 1 of the Act of March 18, 1875, P. L. 30.

Section 510 re-enacts Section 2 of the Act of March 18, 1875, P. L. 30.

Section 511 re-enacts Section 3 of the Act of March 18, 1875, P. L. 30.

Section 512 re-enacts Section 4 of the Act of March 18, 1875, P. L. 30.

Section 513 re-enacts with slight verbal changes Section 2 of the Act of May 19, 1923, P. L. 283, providing for change of venue on application to the Superior Court in certain classes of cases.

Section 514 re-enacts Section 3 of the last mentioned act on the same subject.

Section 515 re-enacts Section 4 of the same act providing for the hearing by the Superior Court in such cases.

Section 516 re-enacts Section 44 of the Procedure Code of 1860.

Section 517 re-enacts Section 45 of the Procedure Code of 1860.

Section 518 re-enacts Section 38 of the Act of March 31, 1860, P. L. 382, and transfers it from the criminal code to the code of procedure.

ARTICLE VI.—OF THE TRIAL.

Section 601 replaces Section 34 of the Procedure Code of 1860 and changes said section by directing that no person shall be placed within the prisoner's bar to plead.

Section 602 re-enacts Section 35 of the Procedure Code of 1860.

Section 603 replaces Sections 36 and 37 of the Proceure Code of 1860, which were amended by Section 1 of the Act of March 6, 1901, P. L. 16, and Section 1 of the Act of July 9, 1901, P. L. 629. It provides that no right to stand aside jurors shall exist and gives the Commonwealth and defendants the same number of preemptory challenges,—six in misdemeanors, eight in felonies other than those triable exclusively in oyer and terminer, and twenty in the trial of felonies triable exclusively in oyer and terminer.

Section 604 replaces Section 38 of the Procedure Code of 1860 and gives the courts power to change by general rule the manner of excerising challenges except in cases triable exclusively in oyer and terminer.

Section 605 re-enacts Section 39 of the Procedure Code of 1860.

Section 606 re-enacts Section 40 of the Procedure Code of 1860.

Section 607 replaces Section 54 of the Procedure Code of 1860 relating to the two term rule and provides that where terms of court are of less duration than three months the word term shall be construed to mean a period of three calendar months.

Section 608 re-enacts Section 50 of the Procedure Code of 1860.

Section 609 re-enacts Section 51 of the Procedure Code of 1860.

Section 610 re-enacts Section 53 of the Procedure Code of 1860.

Section 611 replaces Section 56 of the Procedure Code of 1860 and limits the power to commit a witness to prison or require bail to cases triable exclusively in oyer and terminer.

Section 614 re-enacts Section 42 of the Procedure Code of 1860.

Section 615 re-enacts Section 41 of the Procedure Code of 1860.

ARTICLE VII.—APPEALS AND NEW TRIALS ON THE GROUND OF AFTER DISCOVERED EVIDENCE.

Section 701 replaces Section 33 of the Procedure Code of 1860.

Section 702 replaces Section 57 of the Procedure Code of 1860.

Section 703 replaces Section 58 of the Procedure Code of 1860.

Section 704 replaces Section 60 of the Procedure Code of 1860.

Section 705 is new and requires all appeals in criminal cases to be taken within thirty days from the date of sentence in the court below.

Section 706 is substantially a re-enactment of that part of Section 12 of the Act of May 19, 1897, P. L. 67, which relates to supersedas upon appeals in criminal cases. The section is not repealed because it provides for appeals from judgments in other cases.

Section 707 provides that an appeal taken in criminal cases is returnable to the appellate court and shall be there argued at the time fixed by general rule of the court.

Section 708 is new and allows an indigent defendant to appeal without printing the evidence.

Section 709 replaces Section 1 of the Act of June 3, 1911, P. L. 627.

Section 710 re-enacts Section 2 of the Act of February 15, 1870, P. L. 15.

Section 711 replaces Section 61 of the Procedure Code of 1860.

Section 712 re-enacts Section 1 of the Act of April 22, 1903, P. L. 245.

Section 714 re-enacts Section 3 of the Act of April 22, 1903, P. L. 245.

ARTICLE VIII.—COSTS.

Section 801 re-enacts Section 13 of the Act of September 23, 1791, 3 Smith's Laws, 37.

Section 802 replaces Section 64 of the Procedure Code of 1860.

Section 803 replaces Section 62 of the Procedure Code of 1860 and Section 1 of the Act of May 19, 1887, P. L. 138.

Section 804 replaces Section 63 of the Procedure Code of 1860.

Section 805 replaces Section 1 of the Act of May 25, 1897, P. L. 89, which was supplementary to Section 62 of the Procedure Code of 1860 and changes the law so as to allow the grand jury on an ignoramus and the petit jury on an acquittal to dispose of costs in all cases of stealing.

Section 806 replaces Section 2 of the Act of May 25, 1897, P. L. 89, which amended Section 64 of the Criminal Procedure Code and Section 1 of the Act of May 11, 1874, P. L. 132.

Section 807 is new. It provides that upon the termination of prosecutions for stealing and assault, etc., the costs shall be chargeable against the county.

Section 809 re-enacts Section 1 of the Act of May 2, 1901, P. L. 127.

Section 811 re-enacts Section 2 of the Act of April 14, 1905, P. L. 152.

Section 812 replaces part of Section 2 of the Act of May 19, 1887, P. L. 138.

Section 813 replaces Section 1 of the Act of March 20, 1818, 7 Smith's Laws 86.

Section 814 re-enacts part of Section 2 of the Act of May 19, 1887, P. L. 138.

Section 815 replaces Section 1 of the Act of May 6, 1915, P. L. 266, which amended Section 1 of the Act of May 6, 1887, P. L. 86.

Section 816 re-enacts Section 65 of the Procedure Code of 1860.

Section 817 re-enacts Section 1 of the Act of March 10, 1905, P. L. 35.

Section 818 re-enacts Section 1 of the Act of May 7, 1907, P. L. 166.

Section 819 re-enacts Section 1 of the Act of June 29, 1923, P. L. 973.

ARTICLE—IX.—SENTENCES AND JUDGMENTS.

Section 902 re-enacts Section 2 of the Act of June 19, 1913, P. L. 528, with slight changes.

Section 910 re-enacts Section 6 of the Act of June 19, 1911, P. L. 1055. By its enactment the Act of May 11, 1923, P. L. 204, will be repealed.

Section 913 replaces Section 9 of the Act of June 19, 1911, P. L. 1055.

Section 921 replaces Section 75 of the Procedure Code of 1860 as amended by Section 1 of the Act of June 26, 1895, P. L. 374.

Section 922 requires that all persons sentenced to imprisonment may be required to perform labor and replaces that part of Section 1 of the Act of June 26, 1895, P. L. 374, which requires persons in jail to perform labor.

Section 923 replaces Section 74 of the Procedure Code of 1860 as amended by the Act of February 28, 1905, P. L. 25.

Section 924 replaces Section 1 of the Act of May 11, 1901, P. L. 166.

Section 925 replaces Section 2 of the Act of May 11, 1901, P. L. 166.

Section 926 replaces Section 3 of the Act of May 11, 1901, P. L. 166.

Section 927 replaces Section 4 of the Act of May 11, 1901, P. L. 166.

Section 928 replaces part of Section 5 of the Act of May 11, 1901, P. L. 166.

Section 930 replaces Section 6 of the Act of May 11, 1901, P. L. 166.

Section 931 takes the place of Section 15 of the Act of June 19, 1911, P. L. 1055, and Section 5 of the Act of May 11, 1901, P. L. 166.

Section 933 replaces Section 2 of the Act of June 19, 1911, P. L. 1055.

ARTICLE I.—OF PROCEEDINGS TO DETECT THE COMMISSION OF CRIMES AND OF FUGITIVES FROM JUSTICE.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, that the judges of the supreme court, of the courts of oyer and terminer and general jail delivery, of the courts of quarter sessions of the peace, or other courts of record having jurisdiction, or any of them, are empowered to direct their writs and precepts to the sheriffs and coroners of the several counties within this Commonwealth, when need shall be to take persons indicted for any offense, before them, who may be found in another county; and it shall be lawful for the said judges, or any of them, to issue subpoenas into any county of the Commonwealth, for summoning any person to give evidence in any matter or cause before the court and to compel obedience to such writs, precepts or subpoenas, by attachment or otherwise, and under such pains and penalties as other writs or subpoenas are by law granted and awarded; and that it shall be lawful for said judges, or any of them, to direct such writ, precept, summons, subpoena or attachment, to be executed by the sheriff of the county in which the same is awarded, which said writ, precept, summons or subpoena, shall be the sufficient warrant of such sheriff for executing the same throughout this Commonwealth, as fully and effectually as if directed to and executed by the sheriff of the proper county where issued; Provided, that the reasonable expenses of executing such process when issued on behalf of the Commonwealth, shall be paid out of the funds of the county where issued, and the expenses of removing any person charged with having committed any offense in one county into another county, or of transporting any person charged with having committed any offense in this state from another state into this state for trial, or for conveying any person, after conviction, to the place of imprisonment, shall be paid out of the treasury of the county where the offense is charged to have been committed.

Section 2. Where any person charged with having committed any offense, in any county of this Commonwealth, shall go or escape into any other country thereof, it shall be lawful for the president or any judge of the court of common pleas or other court of record having jurisdiction in the county where the said person may be found, to issue his warrant, authorizing and requiring the sheriff of the said county to take the said person and conduct him to the proper county, where the said crime is alleged to have been committed, the expenses of which shall be paid to the said sheriff by the county to which the said person is conducted.

Section 3. A warrant of arrest issued by any judge or alderman of any city, or justice of the peace of any county for any offense there committed may be lawfully executed by the officer or person to whom it is directed, or the person having the warrant for execution, by taking the person named therein whether found in the county where the warrant issued or in any other county of the Commonwealth. If the warrant is executed in a county other than that in which it was issued, it shall be the duty of the officer or person executing the warrant to carry the defendant before any alderman, justice or justices in the city or county where the arrest was made; and in case the offense for which the defendant was apprehended is bailable in law by an alderman or justice of the peace, and the defendant is willing and ready to give bail for his appearance at the next session of general jail delivery or quarter sessions or other court of record having jurisdiction to be held in and for the county where the offense was committed, such alderman, justice or justices in the county where the arrest was made may take such bail for the appearance of the defendant in the same manner as the alderman or justice issuing the warrant might have done. In the event that the alderman or justice of the peace takes cash bail as hereinafter provided, it shall be his duty to furnish the defendant a statement thereof in the manner hereinafter provided and to forthwith transmit at the expense of the defendant the said cash bail by a money order of the Government of the United States, certified check of a State or national bank or cashier's or treasurer's check thereof to the clerk of courts of the county in which the offense was committed, who shall hold the same in the manner hereinafter provided for the holding of cash bail and subject to the same conditions. The said alderman, justice or justices so taking bail shall deliver or transmit any recognizance taken and other proceedings to the clerk of the court, where the defendant is required to appear by virtue of such recognizance and such recognizance and other proceedings shall be as good and effectual in law as if the same had been entered into, taken and acknowledged in the county where the offense was committed, and the same proceedings may be had thereon. In case the offense for which the defendant shall be apprehended in such other county shall not be bailable in law by an alderman or justice of the peace, or such offender shall not give bail for his appearance as hereinbefore provided, then the officer or other person so apprehending such defendant shall convey him before the alderman or justice of the peace who issued the warrant there to be dealt with according to law; Provided, that the warrant so issued as aforesaid shall be stamped with the official seal of the officer issuing the same, which seal shall contain his name and official title and the state and county of his residence.

Section 4. Where any person shall be accused before a magistrate, upon oath or affirmation, of the crime of burglary, robbery or stealing, and the said magistrate shall have issued his warrant to apprehend such person or persons, or to search for such goods as have been described, on oath or affirmation, to have been stolen goods, if any shall be found in the custody or possession of such person or persons or in the custody or possession of any other person or persons, for his use, and there is probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, to suspect that other goods, which may be discovered on such search, are stolen, it shall and may be lawful for the said magistrate to direct the said goods to be seized, and to secure the same in his own custody, unless the person in whose possession the same were found shall give sufficient surety to produce the same at the time of his trial; and the said magistrate shall forthwith cause an inventory to be taken of the said goods, and shall file the same with the clerk of that court in which the accused person is intended to be prosecuted, and shall give public notice in the newspapers, or otherwise, by advertising the same in three or more public places in the city or county where the offense is charged to have been committed, before the time of trial, noting in such advertisement the said inventory, the person charged and time of trial; and if, on such trial, the accused party shall be acquitted, and no other claimant shall appear or suit be commenced, then at the expiration of three months, such goods shall be delivered to the party accused, and he shall be discharged and the county be liable to the costs of prosecution; but if he be convicted of stealing only, and, after restitution made to the owner and the sentence of the court being fully complied with, shall claim a right in the residue of the said goods, and no other shall appear or claim the said goods, or any part of them, then it shall be lawful, notwithstanding the claim of the said party accused, to detain such goods for the term of nine months, to the end that all persons having any claim thereto may have full opportunity to come, and to the satisfaction of the court prove their property in them; on which proof the said owner or owners, respectively, shall receive the said goods, or the value thereof, if from their perishable nature it shall have been found necessary to make sale thereof, upon paying the reasonable charges incurred by the securing of the said goods and establishing their property in the same; but if no such claim shall be brought and duly supported, then the person so convicted shall be entitled to the remainder of the said goods, or the value thereof, in case the same shall have been sold agreeably to the original inventory; but if, upon an attainder of burglary or robbery, the court shall, after due inquiry, be of opinion that the said goods were not the property of such burglar or robber, they shall be delivered together with a certified copy of the said inventory, to the commissioners of the county who shall endorse a receipt therefor on the original inventory, register the said inventory in a book, and also cause the same to be publicly advertised, giving notice to all persons claiming the said goods to prove their property therein to the said commissioners: and unless such proof shall be made within three months from the date of such advertisement. the said goods shall be publicly sold, and the net moneys arising from such sale shall be paid into the county treasurey for the use of the Commonwealth: Provided, always, That if any claimant shall appear within one year, and prove his property in the said goods to the satisfaction of the commissioners, or in the case of dispute, shall obtain the verdict of a jury in favor of such claim, the said claimant shall be entitled to recover, and receive from the said commissioners, or treasurer, the net amount of the moneys paid as aforesaid into the hands of the said commissioners, or by them paid into the treasury of this Commonwealth.

Section 5. It shall be the duty of the Governor of this Commonwealth in all cases where demand is made by the executive authority of another state or territory by requisition, accompanied by a certified copy of an indictment or information charging the commission of a crime in such other state or territory for the arrest as a fugitive from justice of any citizen, inhabitant or temporary resident of this Commonwealth, to issue and transmit a warrant of arrest for such purpose to the sheriff or other officer authorized by law to execute warrants in the county in which the requisition describes the person to be residing or domiciled; and the sheriff, deputy sheriff or other officer aforesaid of the county alone shall have authority to execute said warrant.

Section 6. It shall be the duty of any person making an arrest by virture of a warrant issued under the last preceding section of this act, before delivering the person arrested to the officer named in the requisition as the agent of the demanding state, to take the prisoner before a judge of a court of record, in open court, if the court be in session, otherwise at charmbers, who shall inform the prisoner of the nature of the process under which he was arrested and the charge against him in the state where the alleged crime was committed, and inform him that if he claims that he is not the person charged by the demanding state with the commission of the alleged crime, he has a legal right to a writ of habeas corpus upon making affidavit that he is not the person named in the requisition: Provided, however, that the prisoner may waive in writing his right to be taken before said court. Any hearing and inquiry upon any writ of habeas corpus in said matters shall be limited to the question of identification only, and shall not extend to the merits of the charge. If after hearing on such writ the court shall find the prisoner to be the person named in the requisition, it shall direct the sheriff or other officer to deliver the prisoner into the custody of the agent of the demanding state; otherwise it shall direct his discharge from custody.

Section 7. It shall be unlawful for any person or officer to take any person out of this Commonwealth upon the ground that the said person consents to go or by reason of his willingness to waive the proceedings hereinbefore described; and any person who shall arrest or procure the arrest of any person in this Commonwealth, for the purpose of taking or sending him to another state, without a requisition first had and obtained, accompanied by a certified copy of the indictment or information and without a warrant issued by or under the direction of the Governor of this Commonwealth, served by the sheriff or his deputy, and without first taking him before a judge of a court of record, as aforesaid, shall be guilty of the offense defined by Section 195 of the Penal Code of 1925.

Section 8. Any sheriff, deputy sheriff, or other officer, violating any of the provisions hereof relating to the arrest, detention or return of fugitives from justice except as otherwise herein provided, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor in office.

Section 9. Nothing herein shall be construed to prevent the sheriff of any county, chief of police of any city or other person from causing the arrest as a fugitive from justice of any person upon information that such person committed a crime or misdemeanor in another state and that a warrant has there been issued for his arrest or that an indictment has been found there against him: Provided, That the officers of any town, city or county or proper authorities of such other state or territory shall procure a requisition and have it presented to the Governor of this Commonwealth within thirty days after such arrest shall have been made and the prisoner upon being arrested or detained shall be brought before a court or judge in the manner and for the purpose provided in Section 6 of this Act, and no person so arersted shall be committed or held to bail for a longer period than thirty days, exclusive of the day of his arrest, unless such requisition shall have been presented to the Governor of this Commonwealth within such period.

ARTICLE II.—OF BAIL AND HEARING.

Section 201. In all cases the person accused, on oath or affirmation, of any offense, shall be admitted to bail in the form hereinafter provided, by any judge, justice, mayor, recorder or alderman, where the offense charged has been committed, except such persons as are precluded from being bailed by the Constitution of this Commonwealth: Provided, also, That persons accused, as aforesaid, of murder or manslaughter, shall be admitted to bail by the supreme court or one of the judges thereof, or by the president or associate law judge of a court of common pleas and by no other authority. Persons accused as aforesaid of arson, rape, robbery, sodomy, burglary, kidnapping with intent to extort money or other property, trason, sedition, blackmail, abortion, pandering, entering a building of another with intent to commit a felony by the use of gunpowder, nitroglycerine, or other explosive, or injuring or stopping, or attempting to injure or stop, or conspiring to injure or stop, any moving railroad train with intent to commit any felony thereon, shall be bailable by the supreme court of common pleas or other court of record having jurisdiction or by one of the judges thereof, or a mayor or recorder of a city and by no other authority.

Section 202. Bail may be either one or more sufficient sureties to be taken before the court, judge, magistrate, mayor or recorder in the last preceding section of this act named, or it may be cash bail given in lieu of the sureties above named.

In prosecution where magistrate and justice of the peace have power to take bail for hearing or continued hearing before them, the defendant may deposit with the committing magistrate in current funds of the government of the United States the amount of the bail or recognizance fixed, and enter his own recognizance for his appearance at the time and place required. In the event of the non-appearance of the defendant at the time and place required, the said bail shall be deemed forfeited and shall be forthwith returned by the said magistrate to the clerk of courts of the county, together with a statement in writing of the name of the defendant, the name of the prosecutor, and the crime charged, whereupon the said sum shall be subject to the same disposition as the proceeds of any other forfeited recognizance.

In the event that the defendant appear and is discharged, or, if held for appearance at court, gives other surety or bail, the cash bail shall be returned to him forthwith.

When a defendant shall be bound over to the court of oyer and terminer or quarter sessions of the peace, or other court of record having jurisdiction, and the charge is one in which the committing magistrate is permitted to take bail, and the defendant desires to give cash bail, the magistrate shall accept the same in the amount fixed by him upon the defendant entering into his recognizance for appearance at the time and place fixed, and the magistrate shall give the defendant a written statement showing the amount of the said bail, and the case in which it was given, and he shall forthwith return the amount of the said bail to the clerk of courts of the county, together with a statement in writing of the name of the defendant, the name of the prosecutor, and the crime charged, and in the event that the defendant fails to appear at the time and place required by his recognizance the amount of said cash bail shall be deemed forfeited and shall be subject to the same disposition as the proceeds of any other forfeited recognizance.

Where the amount of the bail is fixed by a judge of a court of record by the district attorney, or by the mayor or recorder of a city, and the defendant desires to give cash bail, he shall deposit the amount thereof as fixed by the proper authority with the clerk of courts of the county in which the case is pending, who shall give him a receipt thereof, whereupon the defendant shall enter into his recognizance in the office of the clerk of courts for his appearance at the time and place fixed, and the amount of said cash bail shall be deemed forfeited in the event of the failure of the defendant to appear at the time and place fixed, and shall be subject to the same disposition as the proceeds of any other forfeited recognizance.

In case there is no breach or forfeiture of the condition of the bail or recognizance, and the proceeding is terminated, upon order of the court, the clerk of courts shall pay to the defendant the amount of the bail deposited, less a commission of one-half of one percentum of the amount of the bail, which the said clerk of courts shall retain for the use of the county.

The condition of the bail, whether cash bail or sureties be given, shall be that the defendant appear and abide the judgment in the case.

Section 203. The court having jurisdiction of the trial shall have power and authority to determine whether a forfeiture has occurred of any cash bail given to secure the appearance of a defendant therein, and when it shall so determine, an entry thereof shall be made under the direction of the court upon the recognizance of the defendant which entry shall be conclusive of the fact of such forfeiture.

Section 204. Any magistrate or justice of the peace shall have jurisdiction to release on bail any person committed for a hearing by any other magistrate or justice of the peace in the same county, upon presentation to him of a properly signed certificate in the form set forth in Section 209 hereof stating the offense charged and the bail demanded, signed by the magistrate or justice of the peace who issued the warrant, or the officer who has the defendant in custody.

In the event that cash bail is taken hereunder, it shall be forwarded forthwith to the magistrate or justice of the peace who issued the warrant to be held as cash bail subject to the same disposition as hereinafter provided.

Section 205. The clerks of the courts of quarter sessions and oyer and terminer of this Commonwealth shall have authority in all cases, except in the case of a defendant charged with treason, felonious homicide or voluntary manslaughter, to take bail and recognizances and approve such bonds as may be required by law, whenever the law judge or judges, or associate judges, if there be associate judges, shall be absent from the county seat, or shall be unable on account of sickness or other cause to attend to the duties of their office.

Section 206. All sureties, mainpernors, and bail in criminal cases shall be entitled to have a bail piece, duly certified by the proper officer or person before whom or in whose office the recognizance of such surety mainpernors or bail shall be or remain, and upon such bail piece, by themselves, or their agents, to arrest and detain, and surrender their principles, with the like effect as in cases of bail in civil actions; and such bail piece shall be a sufficient warrant or authority for the proper sheriff or jailer to receive the said principal, and have him forthcoming to answer the matter or matters alleged against him; Provided, That nothing herein contained shall prevent the person thus arrested and detained from giving new bail or sureties for his appearance, who shall have the same right of surrender hereinbefore provided.

Section 207. The several courts of oyer and terminer and quarter sessions of the peace or other court of record, having jurisdiction, are hereby empowered to authorize the district attorneys of the respective counties to fix the amount of the bail required of defendants in all cases including those in which the committing magistrates are without power to fix bail, except cases of felonious homicide, and to approve the sufficiency of the sureties on any bond or recognizance given to secure the appearance of a defendant in any of the said courts, with the same effect as though the said court or one of the judges thereof acted thereon. In all such cases the justification of surety shall be sworn to or affirmed before the clerk of courts or his duly authorized deputy or clerk and the recognizance shall be filed in his office.

The court having jurisdiction of the trial may review the action of the district attorney upon the application of the defendant or his counsel and shall have final authority to determine the amount of said bail.

Section 208. All bonds and recognizances given to secure the appearance of a defendant in any criminal case before a magistrate or before any court of criminal jurisdiction of this Commonwealth shall be judgment bonds and shall contain provisions authorizing and empowering the district attorney of the proper county to appear for the defendant and the surety or sureties in the bond, after any default in the condition thereof, and without any declaration filed, to confess judgment in favor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and against the principal and sureties as of any term for the amount of the bond together with costs of suit and containing a waiver of inquisition and agreeing to condemnation of any property that may be levied upon by virtue of any execution, and waiving and releasing all errors in said proceedings, together with stay of exemption from execution or extension of time of payment given by any act of assembly.

Section 209. Upon the arrest of any person, with or without a warrant, upon any charge of crime against the laws of this Commonwealth, in order to protect the right to bail and to facilitate the entry thereof, it shall be the duty of the sheriff, coroner, constable or other officer making the arrest or having charge of the prisoner, upon application made therefor by counsel or any citizen, to issue, without cost to the applicant, a certificate stating the name or names of the prisoner or prisoners, and the charge upon which the arrest was made, and the amount of bail demanded, if the bail has been fixed.

Section 210. In all cases of prosecution for misdemeanor of assault or wilful and malicious bodily injury or disfigurement to another, the committing magistrate before whom such case is instituted, before he binds over any person so charged to the court of quarter sessions, or other court of record having jurisdiction, shall enter into a full hearing and investigation of the charge and shall bind the defendant over to the said court only when he is clearly satisfied from the evidence that the prosecution is well founded, but it shall be necessary to set forth the character of such hearing in the transcript of the record of the committing magistrate.

Section 211. In all such cases, when the evidence shows that the prosecution is not well founded, the alderman, justice of the peace or magistrate shall discharge the defendant and determine by whom the costs shall be paid. In so determining, he may order that the prosecutor pay all or any part thereof, or he may put the costs on the county, or if he orders the prosecutor to pay part thereof, he may put the other part of the costs upon the county. In default of payment of the costs so imposed, the prosecutor so defaulting may be committed to the couny jail one day for each dollar of such costs, or until the costs are paid, or until such person is discharged according to law, and in such cases the costs shall be paid by the county.

Section 212. It shall be the duty of all aldermen, justices of the peace and committing magistrates in this Commonwealth upon complaint being made in criminal cases upon oath or affirmation of any person to enter such complaint upon their dockets with the name, residence and occupation, if any, of all the defendants bail and witnesses, and to return to the clerk of the court having jurisdiction of the trial, a true transcript from the said docket within five days after the binding over, or committal of any defendant or defendants charged with any offense.

ARTICLE III.—SETTLEMENT OF CASES, NOLLE PROSEQUI AND SURETY OF THE PEACE.

Section 301. In all cases where a person shall, on the complaint of another, be bound by recognizance to appear, or shall, for want of security, be committed, or shall be indicted for an assault, for wilful and malicious bodily injury or disfigurement to another, or other misdemeanor, to the injury and damage of the party complaining, and not charged to have been done with intent to commit a felony, or not being an infamous crime, and for which there shall also be a remedy by action, if the party complaining shall appear before the magistrate who may have taken the recognizance or made the commitment, or before the court in which the indicment shall be, and acknowledged to have received satisfaction for such injury and damage, it shall be lawful for the magistrate, in his discretion, to discharge the recognizance which may have been taken for the appearance of the defendant, or in case of committal, to discharge the prisoner, or for the court also, where such proceeding has been returned to the court, in their discretion, to order a nolle prosequi to be entered on the indictment, as the case may require, upon payment of costs: Provided, That this section shall not extend to any misdemeanor committed by or on any officer or minister of justice.

Section 302. No district attorney shall, in any criminal case whatsoever, enter a nolle prosequi, either before or after bill found, without the consent of the proper court in writing first had and obtained.

Section 303. If any person shall threaten the person of another to wound, kill or destroy him, or to do him any harm in body or estate, and the person threatened shall appear before a justice of the peace, and attest on oath or affirmation that he believes that by such threatening he is in danger of being hurt in body or estate, such person so threatening as aforesaid shall be bound over, with one sufficient surety, to apper forthwith before the court of quarter sessions of the peace or other court of record having jurisdiction according to law, and in the meantime to be of his good behavior, and keep the peace toward all citizens of this Commonweath. If any person not being an officer on duty in the military or naval service of the state or of the United States shall go armed with a dirk, dagger, sword or pistol, or other offensive or dangerous weapon, without reasonable cause to fear an assault or other injury or violence to his family, person or property, he may, on complaint of any person having reasonable cause to fear a breach of the peace therefrom, be required to find surety of the peace as aforesaid.

Section 304. In all cases of surety of the peace, the justice of the peace or magistrate before whom such case is instituted, before he binds anyone over to the court of quarter sessions or other court of record having jurisdiction, and in the meantime to keep the peace, upon the oath of another, as hereinbefore provided, shall enter into a full hearing and investigation of the facts, and shall bind over the defendant only when the evidence shows to the satisfaction of the jusice or magistrate that the prosecutor's danger of being hurt in body or estate is actual, and that the threats were made by the defendant maliciously and with intent to do actual harm.

Section 305. In all cases in which the evidence does not show that the threats were maliciously made by the defendant and with intent to do harm, and that the prosecutor is actually in danger of being hurt in body or estate, it shall be the duty of the justice of the peace to discharge the defendant, and to determine how and by whom the costs shall be paid; and in determining the question of the payment of the costs he may find that the prosecutor pay them all, that the defendant pay them all or that the prosecutor and defendant pay them in equal or unequal proportions, and in default of payment may commit the person or persons adjudged to pay the costs to the county jail until they are paid or until such person is discharged according to law.

Section 306. It shall be the duty of the justice of the peace or magistrate who has entertained a complaint in a surety of the peace case, to afford an opportunity and to suggest to the parties the propriety of comprising their differences before entering into a hearing.

Section 307. Where a magistrate, alderman, or justice of the peace hearing any surety of the peace or desertion case shall determine to return the same to the proper court, such return shall be filed immediately with the clerk thereof; and the judges of said court, whenever the court is in session, and it is convenient, may dispose of the said complaint.

Section 308. All recognizances for the appearance of defendants in surety of the peace cases shall be made forthwith, and it shall be the duty of the justice of the peace to make his return to the court of quarter sessions of the peace or other court of record having jurisdiction immediately, by sending it to the clerk thereof, and the recognizances shall be forfeited if the defendant does not appear upon notice to him and to his surety by mail of the time and place of hearing.

ARTICLE IV.—OF INDICTMENTS AND PLEADINGS.

Section 401. Every indictment shall be deemed and adjudged sufficient and good in law which charges the crime substantially in the language of the act of assembly prohibiting the crime, an prescribing the punishment, if any such there be, or if at common law, so plainly that the nature of the offense charged may be easily understood by the jury.

Every objection to any indictment for any formal defect, apparent on the face thereof, shall be taken by demurrer, or on motion to quash such indictment, before the jury shall be sworn, and not afterward; and every court, before whom any such objection shall be taken for any formal defect, may, if it be thought necessary, cause the indictment to be forthwith amended in such particular, by the clerk or other officer of the court, and thereupon the trial shall proceed as if no such defect appeared.

Section 402. The means by which an offense was committed need not be alleged in the indictment unless an essential element of the crime.

Section 403. It shall be sufficient in every indictment for murder to charge that the defendant did feloniously, wilfully, and of his malice aforethought, kill and murder the deceased; it shall be sufficient in every indictment for manslaughter to charge that the defendant did feloniously kill and slay the deceased; and in every indictment for involuntary manslaughter it shall be sufficient to charge that the defendant did unlawfully kill and slay the deceased.

Section 404. In every indictment for perjury, subornation of perjury, or for corrupt bargaining or contracting with others to commit wilful and corrupt perjury, it shall be sufficient to set forth the substance of the offense charged, and in what court, or before whom, the oath or affirmation was taken, or was to have been taken, without setting forth any part of the records or proceedings with which the oath was connected, and without stating the commission or authority of the court, or other authority, before whom the perjury was committed, or the form of the oath or affirmation, or the manner of administering the same; and it shall be sufficient to aver that the defendant knowingly and corruptly swore falsely as to the matter alleged, without setting forth where in the testimony or matter sworn to was false.

Section 405. The term "stealing," when used in an indictment, shall have the following signification: The criminal taking, obtaining or converting of any property, made the subject of the offense by the Penal Code of 1926; and including larceny; the obtaining of property from another by any false pretenses, with intent to defraud, and the act of anyone who, having in his possession, custody or control, any property of another, shall, with intent to deprive the owner thereof, fraudulently convert or secrete such property.

In an indictment for stealing it shall be sufficient to charge that the accused feloniously stole the property which is the subject of the offense, and such indictment shall be supported by proof that the accused committed larceny thereof, obtained it from another by any criminal false pretenses with intent to defraud, or that, having it in his possession, custody or control, he fraudulently converted or secreted it with intent to deprive the owner thereof.

Section 406. In an indictment for stealing, robbery, obtaining signature to a written instrument by false pretenses, receiving stolen property, or for any other criminal conversion or misappropriation of property where the offense relates to currency, treasury notes, certificates, bank notes and other securities intended to circulate as money, and promissory notes, checks, drafts, bills of exchange, postal orders, and all other negotiable securities for debt or evidence of debt, or any of them, it is sufficient to describe the same, or any of them, as money without specifying the particular character, number, denomination, kind, species or nature thereof.

Section 407. In an indictment for stealing, robbery, obtaining signature to a written instrument by false pretenses, receiving stolen property, or for any other criminal conversion or misappropriation of property, where the offense relates to certificates of stock, stocks, bonds, bills of lading, mortgages, and all other non-negotiable securities for debt or evidence of debt or property, or any of them, it is sufficient to describe the same, or any of them, as funds, without specifying the particular character, number, denomination, kind, species or nature thereof.

Section 408. An indictment for libel need not set forth any extrinsic facts for the purpose of showing the application to the party libeled of the defamatory matter on which the indictment is founded, but it shall be sufficient to state that the same was published concerning him.

Section 409. Whenever in an indictment an allegation relative to any instrument, which consists wholly or in part of writing or figures, pictures or designs, is necessary, it is sufficient to describe such instrument by name or description by which it is unusally known, or by its purport, without setting forth a copy or fac simile of the whole or any part thereof.

Section 410. Whenever in an indictment an averment relating to any spoken or written word or to any picture is necessary, it is sufficient to set forth such spoken or written words by their general purport or to describe such picture generally, without setting for a copy or fac simile of such written words or such picture.

Section 411. In any indictment it is sufficient for the purpose of identifying the accused, to state his true name, to state the name, appellation or nickname by which he has been or is known, to state a fictitious name or to describe him as a person whose name is unknown, or to describe him in any other manner. In stating the two names or the name by which the accused has been or is known, or a fictitious name, it is sufficient to state a surname, a surname and one or more Christian name or names, or a surname and one or more abbreviations or initials of a Christian name or names.

If the accused be a corporation, it is sufficient to state the true corporate name, or any name or designation by which it has been or is known. This is a sufficient averment that the corporation is a corporation and that it was duly incorporated according to law.

If in the course of a proceeding the true name of a person indicted otherwise than by his true name is disclosed by the accused or by the evidence, the court shall, upon motion of the accused or of the district attorney, and may without such motion insert the true name of the accused wherever his name appears outherwise in the indictment and record, and the proceedings shall be continued against him in his true name.

No indictment need state the addition, degree, estate, mystery, occupation, title or residence of the accused.

In no case is it necessary to aver or prove that the true name of the accused is unknown to the grand jury.

Section 412. The time of the commission of the crime may be alleged either as a day certain or on or about a given day, and either of said allegations shall, unless otherwise stated, be considered as an allegation that the act was committed before the finding of the indictment, after it became a crime and within the period of limitations, and the Commonwealth shall be permtted to prove that the act was done on any day after it became a crime, before the finding of the indictment and within the Statute of Limitations. If the offense is a continuing offense it may be alleged that the crime was committed, or that certain acts were done, within a certain period of time, and this shall be a sufficient allegation that the crime alleged was committed, or that the acts alleged were done on divers days and times within that period.

Section 413. If an indictment for a crime involving the commission or attempted commission of an injury to property, real or personal, describes the property with sufficient certainty in other respects to identify it, it need not allege the name of the owner thereof.

In all cases in which an allegation of ownership of any property in an indictment is supported by proof of a right of possession of such property, any statement in the indictment which implies possession of such property by such person is a sufficient allegation of ownership.

Section 414. In an idictment in which it is necessary for the purpose of charging the offense under the provisions hereof to describe any person, place or thing, it is sufficient to describe such person, place or thing by any term which in common understanding embraces such person, place or thing, and in common understanding does not include persons, places of things which are not by law the subject of or connected with the offense.

Section 415. In any indictment it is sufficient for the purpose of identifying any person other than the accused, to state his true name! to state the name, appellation or nickname by which he has been or is known; to state a ficititious name; to state the name of an office or position held by him; to describe him in any manner, or to describe him as "a certain person" or by words of similar import. In stating the true name of such person or the name by which such person has been or is known, it is sufficient to state a surname, or a surname and one or more Christian name or names, or a surname and one or more abbreviations or initials of a Christian name or names.

It is sufficient for the purpose of identifying any group or association of persons not incorporated, to state the proper name of such group or association (if such there be); to state any name or designation by which the group or association has been known; to state the names of all the persons in such group or association, or of one or more of them; or to state the name or names of one or more persons in such group or association, referring to the other or others as "another" or "others."

It is sufficient for the purpose of identifying a corporation, to state the corporate name of such corporation, or any name or designation by which such corporation has been or is known.

It is sufficient for the purpose of identifying a county, city, borough, township, municipality or other incorporated district to state the name or designation by which it has been or is known.

It is not necessary for the purpose of identifying any group or asociation of persons, or any corporation, to state the legal form of such group or association of persons or of such corporation.

In no case is it necessary to aver or prove that the true name of any person, group or association of persons or corporations is unknown to the grand jury.

If in the course of the trial the true name of any person, group or association of persons or corporations identified otherwise than by the true name is disclosed by the evidence, the court shall on motion of the accused, and may without such motion, insert the true name in the indictment wherever the name appears otherwise.

Section 416. The words and phrases used in an indictment are to be construed according to their usual acceptation, except the words and phrases which have been defined by law, or which have acquired a legal signification, which words and phrases are to be construed according to their legal signification, and shall be sufficient to convey such meaning.

Section 417. Whenever it is necessary to allege a prior conviction of the accused in an indictment, it is sufficient to allege that the accused was at a stated time, in a certain stated court, convicted of a certain offense, giving the name of the offense if it have one, or stating the substantial elements thereof.

Section 418. In pleading a private statute or a right derived therefrom, it is sufficient to refer to the statute by its title and the day of its passage, or in any other manner which identifies the statute, and the court must thereupon take judicial notice thereof.

Section 419. In pleading a judgment or other determination of, or a proceeding before any court or officer, civil or military, it is unnecessary to allege the facts conferring jurisdiction on such court or officer, but it is sufficient to allege generally that such judgment or determination was duly given or made or such proceedings had.

Section 420. No indictment for any offense created or defined by statute shall be deemed defective or insufficient for the reason that it fails to negative any exception, excuse or proviso contained in the statute creating or defining the offense.

The fact that the charge is made shall be considered as an allegation that no legal excuse for the doing of the act exists in the particular case.

Section 421. In an indictment for an offense which is constituted of one or more of several acts, or which may be committed by one or more of several means, or with one or more of several intentions, or in one or more of different capacities, or which may produce one or more of several results, two or more of such acts, means, intentions, capacities or results may be charged in the alternative.

Section 422. No indictment is invalid or insufficient for the reason merely that it alleges indirectly and by inference, instead of directly, any matters, facts and circumstances connected with or constituting the offense; provided that the nature and cause of the accusation can be understood by a person of common understanding.

Section 423. No indictment is invalid by reason of any repugnant allegation contained therein: provided that the indictment is sufficient under Section 401 hereof.

Section 424. Any allegation herein stated to be unnecessary may, if contained in any indictment, be rejected as surplusage.

Section 425. No indictment is invalid because of any defect or imperfection in or omission of any matter of form only; nor because of any miswriting, mispelling or false or improper English; nor because of the use of foreign words or signs, symbols or abbreviations: nor because of any other defect, imperfection or omission in the manner of charging the offense; provided that the indictment is sufficient under Section 401 hereof.

A defendant shall not be acquitted on the ground of any variance of whatever character between the allegations and proof if the essential elements of the crime are correctly stated, unless he is thereby actually misled and prejudiced in his defense upon the merits of the case. He shall not be acquitted by reason of any immaterial misnomer of a person named in the indictment, any immaterial mistake in the description of the property, or in the ownership thereof, failure to prove unnecessary allegations in the commission of the crime, or any other immaterial mistake in the indictment.

The court may at any time amend the indictment in respect to any such defect, imperfection or omission, as above stated, and may at any time amend the indictment as to any such variance, as above stated, to conform to the evidence.

If the court is of the opinion that the accused has been actually misled and prejudiced in his defense upon the merits by any such defect, imperfection or omission, or by any such variance, the court may of its own motion, unless the accused objects, or on motion of the accused, postpone the trial to be had before the same or another jury, upon such terms as the court sees fit. In determining whether the accused has been misled and prejudiced in his defense upon the merits, the court shall consider all the circumstances of the case and the entire course of the prosecution.

No motion made after verdict nor writ of error, nor appeal based upon any such defect, imperfection or omission, or based upon any such variance, shall be sustained unless it be affirmatively shown that the accused was in fact prejudiced in his defense upon the merits and a failure of justice has resulted.

Section 426. Charges for any offenses, whether felonies or misdemeanors, may be joined in the same indictment, if those charges are founded on the same facts or form or are a part of a series of offenses of the same or a similar character.

No indictment shall be quashed, set aside or dismissed, nor shall any demurrer thereto be sustained for any one or more of the following defects merely: (First) That there is a misjoinder of the parties accused. (Second) That there is a misjoinder of the offenses charged in the indictment, or duplicity therein.

If the court be of the opinion that either of said defects exists in any indictment, it may sever such indictment into separate indictments or into separate counts, as shall be proper.

No motion made after verdict, nor writ of error, nor appeal based on the defects enumerated in this section shall be granted or sustained, unless it be affirmatively shown that the accused was in fact prejudiced in his defense upon the merits and a failure of justice has resulted.

Section 427. No person shall be required to answer to any indictment for any offense whatsoever unless the prosecutor's name, if any there be, is endorsed thereon, and if no person shall avow himself the prosecutor the court may hear witnesses and determine whether there is such a private prosecutor, and if they shall be of opinion that there is such a prosecutor then direct his name to be endorsed on such indictment.

Section 428. The names of all witnesses who are called and testify before the grand jury in support of any bill of indictment shall be endorsed on the bill, but the failure to endorse the name of any witness shall not render an indictment defective, but the court may require the Commonwealth to furnish the defendant the name or names of any witnesses who were called and testified and whose names are not set forth on the bill.

Section 429. In all cases, except murder, the defendant shall not be arraigned, but shall be required to plead orally or by writing endorsed on the indictment. In the trial of an indictment charging murder the defendant shall be arraigned in accordance with the method at present in use under existing law.

Section 430. If the prisoner shall upon arraignment, or when called upon to plead, stand mute or not answer directly, or shall peremptorily challenge above the number of persons summoned as jurors for his trial to which he is by law entitled, the plea of not guilty shall be entered for him on the record, the supernumerary challenges shall be disregarded, and the trial shall proceed in the same manner as if he had pleaded not guilty and for his trial had put himself upon the country.

Section 431. If any plea of autrefois acquit or autrefois convict, it shall be sufficient for any defendant to state that he has been lawfully convicted or acquitted, as the case may be, of the offense charged in the indictment.

Section 432. Whenever any person charged with the commission of any crime is willing to enter a plea of guilty and shall notify the district attorney to that effect, no bill of indictment charging such offense shall be sent to a grand jury, but the district attorney shall at once prepare a bill of indictment in the usual form, and the plea of guilty shall at the request of the said defendant or defendant's counsel be entered thereon, and the court of the proper county, at any session thereof, shall thereupon forthwith impose sentence for the offense set forth therein; provided however, that nothing herein shall be construed to relate to or change the proceedings in homicide cases in this Commonwealth; and providing further, that the defendant may withdraw his plea of guilty at any time before sentence by leave of the court.

Section 433. Nothing in this article shall affect the law or practice relating to the jurisdiction of the court or the place where an accused person can be tried; nor prejudice or diminish in any respect the obligation to establish by evidence, according to law, any acts, ommissions or intentions which are legally necessary to constitute the offense with which the person accused is charged; nor otherwise affect the laws of evidence in criminal cases, nor shall anything in this article be interpreted in such a manner as to make invalid any indictment at present valid.

ARTICLE V.—GRAND JURY, COURTS, JURISDICTION, VENUE AND CHANGE OF VENUE.

Section 501. The foreman of the grand jury, or any member thereof, is hereby authorized and empowered to administer the requisite oaths or affirmations to any witness summoned or appearing before the grand jury for the purpose of testifying on any indictment pending before the grand jury or during the course of any investigation or hearing there lawfully pending.

Section 502. The courts of oyer and terminer and general jail delivery have power:

(1) To inquire by the oaths and affirmations of good and lawful men of the county of all crimes committed or triable in such county.

(2) To hear, determine and punish the same, and to deliver the jails of such county of all prisoners therein, according to law.

(3) To try indictments found in the quarter sessions, and certified according to law.

(4) The said courts shall have exclusive jurisdiction and power to try and punish all persons charged with any of the crimes herein enumerated which shall be committed within the respective county, to wit:

1. All persons charged with any murder or manslaughter or other homicide.

2. All persons charged with treason against the Commonwealth or sedition.

3. All persons charged with sodomy, rape or robbery.

4. All persons charged with arson or with the crime of intentionally and unlawfully burning or setting on fire any dwelling house of another or building a parcel thereof, or adjoining or appurtenant thereto, or any other building by means whereof a dwelling house is burned.

5. All persons charged with burglary.

6. All persons charged with entering any building of another with intent to commit a felony therein by the use of gunpowder, dynamite, nitor-glycerine or other explosive,

14. All principals in the second degree and accessories to any of the above-mentioned crimes.

Nothing herein contained shall alter, affect or impair the jurisdiction of the Municipal Court of the County of Philadelphia.

Section 503. The courts of quarter sessions of the peace shall have jurisdiction and power within the respective counties.

1. To inquire, by the oaths or affirmations of good and lawful men of the county, of all crimes whatsoever against the laws of this Commonwealth which shall be triable in the respective county.

2. To inquire of, hear, determine and punish in due form of law, all such crimes whereof exclusive jurisdiction is not given, as aforesaid, to the courts of oyer and terminer of such county.

3. To take, in the name of the Commonwealth, all manner of recognizances and obligations heretofore taken and allowed to be taken by any justice of the peace, and they shall certify such as shall be taken, in relation to any crime not triable therein, to the next court of oyer and terminer having power to take cognizance thereof.

4. To continue or discharge the recognizances and obligation of persons bound to keep the peace, or to be of good behavior, taken as aforesaid, or certified into such court by any justice of the peace of such county, and to inquire of, hear and determine, in the manner herein provided, all complaints which shall be found thereon.

5. The courts of quarter sessions shall also have jurisdiction in cases of fines, penalties or punishments imposed by any act of assembly for offenses, misdemeanors or delinquencies, except where it shall be otherwise expressly provided and enacted.

6. The said courts shall also have and exercise such other jurisdiction and powers, not herein enumerated, as may have been heretofore given to them by law.

Whenever any indictment shall be found in any court of quarter sessions, for any crime not triable therein, it shall be the duty of said court to certify the same into the court of oyer and terminer next to be holden in such county, there to be heard and determined in due course of law.

The judges of the county courts of oyer and terminer and quarter sessions, and every of them, shall have power to direct their writs or precepts to all or any of the sheriffs or other officers of any of the counties, cities, boroughs or towns corporate of this Commonwealth, to arrest and bring before them persons indicated for any offenses, and amenable to the respective court; each of said courts shall have power to award process to levy and recover such fines forfeitures and amercements as shall be imposed, taxed or adjudged by them respectively; each of the said courts shall have full power and authority to establish such rules for regulating the practice thereof respectively, and for expediting the determination of suits, causes and proceedings therein, as in their discretion they shall judge necessary or proper: Provided, That such rules shall not be inconsistent with the constitution and laws of this Comomnwealth; each of the said courts is empowered to issue writs of subpoena, under their official seal, into any county of this Commonwealth, to summon and bring before the respective court any person to give testimony in any cause or matter depending before them, under the penalties hitherto appointed and allowed, in any such case, by the laws of this Comomnwealth.

Nothing herein contained shall alter, affect or impair the jurisdiction of the Municipal Court of the County of Philadelphia.

Section 504. (a) If a mortal wound is given or if other violence or injury is inflicted or if poison is administered in one county by means whereof death ensues in another county the homicide may be prosecuted and punished in either county.

(b) If a mortal wound is given or if other violence or injury is inflicted or if poison is administered on the high seas or without the Commonwealth by means whereof death ensues in any county thereof the homicide may be prosecuted and punished in the county where the death occurs.

(c) If a mortal wound is given or if other violence or injury is inflicted or if poison is administered in any county of the Commonwealth by means whereof death ensues without the Commonwealth the homicide may be prosecuted and punished in the county where the act was committed.

Section 505. The trial of all treason against the Commonwealth, committed out of the jurisdiction of the state, shall be in the county where the offender is apprehended, or into which he shall first be brought.

Section 506. In any indictment for an offense committed on the boundary or boundaries of two or more counties, or within the distance of five hundred yards of any such boundary or boundaries, it shall be sufficient to allege that such offense was committed in any of the said counties; and every such offense may be inquired of, tried, determined and punished in the county within which the same shall be so alleged to hve been committed, in the same manner as if it had been actually committed therein.

Section 507. In any indictment for any offense committed on any person or on any property, upon any stage coach, stage, wagon, railway car, automobile, airplane, or other carriage whatever employed in any journey, it shall be sufficient to allege that such offense was committed within any county or place through any part whereof such coach, wagon, cart, car, automobile, or other carriage shall have passed in the course of the journey during which such offense shall have been committed; and in all cases where the center or other part of any highway shall constitute the boundaries of any two counties, it shall be sufficient to allege that the offense was committed in either of the said counties through, or adjoining to, or by the boundaries of any part whereof such coach, wagon, cart, car automobile, or other carriage shall have passed in the course of the journey during which such offense shall have been committed; and in any indictment for any offense committed on any person or on any property on board any vessel whatsoever, employed in any voyage or journey on any navigable river, canal or inland navigation, it shall be sufficient to allege that such offense was committed in any county or place through any part whereof such vessel shall have passed in the course of the voyage or journey during which such offense shall have been committed; and in all cases where the side or bank of any navigable river or creek, canal or inland navigation, or the center or other part thereof, shall constitute the boundary of any two counties, it shall be sufficient to allege that such offense was committed in either of the said counties through, or adjoining to, or by the boundary of any part whereof, such vessel shall have passed in the course of the voyage or jounrey during which such offense shall have been committed; and every such offense committed in any of the cases aforesaid shall and may be inquired of, tried, determined and punished in the county or place within which the same shall be so alleged to have been committed, in the same manner as if it had actually been committed therein.

Section 508. Any and all prisoners or convicts escaping, or attempting to escape, from the several penitentiaries and reformatories of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, or from the lands, jurisdiction, and control of the officers of said penal institutions, shall be tried in the counties where said escapes shall have geen committed.

Section 509. In criminal prosecutions the venue may be changed, on application of the defendant or defendants, in the following cases:

First. When the judge, who by law is required to try the same, is a near relative of the prosecutor, or of the defendant, or of the person injured, or has knowledge of facts which make it necessary that he should be a witness in the case.

Second. When, upon the application of a defendant in a felony, it is made to appear to the satisfaction of the court that, from undue excitmenet against the prisoner, in the county where the offense was committed, a fair trial cannot be had, or that there exists in that county so great a prejudice against him that he cannot obtain a fair trial, or that there is a combination of persons against him, by reason of which he cannot obtain a fair trial.

Third. When, upon the trial of any criminal case, an unsuccessful effort has been made to procure and impanel a jury for the trial of the defendant, and it shall be made to appear to the court by the written affidavit of some credible witness that a fair trial cannot be had.

Fourth. When upon the second trial of any felonious homicide, the evidence on the former trial hereof shall have been published within the county in which the same is being tried, and the regular panel of jurors shall be exhausted without obtaining a jury.

Section 510. All applications for change of venue shall be made to the court in which the indictment shall be pending, in such manner as the said court shall direct, and before the jury shall be sworn therein; and if the said court shall ye satisfied of the propriety of such a change of venue, and that the causes assigned therefore are true, and are within the provisions of the law, it shall be ordered that the venue thereof shall be changed to some adjoining or convenient county where the causes alleged for a change do not exist.

Section 511. When an order for a change of venue shall be made, the clerk of the court shall make out a full and complete transcript of the record and proceedings in said cause, and transmit the same, together with the indictment and all the other papers on file, to the clerk of the court to which the venue is changed, which transcript shall be entered on the minutes of said court; and the trial of said case shall be conducted in the court to which it shall be removed in all respects as if the indictment had been found in the county to which the venue is changed, and the costs accruing from a change of venue shall be paid by the county in which the offense was committed.

Section 512. Where the court has ordered a change of venue, it shall require the accused, if the offense is bailable to furnish bail, to be approved by the court or judge, in such sum as the court may direct, conditioned for his appearance in the court to which the venue is changed, at the first day of the next term thereof, and to abide the order of such court; and in default of such bail, or if the offense is not bailable, a warrant shall be issued directed to the sheriff, commanding him to convey safely the prisoner to the jail of the county where he is to be tried, there to be kept safely by the jailor thereof until discharged by due course of law; and the court shall bind the witnesses on the part of the Commonwealth to appear before he court in which the prisoner is to be tried.

Section 513. In addition to the provisions for change of venue hereinbefore stated, if any person within the jurisdiction of any county charged with crime, shall file with the prothonotary of the Superior Court of this Commonwealth a duly verified petition, showing (1) that he is charged with, or has been arrested for, the alleged commission of or participation in some crime, the nature of which shall be set out in his petition; (2) that he has reason to apprehend that because of his race, nationality, or religion, which shall be specifically stated in his petition, the petitioner is likely to be denied the equal protection of other inhabitants of the county, within whose jurisdiction he is; and (3) that some other person or persons of his race, color, nationality, or religion, within the jurisdiction of such county, charged with an offense similar to that with which the petitioner is charged, have been put to death without trial or brutally assaulted or otherwise maltreated, or have been denied trial by due course of law, in the courts of such county, upon similar charges, becase of the race, color, nationality, or religion of such person or persons,—he shall be entitled to and shall receive the protection of all officers of the Commonwealth. The petition, above described, may be verified and filed either by the person in jeopardy, as above described, or by another person in his behalf. Upon the filing of such petition with the prothonotary of such court, it shall be the duty of such prothonotary to issue forthwith, to a member of the State police, a warrant commanding him to bring the body of such petitioner into court for hearing upon such petition.

Section 514. It shall be the duty of such State policeman, upon receipt of such warrant, to arrest and detain the petitioner, and to protect him from assault or injury, and in case such petitioner is in the custody of any officer or person upon a warrant to hold petitioner for protection in any county court for crime, such State policeman shall take such petitioner from such official, receipting to him for the body of the petitioner.

Section 515. When said petitioner shall have been brought into said Superior Court, he shall be entitled to a summary hearing upon his petition before one of the judges thereof; and in case he has been taken from th ecustody of any officer, he shall in event his petition is not sustained, be surrendered by the State policeman to the officer from whom he had been taken, and if he has not been taken from the custody of any officer, he shall, in the event his petition is not sustained, be set at liberty, and the costs of the proceedings shall be taxed against him; in case the petition is sustained by the court, the petitioner shall be remanded to the custody of the Superintendent of State Police for protection, or committed to a proper penal institution, until petitioner may be tried in a court of quarter sessions of the peace or oyer or terminer of some other county, to be selected by the Superior Court. upon such indictment, information, or other charge as may have been or may be made or returned against him, and for the purpose of such trial, such court so selected shall have and possess jurisdiction to try and determine any and all proceedings, upon indictment or information, which may be removed from any other county court under this act.

Section 516. If any person shall become an accessory before the fact, to any felony, whether the same be a felony at common law, or by virtue of any act of assembly now in force or hereafter to be in force, such person may be indicted, tried, convicted and punished in all respects as if he were a principal felon.

Section 517. If any person shall become an accessory after the fact, to any felony, whether the same be a felony at common law, or by virtue of any act of assembly now in force, or that may be hereafter in force, he may be indicted and convicted as an accessory after the fact to the principal felony, together with the principal felon, or after the conviction of the principal felon, or may be indicted and convicted of a substantive felony, whether the principal felon shall or shall not have been previously convicted, or shall or shall not be amenable to justice, and may thereupon be punished in like manner as any accessory after the fact to the same felony, if convicted as an accessory, may be punished; and the offense of such person, howsoever indicted, may be inquired of, tried, determined and punished, by any court which shall have jurisdiction to try the principal felon, in the same manner as if the act by reason of which such person shall have become accessory, had been committed at the same place as the principal felony: Provided always, That no person who shall be once duly tried for any such offense, whether as an accessory after the fact, or as for a substantive felony, shall be liable to be again indicted or tried for the same offense.

Section 518. If a bastard child is begotten out of the State and born within the State, or begotten within one of the counties of this State, and born in another, in the latter case the prosecution of the reputed father shall be in the county where the bastard child shall be born, and the like sentence shall be passed, as if the bastard child had been begotten within the same county, and in the former case, viz: of a bastard begotten without the State and born within it, the like sentence shall be passed, except in the imposition of a fine, which part of the sentence shall be omitted.

ARTICLE VI.— OF THE TRIAL.

Section 601. No person shall be placed within the prisoner's bar to plead to an indictment, or be confined therein during his trial; and all persons shall have an opportunity of full and free communication with their counsel.

Section 602. Every person indicted for treason shall have a copy of the indictment and a list of the jury and the witnesses to be produced on the trial for proving such indictment, mentioning the names and places of abode of such jurors and witnesses, delivered to him three whole days before the trial.

Section 603. No right to stand aside jurors shall exist in any criminal case in this Commonwealth.

The Commonwealth and the defendant shall have the right to challenge for cause as many jurors as either can show legal cause therefor.

In addition to the challenges for cause, the Commonwealth and the defendant shall each be entitled to peremptory challenges as follows:

In all trials for misdemeanors, six challenges.

In all trials for felonies, except those triable exclusively in the courts of oyer and terminer and general jail delivery, eight challenges.

In all trials for felonies triable exclusively in the courts of oyer and terminer and general jail delivery, twenty challenges.

Section 604. All challenges shall be conducted as follows: The Commonwealth shall challenge one person, and then the defendant shall challenge one person, and so alternately until all the challenges shall be made, but in all cases other than those triable exclusively in the courts of oyer and terminer and general jail delivery, the court in which a case is called for trial may by general rule fix a different manner for exercising peremptory challenges in empanelling a jury.

Section 605. When a challenge for cause assigned shall be made in any criminal proceeding the truth of such cause shall be inquired of and determined by the court.

Section 606. In all cases in which two or more persons are jointly indicted for any offense, it shall be in the discretion of the court to try them jointly or severally, except that in cases of felonious homicide, the persons charged shall have the right to demand separate trials; and in all cases of joint trials the accused shall have the right to the same number of preemptory challenges to which either would be entitled if separately tried, and no more.

Section 607. If any person shall be committed for any indictable offense, and shall not be indicted and tried some time in the next term or session of oyer and terminer and general jail delivery or other court, where the offense is properly cognizable, after such committment the judges or justices thereof shall on the last day of the term, sessions or court, set at liberty the said prisoner upon bail, unless it shall appear to them, upon oath or affirmation, that the witnesses for the Commonwealth mentioning their names, could not then be produced; and if such prisoner shall not be indicted and tried the second term, session or court after his commitment, unless the delay happen on the application or with the assent of the defendant, or upon trial he shall be acquitted, he shall be discharged from imprisonment: Provided always, That nothing in this act shall extend to discharge out of prison any person charged with treason, felony or other high misdemeanor in any other State, and who by the Constitution of the United States ought to be delivered up to the executive power of such State, nor any person charged with a breach or violation of the law of nations, and provided further, that where by any law or by rule of court promulgated by authority of any law, the terms of court are of less duration than three months, the word "term" contained in this section shall be construed to mean a period of time of three calendar months.

Section 608. If on the trial of any person charged with any offense it shall appear to the jury upon the evidence that the defendant did not complete the offense charged, but was guilty only of an attempt to commit the same, such person shall not by reason thereof be entitled to be acquitted, but the jury shall be at liberty to return, as their verdict, that the defendant is not guilty of the offense charged, but is such person shall be liable to be punished in the same manner as if he had been convicted upon an idictment for attempting to commit the particular offense charged in the indictment, and no person so tried as herein lastly mentioned shall be liable to be afterward prosecuted for an attempt to commit the offense for which he was so tried.

Section 609. If upon the trial of any person for any misdemeanor, it shall appear that the facts given in evidence amount in law to a felony, such person shall not by reason thereof be entitled to be acquitted of such misdemeanor; and no person tried for such misdemeanor shall be liable to be afterwards prosecuted for felony on the same facts, unless the court before whom such trial may be had shall think fit, in its discretion, to discharge the jury from giving any verdict upon such trial, and direct such person to be indicted for felony, in which case such person may be delt with in all respects as if he had not been put upon his trial for such misdemeanor.

Section 610. No verdict in any criminal court shall be set aside, nor shall any judgment be arrested or reversed, nor sentence delayed, for any defect or error in the precept issued from any court, or in the venire issued for the summoning and returning of jurors, or for any defect or error in drawing, summoning or returning any juror, or panel of jurors, but a trial, or an agreement to try on the merits, or pleading guilty, or the general issue in any case, shall be a waiver of all errors and defects in, or relative or appertaining to, the said precept, venire, drawing, summoning and returning of jurors.

Section 611. No witness in any case who enters his or her recognizance, in such sums as the magistrate may demand, to appear and testify in such prosecution as require his testimony, shall be committed to prison by the judge, alderman or magistrate before whom any criminal charge may be perferred: Provided, however, That in all cases triable exclusively in the oyer terminer, where a positive oath is made, reduced to writing and signed by the deponent, setting forth sufficient reasons or facts to induce the firm belief on the part of the judge, magistrate or alderman that any witness will abscond, elope or refuse to appear upon the trial, the judge, magistrate or alderman may exact bail of said witness to testify.

Section 612. Any witness, in any case, who shall be committed, in default of bail, to prison by any judge, alderman, magistrate, justice of the peace, or coroner, to appear and testify in behalf of the Commonwealth, shall be paid out of the treasury of the proper county and the sum of one dollar and fifty cents for each day, or part of a day, such witness shall be detained in prison.

Section 613. Whenever any person, being under indictment, charged with murder, shall make and file with the clerk of the court of quarter sessions an affidavit, setting forth that he is wholly destitute of means to employ counsel and prepare for a defense, the judge sitting in the court of over and terminer to whom such affidavit is presented, shall assign to such person counsel, not exceeding two, to represent and defend such person at the trial of the case; and when services are rendered by counsel, pursuant to such assignment, the judge sitting at the trial of the case may allow such counsel all personal and incidental expenses upon a sworn statement thereof being filed with the said clerk, and also reasonable compensation for services rendered, not exceeding two hundred dollars for each counsel; which allowance of expenses and compensation shall be a charge upon the county in which the idictment was found, to be paid by the county treasuerr, or in cities co-extensive with counties, by the city treasurer, upon the certificate of the judge presiding at the trial of the case: Provided, That in order to be entitled to such expenses and compensation, counsel so assigned must file with the judge, sitting at the trial of the case, an affidavit that he has not, directly or indirectly, received, nor entered into a contract to receive, any compensaiton for such services from any source other then herein provided.

Section 614. No alien shall in any criminal case whatsoever be entitled to a jury de medietate linquae or partly of strangers.

Section 615. All couts of criminal jurisdiction of this Commonwelath shall be and are hereby authorized and rerequired, when occasion shall render the same necessary to order a tales de circumstantibus either for the grand or petit jury and all talesmen shall be liable to the same challenges, fines and penalties as the principal jurors.

ARTICLE VII.—OF APPEALS AND NEW TRIALS ON THE GROUND OF AFTER-DISCOVERED EVIDENCE.

Section 701. Every person indicted in any Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace or in any county Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery or other court of record having jurisdiction may remove by an appeal the indictment and all proceedings thereon, or transcript thereof, into the Supreme or Superior Court, as the case may be, in accordance with the law now existing or which may hereafter be adopted.

Section 702. Upon the trial of any indictment in any Court of Criminal jurisdiction the defendant may expect to any decision of the court upon any point of evidence or law, or to the charge of the court in like manner as in civil cases and such exceptions shall be noted as in civil cases, and an appeal may be taken to the Supreme or Superior courts as the case may be, after conviction or sentence.

Section 703. During the trial upon any indictment, if the court shall be requested by the defendant to give an opinion upon any point submitted and stated in writing, it shall be the duty of the court to answer the same fully and file the point and answer with the record of the case in the same manner and with like effect as in civil cases and the action of the court thereon may be reviewed on appeal by the defendant.

Section 704. The appeal shall issue from the Prothanatary's office of the proper district, and all orders, decrees and judgments in the case shall also be entered of record there, but the application and final hearing may be made and had before the Supreme or Superior Court while sitting in any other district.

Section 705. All appeals in criminal cases shall be taken within thirty days from date of sentence in the court below.

Section 706. No appeal from the judgment and sentence in any criminal case shall operate as a supersedas unless so ordered by the court below or by the appellate court, or by a judge thereof, either by a general rule or special order, and upon such terms as may be required by the court or judge granting the order of supersedeas.

Section 707. An appeal taken in a criminal case shall be returnable in the Supreme or Superior Court, as the case may be. The return day and time of argument of appeals taken in criminal cases to the Supreme or Superior Court shall be fixed by said courts, respectively, by general rules promulgated from time to time.

Section 708. If the appellant shall file in the office of the Prothonotary of the appellate court and in the office of the Clerk of Courts of the proper county at the time the appeal is taken an affidavit that he is destitute and without sufficient means to print the evidence taken upon the trial of the case, it shall be the duty of the Clerk of Courts to transmit within ten days thereafter to the Prothonotary of the appellate court a true and correct copy of the reporter's transcript of the evidence from the notes taken by him, duly certified by said reporter, and the trial judge, or by one of the judges of the trial court, to the Prothonotary of the Supreme or Superior Court, as the case may be. In any such case it shall be unnecessary for the appellant to print the evidence but he may refer to the said testimony by the page number shown in said transcript.

Section 709. When any person indicted for murder to whom counsel has been assigned hereunder has been convicted of murder in the first degree and such counsel shall deem it necessary to appeal to the Supreme Court, a statement of the costs of such appeal, including the cost of printing the paper book, sworn to by such counsel, shall be filed in the office of the Clerk of the Court of Quarter Sessions of the proper county, and such costs shall be paid by the Treasurer of such county, or where any city is co-extensive with such county, by the Treasurer of such city. Such costs shall not be paid unless such statement be accompanied by a certificate of the trial judge setting forth the fact of such appointment of counsel and the fact that such appeal was taken.

Section 710. In capital offenses an appeal shall stay execution of sentence, and upon such appeal it shall be the duty of the Supreme Court to review both the law and the evidence and to determine whether the ingredients necessary to constitute murder in the first degree shall have been proven to exist, and if not so proved, then shall reverse the judgment and remit the record for a new trial or shall enter such judgment as the laws of this Commonwealth require.

Section 711. Upon the affirmance by the Supreme or Superior Court of the judgment in any case the same shall be enforced pursuant to the directions of the judgment so affirmed, and the said court may make any further order requisite for carrying the same into effect, and if the Supreme or Superior Court shall reverse any judgment they shall remand the record, with their opinion setting forth the causes of reversal, to the proper court for furtheh proceedings or enter such judgment as the law requires.

Section 712. Whenever by petition, supported by after-discovered evidence, it shall be made to appear to the Supreme Court that there is ground for substantial doubt as to the guilt of any prisoner convicted of murder of the first degree, the said court, shall have power to authorize the Court of Oyer and Terminer in which such prisoner has been convicted to grant a rule for new trial, nun pro tunc, notwithstanding the expiration of the term in which such said Court of Oyer and Terminer may, in its discretion, grant and proceed to hear such rule, as in other cases.

Section 713. Upon the termination if the hearing of such rule, if the Court of Oyer and Terminer shall not deem the grounds sufficient, it shall thereupon discharge said rule, and the proceedings shall terminate, and the judgment and sentence theretofore entered of record shall remain unaffected.

Section 714. If said Court of Oyer and Terminer shall be of opinion that, of right and justice, a new trial should be granted, it shall set forth its opinion to that effect, and thereupon the prisoner may bring the opinion, together with the evidence, before the Supreme Court as if upon appeal; and if the Supreme Court shall after hearing, concur with the Court of Oyer and Terminer that of right and justice a new trial should be had, it shall have power to authorize the Court of Oyer and Terminer to make the rule for new trial absolute; and thereupon the case shall proceed in said court as if a new trial had been granted in due course, at the instance of the prisoner during the term.

ARTICLE VIII.—COSTS.

Section 801. Where any person is brought before a justice of the peace or other magistrate on a charge of having committed a crime and such charge upon examination shall appear to be unfounded, no costs shall be charged against or paid by such innocent person, but the same shall be charged against and paid by the county.

Section 802. The costs of prosecution accruing on all bills of indictment, except as hereinafter provided, charging a person with felony, returned ignoramus by the grand jury, shall be paid by the county; and the costs of prosecution accruing on bills of indictment, except as hereinafter provided, charging a person with felony, shall, if such person be acquitted by the petit jury on the traverse of the same, be paid by the county; and in all cases of conviction of any felony, all costs shall be paid forthwith by the county, unless the person convicted shall pay the same; and in all cases in which the county pays the costs, it shall have the power to levy and collect the same from the person convicted, as costs in similar cases are now collected; and in cases of surety of the peae costs shall be paid by the prosecutor or by the defendant, or jointly between them, or by the county, as the court hearing the case may direct.

Section 803. In all prosecutions, cases of felony excepted, if the bill of indictment shall be returned ignoramus, the grand jury returning the same shall decide and certify on such bill whether the county or the prosecutor shall pay the costs of prosecution; and in all cases of acquittal by the petit jury on indictments for the offenses aforesaid, the jury trying the same shall determine by their verdict whether the county, or the prosecutor, or the defendant shall pay the costs, or whether the same shall be apportioned between the prosecutor and the defendant, and in what proportions; and the jury, grand or petit, so determining, in case they direct the prosecutor to pay the costs, or any portion thereof, shall so state in their return or verdict; and whenever the jury shall determine as aforesaid that the prosecutor or defendant shall pay the costs, the court in which the said determination shall be made shall forthwith pass sentence to that effect and order him to be committed to the jail of the county until the costs are paid unless he give security to pay the same within ten days. Upon the termination of any such prosecution by the bill of indictment being ignored by the grand jury or by the verdict of the traverse jury and sentence of the court thereon, the costs of prosecution shall be immediately chargeable to and paid by the proper county: Provided, That the county shall be liable only for the costs of such witnesses as the District Attorney shall certify were subpoenaed by his order and were in attendance and necessary to the trial of the case.

Section 804. In all prosecutions where the petit jury trying the case shall acquit the defendant, and shall determine by the verdict that the costs shall be apportioned between the prosecutor and the defendant, the defendant's bill for his subpoena, serving the same, and attendance of his material and necessary witnesses, shall be included in the costs.

Section 805. In all prosecutions for stealing, if the bill of indictment shall be returned ignoramus by the grand jury, they shall further decide and certify whether the county or the prosecutor shall pay the costs of prosecution, and in all cases of acquittal by the petit jury on such indictments the jury shall have power to determine whether the county or the prosecutor or the defendant shall pay the costs, or whether the same shall be apportioned between the prosecutor and the defendant and in what proportion.

Section 806. In all prosecutions where the charge is that the person accused unlawfully and maliciously maimed or did serious bodily injury or disfigurement to another, or attempted to commit the crime of murder, or committed any assault which under the law constitutes a felony, if the bill of indictment shall be returned ignoramus, the grand jury returning the same, if they believe from the evidence that the prosecutor had no reasonable ground for making the charge of felony, shall decide and certify on such bill whether the prosecutor or the county shall pay the costs of prosecution, and in all cases of acquittal by the petit jury on such indictments where a felony is charged, the jury trying the same, if they shall believe from the evidence that the prosecutor had no reasonable ground for making the charge of felony, shall determine by their verdict whether the county, or the prosecutor, or the defendant shall pay the costs, or whether the same shall be apportioned between the prosecutor and the defendant, and in what proportion.

Section 807. Upon the termination of the prosecution in any of the cases mentioned in Sections 805 and 806, the costs of prosecution shall be immediately chargeable to and paid by the proper county, and the county shall have the right and power to levy and collect the same from the person directed to pay them, as costs in similar cases are now collected.

Section 808. The costs of the trial for escape or breaking away of convicts and prisoners from the several penitentiaries and reformatories of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, or the violation by said convicts and prisoners of any or all of the penal statutes relating to escape, shall in each instance be borne and paid by the respective counties of the Commonwealth from whose courts the said convicts shall have been committed to the said penitentiaries or reformatories. In case of conviction and sentence of said escaping convicts and prisoners the costs of maintenance of said convicts and prisoners, under such new sentence, shall be borne by the county from which said convict or prisoner shall have been originally committed.

Section 809. Where any recognizance has heretofore been or shall hereafter be taken by any competent authority for the appearance of any person or persons, charged with any criminal or other offense, before any court, judge, justice of the peace or other magistrate, to answer such charge or offense, or to appear before any court, judge, justice of the peace or other magistrate for further hearing, and such recognizance shall be forfeited on account of the person or persons so charged failing to comply with the condition therein, and the same shall be recovered in any manner whatsoever and paid to the proper authorities as required by law, the proper county shall pay all costs which have accrued or shall accrue in any criminal action or other proceedings in which such recognizance has heretofore or shall be given: Provided, however, That in no case shall the amount of costs so paid exceed the amount recovered on such recognizance and paid to such county.

Section 810. Whenever a nolle prosequi shall be entered in any criminal proceedings, the court may make an order directing the county to pay the costs already made in such proceeding, and which order shall be sufficient authority for the payment of the same by the county: Provided, That the provisions of this section shall not apply to costs for the attendance or subpoenaeing of defendant's witnesses, nor to any proceeding where the costs could not be charged upon the county by verdict of the jury.

Section 811. Whenever the verdict of a jury imposing costs upon the prosecutor or defendant in any criminal proceeding shall be set aside by the court, it shall be lawful for the court to make an order directing the county to pay the same, which order shall be sufficient authority for the payment of the same by the county: Provided, That the provisions of this section shall not apply to costs for the attendance or subpoenaeing of defendant's witnesses.

Section 812. When the record in any criminal case shall have been removed by writ of certiorari, or otherwise, to the Supreme or Superior Court for review, and shall have been therein disposed of, the necessary expenses of the District Attorney in connection therewith, including the costs of printing, traveling and incidental expenses, shall be paid by the proper county upon the approval of the same by the District Attorney.

Section 813. In all criminal cases where a defendant or prosecutor is adjudged to pay the costs of prosecution, he shall, unless the grand or petit jury direct otherwise, pay, with the other costs of prosecution, the sum of four dollars for the use of the county, to be taxed in the bill of costs.

Section 814. The costs of the officers, including the costs of the justice of the peace and constable, in all cases of wife desertion and surety of the peace, shall be chargeable to and paid by the proper county as soon as the case is disposed of by the order of the court; and it shall be the duty of the District Attorney and County Commissioners to use all due diligence to collect such costs from the party made liable therefor by the sentence or order of the court, and to pay the same into the county treasury.

Section 815. The County Commissioners, upon the order of the Court of Quarter Sessions or other court of record having jurisdiction or in vacation, by a law judge thereof, in the exercise of its or his discretion, and upon such terms as the court or judge may impose, may discharge from prison, without the delay and expense of any proceedings under the insolvent laws of this Commonwealth, every convict who shall have served his term of imprisonment, or who shall have been committed for non-payment of costs only; or any person who shall have failed to comply with the order of the said court upon conviction of either fornication or bastardy or both, and has been confined for a period of more than three months; notwithstanding that such person has not paid the costs of prosecution, fine, made restitution, paid the value of stolen goods or property, or failed to comply with the court's order, or both: Provided, That in the opinion of said commissioners such person is unable to comply with the said order or orders, and, provided, that such discharge shall not prevent the Commonwealth or any person interested in such payment or restitution from recovering the same from the property of such person by proper action; but no such person shall be so discharged until he shall have made, under oath or affirmation, schedules in duplicate of all his property, real, personal or mixed, and shall have filed one copy thereof among the papers of the prison wherein he is confined and the other with the Clerk of the Court.

Section 816. In all cases where two or more persons have committed an indictable offense, the names of all concerned (if a prosecution shall be commenced) shall be contained in one bill of indictment, for which no more costs shall be allowed than if the name of one person only was contained therein.

Section 817. In instituting criminal prosecutions against any person charged with the commission of a criminal offense or offneses, committed at one and the same time, or growing out of one and the same prosecution where one complaint or information is legally sufficient to serve and promote the due administration of justice, it shall be unlawful to duplicate the complaints, informations, warrants and subpoenas, and where such duplication occurs costs shall be taxed upon one complaint, information and subpoena only.

Section 818. In all cases where any matter of general public import shall, as authorized by law, be given in charge to a grand jury for investigation, by any Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace of any county within this Commonwealth, all costs which may accrue for subpoenas, the service thereof upon witnesses, and the per diem fees and mileage of witnesses required by the court to attend or testify before any such grand jury, shall be paid by the proper county, or taxed and paid as other costs on the part of the Commonwealth, in any criminal prosecution which may arise out of such investigation, where the testimony of the witness is material in the support of the charge contained in the indictment therein, as the District Attorney, subject to the approval of the court, may authorize and direct.

Section 819. All necessary expenses incurred by the district attorney of any county of this Commonwealth, or by his assistants, or any officer directed by him, in the investigation of crime and the apprehension and prosecution of persons charged with or suspected of the commission of crime, shall be paid by the county upon the approval of the bill of expense by the district attorney and the court of quarter sessions of the county. Such expenses so incurred and approved shall be considered part of the costs of the case in the event that a prosecution is instituted which results in the conviction and sentence of a defendant to pay the costs.

ARTICLE IX.—SENTENCES AND JUDGMENTS.

Section 901. Every person, his aiders, abettors and counsellors, convicted of the crime of murder of the first degree, shall be sentenced to suffer death in the manner herein provided, and not otherwise. Such punishment, in every case, must be inflicted by causing to pass through the body of the convict a current of electricity of intensity sufficient to cause death, and the application of such current must be continued until such convict is dead. The said punishment shall be inflicted by the warden or deputy warden of the Western Penitentiary, or by such person as the warden shall designate, and shall be inflicted in a building on the land owned by the Commonwealth in Centre County, whereon the bulidings of the Western Penitentiary are built.

Section 902. Whenever any person shall have been convicted and sentenced to death, the clerk of the court where such conviction shall have taken place shall transmit to the Governor of the Commonwealth and to the Board of Pardons a full and complete transcript of the record of such trial and conviction, within thirty days after sentence, or, in the event of an appeal, within twenty days after the final disposal of the cause upon such appeal.

Section 903. After the receipt of the said record the Governor of the Commonwealth shall issue his warrant directed to the warden of the Western Penitentiary commanding said warden to cause such convict to be executed in said penitentiary, within the week to be named in said warrant, and in the manner prescribed by law.

Section 904. Upon the receipt of such warrant the said warden shall, by a written notice under his hand and seal, duly notify the officer having the custody of such convict to deliver such convict to the custody of such warden, and it shall be the duty of such officer to forthwith cause such delivery to be made. Thereupon, and until the penalty of death shall be inflicted, or until lawfully discharged from such custody, said convict shall be kept in solitary confinement in said penitentiary. During such confinement no person except the officers of such penitentiary, the counsel of such convict, and a spiritual adviser selected by such convict, or the members of the immediate family of such convict, shall be allowed access to such convict without an order of said court or a judge thereof.

Section 905. No person except the following shall witness any execution under the provisions of this act—the warden of the penitentiary where such execution takes place, a qualified physician, six reputable adult citizens selected by such warden, one spiritual adviser, when requested and selected by the convict, not more than six duly accredited representatives of the daily newspapers, and such officers of said penitentiary as may be selected by said warden.

Section 906. After such execution the warden of the Western Penitentiary shall certify in writing, under oath or affirmation, to the court of oyer and terminer of the county wherein such convict has been sentenced to death, that such convict was duly executed at the place and in the manner prescribed in this act, and at the time designated in the death warrant of the Governor. Such certificate shall be filed in the office of the clerk of such court.

Section 907. Immediately after execution, a post-mortem examination of the body of the convict shall be made by the physician present at the execution, and his report, in writing, stating the nature of the examination so made by him, shall be annexed to the certificate hereinbefore named and filed therewith. After such post-mortem examination the body, unless claimed by some relative or relatives of the person so executed, shall be delivered to the duly authorized agent of the State Anatomical Board.

Section 908. The cost and expense incident to any such execution and such post-mortem examination shall be paid from the contingent fund of the Western Penitentiary.

Section 909. The Board of Inspectors of the Western Penitentiary shall have power to erect and repair appropriate buildings located at such place on the ground of the new Western Penitentiary, in Centre county, as they shall select and they shall have power to construct and repair in said building such electrical apparatus, machinery and appliances as may be suitable and sufficient to execute condemned criminals in the manner prescribed herein.

Section 910. Whenever any person, convicted in any court of this Commonwealth of any crime, shall be sentenced to imprisonment in any penitentiary of the State, the court, instead of pronouncing upon such convict a definite or fixed term of imprisonment, shall pronounce upon such convict a sentence of imprisonment for an indefinite term; stating in such sentence the minimum and maximum limits thereof; and the maximum limit shall never exceed the maximum time now or hereafter prescribed as a penalty for such offense: Provided, That no person sentenced for an indeterminate term shall be entitled to any benefits of commutation of sentence herein provided for.

Section 911. The clerks of the several courts of criminal jurisdiction of this Commonwealth shall, not later than the twentieth day of each month, forward to the wardens of the State penitentiaries a list of all convicts whom the courts have committed to those institutions on the indeterminate plan the previous month, stating maximum and minimum sentence of each. The following information shall also be added: The full name of the convict, together with any alias which such convict may be known to have, the name of the county where the conviction was had, a brief description of the crime of which the convict was convicted, the name of the trial judge, the date of commitment, and the name of the penitentiary to which committed, the number of times, if any, that the convict has been in prison, the location of the said prison, and for what offenses: Provided, That in every case in which stenographic notes of testimony were taken at the time of the trial, a copy of such notes of testimony shall likewise accompany such record.

Section 912. The Board of Inspectors of each state penitentiary shall meet once each month at its respective penitentiary. At each meeting of the said boards, held as aforesaid, every prisoner confined in such penitentiary upon an indeterminate sentence, whose minimum term of sentence will expire within three months, shall be given an opportunity to appear before such board and apply for his release on parole as hereinafter provided.

Section 913. If it shall appear to the Board of Inspectors of any penitentiary in which a convict is imprisoned, upon an application by a convict for release on parole, that there is a reasonable probability that such applicant will live, and remain at liberty without violating the law, then said Board recommend to the Governor that such convict be released on parole, subject to such rules and regulations for such convict as said board may prescribe, until the expiration of the maximum limit of the sentence imposed on such convict; and shall send to the Governor a report of such convict, which report shall contain the following, namely: The full name of the convict, together with any alias which such convict may be known to have, the name of the county where such conviction was had, a brief history of the crime for which convict was sentenced, the name of the court in which the conviction was had, the name of the judge who sentenced the convict, with the sentence and the date thereof, the date of the reception of the convict, a recommendation as to commutation, together with the date for release from the penitentiary, if allowed.

Section 914. If any convict released on parole shall, during the period of parole, be convicted of any crime punishable by imprisonment under the laws of this Commonwealth, and sentenced to any place of confinement other than a penitentiary, such convict shall, in addition to the penalty imposed for such crime committed during the said period, and after expiration of the same, be compelled, by detainer and remand as for an escape, to serve in the penitentiary to which said convict had been originally committed the remainder of the term (without commutation) which such convict would have been compelled to serve but for the commutation authorizing said parole, and if not in conflict with the terms and conditions of the same as granted by the Governor; but, if sentenced to a penitentiary, then the service of the remainder of the said term originally imposed shall precede the commencement of the term imposed for said crime.

Section 915. In any case where a Board of Prison Inspectors does not recommend the release on parole of a convict at the termination of the minimum term for which such convict may have been sentenced, such board shall report in writing to the Governor its reasons, in details, for not having made such recommendations.

Section 916. Each said Board of Inspectors shall appoint one or more officers, to be known as parole officers, for its respective penitentiary, who shall carefully look after the welfare of all persons who have been paroled from said penitentiary, and report to the said boards, respectively, upon the conduct of such persons, at such times and in such manner as may be required by said boards: Provided, That no convict shall ever be under the charge, management, or supervision of a probation officer of the opposite sex. The salaries of the said parole officers, together with the expenses actually incurred by them in the discharge of their duties, shall be paid out of the apppropriations to the said penitentiary with which they are connected.

Section 917. If it shall appear to the Board of Inspectors of any penitentiary, from which a convict has been released on parole, that there is a reasonable probability that such convict will live and remain at liberty without violating the law, and that it will be to the advantage of such convict that he be released from the terms of his parole, then, upon the application of such convict released upon parole, it shall be the duty of the said board to recommend to the Governor that such convict be pardoned absolutely.

Section 918. Whenever it shall appear to the Board of Inspectors of a penitentiary that a person released on parole has violated the terms of his parole, the secretary of said Board of Inspectors may issue a warrant for the arrest of said person, in the same manner as in the case of an escaped convict. Upon said convict being returned to the penitentiary, he shall be given an opportunity to appear before its Board of Inspectors, and, if said board shall find that said parole has not been broken, the prisoner shall be released and continue subject to the terms of said parole; but, if it be found that said parole has been broken, said board shall declare such convict delinquent; after which a full report of the said case shall be forwarded immediately to the Governor, who thereupon may issue his mandate, reciting the date of commutation, for the recommitment of such convict for breach of parole, to the penitentiary of original commitment, to be imprisoned in said penitentiary for the remainder of a period equal to the unexpired maximum term of such prisoner as originally sentenced (computing the same from the date of arrest for breach of parole), unless sooner released on parole or pardoned; but. if the Governor shall disapprove the finding of the Board of Inspectors, the said prisoner shall be released upon the conditions of his original parole.

Section 919. Authority is hereby conferred upon the Boards of Inspectors of all State penitentiaries to establish all the rules and regulations necessary to carry the provisions of this article into effect: Provided, That no rule or regulation shall be established or adopted relating to the discharge of a convict on parole, who has just served the minimum sentence for his or her first offense, that will compel him to file any bond for the fulfillment of the requirements of his discharge upon parole, other than his own recognizance, or to secure any sponsor for his behavior. To secure uniformity in these rules and regulations, the said boards shall be convened by the Governor, in joint session, from time to time when deemed necessary.

Section 920. Any convict in the State penitentiaries, who is now serving under a sentence or sentences imposed prior to the first day of July, one thousand nine hundred and eleven, may, when he shall have served one-third of such sentence or sentences, be eligible to parole under the provisions and subject to the conditions of this act.

Section 921. Whenever a person shall be sentenced to imprisonment for a period of less than one year the imprisonment shall be had and performed in the jail of the county where the conviction shall take place or in a suitable prison in said county where suitable prisons have been provided for such imprisonment; Provided, however, that where existing laws applying to any county permit the imprisonment of persons there convicted in a suitable prison in some other county of the state, the imprisonment may be there performed if the court shall so direct.

Section 922. All persons sentenced to imprisonment in any penal institution of this Commonwealth may be required to perform such labor as the board of managers or other board or governing body in charge of such penal institution may require under the rules thereof. In the event that such labor is performed in the custody of the Sheriff about county biuldings or upon the ground and property of the county, the County Commissioners are authorized to allow and pay from the moneys of the county to the Sheriff for his services in guarding such prisoners while so employed, compensation not to exceed twenty-five cents per hour.

Section 923. Whenever any person shall be sentenced to imprisonment for a period of one year or more, the sentence shall be either an indeterminate sentence to the penitentiary of the proper district as hereinbefore provided or a definite sentence to a county prison or county workhouse, authorized by law to receive such convict and the court shall have power in the latter case to fix the term of said imprisonment not to exceed the term fixed by statute for said offense; Provided, however, that persons convicted of murder of the second degree and voluntary manslaughter shall not be sentenced to the said county prisons or workhouses.

Section 924. Every convict confined in any county prison, workhouse, or county jail in this state, on a conviction of crime, wheer the term or terms equals or exceeds one year, exclusive of life imprisonment or any term which may be imposed by the court or by statute as an alternative to the payment of a fine, may, if the governor shall so direct, and with the approval of the Board of Inspectors or managers, earn for himself a commutation or dimunition of his sentence or sentences as follows, namely: Two (2) months for the first year, three (3) months for second year, four (4) months each for the third and fourth years, and five (5) months for each subsequent year. And for every fractional part of a year the said convict may earn the same rate of commutation as is provided for the year in which said fractional part occurs; Provided, however, That this section shall not include sentences for an indeterminate term as hereinbefore provided.

Section 925. When any convict in any county prison, workhouse or county jail in this state is held under more than one conviction, the several terms of imprisonment imposed thereunder shall be construed as one continuing term, for the purpose of estimating the amount of commutation to which he may be entitled hereunder.

Section 926. On any day not later than the twentieth day of each month the board of inspectors or managers or the warden, superintendent, or keeper of each of the county prisons, workhouses, or jails of this state, shall forward to the governor a report of any convict or convicts who may be discharged the following month by reason of the commutation of his sentence or sentences, which shall contain the following information, namely: The full name of the convict, together with any alias which he may be known to have: the name of the county where the conviction was had; a brief description of the crime of which the convict was convicted; the name of the court in which the conviction was held; the name of the presiding judge; the date of the sentence; the date of the reception in the prison; the term and fine; the amount of commutation recommended, and the date for discharge from the prison, workhouse or jail, if allowed.

Section 927. The governor shall in commuting the sentences of convicts, annex a condition to the effect that if any convict so cummuted shall, during the period between the date of his discharge by reason of such commutation and the date of the expiration of the full term for which he was sentenced, be convicted of any felony, he shall, in addition to the penalty which may be imposed for such felony committed in the interval, as aforesaid, be compelled to serve in the prison or workhouse in which he may be confined for the felony for which he is convicted, the remainder of the term, without commutation, which he would have been compelled to serve but for the commutation of his sentence hereinbefore provided for.

Section 928. The boards of inspectors or managers of the county prisons, workhouses and county jails in this state shall meet once every month, before the date fixed for the transmission of their report to the governor, as hereinbefore provided, and proceed to determine the amount of commutation which they shall recommend to be allowed to any convict, which shall not in any case exceed the amount fixed by this act. They shall have full discretion to recommend the withholding of the allowance of commutation for good conduct or of a part thereof, as a punishment for offenses against the discipline of the prison, workhouse or county jail, or for any attempt to escape therefrom.

Section 929. In all cases, however, where the board shall recommend the withholding of the allowance of the whole or any part of the commutation for good conduct, they shall forward with their report to the governor their reasons, in writing, for such disallowance, and the governor may, in his discretion, decrease or increase the amount of commutation as recommended by the said board, but he shall not increase the same beyond the amount fixed herein.

Section 930. Upon the receipt of any convict in any prison or county jail in this state, who shall be entitled to the benefits of commutation hereunder, the provisions of the same shall be read to him, and the meaning of the same shall be fully explained to him by the clerk of the prison, workhouse or jail.

Section 931. The Governor shall not, except in cases where only the payment of a fine is imposed as the penalty upon conviction, execute any of the powers herein granted unto him to release on parole from a penitentiary or to grant commutation of sentence in a jail, prison or workhouse until the Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of the Comomnwealth, Attorney General, and the Secretary of Internal Affairs, or any three of them, after full hearing, upon due public notice and in open session, according to such rules as they shall provide, shall have recommended the said commutation of sentences.

Section 932. Whenever any person shall be convicted in any court of this Commonwealth of any crime, except murder, administering poison, kidnapping, incest, sodomy, sedition, pandering, rape, attempted rape, arson, robbery or burglary, and it does not appear to the said court that the defendant has ever before been imprisoned for crime, either in this state or elsewhere (but detention in an institution for juvenile delinquents shall not be considered imprisonment), and where the said court believes that the character of the defendant and the circumstances of the case are such that he is not likely again to engage in an offensive course of conduct, and that the public good does not demand or require that the defendant should suffer the penalty imposed by law, the said court shall have power to suspend the imposing of the sentence and place the defendant on probation for a definite period, on such terms and conditions as it may deem right and proper, said terms and conditions to be duly entered of record as a part of the judgment of the court in such case.

Section 933. In any case where a fine only or the costs of prosecution is imposed, and the defendant might be imprisoned until such fine be paid, the court may direct, as one of the terms of the probation, that such fines shall be paid in certain instalments at certain times: Provided, however, That upon payment of the fine, judgment shall be satisfied and probation cease.

Section 934: Whenever the court may deem it necessary and desirable, it may appoint a discreet person to serve as probation officer, and such assistants to the probation officer as the court may deem necessary, for the performance of such duties as the court shall direct. The salary of such probation officer shall be determined by the court, and together with the necessary expenses incurred while in actual performance of duty, shall be paid by the county, upon vouchers approved by the court and county commissioners. In no case however shall a defendant be committed in the custody of a probation officer of the opposite sex.

Section 935. Whenever a person palced on probation, as aforesaid, shall violate the terms of his probation, he shall be subject to arrest in the same manner as in the case of an escaped convict; and shall be brought before the court prescribed by law, to begin at such time as the court may which released him on probation, which court may thereupon pronounce upon such defendant such sentence as may be direct.

Section 936. Whenever it is the judgment of the court that a person on probation has satisfactorily met the conditions of his probation, the court shall discharye such defendant and cause record thereof to be made: Provided, That the length of such period of probation shall not be more than the maximum term for which the defendant might have been imprisoned.

Section 937. The judges of the courts of quarter sessions and the courts of oyer and terminer or other courts of record having jurisdiction of the several judicial districts of the Commonwealth are authorized, after hearing in open court after notice to the District Attorney ten days in advance thereof, to reelase on parole any convict confined in the county prison, jail, workhouse or house of detention of their respective districts, and place him in charge of and under the supervision of a designated probation officer; and shall have the power to recommit to prison, jail, workhouse or house of detention, on cause shown by such probation officer that such convict has violated his parole, and to reparole if, in the judgment of the said judge, there is a reasonable probability that the convict will be benefited by again according liberty to him; and also to again recommit for violation of such parole. This power shall not extend beyond the limit of the sentence which shall have been first imposed upon the prisoner.

Section 938. Where any person has been or shall be convicted of any felony, not punishable with death, or any misdemeanor punishable with imprisonment, and has endured or shall endure the punishment to which such offender has been or shall be adjudged for the same, the punishment so endured shall have the like effects and consequences as a pardon by the governor, as to the felony or misdemeanor whereof such person was so convicted: Provided, That nothing herein contained, nor the enduring of such punishment, shall prevent or mitigate any punishment to which the offender might otherwise be lawfully sentenced on a subsequent conviction for any other felony or misdemeanor and, that the provisions of this section shall not extend to the case of a person convicted of wilful and corrupt perjury.

Section 939. On all convictions for robbery, burglary or stealing of any goods, chattels, or other property made the subject of stealing by the laws of this Commonwealth or for otherwise unlawfully and fraudulently taking or obtaining the same, or of receiving such goods, chattels or other property, knowing the same to be stolen, the defendant shall, in addition to the punishment heretofore prescribed for such offenses, be adjudged to restore to the owner the property taken, or to pay the value of the same, or so much thereof as may not be restored. And on all convictions on any indictment for forgery, for uttering, publishing or passing any forged or counterfeit coin, bank notes, check or writing, or any indictment for fraudulently, by means of false pretense, obtaining the signature of another to any written instrument with intent to defraud, the defendant, in addition to the punishment hereinbefore prescribed for such offenses, shall be adjudged to make similar restitution, or other compensation, as in case of stealing, to the persons defrauded: Provided, That nothing herein shall be so construed as to prevent the party aggrieved, and to whom restitution is to be awarded, from being a competent witness on the trial of the offender.

Section 940. In all cases of felony it shall and may be lawful for any person injured or aggrieved by such felony, to have and maintain his action against the person or persons guilty of such felony, in like manner as if the offense committed had not been feloniously done; and in no case whatever, shall the action of the party injured, be deemed, taken or adjudged to be merged in the felony, or in any manner affected thereby.

Section 941. The imprisonment awarded as part of the punishment of any offender shall not stop or avoid the awarding or taking out of execution to levy such respective sums recovered against them as such offenders refuse or neglect to pay. Writs of execution may issue in the same form as such writs are now awarded out of the courts of common pleas, and shall be directed to the sheriff or coroner of the proper county requiring him to levy the sums due upon such recoveries as aforesaid of the lands and tenements, goods and chattels, of such offenders, returnable to the next term or session of the court where such conviction was had. It shall be the duty of said sheriff or coroner to execute the said writs in the same manner that writs of execution awarded out of the courts of common pleas are executed, and to sell the lands, goods and chattels levied upon under said writs and to convey the same at any sale held by virtue thereof. Such sales shall be as valid and effectual in law as any other sales of land taken and sold for the payment of debts by virtue of writs of execution awarded out of the courts of common pleas or other courts of record having jurisdiction in the respective counties.

Section 942. In addition to the remedy in the next preceding section provided, any order, sentence, decree or judgment for the payment of any money whatsoever, made or entered by any court of criminal jurisdiction of this Commonwealth, in any matter or thing within the jurisdiction of the said court, may be certified to any court of record of civil jurisdiction of the same county, and be entered and indexed in the said court as a judgment with like force and effect as if the same had been recovered therein as a judgment of the latter court.

Section 943. When said order, sentence, decree or judgment is entered as a judgment in the court of record of civil jurisdiction, aforesaid, the same may be revived by scire facias et quare executionem nom, and be collectible by writs of fieri facias, venditioni exponas to other counties, to sell real and personal estate, and by alias, pluries and such other writs of execution as shall be necessary to collect said judgment, which writs, aforesaid, shall issue in the same manner and be of like force and effect for the sale of personal and real estate as if the said judgment had been originally recorded in the said court, except that the defendant in any such writs shall not be entitled to the benefit of any exemption laws.

Section 944. When any person shall have been convicted of fornication and bastardy, and sentenced by any court of competent jurisdiction to pay to the mother of any bastard child any sum or sums of money for the support of such child, it shall be lawful for the mother of such child to file, in a court of record of civil jurisdiction of the county in which such conviction shall have been had, a copy of such sentence, certified by the clerks of the proper court and under the seal thereof; upon which copy, so filed, the prothonotary of the court of record of civil jurisdiction shall enter judgment in favor of the mother and against the defendant, for the full amount of the said sentence, payable in the instalments therein provided, with interest thereon from the time they shall respectively become due, and costs of suit.

Section 945. If default be made in the payment of any such instalments, and continue for five days, a writ of fieri facias may issue for the collection of all past due instalments, and no exemption of property from levy and sale shall be allowed.

Section 946. In addition to the writ of fieri facias, above provided, an attachment execution may be issued, and in addition to such rights and credits as are now attachable, wages and salaries may also be attached thereon, and no exemption of any money, rights or credits attached thereby shall be allowed.

Section 947. The said writs, either or both, may be issued as often as default occurs, until the whole judgment be paid and the defendant shall be liable for all costs on any of said writs when properly issued.

Section 948. Whenever in any proceedings brought against any man, wherein it is charged that he has, without reasonable cause, separated himself from his wife or children, or from both, or has neglected to maintain his wife or children; or in any proceedings where any father of an illegitimate child has neglected to comply with the order of court made against him, in fornication and bastardy proceedings, or in any other proceedings for the support of such child, for the payment to the mother of expenses incurred at the birth of the child; or in any proceedings where any child of full age has neglected or shall neglect to maintain his or her parents not able to work or of sufficient ability to maintain themselves—the court having jurisdiction shall commit the defendant to imprisonment, for want of a bond with security; or, otherwise, the court may order the defendant to be imprisoned at hard labor under existing laws, or laws that may hereafter be passed, in such penal or reformatory institution in this Commonwealth as the court shall direct; or the court may discharge a defendant upon his own recognizance, in custody of a desertion probation officer or other person, subject to such conditions as the court may, in its discretion, impose.

Whenever any defendant shall be ordered to be imprisoned at hard labor, there shall be paid by the official in charge of the penal or reformatory institution in which such defendant is imprisoned, to the person designated in the order of the court as the proper recipient of such money, to be disbursed by the said recipient as the order of the court may direct, the sum of sixty-five cents for each day, Sundays and legal holidays only excepted, during which he remains imprisoned. Such sum shall be paid as wages and shall be paid at such times and in such manner as other wages are paid by cities and counties, and shall be charged as one of the general running expenses of such institution; and, if the labor done in such institution is not sufficient to pay the running expenses of such institution such sum shall be charged to and paid by the county from which such defendant was committed.

Section 949. If the defendant in any such proceeding shall violate the terms of the order of the court, the court may issue an attachment upon the petition of such defendant's parent, wife, child, or children, or of any other person or persons having knowledge of the facts.

In case of the forfeiture of a bail-bond in any such proceedings, the court may order that any sum collected, by suit or otherwise, shall be paid, in whole or in part, to such parent, wife, child, or children. In case of the forfeiture of any bond or recognizance with or without surety, given as security under any order of court, any sum collected thereon, by suit or otherwise, shall be paid to such parent, wife, child, or children. Such payment shall not bar or in any way affect the power of the court to enforce its orders against the defendant by attachment or otherwise.

Section 950. In prosecutions under Section 192 of the Penal Code of 1925 where before the trial, with the consent of the defendant indorsed on the bill of indictment, as now provided by law, or at the trial on entry of a plea of guilty, or after conviction, instead of imposing the fine therein provided, or in addition thereto, the court in its discretion, having regard to the circumstances and to the financial ability and earning capacity of the defendant, shall have the power to make an order, which shall be subject to change by the court, from time to time, as circumstances may require, directing the defendant to pay a certain sum periodically, for such time and to such person as the court may direct; and the court shall have the power to suspend the sentence herein provided, and release the defendant from custody on probation, in manner provided by "An act for relief of wives and children deserted by their husbands and fathers within this Commonwealth," approved the thirteenth day of April, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-seven, and the supplements thereto; provided that the defendant has entered into a recognizance, in such sum, with or without surety, as the court shall direct, for compliance with such order.

Section 951. Whenever a parent is paying for the support of a child, under an order of court made in any other proceeding, civil, criminal, or quasi-criminal, said parent shall not be subject to proceeding for support for the same child hereunder. Provided, however, That if said parent, as defendant in such other proceedings, has failed to obey such order of court, said parent shall be subject to all the provisions hereof.

Section 952. All fines imposed upon any party, by any court of criminal jurisdiction, shall be decreed to be paid to the Commonwealth; but the same shall be collected and received, for the use of the respective counties in which such fines shall have been imposed as aforesaid, as is now directed by law.

Section 953. It shall be the duty of the wardens or keepers of the state penitentiaries of this Commonwealth to receive into the prison under their charge, on the order or warrant of the governor, any person convicted of any crime punishable with death, whose sentence shall have been commuted by the governor, on condition of being confined for life in one of the state penitentiaries, and to keep and confine such persons safely, as is by law provided for the keeping and confinement of convicts sentenced to imprisonment in the penitentiaries of this Commonwealth, and subject to the laws and regulations providing therefor; and it shall be the duty of the sheriff of the county in which such person was condemned, on the receipt of such order or warrant of the governor, to immediately convey such person to the state penitentiary at the cost of such county and deliver said order or warrant to the warden or keeper of said penitentiary: Provided, That the persons convicted in any of the counties composing the eastern district, and whose sentences may be commuted, shall be confined in the state penitentiary of said district, and those convicted in any of the counties composing the western district, and whose sentences may be commuted, shall be confined in the state penitentiary of said district.

Section 954. Whenever any person, duly convicted of crime in the Commonwealth, has been or shall be sentenced under the provisions of a law declared unconstitutional, the court declaring said law unconstitutional shall not discharge said convict; but shall remand said convict to the court before which said convict was tried, for sentence under the provisions of the law in force at the time of the commission of the crime of which said convict stands convicted.

Section 955. The court of quarter sessions of the county wherein any penitentiary, prison, workhouse, house of correction, or any other institution for adult prisoners is located is hereby authorized and empowered, and shall, upon petition being presented to it by the board of inspectors, if there be such a board, otherwise the superintendent or official in charge of such penitentiary, prison, workhouse, house of correction, or other institution for adult prisoners cannot, by reason of overcrowded condition or other existing conditions, furnish proper and sufficient accommodations for the care, custody, control, and saftey of the inmates thereof, and that it is requested that a certain number of inmates, set forth in such petition, should be transferred therefrom, to make an order authorizing and directing the said board of inspectors, if there be such board, otherwise the superintendent or official in charge, to transfer to another prison, penitentiary, workhouse, house of correction, or other institution for adult prisoners such person or persons who the board of inspectors, if there be such board, otherwise the superintendent or official in charge, shall specify and designate. Said petition for transfer shall in all cases designate the penitentiary, prison, house of correction, workhouse, or other institution for adult prisoners, within the county, to which the said prisoner is to be transferred, save in such cases where such county shall not have sufficient accommodation for the care, custody, and control of such prisoners, in which event said petition for transfer shall specify the institution in the county nearest to the county in which the prisoner is confined; and in the event of the overcrowded condition or other existing condition of such penitentiary, prison, workhouse, house of correction or other institution for adult prisoners be remedied so that it shall again be able to furnish proper and sufficient accommodations for the care, custody, control, and safety of inmates thereof, said court of quarter sessions of the county wherein the said penitentiary, prison, workhouse, house of correction, or other institution for adult prisoners is located is hereby authorized and empowered, upon petition being presented to it by the said board of inspectors, if there be such board, or by the superintendent or other official in charge, to retransfer to said penitentiary, prison, workhouse, house of correction or other institution for adult prisoners any or all inmates heretofore transferred under the terms of this act.

Section 956. That said petition shall set forth the names of the persons whom the said board of inspectors, if there be such board, otherwise the superintendent or official in charge, deem it advisable to transfer, the date of their commitment, and the term for which they were sentenced, and shall further set forth the reasons for which authority is desired to transfer or retransfer the persons therein named. A copy of such petition shall be sent, by registered mail, to the county commissioners of the county from which the prisoner was committed as well as the county commissioners of the county to which the prisoner is transferred or retransferred.

Section 957. That it shall be the duty of the warden, sheriff, superintendent, board of managers, or board of inspectors of such institution to which transfer or retransfer is desired to be made to accept and receive the person or persons named in said order of the court to be transferred, and thereafter, in safe custody, to keep and provide for such persons, transferred or retransferred, until the expiration of the term of imprisonment as set forth in the said commitment, in accordance with law.

Section 958. Such person or persons as may be so transferred or retransferred shall be subject to the same term of imprisonment as that imposed upon them at the time of sentence under law, as attached to sentence at the time the same was imposed, either as to parole or as to commutation of good behavior. The expense of transferring, retransferring, and keeping such prisoners so transferred or retransferred shall continue to be borne by the county in which such person was convicted, and the same shall be paid to the authorities having charge of the transferred or retransferred prisoner by the said county from time to time as bills are rendered.

Section 959. It shall be the duty of the warden or keeper of the prison or institution to which a prisoner is transferred or retransferred immediately, upon such transfer or retransfer, to give notice, in writing, of the transfer or retransfer, to the county commissioners of the county in which the prisoner was sentenced and to the clerk of the courts which sentenced the prisoner, who shall file and enter the same of record.

Section 960. If any person convicted under Section 74 of the Penal Code of 1925 be a prostitute, the imprisonment there provided may, at the discretion of the Court, be by commitment to and confinement in a public or private institution in this Commonwealth adapted to the proper control of prostitutes, approved by the State Department of Health and State Department of Public Welfare. In no case shall the person convicted be committed to a religious institution other than of her own faith, if any faith is professed by her. All institutions accepting persons for commitment under the provisions of this section shall, at all times, be open to State inspection as far as the welfare of the persons so committed is concerned.

ARTICLE X.—GENERAL PROVISIONS.

Section 1001. In every case in which it shall be given in evidence on the trial of any person charged with any offense that such person was insane at the time of the commission of such offense, and he shall be acquitted, the jury shall be required to find specially whether such person was insane at the time of the commission of such offense, and to declare whether he was acquitted by them on the ground of such insanity; and if they shall so find and declare, the court or judge before whom such person is tried shall have the power to order him to be kept in strict custody in a hospital for mental diseases in the manner provided in the Act of July 11, 1923, P. L. 998, called the "Mental Health Act of One Thousand Nine Hundred and Twenty-three," and shall be subject to all the provisions of said act.

Section 1002. When any person indicted for an offense is called upon to plead or appears before the Court for trial, and it shall appear to the Court that such person is insane or in such condition so to make it necessary that he be observed or cared for in a hospital for mental diseases, proceedings for the commitment of such person to such hospital shall be had in the manner provided for in Sections 303, 304 or 307 of the Act of July 11, 1923, P. L. 998, called the "Mental Health Act of One Thousand Nine Hundred and Twenty-three" upon the application of some person to be designated by the Court, and after said commitment such person shall be subject to all the provisions of said Mental Health Act of One Thousand Nnine Hundred and Twenty-three.

Section 1003. The expense of an examination, including the fees of physicians and commissioners and all costs incident to such commitment and maintenance, shall be paid by the county wherein the indictment was found.

Section 1004. Insane prisoners, whether detained in prison awaiting trial or undergoing sentence, or detained for any other reason, may be removed to hispitals in the manner provided and under the terms and conditions set forth in Section 308, Article III, of the Act of July 11, 1923, P. L. 998, called "Mental Health Act of One Thousand Nine Hundred and Twenty-three," and subject to all the other provisions if said act applicable to them.

Section 1005. In every case in which any person charged with any offense shall be brought before the Court to be discharged for want of prosecution and it shall appear to the Court that such person is insane or in such condition as to make it necessary that he be observed or cared for in a hospital for mental diseases, proceedings for the commitment of such person to such hospital shall be had in the manner provided for in Section 307 or Section 303 of the Act of July 11, 1923, P. L. 998, called the "Mental Health Act of One Thousand Nine Sundred and Twenty-three," and all the provisions of said act relating to his confinement and discharge shall be applicable to him.

Section 1006. The estate and efforts of every such insane person shall, in all cases, be liable to the county for the reimbursement of all costs and expenses paid by such county in pursuance of such order; but if any person acquitted on the grounds of insanity shall have no estate or effects, the county shall be liable for all costs and expenses as aforesaid, in accordance with the Mental Health Act of One Thousand Nine Hundred and Twenty-three, with the right to recover such expenses from the estate of such person or from the person liable for his support.

Section 1007. All prices of outlawry is hereby abolished in the State of Pennsylvania.

Section 1008. All indictments which shall hereafter be brought or exhibited for any crime or misdemeanor, murder and voluntary manslaughter excepted, shall be brought or exhibited within the time and limitation hereafter expressed, and not thereafter, that is to say:

All indictments and prosecutions for treason, arson, sodomy, robbery, burglary, perjury, counterfeiting, forgery, uttering or publishing any banknote, check or draft, knowing same to be counterfeited or forged, shall be brought or exhibited within five years next after the offense shall have been committed, and all indictments and prosecutions for other felonies not named or excepted heretofore in this section, and for all misdemeanors, shall be brought or exhibited within two years next after such felony or misdemeanor shall have been committed: Provided, however, That indictments for crimes committed by any officer, director, receiver, superintendent, manager, broker, attorney, agent, employee or member of any bank, body corporate, public company, municipal or quasi municipal corporation, in their capacity as such, may be commenced and prosecuted at any time within four years from the time the alleged crime shall have been committed, and all indictments for crimes committed by administrators, executors, guardians and trustees as such, may be brought or exhibited at any time within five years from the final decree of the Court adjudicating the final accounts of said fiduciaries; and provided further, That if the person against whom such indictment shall be brought or exhibited shall not have been an inhabitant of this state or usual resident therein within said respective terms for which he shall be subjected and liable to prosecution, as aforesaid, then such indictment may be brought as exhibited against such person at any period within a similar space of time during which he shall be an inhabitant of, or usual resident within, this state.

Section 1009. Proceedings against the parent of a bastard child brought under Section 192 of the Penal Code of 1925 may be instituted upon complaint made, under oath or affirmation. All such proceedings must be brought within two years of the birth of the child: Provided, however, That when the reputed father shall have voluntarily contributed to the support of the child, or shall have acknowledged in writing his paternity, then a prosecution therefor may be brought within two years of any such contribution or acknowledgment by the reputed father.

Section 1010. The unconstitutionality of any section or sections of this act shall not affect the validity of any other sections of the act or of the act as a whole.

Section 1011. This act may be cited as the Criminal Procedure Act of 1925.

Section 1012. In this act and in any indictment for any offense provided against in this act, the following terms shall be construed as defined in this section except where a different intent is plainly declared in the provision to be construed, or is plainly apparent from the context thereof:

L. 788, entitled "An Act to amend the tenth and fourteenth sections of an Act, entitled 'An Act authorizing the release on probation of certain convicts, instead of imposing sentences; the appointment of probation and parole officers, and the payment of their salaries and expenses; regulating the manner of sentencing convicts in certain cases, and providing for their release on parole, their conviction of crime during parole; and their rearrest and reconviction for breach of parole; and extending the powers and duties of boards of prison inspectors of penitentiaries,' approved the nineteenth day of June, Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred eleven; so that a convict, sentenced to a penitentiary for a crime committed during his period of parole, shall begin to serve the said sentence after having first served the remainder of the term which such convict would have been compelled to serve but for the commutation authorizing said parole; and so that a convict, violating his or her parole, may be arrested and confined by authority of the Board of Inspectors of the penitentiary from which such convict shall have been released on parole; and investigation and report upon said case made by said board, before the Governor shall issue his mandate for the recommitment of such convict."

Act of May 24, 1917, P. L. 268, entitled "An Act to increase the powers of courts in proceedings for desertion and non-support of wives, children, or aged parents; and in proceedings for failure to comply with orders of court in fornication and bastardy proceedings, or other proceedings for the support of illegitimate children; directing that imprisonment, in such cases, be at hard labor in such institution as the court shall bane; providing for the payment by such institution, or, in certain cases, by the county from which the defendant was committed, of the sum of sixty-five cents per day, to be paid to the person designated by the order of the court; providing for the issuance of attachments, and for the disbursement of moneys collected on forfeiture of bonds, bail-bonds, or recognizances; and providing for the payment by the county of the expenses incident to carrying out this act."

Sections 2, 4 and 5 of the Act of July 11, 1917, P. L. 773, entitled "An Act making it a misdemeanor for a parent wilfully to neglect to support a child born out of wedlock, whether such child shall have been begotten or shall have been born within or without this Commonwealth; providing punishment therefor, and empowering the court to make an order for support, and to enforce the same. And declaring persons making false statements, in certain cases, guilty of perjury."

Act of May 1, 1919, P. L. 102, entitled "An Act providing for a cash deposit in lieu of bail in cases of arrest, and prescribing the fees of the sheriff in case of forfeiture," in so far as the same relates to bail in criminal cases.

Act of May 27, 1919, P. L. 306, entitled "An Act relating peace, and magistrates, in cases of assault and assault and battery, and providing for the assessment of costs in such cases upon the prosecutor, defendant, or county, and the commitment of the prosecutor or defendant in case of default."

Act of June 21, 1919, P. L. 569, entitled "An Act to amend the third section of an Act, entitled 'An Act authorizing the release on probation of certain convicts, instead of imposing sentences; the appointment of probation and parole officers, and the payment of their salaries and expenses; regulating the manner of sentencing convicts in certain cases, and providing for their release on parole; their conviction of crime during parole, and their rearrest and reconviction for breach of parole; and extending the powers and duties of boards of prison inspectors of penitentiaries,' approved the nineteenth day of June, Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and eleven, to empower the court to appoint assistants to the probation officer."

Act of July 21, 1919, P. L. 1075, entitled "An Act to amend an act, approved the eleventh day of July, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, entitled 'An act making it a misdemeanor for a parent wilfully to neglect to support a child born out of lawful wedlock, whether such child shall have been begotten or shall have been born within or without this Commonwealth; providing punishment therefor, and empowering the court to make an order for support and to enforce the same. And declaring persons making false statements, in certain cases, guilty of perjury."

Act of April 7, 1921, P. L. 118, entitled "An Act providing for the depositing of money with magistrates, justices of the peace, and aldermen in lieu of bail or recognizances with surety or sureties in criminal prosecutions desertion and non-support, and surety of the peace."

Act of May 12, 1921, P. L. 548, entitled "An Act providing for the depositing of money with the clerk of the several courts of quarter sessions and oyer and terminer or other courts of record having jurisdiction in this Commonwealth, in lieu of bail and recognizances with surety or sureties, in criminal or quasi criminal prosecutions, desertion, or non-support and surety of the peace cases, pending in said courts, and fixing the fees of the said clerk of the courts."

Sections 2, 3 and 4 of the Act of May 19, 1923, P. L. 283, entitled "An Act to assure to persons within the jurisdiction of every county the equal protection of the laws, by providing for their removal from the county and their trial in certain criminal cases by a court of quarter sessions of the peace or oyer and terminer of another county; imposing penalties upon the counties and officers thereof for failure to provide proper protection, and upon individuals for interfering with or obstructing the carrying out of the provisions of this act; and imposing certain duties upon the Superior Court."

Act of June 29, 1923, P. L. 973, entitled "An Act providing for the payment by counties of expenses incurred by the district attorney, and making such expenses a part of the costs of the case where the defendant is convicted."

The Act of June 29, 1923, P. L. 975, entitled "An Act to amend Section 6 of the Act approved the 19th day of June, one thousand nine hundred and eleven (Pamphlet Laws 1055), entitled 'An Act authorizing the release on probation of certain convicts instead of imposing sentences, the amount of probation and parole officers and the payment of their salaries and expenses; regulating the manner of sentencing convicts in certain cases, and providing for their release on parole; their conviction of crime during parole, and their re-arrest and re-conviction for breach of parole, and extending the powers and duties of boards of prison inspectors of penitentiaries.' "

Section 3 of the Act of June 30, 1923, P. L. 982, entitled "An Act for the repression of prostitution and assignation; making it unlawful to solicit, aid, or permit prostitution, or to use or permit the use of any place for the purpose of prostitution or assignation; making certain evidence admissible in proceedings under this act; authorizing the commitment of prostitutes to private institutions; providing for their parole; and prescribing penalties."

Act of July 11, 1923, P. L. 1044, entitled "An Act to authorize the transfer and retransfer of person or persons confined in any penitentiary, prison, workhouse, house of correction, or any other institution for adult prisoners, under sentence of law, to some other prison, penitentiary, workhouse, house of correction, or other institution for adult prisoners."

The Acts of Assembly and parts thereof hereinbefore repealed shall be and the same are hereby continued in force and effect, anything to the contrary notwithstanding, as to all crimes and offenses committed before this Act: Provided, That all suits, indictments and prosecutions for such crimes and offenses shall be brought within a time limited or prescribed by this Act and nothing in this Act shall alter or affect the validity of any prosecution heretofore commenced or any indictment heretofore found, or alter the procedure therein or the punishment therefor.

Nothing herein contained shall repeal, alter or affect any act or acts empowering courts to sentence to the Huntingdon Reformatory as now provided by law, or any other act or acts relating to said institution.

Nothing in this Act contained shall alter or repeal any of the laws of this Commonwealth relating to the trial, conviction, detention, sentence and punishment of juvenile delinquents.

Nothing in this Act contained shall alter or repeal the Act of June 12, 1913, P. L. 711, entitled "An Act establishing a court for the County of Philadelphia; prescribing its jurisdiction and powers; providing for the service of its writs, process, or warrants by the proper officers of the county or city of Philadelphia; regulating the procedure therein, and appeals therefrom, and providing for the expenses thereof," or any of its supplements or amendments, or alter the jurisdiction of said court.

Nothing in this Act contained shall be held to repeal or alter any local and special acts relating to any counties of the State empowering justice of the peace to accept pleas of guilty or to try offenses by a jury where such acts so provide.

CODE OF CRIMINAL LAW

REPORT.

To the Honorable, the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly Met:

A Commission was appointed under the joint resolution of July 25, 1917, to revise, collate and digest all acts and statutes relating to or touching the penal laws of the Commonwealth; to collect and reduce into one all acts and statutes, and parts of acts and statutes, relating to or touching the penal laws of the Commonwealth; to suggest to the Legislature any contradictions or ommissions, defects or imperfections that may appear in the acts and statutes to be revised and the mode in which the same may be reconciled, supplied, improved or amended; to designate such acts or statutes as ought to be repealed, and to prepare and submit to the Legislature new acts or statutes as such repeal may render advisable or necessary and generally to execute the trust confided to them in such a manner as to render the Penal Code of Pennsylvania more efficient, clear and perfect, and the punishments inflicted on crimes and misdemeanors more uniform and better adapted to the suppression of crimes and the reformation of the offender, and to report the result of their labors to the Legislature on or before the first day of January, 1919. A resolution of June 23, 1919, continued the said Commission and directed it to continue its labors and to make final and complete report to the General Assembly of 1921. The Commission submitted its report in 1921, as directed. A resolution of May 27, 1921, continued the Commission for two years, and authorized it to revise, collate and digest all the acts and parts of acts relating to criminal procedure. The Commission submitted its report to the General Assembly, in 1923. A resolution of June 14, 1923, continued the Commission for two years, provided for the appointment of two additional members, and directed it to report to the General Assembly of 1925. The Commission respectfully submit the result of their labors to the consideration of the Legislature.

The Commissioners submit herewith, as embracing the object contemplated by the Legislature, in its resolution of July 25, 1917, a bill entitled "An act to consolidate, revise and amend the penal laws of the Commonwealth." A bill to consolidate, revise and amend the criminal procedure will be submitted in a separate pamphlet.

The Legislative resolution instructs the Commission, in its report on the penal laws, "to arrange the same systematically under proper titles, divisions and sections." The Commission has adopted in the main the existing excellent classification made in the Act of 1860, March 31, commonly known as the Penal Code of Pennsylvania. By preserving this classification, the Legislature will be enabled to judge readily the defects and inadequacies of the existing laws and to note the changes the Commission has made therein and such new provisions as are submitted.

The resolutions of the Legislature require that in any proposed change in the phraseology thereof the said change shall be clearly and distinctly set forth, together with the acts or statutes proposed to be altered or amended. In performance of this duty, the Commission has followed the plan adopted by the Commission of 1860 under a similar resolution, by submitting with the bill a commentary. This commentary will show, as to each section of the bill, whether such section is merely a re-enactment, with verbal changes, a partial amendment, a modification of existing law or an entirely new provision. As the proposed act contains more than thre hundred sections and embraces practically all the penal legislation of the Commonwealth since 1860, including the penal code of 1860, any other method would be impracticable. It would manifestly serve no useful purpose to reprint the whole penal legislation of the State which the proposed act supplants.

Before taking up the specific provisions of the proposed act, certain general observations may be made on the bill as a whole. In our penal legislation generally the principle has been followed of prescribing only a maximum punishment. In a few isolated cases the Legislature has introduced a minimum punishment requiring the judge on conviction, no matter what the extenuating circumstances may be, to impose the punishment provided. In the proposed act, the general principle has been followed, and maximum punishments only are provided. This is in accordance not only with the great mass of the penal legislation in our own State but also in accordance with the more scientifically drawn codes of other States. It must often be that the technical provisions of a law have been violated when no real guilt attaches to the offender. In such cases the minimum penalty should be left to the discretion of the trial judge.

The resolutions creating the Commission provide that it shall be the duty of the Commissioners to collect and reduce into one act all acts and statutes relating to or touching the penal laws of the Commonwealth. In the execution of this part of the resolutions, the Commission has omitted from the proposed bill those occasional acts which are special in their nature, such as acts applying only to certain counties or boroughs, or to certain rivers in the Commonwealth, and has confined itself to those acts only which are of general application over the whole State. It is conceived that special acts have no place in a general penal code. Another class of acts having penal provisions which the Commission has left untouched are acts which form a system in themselves. Such acts are the game laws, the election laws, banking laws, automobile laws, factory and factory inspection laws, etc. Though these laws sometimes contain penal provisions, it would only cause confusion to extract the penal section from its context, and place it in the penal code. Furthermore, such inclusion in the penal code would frequently require the inclusion also of many sections not penal, and sometimes the inclusion of the whole act, since such penal provisions frequently provide merely that any one violating any of the provisions of the said act shall be punished, etc. The resolutions of 1917 do not seem to the Commission to embrace such laws. However, as frequently happens, where such laws contain provisions properly belonging in a penal code, as for example, where an act provides for the making of affidavits, and declares that any one swearing falsely shall be punished, or where an act relating to partnerships provides for embezzlement by partners, such sections have been incorporated in the proposed act, either by special or general provisions.

In the Code of 1860, and in the penal legislation of the State since that time, while the usual punishment for offenses is fine and imprisonment, or fine or imprisonment, the different sections of the Code and the different acts show no definite relation between these two penalties; in some acts the term of imprisonment prescribed in five years and the fine is $2000, while in others the penalty is three years and the fine $5000. In the proposed act the Commission has adopted a definite relation between fine and the imprisonment, so that all crimes which are punishable with the same number of years of imprisonment will be likewise punished by the same amount of fine.

In the Code of 1860, and in the subsequent penal legislation, no general principle has been followed differentiating felonies and misdemeanors. Some offenses are made felonies while other offenses more severely punished are called misdemeanors. In the proposed act, a definite principle has been followed. All crimes which are punished by a maximum penalty of five or more years are made felonies; all offenses to which a lesser term of imprisonment is attached are made misdemeanors.

In the existing criminal law of the Commonwealth, the attempt to commit certain crimes is punished with the same punishment as the commission of the crime itself. In the cases of other crimes, no punishment is provided for the attempt. The proposed act includes a general section on attempts, covering cases of attempt to commit any crime; as well as a general section on conspiracy and one on solicitation to commit a crime.

With these preliminary observations, the Commission proceeds to note specifically the changes in existing law effected by the proposed act.

TITLE I.—OFFENDERS AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT OF THE COMMONWEALTH.

Section 1 replaces Section 1 of the Code of 1860. It is an adaption of Section 1 of the Code of 1860 and Section 1 of the Federal Penal Code of 1909. It omits the requirement that the accused owe allegiance to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. The penalty is increased from a maximum of twelve years to life imprisonment.

Section 2 replaces Section 2 of the Code of 1860. It adds the "District Attorney" to the persons who may be informed of the commission of treason, and omits the proviso contained in Section 2. The penalty as to the fine is increased from $1000 to $3000.

Section 3 is new.

Section 4 replaces the Act of 1919, June 26, P. L. 639, and the amending Act of 1921, May 10, P. L. 435, omitting (d) and (e) of the Act of 1919 and 1921. The penalty is the same.

Section 5 replaces the Act of 1897, April 29, P. L. 34. The penalty of one year is added.

Section 6 replaces the Act of 1907, May 23, P. L. 225. It is an adaption of the proposed act of the American Bar Association. The crime is made a misdemeanor instead of a felony, and the fine is reduced from $500 to $200.

Section 7 replaces and re-enacts part of Section 48 of the Code of 1860; part of Sections 1 and 2, Act of 1874, April 29, P. L. 115; Section 2, Act 1901, May 2, P. L. 120, and Section 8, Act 1919, May 27, P. L. 310. This section extends the provisions of the above acts to the bribing of other public officers. The penalty is different in various existing acts which this section supplies.

Section 8 is a re-enactment of that part of Section 48 of the Code of 1860 which relates to the acceptance of bribes by legislators and officers; Section 8, Act 1874, May 23, P. L. 230; Section 8, Act 1889, May 23, P. L. 277. It adds thereto the taking or soliciting of bribes by councilmen and burgesses as provided for in Section 1, Act 1901, May 2, P. L. 120; Section 7, Act 1919, June 20, P. L. 310. The remainder of Section 48 of the Code of 1860 is re-enacted in Sections 30 and 31 of the proposed act. The penalties in the existing acts are different. The proposed section makes the crime a felony.

Section 9 re-enacts Section 51 of the Code of 1860, and broadens that section to cover threats of dismissal from office, employment, etc.

Section 10 re-enacts Section 50 of the Code of 1860. It broadens that section to cover soliciting a bribe. The penalty is increased from six months to one year, and the fine from $100 to $500.

Section 11 re-enacts the provisions of Section 1, Act 1872, March 14, P. L. 25. It broadens the said act to include the Legislature as well as committees and to cover a refusal or neglect to produce books and papers. The imprisonment is increased from 6 months to 1 year and the fine reduced from $1000 to $500.

TITLE II.—OFFENSES AGAINST PUBLIC JUSTICE AND ADMINISTRATION.

Section 12 replaces Section 127, Code 1860, and broadens it to cover conspiring to falsely arrest. It increases the penalty from three years and $1000 to five years and $2000, and makes the offense a felony instead of a misdemeanor.

Section 13 replaces Section 3 of the Code of 1860. It clears the ambiguities in said Section 3, and broadens it to provide for escape from custody not provided for in said Section 3. It provides one penalty in all cases of escape.

Section 14 re-enacts Section 2, Act 1911, May 11, P. L. 274, which it broadens to include the furnishing of weapons to prisoners who are not convicts. The penalty is increased from $1000 to $2000.

Section 15 supplies Section 5 of the Code of 1860, and Section 12 of the Act of 1923, May 19, P. L. 283. The penalty is different in the two acts.

Section 16 supplies Section 6 of the Code of 1860. It broadens Section 6 to cover not only escapes due to gross negligence, but to escapes due to a failure to perform any duty and includes not only the escape of a person in custody under a criminal charge, but the escape of any person in lawful custody.

Section 17 replaces Section 7 of the Code of 1860. It broadens Section 7 by adding "Any person" to the persons mentioned in Section 7, and by including "omitting" as well as "refusing" to execute process. It makes the offense a misdemeanor instead of a felony, and changes the fine from $500 to $1000.

Section 18 is new, though it embraces the provisions of Section 11 of the Act of 1923, May 19, P. L. 283, reducing the penalty in that act. It is intended to cover derelictions of duty by any public officer. Similar provisions are found in the statutes of other states.

Section 19 re-enacts the Act of 1915, April 9, P. L. 76, with verbal changes to conform to the form adopted in other sections of the proposed act.

Sections 20 and 21 replace Section 8 of the Code of 1860, Section 5 of the Act of 1923,, May 19, P. L. 283, and part of Section 6 of the same act. They extend Section 8 to cover the resistance to or assault on any public officer in the discharge to or attempt to discharge any duty of his office. The penalty in Section 20 is increased from $100 to $500, and in Section 21 is increased to two years and $1000. The penalty in Section 5 of the Act of 1923 is ten years' imprisonment and ten thousand dollars fine; that in Section 6 is six months and one thousand dollars.

Section 22 replaces Section 9 of the Code of 1860 and extends the provisions of said section to cover any kind of judicial proceedings. The penalty is increased to $500.

Section 23 replaces Section 10 of the Code of 1860. It changes the existing law by extending the crime of compounding to all crimes instead of the ones enumerated in Section 10 of the Code. It grades the penalty according to the gravity of the offense compounded.

Section 24 replaces Section 11 of the Code of 1860. It extends the scope of Section 22 to cases of dissuading witnesses in any kind of case. It omits the attempt to dissuade witnesses as attempt is provided for by a general section on attempts.

Section 25 is new. It is intended to provide against a not uncommon method of obstructing public justice.

Section 26 replaces Section 1, Act of 1870, February 24, P. L. 34, and Section 3, Act of 1893, May 18, P. L. 102. It is broader than these acts and includes the securing of a witness in any case. The penalties in existing acts covering the same subject-matter are different.

Section 27 replaces Section 12 and the first part of Section 17 of the Code of 1860. It extends Section 12 to cover cases of soliciting as well as receiving extortionate fees and agreements for such fees. It also extends the provisions of existing law to cover officers of municipalities. The penalty as to the fine is reduced from $1000 to $500 and disqualification to hold office is added.

Section 28, with a new section on attempt, replaces Section 13 of the Code of 1860. It broadens said section to include judges, magistrates, masters, arbitrators, referees, commissioners, appraisers, assessors and others, and includes matters about to be brought and persons drawn and summoned as jurors.

Section 29 replaces part of Section 48 of the Code of 1860. It extends Section 48 to cover bribes to witnesses, magistrates, councilmen, commissioners, masters and others. It simplifies Section 48 by using the word "bribe" which is defined once for all in the definitions so as to make uniform all sections on bribery. The penalty is increased to five years' imprisonment and $2000 fine.

Section 30 replaces that part of Section 48 of the Code of 1860, not replaced by Section 30 of the proposed act, and extends the provisions of the Code of 1860 to include magistrates, commissioners, masters and others mentioned. The penalty is increased to seven years and $3000.

Section 31 is a re-enactment with verbal changes of Section 49 of the Code of 1860.

Section 32 replaces part of Section 51 of the Act of 1834, April 15, P. L. 537; Section 1, Act of 1840, April 3, P. L. 714; Section 2, Act 1849, January 26, P. L. 21; Section 14, Code of 1860; part of Section 3, Act 1864, April 19, P. L. 480; Section 3, Act 1866, March 30, P. L. 89; Section 3, Act 1889, June 1, P. L. 420; part of Section 4, Act 1891, June 9, P. L. 257; Section 4, Act 1917, June 28, P. L. 645; Section 3, Act 1919, June 30, P. L. 542; so much of Section 3, Act 1919, June 30, P. L. 678, as provides fine and imprisonment, and part of Section 11, Act 1919, June 30, P. L. 678. It simplifies Section 14 of the Code of 1860 and provides specifically that certain false statements shall be perjury. It omits subornation of perjury since subornation makes the offender an accessory or a principal in the second degree, and these are provided for elsewhere in this act. The penalties in the various acts are different.

Section 33 replaces Section 15 of the Code of 1860 and the penal part of Section 15 of the Act of 1919, June 3, P. L. 366. It extends the provisions of Section 15 of the Code of 1860 to cover any record filed or deposited in a public office or with any public officer either of the Commonwealth or of any subdivision thereof and makes the penalty as to officers the forfeiture of their office and disqualification to hold office. The penalty is the same as that in the Code of 1860.

Section 34 replaces Section 3 of the Act of 1804, April 3, 4 Sm. L. 192. The changes are verbal and the penalty is increased to one year's imprisonment and a fine of $500.

Section 35 replaces Section 16 of the Code of 1860. The fine is increased from $500 to $3000.

Section 36 is new. A similar provision is found in the codes of other states.

Section 37 replaces Section 2 of the Act of 1893, May 29, P. L. 174, and Section 1 of the Act of 1897, May 5, P. L. 39. The penalties are different in these different acts.

TITLE III.—OFFENSES AGAINST THE PUBLIC PEACE.

Section 38 replaces Section 19 of the Code of 1860. It makes verbal changes in Section 19 and omits a part of Section 19 on aggravated riot. The penalty is increased from $500 to $1000.

Section 39 is new.

Section 40 replaces Section 20 of the Code of 1860. It broadens Section 20 to cover cases of destruction of all kinds of property. The penalty is reduced from 7 to 5 years and a fine of $2000 is added.

The offense is also made a felony.

Section 41 replaces Sections 21 and 22 of the Code of 1860. It combines these two sections and simplifies the verbiage. The new wording of the section makes unnecessary the proviso contained in Section 22 of the Code of 1860.

Section 42 replaces Section 31 of the Code of 1860, adding parade and procession. The penalty is increased to one year's imprisonment and $500 fine.

Section 43 replaces Section 1 of the Act of 1901, May 2, P. L. 132, and Section 1, Act of 1901, May 21, P. L. 286, and Act of 1913, May 19, P. L. 223.

Section 44 replaces the Act of 1903, April 15, P. L. 98. It omits the minimum penalty and the provisions for a second offense and for costs provided for in the Act of 1903.

Section 45 re-enacts Section 1 of the Act of 1917, July 11, P. L. 817, with verbal changes. The penalty is increased from $50 to $100, and the minimum penalty is omitted. Summary conviction is provided for.

Section 46 replaces Section 24 of the Code of 1860. The new section by requiring the publication to be malicious obviates the necessity for the proviso in the old section; it omits "writes and prints" of the old section, as merely to write or print without publication should not be an offense. It extends the offense to libels which tend to injure a person in his business. The penalty is reduced from $1000 to $500.

Section 47 replaces Section 1 of the Act of 1893, June 3, P. L. 273. It omits the requirements of actual publication. The penalty is reduced from two years to one year to correspond with Section 48.

Section 48 is a re-enactment of the penal part of Section 4, Act of 1901, April 11, P. L. 74.

Section 49 replaces Section 1 of the Act of 1897, May 25, P. L. 85. The changes are verbal.

Section 50 replaces Section 1 Act of 1895, June 26, P. L. 389. It adds election, to nomination and makes other verbal changes. The penalty is increased from six months to one year and from $100 to $500.

Section 51 re-enacts Section 1, Act of 1909, April 23, P. L. 171. The penalty as to the fine is reduced from $5000 to $2000.

Section 52 replaces Section 25 of the Code of 1860 with verbal changes. The penalty is increased from $500 to$1000.

Section 53 replaces Section 27 of the Code of 1860 with verbal changes. The fine is increased from $50 to $500.

Section 54 replaces Section 1, Act of 1875, March 18, P. L. 33. It makes the carrying of certain deadly weapons a misdemeanor, if concealed, without intent to injure; and the carrying of certain other weapons with intent to injure, a misdemeanor, whether concealed or not. It provides for destruction of weapon on conviction.

Section 55 is new.

TITLE IV.—OFFENSES AGAINST PUBLIC MORALS AND DECENCY.

Section 56 replaces Section 32, Code of 1860; Section 1, Act of 1879, June 11, P. L. 148, and Sections 1 and 2, Act of 1917, July 16, P. L. 1000; Section 2 of the last named Act and Section 33, Code of 1860, are replaced by the sections on Attempt and Solicitation. The fine is increased from $1000 to $5000.

Section 57 replaces Section 1 an 2 of the Act of 1903, March 27, P. L. 102, which repeals Section 34 of the Code of 1860. The changes are verbal, except that the proviso of the new section requires prosecution within five years and provides for a certificate of nullity.

Section 58 re-enacts Section 3, Act of 1903, March 27, P. L. 102. It increases the fine from $500 to $1000 and makes the limitation of prosecution the same as in bigamy.

Section 59 is new.

Section 60 amends Section 36, Code of 1960, to include the unmarried person, and to require knowledge on the part of the accused of the non-existence of the marriage relation between them.

Section 61 re-enacts Section 37 of the Code of 1860 with verbal changes.

Section 190 re-enacts and combines Section 90 of the Code of 1860 and Sections 1 and 3 of the Act of 1907, May 29, P. L. 318. The penalty is the same as provided in the Act of 1907.

Section 191 re-enacts part of the Act of 1919, July 12, P. L. 939, and adds a provision against a child for non-support of its parent as provided for in the Act of 1917, May 24, P. L. 268. The fine is increased from $100 to $500.

Section 192 re-enacts Section 1 of the Act of 1917, July 11, P. L. 774. The provision as to imprisonment in the said act is increased from six months to one year.

Section 193 replaces Sections 91 and 92 of the Code of 1860 and the Act of 1887, May 19, P. L. 128. It broadens the acts to cover unlawful carnal knowledge of an idiot, imbecile, drugged or insane person, and unlawful intercourse by personating a husband. It increases the fine from $1000 to $7000.

Section 194 combines Section 1 of the Act of 1875, February 25, P. L. 4, and the Act of 1901, April 4, P. L. 65. It changes Section 2 of the latter act so as to make an aider and abettor punishable as a principal in the first degree as in all other cases. It also punishes as a principal a person who assists by harboring or detaining. The penalty is changed by adding a fine on conviction of the principal in the crime and increasing the fine as to the aider.

Section 195 is new. It provides for all cases of kidnapping not covered by Section 194 of the proposed act.

Section 196 re-enacts the Act of 1917, May 24, P. L. 303.

TITLE VII.—OFFENSES AGAINST PERSONAL PROPERTY AND FRAUDULENT DEALING THEREWITH.

Section 197 re-enacts Section 102 of the Code of 1860 as to robbery only; the larceny from the person is covered by Section 201 of the proposed act; assault with intent to rob is provided for by the section on attempt in the proposed act. The penalty as to imprisonment is increased from five to ten years and as to fine is increased from $1000 to $5000.

Section 198 re-enacts the Act of 1919, April 18, P. L. 61, as to robbery with a weapon and by two or more persons and when accompanied by a battery. Attempts to so commit are provided for by the section on attempt in the proposed act.

Section 199 combines Section 1 of the Act of 1897, May 27, P. L. 111; Act of 1911, June 9, P. L. 833, and Act of 1913, May 19, P. L. 222, except as they provide for accessories and attempt. These as well as Sections 23 and 101 of the Code of 1860, and Section 1 of the Act of 1876, May 8, P. L. 141, are covered by the sections on accessories and attempt in the proposed act. The penalty is made the same as that in the Act of 1913.

Section 200, taken in connection with the section of the proposed act on the definition of property and the section on attempt replaces the following acts: Section 7 of the Act of 1820, March 28, 7 Sm. L. 308, as to embezzlement; part of Section 10 of the Act of 1841, May 27, P. L. 400; Section 20 of the Act of 1850, April 16, P. L. 477; Section 103 of the Code of 1860; Section 104 of the Code of 1860; Section 106 of the Code of 1860; Section 107 of the Code of 1860; Section 108 of the Code of 1860; part of Section 111 of the Code of 1860; Section 112 of the Code of 1860; Section 113 of the Code of 1860; Section 114 of the Code of 1860; part of Section 1 of the Act of 1861, May 1, P. L. 465; part of Section 1 of the Act of 1861, May 1, P. L. 503; part of Section 36 of the Act of 1861, May 1, P. L. 503; Section 1 of the Act of 1862, April 11, P. L. 425; Section 1 of the Act of 1876, May 8, P. L. 136; Section 1 of the Act of 1876, May

Section 201 re-enacts part of Section 102 of the Code of 1860. The penalty is increased from five years' imprisonment and $1000 fine to eight years' imprisonment and $4000 fine.

Section 202 re-enacts Section 65 of the Code of 1860. It limits the provision on failure to deliver possession of property in that section by requiring the intent to steal in such case. The penalty of Section 65 is increased from five years' imprisonment and a fine equal to the amount embezzled, to ten years' imprisonment and a fine of $5000.

Section 203 re-enacts the Act of 1919, June 20, P. L. 542, and extends the provisions of the said act to cover property embezzled and property obtained by false pretense.

TITLE IX.—OFFENSES AGAINST THE COIN AND FORGERY.

Sections 296 to 304, inclusive, with the exception of Section 298 (which is new) are intended to replace Sections 156 to 163, inclusive, of the Code of 1860. The penalties have been made to conform to similar offenses in the Federal Penal Code of 1910.

Section 305 is new. It is an enactment and extension of Section 148 of the Federal Penal Code of 1910.

Section 306 re-enacts Section 164 of the Code of 1860 with verbal changes. The penalty is made the same as counterfeiting similar bills of the United States, except as to the fine, which is made to conform to the general plan of the proposed act.

Section 307 re-enacts Section 169 of the Code of 1860 with verbal changes. The fine is increased from $1000 to $5000, and the offense is made a felony.

Section 308 re-enacts Section 166 of the Code of 1860 and similar provisions in the Federal Code, with verbal changes. The fine is increased from $1000 to $2000.

Section 309 re-enacts Section 168 of the Code of 1860 with verbal changes. The penalty is made the same as in similar crimes in the Federal Penal Code.

Section 310 re-enacts and combines Sections 165 and 167 of the Code of 1860, and Sections 2 and 3 of the Act of 1867, January 7, P. L. 1369, and adds, as new part of the provisions contained in Section 150 of the Federal Penal Code of 1910. It makes the possession of one note sufficient. The penalty is made the same as for the similar offense in the Federal Penal Code, except as to the fine.

Section 311 re-enacts Section 1 of the Act of 1889, May 8, P. L. 127, with verbal changes. The fine is increased from $1000 to $2000.

Section 312 re-enacts Sections 2 and 3 of the Act of 1889, May 8, P. L. 127, with verbal changes.

Section 313 re-enacts Section 170 of the Code of 1860 with verbal changes. The crime is made a felony and the fine is increased from $1000 to $3000.

Section 314 re-enacts and extends Section 171 of the Code of 1860. It makes the crime a felony and increases the fine from $2000 to $3000.

Section 315 re-enacts Section 176 of the Code of 1860 and broadens it to cover letters, etc.

Section 316 re-enacts Section 5 of the Act of 1866, September 25, P. L. (1867) 1363, and Section 7 of the Act of 1866, September 24, P. L. (1867) 1363. It excepts cases where receipts are marked "not negotiable" and cases where partial delivery has been made.

Section 317 re-enacts and extends Section 172 of the Code of 1860. It increases the fine from $200 to $500.

Section 318 re-enacts Section 173 of the Code of 1860, with verbal changes. The fine is increased from $100 to $500.

Section 319 re-enacts Section 1 of the Act of 1887, May 23, P. L. 166, omitting the part which amounts to larceny. It reduces the penalty from two years' imprisonment and $1000 fine to one year's imprisonment and $500 fine.

Section 320 re-enacts and extends Section 174 of the Code of 1860. It increases the fine from $100 to $500.

Section 321 re-enacts and extends Section 175 of the Code of 1860. The fine is reduced from $500 to $300, and six months' imprisonment is added.

Section 322 re-enacts Section 3 of the Act of 1903, April 3, P. L. 134. The penalty is changed from five years' imprisonment and $1000 fine to two years' imprisonment and $1000 fine. The minimum penalty has, as in all other cases, been omitted.

Section 323 is new.

Section 324 re-enacts the Act of 1919, July 21, P. L. 1063, with verbal changes.

TITLE X.—GENERAL PROVISIONS.

Section 325 re-enacts Section 178 of the Code of 1860, with verbal changes.

Section 326 is new.

Section 327 is new.

Section 328 re-enacts Section 179 of the Code of 1860, with verbal changes.

Section 329 re-enacts Section 180 of the Code of 1860 and Section 1 of the Act of 1893, June 3, P. L. 286, with verbal changes. The penalty for the accessory after the fact is increased from $500 to $1000 fine.

Section 330 is new.

Section 331 is new.

Section 332 is new.

Section 333 replaces Section 181 of the Code of 1860, and extends it to all crimes.

Section 334 re-enacts Section 182 of the Code of 1860, with verbal changes.

Section 335 is new.

Section 336 is new.

Section 337 is new.

Section 338 is new.

Section 339 is new.

We have now completed the work committed to our charge and respectfully submit the same.

TITLE I.—OFFENSES AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT OF THE COMMONWEALTH.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by authority of the same, That any person who levies war against the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania or adheres to its enemies, giving them aid and comfort within the State or elsewhere, is guilty of treason, and if convicted thereof on confession in open court, or on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act of the treason of which he is indicted, shall be imprisoned for a term of years not exceeding the life of offender, or fined not exceeding ten thousand dollars, or both.

Section 2. Any person having knowledge of the commission of any treason against the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, who conceals, and does not, as soon as maybe, disclose and make known the same to the Governor or Attorney General of the Commonwealth, or to some one of the judges, justices or district attorneys thereof, is guilty of misprison of treason, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding six years, or fined not exceeding three thousand dollars, or both.

Section 3. Any person who conspires to overthrow, put down or destroy by force the Government of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, or to levy war against it, or to oppose by force the authority thereof, or by force to prevent, hinder or delay the execution of any law of this Commonwealth, or by force to take or possess any property of this Commonwealth contrary to the authority thereof, is guilty of a felony, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding twenty years, or fined not exceeding ten thousand dollars, or both.

Section 4. Any person who makes any writing, publication, printing, cut, cartoon, or utterance with intent to make or cause to be made any outbreak or demonstration of violence against this Commonwealth or against the United States; or to encourage any person to take any measures or engage in any conduct with a view of overthrowing or destroying or attempting to overthrow or destroy, by any force or show or threat of force, the Government of this Commonwealth or of the United States; or to incite or encourage any person to commit any overt act with a view to bringing the Government of this Commonwealth or of the United States into hatred or contempt; and any person who makes any writing, publication, printing, cut, cartoon, or utterance which advocates or teaches the duty, necessity, or propriety of engaging in crime, violence, or any form of terroism, as a means of accomplishing political reform or change in Government, or who knowingly sells, gives or distributes any print, publication, book, paper, document, or written matter in any form, which advocates or furthers any of the things above provided against; or who organizes or is a member of an assembly, society or group which advocates or furthers any of the things above provided against is guilty of sedition, a felony, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding twenty years, or fined not exceeding ten thousand dollars, or both.

Section 5. Any person who publicly mutilates, defaces, defiles, tramples upon, or by word or acts casts contempt upon any flag, standard, color, ensign or shield of the United States of America, or of this Commonwealth, or authorized by any law of the United States of America or of this Commonwealth, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

Section 6. Any person who places any word, figure, picture, design, drawing or advertisement of any nature upon any flag, standard, color, ensign or shield of the United States of America or of this Commonwealth, or authorized by any law of the United States of America or of this Commonwealth; or exposes to public view any such flag, standard, color, ensign, or shield upon which is printed, painted or otherwise placed, or to which is attached, appended, affixed or annexed any such word, figure, mark, picture, design, drawing or advertisement; or exposes to public view, manufactures, sells, exposes for sale, gives or has in possession for sale, for gift or for use for any purpose, any substance, being an article of merchandise or receptacle, or thing for holding or carrying merchandise, upon or which is printed, painted, attached or otherwise placed any such flag, standard color, ensign or shield, in order to call attention to, decorate, mark or distinguish such substance or receptacle, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding six months, or fined not exceeding two hundred dollars, or both: Provided, That the provisions of sections five and six of this act shall not apply to any act permitted by the statutes of the United States of America or of this Commonwealth, or by the United States Army and Navy Regulations, nor shall they apply to any printed or written document or production, stationery, ornament, picture, badge or jewelry whereon shall be depicted said flag, standard, color, ensign or shield disconnected from any advertisement for the purpose of sale, barter or trade.

Section 10. Any elector, authorized to vote at any public election, who solicits, consents to receive, or accepts a bribe to influence his vote at such election, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

Section 11. Any person who, being duly summoned to attend as a witness before either branch of the General Assembly of this Commonwealth, or any committee thereof authorized to summon witnesses, refuses or neglects without lawful excuse to attend or to testify pursuant to such summons, or to produce upon reasonable notice, any material and proper book, paper or document in his possession, custody or control, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

Section 12. Any person who conspires to charge or indict any person of or for any offense; or procures or attempts to procure the arrest or indictment of any person for any offense, not believing such person to be guilty thereof, is guilty of a felony, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding five years, or fined not exceeding two thousand dollars, or both.

Section 13. Any prisoner who breaks prison or escapes from prison or from lawful custody, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

Section 14. Any person who sells, gives or furnishes to any prisoner any weapon or other implement which may be used to injure any person or to aid a prisoner to escape; or who brings or sends any such weapon into any prison or building appurtenant thereto, or on any land employed for the use or benefit of prisoners, is guilty of a felony, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding five years, or fined not exceeding two thousand dollars, or both.

Section 15. Any sheriff, coroner, warden, jailer, guard, keeper, constable, or other person having in his lawful custody any person lawfully arrested for or convicted of any offense, who voluntarily permits such person to escape and go at large, or connives at or assists such escape, or who suffers such person to be taken from his custody by a mob or riotous assemblage, is guilty of a felony, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding five years, or fined not exceeding two thousand dollars, or both, and forfeits his office; and is forever disqualified to hold any office or place of trust, honor or profit under the constitution or laws of this Commonwealth.

Section 16. Any sheriff, coroner, warden, jailer, guard, keeper, constable or other person who, by failing to perform any legal duty, permits a person in his lawful custody to escape therefrom, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

Section 17. Any sheriff, coroner, warden, jailer, keeper, constable or other person who, in violation of a duty imposed upon him by law, wilfully refuses, omits or delays to execute any lawful process directed to him, requiring the apprehension or confinement of any person charged with or convicted of a criminal offense, whereby such person shall escape, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding two years, or fined not exceeding one thousand dollars, or both.

Section 18. Any public officer of this Commonwealth upon whom any duty is or shall be enjoined by law, who wilfully neglects or refuses to perform such duty, or who wilfully disobeys any provision of law regulating his official conduct, where no special provision shall have been made for such neglect or refusal, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

Section 19. Upon arrest of any person, charged with an offense, it shall be the duty of the sheriff, coroner, constable, police, or other official making the arrest, or having charge of the prisoner, upon application made therefor either by counsel or a citizen, to issue without cost to the applicant, a certificate stating the name of the prisoner, and the charge upon which he has been arrested, and imprisoned, and the amount of bail demanded, if the same has been fixed, so that the bail may be entered as authorized by law. Any sheriff, coroner, constable, police or other official, who made such arrest or has such prisoner in charge or any mayor or director of public safety, or subordinate of either of them, of any municipal corporation of this Commonwealth, by whose order or direction said prisoner is held, who fails, omits, neglects or refuses to issue such certificate immediately upon demand thereof, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

Section 20. Any person who wilfully resists, obstructs or opposes or delays any public officer in the discharge of or the attempt to discharge any duty of his office; or who forcibly resists, obstructs or opposes any person duly authorized in serving or executing or attempting to serve or execute any legal process; or who being commanded to aid any public officer in executing any legal process, or in the preservation of the peace, or in lawfully arresting any person, or in retaking any person who has escaped or is attempting to escape from legal custody, refuses so to do, or who harbors or conceals any person for whose arrest a lawful warrant has been issued, knowing that such warrant has been issued, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

Section 21. Any person who assaults or strikes any public officer while such officer is engaged in the lawful discharge of or the attempt to lawfully discharge any duty of his office, or who assaults or strikes any person engaged in lawfully serving or executing or lawfully attempting to serve or execute any legal process, or in making any lawful arrest or capture; or who rescues another in legal custody, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding two years, or fined not exceeding one thousand dollars, or both.

Section 22. Any person who vexes others with unjust and groundless judicial proceedings, is guilty of barratry, a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

Section 23. Any person who accepts any property or promise thereof upon any agreement or understanding to compound or conceal any offense herein or hereafter provided against, or to abstain from, discontinue or delay a prosecution therefor, or to withhold any evidence thereof, except in a case where such agreement is allowed by law, shall be punished as follows: If the offense he thus agrees to compound, or conceal, or to delay, or discontinue, or abstain from the prosecution of, or to withhold evidence of, is punishable by death or imprisonment for life, he shall be imprisoned not exceeding ten years or fined not exceeding five thousand dollars, or both; if the offense is punishable by a lesser period of imprisonment than imprisonment for life, he shall be imprisoned not exceeding one-third of the longest term or fined not exceeding one-third of the largest sum prescribed for the commission of the offense, or by both such imprisonment and fine.

Section 24. Any person who wilfully prevents, hinders or dissaudes any person who has been lawfully summoned as a witness in any trial, hearing or other proceeding before any court or officer auhorized by law to hear evidence or take testimony, from attending or testifying pursuant to the summons, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

Section 25. Any person who, with intent to hinder, delay or obstruct the ends of justice, induces another who has knowledge of any fact tending to show the guilt or innocence of any person suspected of or charged with an offense, to leave the Commonwealth or secrete himself so that he cannot be produced as a witness at any legal examination into such offense, or at any legal examination or trial of the person suspected of or charged with such offense, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

Section 26. Any person having been lawfully subpoened as a witness in any trial, hearing or other proceeding before any court, officer, or other person authorized by law to hear evidence or take testimony, who with intent to hinder, delay or obstruct the ends of justice, leaves this Commonwealth or absents himself therefrom or secretes himself and refuses to appear or testify in pursuance of such subpoena, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

Section 27. Any officer of this Commonwealth, or of any sub-division thereof, who fraudulently solicits or receives or agrees to receive a fee or other compensation other than such as is allowed by law, for his official service, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both, and forfeits his office; and shall be forever disqualified from holding any office of trust, honor or profit under the constitution or laws of this Commonwealth or any subdivision thereof.

Section 28. Any person who wilfully and unlawfully influences a juror, or one drawn or summoned as a juror, or a judge, justice, magistrate, master, examiner, referee, arbitrator, commissioner, appraiser, assessor, or other person authorized by law to hear or determine any matter, in respect to his verdict, report, judgment, award or decision in any matter or cause pending or about to be brought before him, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

Section 29. Any person who offers or gives a bribe to any witness, whether under subpoena or not, or to any juror, or one drawn or summoned as a juror, or to any judge, magistrate, master examiner, referee, arbitrator, commissioner, appraiser, assessor, or other person authorized by law to hear or determine any matter, is guilty of a felony, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding five years, or fined not exceeding two thousand dollars, or both.

Section 30. Any juror, or person drawn or summoned as a juror, any witness, judge, justice, magistrate, master, examiner, referee, arbitrator, commissioner, appraiser, assessor, or other person authorized by law to hear or determine any matter, who solicits or receives or agrees to receive a bribe, is guilty of a felony, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding seven years, or fined not exceeding three thousand dollars, or both; and, if he be a judge, justice or magistrate, forfeits his office, and is forever disqualified to hold any office of trust, honor or profit under the constitution or laws of this Commonwealth.

Section 31. No witness shall be excused from testifying in any criminal proceeding, or in any investigation or inquiry before either branch of the General Assembly, or any Committee thereof, touching his knowledge of the crimes provided for in sections seven, eight, twenty-eight, twenty-nine and thirty of this act, under any pretense or allegation whatsoever; but the evidence so given or the facts divulged by him shall not be used against him in any prosecution under any of the said sections of this act: Provided, That the accused shall not be convicted on the testimony of an accomplice unless the same be corroborated by other evidence or the circumstances of the case.

Section 32. Any person who, having taken an oath or affirmation, legally administered, before any officer, tribunal, body or person authorized by law to require or administer such oath or affirmation, wilfully and corruptly swears or affirms falsely in a matter relative to which such oath or affirmation was taken, is guilty of perjury, a felony, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding seven years, or fined not exceeding three thousand dollare, or both, and shall forever be disqualified from being a witness in any matter in controversy in which an oath or affirmation is authorized by law to be administered. On an indictment under this section it shall be no defense that the false statement was not material to the issue; or that the oath was administered in an irregular manner; or that the defendant was not a competent witness; or that his testimony was not competent; or that his testimony was true, if he believed it to be false. An unqualified statement of that which the defendant did not know to be true is equivalent to a statement that which he knew to be false.

Section 33. Any person who wilfully makes a false entry in, falsifies, erases, alters, secrets, withdraws, avoids, carries away, destroys or defaces any record filed or deposited by authority of law in a public office or with any public officer of this Commonwealth, or any sub-division thereof, unless authorized thereto by law, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding two years, or fined not exceeding one thousand dollars, or both; and if such person be an officer of the Commonwealth or any subdivision thereof he shall, in addition to the penalty above prescribed, forfeit his office, and be forever disqualified to hold any office or trust, honor or profit under the constitution or laws of this Commonwealth.

Section 34. Any person who wilfully detains from any person duly commissioned to any office or appointment in this Commonwealth, or any subdivision thereof, any seal, record, book, paper or other property appertaining or belonging to such office, after the same has been duly demanded of him by the person entitled to possession thereof, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

Section 35. Any person who fraudulently acknowledges any deed, recognizance or judgment in the name of any other person not privy thereto, or consenting to the same, is guilty of a felony, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding seven years, or fined not exceeding three thousand dollars, or both.

Section 36. Any person who knowingly offers any false or forged instrument to be acknowledged, filed, registered or recorded in any public office, which instrument, if genuine, might be acknowledged, filed, registered or recorded by virtue of any law of this Commonwealth or of the United States, is guilty of a felony, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding seven years, or fined not exceeding three thousand dollars, or both.

Section 37. Any person who falsely represents himself to be a public officer; or who not being a public officer assumes to act as one, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

TITLE III.—OFFENSES AGAINST THE PUBLIC PEACE.

Section 38. Any person who participates in a riot, rout, unlawful assembly, or affray, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding three years, or fined not exceeding one thousand dollars, or both.

Section 39. Any person who participates in any riot, rout, or unlawful assembly, whose purpose, or the purpose of which, is to resist the enforcement of a law of this Commonwealth or of the United States, or to obstruct any public officer of this Commonwealth or of the United States in the performance of his duty; and any person who being disguised, or being armed with a dangerous weapon, participates in any riot, rout, or unlawful assembly, is guilty of a felony, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding ten years, or fined not exceeding five thousand dollars, or both.

Section 40. Any person who, while participating in any riot, rout, or unlawful assembly, demolishes, destroys, pulls down or injures any property of another, is guilty of a felony, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding five years, or fined not exceeding two thousand dollars, or both.

Section 41. Any person who through force, threats or menances enters upon or into any building, land or tenements; or who, after entering peaceably on any building, land or tenements, detains possession from or turns out by force or threats or menacing conduct the party in possession, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

Section 42. Any person who maliciously disturbs any lawful assembly, meeting, parade or procession, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding three months, or fined not exceeding two hundred dollars, or both.

Section 43. Any person who wilfully makes any loud, boisterous and unseemly noise or uses obscene, profane or blasphemous language, to the annoyance or disturbance of the public shall, on summary conviction, be fined not exceeding fifty dollars, and pay the costs of prosecution, and in default in the payment of such fine and costs be imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

Section 44. Any person who discharges in any street, alley, park or public square any implement which impels with force a metal pellet shall, on summary conviction, be fined not exceeding fifty dollars, and pay the costs of prosecution, and in default in the payment of such fine and costs be imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

Section 45. Any person who discharges any cannon, gun, revolver or other explosive device at any serenade or other celebration of any wedding shall, on summary conviction, be fined not exceeding one hundred dollars, and pay the costs of prosecution, and in default of such fine and costs be imprisoned not exceeding two months.

Section 46. Any person who maliciously publishes or exhibits any writing, picture, effigy, sign, or any other publication tending either to blacken the memory of one who is dead or the reputation of one who is alive, thereby exposing him to hatred, contempt or ridicule, or which tends to injure any person in his business or occupation, is guilty of libel, a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

Section 47. Any person who wilfully makes, delivers or transmits for publication to any manager, editor, publisher, reporter or other employee of a publisher of any newspaper, magazine, publication, periodical or serial, any statement concerning any person, which if published therein would be a libel, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

Section 48. No person shall be indicted in more than one county in the Commonwealth for the publication, exhibition, making, delivery or transmission of the same libel upon the same person.

Section 49. Any person who without appending his proper signature thereto sends to another any libellous, defamatory, scurrilous or opprobrious writing, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

Section 50. Any person who publishes or exhibits any writing which is designated to or tends to injure or defeat any candidate for nomination or election to public office by reflecting upon his personal character or political actions, unless the same be published in a publication avowedly responsible therefor, or unless there appears upon such writing, in a conspicuous place, either the names of the chairman and secretary or the names of two officers of the organization issuing the same, or the name of some duly registered elector with description of his election district, as responsible therefor, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both; and if the statements in such writing be untrue the offender shall be guilty of libel.

Section 51. Any person who makes, utters, circulates, or transmits to another any statement untrue in fact, derogatory to the financial condition of any bank, banking house, banking company, trust company, surety company, guarantee company, title insurance company or other financial institution in this Commonwealth, with intent to injure any such financial institution, is guilty of a felony, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding five years, or fined not exceeding two thousand dollars, or both.

Section 52. Any person who challenges another to an encounter with deadly weapons; and any person who being so challenged accepts such challenge, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding three years, or fined not exceeding one thousand dollars, or both.

Section 53. Any person who knows of any challenge to an encounter with deadly weapons, given or received; or who is a witness to the fact of such challenge, duel or fighting, not being a second thereat, or a party criminal therein, and conceals the same and does not inform an officer of the law thereof, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

Section 54. Any person who carries any slungshot, metal knuckles, handy-billy, sand bag, sand club, dagger, dirk-knife, or stilletto, concealed about his person; or who with intent to use the same unlawfully against another, carries any firearms, knife, razor or other deadly weapon, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both; and the jury trying the case may infer such intent from the fact that the defendant carried such weapon; upon conviction, any weapon mentioned in this section, found in the possession of the defendant, shall be destroyed by the district attorney.

Section 55. Any person who without authority of law, carries a bomb, or who, with intent to use the same unlawfully against the person or property of another, carries or possesses any explosive substance, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding two years, or fined not exceeding one thousand dollars, or both.

TITLE IV.—OFFENSES AGAINST PUBLIC MORALS AND DECENCY.

Section 56. Any person who carnally knows in any manner any animal or bird, or carnally knows any male or female person by the anus or by or with the mouth or tongue, or voluntarily submits to such carnal knowledge, is guilty of sodomy, a felony, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding ten years, or fined not exceeding five thousand dollars, or both; any sexual penetration as above described consumates the offense of sodomy as in this section defined.

Section 57. Any person who, having a husband or wife, living, participates as a principal in a form of marriage with another person which form of marriage would constitute a valid marriage but for the fact that the offender, or the offender and the other party, has a husband or wife living, whether the parties to the second form of marriage cohabit together or not, is guilty of bigamy, a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding two years, or fined not exceeding one thousand dollars, or both: Provided, That if any husband or wife, upon any rumor, in appearance well founded, and believed to be true by such husband or wife, of the death of the other (when such other has been absent for two years), shall marry again, he or she shall not be liable to the penalty imposed by this section: Provided further, That the prosecution be instituted within five years from the date of the second form of marriage: Provided also, That upon a conviction under this section the second marriage shall be declared null and void, and a certificate declaring said marriage null and void shall be given to the injured party by the trial judge.

Section 58. Any person who, being unmarried, knowingly participates as a principal in a form of marriage with a married person, which form of marriage would constitute a valid marriage but for the fact that the said other person has a husband or wife living, whether the parties to the second form of marriage cohabit together or not, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding two years, or fined not exceeding one thousand dollars, or both: Provided, That the prosecution be instituted within five years from the date of the second marriage.

Section 59. Any person who, having committed bigamy without this Commonwealth, unlawfully cohabits within this Commonwealth with the person with whom such bigamy was committed, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding two years, or fined not exceeding one thousand dollars, or both. Provided, That the prosecution be instituted within five years from the date of the beginning of such cohabitation within this Commonwealth.

Section 60. Any officer of this Commonwealth, or of any sub-division thereof, who enters into any contract or agreement with any bank, corporation or individual, or association of individuals, by which said officer is to derive any benefit, gain or advantage from the deposit with such bank, corporation or individual, or association of any money or valuable security, held by him or which may be in his possession, or under his control by virtue of his said office, is guilty of a felony, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding five years, or fined not exceeding two thousand dollars, or both; and if still in office, be adjudged thereafter incapable of exercising the same, and said office shall forthwith be declared vacant by the court passing sentence.

Section 105. Any officer of this Commonwealth who authorizes the payment of any money, by warrant or otherwise, out of the State Treasury, except in accordance with the provisions of some Act of Assembly setting forth the amount to be expended and the purpose of the expenditure; or any State Treasurer who pays any money out of the State Treasury, except in accordance with the provisions of some Act of Assembly setting forth the amount to be expended and the purpose of the expenditure; and any officer of this Commonwealth who authorizes the payment of any money by warrant or otherwise out of the State Treasury; or any State Treasurer who pays any money out of the State Treasury, in excess of the amount thus specifically appropriated, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding two years, or fined not exceeding one thousand dollars, or both: Provided, however, That the provisions of this section shall not be construed to prohibit the Auditor General and State Treasurer of this Commonwealth from returning to any county thereof any money authorized by law to be returned to said counties; or the Auditor General and State Treasurer of this Commonwealth from returning to any city, borough, or township any money received from foreign fire insurance companies authorized by law to be returned to said municipalities.

Section 106. Any public officer of this Commonwealth or of any sub-division thereof who has under his control as such officer any moneys collected by law for a special purpose, who applies such moneys to any other purpose than that for which such moneys were collected, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

Section 107. Any public officer of this Commonwealth, or of any sub-division thereof, who purchases or is interested in the purchase of, for any sum less than the amount specified in such warrant, order or claim, any warrant, order or claim on the Commonwealth, or on any sub-division thereof, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

Section 108. Whenever the debt of any subdivision of this Commonwealth shall have reached the limit provided for by law, it shall be unlawful for such sub-division to increase the same, and all such increase shall be void, and any obligation issued for such increase, or any part thereof, shall be of no binding force upon such sub-division; and each of the officers thereof wilfully authorizing such increase, or wilfully executing any obligation therefor, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

Section 109. Before issuing any such obligation or security, mentioned in section one hundred and eight of this act, it shall be the duty of the principal officer or officers of such sub-division to comply with all the requirements of any statute in force at the time governing the issuance of such obligation or security.

Section 110. Any public officer, agent, or employee of this Commonwealth, or of any sub-division thereof, who for private gain, uses, sells or disposes of any property of the Commonwealth, or of any sub-division thereof; or who wilfully uses, injures, sells or disposes of any such property without lawful authority; or who is interested either directly or indirectly, either personally or as a member or officer of any firm, company or corporation contracting with the Commonwealth, or any sub-division thereof, or any department of such sub-division, for the use, lease, occupation or enjoyment of any of the works, material or property of the Commonwealth, or any sub-division thereof, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both; and forfeits his office or employment and is forever disqualified to hold any office or place of trust, honor or profit under the constitution or laws of this Commonwealth, or under any sub-division of this Commonwealth.

Section 111. Any public officer of this Commonwealth, or of any sub-division thereof, or any officer, trustee or member of the board of managers of any public institution receiving appropriations of money from the Commonwealth, who shall be in any wise interested as principal or agent in, or receive any gratuity in connection with, any contract for the sale or furnishing of any property to or for the use of or the construction of or alterations or improvement to any property of the Commonwealth (if he be an officer of the Commonwealth), or of any sub-division thereof (if he be an officer of such sub-division), or of any public institution receiving appropriations of money from the Commonwealth (if he be an officer or member of the board of managers of such institution), is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both; and shall forfeit the office, trusteeship or membership held by him.

Section 112. Any cashier of any bank who engages directly or indirectly in the purchase or sale of stock, or in any profession, occupation or calling, other than that of his duty as cashier, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both: Provided, That nothing in this section shall prevent such cashier from managing his own real estate or other private property if such private property be not invested in merchantile, mechanical or manufacturing operations.

Section 113. Any public officer of this Commonwealth who becomes the surety of any other public officer of this Commonwealth or of any agent of, or contractor with, the Commonwealth; and any public officer of any sub-division of this Commonwealth who becomes surety of any other public officer of the same sub-division thereof or of any agent or contractor with such sub-division, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

Section 114. Any director, officer, agent or employee of any canal, railroad or other public service company who shall be in any way wise interested as principal or agent in or receive any gratuity in connection with any contract for the sale or furnishing of any property to or for the use of, or the construction of, or alteration or improvement to any property of such company of which he is a director, officer, agent or employee, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

Section 115. Any officer of any municipal or other corporation, who not being thereunto authorized by law is instrumental in, contents to, or connives at the making or issuing of any note, bill, check, ticket or order, intended to be used as currency, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

Section 116. Any agent, officer or employee of any foreign corporation, or any other person who transacts any business within this Commonwealth for any foreign corporation unless the requirements of the acts of assembly in force at the time governing the transaction of business for foreign corporations in this Commonwealth shall have first be complied with, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

Section 117. Any person who imports or sells any dressed carcass of lamb or sheep without first removing from each and every carcass all hoofs, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

Section 118. Any person owning any cattle or sheep affected by any contagious or infectious disease, who sells or otherwise disposes of such cattle or sheep, either alive or slaughtered, from the premises where such disease is known to exist, or for a period of two months after such disease shall have disappeared from said premises, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

Section 119. Any person who sells, or offers or exposes for sale, or has in his possession with intent to distribute or sell, any food, drug, preparation or mixture of any kind, intended for internal use, which contains methyl or wood alcohol; or who sells or offers or exposes for sale, or has in his possession with intent to distribute or sell or use upon or apply to the body of another, any drug, hair tonic, bay rum or similar preparation intended for external use, which contains methyl or wood alcohol, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both: Provided, That the provisions of this section shall not apply to a person selling or exposing for sale or having in his possession with intent to sell or distribute any medicated liniments used for external use, or any veterinary remedy containing methyl or wood alcohol when such remedy is plainly and distinctly labeled in such manner as to indicate that it is intended solely for external use on animals.

Section 120. Any person who engages in the manufacture or distillation and sale of ethyl alcohol without having first complied with the provisions of the acts of assembly of this Commonwealth in force at the time, governing the manufacture or distillation and sale of such alcohol, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

Section 121. Any person who exposes in any public place or on the land of another, or on his own land outside of a building, any poison or admixture thereof with intent that the same shall be taken or swallowed by any animal or fowl, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

Section 122. Any person who wilfully poisons or pollutes any spring, well, stream or reservoir of water, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

Any person is hereby authorized to arrest on view any person engaged in any of the acts provided against in this section. The use of any land within one mile of any city for the burial of the dead, the drainage from which land passes into any stream furnishing drinking water to any city, shall be deemed a pollution of such stream within the meaning of this section: Provided, That the provisions of this section shall not apply in the case of land now devoted to burial purposes in which there shall have heretofore been burials and sales of burial lots.

Section 123. Any master or commander of any ship arriving from any foreign country, place or port, at any port, harbor or place within this Commonwealth, who knowingly brings in such ship any person either as a passenger, working hand or otherwise, who has been convicted in any foreign country or place of any offense, which if committed within this Commonwealth would be a felony, with intent to land such person or permit him to land, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

Section 124. Any person who sells or gives away any spirituous or fermented liquor, drug, medicine, poison, opium or other narcotic, to any convict, or in any prison or in any building appurtenant thereto, or on any land employed for the use of benefit of prisoners; or who brings or sends into any prison, or building appurtenant thereto, or on any land employed for the use or benefit of prisoners, any spirituous or fermented liquor, drug, medicine, poison, opium or other narcotic, except the ordinary hospital supply of the prison, without a written permit signed by the physician of such prison, specifying the name of the prisoner or employee for whom, and the time when the same may be furnished, and the quantity and quality of the liquor or narcotic to be furnished, is guilty of a felony, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding five years, or fined not exceeding two thousand dollars, or both.

Section 125. Any person, who, not being authorized thereto by law, brings into or conveys out of a prison without the consent of the sheriff, warden, superintendent, keeper or other person having charge thereof, any money, letter or other article or thing prohibited by law or by the rules of the authorities having charge of such prison, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both.

Section 126. Any person who shall by gift, sale or otherwise, furnish cigars, tobacco, snuff, cigarettes or cigarette papers to any person under the age of twenty-one years shall, on summary conviction, be fined not exceeding two hundred dollars, and pay the costs of prosecution, and in default in the payment of such fine and costs be imprisoned not exceeding three months.

Any person who fraudulently or with intent to deceive uses the name or title of any secret fraternal association, society, order or organization which has had a grand lodge having jurisdiction in this Commonwealth for ten years, or who imitates such name or title, or any name or title so nearly resembling it as to be calculated to deceive; or who fraudulently or with intent to deceive, wears or uses any emblem, badge, button, shield, device or insignia of any such organization; or who without the authority of the grand lodge aforesaid, publishes, sells, lends, gives away or circulates any letter or written or printed matter or device advertising for or soliciting members or applications for membership in such organization or in any alleged or pretended organization using, or designated, or claiming to be designated, by such title, or imitation or resemblance thereof; or who offers to sell, confer, communicate or give information as to where, how, of whom, or by what means any alleged or pretended degree, or secret, or secret work of any such organization, or any alleged or pretended organization designated, or claiming to be known by such title, or imitation or resemblance thereof, may be obtained, conferred or communicated, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding two years, or fined not exceeding one thousand dollars, or both; and the possession by the defendant of any such letter or written or printed matter or device shall be presumptive proof of an intent to violate this section.

TITLE VIII.—OFFENSES AGAINST REAL PROPERTY AND MALICIOUS MISCHIEF.

Section 253. Any person who in the night time breaks and enters any dwelling house of another, or building a parcel thereof or adjoining or appurtenant thereto, with intent to commit a felony; or who enters any building of another with intent to commit a felony therein by the use of gunpowder, dynamite, nitro-glycerin or other explosive, is guilty of burglary, a felony, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding twenty years, or fined not exceeding ten thousand dollars, or both.

Section 254. Any person who in the daytime breaks and enters any building of another, or who at any time enters any building of another with intent to commit a felony therein, is guilty of a felony, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding ten years, or fined not exceeding five thousand dollars, or both.

Section 255. Any person who injures, or stops or attempts to injure or stop, or enters into a conspiracy to injure or stop any moving railroad train, with intent to commit any felony thereon, is guilty of a felony, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding fifteen years, or fined not exceeding seven thousand dollars, or both.

Section 256. Any person who makes or mends or has in his possession, any tool, false, key, pick-lock, bit, nippers, fuse, force-screw, punch, drill, jimmy, or any material, implement or other mechanical device designed or commonly used for breaking into any vault, safe or building with intent to use such tool or implement in the commission of an offense, or knowing that the same is intended to be used, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding three years, or fined not exceeding one thousand dollars, or both; and the jury may infer the intent aforesaid from the fact of the possession by the defendant of any of the articles mentioned in this section.

Section 257. Any person who wilfully and maliciously burns or sets on fire any building, barrack, rick or stack of grain, hay fodder, bark, wood, boards or other lumber, or motor vehicle of another, or any bridge, is guilty of a felony, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding ten years, or fined not exceeding five thousand dollars, or both.

Section 258. Any person who wilfully and maliciously or wantonly burns or sets on fire the factory, mill or dwelling house of another, or building a parcel of such dwelling house or adjoining or appurtenant thereto, or any other building by means whereof a dwelling house is burnt; or who wilfully and maliciously burns any building in which there is, to the knowledge of the offender, any human being, is guilty of arson, a felony and shall be imprisoned not exceeding twenty years, or fined not exceeding ten thousand dollars, or both.

Section 259. Any person who wantonly, maliciously or negligently sets on fire any wood-lands of another or of the people of the Commonwealth or, without the consent of the owner, causes fire to burn therein; or who wantonly, maliciously or negligently sets fire upon adjacent land, which fire is communicated to such wood-lands; or who wilfully kindles any fire upon any forestry reservation, except in accordance with such rules as may be prescribed by the Department of Forestry, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding six months, or fined not exceeding three hundred dollars, or both.

Section 260. Any person who wilfully burns or sets on fire any building or other property owned by him which is at the time insured against loss or damage by fire, with intent to defraud or prejudice the insurer thereof, is guilty of a felony, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding seven years, or fined not exceeding three thousand dollars, or both.

Section 261. The fact that the offender was the husband or wife of the owner of the property burned, or was in possession as tenant or otherwise at the time of the commission of the offense provided against in section two hundred and fifty-eight of this act, does not exempt him or her from the provisions of the said section.

Section 262. Any person who places or throws in, upon, under, against or near any building, any gunpowder, dynamite, nitroglycerin or other explosive substance under such circumstances as to endanger human life or safety, is guilty of a felony, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding twelve years, or fined not exceeding six thousand dollars, or both.

Section 263. Any person who wilfully and unlawfully removes or injures any part of a public highway or bridge, or a private way or bridge maintained by authority of law; or who wilfully injures, obstructs or places or throws in or upon any public path, street, sidewalk, alley, road or other public way or place, any article or substance which might cause injury to any person, animal or vehicle, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding six months, or fined not exceeding three hundred dollars, or both.

TITLE X.—GENERAL PROVISIONS.

Section 325. Every offense now punishable either by the statute or common law of this Commonwealth and not specially provided for by this act shall continue to be an offense and to be punishable as heretofore.

Section 326. The provisions of this act shall not affect any civil rights or remedies now existing by virtue of the common law or of any statute.

Section 327. The omission to specify or affirm in this act any liability to any damages, penalty, forfeiture or other remedy, imposed by law, and allowed to be recovered or enforced in any civil action or proceeding, for any act or omission declared punishable herein, does not affect any right to recover or enforce the same.

Section 328. On conviction of any person for stealing, or for robbery, or burglary in which it shall appear that the defendant also committed stealing, or for any other offense in which it shall appear that the defendant unlawfully and fraudulently took or obtained property, or received property knowing the same to have been stolen or unlawfully and fraudulently taken, the defendant shall, in addition to the penalty hereinbefore prescribed, for any such offense, be adjudged to restore to the owner the property taken or received, or to pay to him the value of the same or so much thereof as may not be restored. And on conviction of any person for forgery, uttering or publishing any forged or counterfeit coin, bank note, bill, check, obligation, security or writing, the defendant shall in addition to the punishment hereinbefore prescribed for any such offense, be adjudged to make similar restitution, or other compensation, as in the case of stealing, to the person defrauded. Provided, that nothing herein shall prevent the party aggrieved, and to whom restitution is to be awarded, from being a competent witness on the trial of the offender.

Section 329. Every principal in the second degree, and every accessory before the fact, to any felony, for whom no punishment is or shall be specially prescribed by law, is subject to the same punishment as the principal in the first degree to such felony; and every person who counsels, aids or abets the commission of any misdemeanor, for whom no punishment is or shall be specially prescribed by law, is liable to be proceeded against and punished as the principal offender, and every accessory after the fact to any felony for whom no punishment is or shall be specially prescribed by law, shall be imprisoned not exceeding two years, or fined not exceeding one thousand dollars, or both.

Section 330. Any person who conspires with another to commit an offense, the conspiracy to commit such offense not being otherwise specially provided against by an act of assembly of this Commonwealth in froce at the time, is, if he conspire to commit an offense which is punishable by imprisonment for a term greater than ten years, guilty of a felony; if he conspire to commit an offense which punishable by imprisonment for a term less than ten years, he is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished as follows: If he conspire to commit an offense which is punishable by death or by imprisonment for life, he shall be imprisoned not exceeding twenty years, or fined not exceeding ten thousand dollars, or both; if he conspire to commit an offense which is punishable by a lesser period of imprisonment than imprisonment for life, he shall be imprisoned not exceeding one-half of the longest term, or fined not exceeding one-half of the largest sum prescribed for the commission of the offense he conspired to commit, or by both such imprisonment and fine.

Section 331. Any person who attempts to commit an offense, the attempt to commit such offense not being otherwise specially provided against by an act of assembly by this Commonwealth, in force at the time, is, if he attempt to commit an offense which is punishable by imprisonment for a term greater than ten years, guilty of a felony; if he attempt to commit an offense which is punishable by imprisonment for a term less than ten years, he is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished as follows: If he attempt to commit an offense which is punishable by death or by imprisonment for life, he shall be imprisoned not exceeding twenty years, or fined not exceeding ten thousand dollars, or both. If he attempt to commit an offense which is punishable by a lesser period of imprisonment than imprisonment for life, he shall be imprisoned not exceeding one-half of the longest term or fined not exceeding one-half of the largest sum prescribed for the commission of the offense he attempted to commit, or by both such imprisonment and fine.

Section 332. Any person who solicits another to commit an offense, the solicitation to commit such offense not being otherwise specially provided against by an act of assembly of this Commonwealth, in force at the time, is, guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both; the term of imprisonment and the fine in any case not to exceed the term of imprisonment and the fine prescribed by law for the offense solicited.

Section 333. Any person convicted of any offense is, notwithstanding such conviction, a competent witness in any cause or proceeding, civil or criminal; but the conviction of such person may be proved for the purpose of affecting the weight of his testimony.

Section 334. Except in the case of one convicted for a second time of murder in the second degree, any person convicted of an offense punishable with imprisonment for a term less than the life of the offender, who after such conviction is convicted of an offense subjecting him to imprisonment for a term less than life, shall be imprisoned not exceeding double the whole period of time which is or shall be prescribed for the offense of which he is last convicted.

Section 335. The repeal of existing laws or modifications thereof embraced in this act shall not affect any act done, or any right accruing or accrued, or any suit or proceeding had or commenced in any civil cause prior to said repeal or modifications, but all liabilities under said laws shall continue and may be enforced in the same manner as if said repeal or modifications had not been made.

All offenses committed, and all penalties, forfeitures or liabilities incurred prior to the taking effect hereof, under any law embraced in or changed, modified, or repealed by this act, may be prosecuted and punished in the same manner and with the same affect as if this act had not been passed.

AN ACT

NO. 84, APRIL 13, 1921, P. L. 136

Providing for the appointment and expenses of a commission of three persons to codify and revise laws relating to poor districts and the care of the poor, and making an appropriation.

Section 1. Be it enacted, Etc., That the Governor is authorized to appoint a commission of three persons to codify and revise the laws relating to poor districts and the care of the poor, and to report the same to the next General Assembly, recommending such changes in the existing law as may to such commission seem desirable.

Section 2. The members of the commission shall receive no compensation for their services, but shall be reimbursed for all expenses necessarily incurred in the performance of their duties.

Section 3. The Legislative Reference Bureau is directed to render to said commission all necessary assistance required in the performance of their said duties.

Section 4. To carry out the purpose of this act the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars ($2,500), or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby specifically appropriated to the use of the commission. Payment of the money shall be on order of the chairman of the commission and on warrant of the Auditor General.

Approved—The 13th day of April, A. D. 1921.

WM. C. SPROUL.

In February 1922, Governor Wm. C. Sproul, in accordance with the foregoing Act appointed* as Commissioners William J. Trembath, Esq., Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Harry A. Jones, Esq., Washington, Pa., and Edwin D. Solenberger, Philadelphia, Pa.

It was at once evident that before recommending any changes or revision and codification of the existing poor laws it would, of course, be necessary to assemble and to study them carefully. We also found it essential to have a complete list of all poor districts of the State, and almshouses under their control, properly classified.

The Legislative Reference Bureau, which has been very helpful to the Commission, made for us a compilation of the existing general laws of the Commonwealth relating to poor districts, the care and support of the poor and their legal settlement. An examination of these general acts and the various special and local laws bearing on tne subject indicated the need for much study and comparison of all the existing statutes before making any recommendations. In regard to the poor districts themselves, the information we needed was in a large part not available anywhere. We held hearings in various parts of the State in 1922 and conferred with interested officials of poor districts. As a result we secured much valuable information about the need for a revision and codification of the poor laws and a sufficient list of various poor districts in the State to show the importance of having the different systems properly classified and carefully studied in relation to present conditions and existing law. It became evident that more time was needed to collect the necessary information and to study it before making the report. In our preliminary survey we had expended about $700.00 of our $2,500.00 appropriation. Under these conditions, we asked for an extension of time and the reappropriation of the remaining $1,800.00 which was granted by Act 434, approved by Governor Gifford Pinchot, July 11, 1923, P. L. 1068.

*The Commission met and organized the same month with William J. Trembath, Chairman, Harry A. Jones, Vice-Chairman, and Edwin D. Solenberger, Secretary.

As long ago as 1876, when the Association of Directors of the Poor of Pennsylvania was organized, there was discussion in regard to the necessity for a revision and codification of the poor laws of the State. Special effort was made about 1882 to have a Commission appointed. In 1889, Governor Beaver, in his message to the Legislature, called attention to the "demand made officially by the Association of Poor Directors of the State and privately by many localities and individuals for a revision of our poor laws. We have no general system for the care of and provision of our poor. The laws upon this subject should, also, be thoroughly revised and codified."†

In compliance with the Governor's recommendation, the Legislature of 1889 passed a bill authorizing the appointment of a Commission to revise and codify the laws relating to the relief, care and maintenance of the poor and to report at the 1891 session of the Legislature. The Governor appointed the following citizens to constitute the Commission: Lewis Pughe, Chairman, William Lawson, D. Watson Rowe, W. Edward March, William Nevin Apple, Robert D. McGonigle, and J. Nevin Hill.

Without going into details in regard to the very interesting report of this Commission,* it may be stated that they recommended the abolition of all township, borough or other local districts and the creation of the county unit system with each county a Poor District. The Commission prepared and had introduced into the Senate and House of Representatives a bill "For the relief and employment of the poor within the several counties of this Commonwealth and for the establishment of a State Poor Law Department.". For various reasons, and perhaps in part because the proposed measure would have created a new Department in the State government, it failed of passage in spite of what was a very general desire on the part of many of the Poor Districts concerned for a revision and codification of the laws under which they operated.

There was no further attempt at general poor relief legislation until July 25, 1913, when Governor John K. Tener approved a joint resolution of the General Assembly "providing for a Commission to investigate and report upon the dependents of this Commonwealth and making an appropriation therefore." The Commissioners appointed by the Governor were: P. C. Boyle, Chairman, Judge Isaac Johnson, Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, Robert W. Herbert and Thomas J. Lynch.

This Commission, in its report to the Governor, dated February 11, 1915, referred to "the confusion that reigns in the matter of poor law administration within the Commonwealth" and "the need to repeal the present statutes and substitute for them one complete, comprehensive act which shall bring about uniform procedure in relation to poor law administration." The Commission called attention to the lack of uniformity in provision for almshouse care and to the fact that the territorial arrangement of Poor Districts is irregular and unsystematic in many counties. They recommended that the county be made the minimum unit for Poor Districts, "to promote a more economical, efficient and humane administration than at present exists."

However, the excellent suggestion of Governor Tener's Commission did not result in any revision and codification, but did have the beneficial result of again stimulating interest in the subject.

In 1917, the Association of Directors of the Poor of Pennsylvania adopted a resolution authorizing the appointment of "a special Committee of five members of the Association, all of whom shall be learned in the law, who shall make a report at the next annual meeting of the Association on the Poor Laws of this Commonwealth together with a proposed Act of Assembly codifying the same." The Association did not hold its annual meeting in the fall of 1918 on account of the influenza epidemic.

At the Convention of the Association of Directors of the Poor in 1919, various difficulties in the way of codification were discussed, but no action was taken until the Convention of 1920 when a resolution was passed urging that legislative authority be secured for the appointment of a Commission to revise and codify the poor laws. In accordance with this resolution, the Committee on Legislation of the Association of Directors of the Poor had prepared and was instrumental in helping to secure the passage of the Act* which resulted in the appointment of the present Commission.

While the Commission has examined to some extent the history of poor relief legislation in Pennsylvania, it does not seem relevant to present a review of that in this connection. The series of measures that contain the fundamentals of the Pennsylvania poor laws go back for their origin to the reign of Henry VIII in England. We have inherited from the colonial days a form of poor law system and administration brought over from the mother country. In the succeeding years there have been passed various general acts and much local and special legislation, but there has been no revision and codification.

Under these conditions, it is not surprising that we have lack of uniformity in our poor laws and their administration. Naturally some of the survivals of the ancient system are no longer adapted to present day conditions in our State.

In addition to the compilation of the existing general poor laws already referred to, Mr. John H. Fertig, Assistant Director of the Legislative Reference Bureau, under date of April 1, 1924, submitted a "survey with regard to the numerous local poor districts in the several counties of the Commonwealth, being a study of the many general and local laws which have been adopted from time to time." In commenting on this, Mr. Ferting wrote "Necessarily the result of this survey is unsatisfactory in many respects. It is frequently impossible from a search of the laws to definitely fix the status of many local poor districts or their exact territory. Possibly the worst confusion is caused by municipal incorporations and the annexation of territory. This brings about a constant changing of municipal lines while the lines of the poor district remain rigid. Thus the territory of a city or borough, due to its recent incorporation or its growth, is found to lie partly in several poor districts.....One thing is apparent as the result of this survey: that the local poor districts and the laws governing these districts are so numerous and their statue so questionable that the adoption of some general system for the whole State seems to be the only remedy."

Both of these valuable reports by the Legislative Reference Bureau are on file there. While they are too long to make it practicable for us to print them in this connection, they may be consulted for reference by anyone interested.

Using the above noted reports of the Legislative Reference Bureau and the information the Commission collected in regard to the 583 poor districts of the State, we present the following brief statement of the present system of poor law administration in Pennsylvania.

I. County Unit System administered by Directors of the Poor in the following 28 counties:

Adams	Chester	Greene	Montgomery
Allegheny	Cumberland	Huntingdon	Northampton
Bedford	Dauphin	Lancaster	Perry
Berks	Delaware	Lebanon	Schuylkill
Blair	Erie	Lehigh	Somerset
Bucks	Fayette	Mercer	Washington
Cambria	Franklin	Mifflin	York

Exception: In Allegheny County, the City of Pittsburgh is not included in the county Poor District—the care of the poor within the city limits being left to the municipality.

Almshouses: Each of these 28 counties owns and maintains an almshouse.

These county Poor Districts were created by special law—the earliest being Lancaster and Chester in 1798 and the most recent being Blair in 1860. The corporate name in each county is "The Directors of the Poor and of the House of Employment for the County of....." The administration is in the hands of three Directors of the Poor (except Lancaster County which has six Directors) elected for four years and receiving a fixed salary for their services. These Directors furnish an annual budget to the County Commissioners who place the item in the county budget and raise the money necessary by the county taxation.

II. County unit administered by County Commissioners acting as Directors of the Poor in the following 15 counties:

Beaver	Clearfield	Indiana	Tioga
Bradford	Crawford	Jefferson	Venango
Butler	Elk	McKean	Warren
Clarion	Forest	Potter

*Act No. 84 of April 13, 1921, P. L. 136.

Exception: In McKean County, the City of Bradford is not a part of the county Poor District but has a separate organization and an almshouse.

Almshouses: A county almshouse is owned and maintained by each of these 15 counties.

The county unit system in force in the above counties is created under the General Law of June 4, 1879, P. L. 78, the provisions of which created the county a Poor District and made it a part of the duties of the County Commissioners to act as Directors of the Poor. The County Commissioners receive additional compensation on a scale fixed according to the population of the county. The Act excepts from a District created under its provisions the territory of any existing city. The Act is optional and is in force only in those counties which accept its provisions by vote of the electors. The tax levy is limited to a maximum of one cent on the dollar.

III. County unit administered by Directors of the Home for the Destitute:

Westmoreland County

The only county having this special system is Westmoreland which was created a county unit in 1849 under Directors of the Poor. In 1885 by the Act of June 4, P. L. 72, it is provided that the Act of 1849, April 5, P. L. 353, is to be repealed so as to bring the regulation, management and control of the House of Employment and support of the poor under the provisions of the Act of May 8, 1876, P. L. 149, and its supplements. The corporate name is "Directors of a Home for the Destitute of the County of ....." Three Directors are elected for a four-year term. The Directors submit their expense budget to the County Commissioners who collect the money by county taxation.

IV. Township and Borough System:

Administered by Overseers of the Poor in the following 11 counties:

Armstrong	Fulton*	Pike*	Union
Cameron*	Juniata*	Snyder*	Wyoming*
Centre	Monroe†	Sullivan

Almshouses: The seven counties marked with an asterisk (*) do not have any almshouses. The other counties in this group, while they do not have county almshouses, each have one or more township or borough almshouses.

Overseers of the poor—usually two in number—are elected. They are authorized to levy taxes for poor purposes, subject to certain restrictions. With the approval of the Court, they may provide a poor house, or two or more township or borough districts may unite and provide a poor house or poor farm. The overseers may contract for lodging for the poor by boarding them out and they are also authorized to bind out apprentices to the age of 21 and to employ destitute persons on roads or on poor farms, and they "must find work for able-bodied out of employment." Outdoor relief is not specifically mentioned as a matter of "relief." Overseers must provide (a) for every poor person settled in district; (b) means of subsistence for persons unable to work; (c) support, shelter, medicine, medical attendance and nursing for needy, sick and injured persons, and burial; (d) treatment for indigent persons in danger of hydrophobia, including Pasteur treatment; (e) care of quarantined poor; (f) and may make appropriations to institutions assisting poor.

V. City, Township and Borough System.

Administered by Overseers of the Poor in the three following counties:

Clinton Lawrence Lycoming

Clinton County: The following modifications are to be noted:

Lock Haven—The Act of March 27, 1866, P. L. 350, gives the council of Lock Haven power to levy a poor tax not exceeding five mills, and this body appoints annually one Overseer of the Poor.

*See footnote concerning Juniata County.
†See footnote 3.

Renovo—The Act of February 17, 1872, P. L. 113, gives the council of Renovo power to levy the poor tax, and this body appoints annually one Overseer of the Poor and fixes his compensation.

†Lawrence County. The only exception in the County from the township and borough Overseer system is the City of New Castle, which by the Act of April 10, 1873, P. L. 606, has "Directors of the Poor."

Lycoming County. Operates under the township and borough Overseer system except that the City of Williamsport is constituted a separate Poor District with Directors appointed by the City Council.

Almshouses: There are no county almshouses in this group and none of the townships or boroughs of these 3 counties have almshouses, but each of the city Districts have local almshouses.

VI. Mixed Township and Borough Districts. This system applies to six counties as follows:

Carbon	Luzerne	Susquehanna
Columbia	Montour	Wayne

Carbon County. Six boroughs and four townships, belong to the Middle Coal Field Poor District which includes a portion of Luzerne County. The remainder of the county has the township and borough system with Overseers of the Poor.

Columbia County. The borough and township system exists with two mixed Poor Districts; namely, Bloom Poor District, including three townships one borough, and Bloomsburg Town, and Centralia Borough and Conynham Township District.

Luzerne County. Includes the township and borough system, and mixed Districts as follows:

Central Poor District, including the City of Wilkes-Barre and 18 boroughs and six townships.

Middle Coal Field District, including the City of Hazleton, three boroughs and two townships and a portion of Carbon County.

Jenkins Township, Pittston City and Pittston Township Poor District, including Pittston City and six boroughs and two townships and a portion of Lackawanna County.

Montour County. The township and borough system prevails, except one mixed District; namely, Danville Borough and Mahoning Township Poor District. For possible exception in the case of Washingtonville Borough, see footnote to page 37.

Susquehanna County. The township and borough system prevails, with mixed Districts as follows:

Auburn and Rush Township Poor District, and Susquehanna Depot and Oakland Township Poor District.

Wayne County. Township and borough system, except a mixed District; namely, Honesdale Borough and Texas Township Poor District.

Almshouses. Each of the mixed Districts have an almshouse, but there are none for the township and borough districts, except one in Columbia that is closed, and two township poor houses in Montour, and one township and two borough almshouses in Susquehanna. There are no county almshouses in this group.

VII. City, Mixed and Township and Borough System: Each of these systems are found in the two following counties:

Lackawanna	Northumberland

Lackawanna County. While the county has both township and borough Poor Districts, most of the territory is included in mixed Districts; namely, Blakely Poor District including six boroughs and one-half of another; Jenkins Township, Pittston City and Pittston Township Poor District including two townships, three boroughs, 22nd Ward of the City of Scranton, and a portion of Luzerne County; Lakeview Poor District including eight townships and four boroughs; and Scranton Poor District including the Borough of Dunmore and all of Scranton City except the 22nd Ward.

Northumberland County. The township and borough system prevails in the County, except Coal Township and Shamokin Borough Poor District which is a mixed District, continue as separate Poor Districts.

Almshouses: Each of the mixed Districts and city Districts have almshouses. In Lackawanna County none of the township or borough Districts have almshouses. In Northumberland County one township and two boroughs have almshouses, while the almshouse for another borough is now closed. There are no county almshouses in this group.

VIII. Municipal Government System and City Ward Districts:

Philadelphia

This is the only county having this system. The Philadelphia Consolidated Act of 1854 exempted from the City Poor District the Roxborough Poor District and the township Poor Districts of Bristol, Byberry, Germantown, Moreland, and Oxford and Lower Dublin. These are now included in certain wards of the City of Philadelphia but continue as separate Poor Districts.

The Department of Welfare of the City of Philadelphia which is coterminous with the County, operates under a special Act known as "An Act for the Better Government of Cities of the First Class of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania," approved June 25, 1919, which established the Department of Public Welfare to "have the care, management, administration and supervision of all charitable, correctional and reformatory institutions and agencies (including any House of Correction, but not including hospitals), the control and government of which is entrusted to such city." The Director of this Department, therefore, by virtue of this Act, become a Director of the Poor. The care of the poor in the Department however, extends only to that part of the city not included in the above Poor Districts.

Almshouses:—

The Philadelphia Home for the Indigent is under the jurisdiction of the City Department of Public Welfare, while the Poor Districts of Germantown, Oxford and Lower Dublin, and Roxborough each have an almshouse. Bristol, Byberry and Moreland Districts do not have almshouses.

From the foregoing, it will be seen that the county unit plan is found in 44 counties administered under three systems—by Directors of the Poor, by County Commissioners acting as Directors of the Poor, and by Directors of a Home for the Destitute. An exclusively township and borough Overseers system is found in 11 counties, and three other counties with the addition of a City District in each one. Six counties have the township and borough system in part, but each with one or more Mixed Districts. Two counties include within their borders a combination of City, Mixed, Township and Borough Districts, and one county has a Municipal Government system and City Ward Districts—former Borough and Township Districts.

Five hundred and eighty-three (583) is the total number of Poor Districts we have found in the 67 counties of Pennsylvania. Table No. 1, pages 16-17, shows the distribution of all the Poor Districts classified by counties, and the wide variation in the number of districts within a given county, ranging from one district to 52.

Each of the 44 county Districts has an almshouse serving the entire county, except in Allegheny County an additional institution is maintained by the City of Pittsburgh, and in McKean County the City of Bradford has an almshouse seperate from the one maintained by the county. Each city, municipal government or mixed District has an almshouse. A striking difference is noted in the counties having in whole or in part the township or borough system. Seven of these counties have no almshouses within their borders, while 16 other such counties have only local almshouses mostly confined to small Districts—leaving a large part of their territory without provisions for indoor care. Only 10 of the 381 township Districts and only 11 of the 137 borough Districts have

(1) Lawrence County has voted to adopt the county unit system.

(2) Luzerne County in addition has a part of its territory in two other mixed districts—one counted in Carbon County and the other counted in Lackawanna County.

(3) Monroe County has voted to adopt the county unit system.

(4) Philadelphia, includes the former Borough of Roxborough, now part of the 22nd, 23rd, 35th, 41st and 42nd Wards of the City of Philadelphia, and the former townships of Bristol now in 42nd Ward of Philadelphia, Germantown now in 22nd Ward, Oxford and Lower Dublin now part of 23rd, 35th and 41st Wards, Byberry now part of 35th Ward and Moreland now part of 35th Ward.

almshouses. This leaves without almshouses 371 townships with a population of 336,438 and 126 boroughs with a population of 171,988. Thus a total of 497 Poor Districts, embracing a population of 508,426 people, have no provision for indoor care of their aged and infirmed public dependents. Tables No. 2 and No. 3, on pages 20 and 21, give further details, and show the number of almshouses in relation to the population of the counties and the number of poor districts within their borders. Table No. 3 shows how little relationship there is between the size of the county and the number of almshouses or poor districts.

The smallest and the largest county in the State have the same number of poor districts—seven in each. The next to the largest county has only two poor districts while the next to the smallest county has 13. A county with 14,101 population has 23 poor districts or an average of one for each 613 people in the county. This county does not have an almshouse, while another county with the same population has three almshouses and 10 poor districts. A rural county with 27,000 population has 27 poor districts, while another rural county with 30,000 population has only one poor district. Each has an almshouse, but one serves the entire county while the other is limited to one of the local poor districts in the county. An agricultural county with 34,000 population has 36 poor districts and five almshouses, while another agricultural county with the same population has only one poor district and one almshouse. Similarily an agricultural county with 53,000 population has one almshouse and one poor district, administered by the County Commissioners, while a neighboring county with similar size and conditions has 27 poor districts and five almshouses.

These counties have about the same topographical conditions and about the same relative density of population. Again, a county with 7,400 population has an almshouse with County Commissioners acting as Directors of the Poor, while the next larger and the next smaller counties have 13 poor districts each and no almshouses. These three counties are approximately the same size and have about the same relative density of population. The smallest poor district in the State has only 100 population, a number have less than 200. About half of the township and borough districts do not exceed 950 in population.

Further illustration of the wide variation in poor law administration in counties, both with the same, and also with very different conditions, may be found in Table No. 3, page 21. Table No. 4, page 22, shows the marked range in the population of the counties operating under the various poor district systems. The total population, grouped by counties according to the system each has, is also shown.

Three counties of about the same area, density and kind of population have, in one a single poor district, with one almshouse under a county Poor Board, in the second 35 Township and Borough Poor Boards and four almshouses, while in the third there is one county poor district and one almshouse administered by County Commissioners. A county with 528 square miles and a population of 110 per square mile has one poor district and one almshouse administered by Directors of the Poor, while a county with about the same area and density of population has 45 poor districts and 2 almshouses. Again, a county with 806 square miles and a population of 43 per square mile has one poor district and one almshouse administered by the County Commissioners, while a county with about the same area and density of population has a mixed, township, and borough system with 36 poor districts and 5 almshouses.

A county with 451 square miles and a population of 634 per square mile has a combination of city, mixed, and township and borough poor districts numbering 21, with five almshouses, while a county of the same area and having the same system of administration with 36 poor districts and five almshouses has a population density of only 268 per square mile.

Many other illustrations could be given showing that there does not appear to be much relationship between the size of a county, density of population, total population, and the kind of poor district system that it happens to have. Further details will be found in Table No. 5, page 23, showing the range of area and population per square mile in relation to the various types of poor districts.

An examination of Table No. 6, page 24, shows that a majority of the counties of the State already have the county unit system of poor districts. All counties of the second, Fourth and Fifth Classes but one are on a county unit basis; in the Sixth Class all but four have county districts and one of them voted recently to adopt the county system*; in the Seventh Class counties there are only six exceptions to the county district plan and one of them has recently voted to adopt it*. In counties of the Third Class, one has the county unit system while two have mixed, city, borough and township districts.

The Eighth Class counties have only one on the county unit plan—all the others having the township and borough system except one which has within its borders a mixed district. The First Class County has a municipal government system and city ward districts—former borough and township districts. Thus, in the 56 counties from the Second to the Seventh Class inclusive, all but 13 are on a county unit basis, while of the 11 counties in the First and the Eighth Classes only one has the county system.

[1]Carbon County. Includes Middle Coal Field Poor District, a portion of whose territory lies in Luzerne County.

[2]Lackawanna County. Includes Jenkins Township, Pittston City and Pittston Township Poor District, a portion of whose territory lies in Luzerne County.

[3]Monroe and Lawrence Counties have voted to abolish their township and borough poor districts and to adopt the county district system.

A. In the above Poor Districts, at present there are no Directors of the Poor elected for five Township Poor Districts and for three Borough Poor Districts. It is believed that a number of other Township and Borough Districts are without active officers.

B. Closed Almshouses. In addition to the above, there are four closed at present: Madison Township Almshouse, Widnoon, Armstrong County, Madison Township Home, Jerseytown, Columbia County, Northumberland Borough Almshouse, Northumberland County, and Selinsgrove Borough Poor House, Snyder County.

The County Commissioners act as Directors of the Poor in all of the counties marked with an asterisk (), except in the county of McKean the City of Bradford is not included—as it has an Independent District. †The counties marked with a dagger (†) have separate Poor Boards with jurisdiction over the entire county, except in Allegheny County where the City of Pittsburgh is not included. In Westmoreland County the Directors of the Home for the Destitute of the county operate substantially as do the Directors of the Poor in the counties marked with an asterisk (*). The counties not marked have township, borough or municipal government districts or a mixed system. Fuller explanation is given elsewhere. See pages 10 to 15.

(A) Act No. 246 of May 12, 1921, P. L. 538, provides in counties of the 6th class, subject to a majority vote of the electors of the county, for the abolition of the present Poor Districts and the creation of County Poor Districts under the management, direction and control of the County Commissioners.

(B) Act No. 401 of May 24, 1921, P. L. 1081, makes substantially the same provision for counties of the 7th class.

(C) Act No. 89 of June 4, 1879, P. L. 78, also provides a method by which the Poor Districts of the county, subject to certain restrictions, may be consolidated into a county unit under the jurisdiction of the County Commissioners.

A presumption in favor of the county unit for poor law administration is created by the fact that a majority of the counties of Pennsylvania have already adopted it. The county poor relief system also prevails in almost all other states in the Union. The county unit system in Pennsylvania has been found to be adaptable to counties chiefly rural as well as to those containing large urban centers of population. All types of counties are represented among those now operating on a county-wide basis for poor relief. This includes counties whose interests are mainly agricultural or manufacturing, or mining, or a combination of all three. The small local districts on a township or borough basis are really a survival of the poor relief system as it was transplanted from England into Pennsylvania in the colonial days before the present division of counties existed. In some Pennsylvania counties the poor districts were originally established on a county basis, while others first having the township and borough system have abandoned it in favor of the county unit system. As stated elsewhere, 44 of the counties, or about two-thirds of the total, already have the county district plan.

Inadequate provision is made for outdoor relief in many of the township and borough districts—in fact a number of them have not even elected overseers. In some cases those elected have not taken the trouble to qualify and to enter upon their duties. In others, it is known that they are inactive except when someone hunts them up and brings cases to their attention. In the small districts where they do not maintain institutions it is not practicable for the overseers to have an office or headquarters, and many people do not know who they are nor where to find them. It was only with the greatest difficulty that the Commission succeeded in getting the corporate names of many of these local districts. In a considerable number of cases it has not been possible to secure the names and addresses of the overseers themselves.

Under these conditions, cases of real need are frequently not brought to the attention of local poor relief officials when they should be. Thus, families are needlessly broken up.

Widows and deserted wives are compelled to give up their children for lack of the attention and assistance that are given where there are county wide poor districts with headquarters and a systematic division of the territory for relief purposes. In the long run, this is not an economy for the counties having these small local poor districts. Neglect of families in distress and failure to give prompt relief often means a larger expenditure later in caring for dependent, neglected, delinquent or defective children as well as for adults. The territory having the township and borough poor district system has the least provision for private charitable assistance. Many of these districts are remote from the larger urban centers where the private social agencies are mostly to be found. This makes the need for adequate provision for the right kind of public relief and care all the more important.

Much of the territory covered by the township and borough poor districts does not have any provision for almshouse care. This applies to 497 township and borough districts, with a total population of 508,426 (as shown in Table No. 2). In some cases it is known that neglect and hardship exist, as no other provision has been made for the care of sick and aged infirm persons unable to look after themselves without assistance. It is known that some such cases are boarded out in private families. Perhaps, theoretically, this boarding out plan is good. In practice, however, many complaints have been made that the method is both expensive and unsatisfactory to all concerned. Conditions are even worse, when costs are kept down by boarding out, with the lowest bidder, the unfortunate dependent.

The county district system would lighten the burden of erecting and maintaining an almshouse by spreading out the cost over a considerable territory. The per capita, if proper care be given the inmates, is necessarily higher in a small almshouse. Experience has shown that an almshouse serving a larger territory with a correspondingly larger number of inmates can give better service. It makes possible classification of those needing its care and permits of a more satisfactory administration in all respects. It also makes it possible to secure the services of more competent officials with better pay than in the small local almshouse with only a few inmates.

The belief that the administration of poor relief on the "Township or Borough Plan" is the most economical, is chiefly due to the fact that the actual costs for all these small local districts in any given county are never brought together in one bill. The taxpayer does not realize the total amount. A small stipend paid out for a few days' service per year to from twenty up to one hundred overseers, as is the case in some counties, gives much less value to the taxpayer in return for the money than to combine all these pittances into a salary that will secure one or more qualified persons, according to the size of the county, to give their entire time. Again, the overseer in the small district, with only a few cases, does not gain the experience and understanding to enable him to do as good a piece of public charity work as officers giving more time and serving an entire county. Studies that have been made of costs indicate that when all factors are taken into consideration, the expense is greater for the small townships and boroughs on the basis of the actual number of persons helped as compared with the larger districts, considering both on a per capita basis. The districts that, the Commission recommends, should be abolished in favor of the county unit system are, we believe, too small for the most efficient and economical administration.

The small township and borough poor districts have had a disproportionate amount of expensive litigation over legal settlement questions. Easy means of transportation and changing conditions affecting the employment of unskilled labor has resulted in the boundary lines of these local poor districts being crossed constantly by those seeking employment or a change in the hope of improving their condition. It is known that a considerable number of applications for relief come from transient families, as well as from homeless men and women who move frequently. The poor laws contain provisions in regard to the care of public dependents without settlement. Thus many township and borough poor districts are called upon to deal with those not having legal settlement within their borders—although they may have been residents of the particular county for years. Many questions have arisen between these small districts about modes of obtaining legal settlement relating to families as a whole and to husbands, wives, minors, widows, deserted wives, unmarried women, illegitimates and others. An examination of the cases that have been before the Courts shows that a large proportion have been between these local poor districts within a county. The abolition of 459 such districts in 19 counties and the establishment of county-wide districts in their place would eliminate such needless litigation. Unnecessary hardship on the part of the unfortunate when in real need of relief would also be avoided.

The county poor districts have an advantage over small local districts in that they are coterminous with other county activities with which co-operation is desirable. The Mothers' Assistance Fund for the relief of widows is administered on a county basis. The Juvenile Court is on a county basis, and orders made in court for the public support of dependent, neglected or delinquent children, are on the County Commissioners. In some cases dependent children, who should be looked after by the poor law officials, are taken to the county Juvenile Court because those interested in seeing that they receive the protection and care of the public authorities cannot readily find the local overseers—they seldom have official headquarters. Moreover they usually do not have the facilities to care for children. More and more health and other welfare activities both public and private are centering about the county seat with the county as a unit of operation. Again poor law officials have important functions to perform in cooperation with various State institutions in providing for the mentally ill—the feeble-minded and the insane, the blind, the deaf and dumb, incurables and many other special cases. All this can be done more effectively, promptly and conveniently by a county board than by a small local board of limited jurisdiction. Manifestly the county district makes possible a higher development of poor laws administration. Interested and capable officials can, we believe, operate to much better advantage for all, concerned on a county basis.

The proposed code does not transfer any authority from the local community to the State. The people of the county through their own county officials will continue to determine how much they will spend both for outdoor relief in caring for poor families in their own homes and for indoor relief in an almshouse, if they decide to have one.

In the Commission's draft of the proposed Act to codify the poor laws, we have made special provision to avoid disturbing the existing county unit poor districts†. Exceptions were also made to avoid changes at present in any counties of the First, Second and Third Classes and in Carbon in the Sixth Class which has a mixed poor district including in its territory a portion of one of the Third Class counties. We think an improvement could be made in the present poor district plan of some of the counties concerned, but these exceptions are made now, because they present conditions which ought to be made the subject of further study in cooperation with those interested. In these larger counties the other duties of the County Commissioners make it impracticable for them to administer the poor laws as they now do in some of the smaller counties. While the general principles in the Code recommended by the Commission hold with respect to these counties, a method will have to be worked out to meet the conditions found in their present systems.

Among the more important changes that would result from the enactment of the Code as submitted are the following.

1—Four hundred and fifty-nine local poor districts in 19 counties would be abolished. This includes four City, and seven Mixed Poor Districts, and 334 Townships and 114 Borough Poor Districts and applies to the following counties:

Armstrong, Cameron, Center, Clinton, Columbia, Fulton, Juniata, *Lawrence, Lycoming, *Monroe, Montour, Northumberland, Pike, Snyder, Sullivan, Susquehanna, Union, Wayne, and Wyoming.

2—In place of these 459 small districts, 19 County Poor Districts, to be administered by County Commissioners acting as Directors of he Poor, would be established. This plan, now in successful operation in 15 counties of about the same size, avoids the need for new and separate county poor boards.

3—Twenty-nine (29) local almshouses would be abolished, or converted into county institutions, in 19 counties. These include four City and seven Mixed District almshouses, eight belonging to Township Districts and 10 maintained by Boroughs.

†See Chapter I, Art. I, Sec. 2 to Sec. 8, and Chapter II, Art. I, Sec. 200 and Sec. 202, page 46 and 48. See also Table 6.

*Lawrence and Monroe Counties have recently voted to abolish their local poor districts in favor of the county unit system.

4—County almshouses can be established in the 19 counties named if desired, or they may create joint poor districts with an adjoining county and jointly erect and maintain an almshouse for their common use. They may also make some other provision for their dependents needing indoor care and thus continue, as seven of these counties are now doing, without almshouses. In any case the legal authority is provided for a county almshouse when one is wanted.

5—The authority of Justices of the Peace to grant orders of relief is withdrawn and repealed thus leaving the Directors of the Poor in all counties free and responsible to make their own investigations and decisions in poor relief matters.

6—The restriction now applying to many poor districts that outdoor relief may not be given to those refusing to go to the almshouse is removed so that Directors of the Poor may grant such aid to needy families in their homes as, in their judgment, the circumstances require.

7—Authority is given to Directors of the Poor to appoint in addition to the staff for the almshouse or county home, "an attorney, a trained welfare worker and all other necessary employees and assistants."

8—Directors of the Poor are declared to be county officers in districts co-extensive with the county, and as such are subject to all the general laws relating to county officers.

9—Four classes of poor districts are created on the basis of population, thus providing a convenient way of referring to them.

10—Special provision is made to enable two or more counties to establish joint poor districts with a common almshouse.

11—Obsolete statutes—some of them dating back to colonial days—have been omitted, conflicting enactments have been harmonized, and some Acts have been modified to meet present day conditions.

This report is not presented as ideal or final. It is, we believe, merely a beginning in the right direction. While urging the county unit system, we recognize that public relief work in some of the counties now on that basis has not always been all that could be desired. We know also that some smaller districts have done good work considering the limitations under which they operate. Undoubtedly he overseers in local districts, equally with the directors of county boards, desire to give the best public service that they can. It is to the legal and administrative aspects of the question, rather than to individual officials, that we direct attention. We have not gone fully into questions regarding the quality and kind of outdoor relief given in all the various types of poor districts. It has not been practicable for the Commission to make the necessary investigations in order to determine the outdoor relief policy of all the districts. We do know that there are wide differences in practice. For example, the Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, City Departments of Welfare, do not give outdoor relief as such. They indicate a preference for private philanthropy which supports many social agencies and institutions in both cities. On the other hand, in many poor districts where public outdoor relief is given there are few, if any, private family relief agencies or child caring organizations. Again outdoor relief is given by some poor districts that are well supplied with private charitable agencies. We have had to leave untouched the question of the relationship that should exist between public and private relief agencies. Similarly, we have not been able to go into many other questions that might properly have been considered as a part of our task. As a Children's Commission was created by an Act of Assembly in 1923, to report especially on laws relating to children, we have not conisdered such statutes except as incidental to the poor laws.

We have tried to block out the main divisions of a general poor relief code in such form as to permit of modification and extension by amendments from time to time as experience shows to be desirable. Existing enactments have been disturbed as little as possible. Many of them have been incorporated in the proposed code—sometimes with slight modifications to eliminate conflicting provisions, or to harmonize them with new sections. Most poor districts in the State are already subject, to some degree, to laws that have many things in common. The language of the various acts, especially with reference to administrative duties and responsibilities is often quite similar. Accompanying this report, as an appenidx, we submit our recommendations in the form of a draft of a bill for introduction in the General Assembly, to be known as the "General Poor Relief Act of 1925."

For its own use, the Commission found it necessary to have a complete and accurate directory of all the poor districts in the State. One did not exist and very little of the data needed to compile such a directory was to be found. After the expenditure of much time and effort, we succeeded in collecting the necessary information both in regard to the poor districts and the almshouses. Believing that this would be of interest and value to the General Assembly in considering our proposed Act and also that it ought to be preserved, we have included it as Exhibit A in our Report, pages 31 to 40.

We have also prepared a map with explanatory notes which we present herewith as Exhibit B, page 41.

Special mention should be made of Mr. James N. Moore, Director of the Legislative Reference Bureau, and Mr. John H. Fertig, Assistant Director, and their staff for their competent and indispensable help in making available necessary legal data. Directors of the Poor, County Commissioners and solicitors of poor districts have given important help. The Department of Welfare has co-operated in collecting and verifying data. We are also under obligations for help received from many other sources in collecting information for this report.

DRAFT OF A PROPOSED ACT.

THE GENERAL POOR RELIEF ACT OF 1925

AN ACT

Concerning poor relief and the creation and government of poor districts and the administration of the same, and revising, amending, consolidating and changing the law relating thereto.

CHAPTER I.

Preliminary Provisions

ARTICLE I.

Sec. 1. Name and Effective Date. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That this act shall be known, and may be cited, as "The General Poor Relief Act of 1925". This act shall take effect on the first Monday of January, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-six.

Sec. 2. What Acts Does Not Include. This act does not include any provisions, and shall not be construed to repeal any acts, relating to—

(a, The procedure for the collection of municipal claims by liens.

(b) The amount and method of incurring or increasing bonded indebtedness.

(c) Election officers and conduct of election.

(d) Care of the insane or feeble-minded, epileptic or habit cases.

(e) Boards of Health.

(f) Common schools.

(g) Constables.

(h) Justices of the Peace, except as to their authority to grant orders of poor relief which is hereby expressly withdrawn and repealed.

(i) Validation of elections, bonds, ordinances, and acts of corporate officers.

Sec. 3. Continuation of Existing Laws. The provisions of this act so far as they are the same as those of existing laws are intended as a continuation of such laws and not as new enactments. The repeal by this act of any Act of Assembly or part thereif shall not revive any act or part thereof heretofore repealed or superseded. The provisions of this act shall not affect any act done, liability incurred or right accrued or vested, or affect any suit or prosecution pending or to be instituted, to enforce any right of penalty or punish any offense under the authority of such repealed laws. Any person holding office under any act of Assembly repealed by this act shall continue to hold such office until the expiration of the term thereof, subject to the conditions attached to such office prior to the passage of this act.

Sec. 4. Provisions Severable. The provisions of this act shall be severable, and if any of the provisions shall be held to be unconstitutional such decision shall not affect the validity of any of the remaining provisions of this act.

Sec. 5. Reference to Prior Act by Title. Whenever, in this act, reference is made to any act by title, such reference shall also apply to and include any codification wherein the provisions of the act referred to are substantially re-enacted.

Sec. 6. Preservations of Existing Rights and Liabilities. Whenever the territory of any poor district is changed in extent, all liabilities, incurred rights, and all suits and prosecutions pending or to be instituted to enforce any right or penalty accrued, or punish any offense committed, prior to such change, shall continue with the same force and effect as if no such change had been made.

Sect. 7. Act not Complete System for Poor Taxes. This act does not provide a complete system for the assessment and collection of poor taxes. All acts and parts of acts relating to poor taxes, in force prior to the passage of this act, which are not re-enacted or specifically or impliedly repealed by this act, shall remain in force in the same manner as prior to the passage of this act.

Sec. 8. Act Supersedes and Prevails over Previous Enactments Found Inconsistent or Incompatible. The provisions if this act shall supersede and prevail over any previous enactments, ordinances, regulations and rules found to be inconsistent or incompatible herewith.

ARTICLE II.

Definitions

Sec. 10. Definitions. The following are defined within the naming of this act:—

(a) A poor person is one who is unable to maintain himself or those dependent upon him.

(b) Directors shall be taken to include and mean, unless obviously otherwise, directors of the poor, county commissioners acting as directors of the poor, guardians of the poor, directors of the home for the destitute, overseers, overseers of the poor, or any other public officer by whatever title designated, chargeable with the duty of maintenance of paupers or the granting of poor relief.

(c) District means and includes any political sub-division of the state operating as a separate unite or quasi-municipal corporation in caring for the poor.

(d) Almshouse shall include and mean the county home, poor house, home for the destitute or any other building or place, by whatever title designated, where poor persons are maintained at the public expense.

(e) A settlement of a person shall be his right under the provisions of this act to relief in any particular poor district.

(f) The word "may" shall be construed to be permissive.

(g) The masculine noun or pronoun shall include the feminine.

(h) Public charge shall mean a person to whom poor relief from public funds is necessary for his maintenance; a pauper.

CHAPTER II.

Creation and Administration of Poor Districts

ARTICLE I.

Sec. 200. Each County Made a District With Four Exceptions. For the purpose of furnishing relief to poor persons, giving them employment, and carrying out the provisions of this act, each county of this Commonwealth is hereby created a district to be known as "..... County Poor District'. Provided, however,—

(a) The several poor districts within the County of Philadelphia shall remain as at present fixed and administered.

(b) Out of the County of Allegheny shall be excepted the City of Pittsburgh, which shall continue a separate poor district as at present.

(c) Out of the County of McKean shall be excepted the City of Bradford, which shall continue a separate poor district as at present.

(d) The Counties of Carbon, Luzerne and Lackawanna shall be excepted herefrom, so far as relates to the territorial sub-division thereof into districts.

Sec. 201. Four Classes of Districts. Poor districts coterminous with counties having a population of 1,500,000 inhabitants and over shall constitute districts of the first class.

Sec. 201. Poor districts coterminous with counties having a population of 1,500,000 inhabitants and over shall constitute districts of the first class.

Poor districts coterminous with counties having a population of 800,000 and more, but less than 1,500,000 inhabitants, shall constitute districts of the second class.

Poor districts coterminous with counties having a population of 100,000 and more, but less than 800,000 inhabitants, shall constitute districts of the third class.

Poor districts coterminous with counties having a population of less than 100,000 inhabitants shall constitute districts of the fourth class.

Sec. 202. Poor Districts System Preserved in Excepted Territory. In poor districts of the first and second classes and in the Counties of Carbon, Lackawanna and Luzerne, the number of directors, the manner of their election or appointment, and the administrative, system of giving poor relief shall continue as now fixed by law.

ARTICLE II.

Sec. 210. Disposition of Property of Old District. Upon the taking effect of this act the title to all real and personal property, equipment and supplies now owned by the various township, borough, city, or other poor districts which have been abolished is disposed of as follows, to wit:

That of each township poor district is hereby transferred to and vested in the township in which located. The township commissioners in first class townships and supervisors in second class townships are hereby given the power and authority to sell the same and transfer the title thereto. The proceeds thereof, together with all other moneys of such districts, shall be used for township purposes.

That of each borough poor district is hereby transfered to and vested in the borough in which located. The council and burgess of such borough are hereby given the power and authority to sell the same and transfer the title thereto. The proceeds thereof, together with all other moneys of such district, shall be used for borough purposes.

That of each city poor district is hereby transferred to and vested in the city in which located. The council and mayor of such city are hereby given the power and authority to sell the same and transfer the title thereto. The proceeds thereof, together with all other moneys of such district, shall be used for city purposes.

That of each poor district other than those named above is hereby transferred to and vested in the constituent political units composing said district in proportion to the taxable valuation of real estate in said constituent units. The municipal authorities of said constituent units are hereby given the power and authority to sell the same and transfer the title thereto. The proceeds thereof, together with all other moneys of such district, shall be used for the purpose of such constituent units.

The directors of the poor of any district are hereby given the power and authority to take and use any such real estate, if adaptable to the care of the poor, either by agreement with the owners or by the exercise of the right of eminent domain as provided in sections 705 to 711 hereof.

The sales above authorized shall be made only under the direction and supervision of the court of common pleas of the proper county, and in accordance with the provisions of sections 703 and 704 hereof, so far as the same may be applicable, and the proceeds thereof distributed by said court.

(Sec. 3, Act of May 12, 1921, P. L. 538, modified)

Sec. 211. Election of Officers. The directors of the poor shall elect on the first Monday of January in each year, or as near thereto as convenient, the following officers to serve for one year, and fix their compensation; that is, a superintendent, a matron or matrons, a physician, and may appoint an attorney, trained welfare worker, and all other necessary employes and assistants, all of whom shall be subject to removal by the directors of the poor at any time. They may require bond with security in such amount as they deem proper from any officer or employe appointed.

(Sec. 4, Act of May 12, 1921, P. L. 538)

Sec. 212. County Treasurer to be Treasurer of District. The treasurer of such county shall be treasurer of said poor district, shall receive all moneys belonging to the district, and pay out the same on warrants drawn by the directors of the poor. The accounts of the treasurer with the said district shall be audited by the county controller or county auditors of said county in accordance with the laws relating to accounts of county treasurers.

The directors of the poor shall require the county treasurer to give bond with sufficient surety in such amounts as they shall determine requisite for the safe keeping and proper payment of all moneys that come into his hands on account of said district.

(Sec. 5, Act of May 12, 1921, P. L. 538)

Sec. 213. Notice to Overseers and directors. As soon as the directors of the poor are prepared to accommodate the poor of said poor district they shall give notice of the same by personal notice upon each of the directors or overseers of the poor of each township, borough, city or other poor district within said county, and also by publication once a week for three weeks in two newspapers in said county.

(Sec. 6, Act of May 12, 1921, P. L. 538)

Sec. 214. Removal of Poor to County Home. Immediately after notice that the directors of the poor are prepared to accommodate the poor of said district, it shall be the duty of the directors or overseers of the poor of each township, borough, city, or other poor district within said county to remove all poor persons entitled to relief to the poor house as designated by the directors of the poor, and deliver them to the custody of the superintendent and from and after such time no expense for help, assistance and maintenance of poor and destitute shall be incurred by such directors or overseers.

(Sec. 7, Act of May 12, 1921, P. L. 538)

Sec. 215. Local Poor Districts Abolished. After delivery of the poor and destitute to the directors of the poor, as provided in Sec. 214, the various township, borough, city, or other poor districts within any such county are hereby abolished and the directors or overseers of the poor of such poor districts shall cease to act in such capacity, and said offices are hereby abolished, except so far as may be necessary to collect outstanding taxes, settle the accounts, pay the debts incurred and wind up the unfinished business transactions of such district.

(Sec. 8, Act of May 12, 1921, P. L. 538)

Sec. 216. Directors to Provide Suitable Buildings. Whenever in any poor district, no adequate site or suitable buildings are available for the care of the poor, or whenever the lands, buildings, furnishings and equipment for maintaing the poor in such poor district are inadequate, unsuitable or unsafe for the proper maintaining of the poor within such district, the directors of the poor are authorized to purchase or acquire by right of eminent domain and take title in the name of the district such lands as to them may appear most eligible and suitable for the purpose of the erection thereon of proper, adequate and suitable buildings for the employment and support of the poor in such district. Any such purchase or acquisition shall be only with the approval of the court of common pleas.

After the purchase or acquisition of such lands the said directors of the poor or a majority of them are authorized to have prepared plans and specifications in accordance with existing law, and to cause the necessary buildings to be erected upon the lands according to said plans and specifications.

Before the said directors of the poor shall let any contract for the erection of said buildings according to plans and specifications adopted, they shall advertise in two or more newspapers of general circulation in such county for bids for the erection of buildings on said lands according to said plans and specifications. The letting of the contract or contracts for the erection of said buildings shall first be approved by the court of common pleas in such county.

All proceedings for the assessment of damages for property taken, injured or destroyed under the exercise of the right of eminent domain in this section conferred, shall be in accordance with proceedings provided for by Section 705 to 711, inclusive, hereof.

(Sec. 9, Act of May 12, P. L. 538)

Sec. 217. Sale of Poor Property. After the construction, equipment and furnishing of new buildings, the directors of the poor, with the approal of the court of common pleas of the proper county, are authorized to sell the site or buildings of any disused county poor house and apply the proceeds of such sale, together with such sums of money belonging to the poor district as may be approved by said court, by whomsoever the same may be held or deposited, toward the payment for such new lands, buildings, equipment and furnishings.

(Sec. 10, Act of May 12, 1921, P. L. 538)

Sec. 218. Viewers of New Buildings. Whenever new buildings shall be finished and completed the said directors of the poor shall certify their proceedings to the court of common pleas of said county, whereupon the said court shall appoint three competent and disinterested persons as viewers to view and thoroughly examine said buildings and report to the court whether the said contract or contracts have been faithfully performed and completed, and until such report be so made final payment on said contract or contracts shall not be made. The said viewers shall be entitled to a sum not in excess of ten dollars per day for each day necessarily engaged in the performance of their duties as the court shall determine, to be paid from the funds of the poor district.

(Sec. 11, Act of May 12, 1921, P. L. 538)

Sec. 219. Authority to Issue Bonds. For the purpose of purchasing any lands or buildings or erecting, constructing, repairing, improving, furnishing and equipping any poor house or buildings, the directors of the poor are authorized to borrow money within the limits of amount now fixed by law, and issue bonds therefor and negotiate the same for the purpose of raising the necessary money. Such bonds not be of a denomination less than one hundred dollars nor bear interest of a higher rate than six per centum.. They shall be payable by the said poor district, shall not be sold below par, shall not be subject to taxation except for State purposes, and shall be sold to the highest responsible bidder, after public notice by advertisement once a week for three weeks in at least one newspaper of general circulation published in the county; Provided, this shall not apply to the giving of notes for temporary loans as may be authorized by Section 224 hereof.

Sec. 220. Quorum. Rules and Regulations. A majority of the directors of the poor shall be a quorum for the transaction of business. They shall have full power to make all such rules and regulations as they shall think proper, convenient and necessary for the direction, government and support of the poor, the poor house and grounds and poor farm, and of the revenues thereunto belonging and of all such persons and things as shall come under their care or cognizance, but such rules and regulations shall not be repugnant to the Constitution or laws of this State or of the United States and shall be approved by the court of common pleas of the proper county.

(Sec. 13, Act of May 13, 1921, P. L. 538)

Sec. 221. Repairs and Improvements. The directors of the poor shall make all necessary repairs and improvements of buildings and grounds, provide for the cultivation of the real estate and all things necessary for the maintenance and employment of the poor of such district, and use the proceeds of labor of the poor under their charge in their support and maintenance.

(Sec. 14, Act of May 12, 1921, P. L. 538)

Sec. 222. Meetings. Record of Proceedings. Such directors of the poor shall meet at least once a month at the poor house, visit the apartments, inspect the management of the work upon and about the real estate, see that the poor are properly treated, and hear all complaints, and cause all grievances that may happen by neglect to be redressed. They shall keep a record of their proceedings, which will be evidence of their action in any subsequent judicial proceedings.

(Sec. 15, Act of May 12, 1921, P. L. 538)

Sec. 223. Taxes, Levy and Collection of. The basis of taxation for poor purposes shall be the last preceeding assessment upon real property, trades, occupations and professions for county rates and levies.

The county commissioners shall, upon the requisition of the Directors of the Poor, annually collect a tax not exceeding in one year ten mills on the dollar of the assessed valuation, for the purpose of supporting the poor, paying officials and employes and the current expenses of managing the buildings and the poor farm. The taxes shall be levied at the same time and collected in the same manner as other county taxes.

For the purpose of paying any debt incurred in the purchase of real estate and the erection of buildings, and to redeem bonds authorized by this act and also for the purpose of making permanent improvements on real estate, the commissioners shall, upon a like requisition, levy a special tax which shall be payable at the same time and collected in the same manner as the tax for current expenses.

Such special tax shall in no year exceed in amount one-half of the amount levied for current expenses.

Provided, however, that nothing in this section shall apply to any district wherein the directors of the poor now have authority to levy a poor tax.

(Sec. 17, Act of May 12, 1921, P. L. 538, changed somewhat and proviso added)

Sec. 224. Temporary Loans. For the purpose of meeting unusual or unforseen expenditures in the operation of the district, the directors may borrow money and give temporary notes therefor, not exceeding six months, and within the limitations designated in Section 219 hereof. Said temporary loans shall be fully liquidated or payment provided for in the next annual tax levy.

Sec. 225. Accounts, Audit of. The directors of the poor shall keep accurate accounts of all moneys received by them in any way for the purposes of this act as well as all paid out, including such reasonable expenses as they may incur in carrying out their duties. All accounts under this act shall be audited by the county controller or county auditors as the case may be.

(Sec. 18, Act of May 12, 1921, P. L. 538)

Sec. 226. Inspection of Buildings and Grounds and Records. The poor house buildings and grounds shall at all times be open to inspection by the State Department of Welfare and its agents, and the directors of the poor shall at all times, when required, submit to the inspection and examination by said Department and its agents of all their books, accounts and records.

(Sec. 20, Act of May 12, 1921, P. L. 538)

CHAPTER III.

Elections. Vacancies in Office

Sec. 300. Number of Directors. The number of directors in each district is fixed at three, in all districts of the third and fourth classes, and in all other districts except where a different number now prevails, and their term of office is fixed at four years commencing on the first Monday of January next succeeding their election.

Sec. 301. Election In Newly Created Districts. At the first municipal election in a district newly created under this act, one director shall be elected for two years and two directors for four years.

Sec. 302. Election of Directors. At the municipal election next preceding the expiration of the term of any director of the poor, the qualified voters of each district, where the office is elective, shall elect one or more directors of the poor as may be required, and in case of election for other than the regular term, such fact shall be designated.

Sec. 303. Vacancies. In case of vacancy in the office of director by death, resignation or otherwise, the said vacancy shall be filled by appointment by the court of quarter sessions, said appointee to serve until the first Monday of January next succeeding the first municipal election at which such vacancy can by law be filled by election, and at such election a director shall be elected to serve for the unexpired term.

CHAPTER IV.

Salaries

Sec. 400. Salaries in Districts Other Than Third And Fourth Classes; In Third Class; In Fourth Class; Traveling Expenses In Addition. The annual salary of each director of the poor in districts other than those of the third and fourth classes shall remain as now fixed by law, to be paid in same manner as employees of the County.

The annual salary of directors of the poor in districts of the third class shall be $1,500, to be paid in the same manner as employees of the County.

The annual salary of directors of the poor in districts of the fourth class shall be $750, in addition to their compensation as county commissioners, to be paid in same manner as employees of the County.

All directors of the poor of this commonwealth shall in addition to the salary above specified be allowed their travelling expenses necessarily incurred in the discharge of their official duties, to be paid in the same manner as employees of the County.

CHAPTER V.

Records and Reports

Sec. 500. Directors To Keep Records As Prescribed By Department Of Welfare. It shall be the duty of the directors of the poor, or other persons having charge of the poor in the several districts, and of all directors and managers of charitable and correctional institutions of the commonwealth receiving state aid, to keep their records after the manner and in the form to be prescribed by the Department of Welfare, and to make returns thereof to said Department, at such times as they may direct; and in default thereof, the person or persons so offending shall forfeit and pay a fine of not less than one hundred dollars, to be sued for and collected in the name of the said Department, for the use of the commonwealth.

(Sec. 3, Act of April 5, 1872, P. L. 42)

Sec. 501. Reports Of Persons Applying For Treatment Of Disease. All superintendents or managers, or other persons in charge of hospitals, almshouses, lying-in-hospitals or other institutions, public or private, to which persons resort for treatment of disease, confinement, or are committed by process of law, are hereby required to make a record of all of the personal and statistical particulars relative to the inmates in their institutions, as directed by the State Registrar, and thereafter such record shall be by them made for all future inmates at the time of their admission. And in case of persons admitted or committed for medical treatment of disease, the physician in charge shall specify for entry in the record, the nature of the disease, and where, in his opinion, it was contracted. The personal particulars and information required by this section shall be obtained from the individual himself, if it is practicable to do so, and when they cannot be obtained they shall be secured in as complete a manner as possible from the relatives, friends, or other persons acquainted with the facts.

Sec. 502. Reports to Anatomical Board of Deaths of Persons Required to be Buried at Public Expense. All public officers, agents, and servants, and all officers, agents and servants of any and every county, city, township, borough, district, and other municipality, and or any and every almshouse, prison, morgue, hospital, or other municipality or other public institution, and all other persons, having charge or control over dead human bodies required to be buried at the public expense, are hereby required to immediately notify the State Anatomical Board or such person or persons as may, from time to time, be designated by said Board or its duly authorized officer or agent, whenever any such body or bodies come to his or their possession, charge, or control; and shall, without fee or reward, deliver such body or bodies, and permit and suffer the said Board and its agents and the physicians and surgeons from time to time designated by them, who may comply with the provisions of this act, to take and remove all such bodies to be used within the State for the advancement of medical science. Such notice shall be given to the board of distribution in all cases, but no such body shall be delivered, if any relative by blood or marriage shall claim the body for burial, at the expense of such relative within thirty-six hours after death, but the body shall be surrendered to said claimant for interment; nor shall any such body be delivered, if any friend, or any representative of a fraternal society of which deceased was a member, or a representative of any charitable organization, shall claim the said body for burial within twenty-four hours after death; said burial to be at the expense of such friend, fraternal society, or charitable organization; nor shall the body be delivered if said person was an honorably discharged soldier, sailor, or marine of the United States, or of the militia of the State of Pennsylvania; in which case said body shall be buried in accordance with the provisions of existing laws. In case of the death of any person whose body is required to be buried at the public expense, and the duly authorized officer or agent of the board deems such body unfit for anatomical purposes, he shall notify in writing the poor directors, or the county commissioners of the county where such person died; who shall direct some person to take charge of the body of such deceased indigent person, and cause it to be buried; and draw warrants upon the treasurer of their county for the payment of such expenses, which expenses shall not be less than thirty-five dollars nor more than fifty dollars on each body buried in accordance with the provisions of this act. Such warrants shall be made payable to the persons so authorized and directed, who shall have buried the bodies for which no warrants are to be drawn. No warrants for the payment of the expenses of the burial of any person whose body is required to be buried at the public expense shall be drawn or paid except upon the certificate of the duly authorized officer or agent of the Board, to the effect that such body is unfit for anatomical purposes or that the body is that of a soldier, sailor, or marine required to be buried at the public expense, and that the provisions of this act have been complied with. Wherever, through the failure of any person to deliver the body of a deceased indigent as required by this act, such body shall become unfit for anatomical purposes, and is so certified by the duly authorized officers or agent of said board of distribution, such body shall be buried in accordance with the provisions of this act; and the person so failing to deliver such body shall pay to the county treasurer the expense so incurred, and, upon the refusal or failure of such person on demand to pay such expenses, the poor directors, or, in districts in which there are no separate poor directors, then the county commissioners, shall bring suit to recover the same, to be recovered as debts of like amounts are by law collectible.

(Sec. 2, Act of June 13, 1883, P. L. 119, as amended by Act of April 20, 1921, P. L. 167)

CHAPTER VI.

Directors of the Poor

Sec. 600. Directors Declared County Officers. The directors of the poor of districts, co-extensive with the county, are hereby declared to be county officers and subject in the discharge of their duties and obligations as directors of the poor, to all the general laws relating to county officers.

(Sec. 1, Act of March 30, 1921)

Sec. 601. This Act to Apply Throughout State. The provisions of this act shall apply generally throughout the commonwealth, including the districts made territorial exceptions in Section 200 hereof.

Sec. 602. Directors Not to be Interested in Contracts. It shall not be lawful for any director of the poor to be concerned or personally interested in any contract for furnishing supplies for the maintenance of the poor, or for the construction or improvement of property under his control. Any violation of the provisions of this act shall be deemed a misdemeanor in office, and upon conviction thereof, the party or parties so offending shall be fined in a sum not exceeding five hundred dollars, and shall be adjudged by the court to be removed from office; provided, That nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent such director from receiving his lawful compensation while necessarily attending in his official character to any of the duties enjoined upon him by his office.

(Sec. 1, Act of May 15, 1875, P. L. 180)

Sec. 603. Contracts of $500 or More to be in Writing. It shall be the duty of poor directors to purchase all supplies for the maintenance of the inmates of the poorhouses or hospitals under their supervision by written contract, where such contract involves an expenditure of five hundred dollars or more. Said directors of the poor shall, by advertisement inserted in at least one newspaper of the county in which said institution is located, for two weeks, invite sealed proposals for the furnishing of such supplies, and shall award all such contracts to the lowest responsible bidder, and shall take from such bidder a bond, with sufficient sureties, conditioned for the faithful performance of his contract.

(Act of May 23, 1913, P. L. 297.)

Sec. 604. Penalty for Violation. Any director of the poor violating the provisions of Section 603 shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars ($500), or to undergo an imprisonment not exceeding six months.

(Sec. 3, Act of May 23, 1913, P. L. 297)

Sec. 605. Directors Authorized to Attend Conventions. The directors of the poor or other officers having charge of the poor in the poor districts of this Commonwealth, together with their solicitor, steward, or superintendent, and such other executive officers as may be designated by said directors or other officers, are hereby authorized, as part of their official duties, to attend the annual meeting of the association of directors of the poor and charities and corrections of Pennsylvania, for the purpose of discussing the various questions arising in the discharge of their duties and of providing for uniform and economical methods of administering the affairs of the respective poor districts.

(Sec. 1, Act of July 6, 1917, P. L. 734)

Sec. 606. Expenses to be Paid by District. The actual expenses of the aforesaid officials attending the said annual meetings of said association, including travelling expenses and hotel bills actually paid by them, together with a membership subscription by each poor district to the necessary expenses of the convention, including printing, employment of stenographers and expenses of committees,—which said membership subscription, however, shall not be more than thirty dollars for any poor district per annum,—shall be paid out of the funds of the poor district. The time spent in attending such meeting shall not be more than four days, exclusive of the time employed in traveling thereto and therefrom.

(Sec. 2, Act of July 6, 1917, P. L. 734, as amended by Act of 1923.)

CHAPTER VII.

Real Property of Poor Districts

Sec. 700. Plans of Almshouse to be Approved by Department of Welfare. Before any mental hospital or almshouse shall be erected under the direction of the poor authorities within this Commonwealth, the plan of construction of such hospital or almshouse, drawn sufficiently in detail for clear comprehension thereof, shall be submitted to the Department of Welfare, and shall be inspected and approved by said Department.

(Sec. 4, Act of April 5, 1872, P. L. 42, deleted)

Sec. 701. Districts May Require Bonds from Contractors for Protection of Material Men. All poor districts shall, in the improvement of lands, of any kind, in said districts, have the power to require of the contractor or contractors, employed in and about said improvements, an additional bond with sufficient surety or sureties, providing for the payment of all labor and material entering into the said improvements.

(Sec. 1, Act of May 10, 1917, P. L. 158).

Sec. 702. Right to Sue Thereon. The labor and materialmen furnishing labor and material in and for said improvements, upon the contract of said contractor, shall have the right according to law to sue in an action of assumpsit, in the name of the obligee for his or their use, upon said bond, upon proof of said contractor's failure to pay for said labor or material.

(Sec. 2, Act of May 10, 1917, P. L. 158).

Sec. 703. Courts of Common Pleas Authorized to Decree Sale of Poor House Property. The courts of common pleas of the several counties of this Commonwealth shall have jurisdiction, and are hereby authorized to decree a public or private sale of any poor-house property, or real estate held for the relief and employment of the poor, in any poor district, at such times and in such parts or parcels and upon such terms as, in the opinion of such court, may be considered most advantageous to such district.

(Sec. 1, Act of April 28, 1887, P. L. 75).

Sec. 704. Procedure Thereon. Such sale may be decreed upon the petition of the directors of the poor of any district, setting forth that such sale would be to the advantage of the said district, and all facts needful for the information of the court, under oath or affirmation, and shall only take place, after a full and careful investigation by the court, aided, when deemed necessary, by the report of a competent person to be appointed by the court; and if upon such investigation the court shall deem it to the advantage of such district that property so held or any part thereof should be sold, such court is hereby authorized to decree a sale thereof, and to direct the investment of the proceeds of such sale or sales in the purchase, for the use of such district, of such other real estate as may be necessary for poor purposes, and in the erection of suitable buildings thereon for the comfortable maintenance, employments and support of the poor of such poor district, or such other investments or disposition thereof as may be deemed most advantageous to the district, or may distribute and award the proceeds among the municipalities entitled thereto. The Court may in its discretion require proper bond to be given before or after sale for the faithful accounting and application of the proceeds.

(Sec. 2, Act of April 28, 1887, P. L. 75).

Sec. 705. Right of Eminent Domain. Whenever the directors of any poor district shall desire land for the erection of necessary buildings or for farming or other purposes, or for procuring a supply of pure water for hospital purposes, and are unable to agree with the owner or owners of the property upon the price to be paid therefor, the said directors, with the approval of the Court of Common Pleas for the proper county of such poor district, by themselves, their agents, and workman, shall have power to enter upon locate, survey, make, take, occupy, and use any such lands or appropriate such water for the purpose aforesaid; Provided, that no water shall be condemned and appropriated under the provisions of this act, nor any water system, reservoir, pipe, or conduit be constructed or maintained, until a permit for the condemnation and appropriation of such waters, or the construction or maintenance of such water system, reservoir, pipe, or conduit, shall have been procured from the department of health and the water supply commission of Pennsylvania; And provided further, That nothing in this act contained shall be construed to relieve any hospital from the operation of the provisions of the act of April twenty-two, nineteen hundred and five.

Sec. 706. Property of Poor District to be Security for Land Taken. The taking of any lands, by any poor district, by right of eminent domain, under the provisions of Section 705, is hereby declared to be the taking of private property for public purposes; and for all damages done, or suffered, or which shall accrue, to the owner or owners of such lands by reason of such taking, all the property of the poor district shall be pledged as security.

(Sec. 2, Act if June 28, 1917, P. L. 651).

Sec. 707. Appointment of Viewers to Fix Compensation. If the directors of the poor cannot agree with the owner or owners of such lands, for the compensation proper for the damage sustained or likely to be sustained by any owner or owners, which such directors may enter upon, use, take, or occupy in pursuance of the authority herein given,—or by reason of the absence or legal incapacity of any such owner or owners no compensation can be agreed upon,—the court of common pleas of the county, on application thereto by petition, either by the directors of the poor, or by the owner or owners or any one in their behalf, shall appoint three viewers from the county board of viewers, and fix a time, not less than ten nor more than twenty days thereafter, for said viewers to meet at or upon the premises or property taken or occupied, of which time and place five days' notice shall be given by the petitioner to the said viewers and the other party.

(Sec. 3. Act if June 28, 1917, P. L. 651).

Sec. 708. Viewers to Estimate Damages and Report to Court. The viewers,—having been first duly sworn or affirmed faithfully, justly, and impartially to decide, and a true report to make, concerning all matters and things to be submitted to them, and in relation to which they are authorized to inquire in pursuance of the provisions of this act, and having viewed the premises,—shall estimate and determine what amount of damages, if any, have been or may be sustained, and to whom the same are payable, and make report thereof to the court. The amount of damages, when confirmed by the court, shall be entered as a judgment.

Sec. 709. Appeals. Upon the filing of the report of said viewers, or any two of them, either party may, within thirty days thereafter, file his or her, or their appeal from the said report to the court; and, after such appeal, either party may put the cause at issue, in the form directed by said court, and the same shall be tried by said court and jury; and, after final judgment, either party may have an appeal to the Supreme or Superior Court, in the manner provided in other cases.

The court shall have power to order what notices shall be given in connection with any part of the proceedings, and make all such rules in connection therewith as may be deemed requisite.

If any exceptions be filed with any appeal to the proceedings, they shall be disposed of; and, if allowed, a new view shall be ordered; and, if disallowed, the appeal shall proceed as before prescribed.

(Sec. 5, Act of June 28, 1917, P. L. 651).

Sec. 710. Damages to be Paid Into Court When Title Disputed. If, during any of said proceedings, it shall be made to appear, by affidavit or otherwise, to the satisfaction of the court, that the title to the said lands is disputed, doubtful or defective, or that any party in interest is absent, covert, not of full age, or for any other cause incapable to act; the court may make all needful orders to effect the purposes of this act, and may direct the damages and costs to be paid into court for the benefit of the parties who may eventually be entitled thereto.

(Sec. 6, Act of June 28, 1917, P. L. 651).

Sec. 711. Damages to be Paid to Owner When Finally Determined. The amount of damages, as finally determined in any proceeding before viewers, shall be paid by the poor district, to the owner or owners of the property entitled thereto.

Sec. 712. Leasing of Poor Farms for Coal, Oil or Gas. The directors of the poor in the several districts of this Commonwealth having lands in connection with almshouses, be and they are hereby authorized and empowered, with the approval of the Court of Common Pleas, to lease said lands for the purpose of producing coal, oil or gas, on such terms as may be advantageous to such county or body corporate owning or controlling the same; the said court shall enter a decree directing the disposition or investment of the income of such lease.

Sec. 713. Rebuilding of Poor Houses Destroyed by Fire. The directors of the poor in any district where a poor house has been heretofore erected, and the same has been or may hereafter be destroyed by fire, or other casualty, are authorized and empowered, to rebuild the buildings so destroyed, or to erect suitable separate buildings to segregate the sane and insane poor.

(Sec. 1, Act of April 10, 1879, P. L. 19).

Sec. 714. County Commissioners to Levy and Collect Tax for Such Building. The county commissioners of the respective counties, when such buildings have been or may hereafter be destroyed by fire, or other casualty, shall have the power, and it shall be their duty, upon the requisition of said directors, to assess, levy and collect, together with the other county rates and levies, and on the same subjects of taxation, on estimates furnished by the directors, an amount sufficient to furnish the necessary funds to erect said buildings and furnish the same, in connection with any sum or sums of money received by said directors from insurance on said buildings so destroyed or from any other source.

(Sec. 2, Act of April 10, 1879, P. L. 19).

Sec. 715. Plans and Specifications and Contracts for New Building. The plans and specifications for any buildings authorized by Section 714 to be erected, shall be first submitted to and approved by the Department of Welfare as provided in Section 700 hereof; and any contract for the erection of such building or buildings made by the directors of the poor with any contractor or contractors or for furnishing the necessary materials for the same, shall have the approval of the court of common pleas of the proper county before such contract becomes binding and operative.

(Sec. 4, Act of April 10, 1879, P. L. 19).

Sec. 716. Viewers of New Buildings. Whenever the said buildings shall be finished and completed, viewers shall be appointed under the provisions of Section 218 of this act.

CHAPTER VIII.

Settlement.

Sec. 800. How Gained. A settlement may be gained in any poor district by any person, not a public charge, married or single, who bona fide comes to inhabit therein and continues to reside there for one year. Persons born in a place, whether legitimate or illegitimate, shall be deemed to be settled there unless the parent having their custody be settled elsewhere; and all children shall follow the settlement of the parent or parents, stepfather or stepmother, having their custody, until the age of sixteen years.

(Sec. 1, Act of April 6, 1905, P. L. 112).

Sec. 801. Order of Removal. In case any person shall have no settlement in the district wherein he has become, or is likely to become a public charge, it shall be the duty of the directors, as soon as may be, to notify the directors of the district of his settlement of the facts, and from the time of such notice the cost of his relief shall be charged to the district of his settlement. If the directors so notified refuse or neglect to receive him, or to make arrangements for his proper support and maintenance, the directors furnishing such relief may apply to the court of quarter sessions of their county, or to any judge thereof, by petition, asking for a citation to the directors so refusing or neglecting, requiring them to appear before such court, at a time specified therein, and show cause why an order should not issue for the removal of such person into their district. The said court shall proceed to hear and determine the cause upon its merits, and their decree shall be final unless an appeal therefrom be taken within thirty days.

The citation herein provided for accompanied by a copy of the petition, shall be served by the Sheriff of the county, who may for that purpose deputize the Sheriff of the county of the respondent upon one or more of the directors named therein, or with the approval of the Court, service may be had by sending such copy by registered mail, and shall be served or mailed at least ten days before the day fixed for such hearing. Provided, that upon the hearing and argument before said court of quarter sessions, of said citation for an order of removal of paupers from one district to another, it shall be lawful for either of the parties to the issue to except to any decision of the court upon any point of evidence or law, which exceptions shall be noted by the court and filed of record as in civil cases; and an appeal to an appellate court may be taken by either party from the judgment or decree of the court, with like effect as in civil cases.

(Sec. 2, Act of April 6, 1905, P. L. 112).

Sec. 802. Liability for Costs. In case an order of removal is granted by any court of quarter sessions, under the provisions of this act, the court, in the same order, shall require the directors of the district of settlement to pay the petitioners the cost of the proceedings, the expense of removing, and the proper charges for the relief of the poor person from the date of the notice first above provided for; all of which expense, cost and charges shall be ascertained and allowed by the court. If an order of removal is refused the cost of the proceeding shall be paid by the directors petitioning therefor.

(Sec. 3, Act of April 6, 1905, P. L. 112).

Sec. 803. Jurisdiction of Quarter Sessions. The court of quarter sessions shall have full and complete authority and jurisdiction to enforce by appropriate methods its orders or directions made in such proceeding.

Sec. 804. Care of Transient. If any person shall come out of any poor district in this Commonwealth, into any other district, and shall happen to fall sick or die, before he have gained a settlement therein, so that he cannot be removed the directors of such district shall, as soon as conveniently may be, give notice to the directors of the district where such person had last gained a settlement, or to one of them, of the name, circumstances and condition of such poor person; and if the directors to whom such notice shall be given, shall neglect or refuse to pay the moneys expended for the use of such poor person, and to take order for relieving and maintaining him, or in case of his death before such notice could be given, shall, on request made, neglect or refuse to pay the moneys expended in maintaining and burying such poor person; in every such case the procedure defined in Section 801 of this act may be invoked, to compel payment by such district, of all such sums of money as were expended for said purposes.

Sec. 805. Leaving Poor Persons in District. If any person shall bring or send or cause to be brought or sent, any poor person from any place without this Commonwealth, or from any place within this Commonwealth, to any other place within it, where such person was not last legally settled, and there leave, or attempt to leave such person, with intent to relieve himself or some other place or district of the maintenance of such person, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of One Hundred ($100) Dollars for every such person, and become liable to pay all the costs respecting the maintenance and removal, or either, of such person, to be sued for and recovered by the directors of the district, into which such poor person may have been brought or sent, and moreover, shall be obliged to convey such poor person out of the Commonwealth or district, or support him at his own expense.

(Sec. 25, Act of June 13, 1836, P. L. 539, rewritten and amended).

CHAPTER IX.

Duties and Powers of Directors.

Sec. 900. Maintenance of Poor Persons. It shall be the duty of the directors of every district from time to time, to provide, as is herein directed, for every poor person within the district, having a settlement therein, who shall apply to them for relief, where such directors are satisfied, upon investigation, that such relief is necessary. Such relief may be granted as outdoor relief, or such poor person may be committed to the poor house on the written order of a director of the poor, to be approved by the Board of Directors within a month thereafter, or upon an order of removal issued out of any court.

(Sec. 1, Act of June 13, 1836, P. L. 539).

Sec. 901. Poor Persons Unable to Work. If such poor person, by reason of age, disease, infirmity, or other disability, be unable to work, it shall be the duty of the directors to provide him with the necessary means of subsistence.

(Sec. 4, Act of June 13, 1836, P. L. 539).

Sec. 902. Unemployed Poor May be Employed on Highways. It shall be lawful for the directors of any district, with the concurrence and under the direction of the supervisors of the township, to employ such poor person, being a male of sufficient ability, in opening or repairing any road or highway within the district.

(Sec. 3, Act of June 13, 1836, P. L. 539).

Sec. 903. Maintenance of Poor in Almshouse of Adjoining District. The directors of the poor, in all districts not having poor houses, are hereby authorized to contract with the authorities in charge of the poor in any adjoining or convenient district having a poorhouse, for the maintenance of the poor under their charge, and to remove such poor to the poorhouse of such district.

(Sec. 1, Act of July 9, 1897, P. L. 222).

Sec. 904. Children Between Two and Sixteen Years of Age. It shall not be lawful for the directors of the poor in the several districts of this Commonwealth, to receive into, or retain in, any almshouse or poorhouse, any child between two and sixteen years of age, for a longer period than sixty days, unless such child be an unteachable idiot, an epileptic or paralytic, or otherwise so disabled or deformed as to render it incapable of labor or service. Violation hereof shall be deemed a misdemeanor and shall subject the offender, upon conviction, to a fine not exceeding $100 or imprisonment not exceeding six months, either or both, at the discretion of the Court.

(Sec. 2, Act of May 20, 1921, P. L. 1030, with penalty added).

Sec. 905. Placing Children. It shall be the duty of said directors or other persons having charge of the poor, to place all dependent children who are in, or committed to, their charge, and who are over two years of age (with the exceptions named in the preceding section of this act), in some respectable family, or in some educational institution or home for children; and one of said officers shall visit such children, in person or by agent, not less than once every six months, and make all needful inquiries as to their treatment and welfare, and shall report thereon to the board of directors or other offices charged with the care of such children.

(Sec. 3, Act of May 20, 1921, P. L. 1030).

Sec. 906. Quarantined Persons Considered "Needy and Indigent Poor". Whenever any head of a family or a person, shall be quarantined by any authority, because of any infections or contagious disease, and by reason of such quarantine such person becomes unable to pay the expense of the maintenance and treatment of his family or himself during the period of quarantine, he shall be considered a "poor person" or a "needy and indigent poor" person within the meaning of the poor laws of this Commonwealth.

Sec. 1, Act of May 28, 1907, P. L. 285).

Sec. 907. Relief of Indigent Deaf and Dumb. That the directors of the poor of any district, may enter into a contract with any association organized for the purpose of providing a home for deaf and dumb persons, and being situated within the boundaries of the State of Pennsylvania, for the care and maintenance at such home of any indigent deaf and dumb person who may be an inmate of the almshouse of any poor district, or who may be under the laws of Pennsylvania entitled to relief from such poor district.

(Sec. 1, Act of May 17, 1917, P. L. 223).

Sec. 908. Removal of Deaf and Dumb to Care of Certain Associations. The contract as hereinbefore provided shall be entered into by the poor district, on its own motion, with such qualified institutions as they may select; Provided, however, That the State Department of Welfare or any of its authorized agents, may direct any poor district to remove any deaf and dumb inmate of an almshouse to the care of an association qualified under this act; and when such removal is so ordered, the contract for maintenance and the removal of the inmate to such institution shall be made and carried out by the directors of the poor district; or, in the event of their failure to comply with such directions, the said contract and the removal of such inmate may be made and carried out by the Department of Welfare, or its authorized agents.

(Sec. 2, Act of May 17, 1917, P. L. 223).

Sec. 909. Cost of Maintenance Thereof. Whenever a contract for such care and maintenance is made, whether by any poor district or by the Department of Welfare, for any poor district, the said poor district, shall, during the period such person may remain in said institution, pay to such association annually a sum equal to the per capita cost of maintaining inmates in the almshouse of such poor district, and all such costs for maintenance shall be collectible by process of existing laws.

(Sec. 3, Act of May 17, 1917, P. L. 223).

Sec. 910. Appropriations to Associations for Relief of Poor. The proper officers of the several poor districts in each and every county of this Commonwealth may, in their discretion, upon satisfactory proof being produced to them of the advisability thereof, make an appropriation yearly, to incorporated associations maintained by gifts and voluntary contributions, and formed for the purpose of assisting, relieving, and giving medical care and attention to the poor, injured or sick, within their respective poor districts or any municipal division thereof: Provided, That this act shall in no wise apply to corporations whose objects and purposes are limited to the members thereof or to any nationality or sect.

(Sec. 1, Act of June 3, 1911, P. L. 649)

Sec. 911. Burial of Indigent Persons. It shall be the duty of the directors of each poor district where provision is not made by law, to provide for the burial of all indigent persons other than travelers or honorably discharged soldiers, sailors or marines, who shall die within their respective districts, and whose bodies shall not be claimed by any relative by blood or marriage or by a friend or by a representative of a fraternal organization of which the deceased was a member or, by the representatives of any charitable organization or which may not be claimed by the Anatomical Board of the State of Pennsylvania for the use for scientific purposes under the provisions of existing laws. The expense of any such burial shall not be less than Twenty-five Dollars, nor more than Seventy-five Dollars, and shall be paid from the funds of the poor district.

(Sec. 1, Act of May 5, 1921, P. L. No. 179.

CHAPTER X.

Liability for Support.

Sec. 1000. Estate of Pauper Liable for His Maintenance. The real and personal estate of any pauper shall be liable for the expenses of his support, maintenance, and burial, in curred by any poor district, whether owned at the time such expenses were incurred or acquired thereafter.

(Sec. 1, Act of June 25, 1913, P. L. 564).

Sec. 1001. Poor Authorities May Sue for Moneys Expended. The directors of the poor or the county commissioners in charge of any poor district may sue for the moneys expended by them on account of such pauper, in an action of assumpsit, in the proper court of the county; and any judgment obtained shall be a lien upon the real estate of such pauper, and be collected as other judgments are now collected.

(Sec. 2, Act of June 25, 1913, P. L. 564).

Sec. 1002. Status of Claim Against Real Estate of Deceased Pauper. Any claim, as provided for in section 1000, shall have the same force and effect against the real estate of a deceased pauper as other debts of a decedent, and shall be ascertained and recovered in the same manner.

Sec. 1003. Guardianship of Pauper. When any person shall become a public charge, the directors may file a certificate setting forth the fact of chargeability in the office of the Prothonotary of the Court of Common Pleas of such county, where such person is of full age, or in the office of the Clerk of the Orphan's Court of such county, where such person is a minor; and attach thereto an inventory of all property, real, personal and mixed, may be owned by such poor person, or to which the directors may believe the said poor person to be entitled, and thereupon the said directors shall be and become, to all intents and purposes, guardian of the person and estate of such poor person (whether all of such estate be enumerated in the inventory or not), with all the rights at law now enjoyed by guardians of the persons and estates of adults or minor children. The Prothonotary shall index the filing of such certificate in the name of such poor person in the adsectum equity index, and the Clerk of the Orphans' Court shall index such certificate filed in his office in the Orphans' Court index, which indexing in either office shall be regarded as notice to the world of such facts. No poor person in such case shall be discharged from such guardianship and his property shall not be released therefrom until he has made application to the proper court by petition for a citation upon the directors, and after service thereof, has fully satisfied the court that he has become able and willing to resume control of his own person and estate, and that the said district has been fully reimbursed for the expense of his maintenance, or that all of his estate has been applied thereon. The cost of such proceedings shall be paid by the petitioner, unless otherwise ordered by the court. Provided, that nothing herein shall prejudice the rights of an innocent purchaser for value of any personal property of said pauper. (Sec. XXXVIII, of Act proposed by the Poor Law Commission of 1890)

Sec. 1004. Leasing of Real Estate of Paupers. It shall be lawful for the directors of the poor of any district, under the supervision of the common pleas court, where the pauper is of full age, and of the orphans' court, where the pauper is a minor, of such county, to make leases for a term of years of the real estate of any pauper, and receive the rents, issues and profits thereof, and apply the proceeds, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to defray the expenses incurred in the support and burial of such pauper, and the balance or residue thereof shall be paid to the legal representatives of such pauper, after his or her death, upon indemnity being made to such directors to secure them from the claims of all other persons; and after the payment of the claims of such directors, the rents, issues and profits arising under such lease shall be payable to the legal representatives of such pauper.

(Sec. 1, Act of April 4, 1877, P. L. 51)

Sec. 1005. Poor Authorities to Sue for and Recover Property of Paupers. It shall be lawful for the directors of the poor district, in which any person shall have become chargeable, to sue for and recover any real or personal estate belonging to such person, and to sell or otherwise dispose of the personal property and to collect and receive the rents profits of the real estate, and to apply the proceeds, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to defray the expenses incurred in the support and burial of such person; and if any balance shall remain, the same shall be paid over to the legal representatives of such person, after his death, upon demand made and security being given to indemnify such directors from the claims of all other persons.

(Sec. 33, Act of June 13, 1836, P. L. 539)

Sec. 1006. Poor Authorities to Collect Money Due Pauper. Whenever any person shall have become a public charge in any poor district of this commonwealth, it shall be lawful for the directors of the poor of such district, to sue for and recover any and all sums of money which may be due to such poor persons in the present, or to become due in the future, whether the same be claimed by such poor person upon an express or an implied contract, by judgment, mortgage, order or decree of any court having jurisdiction of the subject-matter; and for this purpose the said directors of the poor are authorized to employ any and all legal means which such poor person might have employed, had he or she not become chargeable as aforesaid.

(Sec. 1, Act of May 13, 1889, P. L. 201)

Sec. 1007. Form of Action. In all suits brought under section one of this act the writ or process shall issue in the name of the owner of the chose in action, for the use of the directors of the poor of the proper poor district, and at the hearing, proof that the owner of the right of action has become legally chargeable to the county or poor district whose directors of the poor are the use plaintiffs, shall be conclusive of their right to recover whatever may be legally due or to become due to the poor person, so found to be chargeable. If the amount due shall have been already ascertained and judgment entered, the proof that the said plaintiff has become chargeable as aforesaid shall be conclusive of the right of the proper directors of the poor to be subrogated as plaintiffs in the said judgment, and if the sum due such poor person shall be founded on an order or decree of a court of competent jurisdiction, then proof before such court on a rule to show cause, that such poor person has become chargeable to any county or poor district, shall be conclusive of the right of the directors of the poor of such poor district to recover the same, whether the same be due in the present or in the future, or be due in one or several instalments; and the said court shall make all the orders necessary to carry the provisions of this section into effect. Any defendant upon whom notice has been served of intention to begin proceedings under the provisions of this act, to recover the amount owing by him to a person chargeable to any county or poor district, who shall after this notice pay the same or any portion thereof to any other person than the proper directors of the poor, shall not thereby be released from any liability, but shall be liable to pay his entire indebtedness to the said directors of the poor.

(Sec. 2, Act of May 13, 1889, P. L. 201)

Sec. 1008. Refund of Unexpended Money Belonging to Pauper. Should any person chargeable to any county or poor district in this commonwealth, become self-sustaining or cease to be chargeable, by being supported by a relative or other person, then any moneys originally belonging to such poor person which may have been recovered under the provisions of Sections 1005 or 1006, by the directors of the poor of such poor district, shall belong to such poor person, the same as if no proceeding under this act had been instituted; and on the death of any person chargeable to any poor district, any moneys originally belonging to such poor person, which may have been recovered under the provisions of this act and not expended in the care, support or funeral of such poor person, shall belong to the heirs of such poor person, the same as if it had never been obtained by the directors of the poor under the provisions of this act: Provided, That if the entire amount expended in the care, support and funeral of such poor person, shall exceed the amount recovered under the provisions of this act, nothing shall be refunded to the said poor person or his heirs in any event.

(Sec. 3, Act of May 13, 1889, P. L. 201)

Sec. 1009. Seizure of Property of Deserters. If any man shall separate himself from his wife, without reasonable cause, or shall desert his children, or if any woman shall desert her children, leaving them a charge upon the district, in any such case, it shall be lawful for any magistrate of the county, upon complaint made by the directors of the district, to issue his warrant to such directors, therein authorizing them to take and seize so much of the goods and chattels, and receive so much of the rents and profits of the real estate of such man or woman, or to attach so much of his or her wages or of any other sums, due, as, in the judgment of the said magistrate, shall be sufficient to provide for such wife, and to maintain and bring up such children, which sum or amount shall be specified in such warrant; but if sufficient real or personal estate cannot be found, then to arrest such person, and bring him before such magistrate, at a time to be specified in such warrant.

(Sec. 29, Act of June 13, 1836, P. L. 539)

Sec. 1010. Security for Appearance at Court. It shall be lawful for such magistrate, on the return of such warrant, to require security from such person, for his appearance at the next court of quarter sessions of the county, there to abide the order of the court; and for want of such security, to commit such person to the county jail.

(Sec. 30, Act of June 13, 1836, P. L. 539)

Sec. 1011. Court to Make Order. The warrant aforesaid shall be returned to the next court of quarter sessions of the county, when it shall be lawful for the said court to make an order for the payment of such sums as they shall think reasonable, for the purpose aforesaid, and therein authorizing the directors to dispose of the goods and chattels aforesaid, by sale or otherwise, and to collect and receive the rents and profits aforesaid, or so much of either as in the judgment of the court, shall be sufficient for the purpose aforesaid; but if there be no real or personal estate, it shall be lawful for the court to commit such person to the jail or workhouse of the county, there to remain until he or she comply with such order, give security for the performance thereof, or be discharged by due course of law.

(Sec. 31, Act of June 13, 1836, P. L. 539)

Sec. 1012. Relatives Liable for Support. The husband, wife, children, father, mother, grandparents and the grandchildren, respectively, of every poor person shall, at their own charge, being of sufficient ability, relieve and maintain such poor person at such rate as the court of quarter sessions of the county where such poor person resides shall order and direct.

(Sec. 4, Act of April 6, 1905, P. L. 112).

Sec. 1013. Attachment May Issue Upon Default. In all cases where an order has been made by the court of quarter sessions for the support of a husband, wife, mother, child, grandfather, grandmother, or grandchild; or where an order has been made upon a husband, wife, mother, child, grandfather, grandmother, or grandchild of a person confined in any hospital, asylum, home or other institution, at the charge of any county or poor district, for the support of the said person, so maintained as a charge by the said county or poor district; and the said order, made for the support or maintenance of any of the said persons heretofore mentioned, has not been complied with by the person on whom the said order has been made, for a period of thirty days; the court of quarter sessions wherein the said order shall have been made, or any judge thereof, upon affidavit or petition filed, setting forth that the person on whom the said order has been made has not complied with the said order, shall issue an attachment, directed to the sheriff or other proper officer of the county, directing and commanding that the person named as having failed to comply with said order be brought before the court forthwith, or at such other time as the court may in its discretion direct. Whereupon, if it shall appear to the court, after hearing that the person on whom the said order was made has wilfully neglected to comply with the said order upon him, the court may adjudge said person in contempt of court.

(Sec. 1, Act of June 15, 1911, P. L. 973).

Sec. 1014. Penalty For Not Complying With Order Of Support. If the court, after hearing, shall adjudge the person on whom the said order has been made to be in contempt of court, it shall be lawful for the court, in the exercise of its discretion, to commit the said person to the county jail for a period not exceeding six months.

(Sec. 2, Act of June 15, 1911, P. L. 974).

Sec. 1015. Order on Relatives for Maintenance. The courts of quarter sessions in the several counties of this commonwealth shall have power to hear, determine and make orders and decrees, in all cases, either upon the petition of the directors of the poor, or of any other person or persons having an interest in the support of said poor person or persons, and either with or without an order of relief having been first obtained.

(Sec. 1, Act of April 15, 1857, P. L. 191)

Sec. 1016. Statute of Limitations, no Defense. In all suits, claims or demands of any poor district for maintenance and support against the real or personal estate of property rights of any pauper, the statute of limitations shall not avail as a defence.

CHAPTER XI.

Vagrants

Sec. 1100. Who Are Vagrants. The following described persons are hereby declared to be vagrants:

I. All persons who shall unlawfully return into any district whence they have been legally removed, without bringing a certificate from the proper authorities of the city or district to which they belong, stating that they have a settlement therein.

II. All persons who shall refuse to perform the work which shall be allotted to them by the overseers of the poor, as provided by the act of June 13th, 1836, entitled "An Act relating to the support and employment of the poor."

III. All persons going about from door to door, or placing themselves in streets, highways or other roads, to beg or gather alms, and all other persons wandering abroad and begging, who have no fixed place of residence in the township, ward or borough in which the vagrant is arrested.

IV. All persons who shall come from any place without this commonwealth to any place within it and shall be found loitering or residing therein, and shall follow no labor, trade, occupation or business, and have no visible means of subsistence, and can give no reasonable account of themselves or their business in such place.

V. Husbands who shall desert or refuse without reasonable cause, to maintain and support their wives or family.

(Sec. 1, Act of May 8, 1876, P. L. 154, with paragraph V added)

Sec. 1101. Commitment of Vagrant. If any person shall be found offending, in any township or place, against this act, it shall and may be lawful for any constable or police officer of such township or place, and he is hereby enjoined and required, on notice thereof given him by any of the inhabitants thereof, or without such notice, on his own view, to apprehend and convey, or cause to be conveyed such person to a justice of the peace or other committing magistrat of the county, who shall examine such person and shall commit him, being thereof legally convicted before him, on his own view or by the confessions of such offenders, or by the oath or affirmation of one or more credible witnesses, to labor upon any county farm or upon the roads and highways of any city, township or borough, or in any house of correction, poorhouse, work-house or common jail, for a term of not less than thirty days and not exceeding six months, and shall forthwith commit him to the custody of the steward, keeper or superintendent of such county farm, house of correction, poor-house, work-house or common jail, or to the supervisors or street commissioners and directors of the poor of the respective county, city, borough, township or district, wherein such person shall be found, as in his judgment shall be deemed most expedient; the said justice of the peace or committing magistrate, in every case of conviction, annexing thereto the names and records of the different witnesses examined before him, and shall, by warrant, under hand, commit such person as aforesaid: Provided,

Any person who shall conceive himself aggrieved by an act, judgment or determination of any justice of the peace or alderman, in and concerning the execution of this act, may appeal to the quarter sessions of the county, giving reasonable notice thereof, whose orders thereupon shall be final.

(Sec. 2, Act of May 8, 1876, P. L. 154).

Sec. 1102. Employment For Vagrants. It shall be the duty of the custodian of any such vagrant, to make active efforts to provide work for every vagrant committed under this act, and not disqualified by sickness, old age or casualty; and whenever labor cannot be provided in the place to which any vagrant is committed, it shall be lawful for such custodian, and it is hereby declared to be his duty, with the approval of the board of directors of the poor, to contract with the proper authorities of any such township, borough, city, county or other persons, to do any work or labor outside the place of commitment; in all cases the work or labor shall be suited to the proper discipline, health and capacity of such vagrant and he shall be fed and clothed in a manner suited to the nature of the work engaged in and the condition of the season; and when any vagrant is committed under the provisions of this act to the custody of the supervisors or street commissioners and directors of the poor of any township, borough, city, or district or county, it shall be their duty to provide for him suitable lodging or quarters, either in a station-house or other building.

(Sec. 6, Act of May 8, 1876, P. L. 154).

Sec. 1103. Return of Prisoner Without Settlement to Their Homes. If any person, not being in the county, township or place in which he usually lives or has his home, shall apply to any director of the poor of any county, city, borough, township or district, stating that he is desirous to return to his home, but is poor and has not the means to do so, the said director may employ or let out such poor person to labor at some suitable place to be by them selected, and at such wages as shall seem to them just, and when, in the opinion of said director of the poor, such poor person shall have earned a sufficient sum, said director of the poor shall, with the money earned, and with such additions thereto, from the treasury of the county, city, borough, township, or district as they may think reasonable, cause such person to be returned to his home, whether in this state or elsewhere.

(Sec. 4, Act of May 8, 1876, P. L. 154.)

Sec. 1104. Discharge of Vagrants. The custodian of such vagrant may, at discretion, discharge such vagrant at any time within the term of commitment, upon not less than ten days' good behavior, or upon satisfactory security that he shall not become a charge upon the public within one year from the date of such discharge.

(Sec. 5, Act of May 8, 1876, P. L. 154).

Sec. 1105. Buildings and Enclosures for Vagrants. The directors of every district in which there shall not be sufficient provision for the safe custody of persons committed under this chapter, with the approval of the court of common pleas, are hereby empowered to make suitable provisions by buildings or enclosures.

(Sec. 6, Act of May 8, 1876, P. L. 154).

Sec. 1106. Fees, Disposition of Fines. For each arrest, hearing or commitment, made under this chapter, there shall be paid out of the county treasury, to the committing magistrate, and the officer making such arrest or commitment, the sum of fifty cents each, and mileage as now provided by law, when such arrest is made more than one mile from the prison or place where such vagrant shall be committed, and no mileage shall be allowed to any oficer making the arrest within one mile of the prison or place where such vagrant shall be committed. And no person shall be detained beyond the term of his or her commitment, by reason of his or her inability to pay the costs of his or her arrest, hearing and commitment, but shall forthwith be discharged by the officer in whose custody he may be. Any wilful refusal to make such arrest, on the part of any constable or police officer, shall subject him to a penalty of five dollars, to be collected as penalties are collectible, and shall be paid into the poor fund of the district in which such officer resides, if such poor fund exists, and into the county treasury, where such poor fund does not exist.

(Sec. 7, Act of May 8, 1876, P. L. 154, as amended by Sec. 1, Act of May 3, 1878, P. L. 40).

Sec. 1107. Almshouses Declared Workhouses. All almshouses are hereby declared to be work-houses for the purposes of this chapter; and it is hereby made the duty of the custodians of such buildings to provide work for such vagrants, and to compel them to work therein, when able, not less than six hours per day.

Sec. 1108. Certificates of Discharge to Vagrants. The custodian of any vagrant, upon his discharge and at his request, shall give him a certificate of discharge, which shall exempt him from any further arrest for vagrancy for a period of five days; and the said custodian is hereby authorized to give in his discretion, to such discharged vagrant, a reasonable sum of money out of his earnings, or out of the treasury of the township, borough, city or county, to defray his expenses in securing employment.

(Sec. 9, Act of May 8, 1876, P. L. 154).

Sec. 1109. Employment of Prisoners on Poor Farms. It shall be unlawful for the authorities having control and supervision of any county jail or county prison within this Commonwealth, and they are hereby empowered, with the approval of the court of quarter sessions, to permit the employment of such inmates serving sentences therein, as they shall deem advisable, at agricultural labor on any district almshouse farm of the poor district in which such jail or prison is located, by the poor authorities of such district, under the direction and guard of the warden or keeper of such jail or prison or any deputy or deputies of such warden or keeper, and all inmates so employed shall at all times be amenable to restraint, discipline, and punishment, in the same manner as if they were confined in the proper jail or prison.

(Sec. 1, Resolution of July 17, 1917, P. L. 1036, as amended by Resolution of April 18, 1919, P. L. 79)..

Sec. 1110. Liability of Warden or Keeper for Escape. No warden or keeper or his sureties shall be held liable on any bond conditioned for the safe-keeping of persons given into his care, in case any inmate so employed shall escape, if due care and diligence has been exercised in the discharge of the duties herein imposed.

Sec. 2, of Resolution of July 17, 1917, P. L. 1036).

CHAPTER XII.

Sanatoria and Hospitals

Sec. 1200. Hospitals for Tuberculosis. Poor districts in this Commonwealth are authorized to acquire lands, supply, erect and equip hospitals or sanatoriums, for the care and treatment of indigent persons afflicted with tuberculosis.

(Sec. 1, Act if June 21, 1911, P. L. 1111).

Sec. 1201. Equipment Thereof. Any poor district may hereafter supply, erect and equip a suitable institution for the maintenance, care and treatment of indigent persons afflicted with tuberculosis, according to plans and specifications approved by the State Department of Health, which hospital or sanatorium shall be provided with all the modern appliances for the treatment of tuberculosis, with a medical superintendent of experience in the treatment of tuberculosis, and who shall be in actual practice for at least five years.—in which the said patients are attended by trained and skilled nurses, and in every way receive the same care and attention as they would in any State sanatorium for care and treatment of tuberculosis.

(Sec. 2, Act of June 21, 1911, P. L. 1111).

Sec. 1202. Appropriation to Hospital or Society. Whenever there shall have been established, in any poor district of this Commonwealth, a hospital or sanatorium for the treatment therein of indigent persons suffering from tuberculosis, or wherever there shall have been established in any county or district, a duly incorporated society, chartered to maintain a sanatorium for the treatment therein of persons suffering from tuberculosis, which said hospital or sanatorium has been erected and equipped in accordance with plans and specifications approved by the State Department of Health, it shall be lawful for the commissioners or directors of such county or district, and they are hereby authorized and empowered to appropriate out of the funds of such county to such poor district or out of the funds of such district to such incorporated society, so much money as may be necessary for the maintenance of indigent persons, residents of the county or district, who may be inmates of such hospital or sanatorium and under treatment for tuberculosis.

(Sec. 1, Act of April 28, 1915, P. L. 193).

Sec. 1203. Appropriation for Maintenance Limited. That such appropriation shall not exceed for each of such indigent inmates the sum of Twenty ($20) Dollars per week, payable every three months, at the end of the period.

(Sec. 2, Act of April 28, 1915, P. L. 193).

Sec. 1204. Inspection by County Commissioners. That the commissioners of each county at all times shall have free access to such hospital or sanatoria, for inspection of its management and for ascertainment of the number of indigent persons receiving treatment therein.

(Sec. 3, Act of April 28, 1915, P. L. 193).

Sec. 1205. County Hospital for Contagious Diseases. From and after the passage of this act, hospitals for care and treatment of persons suffering from contagious diseases may be constructed and maintained by counties in this Commonwealth.

(Sec. 1, Act of May 24, 1917, P. L. 297)

Sec. 1206. Commissioners to Provide. Whenever in the opinion of the county commissioners of any county, a hospital for the care of contagious diseases appears to be necessary or advisable, the said county commissioners may either locate such a hospital on the grounds of the county poor-farm or may purchase a suitable location in some other locality; provided such locality is not within, or close, to the built-up portion of any city, borough, or village, and not within one hundred (100) feet if any public highway.

(Sec. 2, Act of May 24, 1917, P. L. 297)

Sec. 1207. Approval of Plans by Commissioner of Health. Plans and specifications may be prepared for such hospital by the county commissioners, or at their instance, which plans and specifications must be submitted to the Commissioner of Health of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for his approval, and must be so approved before the construction of any building is commenced.

(Sec. 3, Act of May 24, 1917, P. L. 297)

Sec. 1208. Manner of Construction. Upon the plans and specifications being approved by the Commissioner of Health, the said hospital may be constructed and equipped in the same manner that other county buildings are constructed and equipped, and the expense and cost of such construction and equipment paid by the county commissioners out of county funds.

(Sec. 4, Act of May 24, 1917, (P. L. 297)

Section 1209. Conduct and Maintenance of Hospital. After such hospital is erected and equipped and ready for occupancy, it shall be conducted and maintained, by and under the authority of the directors of the poor, in the same manner that the county home and other county poor buildings are conducted and maintained.

Sec. 5, Act of May 24, 1917, P. L. 297)

Sec. 1210. Payment of Expenses. All expenses incident to the construction and maintenance of contagious disease hospitals, established in accordance with the provisions of this act, shall be paid out of county funds, and no appropriations shall be made to such hospitals by the State.

(Sec. 6, Act of May 24, 1917, P. L. 297)

Sec. 1211. Removal of Contagious Cases to Hospital. In any county in which a hospital for the care and treatment of contagious diseases has been constructed and is being maintained, whenever, in the opinion of the health authorities,—either the local board or department of health of any city or borough in such county, or the State Department of Health,—proper quarantine measures cannot be otherwise enforced, the said health authorities may, for the protection of public health and the prevention of epidemics of disease, have authority to remove cases of contagious disease from private residences and other places to such hospital, for treatment and isolation during the continuance of such disease.

(Sec. 7, Act of May 24, 1917, P. L. 297)

CHAPTER XIII.

Special Revenue Provisions

Sec. 1300. Record of Fines For Use of Poor. It shall be the duty of every justice or magistrate who shall, by virtue of any law of this Commonwealth, receive any fine, penalty or forfeiture appropriated by law for the use of the poor, forthwith to enter at length on his docket, the name of the person convicted, the offense committed, the amount of such fine, penalty or forfeiture, and the time when the same was paid, and forthwith such justice shall pay over the same to the directors of the poor lawfully entitled thereto; and shall at all times, if required, exhibit his docket to the inspection of the auditor, or controller of such poor district.

(Sec. 35, Act of June 13, 1836, P. L. 539).

Sec. 1301. Neglect of Duty by Justice. If any justice or magistrate shall wilfully neglect or refuse to perform the duties enjoined on him as aforesaid, touching any fine, penalty or forfeiture appropriated to the use of the poor, he shall, on conviction thereof in the court of quarter sessions of the proper county, be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor in office, and fined, for the use of the poor of the district in which he shall reside, any sum not exceeding One Hundred ($100) Dollars; and if he shall be convicted of neglecting or refusing to pay over on demand, to the proper directors, any money which he shall have received as aforesaid, he shall be fined, over and above the last mentioned sum, any sum not exceeding double the amount which he shall have received as aforesaid; which sums shall be recovered by process of said court.

(Sec. 36, Act of June 13, 1836, P. L. 539)

Sec. 1302. Duty of Clerk of Court. It shall be the duty of the clerk of every court by whom any fine shall be imposed, which by law is to be appropriated, in whole or in part, to the use of the poor, forthwith to deliver a written notice of the same to the directors of the poor of the district entitled to receive said fine.

(Sec. 38, Act of June 13, 1836, P. L. 539).

Sec. 1303. Sheriff to Pay Over Fines Collected. It shall be the duty of every sheriff who shall have received any fine, penalty or forfeiture which by law may be appropriated to the use of the poor, to pay the same, to the proper directors of the poor; and if he shall fail to do so, within five days after demand, he shall, on convicion thereof in the court of quarter sessions of the proper county be fined and pay to the use of the poor of the proper district, any sum not exceeding double the amount received by him, to be recovered by the process of the said court.

(Sec. 40, Act of June 13, 1836, P. L. 539).

Sec. 1304. Gifts to Poor Construed. All gifts, grants, devises and bequests of any houses, lands, tenements, rents, goods, chattels, sum or sums of money to the poor of any poor district, or to any person or persons for the use of such poor, by deeds, or by last will and testament, or otherwise howsoever, shall be good and available in law, and shall pass such gifts, grants, devises and bequests to the authorities having charge of the poor of such poor district, for the use of said district.

(Sec. 15, Act of March 9, 1771).

Sec. 1305. Same to be Received by Directors. All fines, forfeitures, bequests, gifts and devises for the use of the poor of said district or now by law provided for any poor district which forms a part of said district under the provisions of this act, shall go to and be received by said directors of the poor, who shall demand and receive the same and use, invest or expand the same as they in their judgment deem best for the purpose of providing support and employment for the poor and in paying the debts of said district.

(Sec. 16, Act of May 12, 1921, P. L. 538).

CHAPTER XIV.

Audit of Account.

Sec. 1400. Accounts to be Audited. In addition to the powers and duties of county auditors and of county controllers as now conferred on them by law, it shall be their duty to audit, settle and adjust the accounts of the directors of the poor, and of the treasurer and steward of every county poor-house.

(Sec. 1 ,Act of April 22, 1879, P. L. 30, as amended by Act of June 2, 1881, P. L. 44).

CHAPTER XV.

Joint Districts.

Sec. 1500. Purchase or Lease of Real Estate and Erection of Building by Directors of Two or More Districts. Administration by Joint Board. The directors of the poor of any two or more conveniently located poor districts, are hereby authorized with the approval of the court of Common Pleas in each county to jointly lease or purchase real estate, and improve and erect buildings, and to provide tools, machinery, and stock as they may deem necessary and proper to provide a home or farm for the keeping, maintaining, and employing of such poor persons, as may be assigned to such home or farm by the directors of the poor of such districts; and there to keep, maintain, and employ such poor persons, and receive the benefit of the labor of such as are able to work for and toward their maintenance and support. The title for such real estate shall be taken in the joint names and for the joint use of the districts so uniting. No such joint action, as aforesaid, shall be had until it shall be separately ratified, and entered upon the records of the respective districts so uniting.

Sec. 1, Act of May 8, 1913, P. L. 174).

Sec. 1501. Organization of Joint Boards. The directors of the poor of any two or more poor districts, uniting as provided in Section 1500 of this act, shall, before they purchase or lease any real estate, meet as a board on a day certain, and annually thereafter, and organize by electing a president, secretary, and terasurer. The secretary and treasurer may be allowed such compensation as the board may determine. The tresurer shall give bond, in an amount to be fixed by the board, conditioned for the faithful performance of the duties of his office, which bond shall be deposited with the president of said board.

(Sec. 2, Act of May 8, 1913, P. L. 174).

Sec. 1502. Apportionment of Costs Among Districts Uniting. The board shall ascertain the amount required for the purchase or leasing of real estate, and the improvement and construction of buildings, together with the cost of equipment; and shall apportion such amount among the districts so uniting, according to their population, or according to such other method or basis as may be agreed upon before such joint action starts; and the directors of such districts are hereby authorized to pay, from the poor funds of their respective districts, into the treasury of the board the amounts thus apportioned to their respective districts.

(Sec. 3, Act of May 8, 1913, P. L. 174).

Sec. 1503. Authority to Borrow Money, Issue Bonds, and Levy Special Taxes. At any time after the organization of the board, the directors of the separate districts so uniting are authorized to borrow money, and issue bonds therefor and negotiate the same for the purpose of raising money to carry out the provisions of section 1502 of this act. Such bonds shall be payable by the separate districts issuing them, and shall not bear interest at a greater rate than six per centum, nor be sold below par. They may be renewed, from time to time, should the directors deem it advisable to do so. For the puprose of paying each district's share of the cost of such joint purchase or lease of real estate, and the permanent improving and equipping of the same, or for the purpose of paying debts incurred or bonds issued, according to the provisions of this section, the directors of the poor of the respective districts are hereby authorized to pay from the poor funds of their respective districts into the treasury of the board for a building or bond fund the amounts apportioned in the manner provided in Section 1502, in addition to the poor tax for current expenses.

(Sec. 4, Act of May 8, 1913, P. L. 174).

Sec. 1504. Management and Control of Property. The board shall have control, management, and direction of the propetry leased or purchased, as aforesaid: and shall provide those things necessary for the maintenance and employment of inmates, make necessary repairs and improvement of building and lands, cause the land to be cultivated and use the proceeds of such land and of the labor of the inmates for and toward the support and maintenance of the home or farm. The board shall elect each year, and fix their compensation, a superintendent, and such assistants and employes as they shall deem necessary, and they may appoint a physician and surgeon, all of whom shall be subject to removal by the board at any time.

(Sec. 5, Act of May 8, 1913, P. L. 174).

Sec. 1505. Meetings of Board, Quorum. Record of Proceedings. A majority of the directors of the districts so uniting shall be a quorum for the transaction of business; they shall meet at such regular times and places as they may agree upon, visit and inspect the home and farm; and examine into its management; see that the inmates are properly treated, and cause any just grievances to be corrected or redressed; and shall keep a record of their proceedings, which shall be evidence of their actions in any subsequent judicial proceedings. The board may appoint an executive committee, consisting of such number of members of the board as may be agreed upon, and may delegate to such committee such powers and duties as the board may deem proper. The expenses of the board and of the executive committee shall be paid out of the joint fund. No contract shall be approved, nor any expenditure authorized, of over five hunderd dollars, except upon the vote of two-thirds of the board.

(Sec. 6, Act of May 8, 1913, P. L. 174).

Sec. 1506. Apportionment of Maintenance Expense. The board shall at its annual meeting for organization, or as soon thereafter as possible, make a careful written estimate of the amount of money they deem necessary for the proper maintenance, operation, and support of said poor home or farm, for the ensuing year. The amount or amounts so determined upon shall be apportioned among the several ditsricts so uniting, according to such method or basis as may have been agreed upon before such joint action started; and the directors of the poor of the several districts are authorized and required to pay, or to make provision to pay as needed, out of their poor fund, to the treasurer of the board, the amount so apportioned to their respective districts. Any income arising from the operation of said home or farm may be used to lessen the current expense to the several districts, for improvements, stock, and equipment, or at the option of the board, may be distributed among the several districts, according to such method or basis as may have been agreed upon.

(Sec. 7, Act of May 8, 1913, P. L. 174).

Sec. 1507. Accounts and Audit. The board shall keep accurate accounts of all moneys received and paid by them in the performance of their duties. All accounts shall be audited by a board of three auditors, appointed by concurrence of the courts of common pleas of the counties, constituting such poor districts, which shall fix their compensation.

Sec. 1508. Discontinuance of Joint District. Whenever such districts so uniting shall agree to discontinue such joint action and ownership, or where one or more districts shall desire to discontinue such joint action and ownership the joint assets and indebtedness, or the share thereof of such district or districts, shall be apportioned or adjusted as may be agreed upon. In cases of failure so to agree, the matter may be adjudicated by the court of common pleas of any constituent county by a proceeding in equity.

(Sec. 8 and 9, Act of May 8, 1913, P. L. 174).

DEMAND FOR A GREATER PITTSBURGH

REPORT OF THE PENNSYLVANIA COMMISSION TO STUDY MUNICIPAL CONSOLIDATION IN ALLEGHENY COUNTY

To His Excellency The Governor Gifford Pinchot and To the Members of the Senate and House of Representatives, The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen: Your Commission, authorized by Act 282 of June 8th, 1923, was completed by appointment of the Governor in May, 1924.

The Act above referred to in the first section thereof states that the duties of the Commission are as follows:

".....to study the subject of consolidation of the various municipalities, to wit: cities, boroughs, and townships in counties of the second class, into one municipality, and to file with the next General Assembly its report, together with an Act providing a method for such consolidation."

The Commission has endeavored to accomplish the duties with which it has been entrusted and has made some progress in the development of a plan of consolidation for the municipalities in Allegheny County; but it has been impossible to arrive at a definite conclusion and a complete program as to the details of such consolidation.

The Pittsburgh District includes one Second Class City, three Third Class Cities, sixty-eight Boroughs and fifty-five Townships. Each type of unit operates under its own particular form of government. The conflicting interests of these municipalities and the multitude of varying conditions are such that much information and study are needed to adjust them to a common basis, particularly as to the distinction between local and district policies. To accomplish this, adequate finances are vitally necessary for a staff organization to carry on the details of the work. Under the present Act such financial arrangements have been lacking and voluntary contributions provided for in the Act creating the Commission, have not materialized.

The Commission has, however, determined the outstanding fact that in order to develope any plan, reliable data are fundamental and a basic necessity. These data must show not only the present municipal development, population, valuation, taxation, etc., of each governmental unit, but also have in mind a comprehensive program for that municipality and its proper future and continuing growth and needs. Its assets and liabilities must be determined, proper appraisal made of its police and fire protection, its health and educational service and every item that goes into the municipal makeup and that affect its government.

To run one second class city, three third class cities, sixty-eight boroughs and fifty-five townships, requires acres of office space, a vast concourse of buildings and an army of public servants. The functions are numerous and varied and tens of millions of money are spent in the regulation of and service to hundreds of thousands of citizens whose needs are tremendous. This service is indeed most complicated. The health, sustenance and happiness—both present and future—of this multitude depend in a most vital way on the kind of government. At present the machinery is multitudenous and most complicated. No thinking man or men could approach any reconstruction without due thought and most careful consideration of fundamental facts and statistics that cannot be challenged.

It will be easily conceded that for those things that all use, enjoy or demand, all must pay their proper share of cost and receive their proper share of service. This applies in the great fields of transportation, highways and bridges, water, sewerage, parks, health, fire and police protection. But these things alone do not make our present civilization. There are other things in which we all are vitally interested—for example, higher education and recreation. For all of these far seeing visions for the future is necessary.

Yet no government must become too remote from the people. The greater things should be handled in a greater way; and the smaller and more intimate things in a smaller way—a local way—"home rule by home people." Local officials should and must be close to the citizens for whom they function, giving service as desired, never remote from or unmindful of their constituents nor out of constant touch with them.

In the problem before your Commission it must be borne in mind that the United States Department of Census recognizes no community as a municipality or city for census purposes that does not receive recognition as a city from the State of which it is a part. In the County of Allegheny there is a population of a million and a quarter. This is known to the country as the Pittsburgh District, yet so far as population is concerned, the City of Pittsburgh as it exists under the governmental conditions is credited with the people living within its municipal boundary only, or approximately 600,000. The public sentiment behind the desire for a greater City in Allegheny County demands, first of all, that the city receive credit for the full population that is tributary to the business center. This population question is of greatest importance in the minds of the vast majority of the people affected and desiring the change.

The following report outlines the activities of the Commission, the general principles upon which a practical plan of consolidation may be worked out, and recommendations with regard to future activities.

PART I

INTRODUCTION

I. Officers and Committees

The temporary organization of the Commission effected at the first meeting on May 12th, 1924, was made permanent on June 23rd, 1924, when the following officers were elected:
Chairman, Jos. T. Miller, Borough of Edgewood.
Vice Chairman, Morris Knowles, City of Pittsburgh.

II. Existing Conditions in Allegheny County

The population of Allegheny County, as determined by the 1920 census, is approximately 1,200,000 and at the present rate of growth the lowest estimate places that anticipated in 1930 at 1,500,000. Practically half of this population, or approximately 620,000 people, live within the present limits of the the City of Pittsburgh.

The City is completely surrounded by boroughs, forming one large community as a whole having its main business center in the City. Beyond the Boroughs extends the rural territory, operating under township form of government, with occasional urban centers more widely scattered. The usual affairs of the County are controlled by the regularly constituted form of county government with a Board of Commissioners consisting of three members.

The multiplicity of governmental units within the county—the Townships, the Boroughs, the Second and Third Class Cities, and the County offices,—has resulted without doubt in the development of departments and offices with overlapping duties and duplication of endeavors. Such multiplication of efforts and activities can not but cause an unavoidable amount of inefficiency and much waste along the usual lines of government and management. Certain data, recently published by the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board are of interest and enlightening as to the hugeness of the problem before your Commission. These, among other things, give figures relating to population and the comparative value of properties, the bonded indebtedness and the tax rates.

"The City of Pittsburgh, with an estimated population in 1923 of 614,487, had an assessed valuation of real estate amounting to $928,865,000. The total for the country, with an estimated population of 1,235,710, was $1,515,853,000. These figures do not include the personal property valuation. The net bonded indebtedness of the city in 1923, not including that for school purposes, was $41,177,000; and of the county $34,569,000. Comparative figures for the other cities and the boroughs of Allengheny County are not now available. In the city the increase in population from the year 1913 to 1923 was 10 per cent, while during this same period the tax increase was 114 per cent. That is, in 1913, the City tax per person was $12.67, while in 1923 it was practically double this amount or $24.62. The City school tax increased during these years in a similar manner from $8.14 per person to $17.07 per person; and the cost per scholar from $66.00 to $116.00 In the county, during this period, the increase in population was 15.6 per cent, while the taxes increased 111.6 per cent, and the net bonded indebtedness, 81.1 per cent. The increase in wages and salaries for county officials and employees, from 1913 to 1923, was 196.0 per cent. The county tax per person in 1913 was $3.70 and in 1923 had increased to $6.60."

All of these figures reflect the inflated value of the dollar. Similar conditions no doubt prevail in the other municipalities of the county, but the records have not been searched out and compiled.

Consideration of these comparative figures indicates the surely growing need and demand for some improved methods designed to relieve the steadily increasing cost of government. Pittsburgh not only is the outstanding manufacturing center of the United States, but is also recognized in this capacity throughout the world. The continued prosperity of all our industries will greatly depend upon the continued growth and wise development of the whole district, which in turn is dependent upon efficiency with proper economy in the expenditure of all public funds. Otherwise there will be many needed improvements which it will be found can not be made because of the inability, under present conditions, to pay for them. It must always be remembered the right of taxation is the power to destroy when it approaches to the boundary line of excess and becomes confiscation.

The City of Pittsburgh alone has before it a program of improvement which contemplates the expenditures of something like $300,000,000 within the next 30 years, as suggested by its Honored Mayor and his associates in planning.

This program, while separate from any proposed or planned improvements in any of the communities without the city, whose needs are just as great and just as vital as these of the city, must necessarily tie up with those of a thoroughfare and district planning nature required in the smaller communities. In fact, most of the communities adjacent to the city are much less completely developed and in greater need of improved facilities than is the city.

It is evident that to accomplish such desirable results, some method is needed of consolidating and utilizing the combined resources of the district so as to react to the advantage of all. The outstanding questions to consider are construction of main thoroughfares, sewage treatment works, further development of water supplies, expansions of transportation facilities, maintenance of police systems, public health, fire protection, and so on. It will be easily conceded that for all such things, which are used and useful to all, each should pay a proper share of the cost and receive a proper share of the benefit and service. However, the many interests involved and the diversity of conditions to be harmonized (if any practical and equitable plan of consolidation is ever to be evolved) are greater than is generally thought of or recognized and the need of a most thorough study and understanding of these imperative to any adequate and equitable consideration of the subject.

III. Methods of Consolidation Available

Unless the situation be allowed to continue as it is until the wishes and desires of the affected peoples be better crystalized and determined and the necessities of the municipalities concerned be more fully discerned through their natural development, there apparently are but three courses open for the consideration and study of the Commission and for the final action of the interests concerned. These are:

1. Annexation of territory surrounding city, until natural rural limitations determine the extent—some times made coincident with county lines.
2. Metropolitan districts to be established for particular public works or improvements as needed.
3. Modified or enlarged city government, with a central governing body, but giving local autonomy in certain matters to constituent political units.

The tentative conclusion of your Commission is that the third method referred to above is the one that will prove most practical and successful and the only one that will prove acceptable to the majority of interests in the Pittsburgh District. In just what form this general principle of consolidation can be applied is yet to be determined.

PART II

ACTIVITIES OF THE COMMISSION AND PROGRESS.

I. Committee and Membership Meetings.

Meetings of the several committees have been held from time to time and ten meetings of the full membership of th Commission as follows:—May 12, 1924, June 23rd, July 7th, September 29th, October 13th, November 10th, November 24th, December 8th, December 15th, 1924, January 5th, and March 6th, 1925.

The deliberations of the Commission have been recorded in full and on call are available for any examination and review. Reports have been submitted from time to time by the several committees and such of these as have been printed are attached hereto as appendices to this report.

II. Public Hearings.

Printed invitations to public hearings have been sent out broadcast, particularly to representatives of the various municipalities which were asked to meet with the Commission, so as to afford an opportunity to present the views of citizens, civic bodies and trade organization, and, also, to acquaint them with the work of the Commission and the ideas that have been developed. As a result, three of the regular meetings of the Commission were devoted largely to general public discussions. These have helped materially to promote a better understanding of the situation.

III. Studies and Reviews of Plans.

The procedure used in other places for the establishment of municipal combinations and metropolitan districts have been reviewed by a special committee and preliminary report made thereon to the commission. These were segregated under the three classifications previously mentioned and which apparently cover the various schemes that have been tried out or proposed, throughout the country.

The plans examined included practically all of those of interest, either in operation or proposed, and refer to Greater New York, Philadelphia, Greater Boston, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Denver, Baltimore, Portland, Sanitary District of Chicago, Metropolitan District of Boston, Miami Conservancy District, Essex Border Utilities District, Ontario; Metropolitan Districts, Baltimore, Essex County, New Jersey, Detroit Metropolitan Area, Nassau County, New York, Hudson County, New Jersey, Westchester County, New York, Alameda County, California and Silver Bow County, Montana.

The conclusions as stated in the preliminary report of the Committee are quoted as follows:—

"The Committee is of the opinion that definite information is needed as to present status and requirements .... A staff should be organized and a study made of the existing situation and the actual needs of the district. This would relate to the physical, financial and governmental situation of the many different units represented and the various interests affected..... It is useless to try and determine which method of organization is most adaptable to our needs and most acceptable to all concerned until we know definitely what it is we want and what it is we hope to accomplish by such consolidation. This can not be done solely by talk and discussion; hard work of a searching nature is required by a competent staff adequately financed."

Additional emphasis was placed upon the need of information and study in an address by Gaylord C. Cummin of Concord, Mass., before the Commission on November 10, 1924. This address has been printed and is included in the appendices to this report.

Later, on November 24, 1924, a plan was proposed by Col. Chas. C. McGovern, a member of the Finance Committee, which outlined a method of consolidation by regrouping the present corporations, modeled on the basic idea of a central governing body and at the same time retaining some control over a few local matters in the underlying municipalities and to be later created. The proposals in this plan may be summarized as follows:

"A metropolitan police area, the limits to be coextensive with Allegheny County; a unification of the functions concerning health, water, sewage, public welfare and fiscal control and taxation; the elimination of duplication and overlapping of municipal functions or activities. A Municipal planning Commission also was proposed."

IV. Summary.

The activities of the Commission since its organization,—including the discussions in the general meeting, the studies and reports of the various committees, and the investigations of individual members, the examination and review of plans which have been placed in operation or which are proposed for consolidation in various districts throughout the country, and the discussions with the representatives of the municipalities affected in the Pittsburgh District at the public hearings have been varied and numerous. All have served to develope an appreciation of the magnitude and difficulty of the problem of providing some plan which would be acceptable to all the various interests in the Pittsburgh District.

The general feeling of the Boroughs, as reflected in the discussions with their representatives, is that there is willingness to cooperate and participate in any such movement if the anticipation of beneficial results can be shown and provided that the control of local affairs is maintained. Pittsburgh thus may secure the benefit of the greater population. There naturally is a great diversity of conditions in the various boroughs and cities in the county, as to financial conditions, public improvements that must be made, available bonding capacity, the work that has been accomplished with public moneys in the past, and so on. Some municipalities, which are in good financial circumstances because of local conditions and the efficient and business-like administration of local affairs, fear that any scheme of consolidation, unless safeguarded, might or would result in the diversion of their local taxes to help build up some other place not so fortunately situated. Sometimes, in expressing such fear, the responsibility for others as well as the hoped for benefits that might come from cooperation, is forgotten. Then again the method of local assessments for large benefits derived by a given district from public improvements, now usually paid by taxation of the whole area, will tend to lessen such fear. The Commission is in favor of legislation permitting such principle to become effective, for trial at least.

Therefore, the work of the Commission is and should be the development of a plan that will guarantee local control, up to a definitely established point. At the same time it should be one that will secure the benefits of combining the resources and simplifying the government of a large number of political units separated only by surveyed boundary lines, yet forming a vital unit as to economic, industrial, commercial and social life.

Briefly summarized, the outstanding fact which has been established is that a plan designed to accomplish the things outlined above will be acceptable when properly designed. While there is general unanimity of opinion on this, there is such a great number of different kinds of conditions and divergent views to be accommodated, that a thorough study and understanding of all these are essential to the working out of any practical and acceptable plan. To acquire, compile and properly weigh such information, there is need of a staff to work under the direction of the Commission, which staff should be thoroughly experienced, efficient and devoted.

PART III

DISCUSSION OF PRESENT UNITS AND POSSIBLE NEW METHODS.

I. Present Governmental Units.

In the rural districts we have township government of two classes,—First and Second. The business of the first class is controlled and directed by a Board of Commissioners with a president. The second class townships are controlled in a similar way, but with lesser powers, by a Board of Supervisors. These two forms of government are the simplest that exists in this Commonwealth. They are direct, and in most instances, economical. For the territory affected, they are efficient, and generally speaking they are no doubt responsive to the people; although in this respect they are not equal to the town meeting form of government as used in New England. Those elected to office live among their constituents and, in the smaller communities, have an individual acquaintance with the large majority of the people.

Next we have the borough government with its Burgess, its Council, with a President, and several officials working thereunder. The necessities of the boroughs for service exceed those of the townships. The government is more complicated, but, in a vast majority of the instances, as direct, nearly as economical and as responsive as the township government.

Excepting in the larger boroughs the Councilmen live in close touch with the large majority of their constituents and, in many instances, know most of their people by personal acquaintance.

The next form is for the 2nd and 3rd class cities. As the size of the municipality increases its government becomes more complicated and more involved and there is a great increase in the number of its agencies. This causes expense and the tendency to become overloaded with employees through the machinery of politics, with consequent inefficiency and increasing remoteness from its citizens. Its functions are much greater, the demands heavier and expenses per capita are generally on the increase.

Over these municipalities there is an additional government, descended from remote times, in the county form. This has its special functions and originally was largely intended only to provide for the peace of its citizens and law and order in the community, through its courts and police officers, its high sheriff, with whom is associated its coroner. By its remoteness from the individual citizen, it is largely influenced by mass movements only. As it now exists, it is of autocratic form, functioning through its Board of Commissioners and is laboring under the present difficulty of having developements and work thrust upon it not contemplated in times past, or originally as functions of county governments.

II. Municipal Consolidation or Cooperation.

The problem of your commission, if a greater city is to be brought into being, is to harmonize all the different conflicting thoughts and ideas so that all things that may be controlled by the greater city shall be properly handled by the new municipality and that the new municipality shall at the same time receive credit for its population; and that this consolidation take place so that the constituent, component parts might have control of their own local affairs.

Any municipality cooperation must necessarily fall under three heads,—Annexation, Metropolitan Districts or Consolidation.

The first, Annexation, would be offensive to a vast majority of the people at present outside the City. Whether warranted or not they believe that by annexation their own communities would not receive the development so essential to the well being of their inhabitants, that a greater cost would be thrown upon their shoulders, and the center of government would be so remote that questions vitally affecting them would not receive proper consideration and the service they would enjoy could not in any way compare with what they now secure. Under their present forms of control they can secure all the improvements they desire and are willing to pay for. They can get them as they wish, of the kind they wish, and where they wish, without consulting any who are not directly affected. To many, annexation seems the most desirable solution and yet there are others fearful of its effect and who originally proponents of this scheme, and now, after years of study, are opponents certainly now, opponents of any forcible method of procedure.

Under the head of Metropolitan District it seems that but few would be satisfied. First and foremost the creation of such district or districts would not change the population of the City of Pittsburgh in the United States Census returns. It does not recognize a Metropolitan District as a City. A Metropolitan District, therefore, would be valuable for one thing, namely, to put through large public works of a kind and type that are required. Such District or Districts would not change the present form of government, but would simply provide an additional government for a specified purpose, to accomplish a given thing, such as sewage disposal, water distribution, fire protection, park development, and others. The Metropolitan District idea appeals, particularly to those interested in public works, and perhaps to no others.

By the method of City Consolidation it is possible, in the opinion of your Commission, to broaden the present county form of government into a newer form of municipal government that will be recognized as a municipal govermental unit by the State. The larger duties of the new county municipal form would affect the whole district within the present county lines; it would create no new government as an entirety. The underlying municipalities would simply surrender certain of their powers and the new enlarged unit would absorb some additional powers. The component parts would still control their local affairs, yet each would coordinate and cooperate with the other and all under the greater municipality. In such consolidation the component parts would contribute their reasonable pro rata share of expenses. The large public works could be built under this type of greater municipality. The population, so desired by many, could be secured for the City of Pittsburgh. To accomplish this, as hereinbefore stated, means marking the lines between the work of each municipality. It means these definitions and limitations must be founded on facts that are basic; and proper lines of demarkation must be set up. There must be no shadow zone between the two—no danger of overlap or conflicts. To attempt to put any plan into effect on which these lines of separation are not absolutely and most clearly set out would in the opinion of your Commission be a monumental blunder.

It seems to your Commission, with proper time and study, that this plan is not only possible but desirable and would mean the solution of many problems in the way of flood prevention, drainage, sewerage, transportation, police protection and other things that are vital to the whole community. It is interesting to find that in Cities which have heretofore adopted the Metropolitan District system, advanced thought is turning to consolidation such as above outlined. It prevents the superimposing of sundry districts one upon the other, for various purposes and gives unity to all. The concensus of opinion in Los Angeles (where three charters we are informed have been in existence a little over a decade) is to change the course to consolidation rather than have Metropolitan districts, and this after careful study of the question by such a body as the California Tax Payers League.

It is believed that Municipal Consolidation is the best means of meeting the problem. Much would be accomplished in the way of making each municipal government responsible and responsive to its citizens, keeping the government as representative as it can be, and close to those actually living thereunder. Where this is done there is less tendency to mass inertia and there is greater civic and municipal interest, more watchfulness of public expenditures, more thought to the burden of taxation. The citizen is not stupified into inaction by the mere immensity of organization and his thought and care lost in the vastness of the problem and the multitude affected. However, if a consolidated city be formed of constituent municipalities, independent in local affairs, the powers of both the greater and the lesser must be limited specifically and positively,—for no step to consolidation can be wisely taken until all facts that make up the present situation are laid bare, their value and relation judged, proper coordination and cooperation foreseen and the utmost care used throughout. Otherwise immense damage can be done, great blunders made, great opportunities for better things lots or delayed for many years; waste may become greater waste and present loss a greater one. The right limits of the greater powers must be found; those of the lesser powers must be protected. Everyone can not have all the options; there must be compromise on both sides, each respecting the rights and privileges and duties of the other.

PART IV

RECOMMENDATIONS

The Commission feels that a plan can and should be developed which will result in the prevention of duplication, the simplification of government, an increase of efficiency, the elimination of unnecessary operations and a reduction in governmental costs; and for this purpose recommends the continuation of the Commission and its work.

The Commission further recommends:

1. That no plan that may be developed will be worth while and satisfactory unless the greater city secures credit of the population of surrounding urban communities.

2. That such a plan to be made satisfactory should give to the constituent and smaller municipalities proper and reasonable control of their local affairs.

3. It has been discovered that it is essential to have complete data of the functions, assets, liabilities, local needs and developments of each community, and that without these data no practical and acceptable plan can be formulated.

4. These data must be compiled in such form as to determine duplication and overlaps that can and should be removed, to locate present waste that can be eliminated, and that the Commission may build any future plan thereon in such a way as to develop proper efficiency upon a new plan of government that will be practical. Any such proposed plan built upon data to be secured, must be so drawn as to protect the proper rights, privileges and liberties of each constituent unit and to secure the same for the future.

5. That such an investigation will require adequate financing and should be done by a staff thoroughly informed and experienced in such work, of careful and practical judgment, and familiar with such work and such problems heretofore encountered and solved.

6. That a plan be found and made adaptable in such a way that it may aid in the solution of metroplitan aspirations and developments in other locations in the State of Pennsylvania, where somewhat similar conditions may exist or come into being.

7. Such an important study, pregnant with great possibilities for service, for the whole State, should be aided by the State, and not wholly financed as the present act provided by voluntary contributions from the various municipalities.

8. Legislation should be considered looking towards the continuation of this Commission. A bill for the purpose of which accompanies this report; a constitutional amendment is being prepared and will be offered at a later date for your consideration.

All of which is respectfully submitted by

THE COMMISSION TO STUDY MUNICIPAL CONSOLIDATION IN COUNTIES OF THE SECOND CLASS

ATTEST:

Frank I. Gollmar, Secretary. Jos. T. Miller, Chairman.

I hereby certify that the foregoing report was duly adopted by unanimous vote of all members present at the meeting of "The Commission to Study Municipal Consolidation in Counties of the Second Class" held March 6th, 1925. The Commissioners voting in favor of said adoption being:

W. E. Best, Grover Delaney, Frank I. Gollmer, Charles P. Howe, E. Lowry Humes, Morris Knowles, S. R. McClure, C. A. Lewis, D. C. Muir, George Munroe, Chas. C. McGovern, S. A. Taylor, E. A. Young, S. H. Noll, Chas. A. Woods, C. L. Kelly, J. W. Vickerman, P. J. Fuehrer, Joseph T. Miller. Total nineteen (19)

Those voting against the adoption none.

Members of the Commission absent from the meeting:

Horace Crider, J. D. Hailman, E. M. Herr, David L. Starr, C. W. Scheck. Total five (5)

A COPY OF AN ACT

A SUPPLEMENT

To an act, approved the eighth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three. (P. L. 688), entitled "An act providing for the creation of a commission to study the subject of consolidation of the various municipalities, to wit: cities, boroughs and townships in counties of the second class into one municipality, and to file with the next General Assembly its report, together with an act providing for a method for such consolidation; and prescribing its powers and duties;" continuing the commission appointed under the provisions of said act for a further period of two years, and giving said commission additional powers.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the commission on consolidation of municipalities in counties of the second class appointed under the provisions of the act to which this is a supplement, is hereby continued until the close of the session of the General Assembly of 1927. The commission shall continue its work as specified in said act and shall make report of its proceedings to the Governor and General Assembly at said Session of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven.

Section 2. Any vacancies occurring in said commission in any manner shall be filled by appointment by the Governor. The commission may appoint a secretary and such other agents, employes, experts, engineers and legal counsel at such reasonable compensation as it may determine. Any member of the commission may be designated as such secretary; and when acting in any such capacity, shall be allowed reasonable compensation for his services as such.

Section 3. The said commission or its duly appointed committees, through its proper officers, shall have power to subpoena witnesses before the commission or any of its committees.

Section 4. The said commission or any of its duly appointed committees or representatives shall have full power and authority to examine the books, records and accounts of said county and any and all municipalities and school districts within said county.

Section 5. The said committee or any of its duly authorized committees or officers shall have power to submit questionnaires to said county and to all municipalities and school districts within said county pertaining or relative to the matters to be considered or investigated and all municipal officers of said municipalities and school districts shall promptly answer said questionnaires giving all desired and requested information.

Section 6. In addition to the authority to all municipalities to make appropriations as specified in Section four of the act to which this is a supplement, the said commission is hereby authorized to receive any contributions from individuals, corporations, or boards or civic bodies to help defray the expenses of its said work.

PENNSYLVANIA COMMISSION TO STUDY MUNICIPAL CONSOLIDATION IN ALLEGHENY COUNTY

Created by Act of Assembly No. 282, Approved June 8, 1923.

MEMBERS

Jos. T. Miller, Chairman, William E. Best, Treasurer, Horace Crider, Grover Delaney, P. J. Fuerhrer, Frank I. Gollmar, Secretary, J. D. Hailman, E. M. Herr, Charles P. Howe, Hon. E. Lowry Humes, Hon. C. L. Kelly, Morris Knowles, C. A. Lewis, George Monroe, D. C. Muir, S. R. McClure, S. H. Noll, Col. Charles C. McGovern, Hon. David L. Starr, C. W. Scheck, S. A. Taylor, Hon. J. W. Vickerman, Chas. A. Woods, Edward A. Young.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 29th, 1924

Dear Sir: The Commission to Study the question of Consolidation of Cities, Boroughs and Townships in Allegheny County into one municipality created by Act of Assembly No. 282 is now functioning and desires your co-operation.

This Commission was appointed by the Governor pursuant to that Act of Assembly, and for the last three months has been carrying on the research and preliminary work necessary to the proper performance of its duties. The Commission is approaching this subject open-mindedly with the sole purpose of serving in the most effective way the best interests of all the people and communities in Allegheny County, whose future prosperity and welfare is so largely contingent upon the constructive development and growth of our community as a whole. The Commission realizes that its effort can only succeed insofar as it may meet the needs and desires of the communities that will be affected.

There is a great diversity of opinion as to the best way of approaching this subject and attaining the goal which was contemplated by the Legislature when this Commission was created. The preliminary survey already made by the Commission indicates that many of these divergent views can be readily reconciled, but the work of reconciliation necessitates a thorough and complete understanding by the Commission of the necessities and the wishes of the many communities that will be affected. With this in mind, the Commission desires to hold public hearings for the purpose of securing the ideas and views of all the communities and elements interested in or in any way effected by the solution which will be proposed by the Commission. The municipalities and civic organizations which are daily brought face to face with the practical operation of government control and supervision over numerous and varied subjects, all of which require co-ordination and unity of action for the benefit of the whole community, are in the best position to furnish this Commission with the nature and extent of the difficulties which they have had and daily are encountering, and the best possible method of harmonizing these difficulties which extend beyond the corporate limits of each individual municipality.

The Commission desires to outline to you at this time the four ideas that have been brought before it for consideration in the meetings of the last few months, as these plans may affect the future of the Greater Pittsburgh District.

1st—Annexation of the territory surrounding the City, to the City proper, until the City lines and the County lines become co-incident, creating here a situation similar to that existing in the City of Philadelphia.

2nd—That the present situation be allowed to continue as it is, without interference or development of change in the municipalities as they exist today.

3rd—That the Commission adopt in its report the plan of having Metropolitan Districts erected for each given purpose that the community as a whole might desire to accomplish, each Metropolitan District covering its own particular territory for its own particular purpose, operating under its own particular executive board, each board having a bonding power and taxing power for its particular purpose. This scheme, allows these Metropolitan Districts, in any way, to impose additional governmental districts on top of those already existing and is objected to by many for this reason. This scheme would allow districts for transportation, sewage, water supply, main highway, parks and parkways, fire protection and police. In each some of the functions of the local communities would be surrendered to the particular district for its particular purpose. This plan, however, does ot permit any change in the status of Pittsburgh and its surrounding territory in the census list, one of the things most urgently desired by a great many people for various and substantial reasons.

4th—A Consolidated Municipal Government composed of constitutent independent municipalities, the greater government having charge over the entire territory coincident with the County lines and having certain functions and certain powers which affect the general good, general development and general government. The constituent municipalities, however, reserving to themselves the control and direction of their own local affairs, being independent of each other and of the greater government in their strictly local matters, with certain local taxing and local developing powers where the district as a whole is interested. This form of government would give Pittsburgh the desired place in the census list.

We, therefore, not only sincerely invite, but urge, that you give this matter the serious consideration which it deserves, and designate some person or persons as your representatives to meet with the Commission at a date in the very near future to present the views of your municipality, its citizens and civic bodies, and further if in your community there are any social, civic or trade organizations that desire to present their views to the Commission, advise them that an opportunity for such hearing can be had by them if they will be kind enough to communicate by mail with the Secretary of this Commission, Frank I. Gollmar, Esq., 1216 Berger Building, Pittsburgh. This letter is being sent to the officials of the several municipalities and we suggest that each representative be selected by the Mayor, Burgess or Chairman of the Board of Supervisors or Commissioners, the President of the School Board and the President of Council so that prompt action may be had. If your community prefers a different method of selection, that of course is a matter for your own discretion.

It will be necessary for the Commission to prepare a schedule arranging for a series of hearings, and you are therefore urged and requested to immediately communicate with the Secretary of the Commission, advising him as to whether or not you wish to be heard, and designating the name, address and phone number of the representative or representatives who will appear in your behalf. Your representatives will be advised as to the time they may be heard by the Commission.

Please do not treat this as a mere invitation but recognize it as a very real duty incumbent upon you as public officers and citizens of the world's greatest industrial community to aid in solving a matter of vital importance, not only to your neighborhood but to the entire State.

All students of municipal government in this community recognize the necessity of some intelligent and effective action through the efforts of this Commission, in order to avoid the more serious crisis that will confront the community if arbitrary, drastic and piece-meal legislative action is restored to, and to avoid such a crisis, we appeal to you for your counsel, assistance and co-operation.

Respectfully,

Committee on Public Hearings.

Frank I. Gollmar,
Jos. T. Miller.

No. 282

AN ACT

Providing for the creation of a commission to study the subject of consolidation of the various municipalities, to wit: cities, boroughs, and townships in counties of the second class, into one municipality, and to file with the next General Assembly its report, together with an act providing a method for such consolidation; and prescribing its powers and duties.

Section 1. Be it enacted, &c., That the Governor is duly authorized and directed to appoint a commission of twenty-four persons, eight of whom shall be residents of cities, and sixteen of whom shall be residents of boroughs and townships, and at least one of whom shall be a civil engineer, to study the subject of consolidation of the various municipalities, to wit: cities, boroughs, and townships in counties of the second class, into one municipality, and to file with the next General Assembly its report, together with an act providing a method for such consolidation.

Section 2. The members of the commission shall receive no compensation for their services, but shall be reimbursed for all expenses necessarily incurred in the performance of their duties.

Section 3. The commission may appoint a secretary and such other agents, employes, and legal counsel, at such reasonable compensation, as it may determine.

Section 4. The county and the several municipalities are authorized to make appropriations for the use of the said commission in the payment of its expenses, but such appropriations shall not exceed in any case one dollar in any year for each one hundred inhabitants of the county or of the municipality.

Approved—The 8th day of June, A. D. 1923.

PENNSYLVANIA COMMISSION TO STUDY MUNICIPAL CONSOLIDATION IN ALLEGHENY COUNTY.

Preliminary Report.

COMMITTEE ON THE METHODS OF ESTABLISHING METROPOLITAN DISTRICTS AND MUNICIPAL CONSOLIDATION; NOVEMBER 10, 1924.

PRELIMINARY REPORT

Function of Committee

The Committee was appointed to "examine and report on procedure used in other places for the establishment of municipal combinations and metropolitan districts and the needs and reasons, if any, at this time for such action in this district".

General Outline

The discussions of the Commission have developed three ideas for consideration in the study of consolidation for the greater Pittsburgh District. These have been brought before the public with an explanation of each. Briefly they are as follows:

(1) Annexation of territory surrounding city until natural rural limitations determine the extent—sometimes made coincident with county lines.

(2) Metropolitan districts to be established for particular public works or improvements as needed.

(3) A modified or enlarged city government with a central governing body but giving local autonomy in certain matters to constituent political units.

The three methods of consolidation outlined above apparently cover the various schemes that have been tried or have been proposed throughout the country. The details of organization and administration may differ, as proposed in any particular instance, but the plans, as far as general principles are concerned, may be grouped under one of these three headings.

The above classification, it perhaps should be explained, refers to plans undertaken or proposed for the consolidation of a number of political units for the purposes of accomplishing bigger and better things and for economy in operation and administration. This explanation is made because, in certain instances, the separation of a city from a county in one way or another has been made because of certain local governmental complications. As an example we may refer to the detachment of the City of Baltimore from Baltimore County, in 1851, or the separation of the City of St. Louis from St. Louis County, in 1876. Such situations although referred to later, do not concern us here, for we are interested in whether the cities, boroughs and townships in Allegheny County may or may not advantageously be consolidated in one way or another; and if so, what plan of cooperation offers the best solution.

An attempt has been made to list the more important of the various plans of unification that have been put into effect, and those that have been proposed, under one of the three above classifications. In addition some—perhaps many—more or less important consolidations of governmental units have taken place for one reason or another; and while these in themselves have been of local interest they, for the most part, are of usual nature of annexations and are not of general importance when considered in relation to the more ambitious plans that have been undertaken or proposed. The reference here is to such things as the union of Allegheny with Pittsburgh, in 1906-1908, and the consolidation of the suburbs at Wheeling, in 1920; both as mentioned by Prof. Chester B. Maxey of the Western Reserve University in his interesting paper "The Political Integration of Metropolitan Communities", as published in the National Municipal Review for August, 1922.

Examples of More Important Consolidation Plans Accomplished.—Of the consolidation movements which have taken place, we may list under the first method the consolidation of the City and County of Philadelphia, in 1854; the City and County of San Francisco, in 1856; and the City and County of Denver, in 1902-11. A plan somewhat similar, but accomplished in a different way, was the detachment of the City of Baltimore from Baltimore County, in 1851; when legislation was passed providing a full complement of county officers for the City of Baltimore and conferring upon the city the status of a county.

A review of the factors leading up to the consumation of the plans just mentioned, and the results, are given in Prof. Maxey's paper as previously mentioned. A more detailed description may be found in other publications. A condensed reference to each follows:

Philadelphia—Formation of Greater Philadelphia—1854.—Legislative Act was passed February 2, 1854, extending the boundaries of the City of Philadelphia to coincide with those of Philadelphia County and all outlying municipalities, districts and townships were absorbed. The government of the City was remodeled to render it more adequate for the enlarged area, but no striking or fundamental changes were made. The County of Philadelphia was not included in the consolidation, although this was thought to be the intent of the law. Progressive newspapers and civic organizations have since advocated the consolidation of the city and county governments, so as to overcome the duplication of offices, but as yet no organized movement has been launched.

San Francisco—Consolidation of City and County—1856.—Originally the boundaries of the City of San Francisco were practically identical with those of San Francisco County but with both city and county governments. The Legislative Act of 1856 repealed the charter of the City of San Francisco and created a corporation styled "The City and County of San Francisco" which was to act in the two-fold capicity of city and county. The changes in the form of government were not radical in principle but the duplication of offices for the most part was eliminated.

Denver—Separation and Consolidation—1902-1911.—This was in reality a movement for amendment to the constitution to provide home rule for Denver but applied to all cities of the first and second class in Colorado. The boundaries of the City of Denver were considerably extended prior to the taking effect of the amendment and legislation was secured enlarging the area by specifically annexing certain contiguous territory. The municipal corporation was designated the "City and County of Denver". The charter was ratified in March, 1904, but the real consolodation of the city and county government did not take place until 1911, when various legal controversies were terminated by a sweeping decision of the Supreme Court of the State quite the reverse of its former pronouncements. Later, about 1916, the so-called "Speer Amendment" was adopted and provided for a highly centralized administration under an elected Mayor.

City of Baltimore—Detachment from Baltimore County—1851.—Since having the status of a county conferred upon it, by the constitution of 1851, the boundaries of the City of Baltimore have been extended by annexation of suburban communities from time to time. The most recent of these was in 1918, when the legislature of the State passed an Act subtracting some 60 square miles from Baltimore and Anne Arundel Counties and adding them to the City of Baltimore. No provision was made for referendum vote, but compensation was provided for the counties which had lost territory or property by the annexation. About 100,000 people were added to the population of the City of Baltimore by this movement.

Prehaps the most prominent example of consolidation under the third method is that of Greater New York in 1898.

Greater New York—Consolidated 1898.—The metropolitan district, composed of New York (Manhattan), Brooklyn, Richmond Conunty and portions of Kings, Queens and Westchester Counties, had a population estimated at more than 3,000,000. This area eventually was organized into five boroughs, with a centralized governing body elected from each. Local autonomy, however, was preserved for each of the boroughs as to certain functions by the making of separate governmental units.

The organization of metropolitan districts for specific purposes, as explained under the second method, may be illustrated by the following examples:

Sanitary District of Chicago.—The Sanitary District of Chicago includes the City of Chicago and more than thirty small towns. The District Board is elected by the area affected and has certain independent financial powers. The purpose of the District is the development of a sewerage system and dilution system, in order to protect the water supply of the City. Incidentally, the development of electric power is also accomplished.

Metropolitan District of Boston.—The metropolitan district of Boston includes the cities and towns within a radius of 12 to 15 miles from the State House and has jurisdiction over sewerage, water supply, parks and planning. The governing body consists of five commissioners appointed by the Governor. The capital and maintenance costs first paid out of the State Treasury are then assessed upon the interested communities, in accordance with benefits received, either on the basis of assessed valuation, population, use of water, or partly on all three.

Miami Conservancy District.—This is possibly the largest area of its kind in the United States and is somewhat of a special instance, but may be classified under the third method of consolidation. The district embraces all or part of nine counties and includes the cities of Dayton, Springfield and Hamilton, Ohio. The district is organized for the purpose of constructing and maintaining flood prevention works and its government rests with a Board of three appointed by a Court consisting of one Common Pleas Judge in each of the counties affected.

Essex Border Utilities Commission.—The Essex Border Utilities Commission constituted by special act of the Ontario Legislature, in April, 1916; its object being the solution of problems affecting the whole of the Border Municipalities, as distinguished from those to be dealt with by any one of them in particular. These problems include sewerage, water systems, health, parks, planning, etc. The Commission consists of 19 members, 11 of whom are elected and 8 ex-officio, for a three-year term, all serving without remuneration.

Baltimore, Maryland.—The State Legislature of Maryland recently created metropolitan districts around Baltimore for certain water supply and sewerage purposes.

Examples of More Important Consolidation Plans Proposed

Greater Boston Movement.—The merging governmental agencies of the metropolitan area around Boston,—already united under State control for the accomplishment of certain public works—has been under discussion for many years. Several plans have been proposed. The first was by a Commission, appointed by the Legislature in 1896. This recommended the federation of the various towns and cities as a single county which should have the functions of a municipal corporation. In 1911 the Boston Chamber of Commerce reported a plan of federation through the creation of a metropolitan council, consisting of representatives of the various municipalities. In the same year the State Legislature created a second commission to consider the metropolitan problem and this body recommended a plan of loose federation similar to the plan of the Chamber of Commerce. Later, in 1919, a Bill was introduced in the State Legislature authorizing the outright annexation of the suburban municipalities. Other plans, also have been suggested such as a Borough Plan, similar to that of Greater New York. None of the plans proposed have been consummated.

Portland, Oregon—Proposed City and County Consolidation.—This plan of consolidation may be classified under the first method outlined above. A constitutional amendment to effect the consolidation was defeated in 1919. It would have provided for the consolidation of the City of Portland, the City of Gresham, the City of Fairview, the City of Troutdale, the Port of Portland and the County of Multnomah and all school districts and road districts in Multnomah County, into a single corporation to be styled "The City and County of Portland."

Los Angeles, California—Consolidation Movement.—Various plans for consolidation have been proposed for the metropolitan area around Los Angeles. The latest and most comprehensive survey of the problem is said to be that of the Taxpayers Association of California, as published in October, 1917. This report advocates the severance of the Metropolitan District from Los Angeles County and the creation of a unitary government of the manager type for the consolidated municipalities. No active campaign in behalf of this plan has been undertaken. The City of Los Angeles has established an annexation and consolidation commission, and this body is in process of developing a consistent and comprehensive program of unification. The plan proposed by the Taxpayers Association presumably would be included under the third heading.

Essex County, New Jersey.—A plan has been recommended by the New York Bureau of Municipal Research, advocating the detachment of the metropolitan and rural section of Essex County, and the creation of some sort of political unit in the former. It was suggested also that the governmental machinery of Essex County be merged with that set up for the metropolitan area and that the municipalities confederate under some sort of government which should have power to act in all general matters as distinguished from those of purely local concern. No definite step has been taken to put these recommendations into effect. The plan, however, would come under the general classification of the third method previously outlined.

Detroit Metropolitan Area.—This plan, as proposed, is an example of the third method of consolidation and is given in a report prepared by the Metropolitan Committee of the Detroit Board of Commerce. It is stated therein that "This proposal has been advanced with one principal thought—to secure a governmental area or areas, large enough to undertake certain projects that cannot be undertaken satisfactorily by the cities and villages individually. The government of such a metropolitan district or districts would be distinct from the government of the included cities and villages, and the area would be sufficiently large to permit the orderly development of water supply, rapid transit, sewerage, port facilities, and also possibly to deal with health, education and police."

Nassau County, New York.—A form of charter has been proposed for Nassau County, New York, by a Charter Commission, appointed by the Board of Supervisors, in December, 1921. The charter, as suggested, provides that cities and towns within the county shall retain their present status. Provision is made, however, for a centralized governing body, composed of a number of Boards representative of the various political units. This is an example of the third method of consolidation as outlined.

Hudson County, New Jersey.—The Legislative Act as drafted proposes the incorporation of Jersey City and other cities, towns, townships and boroughs in Hudson County to form a corporation, having the name of "The City of Jersey City and the County of Hudson". The territorial limits of this corporation would be coincident with the present limits of Hudson County. The Act provides that the present government of the municipalities shall continue as now constituted until such time as a charter for the government of the new municipality shall have been adopted and proper officials elected thereunder and inducted into office. This would seem to be an example of the first method of consolidation, making the limits of the city and county coincident.

Westchester County, N. Y.—The plan proposed for Westchester County may be classified under the third method of consolidation as listed. It has received much study and perhaps offers one of the best examples of carefully considered consolidation of this kind. Briefly the Commission recommends that every function that can be maintained by the individual political unit be left to it, subject to the supervisory check of the County. For the government of the County as a whole various boards would be provided, with board powers of administration; and the County would have the right to construct and maintain water and sewer systems and public highways where the same passed through more than one municipality. The prospect of the adoption of such a complete transformation does not seem to be advancing rapidly.

Alameda County, Cal.—The proposed consolidation for the district of Alameda County is of the modified County Government type outlined under the third method of consolidation. There was proposed rather a loose federal form of organization under which the component cities would become autonomous boroughs and would retain important local powers while such functions as police protection, promotion of public health, assessment and collection of taxes, would be delegated to the central government. It was proposed to combine the city manager idea with that of an elected mayor. This plan was not ratified and later in 1918 an amendment to the State Constitution was adopted which provided that a charter might be prepared by a board elected by the citizens of the entire county. Under this provision a charter was prepared and submitted to the voters in 1921 and was defeated. Under this charter the governing body was to have been a metropolitan council of seven members elected by districts. The administrative functions of the council would have been exercised by a manager appointed by the council. Only the district attorney, assessor, auditor and judges would have remained elective, and all other city and county officers were to have been consolidated or abolished entirely. In order to preserve a limited amount of local autonomy for the several cities and towns to be consolidated, borough government was to have been combined with the city manager plan. This is an example of the third method.

Silver Bow County, Montana.—An amendment to the State Constitution of Montana, ratified by the voters in 1922, provides for consolidation of the counties, cities and towns, or any combination of these. Later an act was passed, providing for merging and consolidating "the separate corporate existence and government of the County of Silver Bow and every city and town therein into one municipal corporation and government under the corporate name 'City and County of Butte,'" To this new corporation is given all the powers that "now are or hereafter may be confererd on cities, towns and counties" by the laws of Montana. Under the terms of the constitutional amendment the Act can only be put into operation by vote of the electors of Silver Bow County. Such an election has not yet been held. The form of Government provided for the sonsolidated area is of the commission-manager type. This plan may be classified under the first method of consolidation outlined, wherein the city and county lines are made coincident.

Summary.—A number of states have legislation providing for the formation of special metropolitan districts for the building of public works, such as sewerage and water supply systems; and for flood protection drainage of low lands and so on. No attempt has been made to list all of these nor to refer to many of the minor consolidations or mergers of several municipalities, nor to those that have come about through the usual annexation of suburban communities by larger cities. The effort has been to call attention to the larger consolidation plans that have been consummated or proposed and to classify them under one or more of the methods outlined. Brief reference only has been made to the form of organization or to the functions of administrative officers, for such details safely can be left for the future, after some preliminary idea at least has been reached as to the general plan of consolidation wanted and needed in our Pittsburgh district.

The basic reason for consolidation, and the benefits in general, are common to any community, although in varying degree according to local circumstances and need. It is true, that where plans have been consummated or are being promoted, there has been some outstanding feature or peculiar local condition as the exciting cause. However, these merely have furnished the initiative for the inception of the project and have been the factors in creating a definite desire for its consummation; they do not represent the sole reason or fundamental basis, but rather are illustrative of an example of the usefulness of the plan. That is, while consolidation may be of more value in one place than in another because of some specific condition or reason, the real benefits of the plan—if it is such as to bring about increased efficiency in governmental administration and economy in the expenditure of public funds—are of universal application.

It is too early to say just what are the specific requirements of our greater Pittsburgh district as a reason for consolidation;—nor can it be said just what form of organization would be most acceptable. There is need for definite information on many things, and until such information is available we must fall back somewhat upon generalities and reference to the results that have followed the inauguration of such plans in other places. Your committee has reviewed man reports, papers, atricles, etc., that have been prepared from time to time, either for general purposes or for the promotion of some particular project. These indicate uninimity of thought as to the benefits of consolidation. Certainly there can be no doubt of some resulting benefit if a large number of political units—separated only by imaginary boundary lines but forming as a whole one unit as to economic, industrial, commercial and social life—are united by some plan that makes concerted action possible in the conduct of public affairs where the interests of more than one community are concerned. At the same time it is recognized that there are reasonable limitations to size;—but consolidation in the sense here used does not mean the physical bringing together of widely separated built up communities. We are not unmindful of the thought of the city planners, that plenty of open spaces for recreational and other purposes be maintained between the built up industrial, commercial and residental areas.

It is needless here to repeat the reasons in general for consolidation of metropolitan areas; they should be fairly similar to those interested in the subject from repeated reference in the many printed publications. However, the results in certain places, where plans have been in operation for some time, may be of interest. These, in several instances, have been summed up by Prof. Maxey in his paper, mention of which previously has been made. For example, in referring to the formation of Greater Philadelphia, during the mid-nineteenth century, it is said:

> "The immediate results of the consolidation and annexation were unquestionably beneficient. For many years Philadelphia and her environs had been disgraced by civil turbulence almost impossible to prevent of control * * * These disturbances and disorders quickly disappeared when unified local government went into operation * * 1 * * Other beneficial results of consolidation were the development of a comprehensive system of water supply and sewage disposal to replace the separate systems of the former independent municipalities; the establishment of a metropolitan park system; and a marked increase in the assessed valuation of property throughout the metropolitan area."

Again, referring to the consolidation of the City and County of San Francisco:

> "In the matter of economy the advantage of unified local government became apparent at once. The historian Hittel reports that under the new scheme of government the expenses of city and county government were reduced from $2,640,000 in 1855 to $350,000 in 1857."

With reference to the formation of Greater New York it is said that:

> "In the realm of economic and social development the story of the greater city since consolidation is simply fabulous. The political integration of the various districts in the metropolitan area soon resulted in physical integration through the construction of bridges, tunnels, rapid transit systems and water supply systems. With physical integration came that marvelous development of the outlying boroughs which has so astonished the world and which has brought the population of Brooklyn up to 2,002,262, that of the Bronx to 732,016, that of Queens to 466,811 and that of Richmond to 115,959. That this basic unity of the metropolitan district has been one of the most potent factors in fostering the commercial and industrial development which has made New York the first city in the world scarcely needs to be said."

Here in Pittsburgh we have an example of one of the accomplishments of annexation in the union of Allegheny with Pittsburgh in 1906-1908. In this instance it resulted in the elimination of water-borne typhoid fever in the smaller community by the introduction, throughout the enlarged city, of a filtered water supply. While the filtration plant of the City of Pittsburgh was under construction, Allegheny continued to use its polluted supply from the Allegheny River, and no adequate steps were being taken to look to its purification. After the ennexation, Allegheny received a filtered supply and as a result the typhoid fever death rate for the whole city including the North Side was reduced to one of the lowest in the country.

Conclusion

Your Committee believes that the program which has been outlined for meeting and conference with the various organizations throughout the district is the most definite public action that can be taken at the present time. These discussions if held should aid in promoting concentration of thought upon a definite plan and secure the sentiments of the many interests concerned as to the plans outlined in the beginning of this report.

The Committee is of the opinion that definite information is needed as to present status and requirements. While the meetings are in progress, a staff should be organized and a study made of the existing situation and the actual needs of the district. This would relate to the physical, financial and govermental situation of the many different units represented and the various interests affected. This study should be aimed at determining on the basic actual facts and conditions, the functions that could be unified to the benefit of the several communities; as well as those best left in local control. Also, after ascertaining this point, the study should develop some plan of financing both unified and local projects, so that entire justice would be done to each of the existing communities. It is useless to try and determine which method of organization is most adaptable to our needs and most acceptable to all concerned, until we know definitely what it is we want and what it is we hope to accomplish by such consolidation. This cannot be done solely by talk and discussion; hard work of a searching nature is required by a competent staff adequately financed. It is useless to try and bring a plan before the people and say—"this is the one best plan", if its development is based solely upon the results that have been accomplished by a similar plan in some other place. One plan may be the best under certain circumstances and in a certain locality, but it may not meet the local needs and local conditions of another. Reliable information on a multitude of things is necessary before a definite plan of action can confidently be determined, with assurance that it will accomplish the results that are expected.

ADDRESS OF GAYLORD C. CUMMINS OF CONCORD, MASSACHUSETTS, BEFORE THE COMMISSION TO STUDY CONSOLIDATION OF MUNICIPALITIES IN ALLEGHENY COUNTY

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen—When I think of the problem that this Commission is facing, it reminds me of a picture puzzle, where you have nothing but the frame. You know the general dimensions and that is all you do know, and you don't know the shapes of the pieces, and it is hard to figure them out because they have no design on them. In other words you are lacking vital information to be able to decide what functions of government might be unified to advantage or what functions are better left in control of the various communities; you must have a lot of information and data before any kind of conclusions may be drawn up. In this report made here today, there is cited many plans and projects along this line and many of them have not been consumated and the trouble with them is that they are paper organizations, they never were placed before the public in any definite form, or any plans given as to how they would work out; they were theoretical organizations. All of you know they would look all right on a chart but would not work out in practice. They have not carefully studied the administration needs of the communities they attempted to put together, that is one reason they never reached consummation. It is exceedingly difficult to argue with the public on questions of this kind, or to sell your proposition for partial or entire consolidation, unless you can show what it would mean in all directions. In my opinion you are in a bad fix if the matter gets into discussion, or some point is brought up in regard to how a highway or boulevard built by joint action should be financed, they will have all manner of claims. It seems to me in presenting a plan to the public you must be able to present to them a thoroughly well worked out plan; at least you can show you have studied all the complications and that you have worked out a plan where justice is done to everyone. I question very much whether anybody in the boroughs or cities has any idea of what the best interests of the community are. It seems to me the first problem you have before you is to decide definitely what you want to do; to draw a line as to the functions that can be unified to advantage. Some functions may be unified in part, other functions it may work out better if they are unified over the whole area, and others not at all. We will divide these into three classes, one class where there are big advantages; another class where it is equally balanced, or there are many more disadvantages than advantages, they are better left in local control; and the third class would be border line cases; they will not only be difficult to handle, but will constitute the bulk of questions you will face. The first job is to be able to draw that line; it means a tremendous fund of information as to facts and advantages must be collected, and what the needs of the various communities are. The needs of the various communities are widely different, and that all must be taken into consideration. We have instances in Massachusetts where they have attempted comparison between some of the towns. Take a town like Brookline, which is a high class residental district; they try to compare it with a town like Mayhall which is just the opposite; they are not comparable. You certainly have wide variations in all this area, all that it seems to me, must be taken into consideration. You also must have at your command a pretty thorough study not only of the financial status of the communities, but the financial capabilities of the various constituent communities, and that doesn't mean simply a collection of statistics. My long experience with the public financial statements is that only one out of fifty knows what their own figures mean, and their reports as written don't mean anytihng. That insn't true because of intention, it is usually a following out of customs of many years in making balance sheets. They take a figure from here and put it on one side and then take figures from some other place and put them on the other side, and what their closing figures mean, they don't know. All that stuff has to be dug up, you must find out how they do stand; also what the possibilities are in comparison with the needs of that community; some community may have starved itself and thus has kept its debt down. One city I know of prided itself because the city didn't have any debt, but when they came to make improvements they were suprised to find out the condition they were in. Now a properly conceived public improvement is a creator of wealth for a community, it may be rankly extravagant not to have the things it needs. All that must be taken into consideration in studying the capabilities of your various communities. The physical condition of your various communities in this county offer wide variations. They all must be taken into consideration, in the light of its own condition, because it is entirely conceivable that the plan that would fit one group of your communities would not fit another group of your communities; if that is true, your plans must have flexibility to take care of each one. All that must be taken into consideration. Also, and this is by no means the least of your problems; what you might call the political consideration; I mean by political consideration, the consideration of politics and opinion of the public. It is very easy to stir up a storm on some absolutely minor point that doesn't mean a thing. Mr. Miller had an instance of that recently in his own town, when council was almost disbanded over the matter of renaming some streets and the wildest council meeting that I ever saw was over the matter of keeping cats. Those are both instances of getting into a lot of trouble without a reason for being there. The things that really are essential would be lost. The answer is—education of the people that don't believe in it; getting facts before them and getting them to see the point; you don't want to get tangled up in the perplexing things that are not of any importance. After you have your facts and conditions collected and digested you must work out some plan whereby you can get the results desired, whereby every community will feel that they can be assured of fair treatment under that combination, and that nobody is trying to sandbag them. That is not as easy as it sounds; you are absolutely in no shape to do that unless you have all this other information. Before any plan has a chance of being successful, you must be able to present them a detailed working out of how you expect that plan to work, and just exactly what is to be done; I mean that would be a detailed plan or statutory plan under which you would operate. You will have all kinds of attacks from people with axes to grind. You have got to have provided something in that plan to protect them against every one of the things they may fear, you have to see that all ahead of time. You have got to remember that unification doesn't necessarily mean greater satisfaction in public administration, or even greater economy, while it is true that it should, but as a general statement that is a dangerous one. I have seen many instances, take towns in New Hampshire which cover a considerable area, for instance, the City of Concord with 25000, half the size in area of the City of Pittsburgh, they have four or five communities scattered over that county, and the administration of that municipality is an exceedingly difficult matter; they have not gained, they have lost by having these communities unified, instead of being under separate administrations, so that each case must be studied; you have got to decide on the basis of whether or not unification is going to bring about desired results. I fear this statement of mine is somewhat of a general character but to discuss it in detail would almost be like trying to discuss the creation of the world.

AN ACT

Providing for the creation of a Commission to study the subject of consolidation of the various municipalities, to wit, Cities, Boroughs and Townships, in Counties of the Second Class, into one Municipality, and to file with the next General Assembly, its report, together with an Act providing a method for such consolidation; and prescribing its powers and duties.

Section 1. Be it enacted, etc., That the Governor is duly authorized and directed to appoint a Commission of twenty-four persons, eight of whom shall be residents of cities, and sixteen of whom shall be residents of Boroughs and Townships, and at least one of whom shall be a Civil Enginer, to study the subject of consolidation of the various Municipalities, to wit, Cities, Boroughs and Townships in Counties of the Second Class into one Municipality, and to file with the next General Assembly its reports, together with an Act providing a method for such consolidation.

Section 2. The members of the Commission shall receive no compensation for their services, but shall be reimbursed for all expenses necessarily incurred in the performance of their duties.

Section 3. The Commission may appoint a Secretary and such other agents, employes, and legal counsel at such reasonable compensation as it may determine.

Section 4. The County and the several Municipalities are authorized to make appropriations for the use of the said Commission in the payment of its expenses but such appropriations shall not exceed in any case, $1.00 in any year for each 100 inhabitants of the County or of the Municipality.

Approved the 8th day of June, 1923.

GIFFORD PINCHOT.

FOREWORD.

MINORITY REPORT OF THE COMMISSION TO STUDY MUNICIPAL CONSOLIDATION IN COUNTIES OF THE SECOND CLASS IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 10, 1925.

To His Excellency, Gifford Pinchot, Governor of Pennsylvania and the Members of the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen: In pursuance to the provisions of Act 282, dated June 8, 1923, creating a Commission to study the consolidation of municipalities in counties of the second class in Pennsylvania and requiring a report of the Commissions' studies and recommendations be made to the 1925 sessions of the General Assembly, I find it incumbent upon me to dissent from the approval of the majority report of the Commission and to submit herewith a minority report of the real facts surrounding the Commissions' activities and deliberations since its organization and final report.

This report is submitted with the full appreciation of the fact that the task assigned to the Commission was a tremendous one, involving the reconstruction of the municipal governments in Allegheny County, which is the only second class County in Pennsylvania and has a population of 1,500,000 inhabitants residing within the corporate limits of 127 different communities; many of which now overlap and bulge out on all sides with congestion, because of municipal boundary lines; a County greater in population than a number of states in the Union.

As an apparent concession to the citizens of the boroughs and townships of Allegheny County and for the purpose of insuring a full measure of protection against the invasion or destruction of their existing rights, the Act of June 8, 1923 provided that only five members of the Commission be allotted to the City of Pittsburgh, while nineteen members were allotted to cities, boroughs and townships adjacent thereto.

Thus it will be observed that the five members from Pittsburgh represent a population of 700,000, which is practically half of the county's population, while nineteen members represent the other half. The City of Pittsburgh which pays approximately two-thirds of all the taxes (of the County), being decidedly in the minority. It might just as well be mentioned here that no Commission now or in the future, constituted with such unfair representation of all the people, can solve the mighty problems that will confront such a body.

The Commission, after numerous delays, was organized and from the outset displayed a spirit of subserviency to several groups which included the office holders of various municipalities outside of the City of Pittsburgh, and this accompanied by the dilatory tactics of the Chairman of the Commission, made the study of any plan of consolidation as a matter of public interest, practically nil and secondary to the interests of inside and outside obstructionists.

The Commission, without a doubt, could be termed a "one man" Commission; the authocratic methods of the Chairman, the servile attitude of some of its members, the lack of interest in and non-attendance at meetings and the abuse of parliamentary rule and a constant obstructionist policy manifested by the Majority, all combined to make the proceedings a farce, so far as the carrying out of the manifest intents and purposes of the legislature were concerned. Such a policy being an imposition on the masses, the Governor of the State and the Members of the General Assembly.

The sole purpose of the members of the Commission serving political groups and obstructionists from the day of organization was to delay and waste the time provided for study and in pursuance of this plan nothing was left undone to accomplish their ends. (At this point it can be truthfully stated that in-so-far as frittering away the time and serving private whims and assembling a report to the Legislature based on such deliberations, the work of the Commission was 100 per cent efficient).

At Noon on May 12, 1924, the day set for the Commission to organize, the leaders of the special groups dined the Members residing outside of Pittsburgh and an attempt to caucus on the matter of organization and and selection of Officers was made. It is gratifying to report however, that when such procedure was objected to by some of the independent members the matter was not pressed further. The Committee went in to Session later in the day and twenty members answered "present". Officers were selected and Senator Mansfield, the sponsor of the Bill explained in a general way, the history of its passage through the Legislature, along with the intent and purposes of the Act.

A number of formal suggestions or motions of the Minority Members were not considered. Others presented and approved, were not adhered to.

Before the first meeting had adjourned the functions intended by the Legislature to be delegated to each Member of the Commission, had been thoroughly absorbed by the Chair, who, in accordance with a pre-arranged programme, appointed Committees with fascinating titles, such as "Plan and Scope Committee", etc., none of these functioning however or ever making any report, except to ask for more time to explain their inability to solve matters. The few suggestions made by these Committees scarcely warrant any consideration.

Once organized under the plan prescribed by the Leaders of these groups, all semblance of study of the needs of the people of Allegheny County or the making of a constructive report to the 1925 Session of the Legislature, was lost. The first move at the original meeting was to force the administration of all the functions and perogatives of the individual members of the Commission into the hands of a Committee especially chosen by the Chairman. And this being put into effect, with the assistance of resolutions prepared in advance, nothing happened at the meetings thereafter but delays and the making of protests by a few members against the failure of the Commission to make progress.

From its inception the Commission at no time had a full attendance of its membership. Not one of the meetings after the organization of this Commission had a representative attendance. At some of the meetings, fourteen members were present and at others less than a quorum. It was not uncommon for members to appear at a scheduled meeting and leave almost immediately. The members in control of these meetings did not at any time offer a suggestion which did not spell unnecessary delay and blocked in every instance, attempts at progress offered by a few members desirous of carrying out the requirements of the Act. Therefore, that part of the Majority Report of the Commission on page 15 which states that the Commission had ten meetings with a full membership is not in accordance with the facts.

Coupled with the group or bloc system of control, the most high-handed disregard for parliamentary Rule by the Chairman and a ruthless disrespect for the intelligence of the Members of the Commission was always manifested. Motions not agreeable to the Chairman invariably received his disapproving remarks before being offered for vote, with the result that the action of the Commission was generally negative. The "hand-picked" Committee into which the administration of the Commissions' real functions were transferred at the outset provided from time to time, subjects termed important suggestions for the Commission's consideration. These suggestions without doubt, would furnish amusement for primary students in governmental systems. They were offered of course as "time-killers".

The dilatory tactics of the Committee were so manifest and the suggestions so ill-prepared that they could well be collated under the head of stereotyped experts from obsolet engineering magazines.

The principal feature of the hindering tactics of the Committee handling the Commission's functions was its persistent display of pessimism as to the success of any plan which might be suggested or adopted. The United States was scoured for failures where municipal consolidations had been attempted or made. Such failures were singled out and magnified so that when needed at a meeting where progress was offered, the Committee, in keeping with its policy of pessimism, was ever ready to call attention to a new failure and always without documentary or other proofs of facts.

At no time did the Commission, at any of its poorly attended meetings, consider a cure for this over taxed and multiple community, or allow to be discussed at any length any plan, or consider any scheme that might be used as a base to meet the needs and requirements of the County.

As a subterfuge for procrastinating tactics, the Chairman and some members of the Commission, alleged that the Governor's lateness in appointment of the Members of the Commission, did not allow the time necessary to study the subject and report the same to the 1925 Legislature. This of course, was not so. As a matter of fact it was not intended at any time, to make any recommendations except for a continuance of the Commission. And it was not until the work of the Legislature was well under way that the special group concluded to cover up the time wasted by assembling a resume of excuses and useless information, under the cloak of an official report.

All legal minds are agreed that any consolidation would require the passage of a constructive constitutional amendment to permit municipalities in counties of the second class to enter into any form of consolidation.

This Commission declined to consider the submission of such constitutional amendment or any other form of Legislation or leeway that would permit these Municipalities to consolidate or agree upon a form of consolidation or any plan that had for its purpose trusting the people with any scheme of ousting the duplication and waste occasioned by the army of public office holders.

Consequently, if the Commission should be continued, and claims of the majority members considered true or partly so, the fact still remains that the Commission, in its present form, will not function except through the agency of the Chairman, as the majority of its members have wholly failed, and at no time complied with their obligations in carrying out the intent and purpose of the Act.

The impression conveyed under the heading "FOREWORD" in the Majority Report of the Study Commission, dated February 28, 1925, and directed to the General Assembly, are misleading, and are not based on facts.

On page 6, of the Report, the language is to the effect that—

"Under the present Act, such financial arrangements have been lacking and voluntary contributions provided for in the Act creating the Commission, did not materialize."

The Writer was a Member of the Finance Committee. This Committee did not have a single meeting, to say nothing of any intentions to procure money necessary for the proper administration of the Commission.

The Writer endeavored to organize a meeting of the Committee at different times and out of the five members was unable to assemble but two of the five on one occasion. A call was made upon the Mayor of the City of Pittsburgh who stated that he would approve any reasonable expense considered Pittsburgh's share provided the Commission would make known what it intended to study as a means of correcting the present system or drawbacks in Allegheny County. Such a request of course, could not be compiled with, as the Commission did not have a policy, the result being that the other 126 cities, boroughs and townships were not applied to because of our inability to tell these Corporations what the Commission intended to do. The detailed facts regarding this subject are obtainable from the official stenographic minutes of the Commission.

In the majority report the Commission makes recommendations, under the heading of Part 4, as follows—

"It has been discovered that it is essential to have complete data of the functions, assets, liabilities, local needs and developments of each community, and that without these data no practical and acceptable plan can be formulated".

The Writer offered resolutions providing that this data be secured from the records of the Prothonotary's office and from the Clerk of Courts' office where the financial reports of the Boroughs are filed usually and from the second and third class cities which are pulibshed annually in book form. The Commission, in line with its "delay policy" tabled this resolution and made no effort to secure the data, which is always available. Nor did it make any effort to enlist the aid of the fiscal control experts of either the County of Allegheny, City of Pittsburgh or the other cities, boroughs or townships of the County. Nor was there any effort made to secure a collation of the local needs and developments of each community by a questionaire directed to the officials of the cities, boroughs or townships.

On Page 8, the Majority Report of the Commission states that:

"The public sentiment behind the desire for a greater City of Allegheny County demands, first of all, that the city receive credit for the full population that is tributary to the business centre".

With this opinion the Writer most emphatically disagrees and states that in his opinion the public sentiment behind the desire for a greater City in Allegheny County demands the following:

First. Relief from the tremendous burden of taxation caused by the duplications in municipal governments in the County and the complicated systems of taxation now in force.

Second. That a uniform system of taxation be provided which will insure a City greater in industry and employment, which will permit the industrial development to expand beyond present confines and which will induce local industries to remain in Allegheny County as well as induce other industries to locate within it.

Third. That the desire for a credit for the full population that is tributary to the business centre while praiseworthy is secondary to the first two propositions stated. Credit for the full population of the County as a City would come in any event with a proper central form of government, and elimination of waste and duplication of useless public officials.

On page 15, the Majority Report of the Commission states that it is the tentative conclusion of your Commission that the third method suggested, to wit:

"3. Modified or enlarged city government with a central governing Body, but give local autonomy in certain matters to constitute political units, is the one that will prove most practical and successful and the only one that will prove acceptable to the majority of interests in the Pittsburgh District".

and then states that

"in just what form this general principle of consolidation can be applied is yet to be determined".

Therein lies the crux of the situation. If the third proposition represents the tentative conclusion of the Commission, it would be far more fitting in the opinion of the writer, if the Commission would have recommended the submission of a constitutional amendment which is absolutely necessary to the success of any consolidation plan which would give the legislature authority to permit municipalities to consolidate in a manner agreed upon by the people themselves. To delay submission of such an amendment at this session will prevent the Pittsburgh District from securing a full credit for the population tributary to its business centre till 1934, three years after the next decennial census, as it will take nine years or until 1933 before such consolidation would be effected, as even tho' a constructive amendment were presented this year, it could not be submitted until 1928.

On page 20, the Majority Report of the Commission states:

"To acquire, compile and properly weigh such information, there is need of a staff to work under the direction of the Commission, which staff should be thoroughly experienced, efficient and devoted."

Through the session of the Commission, the Chairman and his associates have constantly adverted to the proposition of summoning so-called "experts" from the four points of the compass and from wherever experiments in municipal administration are being made.

In the matter of a motion by the Writer to employ a local publicity agent in order to acquaint the people of the County through the newspapers, concerning the activities of the Commission and the progress it was making, the Motion was lost. The Executive Committee however recommended an out of the State publicity man, but as there was nothing to report, no one was employed. Any publicity that did appear in the press of the County, came through the majority side of the Commission, gave the usual impression of color progress and importance not of course warranted by action.

The Writer agrees most heartily that the Staff should be experienced and efficient and in regard to the third qualification submitted by the Commission, would add "devoted to the interest of the people of Allegheny County" and respectfully submits that socalled "experts" alien to the soil of Pennsylvania, Allegheny County, the City of Pittsburgh and its neighboring boroughs and townships; for the reason that such devotion is adherent to the soil. To say nothing of the inability of foreigners to properly judge the political pulse of this County, which is essential to harmonize the conflicting interests involved.

The best evidence that this Commission did not contemplate gathering important data, is the fact that no provisions were made to employ a stenographer to record its deliberations. It would seem reasonable that the records that such a body would compile would be valuable to the public, if constructive, and would also be of use to future study Commissions. One would naturally be of the belief that the stenographic notes of the minutes of a Commission's work as outlined in the Majority Report, would be desired in book form at least by the Members of the Commission responsible for the glowing results of the past year. But no, instead of this they voted down a motion made to have the stenographic minutes of the Commission's work printed. Stenographic notes were taken at the behest of the Writer and the services accepted as official, and should in due time be paid for. The notes are valuable to future Commissions as a moral guide if nothing else. They may help to put the public in some other position than last place, when such a study Commission is considering the people's business.

On page 18, of the Majority Report, reference is made to the plan offered by the Writer in language which discloses an utter lack of knowledge of the plan itself. The Commission in its Majority Report stated that the Writer has "outlined a method of consolidation by regrouping present Corporations, modeled on the basic idea of a central governing body, and at the same time retaining some control over a few local matters in the underlying municipalities and to be later created".

An analysis of the Plan offered by the Writer will show that the Commission either shows woeful ignorance of the details of the Plan itself or an utter disregard of the truth of the Plan referred to.

The Writer proposed a Metropolitan District Commission to handle matters of a general and mutual interest and welfare. The Plan is submitted herewith.

In this plan only matters that require inter-municipal co-operation would be delegated to the Commission as the Writer emphasized in his statement that the Plan "would decentralize the existing form of Government of Pittsburgh and the newly established boroughs".

Only control of two functions would be delegated to the Metropolitan Commission, under the Plan offered, namely:

A Civil Service Commission and a Metropolitan Police Force. The Civil Service Commission in the proposed Plan would conduct examinations for all public employes whether in the boroughs or the metropolitan District. Appointments however would be made by the borough heads, or in case of employes of the Metropolitan Commission, by the head of the Commission or properly constituted authority.

In the Plan offered, the Writer distinctly set forth that in the matter of fire protection that the sole function of the Metropolitan District Commission would be in the administration of a uniform fire alarm system and an appointment of a Chief Engineer with a staff which would co-ordinate with the Fire Department of the newly created boroughs. It would further provide for the control of the local fire departments by the Borough and would permit the continuance by local option, of volunteer fire companies.

In the administration of public works, including streets, highways, public improvements, municipal property, health and sanitation were distinctly reserved to the local municipalities in the proposed plan, the administration of the water and sewage system being left to the Metropolitan district. Likewise the control of public welfare administration was left to the local municipalities, with the exception of such a central institution as the Municipal Hospital at Mayview and Leech Farm, which naturally would have to be left to the Municipal Commission. Under the proposed plan, each of the local municipalities would exercise local control of their improvements; would have power to make and pass local ordinances and regulations and would have authority to administer local functions and even Metropolitan District functions, within their boundaries and retain their local bonding power.

Thus, it will be seen that the members of the Commission either failed to study the plan offered, or deliberately ignored its provisions.

With regard to the proposition stated by the Majority Report of the Commission on page 24 that:

> "By the method of City consolidation, it is possible, in the opinion of your Commission, to broaden the present county form of government into a newer form of municipal government that will be recognized as a municipal governmental unit of the state."

And which then prescribes in a generalized form, the functions of the "county municipality" the Writer dissents most emphatically for the following reasons:

First: That the State Constitution distinctly provides for the uniform control of cities and counties and a project, such as fostered by this Commission, would be subversive of the intents and purposes of the Constitution.

Secondly: That such a form of "county municipality" would not secure the credit for the "full population tributary to the business centre of Pittsburgh", of which the Commission seems so solicitous.

Third: That the proposed "county municipality" is the opening wedge in a drive to overturn our existing form of county governments throughout the state, which has not been asked for and which a wise or truly legitimate Commission would not recommend in this form.

The Writer respectfully calls attention to the Commission's Majority Report, page 22, which terms our present form of County Government, functioning through the County Commissioners as "autocratic". Such a charge is unfounded and contrary to all our democratic beliefs. The County Commissioners were elected by the people and their source of power is based on the democracy of the ballot. A proper central form of government to be co-extensive with County lines would relieve the present County Commissioners of just as much responsibility as the people by their ballot, deem proper. The heavy burden now placed on the County Commissioners was put there by the people who may reduce the burden at their will and which should come when a real study Commission makes a fair estimate of the situation for the people of the County.

On page 28, the Majority Report further states:

> "That a plan be found and made adaptable in such a way that it may aid in the solution of Metropolitan aspirations and developments in other localities in the State of Pennsylvania, where some similar conditions may exist or come in to being".

The Commission in its Majority Report has gratuitously exceeded its powers and assumed perogatives which the Legislature manifestly did not intend to confer upon it, the Act providing for the establishment of this Commission being specifically confined to second class counties.

In its seventh recommendation it cites:

> "That such an important study, pregnant with great possibilities for service for the whole State, and not wholly financed as the present Act provided, by voluntary contributions from the various municipalities".

The Commission again furnishes evidence of its gratuitous assumption of functions, which the Legislature did not intend to confer upon it. The menace to the other counties and municipalities presented by this thought of the Commission cannot be too greatly stressed. In effect, this Commission proposes to enact a super-form of government which will eventually be used as a model to foist upon other municipalities of the State. In effect, this Commission, limited to the second class counties, of which the County of Allegheny is the only one, would undertake to reconstruct the governments of other counties and municipalities of the State. If this thought of the Commission is to be accepted, the Commission as a "second class county proposition" should be dissolved and a State-wide Commission formed in its stead.

If this Commission's functions are to be limited to second class counties it should be financed by the taxpayers of second class counties alone. If this Commission's functions are to be financed by the State the personnel of the Commission should be State-wide.

If this Commission intends to construct a model of city and county governments for other cities and counties of the State to follow, it may be a generation before Allegheny County will obtain relief from its present wasteful form of government.

The Writer firmly believes that if it is to be continued as a second class county Commission, its activities should be financed by the taxpayers of the county effected and not by the taxpayers of other counties, which have no interest in the Commission's work. If its activities are to be used as a model for some Utopian form of government which may be later used as a model for upsetting the existing forms of governments in other cities and counties of the State, the Writer respectfully suggests to the Members of the General Assembly that the interests of the various districts that they represent should be at least, protected by making the personnel of the Commission State-wide.

In the matter of the Plan offered by the Writer:

This Plan was offered merely as a frame-work subject to revision at the will and discretion of the Commission, being made elastic and for the purpose of revision. But, as the minutes will show, it did not receive the slightest consideration from the Commission, nor the slightest discussion or interest upon the part of the members of the Executive Committee.

The attitude of the Majority Members of this Commission is based and shown by the fact that although this plan was modeled after the New York municipality district Plan, the Chairman and his associate members did not even undertake to criticize it.

EXCEPTIONS TO THE PROPOSED SUPPLEMENT TO THE PRESENT ACT.

The Supplement to the present Act in the Majority Report recommending the continuance of the Personnel of the Commission, by the mandate of the Legislature, does not seem warranted by past action of the Commission.

In this supplement the Commission would also have the Legislature confer the power of subpoena ducas tecum on it. Nothing has or is likely to develop that would make it difficult to have witnesses or records come before the Commission without force of law. The records of every Municipality in Allegheny County, such as would be needed by a Study Commission can be compiled in ten days time. These records are usually in book or pamphlet form or with the County Controller or Clerk of Courts and in so far as the officials are concerned, who might be affected by any scheme of consolidation, such officials will usually appear voluntary to protest against any idea or Plan.

There were fine examples of this fact at the so-called public hearings referred to in the Commission's Majority Report. Some of the "hand-picked" officials attending hearings on these occasions were rather dramatic. Their local municipal history was immortalized, one of them went so far as to offer evidence that his Community had helped to win the Revolutionary War. But not one word about the tax ridden condition of the County or multiplicity of office holders or the present waste of the people's money. It was an additional imposition on the Commission and the readers of the Majority Report, to infer that favorable or constructive results were obtained as a result of the public hearings.

Another section of this Supplement would have the Legislature authorize the Commission to accept contributions from individual Corporations and Civic Bodies to defray expenses. This would in the opinion of the Writer, be a dangerous power to confer on any Commission.

Allegheny County is one of great wealth, able and willing to pay the necessary expense of a Commission on County re-construction. There seems to be no good reasons for the private contributions idea. It is not the character of public service that carries well the consistency of accepting private contributions.

The Writer does not advocate and is not interested in any particular form of consolidation, believing that this is a matter which should be determined on a basis of mutuality between the various municipalities affected. That it must be approached from a purely unselfish angle, each of the members receiving concessions and making concessions; that the rights of both Majority and Minority must be given due consideration, and safe guarded in such a manner as to be consistent with the needs of their respective communities. These ideas were embodied in the Plan submitted to the Commission by the Writer.

No attempt is made here to justify the needs of Allegheny County or the particular kind of relief a Commission of this or any other type might render; this report intends merely to convey to the Governor of the State and the members of the Legislature who favored the people of Allegheny County with a law of great public importance, such as has been sought for a generation, that their confidence has been abused and that the opportunity presented the people of the County for a solution of their ever increasing needs in the matter of form of government, was not administered in the manner desired by the Governor and by the members of the Legislature or by the people of the County of Allegheny, and do further advise that members of the Commission referred to as the Minority, were not only qualified, but inspired with the sense of duty which had for its first purpose, the desire to serve the whole people.

CONCLUSION.

There were members of the Commission who placed their private interests before that of the people. These members did not keep faith with their obligations to the Governor of the State who reposed confidence in their ability and fidelity. Some of these Members may consider this report as a personnel affront on their right to use their own judgment in the matter at hand, still others may challenge the report as a whole or in part. And in the event of any such challenge the easiest route to deciding facts is a study of the official stenographic minutes of all the Commission's meetings and activities.

Some Members of the Commission I count among my personal friends a few of them having extended over a period of years. Other Members whom I have met either frequently or casually. They are men of standing in their respective communities. Some of them, no doubt, believe that the consideration of their individual immediate surroundings should come before a county wide movement. Others, no doubt, have business and political interests which they feel comes first.

Personally, I believe in massed distribution of results that should come from any scheme of reconstruction at the hands of a Commission created by the Legislature, to provide for necessary changes in a great county's governmental affairs and solely upon these grounds I dissent from the Majority Report of this Commission.

To take its place with centers of equal population and far less greatness in industry throughout the United States, Allegheny County must have a Study Commission truly representative of all the people and the protection of all its great industry and wealth. The County of Allegheny with a population greater than many States in the Union deserves the Legislature's every consideration for its present needs of reconstruction in government.

Member of Commission.

REPORT OF INVESTIGATION OF TEXT-BOOKS IN HISTORY MADE BY THE DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION.

To the Honorable, The Members of the Senate and House of Representatives, Legislature of 1925:

Resolution No. 19 of the House of Representatives, concurred in by Senate June 5, 1923, requires:

1. "That the Department of Public Instruction shall make an immediate investigation of all text-books of history in the public schools of the Commonwealth and ascertain whether any of such texts ignore, omit, discount, or in any manner belittle, ridicule, falsify, distort, question, doubt, or deny events leading up to the Declaration of Independence, or connect with the American Revolution, or the spirit, determination, or patriotism with which this Nation was founded, defended, and preserved, or the accomplishments, motives and acts of American patriots, or cast aspersions upon their lives;

2. That the Department of Public Instruction shall, after such investigations, make a report of its findings and therein shall specifically list any text-books of history which in its opinion teaches improper matter, or in an improper way, and shall send a copy of its report to each board of school directors of the Commonwealth with the request that further use of said text-book be discontinued;

3. That the Department of Public Instruction shall make a report to the next Session of the General Assembly, showing what was done in accordance with this resolution, and what, if any legislation, is needed to prevent the further use of improper text-books in the public schools."

In compliance with the Resolution of the Legislature of 1923, the Department of Public Instruction has prepared a report of its findings, and the Superintendent of Public Instruction respectfully submits herewith a statement of what this Department has done in accordance with the Resolution of the Legislature and begs to submit, further, for the consideration of the Legislature, a bill designed to insure the selection of proper text-books in the public schools of this Commonwealth.

REPORT OF FINDINGS AND RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION IN RE HISTORY TEXT BOOKS IN USE IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS OF THE COMMONLEALTH.

I. General Plan of Investigation

The Superintendent of Public Instruction appointed an Advisory Committee of six members to collaborate with him in the investigation of history text-books in use in the public schools of the State. The membership of this Committee was as follows:

A. Advisory Committee

Helen B. Trimble, Ph. D., Head of the Department of Social Studies, East Stroudsburg State Normal School.

Charles A. Coulomb, Ph. D., Superintendent District No. 1, Philadelphia Public Schools.

Charles E. Dickey, A B., Superintendent Allegheny County Public Schools.

Samuel H. McClure, Esquire, Attorney-at- Law, Pittsburgh.

C. H. Garwood, Ph. D., Superintendent Public Schools, Harrisburg.

H. M. J. Klein, Ph. D., Professor of History Franklin and Marshall College.

B. Scope of Study

The scope of the Committee's investigation was as follows:

1. Compilation of history text-books used in the public schools of the State.
2. Intensive study of history text-books by each member of the Committee.
3. Review of numerous pamphlets and articles on both sides of the question at issue.
4. Meetings of Committee at Harrisburg with the Superintendent of Public Instruction to discuss progress of the study and exchange views.
5. Meeting with the Superintendent of Public Instruction to formulate principles on which report should be made to the Legislature.
6. Review of Superintendent's tentative draft to the Legislature.

II. Report of Superintendent of Public Instruction

A study of the suitability and patriotic character of the history text-book now in use in our public schools has been carefully made in accordance with the Resolution of the Legislature of 1923. The work of the Advisory Committee has been invaluable in reaching the conclusions given below. These conclusions have the unanimous approval of the Committee.

The findings and recommendations of this report are based upon the two following general principles:

1. The major purpose of the study of History by pupils of public and private schools is to secure a basis at once, patriotic and intelligent, upon which to build a competent, loyal citizenship.
2. The content and method of instruction in History must be adapted to the mental life and level of the children in the several grades of the public and private schools.

Findings and recommendations are summarized as follows:

FINDINGS

1. A careful reading of the various text-books in American History which have been called in question disclose certain weaknesses. Among those observed are instances of indiscretion and lack of judgment, together with intemperate language in the expression of personal beliefs: through the most noticeable is that of occasional half-truths, statements true in themselves, but conveying a wrong impression because the qualifying statements are not given.

2. There is little doubt that much of this lack of poise and balance is due to the World War, from which we have only recently emerged. In the desire to correct the old-time partisam bias against other nations, some of our text-book writers have been tempted to lean too far in the opposite direction. This conscious effort to promote international understanding and good will is certainly to be commended, provided it does not lead to an unhistorical belittling of our own great men and what they have done.

3. Much of the criticism of text-books in American history has arisen from a misconception by some writers of the function of a history text-book—especially one for high schools. Such a text should aim to present all the facts of a mooted question so that these more advanced pupils may have the opportunity, under the guidance of their teachers, of applying their own reason and judgment—immature though these may be. To be opinionated, however rather than factual, is to deprive the reader of a step in his education which he is entitled.

On the other hand, it should be stated that some of the objections in history text have been due to a lack of appreciation on the part of critics of the differences in content and method that should characterize elementary and secondary texts.

The years when the pupil is passing from grades one to six approximately constitute a period of romance and hero-worship, when the appeal to the child mind must be largely through the imagination. This is the time when the heart of the junior citizen can be filled with love for our great national heroes. It is then that he can be inspired to emulate their achievements. On this basis he may build up a morale, a body of American ideals and standards for further development in his own and in coming generations.

Children normally pass through the upper grammer and high school grades between the ages of twelve and eighteen. In the minds of these pupils these great national figures begin to take on flesh and blood and to emerge as real men and women whose lives and deeds are an inspiration and an example to us, not because they have done no wrong, but because often in spite of personal handicaps and failures, they have nevertheless made specific and permanent contributions to our American life and Democracy. Such a human portrayal of our national figures stimulates an imitation of their careers and the emulation of their patriotic services.

4. Criticism of text-books in American History has already done much to correct errors of judgment and to bring about needed changes in content. Texts have been rewritten and reprinted in the light of this criticism in conformity, to a large degree, with the suggestions of critics.

5. The history text-books by authors whose publication are now in use in the public school of the Commonwealth do not violate the letter and spirit of the Resolution of the General Assembly seriously enough, in the judgment of the Committee when latest editions are considered, to warrant action by the State requiring that further use of such text books be discontinued.

REPORT OF THE COMMISSION TO MAKE A COMPLETE STUDY AND INVESTIGATION OF ALL EXISTING SYSTEMS OF COMPULSORY LIABILITY INSURANCE FOR MOTOR VEHICLES.

To the Honorable, Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Session of 1925.

The undersigned, who were appointed pursuant to a resolution of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania at the Session of 1923, approved the 18th day of June 1923, P. L. 1108,

"To make a complete study and investigation of all existing systems of Compulsory Liability Insurance for motor vehicles and motor vehicle owners or drivers, and of the necessity or advisability of the adoption of any such system, or any other system of Liability Insurance, by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and to report their findings together with suggested legislation including drafts thereof to the Session of the General Assembly to be held in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five".

RESPECTFULLY REPORT.

That pursuant to said resolution, the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania appointed as members of said Commission, Hon. George W. Woodruff, Attorney General, Hon. Paul D. Wright, Secretary of Highways, and the President pro tem of the Senate appointed Hon. Clarence J. Buckman and Hon. William D. Mansfield as members of the Senate, and the Speaker of the House of Representatives appointed Hon. S. J. McKim, Hon. Charles F. Armstrong and Hon. Edward Haws, members of the House of Representatives.

That pursuant to said resolution a meeting of said Commission was duly called and held in the City of Harrisburg on the 13th day of September, 1924, for the purpose of organization. That at said meeting Clarence J. Buckman was duly elected Chairman, and S. J. McKim was duly elected Secretary of said Commission.

That after organizing by the election of said officers of said Commission, the same adjourned to meet in the City of Harrisburg, on the 10th day of October, 1924, at 9:30 a. m. That on the said 10th day of October, 1924, a public meeting or hearing of said Commission was held after public notice through the public press and by communications to the principle Motor Clubs, Insurance Companies, and Chambers of Commerce of the Commonwealth. The said public hearing was attended by the following named persons representing the various organizations, interests or companies, viz:

William F. Judson, Solicitor, The Bell Telephone Company of Pa., Philadelphia, Pa.

Robert Haight, Manager, Legislative Bureau, Penna. State Chamber of Commerce, Harrisburg, Pa.

Charles H. Roth, Secretary, The Pittsburgh Motor Club, Pittsburgh, Pa.

H. S. Bradley, President, The Indemnity Exchange of Philadelphia, Philadelphia, Pa.

Raymond A. Chase, President, Keystone Indemnity Company, Philadelphia, Pa.

Fred Brenckman, Secretary, Pennsylvania State Grange, Harrisburg, Pa.

J. Clyde Myton, Secretary, Pennsylvania Motor Federation, Harrisburg, Pa.

William H. Bierly, Auto Car Company.

Frederick G. Rees, Penna. Manufacturers Assn. Casualty Insurance Co.

George G. McFarland, Pennsylvania Automotive Association.

James F. McCoy, Insurance Federation of Pennsylvania.

J. Maxwell Smith, Keystone Automobile Club.

J. L. Williams, Motor Bus Interests, Gettysburg, Pa.

Edward R. Cox, Atlantic Refining Company.

Ralph G. Baker, Electric Association.

That after hearing the persons above-named, or so many of them as desired to be heard, the said Commission adjourned to meet in the City of Harrisburg, on the 5th day of December 1924, at 9:30 a. m. That on the said 5th day of December, 1924, after giving as much publicity as possible as to the holding of said meeting, the Commission met and was attended by the following persons representing the interests, organizations, or companies mentioned, viz:

Senator Henry Gray Hershfield, Chairman, New Jersey Automobile Liability Insurance Commission, Newark, N. J.

Stewart A. Jellett, Chamber of Commerce, Philadelphia, Pa.

Arthur Feeston, Insurance, Philadelphia, Pa.

Daniel R. Reese, Esq., Motor Federation, Scranton, Pa.

E. J. Brookhart, The National Mutual Insurance Co., Celina, Ohio.

Ralph J. Baker, Esq., Penna. Electric Association, Harirsburg, Pa.

James F. McCoy, Insurance Federation of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pa.

Dr. Leonard P. Fox, State Chamber of Commerce, Harrisburg, Pa.

John A. Slemmons, Penna. Indemnity Company, Philadelphia, Pa.

Oscar H. Price, Atlantic Refining Company, Philadelphia, Pa.

Albert R. Wilson, President, Automobile Livery Protective Assn. of Phila.

Edward B. Martin, Solicitor, Automobile Livery Protective Assn. of Phila.

That after hearing said persons, or so many of them as desired to be heard, said Commission adjourned to a date to be fixed after the convening of the Legislature at the Session of 1925. That at said meeting held December 5, 1924, there was in attendance upon the Commission, Hon. John H. Fertig, of the Legislative Reference Bureau, who was then and there instructed that in the light of the arguments made before the Commission to draft a tentative Bill with instructions to have the same printed for distribution among the Insurance Companies, Chambers of Commerce, Motor Clubs, and other Organizations interested in the subject of Motor Vehicle legislation.

That subsequently thereto Mr. Fertig drew a tentative draft of a Bill upon said subject and the Commission caused to be printed five thousand copies thereof, which were subsequently distributed among the interests above mentioned and through the public press of the Commonwealth.

That subsequently the Chairman of said Commission called a meeting to be held in the City of Harrisburg, on the 17th day of February, 1925, at 4 p. m., after having given notice thereof through the press and through the members of the General Assembly.

That at said meeting held February 17, 1925, there appeared before the Commission many of the persons who had appeared at previous meetings.

After hearing arguments for and against the proposed legislation upon the subject of Compulsory Motor Vehicle Insurance, the Commission recommends the adoption of a Bill, a copy of which is hereunto attached and marked "Exhibit A."

"EXHIBIT A"

For the protection of the public safety by providing, as a pre-requisite to the registration of motor vehicles, for the establishment (including the continuance during the period of registration) of financial responsibility by owners thereof for injury, including death resulting therefrom, to persons, or damage to property caused by, or as the result of, the negligent use, maintenance or operation of such motor vehicles; conferring powers and imposing duties upon the Secretary of Highways and his agents in connection therewith, and for the enforcement thereof; imposing certain duties upon owners of motor vehicles and upon insurance companies, associations, exchanges and corporations issuing policies and contracts to motor vehicle owners; and providing penalties.

Section 1. Definitions. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the term "motor vehicle" as used in this act shall be construed to mean all vehicles propelled by internal combustion engines, electricity or steam, except traction engines, tractors, road rollers, and vehicles travelling only upon rails or tracks.

The word "owner" or the term "owner of a motor vehicle" shall be construed to mean the person, co-partnership, association, or corporation in whose name the motor vehicle is registered under the laws of the Commonwealth, except motor vehicles registered in the name of the Commonwealth, or any county, city, borough, town, township, school district or poor district.

Section 2. Financial Responsibility of Motor Vehicle Owner A Pre-requisite to Registration. No motor vehicle shall be registered for the calendar years of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-six, or for any calendar year thereafter, to operate upon the highways of the Commonwealth, unless and until the Secretary of Highways or his agent is satisfied of the financial ability of the owner to respond in damages in the sum of at least two thousand five hundred dollars ($2,500) for any one person injured or killed, and in the sum of five thousand dollars ($5,000) for any number of persons more than one injured or killed in any one accident, and in the sum of at least one thousand dollars ($1,000) for property damaged in any one accident as the result or because of the negligent use, maintenance or operation of such motor vehicle.

In any case where an owner shall apply for the registration of more than one motor vehicle the Secretary of Highways or his agent shall be satisfied of the financial ability of the owner to pay four thousand dollars ($4,000) damages for each motor vehicle registered in addition to the amounts hereinbefore specified, with a maximum liability of twenty thousand dollars ($20,000) for any number of motor vehicles registered.

Section 3. Methods to Establish Financial Responsibility. The financial responsibility of an owner to respond in damages, as provided in section two of this act, shall be evidenced in one of the ways prescribed in classes (a), (b) and (c) of this section.

Section 8. Revocation of Policies and Contracts. Any insurance company, association or exchange, or any corporation or association revoking or intending to revoke any policy of insurance, policy or contract provided for in clauses (a) and (b) of Section three of this act, shall at least twenty days before such revocation notify the Secretary of Highways, and the owner of the motor vehicle, and in case the owner shall fail to further satisfy the Secretary of Highways or his agent of his financial responsibility in one of the ways provided for by Section three of this act, it shall be the duty of the Secretary of Highyays, upon the date of such revocation, to suspend the registration of the motor vehicle of such owner.

Any person operating any motor vehicle after the registration thereof has been suspended, as provided by this section, shall be subject to the penalties provided by law for the operation of a motor vehicle without registration.

Section 9. Procedure Where Owner is Refused Policy of Insurance. Upon application of any owner who shall have been refused a policy of automobile liability and property damage insurance provided for in Section three, (a), of this act, the Secretary of Highways or his agent shall notify the refusing insurance company, association or exchange to appear before him at a public hearing to be held at his office not less than fifteen days nor more than thirty days from the date of notice. Such notice may be sent by registered mail addressed to the home office of the company, association or exchange, or, in the case of a foreign company, association or exchange, by notice filed with the Insurance Commissioner. At any such hearing the Secretary of Highways or his agent shall examine into the justice of such refusal, and if he determines that such refusal is just he shall so certify, and if he determines that such refusal is unjust, he shall order the refusing company, association, or exchange to forthwith issue such policy of insurance to the owner. If such insurance company, association or exchange does not appeal as hereinafter provided and fails to comply with the order of the Secretary of Highways after the time fixed for an appeal therefrom, the Secretary of Highways may in his discretion refuse to accept the policies of such refusing company, association, or exchange, under Section three (a), of this act. All testimony before the Secretary of Highways, or his agent, at such hearing shall be absolutely privileged, and shall under no circumstances be made the basis of any other subsequent court action by any of the parties thereto, or by any person, co-partnership, association or corporation claiming by or through such parties.

Section 10. Appeals From Decisions of the Secretary of Highways. Within thirty days after the rendition of any such decision by the Secretary of Highways, any party in interest may appeal therefrom to the court of common pleas of Dauphin County, or to the court of common pleas of any county in which the owner is a resident, or to the court of common pleas of any county in which any corporation has its principal office, and upon such appeal the case shall be tried de novo, and with a jury, at the election of either party, where any question of fact is involved. The court shall direct upon any such appeal what notices shall be given to parties interested, including the Secretary of Highways, of the time fixed by the court for hearing such appeal.

The record of the proceedings and the evidence taken before the Secretary of Highways or his agent may be read in evidence.

From any decision of the court of common pleas sustaining or revoking the decision or order of the Secretary of Highways, any party in interest may appeal to the Superior or Supreme Court as in other cases. Failure of any insurance company, association or exchange to obey the final order of the court, entered as above provided, shall subject the offender to proceedings for contempt.

Section 11. Constitutionality. The provisions of this act are severable, and if any of the provisions thereof shall be declared unconstitutional, it is hereby declared as a legislative intent that such decision shall not affect the remaining provisions of this act.

Section 12. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

REPORT OF THE COMMISSION TO STUDY CONDITIONS RELATING TO BLIND PERSONS.

Letter of Transmissal

To the General Assembly, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Session of 1925.

Gentlemen: Complying with the provisions of Act 177, Laws of 1923, the Commission to Study Conditions Relating to Blind Persons in Pennsylvania submits herewith its report based upon the study it has made "of the laws and of educational, economic, and social conditions relating to blind persons in the Commonwealth," together with the recommendations which the Commission makes "as to legislation and policies to make the treatment, care, progress, and welfare of blind persons in the Commonwealth comparable with the most approved methods and practices."

Respectfully submitted on behalf of the Commission,

H. R. LATIMER,
Chairman.

Date April 15 1925.

REPORT OF COMMISSION TO STUDY CONDITIONS RELATING TO BLIND PERSONS IN PENNSYLVANIA

To the Members of the Senate and House of Representatives:

The Legislature of 1923 by Act 177 of the General Assembly provided for the appointment of a Commission of nine members "to make a study of the laws and of educational, economic, and social conditions relating to blind persons in the Commonwealth, and also to report to the next session of the General Assembly, with recommendations, as to legislation and policies to make the treatment, care, progress, and welfare of blind persons in the Commonwealth comparable with the most approved methods and practices."

In compliance with the provisions of this Act the Commission submits herewith its report and recommendations:

MEMBERSHIP OF THE COMMISSION

The Act, creating the Commission, provided that at [illegible] three of the nine members of the Commission "sh[illegible] women, and six, at least, experts in work to help th[illegible] dition of the blind." In accordance with the provisions the Governor made the following appointments:

Mrs. W. G. Fulton, Member Board of Directors of the Lackawanna Branch of The Pennsylvania Association for the Blind, Scranton, Pa.

Miss Anna B. Pratt, Director, The White-Williams Foundation, Philadelphia, Pa.

Mrs. Francis J. Torrance, Member Board of Corporators, Western Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Francis J. Torrance, Member Board of Corporators, Western Pennsylvania School for the Blind, Pittsburgh, Pa:

Mr. Olin H. Burritt, Principal, The Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind, and Member Executive Committee of the American Foundation for the Blind, Philadelphia, Pa.

Mr. Liborio Delfino, Field and Placement Officer, The Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind, and Philadelphia Representative of The Pennsylvania Association for the Blind, Philadelphia, Pa.

Senator Henry E. Lanius, Spring Grove, Pa.

Mr. H. R. Latimer, Executive Secretary, The Pennsylvania Association for the Blind, Inc., and Member Executive Committee of the American Foundation for the Blind, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Dr. Francis N. Maxfield, Director, Special Education, Department of Public Instruction, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pa.

Mr. John H. Meader, Superintendent, Pennsylvania Working Home for Blind Men, Philadelphia, Pa.

In making these appointments the Governor apparently had in mind three important fundamental principles:

First—Knowledge acquired by years of experience in working for and with blind people.

Second—An intimate and personal acquaintance with the problems involved by those who have themselves overcome the handicap of blindness, three of the nine members of the Commission being blind.

Third—The broader outlook upon this special field of those experienced in general educational and social work but without any particular experience in working with the blind.

Eight of the nine Commissioners were officially appointed between February 16 and February 21, 1924; the ninth on June 4.

Acting in compliance with the Governor's request Senator Lanius issued the call for the initial meeting of the Commission for the purpose of organization, to be held in Harrisburg on March 18, 1924.

Before proceeding to organize, the Commission met Governor Pinchot in the Executive Chamber as arranged by Senator Lanius. The Governor expressed his sympathetic interest in the problems of the blind and assured the Commission of his co-operation in their work.

ORGANIZATION

The Commission then organized, electing Senator Lanius Chairman and Mr. Burritt Secretary and Treasurer and naming as an Advisory Committee the Philadelphia members of the Commission with the Chairman as a member ex-officio.

As Executive Secretary the Commission appointed Miss Lotta S. Rand who had a background of general social work before entering the specialized field of work for the blind and whose experience in work for the blind includes ten years' work with the Massachusetts Commission for the Blind; three months' disaster work among eye victims following the explosion at Halifax, Nova Scotia; and organization of the first courses on the Education of the Blind at Harvard University and the University of Pennsylvania.

As four members of the Commission were from Philadelphia and as the limited appropriation of $5,000, provided for the work of the Commission, made it necessary to economize in every way possible, the Commission accepted the tender by the management of The Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind of office space at the school, located at 64th Street and Malvern Avenue, Philadelphia, Pa. The management of The Pennsylvania Working Home for Blind Men co-operated by aiding in equipping the Commission office. This co-operation of these two organizations for the blind thus supplied space with heat and light and equipment without expense to the Commonwealth except a nominal rental fee for typewriter and desk.

Unavoidable delays in the completion of the membership of the Commission and in the securing of necessary office equipment made it impossible to begin active work until about June 1. On June 2 Miss Gladys L. Holley was appointed as stenographer to the Commission. Unfortunately this was very near the summer vacation period during which the staffs of the various organizations with which it was necessary for the Commission to confer, including particularly organizations working for the blind, were arranging their vacations. This delayed somewhat the Commission's work. Notwithstanding these obstacles the work of the Commission was advanced as rapidly as possible from its initial meeting on March 18 until by June 1 it was well under way.

Meanwhile Senator Lanius voluntarily relinquished the Chairmanship and at its second meeting on July 2 the vacancy thus created was filled by the election of Mr. Latimer.

MEETINGS, HEARINGS AND CONFERENCES

The Commission has held six meetings as follows:

March 18, 1924, Harrisburg, Pa.
July 2, 1924, Philadelphia, Pa.
July 31, 1924, Philadelphia, Pa.
October 29, 1924, Pittsburgh, Pa.
November 20, 1924, Philadelphia, Pa.
January 28, 1925, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Advisory Committee of the Commission has held five meetings.

The Commission has also conducted three regional hearings to which were invited any and all persons in the locality who were interested in the problems set for the Commission, alike those in general social work and those engaged in some specific phase of work for the blind. These hearings were held on July 31, October 21, and October 29, 1924, at Philadelphia, Wilkes-Barre and Pittsburgh respectively. Fifty-five (55) persons, representing twenty-eight (28) different organizations and five cities, have appeared before the Commission. The cities represented are: Harrisburg, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Scranton, and Wilkes-Barre.

Two Committees were appointed by the Commission for the purpose of conferring with two state commissions for the blind, Commissioners Pratt and Meader visiting the New Jersey Commission for the Blind at its office in Newark on October 15; and Commissioners Torrance and Latimer visiting the Ohio State Commission for the Blind at its headquarters in Columbus on October 24, 1924.

Members of the Commission have also held four conferences with the representatives of organizations for the blind and with state officials as follows:

October 3 in Philadelphia with Miss Lydia Y. Hayes, Chief Executive Officer, New Jersey Commission for the Blind.
November 19 in Harrisburg with Dr. Ellen C. Potter, Secretary of Welfare, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.
December 2 in Harrisburg with Governor Pinchot.
December 12 in Philadelphia with The Pennsylvania Home Teaching Society and Free Circulating Library for the Blind.

In order to distribute and facilitate its labors, at its meeting in Philadelphia on July 31 the Commission created nine committees of three member seach, each of the nine commissioners being designated as chairman of one committee and a member of two other committees. The majority of these committees have held several meetings, giving considerable time to digesting the material on the topic assigned to them, gathered by the executive secretary and to drafting the material for the Commission's report.

In addition to these numerous meetings and conferences the Commission through its executive secretary has gathered a large amount of information from each state in the Union and from England. No questionaire has been sent out by the Commission, but 1,172 letters have been written to state organizations, to organizations for the blind, and to others, including organizations having departments for the blind, such as the American Red Cross, Junior League, etc., in order to gather material from vairous sources on the topics to be studied by the Commission. Information received was forwarded to each member of the Commission.

WHY A COMMISSION FOR THE BLIND?

The question may have arisen "Why was a Commission for the Blind necessary, and what was it to accomplish?" As an answer to this question and as a matter of permanent record it may be well to state at this point the reasons for the appointment of the Commission.

An active interest in providing an education for the blind of the United States began almost exactly a century ago and naturally almost simultaneously in the then three most popular centers, New York, Philadelphia, and Boston. As a result of these initial efforts residental schools for the blind were organized in these three centers and incorporated soon after 1830. While these institutions were generally regarded as educational the term "Institution for Instruction" being a part of the incorporated title of one of them, they were not considered by their founders as restricted in their scope to the training of children who were blind. Indeed through all the earlier history of these three oldest American institutions blindness, not age, was the one primary qualification for admission.

No sooner had the training of some of the first students been completed than the need of providing employment for those who had been taught was recognized. In an effort to solve this difficult problem these three institutions early in their history developed a "Work Department for Adults." At considerable financial loss they learned the lesson that an institution organized for instruction cannot afford from an economic or social point of view to provide training for children and employment for adults under the same roof and with the same staff.

Those interested in improving the condition of the blind soon learned, too, the need of providing instruction for those who acquired blindness in adult life, with particular reference to the able-bodied and mentally capable between 20 and 50 years of age. As a result of these initial experiments in essaying the impossible by attempting to provide in one place and under the same management the education of children and the employment of adults, in a few places institutions were organized to provide instruction and employment for the adult blind. In this field Pennsylvania was a pioneer in organizing in Phialdelphia in 1868 The Pennsylvania Industrial Home for Blind Women and in 1874 The Pennsylvania Working Home for Blind Men.

In accord with the sociological trend of the time sporadic efforts continued along these lines until about the beginning of the present century in an effort to solve the difficult problems connected with the comparatively large number of blind adults.

Much thought was given by earnest students and workers with the blind between 1900 and 1920 in an attempt to solve these problems along the more progressive lines of the sociological thought of the new century. Voluntary associations were organized and temporary state commissions were appointed in a number of states to study the problem and to suggest solutions. As a result of this temporary work permanent state commissions were created in several states, charged with the duty of trying to improve and to increase the opportunities for the blind of all ages—improvement and extension of training, employment, placement and follow-up of capable, able-bodied adults; development of adequate plans for relief of the aged and infirm, based upon principles now generally accepted as economically sound and helpful, but not pauperizing to the recipient.

Phialdelphia was one of the most populous centers of the country and as its citizens were actuated to a notable degree by a genearus philanthropy, it was but natural that work for the blind of Pennsylvania should receive its initial impulse in this center of population. The Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind, begun in 1834; the two working Homes for the adult blind, organized in 1868 and 1874 respectively; The Friedlander Union (a sick and death beneficial organization), founded in 1871; The Pennsylvania Home Teaching Society and Free Circulating Library for the Blind, established in 1882; and the Chapin Memorial Home for Aged Blind, founded in 1906, were all felt to be Philadelphia institutions, although their work was state-wide and, except in the cases of the working Homes and the Friedlander Union, reached even outside the state.

With the increase of the state's population and the development of other more populous centers the parents of blind children in Western Pennsylvania with Pittsburgh as the center began in 1888 to agitate the question of the establishment of a school for the blind in Pittsburgh which resulted in the opening in 1890 of the Western Pennsylvania Institution for the Blind (now The Western Pennsylvania School for the Blind).

Meanwhile the investigations into the condition of the blind of Pennsylvania, with particular reference to the adult blind, initiated in 1903 by The Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind, were gradually extended over the entire state until its "Field Officer," himself blind, had invaded each of the state's sixty-seven counties, the school at Pittsburgh sharing the expense for the western tiers of counties. With this new and more exact knowledge of the condition and the needs of Pennsylvania's adult blind, whether former pupils of the two schools or those acquiring blindness in adult life, with the knowledge that no adequate provision was available for the training of this large group of the state's needy and worthy blind citizens, the school in Philadelphia heeded the Macedonian cry of Pennsylvania's blind, "Come over and help us," and opened in 1910 in the heart of the city its Salesroom and Exchange under the management of the man who had visited every blind person he could locate within the confines of the state.

Aroused by the knowledge of the needs of the blind which these investigations throughout the state had emphasized and in response to a growing realization of the need of greater opportunities for the adult blind of western Pennsylvania, The Pennsylvania Association for the Blind was founded the self-same year (1910) with headquarters in Pittsburgh. The leaders in this movement, realizing the growing demand for work for the adult blind along modernized lines, as indicated by the steady increase throughout the county in organizations for the adult blind, gave wise thought for the future growth and development of the Association which in 1912 was incorporated as The Pennsylvania Association for the Blind, Inc., and whose articles of incorporation provided that the Association might extend its work over the state as it could find ways and means to finance the undertaking.

This Association is competent under the law which created it to develop work for the adult blind in every center of the state where there is need for it and has branches in Pittsburgh, Scranton, Wilkes-Barre, and Harrisburg, and through this organization it was believed that the need for the adult blind of the state could be adequately met so soon as the funds could be found to finance the work.

Meanwhile there were being developed in various parts of the United States plans for relieving the needy blind. To meet known needs almost nothing was being done in Pennsylvania, "The Chapin Memorial Home for the Aged Blind," founded in Philadelphia in 1906 and "The Blind Relief Fund of Philadelphia"—a voluntary movement begun in 1909 by the secretary of The Pennsylvania Home Teaching Society—being the only organized efforts to cope with the problem of blind relief. Sporadic efforts were undoubtedly made from time to time by individuals and organizations as individual cases came to their attention.

The growing realization on the part of all workers for the blind in the state of the acute need of opportunities for training and employing capable and willing blind men and women who are in the prime of life and the increasing pressure from these blind people themselves suggested the need of a Commission for the study of this state-wide problem as it concerned this relatively large group of the blind citizens of the state.

Accordingly a bill was drafted by a group of workers for the blind and introduced into the Legislature early in the session of 1923 by Senator Henry E. Lanius of York, creating a commission to study all problems connected with the blind citizens of the commonwealth and to formulate plans and initiate legislation to make these plans effective.

NUMBER OF PENNSYLVANIA'S BLIND—6,228

No accurate statement as to the number of blind persons in any unit of government can be made. That such information is lacking, when so much attention is given to the collection of statistical data, is due to several well recognized causes.

The Director of the U. S. Census Bureau, who is responsible for formulating plans for the census returns and for issuing instructions to the census enumerators recognizes full well the difficulties of endeavoring to secure an accurate count of blind persons through the average type of enumerator; probably no one is better aware than he of the inaccuracy of the U. S. census returns as to the numbers of blind people.

The definition of blindness, formulated with great care and thought, for the direction of the census enumerators in 1920 is the best evidence of the truth of this statement. The instructions to the enumerators as to persons blind were these: "Include as blind any person who cannot see well enough to read, even with the aid of glasses. The test in case of infants must be whether they can apparently distinguish forms and objects, and in the case of older persons who are illiterate whether they can presumably see well enough to read if they knew how to read. Do not include any person who is blind in one eye only".

The U. S. census returns of 1920, basing the enumeration on these instructions which were subsequently checked up by the Bureau, give 52,567 as the number of blind in the United States. This number is known to be far below the actual number of persons in the United States who are blind according to the generally accepted definition of the ophthalmologists.

According to the exact and scientific definition of the eye specialists, only he is blind whose brain and optic nerve convey not even the sensation caused by a ray of light. If this definition be accepted, the number of blind in the United States is small indeed. But for the determination of such practical questions as education, training, and employment, we must include in any enumeration of the blind those who have light perception, see shadows, or have varying degrees of defective vision below the minimum accepted standard. There is substantial agreement among opthalmologists that, for the determination of the practical problems connected with education and employment, all who possess not more than one-tenth normal vision in the better eye may fairly be considered blind. This was the definition of blindness adopted by the war departments of the United States and England in the World War.

Accepting this as a practical working definition of blindness the ratio of blind persons to the general population is very much larger than it would be should the more exact and scientific definition of the eye specialist be adopted.

According to the federal census of 1920 there are in Pennsylvania 4,094 blind persons. State commissions for the blind have been in existence for a number of years in Massachusetts, New York, Minnesota and Ohio. These commissions endeavor to keep an active register of all the blind of their states. A rather careful analysis of the figures obtained through these four sources indicates that the U. S. census figures for 1920 are approximately only two-thirds of the correct number.

Among the most reliable figures available are those recently gathered by the NewYork State Commission. These figures indicate that whereas the U. S. census enumerators returned 4,205 persons in New York State as blind, the Commission finds the correct number to be 8,001. The number of blind in the State of New York returned by the Census Bureau, therefore, is apparently only about 53% of the correct number. Basing our comparisons on this revised number, 8,001, we may say that there is apparently in New York State one blind person to every 1,298 of the general population. By using the average percentage of discrepancy in the four states indicated a reasonably accurate ratio seems to be one blind person to every 1,400 of the general population. On this basis the number of blind persons in Pennsylvania would be 6,228 which in the judgment of workers for the blind is a conservative estimate.

AGE DISTRIBUTION

Several studies that have been made seem to warrant the general statement that in the United States of every ten blind persons one is under 20, four are between 20 and 60, and five are over 60 years of age. On this basis, of the 4,094 returned as blind in the State of Pennsylvania by the census enumerators in 1920, the numbers within these three age groups are approximately:

Under 20	409	10%
Between 20 and 60	1,638	40%
Over 60	2,047	50%
	4,094	100%

On the basis of the Commission's revised figure, 6,228, which is approximately one blind person to every 1,400 of the general population, the age distribution would be as follows:

Between 20 and 60	2,491	40%
	6,228	100%

These figures and similar data gathered elsewhere indicate that about 10% of the blind population are under 20; that 40% are between 20 and 60; and that 50% are over 60 years of age. Approximately 90%, therefore, of the blind of the United States are over 20 years of age. And these figures hold for Pennsylvania.

SEX

Of the 52,567 persons returned as blind by the 1920 U. S. census 30,160 or 57% were males; 22,407, or 43%, females. By the same authority of the 4,094 persons returned as blind in the state of Pennsylvania 2,408, or 59%, were males and 1,686, or 41%, females.

The New York State Commission of 1903 in analyzing similar data, based on the 1900 census, found that approximately 55% of the blind of New York State were males and 45% females. Similar data for the state of Massachusetts, based upon a state census of the blind in 1922 made by the State Commission, shows 53% male and 47% female.

Assuming that the percentages of correctness and of error in the U. S. census are applicable alike to the males and females of the state of Pennsylvania, of every 100 blind persons in the commonwealth approximately 59 are males and 41 females.

Based on 1920 census figures	Based on Commission's estimate
2,415 male	3,675 male
1,679 female	2,553 female
4,094	6,228

The 1920 federal census classifies Pennsylvania's 4,094 blind on the basis of race thus:

3,898 White
194 Negro
1 Indian
1 "Other Colored"

Approximately 95% of the state's blind are, therefore, white; 5% colored. And this in a state that stands eleventh in the number of its colored population, containing a city whose negro population is the second largest in the United States.

EXISTING PROVISIONS FOR THE BLIND OF PENNSYLVANIA

During the century that has elapsed since work for the blind was initiated in Philadelphia as a center, radiating into Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and into Maryland until the organization of the Maryland School for the Blind in 1853, there have been developed in the state of Pennsylvania the following organized agencies for the blind.

I For the training of blind children of pre-school age: a special appropriation on a daily per capita basis, administered by the State Council of Education, initiated in May, 1913.

II For the education and training of blind youth:

The Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind, Overbrook, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Western Pennsylvania School for the Blind, Pittsburgh, Pa.

*State aid for blind students of Pennsylvania attending institutions of higher learning.

St. Mary's Institute for the Blind, Lansdale, Pa.

*See Act 70-A in Appendix of this report.

III For the housing, training and employment of the adult blind:

The Pennsylvania Industrial Home for Blind Women, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Pennsylvania Working Home for Blind, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Pennsylvania Association for the Blind, Inc., with headquarters at Pittsburgh and branches in Pittsburgh, Scranton, Wilkes-Barre, and Harrisburg.

The Pennsylvania Home Teaching Society and Free Circulating Library for the Blind, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Pennsylvania Working Home for Blind Men, Philadelphia, Pa.

A complete list with the purposes of organizations for the blind is given in the Appendix of this report.

PREVENTION OF BLINDNESS

Causes of Blindness:—In listing the causes of blindness the U. S. census enumerates the most frequent causes in the following order:

Cataracts
Glaucoma
Atrophy of the Optic Nerve
Ophthalmia Neonatorum, i.e., Babies Sore Eyes.
Traumatism, i.e., Accidents.

While little reliance can probably be placed in these data on the causes of blindness, gathered by the Census Bureau, there is substantial agreement among ophthalmologists that these causes are among the most common even though their relative rank may be successfully challenged.

The Commission is not competent to elaborate the causes of blindness or to make any statement as to their relative frequency even if any practical results would follow such a statement. Attention should, however, be directed to a few of the common causes of blindness which are known to be preventable.

Ophthalmia Neonatorum—Babies' Sore Eyes

As is now rather generally known one of the most frequent causes of blindness in very young children is ophthalmia neonatorum, more popularly known as "babies' sore eyes." The National Committee for the Prevention of Blindness has been at considerable pains to collect data during the past seventeen years as to the numbers and percentage of pupils blind from ophthalmia neonatorum among the pupils admitted annually into residential and day schools for the blind. The percent varies between approximately 27% and 13%. The smallest number of schools supplying data for these conclusions is ten, the largest forty-nine. Yet The National Committee, although using every possible precaution to secure accuracy of information, questions the reliability of their data.

Many, but by no means all, of the residential schools for the blind in the United States and Canada now have attached to their staffs competent ophthalmologists to examine carefully each pupil admitted to the school. The Commission has not ascertained which and how many of these schools have recognized the importance of this and have made provisions for it.

We have, however, reliable data as to the causes of blindness of pupils enrolled in the two residential schools for the blind, maintained within the state of Pennsylvania, in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

During the thirty years, 1895 to 1924 inclusive, 1,037 new pupils have been admitted to the school in Philadelphia, of whom 274, that is 26.3%, have been blind from ophthalmia neonatorum.

During the thirty years, 1895 to 1924 inclusive, 586 new pupils have been admitted to the school in Pittsburgh, of whom 116, that is 19.8%, have been blind from ophthalmia neonatorum.

For the two schools for the thirty-year period 24% of the new admissions have been blind from ophthalmia neonatorum. If these new admissions to the two Pennsylvania schools be distributed into five-year periods the percenatges blind from this cause are as follows:

1895 - 1899	21.4%
1900 - 1904	25.6%
1905 - 1909	32.5%
1910 - 1914	22.8%
1915 - 1919	24.7%
1920 - 1924	17.4%

The numbers here are too small to warrant any final conclusions. It should, however, be noted that since the peak was reached for the five-year period, 1905-1909, when 32½% of the pupils admitted were blind from this one preventable cause there has been a decline in the number of new pupils blind from ophthalmia neonatorum that have actually entered these schools, the percentage for the last five-year period, 1920-1924, being approximately 17% of all new admissions.

The most that can be said is that these statistics tend to confirm the feeling among students of the causes of blindness that the large amount of publicity given to the ability to prevent blindness from ophthalmia neonatorum, "babies' sore eyes," is yielding results. Yet the September 1923 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association says: "So far have protective measures been forgotten that recent statistics from Pennsylvania show that in 1920 in only 20 cases out of 35, and in 1921 in only 22 out of 33, was any prophylatic employed, and of 49 cases reported aside from these left with defective vision, 2 were made absolutely blind".

Pennsylvania apparently has a satisfactory law requiring the prompt reporting of cases of swollen or inflamed sore eyes of babies. It is not so certain, however, that proper provisions is made for their treatment when cases are reported by anyone other than a practicing physician.

Pennsylvania does not require the use of a prophylactic by physicians. It does require (by regulation of the licensure bureau of midwives) that midwives shall use one.

The use of a prophylactic by physicians and midwives is required by law or regulation in many of the states. The Commission has secured the opinions of a number of eminent ophthalmologists and state boards of health as to whether the compulsory use of a prophylactic in the eyes of the new-born is desirable. There seems to be no unanimity of opinion and the question appears still to be a debatable one. One writes that he "would confine the use of the prophylactic to all suspected cases and to births in eleemosynary institutions." Another feels "that the percentage of blindness among children would be much reduced by making the use of a prophylactic compulsory immediately after birth" and further "recommends the prophylactic outfits be distributed free with printed directions for the use of same." Another believes "that physicians should not be required by law to take any specific action in regard to this practice, but that all cases of ophthalmia neonatrum should be reported promptly on their occurrence, and that there should be on every birth certificate the inquiry of the attendant, whether a physician or midwife, 'Have you used a prophylactic against ophthamis neonatorum?', or more simply 'A protective agent against babies' sore eyes?' "

A few years ago this query as to the desirability of the compulsory use of prophylactic was presented to the New York Academy of Medicine and to the New York State Medical Association. It was not endorsed by the Academy and definite action was not taken by the Medical Association. The Academy felt very strongly that it was not an advisable measure.

The best protection is widespread information together with a ready accessibility of silver salt at every birth. The prophylactic should be supplied gratuitously, whether by the state or municipality, in hermetically sealed, light-proof ampules, and in sufficient quantities that one may never be lacking when a child is born.

The Commission concludes that it is not practicable to require by law the use of a prophylactic in the case of every new-born child in the state of Pennsylvania, but that the State Department of Health should continue to give attention to the prevention of blindness and in particular to rules and regulations as to the use of a prophylactic in the eyes of the new-born and the desirability of reporting its use on the birth certificate.

Industrial Accidents

The State Department of Labor and Industry has full authority bestowed upon it by law to demand adequate protection for industrial workers and to regulate and prescribe all kinds of safety devices, including protection of the eyes by goggles. The Department apparently has excellent safety standards for head and eye protection. The laws on this important matter are believed to be adequate in their present form

Wood Alcohol

The Secretary of Health advises the Commission as follows concerning the manufacture, distribution and sale of wood alcohol: "On January 19, 1920, an embargo was placed on the use of wood alcohol by manufacturers, distributors and dealers of non-official preparations and requiring the filing of an affidavit by all such manufacturers to the effect that their product did not contain wood alcohol. This embargo was later removed and at the present time are no laws pertaining thereto."

Trachoma

Trachoma is a reportable disease and the state and local boards of health have power to deal with it. Fortunately trachoma is not believed to be a very frequent cause of blindness in Pennsylvania. In view of the competency of the State Board of Health to prescribe regulations for coping with this highly infectious disease no additional laws on this subject seem to be required.

Training of Midwives

Some cases of blindness are known to have resulted from the indiscriminate and unregulated practice of midwifery. The conditions under which midwives practice have been investigated in various parts of the country with a view to securing data as to the extent to which this cause may be responsible for the spreading of communicable and infectious diseases with particular reference to those which produce blindness. As a result of these studies and practice of midwifery.

Satisfactory legislation exists in Pennsylvania, providing for the proper training and experience of midwives. The laws of 1913 and the rules of the State Department of Health provide for graduation from an approved school of midwifery or for other satisfactory evidence of competence, and examination in the English language only is required.

School Medical Inspection

Pennsylvania has an excellent medical inspection law which is working well. It requires the annual examination of the eyes of school children. The law also permits any school district to provide for the care and treatment of defective eyes and teeth of all pupils in the public schools.

Conservation of Vision Classes

Much has been said and written of a scientific and popular nature about blindness resulting from ophthalmia neonatorum, practically preventable cause of blindness; but little publicity has been given to the need for special provisions for the education of children handicapped by serious visual defects who are yet not blind. It is undoubtedly true that the failure to discover these eye defects in school children and to make adequate provisions for them concerns the health happiness and economic independence of far more future citizens of the commonwealth than does opthalmia neonatorum as a cause of blindness.

Conservation of vision classes may be established in accordance with Section 1413 of the state school law. This section provides for special classes of various kinds and conservation of vision comes within the scope of this law. The law places the responsibility of providing this special instruction clearly upon the authorities of the school district in which these children reside but it provides that the state shall reimburse each local district to the extent of one-half the cost of maintaining these special classes or of otherwise providing instruction for these children. This provision of the law has never been complied with. Under our American form of government, however, this principle is sound; the law should be complied with, amended, or repealed. This feature of the law has been receiving recently considerable careful consideration by the State Department of Public Instruction and an effort will be made to correct this defect.

The Commission has made a determined effort to ascertain whether sufficient data have been gathered to warrant any dependable statement as to the numbers of school children having these serious eye defects. The best information obtainable is that approximately one of every 500 to 800 school children has vision so seriously defective as to require special provisions, demanded by visual defects.

In the public schools of the commonwealth there are enrolled approximately 1,500,000 children. Using one to 800 as a conservative estimate of the ratio of children with defective vision to the general school population, there are in Pennsylvania perhaps 1,875 public school children whose vision is reduced 50% or more below normal.

Through the State Department of Public Instruction we have secured the school population of 31 of the largest cities of the state, these cities ranging between Philadelphia with a total population of 1,823,779 and Braddock with a population of 20,879. In the Appendix of this report will be found a table, showing the estimated number of sight-saving classes needed to meet the requirements of the school population in these 31 largest cities of the state with the numbers of children in each city, based upon the ratios of one to 500 and one to 800 respectively. Using the more conservative ratio one to 800 would indicate that there are approximately 782 children in the school population of these 31 cities eligible to conservation of vision classes.

Basing its decision upon data, gathered from other states as well as Pennsylvania, the Commission concludes that each city or township with a population in excess of 25,000 having a school population in excess of 5,000 should provide special instruction for its children with serious eye defects.

In view of the multiplicity of demands upon public schools of the state and the increased costs of providing public school instruction, it is not surprising that the educational authorities have been slow in organizing special classes for those who are visually handicapped. Philadelphia has made a good start in this direction in organizing twelve such classes, enrolling 156 pupils. How much remains to be done is indicated by the statement that on the basis of the conservative estimate of one child with defective vision to 800 school children there are 368 such children in Philadelphia which would require 37 classes and that Pittsburgh, the second city in size in the state with one hundred such children which would require 10 classes, has not yet organized a single class a statement that is equally true of all second class school districts of the state between Scranton with a school population of 27,124 and Hazelton with a school population of 7,299. How for Pennsylvania is from meeting its obligations to these children may be indicated by the statement that whereas the sixteen most populous cities of the state have an estimated number of 689 children with defective vision to meet whose needs 68 classes are required on the basis of a class for each ten such children, only twelve classes have been organized, meeting the needs of 156 of these children, and all in Philadelphia.

Among the special requirements for these children are these:

1. Specially trained teachers.
2. The best lighted rooms in the school building.
3. Specially printed text books, now technically known in this country as "Clear Type" texts. These should be printed on unglazed manila paper of a carefully selected tint. Eye specialists recommend antique India tint with broad face type, technically known as "Caslon Bold," 24 point, with large line spaces.
4. A special desk, provided with an adjustable top, not fastened to the floor, but capable of being moved to any position to secure the best possible light and to allow for placing during blackboard work in positions suitable to the need of each individual pupil.
5. A large variety of manual instruction.
6. Musical instruction at least equal to the maximum provided in any school for the seeing with special and extended instruction for those especially talented.
7. Adequate provision for physical development through formal instruction and play.
8. Special provision for intensive placement and follow-up work for these seriously handicapped children with special reference to the possibility of an increasing visual handicap.

The consensus of opinion among those educators who have given most thought to the needs of these school children, handicapped by serious visual defects, is that their education should be broad and liberal; it should be well planned and supervised; that many of these children have such poor vision as to render them almost as seriously handicapped economically as some who are totally blind; that the vision of many of these is bound to deteriorate with the inevitable result that some of them will enter upon their life work as blind or nearly blind citizens.

The Commission believes, that the special education of all children whose visual acuity with properly fitted glasses is less than 5/10 and more than 1/10 normal should be provided for in the public schools of the state and that this duty and opportunity should be recognized including a frank admission of the excess of cost over providing education for children whose vision is normal.

EDUCATION OF THE YOUNG BLIND

Number of Blind Children of School Age in Pennsylvania.

While the age limits within which children are admitted into residential schools differ somewhat in various states the more usual limits are between five and twenty-one. According to the United States census there were in the state in 1920, 435 children between 5 and 19 years of age, inclusive, or 10.6% of the 4,094 persons enumerated as blind.

Assuming that this same percentage holds for the Commission's revised figure, 6,228, their number is 661. In this number are included all grades of physical and mental abilities, the able-bodied and the weakling, those with intelligence designated by the student of psychology as of superior and average ability and likewise the dull, backward, and feeble-minded. No accurate figure is obtainable as to what proportion of these children of school age are incapable of instruction because of physical or mental incapacity. Basing our estimate upon studies that have been made in residential and day schools for the blind we believe 15%, or 99, to be a conservative estimate. Of the remaining 562 pupils there are enrolled in the two residential schools in the state approximately 300, leaving 262 who are receiving no instruction so far as is known. If these figures are correct there are almost as many blind children between these age limits of 5 and 19 who are receiving only such casual training as is provided in their own homes—which means in most instances little or no training at all—as are in schools. Whatever the number may be it is known to be large enough to argue strongly in favor of the necessity of amending the compulsory education law so that it shall apply to blind children.

Provisions for Their Training

Prior to the adoption in 1911 of the present School Code as an integral part of the state's school law, all state provisions in Pennsylvania for the education of blind children were comprehended in the appropriation made each biennium by the General Assembly for this specific purpose to the two privately managed schools for the blind located in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. As these appropriations have been made in varying amounts in accordance with the supposed need, in the first instance to The Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind since its incorporation in 1834 and subsequently to the Western Pennsylvania School for the Blind since its foundation in 1888, this custom of ninety years has become crystallized into a uniform procedure that it not easily changed. In fact, although the responsibility for securing suitable education for blind children in Pennsylvania has rested on the school districts of the state since 1911 in accordance with the provisions of section 1413 of the school code, each General Assembly has continued to make appropriations to the two schools for the blind without reference to the requirements of the state school law.

However, at no time since the adoption of the present school code in 1911 have these appropriations been adequate to meet the actual cost, even though fully $50,000 a year from the income of private funds has been applied in recent years to the education of Pennsylvania's blind children thus materially reducing the amount that the state is morally, if not legally, bound to supply.

The appropriations to these schools for the current biennium (1923-1925) were so much less than their actual requirements under the most economical management that it was necessary either to secure a very substantial increase in income from other sources, or incur large deficits, or close the schools for a substantial portion of the biennium. As the managements were unwilling to close the schools for any appreciable part of the school year and thus to that extent deprive approximately 300 blind children of their rights to an education, they chose to make the effort to secure additional funds and incur whatever deficiencies were unavoidable.

Accordingly a plan was devised with the approval of the State Department of Public Instruction whereby under the provisions of the school code the school districts might be asked by these schools to pay $250 per year per pupil toward their tuition, this being the estimated amount of the annual per capita deficiency. In some cases this was paid, in others the request of the school has been refused or ignored.

Under this plan the Western Pennsylvania School for the Blind at Pittsburgh has demonstrated the fact that school boards, when the matter is properly presented, will usually cooperate in providing training for blind children residing in their districts by contributing their reasonable share of the expenses involved. And incidentally Mr. B. S. Joice, superintendent of this school has done some excellent educational work among the school districts of western Pennsylvania by his systematic and persistent efforts to secure for each year of the biennium 1923-1925, $250 per pupil from each school district having a pupil enrolled in the Pittsburgh school.

Unfortunately the system by which all payments toward the cost of instruction of the state's blind children in these two residential schools had been made by the state led school districts to ignore their responsibility for the education of blind children. It was, therefore, left to parents or other interested persons or agencies to make application for the admission of these pupils to these schools. This system led to the common belief that these schools are "State-aided," i. e., subsidized by the state; that it was the duty of the state, not of the local school district, to provide for the educaion of blind children; and that the state was meeting its full obligation in this important matter. Moreover even where school boards wish to secure this education for their blind children, under the present provision of the law they cannot proceed in the matter without the written consent of the parents.

Pennsylvania's Appropriations for Educating the Young Blind

For the state's fiscal biennial period, ending May 31, 1925, Pennsylvania provided $228,000 for the training of its blind youth, an annual appropriation of $114,000 distributed as follows:

For approximately 7 blind children under 8 years of age at a daily per capita rate of $1.50	$4,000.00
For a maximum of 135 pupils at the Western Pennsylvania School for the Blind, Pittsburgh	47,500.00
For a maximum of 175 pupils at The Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind, Philadelphia	60,000.00
For blind students, attending institutions of higher learning	2,500.00

Deducting the appropriations for the educating of the children of pre-school age and for students attending institutions of higher learning, which amounts to only $6,500, Pennsylvania is now providing only $107,500 annually for the education of the blind children of the Commonwealth which, on the basis of the registration at the two schools for the blind of approximately 300, is an annual per capita appropriation of only $358.30.

In a recent study as to per capita provisions in twenty schools the per capita cost figures ranged between a minimum of $324.14 and a maximum of $1154.03. It is a significant fact that for nineteen of these twenty residential schools, representing eighteen states, selected from the northeast, southeast, central and mid-west and the western coast, the states make a much more generous financial provision for their blind children than Pennsylvania provides.

This condition is readily accounted for by the fact that education for the blind in Pennsylvania began about ninety years ago as a private enterprise, the result of private initiative. Under this system the state has been asked only to supplement private income as may have been necessary from time to time. So long as the private institutions have been willing and financially competent to carry this burden the state has been willing they should do it. So far as the schools for the blind are concerned this appropriation has always been on a sound basis, namely that of per capita cost. Until about six years ago the state met the entire difference between the per capita cost and the per capita income from private funds. The Legislatures of 1921 and 1923 granted deficiency appropriations which made good this difference. During the current biennium deficiencies have again been incurred because Pennsylvania failed to provide the actual minimum requirements clearly presented to their representatives in the Legislature and to the Governor, prior to making the appropriation. These deficiencies in the two schools for the current biennium (1923-1925) will approximate $70,000 which, for the 300 children in attendance, is a per capita deficiency of $233.00. In one of the schools for the fiscal year ended May 31, 1924—the last for which figures are available—Pennsylvania provided approximately only three-eighths of the cost of instruction and maintenance, though four-fifths of the pupils in attendance were Pennsylvania state pupils.

A recent study of per capita costs shows that the average annual per capita cost in six southern states was $466.77; in six mid-western states, $707.06; in six schools, two of which are in Pennsylvania, two in New York, one each in Massachusetts and Connecticut, the average per capita cost was $771.23. It is clear, therefore, that at least for the past six years Pennsylvania has been providing less than two-thirds of the difference between the actual cost and the income available from private funds. The minimum from the state should be this entire difference. Indeed, why should the state not provide the entire cost? If this were done Pennsylvania would still be educating its pupils at less cost to the state than the average cost in other leading states. It would mean, however, practically doubling the present appropriation. This would release the income from private funds for studies and investigations that would point the way to proper division of its student body and more adequate instruction for the several groups.

By legislative act of 1923 the two schools for the blind in Pennsylvania were transferred from the supervision of the Department of Welfare to the of the Department of Public Instruction. This transfers them from the list of charitable institutions, maintained in part by the state, to the state's educational institutions—an enormous stride forward in correct classification and in a new emphasis upon their educational character in contradistinction to the more general idea that they are charitable institutions.

This Commission approves the appropriation of money by the State for the assistance of blind students at institutions of higher learning, as provided in Act 70-A, of the 1923 Legislature. (see appendix) Section 1440 of the school code should, however, be so amended as to include in each biennial appropriation provision for the kinds of assistance mentioned in the appropriation act of 1923, thus making unnecessary a separate appropriation for this purpose by each General Assembly.

This Commission approves the appropriation of money to be expended in the care and training of blind children of pre-school age, as provided in Section 1439 of the school code.

Researches in the Education of the Blind

The Commission approves the research work in intelligence tests and test technique initiated by the Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind and The Perkins Institution and Massachusetts School for the Blind and now being systematically conducted by these schools and by other residential and day schools for the blind that recognize the importance and value of these studies and can meet the comparatively small expense involved.

The Commission desires to call particularly to the attention of the Legislature and of all interested students of the problems that are concerned with the training and subsequent employment of the young blind, a monograph entitled, "What Can the Blind Do?" "A Study of Five Hundred Former Pupils of the Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind," by Miss Ruth Sargent, Research Assistant at The Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind.

The list of 500 names which form the basis of this study is comprised of all pupils who were discharged from this school during the fifteen-year period from 1907 to 1922, inclusive. It includes those who had a little vision as well as the totally blind, the backward and in some cases the feeble-minded as well as the brilliant child. The actual number of those living about whom some recent information was obtained, is 337, or about 67% of the entire group. The number deceased, 58, brings the total to 395 so that we may say that four-fifths of the 500 are accounted for.

The following significant facts are based upon the data for the 337.

1. Of these 337 children, 241 lost their sight before they were five years of age. Only 34.4% of this number received any instruction before coming to Overbrook, yet the median age of entering school is ten, and some did not enter until after they were twenty years of age.

2. Thirty-two percent (32%) of this group are either foreign born or have at least one foreign born parent.

3. During the years from 1916 to 1922, 116 of these pupils were enrolled and so had intelligence tests that are now an established routine of the school. More than half of them have intelligence quotients above 90, which shows them to be capable of receiving an education; 30% have received at least one diploma of the school and many more are now self-respecting and independent citizens as a result of the all-round training they received in the literary, music, physical training, and manual arts departments.

4. The boys are in forty different occupations and the girls in twenty-two, ranging between handwork of a more or less mechanical type to positions of an executive and professional nature that demand a high order of ability.

5. The interests of those who have gone from school show that they hold membership in clubs, societies and churches just as seeing people do, and that they enjoy many of the recreations, both passive and active, that occupy the leisure of people of their social and intellectual strata.

6. The economic status of these 337, as shown in the "Status in Community" is very encouraging, showing as it does that 181, or 53.7% of the group are self-supporting or better; that 60, or 17.8%, are contributing to their own support; while only 61, or 18%, are dependent. This is a conservative figure for those who are self-supporting or better, for there were 23, or 6.8%, who at the time of this survey were still in schools of higher education and will undoubtedly join the group of self-supporting people. Then, too, there are 100, or 29% of the group, who were enrolled as pupils for less than five years and cannot be considered as fully trained for their life work. It, therefore, seems fair to say that at least 60% of this group of blind people more or less adequately trained and equipped for life, are self-supporting, and that about 18% more are making substantial contributions to their support.

Conclusions and Recommendations as to Education of Young Blind

It is, therefore, the sense of this Commission that:

1. The education of blind children should be assured as definitely by law as that of seeing children. That such education should be provided is a responsibility resting upon the school district.

2. This education should be assured to children whether their parents consent to their being sent outside the district or not. The clause in Section 1413, requiring the consent of parents, should be stricken out and a proviso inserted covering cases receiving approved private instruction at home. The state's compulsory education law should be so amended as to require that all blind children between the ages of six and sixteen years shall be provided with special education either within the school district or in approved schools outside of the district.

3. School districts should bear some of the expense of the special education, the remainder to be paid from state appropriations. The share paid by school districts should in no case be less than per pupil cost of the education of seeing children in the district. Whether blind children be taught in their own homes, in special classes organized as a part of the public school system, or in residential schools, it is universally admitted that this education is far more costly than that of normal seeing children.

The Commission, therefore, recommends that the school district meet one-fourth and the state three-fourths of the cost of instruction of all blind children, receiving approved instruction, between the ages of six and twenty-one; and that the state meet the entire cost of all pupils under six and over twenty-one years of age.

4. That state appropriations to the schools for the blind should be on a per pupil basis. This appropriation together with the amount paid by the school districts should not be less than the per pupil cost of instruction and maintenance in these schools, except that the amount paid should not exceed the tuition charge made by these schools to private pupils or to other states which pay the tuition of pupils at one of these schools.

5. Payments from state appropriations and school districts to these schools on a per pupil basis should be considered as a payment for service rendered and not as a "subsidy" or as "state-aid."

The Blind in Public Schools

Within recent years, chiefly within this century, provision has been made for the education of blind children in connection with the public school system of a few of our larger cities. This movement has much to commend itself to students of education, psychology and sociology. It brings blind children into contact with sight seeing children in varying degrees. They join seeing children in many of the school activities. They learn by actual daily contact what they must be able to do to compete with those who see. The home ties are maintained, the child being a member of the household as are other members of the family, attending day schools. He learns the limits of the family, financially and otherwise. On the other hand as so far developed the day schools provide little actual contact with seeing children, very little physical development, little opportunity for individual instruction in music and almost no manual training facilities, matters that are of vital concern in the training of the totally blind child.

These classes can be provided economically only in the more populous centers and they cannot cope at all adequately with the numerous problems connected with the training of blind children of deficient mentality.

Where these special classes are functioning most satisfactorily, a special room is equipped for these children in groups usually not exceeding ten where under the direction of a special teacher each child prepares his lessons, no matter to which grade he may belong. He joins his grade for the recitation period and then returns to his special classroom and teacher for further preparation.

Pennsylvania has not entered upon this experiment. It has, however, recognized the importance of limiting the years of institutional training in the case of as many normal blind children as can be provided for by combining the facilities of the residential school with those of local schools, vocational and professional schools, colleges, and universities.

The Commission believes that the necessary provisions should be made to increase these opportunities so that at the earliest practicable date in his training the normal blind child may learn how to get on among seeing people with whom he must later live and that every possible advantage should be provided by combining all the facilities of the residential schools and the communities in which they are located.

EDUCATION AND TRAINING OF THE ADULT BLIND

Earlier in this report it has been stated that approximately 90% of Pennsylvania's blind are over 20 years of age. Thus stated our problem is seen to be predominantly a problem that concerns adults of whom at least 50% are past the usual wage earning years of seeing adults. To this 50% must be added an unknown but rather large percentage of men and women between 50 and 60 years of age who can have but little earning capacity under the double handicap of blindness and oncoming old age. The problems that concern many, probably the majority of this comparatively large number, considerably more than one-half of the adult blind citizens of the Commonwealth, primarily center about the question of relief. This problem is considered further on in this report.

In the attempts to provide in the United States opportunities for training and remunerative employment for the able-bodied, able-minded blind Pennsylvania is one of the pioneer states. In fact the first attempts to solve this difficult problem were made almost simultaneously in conjunction with the three oldest institutions, established at about the same time in Philadelphia, New York and Boston.

Mr. William B. Wait, for forty-two years Principal of the New York City Institution for the Blind, often said, "It took the New York Institution for the Blind thirty years and cost them more than $40,000 to learn that it was impracticable from the social point of view and fatal from an economic, to attempt to conduct under the same roof and management the education of blind youth and the employment of blind adults."

The Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind in Philadelphia and The Perkins Institution and Massachusetts School for the Blind in Boston likewise attempted the impossible. Scarcely had the school in Philadelphia been opened before capable, able-bodied adults knocked at its doors asking admission to procure what could not be secured elsewhere, training of hand, mind, and body to enable them to earn a competence.

Early in his administration Mr. William Chapin, for forty years save one Principal of the Pennsylvania Institution for the instruction of the Blind, began to develop sentiment in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and adjoining states in favor of separate institutions for the adult blind whose problems of training and employment were engrossing too much of the time and drawing too largely upon the financial resources of the Philadelphia institution. As early as 1852 he began to unfold his complete scheme for the blind almost literally "from the cradle to the grave." This scheme was:

"1. An Institution for Instruction only, as at present.
2. A Working Home for the Employment of the Industrious Blind, and
3. A Retreat for the Infirm and Aged Blind."

About fifty years later this vision of Mr. Chapin became a reality in Philadelphia. A mere enumeration of the institutions as he visualized them as they have been organized is an index to this development.

In 1833 The Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind, primarily a training school for blind youth.
In 1868 The Pennsylvania Industrial Home for Blind Women.
In 1874 The Pennsylvania Working Home for Blind Men.
In 1906 The Chaplin Memorial Home for the Aged Blind.

As the difficulties of supplying remunerative employment for the blind are increased enormously by the problems of providing suitable living arrangements for the workers and in entire accord with the sociologic and philanthropic thought of the times these initial efforts very naturally centered for women about a Home with provisions for suitable occupations for the inmates; and for men, about a Factory with a Home feature for the employees. These fundamental principles obtained in the United States from their inception about 1865 until approximately the close of the last century.

With the change that had come about by the opening of the present century in the thought and attitude of the philanthropist, social worker, educator, and economist toward the problems that concerned the handicapped with emphasis upon the principal of salvaging for society the capabilities of even the most incapable—a principal to which the World War gave an enormous impulse—came a change of plans for aiding the adult blind, particularly the capable blind of working age, that is speacing broadly those between twenty and fifty years of age. This newer movement sought to provide opportunities for remunerative employment by still segregating the blind for employment but by omitting the residential features of the establishments. The Michigan Employment Institution for the Blind opened in Saginaw in 1904, and the Maryland Workshop for the Blind organized in Baltimore in 1908, are concrete illustrations of the development and acceptance of this principle.

Meanwhile in response to the insistent demands of the more progressive workers for the adult blind there were organized in rapid succession in many parts of the United States during the first decade of the present century private associations for the blind in a few of the more populous centers and state commissions to grapple with state-wide problems.

While a part of the comprehensive program adopted by these organizations included the prevention of unnecessary blindness and the provision of relief for the aged and infirm blind, their primary purpose was to solve the problems of the training and employment of the capable adult blind.

After all best efforts have been made to place blind people in remunerative employment with seeing people, there will still remain a considerable group, especially of persons over 50 years of age, for whom a "Home" for the blind is an absolute necessity. This group comprises those who have become blinded in later life and find readjustment to a new kind of life and a new employment harder than younger persons; those who have become aged and are without relatives or home; and who therefore cannot compete with sighted people; and those with other handicaps who might compete reasonably with one misfortune but who cannot do so with blindness added. For all such blind people some "Home" is needed in order that they may not have to be sent to almshouses.

The plans of the most thoughtful students of these problems now contemplate some such program as the following:

1. The prompt location of cases and development of programs for training and employment.
2. Provision of training stations.
3. Interpreting the blind person to family and community at the earliest possible moment after the incidence of blindness.
4. Capitalization of prior experience.
5. Individual enterprises wherever personal and family initiative permits.
6. Provision of necessary equipment for the line of work selected.
7. Employment in selected industries with those who can see.
8. For the women particularly, instruction of the blind individual and the family in the home and the development of home industries wherever possible and feasible.
9. A sane plan of augumentation of earnings.

It will be seen, therefore, that all the emphasis in the best modern thought for training and adjusting capable blind people to their changed conditions has been proceeding along the lines that will establish and maintain normality and reestablish the individual as an economic and social factor in the family and community to which he belongs.

Number of Employable Adult Blind

No trustworthy data are available as to the probable number of blind people between the usual working ages of 20 and 50. Our problem is complicated by health conditions which in many cases are the primary cause of blindness, by economic and social problems in the family, and by lack of opportunities for the blind worker in many communities.

The Commission's revised figure gives 2,491 as the estimated number of blind people in Pennsylvania between 20 and 60 years of age. In analyzing the United States census figures of 1900 the New York State Commission of 1903 found that 13.8% of the blind of that state were between 50 and 60. Accepting the findings of the New York State Commission as fairly representative, 872, that is 14%, of Pennsylvania's blind are between 50 and 60, leaving the estimated number between 20 and 50 to be 1,619. No one knows how many of these are doomed to a life of idleness by the handicap of disease and other stamina destroying factors complicated with blindness—the number is not inconsiderable. Assuming that 40% of those between 20 and 50 are so incapacitated as to be economically unproductive, our residium of adults in Pennsylvania who may be considered to be in their prime and able to do a days work that has economic value may fairly be estimated to be 60% of those between 20 and 50 years of age, or 971. To these must be added a group, perhaps 25%, or more than 200, of those between 50 and 60 years of age who, as experience has proven, can become economically productive and socially efficient under the sympathetic direction of wise and experienced counsellors of the blind. It seems, therefore, a reasonable deduction that there are to day in Pennsylvania at least 1,200 blind people of whom approximately 480 are women and 720 men, who are capable under sympathetic guidance of assuming their normal places in family and community after adequate training and equipment. Some of these have surmounted the difficulties unaided and are "carrying on" successfully. But many of them overwhelmed by their blindness appeal to workers for the blind the state over for an opportunity for training and guidance only under present conditions to be refused: for there is today in Pennsylvania no adequate provision for training the breadwinner of the family who becomes blind, be he man or woman, so as to capitalize his experience and encourage him in his desire to be restored so far as possible to his former position of independence and self-respect.

Pennsylvania's Provisions for the Adult Blind

As approximately 90% of Pennsylvania's blind are adults it is pertinent to ask: What provision does the state of Pennsylvania make for the nine-tenths of its blind citizens?

For the biennium 1923-1925 the Legislature of 1923 and the Governor provided through the medium of three organizations for the adult blind a total of $65,000, distributed as follows:

Pennsylvania Working Home for Blind Men, Philadelphia,	$45,000.00
The Pennsylvania Association for the Blind, Inc., Headquarters at Pittsburgh,	10,000.00

If this provision by the state of $32,500 annually for the adult blind of the state were equally distributed among the approximately 5,600 adults it would mean a per capita assistance of only $5.80 per annum.

How many adults were aided last year by these three organizations it is impossible to say; it is particularly difficult to make any statement as to the numbers helped by The Pennsylvania Home Teaching Society and The Pennsylvania Association for the Blind whose work is of such varied nature that no accurate per capita figures can possibly be given.

Teaching of the Adult Blind in Their Homes

The Pennsylvania Home Teaching Society and Free Circulating Library for the Blind the first home teaching society in America was established in Philadelphia in 1882 by an Englishman, William Moon, LL. D., blind inventor of the Moon embossed type. The society was granted Articles of Incorporation by the Legislature of Pennsylvania in 1901 for the express purpose of teaching the blind to read books in embossed type in their homes or elsewhere, and to provide for the circulation of embossed books; and for the attainment of these purposes chiefly it has devoted its energies and expended its funds.

The State's appropriation of $5,000 for fostering this work is, therefore, primarily and almost solely an appropriation for providing instruction in reading for those of the adult blind who are or can be interested in learning to read with their fingers. As the majority of the blind acquire blindness in adult life, long after the completion of such formal education as they may have received, and as very many of them were not interested in reading prior to the loss of sight the number whom any teaching organization can serve in this restricted way is comparatively small. There is no doubt, however, that the work of this home teaching society could reach a larger number than is now passible had it the funds to provide additional traveling teachers.

But the charter of the Home Teaching Society restricts this work for the blind to the teaching of reading with the fingers and the circulation of embossed books. Historically this has been the original purpose of all home teaching of the blind, but in accordance with the increased opportunities for service to the adult blind in their homes as demonstrated by workers in the field of home teaching and in response to the persistent demands of some of the blind themselves for instruction in their homes in manual occupations of various kinds, in typewriting, etc., and in any other subjects feasible in individual cases, the scope of teaching the blind in their homes has broadened greatly, particularly so during the past twenty-five years. Home teaching that is confined to the teaching of embossed reading is far too restricted to meet the present-day desires and needs of the adult blind as experience within recent years has shown these needs can be met by home instruction.

Numerous state commissions and private associations for the adult blind throughout the country are now providing instruction for them in their homes in a variety of occupational and manual work, including reseating of chairs, crocheting, knitting, machine and hand sewing, basketry and weaving, in pencil writing and typewriting; and in the reading and writing of embossed types.

A brief resume of the scope of home teaching as it has been developed in three nearby states will make clear the possibilities for helpful service of which the teaching of the blind in their homes is capable.

OHIO. In 1916 the Commission employed nine blind home teachers who give instruction in sewing, knitting, and crocheting, as well as in reading and other occupations that help to make life more cheerful. Furthermore the Commission provided raw material to blind women who, in their homes, are able to do acceptable work. A market for the articles made by these women is found by co-operation with public spirited merchants who give, without charge, space in their stores for the sale of this work. The goods are also sold at women's clubs, and in private homes by traveling saleswomen.

NEW YORK. The New York State Commission has adopted the following qualifications for the position of State Home Teacher:

Maximum age limit—35 years.

Subject: (1) Reading and writing of Moon, New York Point and Revised Braille, grade 1½; knitting, crocheting, machine and hand sewing.

(2) A candidate in addition to the above qualifications shall be skilled in the art of weaving.

The New York State Commission for the year ending June 30, 1922, employed 13 home teachers, all women and all blind or partially blind.

The appropriation from the state for the Home Teaching Department was $12,000.

Home teachers are called upon to do field work, involving investigations and carrying out a variety of plans. The amount of actual instruction given varies according to the needs of the blind in each community.

The entire work of a home teacher cannot be listed under investigation, teaching, medical care, prevention or employment, for there is a far more delicate task she is often confronted with in the case of a man or woman to whom blindness has recently come and is a seemingly unsurmountable affliction. To the adult blind person who is so often discouraged and depressed the home teacher brings much in the way of hope and encouragement. Occupation supplied to blind persons in their homes provides mental diversion and in many cases welcome additions to incomes. Words of appreciation from workers testify to this:

"Life assumes a different aspect when there is some yarn in the house."

A widow says: "I am depending upon my earnings from my work to pay my grocery bills." And another: "I fear idleness more than poverty."

Sales to dispose of hand work of the blind workers are held by the Commission with the co-operation of women's clubs, church committees and at hotels throughout the state. Demonstrations by blind persons at sales have included weaving, basket making, knitting, and typewriting.

MASSACHUSETTS. In 1900 the Massachusetts Legislature appropriated $1,500 for the inauguration of Home Teaching, being the first state in the Union to set aside public funds for this purpose. This activity, begun under the supervision of the Perkins Institution, was June 1, 1916, transferred to the Massachusetts Commission for the Blind. The appropriation for the year ending November 30, 1922, was increased to $9,686.02. The six blind or partially blind teachers (four women and two men) during the year 1921-1922 spent 3,620 hours in teaching and gave 3,215 lessons to 331 pupils; the amount earned by the pupils was $3,-381.38.

The home teachers gave lessons in reading and writing embossed type; typewriting and all forms of manual and occupational work, including reseating of chairs, crocheting, knitting, machine and hand sewing, basketry or other hand processes suitable to the needs and capabilities of the particular individuals instructed. Many of the blind persons visited have not the education or intellect to learn to read, but can be taught some simple finger work by which they may be kept busy and even earn a little money. Thus they are given an incentive in life and it is believed that if the blind people at home are given occupation they will become happy members of the family.

The outlet for their work is through the salesroom, conducted by the Division of the Blind (formerly Commission for the Blind) and sales held under the auspices of women's clubs, by local committees, etc.

A part of the work of a home teacher is to "keep ahead of the game" by himself learning new processes and new articles or designs for which there is a market. The house teacher has had also the task of arranging for purchase of materials at favorable rates for pupils, or actual purchasing of materials for pupils in remote districts or for those blind persons having no one to do errands for them.

As someone has said, "If we were to classify State Home Teaching of the adult blind, in a general way, outside of the particular field of work for the blind, we should probably best classify it in the field of occupational therapy and name it 'curative occupations in the home for persons permanently handicapped by blindness.' Like many other phases of the work for the blind it cannot and should not be expected to stand up under economic tests. Its values are first of all therapeutic values, though it has other and many-sided results."

These increased demands upon the home teacher of today cannot be met by a teacher with the old-time qualifications. Until these more varied demands were made upon home teachers those selected for this work were usually either men and women who had become blind in adult life and, with little or no specific training in blindness, had climbed by sheer force of native ability, determination and character from the slough of despond into which they had been thrown; or those who had been trained in schools for the blind who possessed the requisite ability, character and initiative with such training only as had been procured in the school for the blind.

The requirements of home teachers set by such representative organizations as the state commissions of Ohio, New York and Massachusetts demand a thorough course of training for the specific task of the home teacher.

This demand has been recognized within recent years and efforts have been made to provide the necessary training. One of the earliest efforts was made at Columbia University where six week's courses were given in the summers of 1921 and 1922. The course was omitted in 1923 for lack of sufficient applicants but was offered again in 1924 at New York University.

In seeking a solution to this problem The Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind began in Philadelphia, September, 1922, a two years' course which combined the resources of the residential school for the blind, the local school for training social workers (The Pennsylvania School of Social Health Work) and the educational and social training opportunities afforded in a large cosmopolitan center. These courses, planned to extend throughout the academic year, were offered primarily to meet the needs of a few graduates of the school selected because of their interest in and qualifications for the exacting task of the home teacher, but no sooner did the availability of these courses become known than applications from other states were received.

This movement to provide the training demanded by the largely increased requirements of the present-day teacher of the adult blind in their homes is only in its infancy; experience will point the way as to necessary changes in the courses, but workers for the adult blind will no longer be satisfied without adequate training of those to be employed in the difficult and important work of home teaching.

And it goes without saying that when this increased training has been supplied and well trained teachers for the adult blind in their homes are available the meager salaries now very generally paid to these workers must and will be substantially increased.

The Commission feels that the home teaching of the adult blind in Pennsylvania must be extended to meet these urgent needs. The need is not to teach less reading, but to teach more manual occupations and breadwinning employments.

Training and Employment of the Adult Blind

The two organizations primarily concerned with the training and employment of the adult blind of the state are the Pennsylvania Working Home for Blind Men and The Pennsylvania Association for the Blind, Inc.

The Pennsylvania Working Home for Blind Men provides opportunities for work for approximately 125 men of whom slightly more than two-thirds reside in the Home and slightly less than one-third live outside but go to the shops daily to work.

The age distribution of the present enrollment of workers is indicative of the financial and social problems that now confront the managers of this—the first working Home to be opened in America.

Between 20 and 50	43
" 50 and 60	41

This means that approximately one-third of these blind men are between 20 and 50, one-third between 50 and 60, and one-third over 60 years of age. Stated another way, approximately one-third are of working age and two-thirds are beyond the age at which the seeing manual workman is usually economically productive. That is, this institution is now concerned with a problem of employment for approximately one-thord of its population; for the remaining two-thirds it is a problem of providing light employments and occupations which may fairly be included in the phrase "occupational therapy"—employments and occupations that cannot possibly be economically productive.

Through the fifty years of its history this Home has been known locally and to workers for the blind everywhere as primarily a broom factory. From time to time other trades and occupations have been tried out, but today three-fifths of the men are still employed as broom-makers. Of the remaining two-fifths, numbering about 50 men, 40 or nearly one-third of the entire number, are weaving rag rugs and carpet, and a few are caning chairs.

The "Home" Department of this institution provides a domicile for 86 blind men, where they are given, at very small cost to themselves, comfortable sleeping quarters, good food, medical attendance, and many of the enjoyments of life. For most of these men, life would be very hard without this "Home", and many of them would have to spend their days in some almshouse.

Investigations into the condition of the blind of the state, begun in 1903 by The Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind and carried to completion in 1909 in co-operation with the Western Pennsylvania School for the Blind at Pittsburgh, brought out prominently the need of advisement, training and placement for the capable adult blind.

Under the inspirational guidance of Thomas D. McAloney —then superintendent of The Western Pennsylvania School for the Blind—and with the assistance of a group of men and women who became interested in the movement to meet the needs of this important group of Pennsylvania's blind, there resulted in 1910 the organization of The Pennsylvania Association for the Blind with headquarters in Pittsburgh but with charter provisions that permitted the extension of the work through the state as funds were available.

The Pennsylvania Association for the Blind with headquarters in Pittsburgh and with branches, maintaining workshops, in Pittsburgh, Scranton, Wilkes-Barre and Harrisburg, now provides regular employment daily in its workshops for approximately 100 blind workers. This organization also provides employment for a small group of blind people who act as salesmen to dispose of the products of the labor of the shops and aids an additional number of blind workers through the solicitation of such work as piano tuning, weaving and caning. Blind workmen are also placed by them in factories among the seeing and a very definite and helpful service is rendered in concsultation with the newly-blinded in an effort to stimulate and guide them in overcoming their handicap.

The very same year (1910) The Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind opened its Salesroom and Exchange in rented quarters in a central location in Philadelphia. This center has been maintained since that time, the entire expense of its maintenance being met by the school which opened it until, in furtherance of the plan to reduce duplication of effort and increase the assistance to the blind, a definite plan of co-operation with The Pennsylvania Association for the Blind was initiated in 1920. Since that time the Salesroom and Exchange has been affiliated with the Association and handles such adult blind cases, particularly in eastern Pennsylvania, as time and means permit.

Through this agency opportunities are sought for the employment of the adult blind of all ages. As the expenses of its maintenance has been so largely met by the school its primary obligation has been felt to be towards former pupils of the school. However, as both schools for the blind of the state are frequently appealed to for counsel and advice in many cases of the adult blind there are no restrictions to the services rendered except those set by lack of funds and personnel. This organization has for several years aided each year more than 100 adults by securing for them work which they have been trained to perform; positions for them in employment with those who see; by giving counsel and very definite initial guildance in beginning some form of small business enterprise selected in accordance with the abilities of the individual blind persons and in a large but unknown number of cases it has supplied advice and inspiration to the blind individual himself, to members of his family and to the community of which he is a part.

For this work for the adult blind, conducted by The Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind since 1910 the state has made no specific appropriation; the entire expense amounting to less than $5,000 annually is met from the school funds supplemented by a small amount annually from The Pennsylvania Association for the Blind.

Bureau of Rehabilitation, State Department of Labor and Industry

An enumeration of Pennsylvania's provisions for the adult blind must also include reference to the training and placement by the Bureau of Rehabilitation of the State Department of Labor and Industry of a number of adults blinded in industry and otherwise. The work of the Bureau is fairly represented in a few brief paragraphs presented upon the Commission's invitation at a hearing held in the office of the Commission July 31, 1924.

"Among 3,314 disabled persons registered with the Bureau of Rehabilitation, July 1, 1924, are 123 reported as suffering from defective vision in both eyes.

"Blinded persons, consequently comprise approximately 3.7% of the Bureau's registrants.

"The Bureau of Rehabilitation completed training of 189 disabled persons, to July 1, with payments from the Bureau, of whom 16 are blind.

"Therefore, 8.4% of the persons having completed courses of training with payments from the Bureau are blinded persons.

"Twenty-eight disabled persons were receiving payments from the Bureau for training courses on July 1, 1924, of whom one is totally blind.

"The Bureau has further been of vital assistance to many other blinded persons who did not require payments from the Bureau for courses of training to become self-supporting.

"Numbers of blinded persons have been successfully established in agricultural work, small stores, canvassing and other activities, for which extended training was not required.

"The Bureau has trained blinded persons in rug weaving, chair caning, piano tunning, and similar work and one unusual case was trained in Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania for insurance salesmanship, after a course in The Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind.

"Considered in the abstract, there are almost innumerable specific tasks in manufacturing processes in industry that can be efficiently performed by blind persons. Many difficulties have been encountered by the Bureau of Rehabilitation endeavoring to prove that statement. Consequently, the Bureau has not, to this time, placed many blind persons in industry generally.

"The blinded persons coming to the attention of the Bureau of Rehabilitation have been chiefly those blinded by industrial accidents, usually with very limited education, little manual skill and heavy domestic responsibilities.

"There is probably not one blind person registered with the Bureau of Rehabilitation, who genuinely desired suitable training, that could be provided by the Bureau, who did not obtain the training with assistance from the Bureau.

"On the other hand, the Bureau has not had time nor resources to specialize in work for the blind nor to engage widely in inspirational work to persuade blinded persons to enter training, especially among the large group blinded by disease or from birth.

"The Bureau of Rehabilitation in its training for the blind has always used existing facilities. None of its workers professes to have any special skill in training of blinded persons. Excellent co-operation has been obtained from The Pennsylvania institution for the Instruction of the Blind and The Pennsylvania Association for the Blind.

"Only such blinded persons as may be considered susceptible to being returned to suitable remunerative employment can be considered by the Bureau of Rehabilitation under the law. The Bureau, having no funds for relief purposes, has no broad information on that phase of the problem.

"Blind persons under the care of any state or semi-state institution are specifically excluded from the services of the Rehabilitation Bureau by proviso in Section 4 of the Pennsylvania Rehabilitation Act of July 18, 1919, P. L. 1045. That proviso was evidently intended to prevent the Bureau of Rehabilitation from creating duplication of State effort, or expenditure of State appropriation in work for the blind.

"The Bureau of Rehabilitation must be of assistance to all types of physically handicapped persons. It must, therefore, with limited funds, provide service, necessary artificial appliances, and training for amputation and similar disability cases, who have relief from no other State appropriation, as well as be of service to the blind".

The work for the adult blind of the state towards which the state makes any contribution is comprehended in the work of the five organizations which have been described in the preceding paragraphs. With the exception of the Bureau of Rehabilitation of the Department of Labor and Industry each of these organizations receive material assistance from private funds. It would be an interesting study to ascertain what proportion of their support comes from private and what from public sources but the Commission has not found time to secure this information.

In a complete outline of the facilities available for the adult blind of Pennsylvania must be included the work of several private organizations. The Commission has been to considerable pains to endeavor to secure a complete list of organizations, public and private, including all voluntary committees who are working in any way for the blind of the state. This list will be found in the Appendix of this report together with such salient facts regarding each organization as are usually requested by workers for the blind.

In an effort to make the list complete and accurate the facts prepared have been submitted to each organization for criticism and approval before publication. Workers for the blind even have been surprised at the amount of constructive effort being made by these numerous volunteer organizations.

The limits of this report make impossible any more extended reference to the work of most of these organizations. Two of them, having been founded for the specific purpose of providing a Home for those who are in particular need of it, care for a small number of blind adults and for these reasons their work may be referred to here briefly.

The Pennsylvania Industrial Home for Blind Women was founded in Philadelphia in 1868 "to give a Home to those blind women for whom no other provision has been made." This Home is now rebuilding a portion of its plant. When completed they will have capacity for about 50 women. Inmates who become aged and infirm are cared for at the Home. Of the present enrollment of 43 about two-thirds are over 50 years of age, almost exactly one-half being over 60, and only about one-third within what may be considered the usual working ages of 20 and 50. All the able-bodied among them work five hours a day at various forms of fancy work, reseating chairs or weaving rugs.

One of the most recently organized efforts to provide for the aged blind is the Chapin Memorial Home for Aged Blind, founded in Philadelphia in 1906. This Home has capacity for 26, with facilities for caring for 21 women. Applicants may be of either sex and while they are not restricted as to residence the present policy is to give preference to applicants from Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware. The minimum age requirement for admission is 65 years.

These two Homes may fairly be considered as agencies for the relief of the aged and infirm and the needy blind, nearly all of them women, as the greater proportion of them are over 50 years of age.

While Pennsylvania has been one of the pioneer states to make some provision for the education of the blind with particular reference to its blind youth, the state has been slow to increase its appropriations in accord with the increased provisions that are being made generally throughout the United States for providing adequate opportunities for the education of the young blind and the training and employment of the capable adult blind.

Conspicuous from Colonial days for their charitable purposes the philanthropic citizens of the city and state that are so intimately associated with their founder, William Penn, have made generous provisions through their private benefactions for initiating and carrying on educational and philanthropic work for the blind. This willingness on the part of these citizens to devote a portion of their private wealth to so worthy a cause has relieved the state in part at least from feeling the responsibility that would otherwise have been recognized in a larger measure. Provisions from public funds in Pennsylvania have, therefore, continuously lagged behind those from private sources. The result has been that the combined sources from private and public funds have not kept pace with the recent rapid increases in the cost of providing education for the youthful blind, employment for the able-bodied, and care and maintenance for the aged and infirm blind.

That the friends of the blind of Pennsylvania have not been fully awake to the needs of the blind citizens of the Commonwealth may be clearly shown by comparison with four adjacent states, the condition of whose blind population is fairly comparable to those of Pennsylvania. For purposes of comparison there follows the estimated number of adult blind and the annual state appropriations made to provide for their training and employment. While each of these states makes some provision for relief for purposes of comparison this amount has been deducted from the state appropriations available for the adult blind. It is, however included later on in the report under the heading of relief.

State	Estimated Adult Blind Population	Amount Spent Annually by State
New Jersey	1,700	$ 46,476.56
New York	7,200	85,960.00
Massachusetts	3,500	160,693.32
Pennsylvania	5,600	32,500.00

The Commission recognizes the persistent and prolonged efforts to meet the needs of this group by which such pioneer organizations as The Pennsylvania Industrial Home for Blind Women, The Pennsylvania Working Home for Blind Men, The Pennsylvania Home Teaching Society and Free Circulating Library for the Blind, and the more recent efforts made by The Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind through its Salesroom and Exchange and The Pennsylvania Association for the Blind with its state-wide program, but all these organizations are handicapped and restricted in their efforts by lack of adequate funds and personnel. In consonance with the fundamental principles unanimously agreed upon at the outset by the Commission for all its studies and recommendations, viz. the most complete utilization possible of every existing agency for the blind, the Commission urges such increases in the funds, public and private, of these organizations as will enable them to expand their work along such conservatively progressive lines as successful experience dictates and to add such new opportunities as the exigencies of these blind citizens of the commonwealth demand. Provision of proper training for this group is their right; it is simple justice. The self-respecting blind want opportunity provided by a sympathetic understanding of their problems, not an unthinking pity that doles out charity.

OCCUPATIONS FOR THE BLIND

It has always been generally accepted abroad that blind people cannot usually become self-supporting by their own unaided efforts. As efforts to educate and employ the blind were made somewhat earlier in Europe than in the United States this view influenced all the earlier efforts for the blind in this country. All initial efforts in the United States, therefore, to provide remunerative employment for the blind proceeded on the assumption that all such employment must be subsidized and that it could be provided best by segregating the blind.

Accordingly as has been shown blind adults were brought together for maintenance and employment in Homes with factory features. Such establishments are commonly designated as "working homes." Among the occupations that have been attempted and still survive in various forms are the following:

Brush—making
Broom—making
Weaving rag carpets and rugs
Basketry—reed and willow of various kinds
Chair caning
Mop—making

Various other occupations have been tried in numerous centers throughout the United States, but they have been generally abandoned as impracticable for blind workers usually from the point of view of the costs of production.

All these efforts to provide employment in a shop or factory in which the operatives are all blind have usually resulted in financial loss. It has been demonstrated beyond question in this country that a group of blind workmen, employed at industries in which they must compete with the machine-made article, cannot produce goods in sufficient quantity or of a quality equal to those produced by the seeing workmen. As has frequently been stated the problem of blindness is complicated with other factors which lower physical energy and efficiency. The result is that, whereas a group of blind workmen who were normal in all other respects except the lack of sight might more nearly compete with seeing workmen in the quality and quantity of their output, this competition cannot be met by blind workmen whose efficiency in so many instances is so seriously lowered by physical and mental defects other than blindness. It has resulted in practice that these enterprises have been kept going in many instances only by subsidizing them either by income from private sources or from state and municipal appropriations or by both.

Under these conditions it has usually happened that a modicum of productive power has been merged with a problem that is predominantly one of relief. A careful analysis of cost and income usually shows conclusively that a very small income is received from labor and that a very large increment in income must be procured from private and public sources of revenue.

The Minnesota Commission for the Blind which submitted its report in January, 1923, made these significant statements on the subject of "Occupation and Training".

"In order to attain self-support, it is desirable that the occupations for the blind should be relatively stable. Activities which are becoming obsolete should be avoided, and only those chosen for which there will be a continued demand.—A tendency to huddle them into a few vocations is a segregating tendency and makes them abnormal.

"The present scope of occupations open to the blind is unduly narrow. In Minnesota these consist of the traditional handicrafts (basketry, weaving and chair-caning), broom factory operation, salesmanship, usually of the canvassing variety, piano tunning, massage and dictaphone work to a very limited extent, a very few factory operations and a number of professions, such as teaching, music, elocution, authorship and law.

"The traditional handicrafts are tending to become obsolete. In the main the factory method of production is rendering competition difficult. The widespread adoption of basketry as an occupational therapy measure is also having a tendency to flood the market with such products. Chair-caning is still profitable when it can be done through a special workshop for the blind, and when it deals with large orders only. Whenever the business becomes one of collecting, repairing and returning small orders of chair-caning, it ceases to be profitable.

"Factory employment for the blind in a considerable number of specialized processes is quite feasible.—The special study conducted in 1922 by the State Division of Re-Education showed that ninety processes were feasible for the blind, most of which were or could be constituted as a particular job".

"These processes were distributed among the following 17 kinds of industries:

Small machine parts shops	19
Paper box factories	5
Knitting works	9
Automobile body building and repair shops	6
Novelty advertising companies	4
Electric light globe factory	1
Wooden box factories	2
Paper and cloth bag manufacturers	3
Manufacturers of clocks and chimes	6
Manufacturers of candies	6
Coffee companies	8
Cigar manufacturers	1
Wholesale hardware companies	6
Bed manufacturers	2
Flour mills	2
Linen supply companies	3
Food manufacturing companies	7

In the study of 500 former pupils (235 girls, 265 boys) of The Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind, published in June, 1924, under the title "What Can the Blind Do?" the question of the occupations of these former pupils was studied with particular care. The women were following 22, the men 40, rather distinctive occupations. These occupations ranged all the way between the simpler occupations of the home in which the women could give substantial help, to responsible administrative positions and professions.

An analysis of these occupations emphasizes the principle now generally accepted by the more progressive workers for the blind that the field of employment for the blind is altogether too restricted and that employment can be found for them in a variety of forms that have never been thought to be available.

A few illustrative cases will emphasize the truth of this statement.

Blind Salesmen Selling Brooms. "Our books show thousands of dollars paid in Commissions to more than 30 blind people for selling brooms and mops made by the workers in the Pittsburgh Workshop proper. Among the more capable of our salesmen is Mr.—. He was born and educated in Pittsburgh. Later he took a course in connection with the Chicago Correspondence School of Law. He was a clerk with a steel corporation for upwards of twenty years. Towards the close of this time his eyes, which had always been weak, failed entirely but, all undaunted he took up salesmanship as a means of livelihood. He has for eleven years past been actively engaged in the sale of magazines of all varieties, as well as of our brooms and mops. He is the sole support of an aged mother."*

Book Bindery. "One young man not many years blind, after a year at Perkins Institute, was placed with a bank book company, where he has tried successfully several of the bindery processes, and is at present (year ending November 30, 1920) earning on piecework $21.00 a week as interleafer. Although he does not see at all, he gets to and from his work alone, and is a useful part of his employer's force."†

Employment Bureau for Domestics. "An illustration of independent effort is shown by Miss D.— a delicate but ambitious young lady, who has opened and is now conducting an employment bureau for domestics in her own home, a business venture never before undertaken by any of our blind in this state (Massachusetts), and one of the very few lines of home industry offering profitable returns."††

Rehabilitation of an Adult Losing Sight after School Age. "Mr. N—lost his sight between the ages of 20 and 30 years and, not knowing what else to do, faced the "heart breaking" prospect of separation from his wife and family and going to a working Home. Through the financial and moral support of Mr. Delfino, the blind field agent of The Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind, he was encouraged to start a rug-weaving business in his own home. This was fifteen years ago. To-day, he is rehabilitated, lives a normal family life, and is on a fair way to success. He says it has meant a constant fight, and continuous work on his part. He gives due credit to the devoted help of his wife and to the supervision of Mr. Delfino and others who have made it possible for him to "carry-on."

Mr. N—wishes that the state would pay $1.00 per day, or allow a working capital to enable and to encourage blind persons to carry on occupations at home whereby they may earn a living wage and support for themselves and their families.

As state and municipality make liberal grants to blind workers segregated for employment and oftentimes for maintenance and support, why should not small sums be granted to individual blind workers struggling to maintain their economic and social independence? Why not supply from public funds that little necessary aid which will be the difference between success and failure to the struggling blind worker? He is doing his best, why not give him a helping hand? Just because he shows a willingness to work, why stand aside and let him work himself to death? Help is given sometimes to those who can't or even won't work; why withhold the little aid from the self-respecting and eager worker?

Dictaphone. "The future of the dictaphone operator without sight offers all the possibilities and promise of the open door.—Given a person of well rounded education, sound business training, and without sight, you have concentrated efficiency in the transcriber—"without sight" because the chances of distraction for the blind person with ears harnessed to a dictaphone are at nothing compared to the countless claims on the eye and, as often as not, on the ear and tongue of the operator "handicapped" with sight, because the blind person's coordination of ear, brain, and finger is from very necessity unusually well developed."

Assorting String. The work of assorting string was begun in Philadelphia in 1918 as an experiment. The strings are assorted according to length and are tied in three places in readiness for making into mops. The string is delivered to the home of the blind worker and returned to the factory by the delivery system of the organization without expense to the worker. This occupation possesses the two-fold advantage of simplicity of operation and no capital investment.

"That three totally blind men of very mediocre attainments were able to earn $1,840.74 during a year by assorting 73,521 pounds of string—one of whom earned $1,141.92 by assorting 45,671 pounds—enforces anew the truth that diligent search for employment for blind people in their homes by those who have an exact knowledge alike of the limitations of the blind employee and of his capabilities, will surely open up new avenues for employment."*

These illustrations can easily be multiplied but they are sufficient to establish the soundness of the principle that diligent search by the sane and earnest worker for the blind will be rewarded by the opening of new channels for the individual blind person. Constant effort should be made to discover such opportunities among those who see as will enable the blind worker to remain wherever possible with his family and in the community of which he has been and should continue to be a social unit.

RELIEF

It is significant commentary upon the comparative earning power of seeing and blind people and of the urgent need for financial assistance for many of the blind that England, which grants poor relief to seeing people after 70 years of age, has reduced this minimum age limit to 50 in the case of blind.

Earlier in this report attention has been directed to the fact that approximately 50% of the blind are over 60 years of age. Approximately 14% are between 50 and 60. Accepting these figures as representative there are in Pennsylvania approximately 4,000 or nearly two-thirds of the total blind population of the state, who are over 50 years of age. A large number of these are known not to be in need of relief in any form. An unknown proportion of them are in dire need. Add to this the numbers between 20 and 50 years of age who are for various reasons unable to support themselves and there results a very considerable number of the blind population of the state who need and deserve capacity is less than $300 per year or whose entire income does not exceed that amount would generally be regarded as in need of financial assistance.

Numerous plans have been made to meet these needs, the financial assistance being variously designated as relief, pensions, subsidies, assistance, etc.

"This grant is popularly known as a 'pension.' The term probably grew out of its analogy to the quarterly pensions allowed to former soldiers. But a pension is paid in recognition of a past service; whereas the so-called state and county 'blind pensions' authorized by the various commonwealths of this country are in reality a specialized kind of poor relief and are usually so termed in the laws."*

At least seventeen states have made provision for relief in some form; all except Ohio having made this provision since 1900 and fourteen since 1910. The casual observer must be impressed by the fact that the movement in response to the demands for financial assistance in cases of needy blind people has been extremely rapid during the past fifteen years.

Students of the problem of relief of the blind should be reminded of the fact that during this same period there have been developed in the United States new principles of relieving poverty and special conditions and new methods of applying relief. A number of states, among them Pennsylvania, have already provided by legal enactment relief in the form of "Mothers' Assistance" and "Old Age Pensions", though the latter has recently been declared unconstitutional in Pennsylvania. The movement, therefore, toward special forms of relief to supplement the efforts of the worthy and needy in general. To the careful student and observer of the trend of the times in the special field of the blind it is obvious that relief in some form or other is bound to come and that soon.

It is the earnest desire of workers for the blind in Pennsylvania that a wise plan of relief for this needy and worthy group of our citizens shall be formulated and projected immediately. The Commisison has, therefore, given considerable time to the gathering of information as to what has been attempted elsewhere and with what results.

The latest available information, secured from various sources, official and unofficial, is believed to represent the facts with reasonable accuracy.

New Jersey with a blind population of 1,075 (United States census 1920)—an estimated population of 1,800 (New Jersey Commission for the Blind)—last year granted relief to thirty-nine individuals, the maximum amount of relief in any case being $300, at a total cost of $5,360.66. One provision of the New Jersey law is unique in that an applicant is required "to make a return in service equal in value to the amount paid him or her; providing, in the judgment of the Board of Managers, that the applicant be physically or otherwise able to do such work." Relief is given by the Counties. The Commission estimates that one hundred blind persons will be eligible for relief during the current year, that is about 5½% of the estimated blind population.

Colorado with a blind population of 706 (United States census 1920) an estimated population of 1,200 makes a maximum annual individual grant of $300. It requires only three years' residence in the state, two years in the county. In 1922, 1,017 persons were on the pension list at a cost to the state of $293,710, an annual per capita cost of $288. In 1922 Colorado granted pensions to 311, or 44%, more persons than the census enumerators returned as blind in 1920. If the number be 1,200 even then five-sixths were recipients of the State's "pension." This situation may be due to the moving into Colorado from neighboring states, particularly New Mexico, of blind people in order to take advantage of the relief. This condition will undoubtedly be corrected by a material increase in the term of residence required to be eligible for relief. Investigation is made by county officials and relief is shared equally by county and state.

Missouri with a blind population of 2,226 (United States census 1920)—an estimated population of 3,800—grants $300 to each eligible applicant for the pension. It is officially stated that last year "more than 6,000 people made application for blind pensions and about one-half of the number were granted pensions." This means that with a blind population, returned only slightly in excess of 2,000 which is estimated to be only a little less than 4,000, approximately 3,000 persons were granted pensions. As $940,000 was spent in one year for the relief of these blind persons the number must be substantially correct. The State Board of Control administers this law. It is officially stated that 20% of the blindness was caused by trachoma, a situation that has been met by prompt action of the State Board of Health with a large decrease in the number of victims of this highly contagious eye disease. Investigation is made by the State Commission and relief is paid by the state.

Ohio with a blind population of 3,872 (United States census 1920)—an estimated population of 6,000—is granting relief to approximately 4,000, that is to a number slightly in excess of the number returned blind and two-thirds of the estimated number of blind citizens, at an anual cost of $400,000. Investigation is made by County Commissioners and relief is paid by the counties. Children in the School for the Blind are recipients of this pension to meet the cost of clothing and travel.

Massachusetts with a blind population of 2,589 (United States census 1920)—an estimated population of 3,900—(State Commission for the Blind)—grants a maximum of $360 per year. Investigations are made by the State Commission, the amount of award is determined by them and the relief is paid by the state. The average per capita grant for 1923 was about $144 per year. The appropriation for 1924 is for $115,000 to meet the estimated needs of from 700 to 800 beneficiaries.

New York with a blind population of 4,205 (United States census 1920)—an estimated population of 8,001 (New York State Commission for the Blind—grants a maximum amount of relief of $300. Investigations are made by the State Commission for the Blind which makes recommendations as to the need and amount of relief. New York's revised law is so recent that no figures are available as to numbers or cost.

It was unnecessary to multiply examples or to go into further detail as to methods that obtain in the remaining eleven states which have so far provided relief for the blind The six states selected are fairly illustrative of the entire number. The information, gathered by the Commission concerning the laws in the seventeen states now granting relief in some form, points out clearly the fundamental principles that must underlie an adequate and economically sound law, granting relief to needy blind persons.

These fundamental principles are:

1. Application should be made to one central bureau.
2. Investigations should be made by an investigator, trained and experienced in the special field of blindness.
3. Relief should be granted only to persons blind within the generally accepted definition of blindness; i. e., the possession of less than one-tenth normal vision in the better eye; this to be determined by a competent eye specialist..
4. All blind persons having an annual income in excess of $360 shall be ineligibel.
5. Five years' residence in the state or loss of vision while living in the state prior to the passage of the relief law.
6. No vicious blind person or mendicant shall be eligible for relief.
7. No person shall be eligible for relief who is suffering from any mental or physical infirmity which in itself would make him a charge upon any other institution or agency and which has so incapacitated him prior to the loss of sight that he was a public charge prior thereto.
8. The amount of relief should be graduated in accordance with the actual need and it should be so administered as to spur the recipient to the largest possible amount of self-help.

The Commission does not encourage the establishment of new institutions for the care of the adult blind since they believe that as a general rule the blind person is better off and can be better served if he lives with the seeing, either in his own home or with relations or if there is no one responsible for his care, in a good private home or in an institution for the seeing.

Nor does the Commission feel that Pennsylvania should follow the lead of a state that is expending a quarter million, a half million, or as in one instance nearly a million dollars annually for the relief of its needy blind. There is, however, need for an immediate beginning of a conservative program to make available comparatively small amounts to aid the blind person and his family struggling heroically against the fearful odds which blindness, ill-health and poverty impose.

It is impossible to say what portion of Pennsylvania's estimated 6,228 blind are in dire need of this assistance. Surely not 100% of the number as has appeared in some states whose operation of relief system the Commission has studied: Massachusetts is affording relief in varying amounts, in no case exceeding $360 annually, to approximately 20% of its blind people on an appropriation of $115,000 a year. Connecticut with the same maximum amount for individuals, is affording relief to 7% of its blind population for approximately $7,000 a year. New Jersey with a maximum annual limit of $300 to 2% of its population for a little over $5,000 a year.

The Commission suggests that 5% of its estimated 6,228 persons, or 311, is a very conservative estimate of the number in need of relief. Relief should be made available where necessary for this small number of our blind citizens in the maximum amount of $360. A creditable beginning in the solution of this difficult and important problem could be begun by making an annual grant of $75,000.

Under Pennsylvania's law the Commission believes this provision must be made by the counties.

MENDICANCY AMONG THE BLIND

The Commission has not made any extended study into the question of the number of blind beggars. It bases its statements upon the experience and observation of workers for the blind and the seeing in various parts of the United States. The problem of mendicancy among the blind is a perplexing one. Its solution demands unanimity of action, persistence and tenacity of purpose among workers for the blind and social agencies, with provision for the training, employment, and relief of the blind, and a state-wide sustained campaign for the enforcement of the laws against begging.

Blind beggers may be divided into two groups.

1. The larger group, or those begging because it is more profitable than work and less strenuous. These need opportunity for work, and compulsory employment suitable to their ability.
2. Another small group is made up of the helpless, aged, decrepit, and destitute. These need custodial care and suitable provisions for their relief.

There is need of educating the general public and public officials to secure the enforcement of existing laws which we believe are adequate.

The Commission suggests that the following steps be taken in conjunction with other plans put forth by it in improving the conditions of the blind in the state:

1. Adequate provision for training, opportunity to work, and subsidized employment wherever necessary.
2. Unity of action among workers for the blind in protesting and denouncing mendicancy, so injurious to the individual and so detrimental to the welfare of the blind in general.
3. An agreement among all the instutions for the blind —educational, custodial, and industrial—that they will not tolerate mendicancy in any individual with whom they deal; the penalty of mendicancy so discovered should be instant separation from the institution or organization. While there is some difference of opinion on this point among the seeing, there is absolute unanimity upon it among the self-respecting blind.
4. Adequate relief measures for the aged, the infirm, and the destitute blind.

Until these fundamental principles have been complied with there can be little improvement in this matter that so vitally concerns the social well-being of the self-respecting blind. At frequent intervals along the most crowded thoroughfares of our great centers of population the sight of the blind mendicant makes its continuous appeal to maudlin sympathy and is as repulsive to the eye of the thoughtful citizen and philanthropist as are the strident sounds of his voice, fiddle or accordion to the keen and discerning ear of the self-respecting blind who may chance his way. Some of these have resorted to begging because they have been denied an opportunity to be trained after loss of sight for some remunerative employment Others, lacking character and self-respect, are there from choice. Training and employment will solve the problem of the first group which is the larger one, containing as it does the more self-respecting blind; the work house, jail and penitentiary supply the only solution of the problems presented by the second group.

The problem of the blind mendicant is, however, only one phase of the whole problem of mendicancy. The mistake has sometimes been made by well-meaning workers for the blind of proceeding against blind mendicants as a class without reference to that larger number of mendicants who see. This is grossly unfair to the blind. Mendicancy among the blind can be dealt with fairly and successfully only by regarding it as one phase of a difficult social and economic problem which has never been solved and to whose solution the economist, social worker and educator must address his most serious thought. A sane program generally adopted and backed by an aroused and persistent public sentiment will supply the only solution of this old and vexatious problem.

CUSTODIAL CARE FOR THE BLIND FEEBLE-MINDED

So far as we are able to learn no systematic provision has been made in this coutry or abroad for the feeble-minded who are also blind. Fortunately their number is small in comparison with the feeble-minded who see. Their need of custodial care is, however, in inverse ratio to their number. If the seeing feeble-minded child needs custodial care, how much greater the need of the blind feeble-minded child! If the seeing feeble-minded woman of child-bearing age needs the protecting care of an institution home, how much greater is the need of such care in the case of the blind feeble-minded woman!

The schools for the education of the blind do not intend to receive the feeble-minded but for various reasons such children gain admission temporarily; and as the chasm is a narrow one between the feeble-minded and the extremely backward blind child whose training has been wholly neglected by parents who are ignorant or who are helpless before the stupendous problem which confronts them, these pupils are sometimes retained in the schools for a short time to discover to what extent they will respond to training.

As the primary defect in the case of the blind feeble-minded is feeble-mindedness and the blindness is only incidental, the blind feeble-minded clearly belong in an institution for the feeble-minded, not in a school for the education of the young blind, or in a workshop or industrial home for the adult blind.

Accepting this principle as fundamental, the Committee to Survey the Activities for the Blind of the State of Pennsylvania appointed by Governor Brumbaugh in December, 1916, to make a survey of the provisions at that time for the blind of the Commonwealth, "a study of their future needs, and the best methods of meeting those needs," conferred with the superintendents of the institutions for the feeble-minded at Polk, Elwyn, and Pennhurst, with the view to persuading them to receive on trial a small group of about ten blind feeble-minded children.

The usual point of view of the management of these institutions for the feeble-minded is that the initial step towards caring for the blind feeble-minded is to provide separate buildings for them. While this may be found to be necessary as the plans develop for caring for these doubly-handicapped children, this Commission believes that an excellent beginning might be made by providing for a group not to exceed ten such children in each of the institutions for the feeble-minded. With an addition of $100 to the usual per capita appropriation for a group of ten—a gross appropriation of $1000 in excess of the normal appropriation— a teacher-attendant who is familiar with the methods employed in training the blind can be employed and the necessary small amount of special equipment can be procured. Two of the three superintendents expressed a willingness to try the experiment if the funds were provided.

We recommended that a special appropriation of $1000 per annum in excess of the usual appropriation for the pupils be made to the institutions at Polk and Pennhurst in order to give the plan a trial. If our recommendation is approved, Pennsylvania will be the first state of the Union to take a forward step toward the solution of a problem which, though not extensive, is one of the most perplexing with which workers with the blind have to deal.

Two or three illustrative cases, selected at random from numerous similar cases, will make the problem clearer and emphasize the importance of the adoption of a constructive program for its solution.

C. B. entered a residential school for the blind at ten years of age. After two years of patient inidvidual instruction he was unable to read or to do the simplest number work. Having exceedingly poor use of his hands he finally learned to dress himself, but was unable to tie his shoes. His failure was due to lack of ability for he tried very hard though he accomplished so little. This boy seldom talked and was not troublesome, but he took the place of a child who is teachable and a school for the blind is not the proper place for him. His home conditions are unfavorable. What is the duty of the state toward a twelve year old boy of such low mentality that he must always be cared for and protected?

M. M., a totally blind seven-year old girl, entered the kindergarten group at a residential school for the blind. She was an extremely backward untutored child, unable to dress, wash or feed herself without considerable assistance. From the time she got up until she went to bed she whistled or sang. During her three years in school attempts to teach her were made by five teachers, four seeing and one blind, and by three housemothers. In spite of all this individual attention she made very little progress. It was a long time before she could string beads or find the holes to put pegs in in the kintergarten work. Beyond these elementary manual occupations she could not go. She has objectionable sex habits and constant swaying motion of the body and frequently displays a violent temper. She can memorize very well, but so poor is the co-ordination between her brain and muscles that she was unable to learn to write or read embossed type. Her parents are very poor and a benevolent individual clothed her and contributed something toward her tuition. All her life she must be cared for either by her family or by the state. As she approaches child-bearing age shall she be left to the care of parents who do not appreciate the seriousness of her problem or shall the state protect itself by protecting this girl?

F. W. entered kindergarten when four and one-half years of age. For four years she received the individual attention given each child in the school and family life. At the end of this time she still needed assistance in dressing. She learned to string beads following dictation, but was unable to learn to read and write. Her habit movements became more pronounced and she was, therefore, a great disadvantage to her associates. She was discharged because it had been proven that she was unable to progress with the other pupils.

Twelve years later one of her former teachers met her during the summer vacation and urged that the girl be given another trial among the older girls. Her home was no place for her as her stepmother was very unkind to her. Of very unprepossessing appearance, untruthful and unmoral rather than immoral her one little talent was the ability to memorize and recite fairly well. For two years she received special and much of the time individual instruction with particular emphasis on hand work. As she had very poor use of her hands she could learn but little in a manual way. Even the wash cloths that she learned to knit were not well enough done to be salable. As it was evident that the school could do no more for her she was discharged. As her home is so unsuitable she needs institutional care. With her limitations unquestionably she could be cared for in the appropriate group in an institution for the feeble-minded.

THE DEAF-BLIND

A small but very needy and deserving group of blind people represented in every state in the Union is made up of those who have the double handicap of blindness and deafness. The cases of Laura Bridgman and Helen Keller are most widely known. Their accomplishments emphasize the possibilities for the training and development of the mind when the two most commonly used avenues of instruction have been closed. These two women have proven what patience and perseverance can accomplish against such fearful odds.

Laura Bridgman's entire education was institutional, she having been taught at the Perkins Institution for the Blind under the direction of Dr. Samuel Gridley Howe.

Helen Keller's training, begun at her home under a special teacher, was later undertaken for a short time at the same institution where Laura Bridgman received her training. However, as is well known Miss Keller's education has been secured chiefly through the devoted personal assistance of her teacher-companion, Mrs. Anne Sullivan Macy.

The education of other deaf-blind girls and boys has been undertaken in various parts of the country. At least three such pupils are now under instruction in this state at the Pennsylvania Institution for the Deaf at Mt. Airy for each of whom the state appropriates $1,000 per annum.

As the cases of Laura Bridgman and Helen Keller demonstrate, the deaf-blind can be successfully trained either in a residential school or under the individual instruction of one who knows the special methods needed and who has the personal devotion that is essential for success.

In the majority of cases, for financial and other reasons, the training of these pupils is generally provided in residential schools. Whether these should be schools for the deaf or schools for the blind is a moot question. The Commission has secured the opinions on this point of the superintendents of the two largest schools for the deaf in this state; of three superintendents of so-called "dual" schools, i.e., schools in which both the deaf and the blind are taught under the same management though never in the same classes; and from two superintendents of schools for the blind. The superintendent of a leading school for the deaf, who is very familiar with the problem, thinks that these doubly handicapped children can be trained best and at least cost in a school for the blind. The two superintendents of the schools for the blind agree with this view though one suggests the possible use of both schools for the deaf and schools for the blind to "round out education and take care of varying conditions". The three superintendents of dual schools strongly favor schools for the deaf.

There is, however, general agreement on one necessary principle involved, i.e., that whether this instruction be provided in the school for the blind or in the school for the deaf, from $1,000 to $1,200 a year for each deaf-blind pupil must be supplied from private or public sources because such instruction must be entirely individual.

EMBOSSED LITERATURE.

One of the most perplexing problems in work for the blind is the production of embossed textbooks and litterature to meet the need of the student and to provide reading material for the leisure hours of the student and the adult.

The production of embossed books is extremely costly and time-consuming. An illustration will enforce the truth of this statement. A copy of the Bible in ordinary type, bound in leather, gold edge, can be procured for $1.75. The least bulky and costly edition in embossed form makes eleven large-size volumes which can be purchased for $39. In another embossed type, the Bible makes nineteen such volumes, costing $90, while the most bulky embossed form requires 58 volumes which cost $273. These prices do not, however, represent the actual costs of production, for the American Bible Society has largely underwritten the cost and is therefore able to supply the Bible in these three embossed types at a price that is but nominal in comparison with the actual cost of production.

The recent rapidly developing movement to combine the educational facilities of the residential school for the blind and those of the community in which it is situated and the rapidly increasing number of students attending high schools, colleges, universities, and professional schools are making largely increased demands for embossed literature—demands that the embossing presses of the country cannot possibly meet.

To meet this demand there is being developed throughout the country groups of women who are learning the embossed type in order to be able to provide hand written material for individual students and readers. The Southeastern Pennsylvania Chapter of the American Red Cross reported that for the last year for which statistics were available 151 pupils were working in classes at Chapter Headquarters in a Y. W. C. A. center, in a Junior High School in Philadelphia, and in five suburbs of the city. The War Mothers' Association, too, has undertaken this work. This organization produced during the year 1,781 pages of embossed literature in a variety of forms. The Junior League of Philadelphia has also developed a few capable transcribers and numerous Women's Clubs of which the Pocahontas Club of Pittsburgh is an illustration are interesting themselves in this constructive work for the blind.

One of the most helpful organizations, national in scope, that has undertaken to increase the supply of embossed literature is the Lions Clubs.

"The recent interest which the Lions Clubs in various parts of this country have taken in the welfare of blind children has attracted the attention of workers for the blind to these organizations.

The purpose of these clubs is primarily social. At their luncheon meetings they usually have a speaker with a message of general or special interest. They have found that they thrive best when they have some altruistic project. The Rotarians for example quite generally interest themselves in crippled children. Each Lions Club has a welfare committee but the interest is quite varied. In some communities it is the Girl Scouts, in others it is the Boy Scouts and in still other it is undernourished children who have enlisted the club's aid.

In several cities welfare work for blind children has been undertaken. Conspicuous examples of this are the work for the blind children carried on by the Lions Clubs in Cincinnati and Youngstown, Ohio. In these cities the welfare committee has worked very closely with those in charge of classes for the blind in public schools. They have supplemented the work of the schools in such ways as the teachers suggest. In Cincinnati and Youngstown the annual budgets for this purpose have run into four figures.

About Christmas time last year the Lions Club of Cincinnati undertook to finance for six months a Braille juvenile magazine for blind children. This magazine was sent free to every blind child in Ohio interested in receiving such a publication. In June, the State Convention of Lions Clubs held in Akron, Ohio, undertook to assume the financial support of this Braille magazine.

A movement is now on foot in certain states to induce the International Organization of Lions Clubs to adopt welfare work for blind children as a special interest of this organization. Workers for the blind might help materially in this movement by stimulating the interest of their local Lions Club in the welfare for blind children of the community".*

To the handicap which blindness imposes upon the student and the interested reader there is added the additional handicap of serious lack of textbooks and general literature in embossed form. Justice calls for minimizing the additional handicap which this lack of literature imposes. As the need becomes more widely known the helpful response will be more general, and the needs of these earnest and determined students and readers will surely be met.

TRANSPORTATION OF BLIND PERSONS.

With the loss of sight comes a loss of a measure of independence and because of dependency on a guide, to take one instance, comes an increase in expense. Because of his guide it costs a blind person double what it costs a seeing person to travel on a trolley, train, or boat. It would give a person pause for thought if every time he went anywhere his fare would cost twice the regulation rates. Nor is this all for usually the guide whose fare must be counted in the cost of the trip needs also to be paid for his services and time. In the majority of cases when sight is lost the earning capacity of the individual is reduced whereas the expenses are multiplied. What can the state and community do to equalize these conditions and give the blind the same opportunity as the seeing instead of increasing his handicap of blindness by the handicap of additional expense?

The Pennsylvania Railroad System in reply to our inquiry as to conditions under which blind persons with their guides could secure reduced faress stated, "For certain blind charitable organizations regularly listed by tariff publications we grant half fare to blind persons between all points on the Pennsylvania Railroad System except that such arrangement does not apply within the state of Pennsylvania which is governed by state law, it being necessary for such persons to pay full tariff fare".

A ruling upon this question involved in the transportation of blind persons and their guides has been made by the State Public Service Commission to the affect that the State Constitution expressly forbids such concessions. (See Appendix)

CO-ORDINATION OF EXISTING AGENCIES FOR THE BLIND.

The voluntary organization in January, 1923, of the Council for the Blind, heartily entered into by the organizations for the blind in the state is concrete evidence of the cordial feeling and earnest desire that exists among all these organizations to co-operate in every possible way for the benefit of the blind of Pennsylvania.

It was the purpose of the Council to meet at regular intervals and develop plans for the complete co-ordination of the activities for the blind in the state and for the elimination of duplication of effort. The Council held several meetings, but discontinued when the law was enacted which created the Commission to Study Conditions Relating to Blind Persons in Pennsylvania.

One of the most important functions of the State Council for the Blind which the Commission has decided to recommend will be the more complete co-ordination of the work of these existing agencies, the elimination of such duplication of effort as still exists, and the more efficient functioning of each organization in its special field.

It has, for example, been discovered by the Commission in its studies that in one of the admittedly leading eye hospitals of the city there is no provision for referring cases of blindness when treatments are no longer necessary or effective to the proper agency. A small sum of money would provide a social worker to see that every case of blindness was immediately registered with the central office which the Commission proposes.

Such registration would also prevent a lot of unnecessary correspondence about a single case by several organizations, each anxious to aid the blind person but unaware of the fact that another organization is working upon the case.

THE AMERICAN FOUNDATION FOR THE BLIND, INC.

The slogan of the Foundation "Nation Wide Service for the Blind" indicates in a broad way the purpose of this national organization. It is the purpose of this Foundation to bring together the workers for the blind and to help to meet their needs; to operate as a clearing house which extends nation-wide service and co-operation to all existing agencies which serve the blind or partially blind; to initiate movements to establish associations throughout the states and to assist informing state commissions and other agencies for the furtherance of which the Foundation will study and report upon the best methods of management and organization.

The Foundation was established January 1, 1923, with headquarters at 41 Union Square West, New York, N. Y., and functions under three bureaus: The Bureau of Information and Publicity, The Bureau of Research, and The Bureau of Education.

The Foundation among its numerous endeavors plans to undertake a survey of occupations open to the blind, to make a compilation of occupations being undertaken by the blind in which they are successful both in America and abroad and to disseminate this knowledge to all agencies in the various states.

The Bureau of Education will aim to discover the best methods for teacher training and to help to institute courses for this work.

The Foundation also publishes the Outlook for the Blind. This magazine is a fraternizing agent through which the workers for the blind can frankly discuss their problems, explain their activities, and report their progress.

The Foundation plans to assemble a reference library of domestic and foreign books and periodicals relating to work for the blind.

The Foundation is now engaged in a nation-wide effort to secure an endowment the income of which shall be used for the development of its plans and purposes. Miss Keller and her teacher-companion, Mrs. Macy, have selected this as the crowning service of their life work. The fund has been designated as the Helen Keller Endowment Fund of the American Foundation for the Blind. This national organization is the incorporation in practical form of ideals for which workers for the blind in America have been striving for years. The World War gave a new impetus to this movement; those workers for the blind who know best the problems and who have a vision as to their solution welcome such an organization for nationwide service as The American Foundation for the Blind.

RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE COMMISSION FOR A STATE-WIDE PROGRAM FOR THE BLIND OF PENNSYLVANIA.

In compliance with the Act by which it was created the Commission recommends the following comprehensive program for the blind of the Commonwealth to make their "treatment, care, progress, and welfare"—comparable with the most approved methods and practice.

Sec. 1. The creation of a State "Council for the Blind" to be composed of seven members, three ex-officio, representing the Departments of Health, Public Instruction, and Labor and Industry, and four to be appointed by the Governor, no appointee to be an employee of any institution or agency for the blind.

The functions of the Council shall be:

a. To develop a state policy and program for the blind in Pennsylvania.
b. To receive and to act upon suggestions from any source in regard to legislation approval or disapproval of private agencies, or any other aspects of work for the blind.
c. To serve as a channel of communication with commissions or other agencies in other states.
d. To adopt standards, rules, regulations, etc., in matters pertaining to the blind not covered by existing legislation.
e. To pass upon budgets for all agencies for the blind except those already functioning the Department of Public Instruction.

This Council shall hold four stated meetings each year and such special meetings as may seem necessary or desirable.

Sec. 2. The organization of a "Bureau for the Blind" in any state department. This Bureau is to be a co-ordinating agency; the necessary staff, full-time state employees.

The functions of the Bureau shall be as follows:

a. To co-ordinate the activities of all agencies in the state for work with the blind.
b. To supervise the activities of agencies not now allocated to other bureaus or departments.
(Note:—It does not seem wise to suggest legislation at this time, giving this or any other private or state agency any more power of supervision of private agencies than that already given by law to the Department under which this Bureau will function. The co-ordination of effort, the prevention of duplication of work and the carrying out of new policies should be brought about by suggestion.)
c. To serve as a confidential exchange or registration office for cases handled by all agencies. These agencies should be asked to report each case of blindness in the Commonwealth to this Bureau. Also to collect statistics in regard to the blind persons in the state.
d. To keep a complete list of all agencies dealing with the blind and to serve as a clearing house of information in regard to them.
e. To direct to the proper agency any case of blindness or problem relating to the blind.
f. To carry on work for the blind that cannot be better done by some other agency.

It seems to the Commission that this type of organization would be acceptable to the private agencies concerned, that it has in its conception possibilities of growth and development not foreseen by the Commission.

Sec. 3. A complete plan for the development of work for the blind in Pennsylvania under the direction of public and private organizations should include the following:

a. The prevention of blindness.
b. Investigation and guidance. Every case of blindness should be promptly investigated, such advice and guidance as may apply to the case should be given, and each case should be assigned to the agency best equipped to handle it.
c. Preliminary training, equipment and placement. This contemplates a thorough, intensive, and inspirational course of training by the proper agency, the placing of the trained blind worker in employment among the seeing in accordance with his abilities, or his establishment in that individual enterprise for which he is best adapted.
d. Home teaching and training. This contemplates instruction of blind people in their homes in embossed reading, typewriting, handicrafts, and in any occupation that may contribute toward their economic, intellectual, and social betterment.
e. Subsidized employment. The majority of the adult blind can never be self supporting. An unknown but a fair percentage of these are able and willing workers who, under sympathetic guidance, can make material contributions toward their support. Experience has proven that the earnings of the individuals of this group must be subsidized in amounts varying according to the ability and determination of the individual. Whether working in segregated groups, in individual enterprises or as home workers, a portion of the overhead expense must be borne either by public or private philanthropy in order to insure the blind person a living.
The total amount of this subsidy may not be materially less than the cost of maintaining this willing but less capable worker in complete idleness, but the gain in self-respect and in every other way is commensurate with the cost. A plan of subsidizing the earnings, graded according to the earnings of the workers should be a part of the plans for future development.
f. Sales, soliciting and marketing. Provisions should also be made for the active solicitation of business of all kinds for the blind, such as piano tuning, music teaching, professional engagements, and the various parts of handicraft, and to assist in marketing the products of the blind workers.
g. The Commission does not favor the establishment of new institutions for the care of the adult blind, but recommends rather the development of a program by which the counties supply the necessary relief to supplement the earnings of the individual blind person and those of his family.

The development of the program, however, the Commission believes should be delegated to the Council for the Blind for further study as to actual conditions and needs.

Sec. 4. Adoption by the state of a definite policy for the education of its youthful blind. This policy should assure provision by the School Districts, supplemented by Legislative appropriation, of sufficient funds to enable the State to buy education on a per capita basis at cost.

As the State in recent years has been providing only about one-half the cost of educating its blind pupils, the adoption of this policy would require an 80% increase in the biennial appropriations of the Legislature and acceptance by the School Districts of their full responsibility. While this increase seems large, it is necessary now because the State has not in recent years increased its appropriations commensurately with increased costs due to depreciated currency and increased population; an annual per capita of $750. would purchase good educational service at present costs, and Pennsylvania would still be educating its blind youth at less cost than several equally wealthy States.

Sec. 5. The establishment of classes for the conservation of vision in all School Districts of the State having a school population in excess of 5,000, and wherever possible joint arrangements for adjacent School Districts whose school populations separately are too small to warrant the establishment of a special class in the District.

Sec. 6. That feeble-minded children who are blind should be regularly admitted at the Pennhurst State School and the Polk State School, and that adequate provision should be made for the accommodation of all those who are approved for admission or are committed by court. Those of the blind feeble-minded who are educable should have instruction, under a person trained in the education of the feeble-minded and the blind, either in these schools or in their homes. Appropriation items for this purpose should be provided in the budgets of these schools.

Sec. 7. In order that substantial work in accordance with provisions laid down in Section 3 may be carried on during the coming biennium we endorse fully the application of the various organizations for funds for this purpose.

Sec. 8. To meet the traveling and miscellaneous expenses of the Council for the Blind, the salaries and traveling expenses of a director of the Bureau, two field representatives, and a stenographer, the Commission recommends an appropriation by the legislature of $35,000 as a minimum budget for the biennium 1925-27.

DRAFT OF PROPOSED ACTS

AN ACT

Creating a State Council for the Blind as a departmental administrative board within the Department of Welfare, and defining its powers and duties.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That a State Council for the Blind shall be created as a departmental administrative board within the Department of Welfare. The State Council for the Blind shall consist of seven members of whom three shall be the Secretary of Welfare, the Superintendent of Public Instruction and the Secretary of Labor and Industry. The other four members, one at least by preference a blind person, shall be appointed by the Governor to serve for terms of four years until their successors shall have been appointed and qualified. Provided, That of the first members appointed hereunder two shall be appointed for two years and two shall be appointed for four years. No paid employe of any school institution or other agency carrying on work for the blind shall be eligible for appointment. Members of the State Council for the Blind shall serve without compensation, but shall receive their necessary traveling and other expenses actually incurred in the performance of their duties.

Section 2. The State Council for the Blind shall annually elect from its members a chairman. The Secretary of Welfare shall be the secretary and executive officer of the Council. The Council shall adopt its own rules of procedure and shall fix the time of its regular meetings. At least four regular meetings shall be held each year. Special meetings may be called jointly by the chairman of the Council and the secretary and shall be called by the chairman on the written request of any three of the appointed members of the Council. A vacancy in the office of any appointed member of the Council shall be filled by the Governor who shall appoint a member for the unexpired term. Four members of the Council shall constitute a quorum.

Section 3. The State Council for the Blind shall have the power and its duties shall be:

(a) To formulate a general policy and program for the prevention of blindness and for the improvement of the condition of the blind in this Commonwealth. Such policy and program shall be modified from time to time as may be found necessary or advisable in the light of improvements in method and practice.

(b) To make recommendations in accordance with such policy and practice to the several executive and administrative departments, boards, and commissions of this Commonwealth and to any public or private agencies therein which may be in any way concerned with work with or for the blind.

(c) To co-operate with State and local agencies both public and private in taking steps to prevent the loss of sight, in alleviating the condition of blind persons and persons of impaired vision, in extending and improving the education, advisement, training, placement and conservation of the blind, and in promoting their personal, economic, social and civic well-being.

(d) To act as a means for communicating with other State agencies, public or private, and with national agencies and to co-operate in efforts to procure an enactment of legislature regarding the prevention of blindness, the improvement of the blind, or the regulation of private agencies for the care of the blind.

(e) To collect, systematize and make available for other agencies information in regard to blind persons and persons of impaired vision in this Commonwealth, including their present physical and mental condition, the causes of blindness and the possibilities of improvement of vision, their financial status and earning capacity, their capacity for education and vocational training, and any other relevant information looking toward the improvement of their condition.

(f) To refer cases of blind persons or problems in relation to the blind or prevention of blindness to such agencies, public or private, as may be likely to deal most successfully with them.

(g) To encourage the co-operation of all agencies, public and private, doing work for the blind in this Commonwealth and of agencies whose work is related to the prevention of blindness, and

(h) To supervise the expenditure of State appppropriations made to such agencies except in cases in which such supervision is by law within the powers or duties of some other administrative department, board or commission.

Section 4. The State Council for the Blind created by this act within the Department of Welfare shall be and be deemed a departmental administrative board within the State department and shall be subject in all respects to the laws of this Commonwealth limiting the powers of departmental administrative boards or commissions with regard to the expenditure of money and prescribing the duties of departmental administrative boards with reference to the making of financial reports, the furnishings of financial and budgetary information to the department with which it is connected and the making of biennial reports.

APPENDIX IV-B.

AN ACT

Making an appropriation to the Department of Welfare for the State Council for the Blind.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the sum of thirty-five thousand dollars ($35,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby specifically appropriated to the Department of Welfare to organize and maintain in connection with said Department a State Council for the Blind as a departmental administrative board within said Department and for the payment of salaries, compensation and traveling expenses of a director, supervisors, clerks and stenographers, and expenses in connection with meetings of the Council.

Payments from said appropriation shall be made by warrant of the Auditor General on the State Treasurer after requisition therefor by the Secretary of Welfare in the usual manner.

APPENDIX VII

SCHOOL DISTRICT OF PHILADELPHIA THE BOARD OF PUBLIC EDUCATION.

Memorandum Concerning the Work of the Board of Public Education of Philadelphia for the Instruction of Children Having Seriously Impaired Vision.

The Board of Public Education established its first special sight-saving class for children having vision so seriously impaired that they could not receive instruction to the best advantage in regular classes in November, 1919. Since that time the work has grown until there are now 12 classes having an enrolment of 156. The average attendance per teacher in these classes is 11, the number being kept small in order to allow for as much individual instruction as possible and to meet the other special conditions presented by the pupils of such classes.

Special salaried teachers are employed for these classes, and the work is under the immediate direction of the Division of Special Education. The Division of Medical Inspection is responsible for the recommendations for the admission of pupils to these classes and their discharge therefrom; and the vision of the children in these classes is specially studied by this division.

The children are given the regular course of instruction, modified to meet their individual needs and the conditions under which the work must be done. There is a larger allotment of time given to handwork in these classes than is given in the regular classes.

The Board of Education has not undertaken work with totally blind pupils, being largely relieved of the necessity of doing this by the existence in Philadelphia of The Pennsylania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind at Overbrook.

This work is done in conformity with the provisions of Section 1413 of the School Code. That portion of this Section which provides that the Board of Education shall be reimbursed for its expenditures for this kind of special work to the extent of one-half of the cost of instruction has never been complied with by the State. It is extremely important that this provision of the law be followed out in order that local school districts may be stimulated to carry out the law. In any budgetary consideration of the finances of the State, financial obligations of this kind, written into the law, should be regarded as fixed charges in the budget prior to the apportionment of funds for other purposes.

Prepared and read by Associate Superintendent Oliver P. Cornman in charge of Special Education and Supplementary Activities, at the hearing before the Commission in Philadelphia, July 31, 1924.

According to the above table the total general population of these cities (31) is 3,785,883 with a total school enrollment of 625, 453. Using the estimate of 1 child with seriously defective vision to every 500 in the school population there are 1,252 such children, requiring 116 classes, on the basis of 10 pupils to each class. Based on estimate of 1 child with seriously defective vision to every 800 in the school population there are 782 such children, requiring 68 classes on the basis of 10 pupils to each class. That the number of classes is not one-tenth of the number of children is due to the fact that some of these children are in districts where the number does not warrant a class.

Note:—Figures of school population furnished by W. M. Denison, Director, Bureau of Attendance, Department of Public Instruction, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. It is not certain whether the above figures include with the elementary school population those for the continuation classes, trade school classes, high school classes and evening school classes. They do not include the parochial school population. This may account for an apparently larger school population in comparison with the general population in some cities.

*Dr. Oliver P. Cornman, Associate Superintendent, School District of Philadelphia, Board of Public Education, reported that there are at present (July, 1924) 12 conservation of vision classes in Philadelphia with an enrollment of 156 pupils.

APPENDIX VIII

3. Act 70-A

AN ACT

Making an appropriation to provide the necessary expenses of blind students who are residents of the Commonwealth in attendance at institutions of higher learning.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the sum of six thousand dollars ($6,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby specifically appropriated for the purpose of aiding students who are blind and are regularly enrolled students pursuing any course of study, profession, art, or science in any university, college, conservatory of music, normal, professional, or vocational school, approved by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, and who are residents of the Commonwealth, in defraying their necessary erpenses, including those of a reader. Said money is to be expended under the direction of the State Board of Education and shall be paid out by warrant drawn by the Auditor General upon the State Treasurer when certified by the officers of the State Board of Education.

Approved—The 12th day of July, A. D. 1923, in the sum of $5,000. I withhold my approval from the remainder of said appropriation because of insufficient State revenue.

GIFFORD PINCHOT.

4. State Aid for Blind Children under eight Years of Age

The State Council of Education is authorized, in virtue of a bill passed, May, 1913, to make provision for the education of blind children under eight years of age residing in Pennsylvania when the parents are unable to educate them properly. The Board may contract to this end with any nonsectarian institution in Pennsylvania or elsewhere, established for the education of the blind, at a cost not to exceed $1.50 a day, the money to be paid out of the state school fund. The Act of 1913 was so amended by the Legislature of 1915 as to permit the State Council of Education to waive the age limit of eight years in such cases as seem to warrant it by reason of physical or mental defects.

The amount appropriated for the biennium 1923-1925 was $8,000. Request has been made for $10,000 for the biennium 1925-1927.

5. St. Mary's Institution for the Blind.

Corporate Title—St. Mary's Institute for the Blind.

Location—Lansdale, Pa.

Purpose—The purpose of this institute is to provide the best known facilities for blind children to secure an education adapted to their needs. Children who are totally blind or those whose defective vision renders them incapable of receiving instruction by ordinary methods may be admitted upon application. It is necessary, however, that they be capable of receiving instruction by the methods used in this institute, and that they be physically and morally fit and willing to conform to school discipline.

Sister-in-Charge—M. Helena.

APPENDIX IX.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA.

ADMINISTRATIVE RULING NO. 4

In the Matter of the Granting of Free Transportation to Charitable Organizations; Decided August 5th, 1914.

By the Commission: The Commission has been resuested to express its opinion upon the question whether a railroad company, street railway company, or other transportation company, may lawfully grant free passes to charitable organizations.

As we have heretofore had occasion to point out, in connection with similar questions relative to the subject of free transportation, the Constitution of the Commonwealth in Article XVII, Section 8, expressly provides, that:

> "No railroad, railway or other transportation company, shall grant free passes, or passes at a discount, to any person except officers or employees of the company."

So long as this prohibition remains as it now stands in the Constitution, the Commission is powerless to hold that free transportation may be issued to a charitable organization for charitable purposes, however much we might otherwise be in accord with a public policy which would permit of such free transportation in this class of cases.

A. B. MILLER,
Secretary.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE AUDITOR GENERAL RELATIVE TO TAX EXEMPT CORPORATIONS.

March 30, 1925.

To The Members of The House of Representatives:

I received your resolution of March 19, 1925, calling for the following information, to wit:

"(1) The number of corporations which are exempt from taxation on any portion of their capital within the State of Pennsylvania; and
(2) The total value as of January 1st., 1924, of the capital stock of corporations invested within the State of Pennsylvania on which exemption was claimed and allowed under existing laws".

Immediately upon receipt of this resolution I proceeded to the task imposed. This Department has no compilations upon which I can draw for this information. There are no acts of assembly requiring such compilations, nor has the department ever considered that there was any practical reason for making the same. Consequently, because of this fact and in order to secure the information asked for, the necessary steps were taken to gather it by a detailed examination of all the corporation reports in our files. This involved the use of our entire corporation force, the disruption of our corporation settlement work, and the discontinuance of the taxing of all corporations, as well as the use of considerable part of our auditing and other forces.

As I endeavored to show personally to a number of your members, it is necessary to examine approximately 38,000 individual corporation reports, and to make elaborate calculations in order to set forth the data in terms of the cash value of capital stock. By working the entire force above referred to during the day, and at night, we have, up until this writing, examined approximately fifty per cent of the corporation reports, which reveal the following:

Number of Corporations granted exemptions	4,930
Exemptions on account of Capital Stock in Manufacturing in Pennsylvania	$2,125,635,000
Exemptions on account of capital invested in stocks of other Pennsylvania corporations, ...	152,872,000
Exemptions on account of capital invested in tangible property outside of Pennsylvania	326,612,000
Exemptions on account of capital invested in

United States Securities and patents ...	159,941,000
Exemptions on account of capital invested in stocks of foreign corporations, which corporations were partially taxed in Pennsylvania because of the ownership of tangible property in the State	10,236,000

An examination of the remaining reports may reveal a higher or possibly lower figure than those already examined. It would, in my opinion, be dangerous to estimate total exemptions on the basis of the above figures, inasmuch as it is entirely possible that any one corporation may be found to have capital stock exempt in excess of the amount of one hundred or more others. Again it may be found that in the reports remaining to be examined there may be a number of corporations with capital stock exemptions entirely disproportionate to those included in the above figures.

In order that the work required in your resolution may be completed at the earliest possible moment, I have pressed into service every available man in the department who was considered capable of analyzing the corporation reports. Had I depended on the corporation taxing force alone the work would have occupied at least a full month. The above figures may be taken as reliable but owing to the inexperience of some of the men engaged in the work there may be minor inaccuracies.

As soon as this work is finished you will be furnished with the result of the complete examination.

Respectfully yours,
(Signed) S. S. LEWIS
Auditor General.

RESOLUTION.

Resolved, that the Committee on Judiciary General be and is hereby authorized to inquire into and concerning the official conduct of the Honorable John A. Berkey, Judge of the several Courts of the 16th Judicial district of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, comprising the county of Somerset, touching his conduct in regard to matters mentioned in various petitions which have been presented to the House, and especially whether the said Judge has been guilty of any impeachable offense, and to report to the House the conclusions of the Committee in respect thereto, with their appropriate recommendation.

Resolved further, that the Committee on Judiciary General is hereby authorized and empowered to send for persons and papers, to subpoena witnesses, to administer oaths to said witnesses, to take testimony, to employ a clerk, stenographer or stenographers, agents, investigators and attorneys, if necessary, and to appoint a sub-committee from among their number by appointment of the Chairman thereof, whenever it may be necessary and expedient to take testimony for the use of the said Committee. And the said subcommittee while so employed shall have the same powers in respect to obtaining testimony as are herein given to said committee on Judiciary General, with a sergeant at arms by himself, or deputy, who shall serve the process of said Committee and sub-committee and execute its orders, and shall attend the sittings of the same as ordered and directed thereby, and the Speaker of the House have authority to sign, and the clerk to attest subpoenas for any witness or witnesses, and the expenses of this investigation shall be paid out of the contingent fund of the House.

The CHAIRMAN: On February 11, 1925, a resolution was introduced in the House of Representatives of this Commonwealth, authorizing the Judiciary General Committee to inquire into and concerning the official conduct of the Honorable John A. Berkey, Judge of the several Courts of the 16th Judicial District of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania comprising the county of Somerset, touching his conduct in regard to matters mentioned in various petitions which have been presented to the House, especially whether the said Judge has been guilty of an impeachable offense, and to report to the House the conclusions of the Committee in respect thereto, with their appropriate recommendations.

The Chairman of the Judiciary General Committee was authorized to appoint a sub-committee from among its members to take testimony for the use of the said Committee; this resolution was referred to the Judiciary General Commitee on February 17, and in pursuance of the authority contained therein, Mr. McKim, Chairman of said committee, appointed a sub-committee consisting of Benjamin H. Ludlow, of Montgomery County, Morton Witkin, of Philadelphia, Arnold M. Bloomberg, of Philadelphia, Wm. J. Moffatt of Lawrence County, Charles W. Bidelspacher, of Williamsport, Lycoming County, Wm. F. Stadtlander, of Pittsburgh, Allegheny County, and myself.

This Committee has met today for the purpose of performing that duty. As Chairman of this Committee I wish to say that it is the desire of each member of this sub-committee that he be furnished with all the facts touching upon the matter in question, and it is ou rintention to give each side full opportunity to be heard.

It is not our intention or desire to handicap anyone in the presentation of testimony by any strict and technical enforcement of the rules of evidence, but we will expect and request that counsel observe these rules as nearly as possible.

It is the desire of the committee that such facts only be presented as touch upon the subject matter in question, and we, therefore, ask that in the presentation of testimony, you eliminate, as far as possible, collateral matter in order not to encumber the record and expedite the work of the committee.

Mr. GEYER: There is associated with me Mr. Ernest F. Kooser, of the Somerset County Bar. I represent the petitioners in this matter, and I have spent some considerable time in going over the matters, in the collecting of the evidence, and the examination of the witnesses, and I am prepared to and have eliminated, insofar as possible, all hearsay testimony. With your permission I should like to call the witnesses first in a matter which will probably be called the Turrony case.

Mrs. MARY TURRONY, a witness called in behalf of the complainant, being duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows on

DIRECT EXAMINATION:

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. What is your husband's name?
A. Arthur Turrony.
Q. And you live with him?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you live with him in the month of January, 1923?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Had your husband been arrested?
A. Yes sir.
Q. In what month?
A. December 9, 1922.

By Mr. BEIDELMAN:
Q. When, December 9, 1922?
A. Yes sir.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Did he give bail for his appearance at court?
A. Yes.
Q. Who bailed him?
A. Marcella, Mark Marcella.
Q. How did he bail him?
A. $1000 cash.
Q. Where was the cash deposited?
A. In the Boswell Bank.
Q. Who is cashier of that bank?
A. Mr. Newman.
Q. Is he here?
A. I don't know.
Q. Did you in the month of January go to see Judge Berkey about this case?
A. In January?
Q. Yes?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. Who went with you?

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. What year?
A. 1923. I, my husband, Mr. Thomas Cattoy, and there was one man by the name of Victor Durrando, I don't know the right name, some call him Victor, some call him by other name, we call him Victor.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Was Thomas Cattoy arrested at the same time your husband was?
A. Yes sir.
Q. When you went to Somerset whom did you see?
A. Mr. Judge Berkey.
Q. Where did you see him?
A. Why the first time I see him in the library, the attorney's room.
Q. What day was that, the first time?
A. I think it was on the 8th, anyway from the 7th till the 9th, because exactly I just cannot remember the dates. I think it was on the 8th, on a Monday.
Q. What conversation did you have with Judge Berkey?
A. Why, not much because it was the first time I ever got acquainted with Mr. Berkey, and Victor introduced us to him, and we only said how do you do to him, and he asked us if we had the money along. That was all that we did there, and he said we shall go up next Wednesday, that was two days later.
Q. What else did he say that you should bring?
A. He said we should bring our money along.
Q. Did you know Judge Berkey before that time?
A. No sir.
Q. Did you see him afterwards?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Where?
A. Always in the court house.
Q. Did you ever see him sitting in court?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Where was he sitting in the court?
A. Up in the bench.
Q. Was that the same man you saw in the library?
A. Yes sir.
Q. When next did you go back?
A. Why we went back two days later. It was on Wednesday the 10th.
Q. Who went with you?
A. My husband, Mr. Cattoy and Victor.
Q. What happened when you got there?
A. Why, Victor said we should wait awhile in the hall because he is going in and see Mr. Berkey first. So we sat there awhile and then Victor came out and he said to us we shall go in, so we went in Mr. Berkey's private office.
Q. What did Judge Berkey say?
A. Why, as soon as we went into the room that we shall be seated and he showed me a chair and Mr. Cattoy the same, so we sat down and Victor, the other man, he took my husband into the little adjoining room from Mr. Berkey's private room, they tell us No. 2 courtroom, and they see him there and they had a conversation in there, but I cannot tell you what they said, because I didn't hear nothing about it.
Q. Mrs. Turrony, the first time when you went there with Victor, did he have any talk with the Judge away from you?
A. Why, he went in—no sir, I don't know they did, no sir.
Q. After your husband came out of the little room what was said?
A. Why he come out and he talked to Mr. Berkey.
Q. Who talked to Mr. Berkey?
A. Arthur.
Q. Where did he talk to Mr. Berkey?
A. Right in his office.
Q. Was there any conversation between Victor and Judge Berkey?
A. Why, not just when my husband came out.
Q. What did your husband say, suppose you tell it in your own way, what happened?
A. Why, Mr. Berkey said, do you want—just by this bond off me, you pay and I settle your case, after you have any other trouble it won't cost you one cent, no cost, nothing, I will take care of all the matter.
Q. What did Victor say?
A. Why, Victor as soon as they come out from the little adjoining room he and Mr. Berkey went in the back of the room to the corner, I think it was a toilet or something, they went just right over there by the door, not loud enough, we could not understand what Victor said Mr. Berkey, I leave you, I come back, see you later. Then he turned to us and he said, Arthur I am leaving because these lawyers from Somerset they hate me, they don't like see me around here, I am going away.
Q. Then after he left what happened next?
A. The next happened that my husband, Mr. Berkey asked my husband if he had the money and he said, "yes, Mr. Berkey, I have $500.00 along with me", and he just reached in his pocket and he got the $500.00 cash and he handed to Mr. Berkey. Mr. Berkey said, "All right, I will give you the bond" and he gave the $500.00 bond, and in the meantime he went over again to his safe and he get another $1000.00 bond and he handed that to my husband and told him this way, he said, "people I see by your face that you are honest and I trust you with this $1000.00 bond. You pay me as soon as you can".

Q. What next did Judge Berkey do? What bonds were these Mrs. Turrony?

A. One $500.00 and one $1000.00.

Q. Of what company?

A. Street car.

Q. What is that?

A. I don't know how you call it, street car line bonds.

Q. What next did Judge Berkey do?

A. Now—

Q. You said he would trust you for $1000?

A. Yes, then he just got the paper, just took a paper, he said he would give us a paper to go into the Boswell bank and have our $1000 released.

Q. Did you tell him about the $1000 being in the Boswell bank?

A. Yes sir.

Q. What did you tell him?

A. Why, I said to my husband, I said, If you want to buy $1000, you go and get your money that we have in the Boswell bank and pay Mr. Berkey for those bonds".

Q. Then you say Judge Berkey wrote a letter?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Did he write it?

A. Yes sir.

(Letter signed by J. A. Berkey, P. J., dated January 10, 1923, produced and marked complainants exhibit No. 1).

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. I show you paper which is marked exhibit No. 1, and ask you whether that is the letter which Judge Berkey wrote?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. Did he sign it while you were there?

A. Yes, he did.

Mr. GEYER: I offer this in evidence, and may I be permitted at this time to read the exhibit for the information of the committee.

Mr. WITKIN: I think you ought to hand it to Governor Beidleman.

Mr. GEYER: I have a copy of it here.

Mr. Witkin: I think he ought to see the original.

(Exhibit No. 1 handed to Mr. Beidleman).

Mr. GEYER: With your permission, on the official stationery of the Judge's Chamber, 16th Judicial District, of Pennsylvania, John A. Berkey, President Judge. Somerset, Pa., January 10, 1923. C. J. Newman:—The case of the Commonwealth vs. M. Marcella was brought to my attention today and I find the proceeding was illegal and will not be prosecuted further as the search and seizure was illegal and he is released from the bond. The bond is no longer in force and he is released. Signed J. A. Berkey, P. J.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Read the rest of it.

Mr. HULL. Read the balance, please.

Mr. GEYER. May I suggest that the balance is the certificate of the District Attorney, and before I read it my thought was to inquire of the witness what happened and how it happened.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. There is the request of the District Attorney that the bond be released.

Mr. GEYER. Will you let me go, gentlemen. I am not taking advantage of you, of putting in the letter if you object. I didn't think I should read it, under the circumstances, to the committee.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. After this letter was written and he showed it to you, what did he do?

A. He said just wait a minute we will go down to the District Attorney and have the paper signed.

Q. Did he go out?

A. Yes, he went down to the first floor, I guess to the District Attorney's office.

Q. How long was he gone?

A. About ten minutes, from ten to fifteen minutes.

Q. When he came back, what did he say?

A. He said, "the District Attorney he would not sign it for me," and he said, "I get him at the end to sign it."

Q. What else did he say, what did he do?

A. Then he read the paper to us.

Q. Did he say anything else?

A. I don't think so.

Q. Does the word "Boswell" recall anything to your mind?

A. He said that later.

Q. Now, did he then give you this paper?

A. Yes, he did.

Mr. GEYER. I now ask permission to read the last part of it.

"I Join with the Judge with this letter.

"(Signed) W. Curtis Truxal, D. A."

Evidently District Attorney.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. May I ask, what is exhibit "A"?

Mr. GEYER. That was used in marking it in connection with an affidavit.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. Mrs. Turrony, who took this paper away from the court house?

A. Arthur Turrony, my husband.

Q. Do you know what he did with it?

A. Why, yes, he went the next day to Boswell Mr. Newman who has got—

Q. Were you with him?

A. No sir, I was not.

Mr. GEYER. May I suggest for an intelligent understanding, might I stand the witness aside for a few questions of the husband at this time.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. If your honors, please, it would certainly seem to me that that is not a fair way to try a case of this kind. This woman has been submitted to be a witness, she has partially testified, and when we ask her to stand aside now in order that some recollection may be refreshed, we certainly think that this witness ought to be subject to cross-examination before the witness's husband is permitted to be called.

The CHAIRMAN. I think I understand the purpose of Mr. Geyer's request, is to bring out the testimony from the husband as to his going to the bank.

Mr. GEYER. To get the money. He signed the check of which her knowledge is purely hearsay, and we only ask that this be done so that it be in the orderly course of events, and I should call him for only a few questions.

The CHAIRMAN. I think it is perfectly proper, but I think, Mr. Geyer, that it will answer the same purpose if you finish with this witness and clear that up when you call him.

Mr. GEYER. All right.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. What your husband did the next day then you cannot tell of your own knowledge because you were not along?

A. No sir.

(Check on Pennsylvania Trust Company, dated January 12, 1923, produced and marked complainants exhibit No. 2.)

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. I show you a check marked exhibit No. 2, and ask you whether you are familiar with your husbands handwriting?

A. Yes, that is his handwriting (witness pointing to signature on check).

Q. I call your attention to the endorsement on the back of the check in the name of J. A. Berkey, are you familiar with his handwriting?

A. That is Mr. Berkey's handwriting.

Q. You saw him write it?

A. Yes sir.

(Letter signed by Arthur Turrony, dated January 12, 1923, produced and marked complainants exhibit No. 3.)

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. I show you a paper marked exhibit No. 3, which has the name "Arthur Turroni" signed to it, is that your husband's handwriting?

A. That is in my husband's handwriting.

Q. Is the signature in his handwriting, his name?

A. No, it is not, he had somebody else write it for him.

Q. I show you the signature on the bottom of this letter, "J. A. Berkey", is that in Judge Berkey's handwriting?

A. Yes sir.

The CHAIRMAN. You had better have the paper marked for identification. I think the orderly procedure would be to refer them to Mr. Beidleman and refer them to us, and then have the stenographer mark them for identification.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. When next after that did you see Judge Berkey?

A. Why, pardon me, I guess you left something back now.

Q. All right.

A. When he gave this paper to my husband, when he gave that paper you just asked me when he came up from the office, after he had the paper, after he came from the District Attorney.

Q. Go on

A. Then Mr. Berkey tell us something.

Q. What did he tell you?

A. Why, he gave my husband a paper and told him when he has the other $1000 to send it to him or bring it to him. So my husband said he wants to go over and see his attorney. We have our attorney Mr. Ross Scott, from Somerset, Somerset attorney, he did work for us, he had our case, he helped us out during the trial. So my husband said, "Mr. Berkey if you are so kind, I would like to go over and see Mr. Ross Scott, and see how much he charged me for his trouble." He says, "no, you don't fool with the attorney, no lawyer, everything is fixed up. Lawyers only want your money but this time I need the money myself, and lawyers have got plenty of money. You just go over and tell him that the case is being thrown out of court, was illegal." So my husband, he went to see Mr. Ross Scott.

Q. Judge Berkey was not there?

A. At Mr. Ross Scott's office?

Q. Yes?

A. No sir, he was not.

Q. Then don't tell that. Mrs. Turrony, when next after that did you see Judge Berkey?

A. After the day when the case was settled.

Q. After the day you got this letter?

A. Why, I see Judge Berkey in March, but I cannot recall just the date. I think it was on the sixteenth of March.

Q. What had happened?

A. On the evening of the 15th of March, the Marshal from Pittsburgh and another officer came to my home and they had a paper and told that they wanted to arrest my husband and Thomas Cattoy. So I told them to come into the house and I asked him, "what for". So they said on the case, on the liquor case.

Q. On what case?

A. On the liquor case. I said pardon gentlemen, I don't think I have any trouble on the liquor case, we only had one and that was settled in Somerset, and we pay $1500.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: I object to this as not being binding upon Judge Berkey.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. You told the Marshall that he could not arrest you?

A. I told him that he could not arrest me.

Q. Then you went over to see Judge Berkey?

A. I went up next day.

Q. What did you say to Judge Berkey?

A. I said, "Mr. Berkey, I am sorry to come up," and I said so and so and I explain.

Q. What did you expalin?

A. About the officer from the Federal Court from Pittsburgh was down to arrest my husband again on the same offense, and I think this case was settled, the way you told me, that we would not be in trouble. Now, there we have troubles more than before on the same case.

Q. What did Judge Berkey say?

A. He said, "Mrs. Turrony, don't worry. You go down to Johnstown get yourself a good attorney and you fight your case". So I said, "how can I fight my case, I don't have any more money". And he said you go down and talk to attorney Frank Barnhart, a Johnstown attorney, he will not charge you much. I will stand all your expenses, I will do everything, I will take care of you. I will see that everything is all right. You don't worry about money, don't worry. You don't mention anything to nobody about me. I said, "all right, you pay my expenses, I will do that".

Q. Did he give you any money on that day?

A. No sir, he didn't. On that day, on the 16th, why, I am not sure, that was the time he gave me twenty dollars but the next time I went up.

Q. What happened the next time you went up?

A. The next time I went up I told him that I have no money. I said, "Mr. Berkey, every cent I had I give it to you to buy the shares". Then I don't have nothing. I had to go to bank and get $700, paying six percent, invest them in those bonds" I said, "now", I said, "I fight my case, pay my expenses, pay my lawyer back. I need money, so I wish you would give me back $500.

Q. What did he say to you?

A. He said, "to-day I don't have that much money, but I shall get it in a week or two and I will try to give you something". I said, "Mr. Berkey, I don't have enough to buy my gasoline, won't you please advance me a little money"? And he said, "Yes, I will give you $20." And he gave me $20 before I left his office.

Q. Did you go back to see him afterwards?

A. I call him on the telephone, I ask him if he had that money, so he said, "I have it in a few days. I will call for you or I will drop you a few lines". So two days later or three days I go to the telephone and get a call from somebody, I don't know who but I think it was the lady interpreter from her voice, but I didn't see I just hear her voice.

Q. You got a call did you to go to Somerset?

A. Yes, I went and Mr. Berkey give me $400. He told me when I go up for the money to bring my bond along, so I have not my bond along.

Q. Which bond did you take?

A. $500. I bring the $500 bond and he give me $480 cash. He told me that he gave me $20 before, and that would make $500.

Q. What did he then say about this money?

A. Why he said I should not say nothing to nobody about those bonds that we buy those shares, that is all what he said. And he said, I asked him if he could not return me all of that money because I was in need so bad, and he said, "I will try". He promised to give it back to me as soon as he can.

Q. What would he give back to you?

A. The other $1000.

Q. In the meantime did your case in Pittsburgh come up for trial?

A. We were supposed to have our case the first time on the 7th of March, I guess, and the next year it was in 1924, because they wrote once in awhile, they wrote to us about that case, but that case never come up, so on the 7th of March we were supposed to go up and we get ready on the 6th, and then Mr. Barnhart call up on the 'phone and he said, "Don't get ready, the case won't come up; you wait until I let you know".

Q. Mrs. Turrony, when were you finally told to come to court in Pittsburgh?

A. The 26th of September, 1924.

Q. Mrs. Turrony, was that when you were told when you were to come?

A. That is when we come.

Q. What did you do by way of getting ready to go to Pittsburgh, by way of getting your papers together?

A. Oh, pardon me. When I get that notice that we shall be up on the 26th, I went on the 24th, if I am not mistaken, I went to Boswell and see Mr. Newman and ask him if he would not give me a paper that Mr. Berkey gave him the day he settled our case.

Q. By that paper you mean this exhibit No. 1, the letter of Judge Berkey?

A. That is the paper.

Q. Where had it been in the meantime?

A. In the bank.

Q. Did you get it from Mr. Newman?

A. I get it but I had to get two witnesses, Mrs. Houseman, squire from Johnstown, and Mrs. Miller, one of our friends, that I will return that paper as soon as I am through with it.

Q. Did he ask you what he wanted it for?

A. Yes, I told him what for.

Q. What did you want this paper for?

A. I want this paper in the Pittsburgh court to show the people that my case was settled, was settled and finished in Somerset, and why they want me to have another trial.

Q. When you got this paper back from Newman, did you read it?

A. Yes, I went home and read it.

Q. And what did you notice?
A. I notice there is a mistake in the paper. That instead of my husband's name, Arthur Turrony, the name of the man that it fills out is Marcella.
Q. That is, it has the name "Marcella" instead of Turrony?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What did you do?
A. My husband was down in the sawmill and I took the paper down and show him because they won't be any good to us if it is made out that way, so I said—
Q. Just stop at what you said to your husband, Mrs. Turrony, what did you do with this paper then?
A. I went up to see Mr. Berkey again and he wasn't there in Somerset.
Q. When Mr. Berkey was not there whom did you go to?
A. Mr. Truxall, District Attorney.
Q. What conversation did you have with him about this letter?
A. I ask if he would be so kind—
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: It seems to us, if your honors please, that this examination is going very far afield. If you want to offer the whole story of what took place between this witness and Mr. Truxall in the absence of Judge Berkey, certainly it would not be binding on Judge Berkey.
The CHAIRMAN: As I understand the line of questions, it is with reference to this letter from Judge Berkey.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: The letter is against Judge Berkey and the woman admits that the name is a name other than that of her husband, and she says that she went to Somerset for the purpose of seeing Judge Berkey and then she went down to Truxall.
Mr. GEYER: Counsel called particularly that the second part of this letter be offered in evidence.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: What is the matter with Truxall?
Mr. GEYER. I am prepared to show that Truxall, who joined in this certificate susbesquently learned that a mistake was made in the name of Marcella and that the name should have been Turrony on that particular certificate in which he joined.
The CHAIRMAN. You have that certificate?
Mr. GEYER: We have produced the certificate under the signature of the District Attorney that an error was made in that paper.
The CHAIRMAN. For the purpose of clearing that up?
Mr. GEYER. For the purpose of clearing up that error.
By Mr. GEYER:
Q. What did you ask Mr. Truxall?
Mr. BEIDLEMAN. That is objected to as being hearsay and not binding upon Judge Berkey.
The CHAIRMAN. What is the purpose?
Mr. GEYER. My purpose is to show that in this original letter concerning a case which was dismissed which certificate was joined in by the District Attorney that an error was made in writing the name of the party M. Marcella. The case actually considered was the case of Turrony, and the witness asked the District Attorney to correct it, and he stated that he would give a separate certificate that there was an error in the name.
The CHAIRMAN. Your question is what she asked the District Attorney
Mr. WITKIN: Cannot you show that you had a conversation with Mr. Truxall and then introduce that evidence in the proper way?

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. You had a conversation with Mr. Truxal then?
A. Yes sir.
Q. When Mr. Berkey was out of town?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And did Mr. Truxall then give you a letter?
A. Yes sir.

(Letter signed by W. Curtis Truxall, dated September 24, 1924, produced and marked complainants exhibit No. 4)

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. I show you a paper marked Exhibit No. 4 and ask you whether that is the letter which Mr. Truxall gave you?
A. This is.
Mr. GEYER: I desire to offer this letter in evidence as explanatory of the certificate of the District Attorney attached to the Judge Berkey letter.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN. We think it is a little out of order, but we have no objection to it.
Mr. GEYER. I ask permission to read it. On the stationery of "W. Curtis Truxall, Attorney-at-Law, Somerset, Pa., District Attorney, dated September 24, 1924. C. J. Newman, Cashier, Boswell, Pa. Dear Sir:—Mrs. Turnoy handed me a letter of Judge Berkey's dated January 10, 1923, in which I joined at the bottom thereof. I find, upon examination of the record, that the Judge evidently made a mistake in the name of M. Marcella, where it should have been Arthur Turrony. A Nol. Pros was entered in this case and you were relieved from the Bond. The Nol. Pros was entered at the time for the reason that the Court held all search warrants issued on the form of affidavit which was used in that case to be illegal, and all evidence secured thereunder could not be used in the trial of a case. Yours very truly, W. Curtis Truxal."
The CHAIRMAN. May I just interrupt you one minute. It has been suggested that many of these exhibits are numbered and identified by the witness and shown to counsel on the other side and then they are passed up and the information contained there is not brought before the members of the committee.
Mr. GEYER. If I may be permitted to explain, I have a check for $1000, a letter and a receipt but they were signed by Arthur Turrony, and I have asked permission to call him to prove that he had signed them and then stand him aside to make a continuous order of events.
The CHAIRMAN. My only thought was to bring to your attention that we best get the information to the committee, but, at the same time, if it is your desire....
Mr. GEYER. I must show by other witnesses that the check was signed by him and the letter was signed by him, because this witness was not present.
Mr. MOFFATT. It is a general suggestion.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. What, if anything, did Judge Berkey say to you about these bonds when you first got them?
A. Why, he said that if we made an investment to buy them bonds we will have a good investment, we will get five percent, and we will get the interest every six months.
Q. Did you get the interest at the end of six months?
A. No sir.
Q. Did you go to see Judge Berkey about it?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What, if anything, did he say?
A. He said that the company is now—which company I don't know what he said, it is too poor, they cannot pay interest just now, but I hope they will later on, and so I never went back to see him about the interest.
Q. Did you ask him, at any time, after that, Mr. Turrony, to take back your $1000 bond?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. What did he say to that?
A. Why, he said, he try to.
Q. What if anything did he suggest as to how he could get money to buy them back?
A. He said if I could find any foreign people that get in trouble for anything, moonshine business or bootlegging or anything at all, I shall bring them people up to him, he would make them people buy, tell them people that they shall buy shares, this street car bonds, he will get money off those people and give it back to me.
Q. Did you find any such people?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. Who?
A. Mr. John D. Miller.
Q. Where was he?
A. Why, he got arrested on the last of the year, 1923.
Q. Did you take him to the Judge?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. Who went with you?
A. Mr. John D. Miller, but he didn't go in with me, he sat outside in the library in the attorneys room.
Q. Did you have a conversation with Judge Berkey about his case?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. What did you tell him?
A. I told him if he could help this fellow out he would buy some bonds later on, but not right now, he didn't have no money, but later on he will buy bonds.
Q. Was anything said about how many bonds he would buy?

A. $500.
Q. What did the Judge say?
A. That is fine.
Q. Did Miller's case come up in court?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What did the Judge do to him?
A. I was not there then, I was in the hospital.
Q. Do you know whether Miller bought bonds?
A. Why, he promised to buy but he didn't.

CROSS-EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. When did you first see Judge Berkey?
A. The first time?
Q. Yes, the first time in your life to know him?
A. Why, the day I went up with Mr. Victor Dorrando.
Q. You had never seen him before that day?
A. Well, Not to remember him.
Q. Who is Victor Dorrando?
A. He is a man, a Slavish man, I think.
Q. What is his business?
A. Second-hand—rag man they call him.
Q. Second-hand rag man?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How did he happen to go with you?
A. Why, he sent word to me from brother-in-law to go down and see him, he is a good friend of Mr. Judge Berkey, he can have our case settled up, he say with a little money.
Q. And where did your conversation take place?
A. After he sent the second time to us, we would not go the first time.
Q. When was the first time that he sent?
A. I can't remember just exactly the date.
Q. How long after your husband had been arrested?
A. About fifteen days—let me, see, ten to fifteen days.
Q. Ten or fifteen days?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And this man sent word to you that he would take you down to Judge Berkey and get your case settled and you didn't go?
A. I didn't go because I think nobody can settle the case.
Q. What pursuaded you to answer the second call?
A. Why, I said we better go down, I tell my husband we better go down and see what he got to say.
Q. Go down where?
A. That is in Bench Creek, Somerset County.
Q. You were to go down to see him after the second call?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How long before you went down to Judge Berkey's office?
A. Why, that was right the day before.
Q. The day before?
A. We went on Sunday, and in the morning we go together to Judge Berkey's office.
Q. Who went with you to Judge Berkey's office?
A. Mr. Victor, me and my husband and Thomas Cattoy.
Q. Your husband didn't know Judge Berkey?
A. I think he did.
Q. Do you know, of your own knowledge, whether he did?
A. I think he see him a few times before.
Q. Did Cattoy know Judge Berkey?
A. I don't know.
Q. And then you want these men to believe that you, the three of you, without knowing Judge Berkey, you went down to his office in company with Victor or whatever you said his name is?
A. Yes sir.
Q. When you went into the court house where did you first go?
A. The attorneys' room.
Q. Whose attorney's room?
A. In the library.
Q. Anybody there?
A. Why, only I, my husband, Thomas Cattoy and Victor, and then Mr. Berkey came in.
Q. Anybody else?
A. No sir.
Q. Was the librarian there?
A. Who?
Q. The librarian? Do you know Miss Weaver?
A. No, I didn't see her there.
Q. Do you know her?
A. Yes, I do.
Q. Did you see her there that day?
A. I don't think so.
Q. Did you see the court interpreter there that day?
A. No sir.
Q. Do you know who the court interpreter is?
A. Why I think that he is the fellow they told me it is a little skinny fellow from Windber.
Q. The court interpreter happens to be a woman, so it was not the little skinny fellow from Windber. Did you see the court interpreter there?
A. Oh, pardon, me—I didn't.
Q. What hour of the day did you get there?
A. What?
Q. What hour of the day did you get there?

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. What time?
A. Oh, what time?

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. What hour of the day?
A. Hour, half past nine.
Q. Half past nine in the morning?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Did you see the court stenographer in the room?
A. Not in that room.
Q. Where was the court stenographer?
A. I don't know.
Q. You say he was not in the room?
A. No.
Q. Do you know who the court stenographer is?
A. Mr. Walker.
Q. Did you see him?
A. Not in the room.
Q. When you first went there to the library, Victor went into Judge Berkey's chambers?
A. He left us in the hall.
Q. How long was he away?
A. Oh, ten or fifteen minutes.
Q. Ten or fifteen minutes?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Then the three of you went into this office?
A. Not the three, there was four.
Q. Four of you went into the office of that man?
A. No sir, not in his office—in the library.
Q. In the library?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Judge Berkey had never before seen you?
A. No sir.
Q. He came out there in the library, and what was said?
A. Mr. Victor made us acquainted with each other.
Q. Just tell us what was said about this case?
A. He said meet Mr. and Mrs. Turrony. And he said, "People do you have your money along"? We said, "no, your honor, we don't have our money along to-day, because we didn't think the case could be settled to-day",
Q. That was before anything was said about this case?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Judge Berkey said, "Do you have your money along"?
A. Yes, that is what he said.
Q. Nothing else said?
A. No sir.
Q. And you said, "No, we don't have the money today".
A. And he said, you come back on Wednesday morning and I fix you up.
Q. What time did you come back on Wednesday morning?
A. I think it was between ten and eleven o'clock.
Q. Where did you go?
A. We went in the hall again.
Q. Whereabouts in the hall?
A. Just right in front of the library room.
Q. That is to say, you were out in the hall of the court house?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Who was with you at that time?
A. Mr. Durrando, Mr. Victor, Arthur Turrony and I.
Q. Where were you?
A. In the hallway, on the bench.
Q. On the bench?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What took place there?
A. Victor said, "Just wait a minute, I see Judge Berkey".

Q. And then what?
A. Then he went in.
Q. And then what?
A. They had some kind of talk.
Q. You were not in, were you?
A. No sir, I was not.
Q. How long was it until you next saw him?
A. About ten minutes.
O. In there ten minutes. Where did you see him?
A. Then he took us in the Judge's private office.
Q. He took you into the Judge's private office?
A. Yes sir.
Q. When did you see the District Attorney?
A. I never see him that day.
Q. You never saw the District Attorney?
A. No sir.
Q. When you were in the office, did you see anybody else?
A. In Mr. Berkey's office?
Q. Yes.
A. No. sir, I didn't.
Q. You didn't see any of the attaches of the court house there at all?
A. No body there.
Q. Nobody there between the hours of ten and eleven o'clock in the morning?
A. I mean in Mr. Berkey's office.
Q. Did you see anybody in the court house?
A. In the court house, I see lots around, I didn't know who they are, I don't know anybody.
Q. When you went into the Judge's chambers and you got this letter, what took place—what conversation?
A. When we got that letter?
Q. Yes.
A. He asked my husband how much money he had along. My husband said, "I have $500." Mr. Berkey said, "That will do, that is fine. You gave me $500 and here is your bond," and he hand my husband a $500 bond. Then he turned back to the safe in the corner and he get another $1000 bond and he hand it to my husband, and he said, "I give you another $1000 bond because I can see by your face that you are honest so you pay me as soon as you can, you send the money or send me a check."
Q. That is to say up until two days before this you had never seen or known Judge Berkey and neither had your husband?
A. I don't know about my husband.
Q. And being perfect strangers to each other, you want us to believe that he said that he would give a $1000 bond without a deposit or any collateral or monies whatsoever for that $1000 bond?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Was there anything said as to where you were to raise the money?
A. About the bonds?
Q. About the bonds, yes, was there anything said about where you would raise $1000 to pay for them?
A. He said we shall pay him as soon as we can.
Q. Was there any discussion there at that time?
A. No, nothing else.
Q. As to where there was a possibility of raising any money with which to pay for this $1000 bond?
A. Why, now, I don't know if I get you right? You know I don't talk this language very much.
Q. Was there anything said about where your husband would get this $1000 with which to pay for this $1000 bond?
A. Oh, yes, he has the money in the Boswell Bank and he will go there and get the money and pay Mr. Berkey.
Q. Your husband had $1000 on deposit in the Boswell Bank?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And you say that the Judge, being a stranger to you
A. Yes.
Q. didn't ask you to write a check, but you went away and brought the money back for the $1000 bond how long afterwards?
A. My husband sent a check two days later.
Q. Two days later?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Was the check drawn on the Boswell Bank?
A. Yes, but not all, he got money in the bank—
Q. What?
A. He got some money, because we didn't know nothing, because the money belonged to Mr. Marcella so my husband he went to the band and got $700 and the $300 left in the Boswell Bank.

Mr. GEYER. It is manifestly unfair to cross examine this witness as to the manner in which the money was sent by check because she was not permitted to testify as she had no knowledge of her own concerning that.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. That was not my inquiry.

Mr. GEYER. He sent the check.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN.
Q. I ask you again whether there was anything said in Judge Berkey's office about the way in which the $1000 would be raised for paying for this $1000 bond?
A. He said to me that we shall buy that bond and make a nice investment.
Q. Is that what you mean now? That is not what I asked you about, I asked you if anything was said about where you would raise the money?
A. Pardon me, I cannot talk just plain. Wouldn't you make a good investment?

Mr. WITKIN. Don't ask questions, answer questions.

Mr. MOFFATT. She is doing all right, let her alone.

The WITNESS. Mr. Berkey said, we shall make an investment, we will be satisfied, because we get five per-cent every six months, and if you buy I settle up your case like this without one cent of costs or fine. Your case is settled for nothing, you only give me the money and buy those shares and that will be all and you get your five per cent.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN.
Q. Now, was there anything said about where you would get the money?
A. Where I get the money?
Q. Yes.
A. Every six months the interest we would get?
Q. I am not asking you about the interest; I am asking where you got the money for the purpose of buying the bond?
A. Yes, he asked me and I said in the bank?
Q. In the bank?
A. Yes.
Q. And you said to Judge Berkey at that time that you had money in the bank with which to pay for it?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And notwithstanding the fact that you told Judge Berkey that you had the money in the bank that he told you, you looked honest and you could go out and pay for the bonds when you wanted to?
A. Because he knew that we had the money in the bank.
Q. What is that?
A. We told him before when we gave the $500 we got $1000 in the bank so he gives the other $1000 bond so we can pay because he know we had the money.
Q. In what bank was that?
A. Boswell Bank, Somerset County.
Q. Judge Berkey didn't call the Boswell Bank, did he?
A. Well, I don't know if he did.
Q. Well, in your presence, so far as you know?
A. No, he didn't.
Q. So that the only thing that the Judge had that you had $1000 in the bank was that you said so?
A. Yes, I and my husband, both of us.
Q. You didn't have $1000 there?
A. Yes, we did.
Q. You did have?
A. Yes, we did have.
Q. Now, you are sure, at that time, you did have $1000 in the bank?
A. Yes, Mr. Marcella put up the bail, $1000 cash.
Q. Was it your money?
A. No sir, it was not. Some was ours.
Q. What is that?
A. Some was ours, $300 was ours.
Q. And then you say that was some time about the 7th or 9th of January.
A. Yes sir.
Q. How long afterwards was it that the warrant was served on your husband from the District Court of the United States?
A. It was on the 15th of March, 1923, if I am not mistaken.
Q. On the 15th of March, 1923?
A. Yes, if I am not mistaken because I cannot—

Q. And at that time you went to Judge Berkey, you say, and complained that you were poor and needed the money?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. And he gave you—and you want us to believe that he would stand all of the expenses of the trial of your husband in the district court?
A. That is what he said.
Q. Did he say he would pay the lawyer?
A. He said he would pay the lawyer, he would pay everything, every cent.
Q. Did he say how he was going to pay it?
A. I think with money, I don't know how.
Q. Was he going to pay the lawyer direct, or pay the costs direct or give you the money?
A. He said he pay me every cent that I spent for that trial, for that case.
Q. Were you to do anything?
A. If I would do anything?
Q. The Judge was to stand the expenses of the trial?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Pay the lawyer.
A. Yes sir.
Q. Pay all the costs?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Were you to do anything?
A. That I just keep my mouth shut about this case.
Q. What is that?
A. That I keep his name covered.
Q. That you keep his name covered?
A. Yes sir.
Q. There was nothing said at that time about the return of any bonds that you bought?
A. Not at that time?
Q. Not at that time?
A. No.
Q. When you went down to see Judge Berkey to tell him that your husband was arrested in the United States Court—
A. Yes.
Q. The only thing that took place was that he promised that he would stand all of the expenses if you kept your mouth shut?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How long after that was it that you went down to Judge Berkey and asked for money, asked for the return of the $500 or the $480?
A. Three or four days later.
Q. What took you down there at that time?
A. Who took me down?
Q. What took you down, why did you go?
A. I went because my husband left, and I didn't have no money in the house.
Q. Where did your husband go?
A. He said my case was settled, he promised me my case was settled, I won't go to Pittsburgh, and he left.
Q. Where did he go?
A. I don't know where he went.
Q. Where is he now?
A. He is in Harrisburg today.
Q. How long was he away?
A. He was about eight days.
Q. About eight days?
A. Yes.
Q. That is to say, you went down to see Judge Berkey and he promised to pay the expenses of the trial, pay all of the costs, because your husband jumped and became a fugitive from justice, is that right?
A. No my husband leave the same evening that the Marshal come from Pittsburgh.
Q. Where did he go for the purpose of avoiding arrest, did he go to prevent himself from being arrested?

Mr. GEYER. May I suggest that they objected to what was done down there when the Marshal came, and if they are going to cross-examine about that we ought to be permitted to go into that.

The WITNESS. The Marshal was there and wanted to take him along.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Even on the broadest interpretation of the rules of evidence, you have a right to ask that question, or any question, for the purpose of affecting the credibility of the witness, and if this woman's husband was a fugitive from justice and ran away when the United States Marshal was after him and she said that Judge Berkey promised to pay all of the expenses of the trial, to pay all of the costs, and, in addition thereto, she went back and procured the return on the $500 bond and Judge Berkey gave her money back, now certainly under the rules of evidence structly interpreted by any court you would be permitted to ask this witness those questions for the purpose of affecting her credibility?

The CHAIRMAN. Arthur Turrony is not on trial and the question of whether he ran away or not has nothing to do with the matter in question.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: Yes it does, Mr. Chairman, this woman is the wife of Turrony.

The CHAIRMAN: That is true.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. She says that the person involved in the arrest in Judge Berkey's court was her husband, and they went down there and settled this case in Judge Berkey's court. Then when they came back, a number of months afterwards, she says the United States Marshal came there for the purpose of arresting her husband and while the United States Marshal was there for the purpose of making the arrest, he becomes a fugitive from justice and is away for eight days.

The CHAIRMAN. Suppose he is away for good.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Affecting I respectfully submit the credibility of the witness on the absurd thought that a Judge of any court or anybody with any common sense at all would offer to pay the expenses of a trial, would offer to pay the costs and the employment of an attorney at the trial of the case and that, in addition, to having given back $500 on a bond which they bought?

Mr. GEYER. My only objection was, and if I may be permitted to state it, if they want to go into that matter I am entirely in accord, because I think we would be able to show that his being a fugitive was not with her desire, but that he came back within a few days and gave himself up. I only object to going into it because they prevented my showing the circumstances.

The CHAIRMAN. My thought is this, that the question of whether or not Arthur Turrony evaded these officers at the time and prevented himself from being arrested does not have anything at all to do with the matter on which she is testifying. If he was arrested and she is falsifying, if he didn't go away from them then that could be denied, but I think, Mr. Beidleman, we are going off somewhat on a tangent in going into this thing further than this.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. We don't know where on earth he went.

Mr. LUDLOW. Is it material? What difference does it make where he went.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. Ludlow, I think it is material. The only point that goes into the merits of this case is the credibility of the witness. Here is a woman who comes and tells a most remarkable story. Now, we certainly have the right to show the circumstances under which this whole transaction took place.

Mr. LUDLOW. May I make this suggestion, it would not be a bad time to get this clear. As you stated at the outset this is an impeachment proceedings. We want to give you latitude, and I think if the Governor's question is proper I do not think it should be ruled out on a technicality. The information we are seeking in definite information.

(Informal discussion off the record)

Mr. GEYER. May I suggest one matter. My objection was that if they be permitted to go into that we be permitted to follow this up, because under the circumstances it will develop that the man did go away before she saw the Judge, and after the Judge promised to take care of him he came back and gave himself up.

The CHAIRMAN: I think we will do this; we will go through with this line of testimony briefly, Mr. Beidleman, although I don't think it is pertinent myself, but in deference to the committee and I want to say again, we want all the facts we can get and we do not want to be technical in the application and the enforcement of the rules of evidence. If you will make this brief I think we will take it, and then give the other side an opportunity to meet it.

Mr. BEIDELSPACHER: You have started on this line of testimony and I would like to see the end of it.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. When did your husband go away?

A. That same evening when the Marshal was down to get him arrested.
Q. Did he run away while the Marshal was there?
A. No sir, we promised the Marshal that we would be down in Ray Patton Smith's office, in Johnstown, at seven o'clock.
Q. What time was the Marshal there?
A. About 4:30, I think so.
Q. The Marshal of the United States Court for the Western District of Pennsylvania at Pittsburgh came to your house at half past four to serve a warrant on your husband, is that right?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And he told you at that time, instead of making the arrest, that you and your husband should come to Ray Smith's office, in Johnstown, Pennsylvania?
A. Yes—
Mr. GEYER. Just a minute. I was prevented on their objection to going into what happened when the Marshal came, and I am only suggesting in all fairness, when they objected to the statement of what happened being introduced, if, on cross-examination they are going into it, then may I be permitted to reply?
The CHAIRMAN. You are expected to do so.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Did you go to Smith's office in Johnstown?
A. No sir, we didn't.
Q. Your husband went away at what time?
A. He went away half an hour after the Marshal left.
Q. He was away about eight days?
A. I am not sure, about eight days, because he went to my brother-in-law, some place around there and came back one evening, I don't know whether three or four or five days, if I am not mistaken.
Q. Where does your brother-in-law live?
A. Holsopple.
Q. Where is Holsopple?
A. Somerset County.
Q. What State?
A. Somerset County.
Q. When did you go down to Judge Berkey's office after that?
A. Next day.
Q. Next day?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What was the conversation, whom did you see there at that time?
A. Mr. Berkey.
Q. You were alone?
A. Yes sir, I went—
Q. Nobody with you?
A. Not in his office.
Q. Was there anybody with you at any time?
A. The man that my husband put there to drive my car.
Q. Who?
A. A man by the name of Joe Penelli, who drove my car.
Q. He drove your car down to see Judge Berkey? What was the conversation that took place between you and Judge Berkey at that time?
A. I explained everything that happened the day before and he says, Mrs. Turrony—
Q. The day before, what do you mean by the day before?
A. The day when the Marshal came.
Q. You were down the day the Marshal came?
A. No sir, the Marshal came about half past four or five.
Q. You explained to Berkey what the Marshall did?
A. Yes sir.
Q. All right, just tell us the language of the conversation.
A. I tell him—all right. I said Mr. Berkey Federal Agent come down to my home and arrest my husband and Thomas Cattoy on the same crime again I think everything will be all right, the case was settled up here, you promised me Judge; you said I won't have no further trouble, everything is O. K. You could go home and sleep all right, your trouble are all over, I fix everything up. Mr. Berkey, I guess we are in trouble worse than ever before. That was not right and fair that you done. Now, I said what shall I do? I have no money, I was sick at that time, my husband went away, he won't give himself up because he said it, his case was settled and they can't come down and get him no more on the same offense. Now, I said what do you think, what shall I do? He said, "Mrs. Turrony, don't worry, you go get yourself a good lawyer, and he said I help you out, I will refund every cent you spent, and whatever your trouble is I will stand for, I will take care of you". And, you, he said, "You go home and do that". I said, "Which attorney shall I take?" He said, "You go down and see Mr. Barnhart, in Johnstown, he is my friend, he will help you out". So I left.
Q. Did you see Barnhart?
A. Yes, I went down and see him the next day.
Q. Did you employ Barnhart?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. Did you pay him any fees?
A. $75.
Q. Did you pay him in money?
A. Yes, and I got a receipt for it.
Q. Where did you get that money?
A. Now, I don't remember where I got that money.
Q. If Judge Berkey made the promise to you that he would pay the lawyer, and pay the costs in this proceeding why did you pay Barnhart $75 the day you went in?
A. Because Barnhart said if he would not get $50 he would not come to Pittsburgh.
Q. If he asked you for $50 why did you give him $75?
A. That was the first time that the case was going to be up, and when I gave him money Saturday evening and he called me up Saturday about nine o'clock that the case won't come up at all on Monday and he will notify us.
Q. How long was that after you had gone to see Judge Berkey?
A. That is pretty hard for me to remember all this.
Q. How long?
A. I cannot tell you now.
Q. About how long? A week, a month or what?
A. That I gave him the $50, I guess it was—I took an oath so it is pretty hard for me to answer that now.
Q. You said you gave him $75, and then you said you gave him $50?
A. I gave him $50. our case was coming up always said the case was coming up today or to morrow, and never came up.
Q. Now, you say, madam, that the United States Marshal came there?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And you fixed that date, did you, when was that?
A. I beg your pardon.
Q. When the United States Marshal came?
A. On the 15th of March.
Q. On the 15th of March?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And you say you went to see Judge Berkey on the 16th of March?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. Can you tell us from that when you went to see Barnhart?
A. The next day, I think the 16th or seventeenth.
Q. Was that the day you paid him $50?
A. No sir.
Q. When did you pay the $50?
A. Well on the 12th of April I guess we went down to Ray Smith's, and we had our hearing there and after that the case came up I guess about two months later, the case was going to come up and Barnhart called us at the hotel and said "Mrs. Turrony, you pay me $50, my expenses and the trainfare. If you don't pay it, I won't come to Pittsburgh."
Q. Did you pay him anything to attend the hearing before Smith in Johnstown?
A. No sir, only for his expenses to go to Pittsburgh for the case.
Q. Mr. Barnhart is Mr. Frank Barnhart who was a Member of the House of Representatives a great many years ago, isn't he.
(No answer)
Mr. GEYER. That certainly is unfair.
Mr. LUDLOW. That could not make any difference.
Mr. BIDELSPACHER. We won't hold that against him.
Mr. BLUMBERG. He will live it down.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN.
Q. When did you say you got the $480 from Judge Berkey?
A. I think it was in June.
Q. In June?

A. If I am not mistaken, because it is very hard to remember all the dates because I never thought something like this would come up.
Q. What day in June, after your husband had been arrested?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You say you never expected this to come up?
A. Why no.
Q. To whom did you first talk about this matter?
A. Sir?
Q. To whom did you first talk about this matter.
A. I talked to Mr. Truxall, in Somerset?
Q. Mr. Truxall?
A. Yes sir.
Q. When was that?
A. I think it was in 1924, but I don't remember the month.
Q. Do you know when it was?
A. No sir, I don't.
Q. Was it in the summer time?
A. Why, it was in August but I cannot tell you.
Q. How d.u you happen to see Truxall?
A. Why I went up into the court house again to get some money back from Mr. Berkey and I met Mr. Truxall in the hall so I never told anybody about this difficulty but then I think Mr. Truxall was a man and I just tried to explain my trouble, the way I got all this money taken from me without having any settlement, just took the money from me, and me sick with the trouble.
Q. What money were you after at that time from Judge Berkey?
A. I was after my $1000 all the time, and I make about ten or fifteen trips to Somerset, and it cost me my money and health and everything and my time.
Q. So you got the $480 back about the time your case was pending in the United States Court?
A. In June.
Q. And you were going back for the purpose of getting back the $1000?
A. Yes, and he promised me.
Q. Then you met Truxall in the hall and told him your troubles?
Mr. GEYER. Pardon me, the witness didn't say anything of the sort.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN. All right.
Mr. GEYER. She said he had promised.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN. All right, let her answer.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. You said he had promised to give it back to you?
A. I said he promised to give me back every cent from that $1500 I paid on the street car line shares.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN.
Q. When did he promise that?
A. The same day when I went up and asked him for money when we got arrested again.
Q. Was there any other conversation?
A. Why, no, he said to help me out. I said, "Mr. Berkey, you give me your promise, a man of honor like a Judge, if he make a promise he keep it," "Yes, I will," he said. "Don't worry, don't worry, do your best and try to help yourself in this case. I will stand back of your expenses and give you every cent back."
Q. Was that in August when you were after the $1000?
A. It is pretty hard to tell you the date. I cannot. It is two years now, I cannot.
Q. You certainly can recollect whether it was when you were hunting your $1000?
A. The first time he promised to give every cent back. It was in June when he gave me $480 back. I said, "Mr. Berkey cannot you give me the rest of the money back. I need that money, I am sick of this, I need the money, I have all this trouble," and he said he will do it.
Q. That was in the summer of 1924?
A. It was in June.
Q. Of last year?
A. Last year, not last year that was 1923.

By the CHAIRMAN.
Q. Was that after your husband was arrested the second time?
A. Yes sir.
Q. He was arrested in the spring of 1923?
A. Yes, I went up in June and he give me the money back.
Q. These visits occurred after he was arrested the second time?
A. Yes sir.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN.
Q. When you said you were after this money last you mean last June?
A. I was after the money all the time.
Q. This last June just passed?
A. No sir, not that June.
Q. Not that June?
A. 1923.
Q. When did you talk to Truxall about it?
A. Well, I talked later I guess, in August, but I am not sure.
Q. Any time after that?
A. I talked to a whole lot of people about the case, I was trying to get the money back?
Q. You talked to a whole lot of people about it?
A. Yes sir.
Q. To whom did you talk?
A. If I tell you everybody I talked to I would not be done until tomorrow.
Q. Suppose you start in?
A. I talked to Mr. Truxall, the first man, then I go to Mr. Smith, in Johnstown, and then I go to Mr. Kooser.
Q. That is the man sitting at the counsel table?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Ray Smith and who else?
A. I cannot recall just now.
Q. Those are the only three that you now recall?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Then it won't take till tomorrow for you to do that?
A. Oh, well, but—
The CHAIRMAN. Let us proceed with the case.

By Mr. BEIDELMAN.
Q. Did you talk to Mr. Graham about this matter?
A. No sir, I didn't.
Q. You didn't?
A. No sir, I didn't because I never saw that man.
Q. And then you talked to some people that you didn't know, about this, didn't you?
A. No, I said I never know this man, I never talked to him, I talked to Mr. Walker, the shorthand writer in Somerset County.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN. That is all for the present.
Mr. GEYER. May I take her in reply just a minute?

RE-DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Mrs. Turrony, will you make it plain just when you went to Victor Durrando's house, I think you said it was Sunday?
A. Sunday afternoon, about 2:00 o'clock.
Q. Where did you go the next day?
A. Up in Somerset.
Q. That was your first visit to Somerset to Judge Berkey in this matter?
A. Yes sir.
Q. He first suggested that you buy bonds?
A. Not to me, to my husband Victor Durrando suggested to him that is what he tell him but I didn't hear him.
Q. You didn't?
A. No sir.
Q. What reason did Victor Durrando give you for your going to Somerset?
A. Why, to go to Mr. Berkey to settle this case.
Q. What did Victor tell you?
A. Why, Victor said—
Mr. BEIDLEMAN. If we are restricted from giving hearsay testimony that is clearly a question of hearsay.
Mr. GEYER. You went into that line of the conversation.
The CHAIRMAN. I would suggest that you ask her why she went.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Why did you go to Somerset with Victor?
A. We went to settle our case, Victor Durrando said—
Mr. BEIDLEMAN. That is what I object to, what Victor Durrando said.

The WITNESS: We went to Somerset to Settle our case.
Mr. WITKIN: It is plain that as a result of what he said she went to Somerset.
Mr. GEYER: Have your honors any questions of the witness?

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. When did you have the conversation with Judge Berkey in which he suggested that you bring in more customers in the moonshine business?
A. That was from the fifth till about the fifteenth of January, 1924.
Q. That was about two years after your first acquaintance with Judge Berkey, is that right?
A. Yes sir.
Mr. GEYER: Pardon me, that is manifestly an error; the first meeting was in January, 1923.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. When did you first go to Judge Berkey and complain of the fact that you had not received a dividend on the bonds which you had received?
A. I don't get you right, please?
Q. When did you first go to see Judge Berkey with respect to your complaint that you had not received interest on your bonds?
A. That was right at the time when he gave me the $480, it was $500, the time it was around June 1923.
Q. So that you didn't complain to Judge Berkey from about June, 1923, about your bonds until some time in January, 1924? That is correct?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And you went there, as you say, about ten or fifteen times?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And were your conversations with Judge Berkey friendly or would you be arguing with him and complaining to him about the treatment that had been afforded you?
A. Nearly always friendly, but three or four times I got tired, and so I told him I am tired of it and I want to see now how to settle this case.
Q. When were those three or four times that your conversations were not friendly? When was this first conversation, as nearly as you can remember?
A. Why some was in November, some the last of December, 1924.
Q. So that your conversation with Judge Berkey in reference to bringing other customers in the moon shine business was after your argument with him concerning the $1500?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And did Judge Berkey use the word "moonshine", or "whisky" or is that just your way of putting it?
A. No, he never said that, he said in case, he said, in this bootleg business anybody makes whisky.
Q. Anybody makes whisky, he didn't use the word "moonshine"?
A. No sir.
Q. Did you ever go back to Judge Berkey and ask for the $75 which you had paid,—what is the name of that Attorney?
Mr. GEYER: Frank Barnhart.
The WITNESS: No sir, I never recall it to his attention.
Q. You never called that to his attention?
A. No.
Q. Did you have any other expenses incidental to your trial at Pittsburgh besides the $75?
A. I think our expenses practically amount to about $1000 altogether.
Q. Now, after the time that Judge Berkey gave you $20 on account, or whatever he gave you, did you have any other conversation with him in regard to the return of bond or bonds?
A. Why, yes he said I shall bring the bonds back when he gave me the money.
Q. Where is this $1000 bond now?
A. I gave it to Mr. Kooser, a Somerset attorney.
Q. Of course, you have not received any dividends on those bonds?
A. No sir.
Q. Now, at your first conversation with Judge Berkey in the library you say that the very first thing Judge Berkey said to you, "Have you got the money along"?
A. That was the first word.
Q. And what did you say to him at that time?
A. "No, your honor, I don't have the money along this time because I don't think this case can be settled at once.
Mr. WITKIN: That is all.

By Mr. LUDLOW:
Q. Mrs. Turrony, you had never met Judge Berkey before that first day when you went into his office, had you?
A. No sir.
Q. Do you see him in the room now?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Do you see the gentleman sitting next but one to Governor Beidleman?
A. A. Yes sir.
Q. Is that the man with whom you dealt?
A. Yes sir.

By Mr. BLUMBERG:
Q. Did you say you were familiar with Judge Berkey's signature?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How many times did you see him write his signature?
A. He wrote me three or four letters, that was some of this trouble, one that was regarding Mr. Ross Scott that he wants $400, and I sent the letter back to Mr. Berkey and he wrote on the back of the letter I shall Not pay any attention to anybody because what I am doing is right, I am the boss. I have not got those letters, I burned those letters.
Q. You say he wrote four letters?
A. Yes sir.
Q. On what paper?
A. On this paper that I bring to Mr. Newman.
Q. That is the first exhibit?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Did you ever see him sign his name at any other time?
A. No sir, not in my presence.
Q. That was the first time you say you saw Judge Berkey, in 1923 or 1922?
A. In January, 1923.
Mr. BLUMBERG: Is that correct Mr. Geyer?
Mr. GEYER: Yes, from what she said.
Mr. BLUMBERG: I think you called her attention to the error in dates before.
Mr. GEYER: The letter is dated January 10, 1923, and the bank endorsements show correctly the years.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. You say that all the letters you got from Judge Berkey you burned?
A. Yes, I did, and I am sorry today.
Q. So are we.

By Mr. STADTLANDER:
Q. Who first came to see you about this case, Mrs. Turrony?
A. My brother-in-law.
Q. Who came to talk to you about this proceeding here?
A. I went myself.
Q. To whom?
A. I went to Mr. Smith back in Johnstown.
Q. Mr. Smith?
A. Yes sir.
Q. For what purpose?
A. I ask him why I should have so much trouble with this case because I was sick and had to go to Pittsburgh, and about this I am tired, and I don't care for my money if I don't get one cent back, and the man that caused me this trouble, I want to see him punished, because he cheat us out of the last $1000 we had. He gave me so much trouble for the last two years. I am still sick.
Q. You still hold the bond?
A. I do. the $1000, I don't care for the money.
Mr. GEYER: May I be permitted to make a reply to the last question.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. You still hold the bond, can you sell the bond?
Mr. WITKIN: I think that is immaterial.
Mr. GEYER: But if, as has been suggested, she has the $1000 bond, I intend to show by this and other witnesses that the bonds are strictly worthless.
Mr. MOFFATT: Has she ever made an effort to sell it?

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Did you ever try to sell this bond?

A. Two months ago my husband needed money so he went to four different banks in Johnstown.
Q. Were you with him?
A. No sir, I was not.
Mr. GEYER: Then you cannot tell what Mr. Turrony did. That is all.

C. J. NEWMAN, a witness called in behalf of the complainant being duly sworn was examined and testified as follows on:

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. What is your name?
A. C. J. Newman.
Q. You are C. J. Newman?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What is your business?
A. Cashier People's Bank of Boswell.
Q. How long have you been cashier of the People's Bank at Boswell?
A. Ten or eleven years.
Q. And before that time what was your business?
A. I was cashier of the First National Bank of Boswell.
Q. For how long?
A. Between four and five years.
Q. And before that time?
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: We will admit that he is a cashier.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. You have been a banker of twenty years experience?
A. Between fifteen and sixteen years.
Q. Mr. Newman I show you a paper which is marked exhibit No. 1, being the letter of J. A. Berkey addressed to C. J. Newman, dated January 10, 1923, and ask you whether you recognize this letter?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Where was it for a long time?
A. I had it.
Q. You had it in your possession?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Are you able to tell the committee when you received it in your possession?
A. I think the 12th of January, 1923.
Q. By whom was it delivered to you?
A. I don't just remember whether it was Mr. Turrony or Mrs. Turrony, or both of them.
Q. But by one of them, at least.
A. Yes sir.
Q. When that letter was delivered to you, what, if anything, did you give the person who delivered it to you?
A. I gave them $1000.
Q. In what form?
A. Cash.
Q. Where had you gotten that $1000?
A. They had given me that on the 9th of December, 1922.
Q. In what form?
A. Cash.
Q. For what purpose was it given to you?
A. To go on a bond of Mr. Turrony.
Q. For what, for his appearance in court?
A. For his appearance in court.
Q. When, do you know?
A. When he was to appear?
Q. Yes?
A. No, I don't.
Mr. GEYER: May I have the record in the Turrony, case, I mean the official record?
(Certified copy of the docket entry in the case of the Commonwealth versus Arthur Turroni and Thomas Cattoy handed to Mr. Geyer by Mr. Marshal).
(Docket entry, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania versus Arthur Turroni Thomas Cattoy, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of Somerset County, Pa., No. 9, February session, 1923, certified copy produced and marked complainants exhibit No. 5).
Mr. GEYER: I offer in evidence a certified copy by the Clerk of the Courts of Quarter Sessions of Somerset County to No. 9, February sessions, 1922, of a proceeding against Arthur Turroni and Thomas Cattoy for the purpose of showing a recognizance entered on the ninth day of December, 1922, by Arthur Turroni principle and C. J. Newman surety, conditioned for the appearance of Arthur Turroni at a court to be held on the first Monday of February, 1923. Is there any objection to it.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: No objection.
Mr. GEYER: There being no objection, it was offered at this time for the purpose of fixing the date. May I suggest it was offered for the purpose of fixing two things and it need not now be read into the record.
The CHAIRMAN: You had better read the part you want.
Mr. GEYER: The recognizance is taken on the ninth day of December, 1922, by Arthur Turroni and C. J. Newman, and is conditioned for the appearance of the defendant at the next term of the court of Quarter Sessions to be held on the following first Monday of February.
The CHAIRMAN: Have you stated what that exhibit is?
Mr. GEYER: It is a certified copy of the record including the recognizance.
The CHAIRMAN: That is in the record?
Mr. GEYER: Yes, I so stated.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Mr. Newman, from whom did you get this $1000?
A. I got it from M. Marcella.
Q. And who was he?
A. That was the only time I ever saw him.
Q. Was Turrony in company with him when you got it.
A. Yes sir.
Q. But the money was actually handed to you by Marcella?
A. By Marcella.
Q. I show you a paper marked exhibit No. 1, which has been offered in evidence and ask you to look at the signature, "J. A. Berkey", but before answering any question concernamination as cashier signatures of J. A. Berkey?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Have you seen him write?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Frequently or not?
A. Quite frequently.
Q. Have you had business dealings and relations with him?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Have you had passing under your supervision and examination as cashier signature of J. A. Berkey?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Can you tell us approximately how many?
A. Quite a number.
Mr. GEYER: Is there any question as to the witness' familiarity with the signatures of J. A. Berkey?
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: No.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Will you look at the signature on the letter marked exhibit No. 1, and tell us in whose handwriting are the words "J. A. Berkey?"
A. That is in the handwriting of J. A. Berkey.
Q. And the body of the letter, written in longhand is in whose handwriting?
A. The same party.
Q. Are you familiar with the handwriting of Mr. Truxall, the District Attorney?
A. Not so much.
Q. You received that letter into your posession and upon the strength of it what?
A. I returned the $1000.
Q. To whom did you return it?
A. To Turrony.
Q. The letter speaks of a case against Marcella, why did you return the money when your bail was the bail of Turrony?
A. They came back with this letter, and they also had the receipt I gave them when I received the money. I was not so very familiar with them, Marcella was a large man.
Q. Did you make a careful examination of the letter?
A. Yes, I read the letter, and I told them, of course, upon receipt of the letter, if they gave me the letter I would return them the money.
Q. Did you return the money to Turrony.
A. Yes sir.
Q. Did you give a receipt for the money when you first took it?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Have you the receipt?

A. Yes sir.
Q. Will you produce it?
(Witness produces receipt).
(Receipt signed by C. J. Newman, dated December 9th, 1922, produced and marked complainant's exhibit No. 6).

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. I show you a paper marked exhibit No. 6, dated December 9, 1922, and ask you in whose handwriting it is.
A. Mine.
Q. And whose signature is there to it?
A. My signature.
Q. When did you get that receipt back in your possession.
A. The same time I got this letter.
Q. By this letter you mean the letter of Judge Berkey of January 10, 1921?
A. 1923.
Q. 1923, pardon me.
A. Yes sir.
Mr. GEYER. I offer in evidence this receipt, which reads as follows: "December 9, 1922, Received of M. Marcella one thousand no/100 dollars for signing bond of Arthur Turroni, to be used to make bond good if necessary, or to be refunded when he appears at court. $1000. C. J. Newman. Endorsement, January 12, 1922, money returned. C. J. N."

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. You got it back when you returned the money?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Mr. Newman, you have testified that you are familiar with the handwriting of Judge Berkey. I show you exhibit No. 3, the latter part of this with the words beginning "I beg", and ask you in whose writing those words are.
A. Judge Berkey.
Q. And there is a signature below, "J. A. Berkey", in whose handwriting is it?
A. His own handwriting.
Q. I show you a check marked exhibit No. 2, dated January 12, 1923, and call your attention to the signature on the back, "J. A. Berkey", and ask you in whose handwriting it is.
A. His own handwriting.
Q. It is your business to decipher the stamps upon the backs of checks, is it?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Will you take this check and decipher the record of the movement of that check, where was it first deposited,
A. Farmers National Bank of Somerset.
Q. Anything to indicate to whose order.
A. No.
Q. What is the next bank endorsement which appears?
A. Stamped over the signature of the Pittsburgh bank, and from there to the Federal Reserve Bank.
Q. And finally back to what bank?
A. Finally back to the Pennsylvania Trust Company, Johnstown.
Q. On which it was drawn?
A. Yes sir.
Mr. BLUMBERG. Mr. Geyer, will you let me see exhibit No. 3, please, and also exhibit No. 2.
(Mr. Geyer handed exhibits No. 2 and 3 to Mr. Blumberg).

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Mr. Newman, as a banker of these years experience, are you familiar with the market value of securities, locally and otherwise traded in, in Somerset County?
A. Yes, to some extent.
Q. Is it part of your business to pass upon the value of such securities?
A. It is.
Q. For collateral and other purposes.
A. Yes sir.
Q. And to keep in touch with the sale and sale price of such securities?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Are you familiar with the issue of bonds of the Johnstown & Somerset Railway Company?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Will you tell us what was the market value of those bonds in the month of January, 1923.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN. I don't know what the attitude of the committee is on the question of the value of these bonds. Of course, the general rule is that in order to show the market value you have to show that there is a market, that they have been offered in the market and traded in. If you are going into the question as to whether these individuals sold these bonds below par, why all right, but we ought to be able to show then the physical value of this property, and the fact that the bonds are worth par, and that none of the officers of this company have sold a single bond for less than one hundred cents on the dollar, and all the money went into the company.
Mr. GEYER. I don't know whether the whole statement is true, but it certainly is not an objection. My point now is to, prove that those bonds in January, 1923, had practically no value, or market value of seven, ten to fifteen cents on the dollar. That is for the purpose of throwing light on the intent in the mind of the judge whose sells to the party who has litigation before him.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN. According to certain court decisions you must show, from all testimony of this kind, that the bonds were traded in. I don't have a case at hand, but I know it has been decided by the Supreme Court.
The CHAIRMAN. Cross examination testimony will go into testimony in order to show the position of these bonds. The value is not questioned at this time. Now under the circumstances we think that we will permit the gentleman to testify as to the market value of the bonds, or possible market value, so far as there is a market, and we will take it for what it is worth.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: That is with the understanding, of course, that we can then go into the question of this road, and the value of these securities.
The CHAIRMAN. We may want to go into that ourselves before this is over.
Mr. GEYER. We have no objection to it.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. What in your opinion was the fair market value of these bonds in January, 1923?
A. There was no market value at all, hardly.
Q. Did they have any value as collateral?
A. They did not.
Q. Will you state whether they were received, or whether they were regarded as having any value as collateral?
A. They had been offered to me as collateral, but I never received any. They had no value so far as we are concerned, as collateral.
Q. Do you know of the sale of bonds at that time, or shortly before, or shortly after?
A. You mean private sales?
Q. Yes, or public sales.
A. I know of one sale that was in a death, where the assets were put up at public sale, when there was a bond put up there and the wife of this party paid $250 for a $1000 bond. Of course, there was no other bid made, and she got the bond.
Q. Do you know of any other sales?
A. No.
Q. Did you hear of any other sales?
A. People offer them, but I didn't hear of sales.
Q. At what price were they offered?
A. Practically your own price.
Q. What do you mean by that?
A. Well, I know a party offered me a $500 bond for $25 or $50.
Q. Were there takers at such prices?
A. Not that I know of.

CROSS EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN.
Q. Mr. Newman, you returned this money to Turrony, did you?
A. Yes sir.
Q. When did you return it?
A. The 12th day of January, 1923.
Q. January 12, 1923?
A. Yes sir.
Q. The complainants in this case have offered in evidence exhibit No. 4, being a letter addressed by Truxal to you under date of December 24, 1924, will you tell how you happened to get that letter?
A. I never got it.
Q. You never got it?
A. No sir.
Q. Did you ask for it?

A. No sir.
Q. You never saw this letter?
A. I don't konw anything about it.
Q. Never sent to you?
A. No sir.
Q. This is the first time you have ever seen it?
A. Yes.
Q. You never made any request from any person or Truxal for a letter of this kind?
A. No sir.
Q. You say you have known the Johnstown & Somerset Street Railway Company for how long?
A. Ever since it has been.
Q. When was that?
A. I don't remember the date, it was started under two different headings, the first time back in 1917, along there.
Q. Operates over 15 miles of track, 5 belonging to the Johnstown Traction Company, and the other 10 being laid down and owned and operated by the Johnstown & Somerset Street Railway Company?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Have you advised yourself as to the amount of money invested in the company?
A. No, not exactly.
Q. Advised yourself as to the value of the property that is owned by the company?
A. Not entirely.
Q. You don't profess to be able to give an opinion of the value of the holdings of the Johnstown & Somerset Street Railway Company, do you?
A. Pretty hard to get just very colse to it.
Q. You never made any estimate or appraisement?
A. No.
Q. And therefore you are unable to state what is the value of the bonds of the Johnstown & Somerset Street Railway Company, are you not?
A. To what extent?
Q. Based on what.
A. Knowledge.
Q. Knowledge of what?
A. Of the road.
Q. Do you know the cost of the road per mile?
A. You mean what was expended?
Q. What it would cost for the purpose of building the road?
A. Nearly about, I could tell.
Q. How much a mile?
A. What it should cost?
Q. I am not asking what it should cost; do you know when it was built?
A. Yes sir.
Q. When?
A. 1920, I guess.
Q. Considerable was built during the war period, was it not?
A. Yes sir.
Q. At a time when prices were up?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You familiarized yourself with the cost of construction of street railways at that time?
A. Some, yes.
Q. To what extent, what railways did you appraise at that time?
A. I didn't appraise any.
Q. You didn't advise yourself carefully as to the value of any street railway, did you?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Which one?
A. The Pennsylvania & Maryland.
Q. Where?
A. Somerset County.
Q. Located where?
A. Meyersdale.
Q. New project?
A. No.
Q. How long in operation?
A. Since 1908.
Q. Then your judgment was not based upon any costs that were required to build street railway during the period 1917-1918, up to 1922-23?
A. If you doubled it up you would get about—
Q. You mean to say you have not had any experience in bidding?
A. Never bid on street railways.
Q. Did you base your opinion as to the value of street Railways upon this doubling of value, or do you put it on the cost of construction of this street railway at Meyersdale in 1908?
A. How is that?
Q. Do you base your opinion of the value or the cost of the Johnstown and Somerset Street Railway Company by just doubling the value of the cost of the Meyersdale Street Railway Company, to which you have referred?
A. That together with state roads, you get a pretty good idea.
Q. What do you mean by state roads?
A. Cement roads.
Q. The construction of a concrete road and street railways is entirely different, is it not?
A. It is different as to construction, but the cost when it comes to grading is practically the same thing.
Q. What experience have you had in the value of railways?
A. Rails?
Q. Yes.
A. I never—
Q. What experience have you had in the cost of copper wire to construct your trolley lines?
A. I heard considerable of it.
Q. Have you ever had any actual experience with it?
A. No, I never built any road.
Q. What experience have you had in the cost of poles, or to the cost of the pole line?
A. I know about what a pole costs.
Q. What do you know, if anything, about the ballasting of the railway company?
A. I know a good bit.
Q. Will you state to the Committee how they in any way conform to one another, that is, the railway company and the construction of a concrete road?
A. You get there practically the same proposition in building one road as another, with the exception that you have not your rails, and the bed is not as extensive as a concrete road.
Q. Do you know the cost of cars?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How much?
A. Depends on the kind of car you built.
Q. How many cars does the Johnstown & Somerset Railway Company have?
A. Four.
Q. Four cars, how much did they cost?
A. Well, a few of them only cost a couple of thousand dollars, while the others cost around ten thousand.
Q. A couple cost a couple of thousand, and the others cost ten thousand?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Did you undertake to say how much money was invested in the Johnstown & Somerset Street Railway?
A. I did not.
Q. Do you know that there has recently been built or is now being built a portion of the line from the present terminus down to Berlin?
A. I know that it is talked about.
Q. Do you know that they are actually working, and have been working on it for some time?
A. No.
Q. Do you know whether or not any money has been invested by the company on the extension?
A. You mean prior to this?
Q. Yes, prior.
A. They did some grading a few years ago.
Q. Has there any been done lately?
A. Not that I know of.
Q. Have you been over the line?
A. Not lately.
Q. When was the last time that you were over this line?
A. I didn't go over the——you mean ride on the cars?
Q. Yes, when did you go over the line?
A. Not for a year or two.
Q. Yes, and when the line does not run along a line of public road, it runs on privately owned rights of way, which rights of way are owned by the company, are they not?
A. Yes sir.
Q. So the only way you can find out the physical condition of the road is to ride on it or go over it, that is something you cannot get in any way except by going over the railway?

A. I have been over it.

Q. What is the physical condition of the road?

A. Well, it is not bad.

Q. You mean it was not bad at the time you went over it how long ago?

A. Oh, a year or two.

Q. You don't know whether there have been any improvements put on it?

A. No.

Q. You don't know the present conditions of the road?

A. No, not now.

Q. Thereby having nothing upon which you can predicate the value of these bonds?

A. Yes sir.

Q. What?

A. Well—

Q. And you base your value on one sale, where in a decedent's estate, a $1000 bond sold for $250?

A. And a number of others being offered at all times.

Q. Do you know whether or not any of those bonds were ever sold by any officer of the company except at par?

A. I don't.

Q. You have not attempted to advise yourself of that record, have you?

A. Yes.

Q. Where and from whom did you make the inquiry?

A. A number of customers at the bank from whom I made those inquiries quite frequently.

Q. I am asking you where you made your inquiry as to whether or not any bonds of the Johnstown & Somerset Street Railway Company were ever offered by any officer on the part of this company, below par?

A. No, I don't know that they were.

Q. Now, you are unable to say how much money is invested in the company?

A. I don't know exactly.

Q. Do you know how many bonds are outstanding?

A. Only hearsay, is all I know.

Q. How many bonds are outstanding?

A. I don't know of my own knowledge just how many.

Q. If you don't know the number of bonds outstanding, and you don't know the physical condition of the road, or the cost, how are you in a position to tell the market value of the bonds?

A. Demands determines that almost entirely and the selling price at what they sell, that determines the bond market in all cases practically.

Q. You say the market value of these bonds depends upon the experience you have had of one sale in a decedent's estate of $250 for a $1,000 bond, and some other bond holders who have offered them there in the community, small lots, were they?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Yes.

A. I didn't say that that determined it, I say that the readiness of sale determines the price, the sale price, of any security.

Q. Irrespective of the amount of the property, of the value of the property that is actually behind the bond itself?

A. That will determine the sale price of it.

Q. And also irrespective of the number of bonds that are outstanding?

A. That all enters into one and the same thing, I believe.

Q. And also enters into the price of the bond the amount of business done by the company?

A. Of course.

Q. Do you know how much business was done by this company since it first began operating down until now?

A. I don't know.

Q. Do you know the rate of fare?

A. I don't know it right now.

Q. Do you know the number of passengers they were hauling?

A. No.

Q. So that you don't have any information upon which you predicate the value of these bonds, except what you have said of these sales that others have sold?

A. That is it.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. That is all.

RE-DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. Do you know the territory through which it runs?

A. Yes sir.

Q. What is the character of the territory?

A. It goes through practically an open country between Jerome and Holsopple. Then from Holsopple on again to Johnstown.

Q. How large a town is Jerome?

A. I would say 1500 people.

Q. And Holsopple?

A. 1000.

Q. How far are those two apart?

A. Probably six or seven miles.

Q. What is the next town—are you going north towards Johnstown now?

A. Yes sir.

Q. The next town?

A. Davidsville.

Q. How large is it?

A. About 300.

Q. How far is that from Holsopple?

A. Two or three miles.

Q. The next town as you go towards Johnstown, that runs right on into Johnstown then from there?

A. Yes.

Q. How long is that road?

A. You mean the entire road?

Q. Yes.

A. About 15 or 16 miles.

Q. How many cars do they run on it?

A. They run at a time.

Q. I know, but how many do they have, do you know?

A. Two, I understand.

Q. What is their schedule, how often do they run the car?

A. I cannot give you the exact time, one every couple of hours.

Q. It is not every half hour, or fifteen minutes service?

A. Oh no.

Q. Have you any information as to the total issue of those bonds?

A. I don't have any absolute information.

Q. What is your information?

A. There was an issue of $500,000 of bonds.

Q. Do you know anything of the market price in the days gone by of those bonds?

A. There was hardly ever a sale only by officers of the company, they could not be sold any other way, and this we know exactly.

Q. Do you know anything of the commissions paid for selling?

A. I heard of these commissions at the time they were sold.

Q. What were they?

A. 30 per cent.

Q. When you speak of 15 miles of railroad, are you including the 5 miles of road in Johnstown?

A. I don't know whether they include it or not, I could not say exactly.

Q. Isn't it a fact that there are only 10 miles of road that are owned by this company?

A. Yes, I guess that would be near it, 10 or 12 miles along there.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN.

Q. Did I understand you to say that you don't know whether or not the line in Johnstown belongs to the company or not. That little matter of five miles in the cost of the railroads don't make much difference to you in the value of the bonds?

A. I know the road in Johnstown does not belong to them.

Q. This road runs through what is regarded as the best coal land in southwestern Pennsylvania, doesn't it?

A. No, it does not run through it.

Q. Doesn't it run through coal lands?

A. It comes up to Jerome, just the starting of the best coal fields there.

Q. It is full of mine around Holsopple?

A. Yes, small mines.

Q. There is one mine there that produces as many as 20 cars a day, insn't there, the Victor mine, I refer to?
A. Yes, it may do that.
Q. You don't keep yourself very well advised as to the physical condition of that part of the country?
A. Well, enough for my business.
Q. For your business?
A. Yes sir.
The CHAIRMAN. Mr. Beidelman, may I interrupt you for just a moment. I want to say again that the Committee wants to get all the facts that we can possibly get, but personally I cannot see where the value of these bonds enters into this question on either side. The only thing, as far as we are concerned, is the circumstances under which these bonds were purchased. I don't think it makes any difference to us whether they were worth $5000 or worth $500 or worth 50 cents? The question is not on the value, but it is the circumstances under which they were gotten. Now if there is anything that bears on the sale of these bonds, there are allegations made in reference to that, then I think we would be justified in going into it. We have no desire to curtail the testimony.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN. The only relevancy it may have is the imputation that the other side endeavored to give the committe that these bonds that were held by these people were worthless things.
The CHAIRMAN. I don't think that makes any difference Mr. Beidleman, from the standpoint of the charge under which they were taken. As I understand, it is a question, so far as the Hon. Judge Berkey is concerned, as to the circumstances under which they were delivered to these people. I think that is the point in this whole line of testimony.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: It would seem to us that if there are bonds involved in this case, where they are endeavoring to put an interpretation on them that the bonds are worthless, we have the right to show that those bonds are worth par.
The CHAIRMAN: I don't think we ought to go into it on either side. That is my own personal thought.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: The fact that they are not sold at par is a different proposition from whether or not they are worth, par, or whether or not the property is behind them to make them worth par. We are prepared to show, under all the circumstances, that the Johnstown & Somerset Street Railway Company bonds are worth the amount of money that is invested, and which is properly invested in this company.
The CHAIRMAN: I understand that, Mr. Beidleman. My point is that the charge here is the improper method and the circumstances under which they were sold or delivered. That is the question before the committee at this time, and not the question of the value of those bonds. I think when we get off of that, and that is the purpose of this line of inquiry, we are going far afield.
Mr. GEYER: My purpose was to show the dealings of a judge with litigants, which is reprehensible, by dealing in securities in his office, when these securities had a market value at so much less than the price at which they were sold, because it does affect the moral character of a judge who not only deals with litigants, but deals with him to his personal advantage, in that the judge has sold a bond and made a profit over what he could sell that bond for to people who would be investors in the open market.
The CHAIRMAN: If that is your intention, then Mr. Beidleman is perfectly right in going into this line of testimony.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Has it been your experience, Mr. Newman, that in the construction, or during the course of the construction of a street railway line, or any other line of business there is a certain risk of investment?
A. Always a risk.
Q. And that bonds that are worth actually per sometimes are temporarily suspended in market value from receiving par on account of that fear that the people have as to whether or not the operation is going to be a go?
A. Yes, that is true under certain circumstances, but then you get the same thing in a five per cent bond that you sell at a high price, I don't care how good the five per cent bond should not sell over seventy-five to seventy-eight.
Q. You don't think the Pennsylvania Railroad Company was in danger because it passed the dividend, and did not lose the confidence of the people?
Mr. GEYER: It depressed the market value of the stock down to thirty-two.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: But the people were not willing to give it up because they had it.
The WITNESS: Lots of them sold it.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Your experience also during the war was that Liberty Bonds were sold at par and came down as low as eighty or eighty-one?
A. That is just what I said—those bonds should not have sold for over seventy-five.
Q. And those bonds are all now being sold above par, are they not?
A. That is another thing—Oh, Liberty Bonds, yes.
Q. Liberty Bonds?
A. Yes, that is a different thing.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. Of what time are you speaking with respect to the sales of those bonds, the sales of bonds that you refer to, what dates are you speaking about, what was the date of the decedent's sale?
A. I don't remember the year exactly, around 1919 or 1920 probably.
Q. That was some time prior to this time, 1923 was it?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What dates did you refer to when you referred to people coming into your bank, and trying to sell those bonds, what dates are you referring to?
A. Most any date since that.
Q. Cannot you be more specific?
A. I cannot give you a date, because I have them offered every once in awhile.
Q. How long after the decedent's sale in 1919 did you say the first or second or third of those transactions took place concerning which you have testified?
A. I have had them offered in 1922 and 1923, along there.
Q. You cannot give us any more definite date, can you?
A. No, I never paid any particular attention to them.

By Mr. STADTLANDER:
Q. Have you made inquiry for a financial statement of the Street Railway Company at any time?
A. I have not inquired.
Q. Have you ever asked for a financial statement?
A. No.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. Can you give us, of your own knowledge, any idea, approximate or accurate, as to the amount of money actually expended by this Johnstown and Somerset Railway Company to date in the construction of the road, and the buying of supplies and material?
A. I cannot give you an accurate statement.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. May I ask one question which I overlooked? Are those bonds in default of the payment of interest?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Can you tell when they first defaulted?
A. I think somewhere between 1920 and 1922, if I am not mistaken. I could not give that absolutely.
Q. They have been in default for several years?
A. Yes sir.

By Mr. LUDLOW:
Q. How many directors have you in your bank board?
A. Nine.
Q. Has your bank board as a board ever discussed loans by your bank on the collateral of these bonds, or has it been entirely left to you as the cashier?
A. Well, it has been brought up at our meetings at different times, and discussed but not on any particular loan.
Q. Have they ever decided for or against a loan on this collateral as a board?
A. Yes they decided they would not make a loan on that collateral.
Q. At a regular board meeting?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How long ago?
A. Oh, quite awhile.
Q. Before this transaction of Mrs. Turrony, which was in January, 1923?
A. Oh, yes before that.

Q. Has it ever had the matter up since that time?
A. No.
Q. Have you a finance committee.
A. No.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Who is the attorney for your bank?
A. Mr. Kooser.

Arthur Turrony, a witness called in behalf of the complainant being duly sworn was examined and testified as follows on

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. You are Arthur Turrony who has been spoken of by this witness?
A. Yes sir.
Q. The husband of Mary Turrony?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Did you go with your wife to see Judge Berkey in January, 1923?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Whom did you go with?
A. My wife and Thomas Cattey and Victor Durrando.
Q. What day of the week was it that you went there?
A. Monday.
Q. How did you come to go there? Now, don't go into the conversation but where were you the Sunday before?
A. Somebody told me that Victor could get my case settled there in Somerset.
Q. Where were you on Sunday before you went to Somerset?
A. In Victor's house.
Q. Who told you to go to Somerset?
A. Victor.
Q. With him?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Did you go with him the next morning?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Now, just tell the committee what happened when you got to the court house on that first morning?
A. On the first Monday?
Q. What happened when you got to Somerset?
A. Victor Durrando and my wife and Thomas Cattoy, we go into the library in the room close to Mr. Judge's office.
Q. Yes? Now, what did Victor do?
A. Victor he talk with the Judge.
Q. Where?
A. Right in the library.
Q. Did you hear what he said?
A. No.
Q. How long did he talk to the Judge?
A. About ten minutes.
Q. Then what did the Judge do?
A. Victor Durrando met me and my wife with the Judge and said here is Mr. Turrony and his wife. The Judge asked him if I got money along.
Q. Who asked you that?
A. The Judge.
Q. What did he ask?
A. Have I got money along.
Q. What did you say?
A. I said no.
Q. What did the Judge say?
A. He said I come back on Wednesday and take some money along and then he go and settle the case.
Q. Did you know Judge Berkey?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Where had you seen him before?
A. Right in the court house.
Q. What did he do in the court house?
A. He was in large chair and have some case in there.
Q. In the Judge's seat?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Was that the man you talked to in the library?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Did you talk any more with him that day?
A. No sir.
Q. When did you go back again?
A. Wednesday.
Q. On Wednesday? Who went with you on that day?
A. My wife and Thomas Cattoy and Victor Durrando.
Q. Where did you go?
A. Right in the Judge office.
Q. What happened?
A. Victor Durrando when he was in the Judge office, Victor Durrando he took me in the adjoining room and talk with me.
Q. What did he say?
A. He told me if I buy some street car bond the Judge will settle my case without paying any expense.
Q. Did he say how much you were to buy?
A. No sir.
Q. What did you do then?
A. When I came out Victor was there in the meantime he talked with the Judge.
Q. Did you hear what was said?
A. No.
Q. Then what did the Judge do?
A. Then the Judge—Victor he was leaving the room before.
Q. What did Victor say when he left the room?
A. He said he want to leave the room because the lawyer in Somerset don't like him very much, don't like anybody to see him in the Judge room.
Q. When he left the room what did the Judge say?
A. The Judge he asked me how much money I got along.
Q. What did you say?
A. I said I got $500.
Q. What did he say?
A. Then he say it is all right and then he go back in his safe in there he give me some kind of paper.
Q. Yes?
A. He have some kind of cupboard in the corner of the room.
Q. What did he get out?
A. He got bond out.
Q. What did he do with them?
A. He bring them over to me, a $500 bond, and I give him $500 in cash.
Q. Yes, then what did he say?
A. Then he go back again and get another $1000 bond.
Q. Yes?
A. He came to me again take that $1000 bond, I trust you for that money you send me money as soon as you can.
Q. What was said about where you had the $1000?
A. What do you mean?
Q. Was anything said about Newman?
A. Newman was not there.
Q. Was anything said about Newman, anything about the bank?
A. He said that on Monday the first time I was up to see him.
Q. The first time?
A. Yes sir.
Q. The Judge?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What did he say?
A. He asked me if I am pay on bond.
Q. You said yes?
A. Yes, then I told him I must pay $1,000 here in Boswell Bank and then I bailed Thomas Cattoy.
Q. You bailed Thomas Cattoy?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You were a property owner?
A. Yes sir.
Q. After the Judge gave you the $1000 bond, what did he do?
A. He gave me a letter?
Q. Did you see him write the letter?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Where was he when he wrote it?
A. Right close to his table, desk.
Q. I show you this letter which is marked exhibit No. 1, is that the letter which he wrote there?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What did he do after he wrote the letter?
A. After he wrote the letter he go down in the District Attorney's office and make him sign, the District Attorney.
Q. Did he say what he was going for?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What did he say?
A. He say he have to go down to District Attorney to sign that paper.

Q. How long was he gone?
A. About fifteen minutes.
Q. What did he say when he came back?
A. He said the District Attorney won't sign but he make him sign it.

By Mr. BIDELSPACHER.
Q. What was that?
A. He won't sign it for me but I make him sign it for me.

By Mr. GEYER.
Q. What else did he say?
A. He said you can come back to the Boswell Bank and get your $1000.
Q. Did you go to the Boswell Bank?
A. Yes sir.
Q. With this paper marked exhibit No. 1?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What did you do with the paper?
A. I give it to Mr. Newman.
Q. Mr. Newman?
A. Mr. Newman.
Q. What did you get from Mr. Newman?
A. I get the $1,000 check.
Q. Was it a check or cash?
A. Check.
Q. What did you do with this $1,000 that you got?
A. I go down in Johnstown and I know a man Z (?) that I put that money in a bank. I say to him—
Q. I don't get that. You mean down to Johnstown with a $1000 check?
Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Now, let him answer. He was going to say something, let him answer. We have a right to have an answer without any interruption.
Mr. GEYER. Pardon me, gentlemen, he started to say what he said to the man in Johnstown, that is the reason I stopped him, but if I am not to we will let him go on.

By Mr. GEYER.
Q. Go ahead then and tell what you did when you went to Johnstown?
A. I know a man by the name of Z (?) that he write a check with me some day when I get money out of the bank.
Q. I show you a check marked exhibit No. 2 and call your attention to the name "Arthur Turrony" on it, did you write that check?
A. Yes, I know I sign that check.
Q. Who wrote the check?
A. Somebody else wrote check.
Q. I show you a letter marked exhhibit No. 3 and ask you did you sign the letter?
A. No sir.
Q. Did you have someone write the letter?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Who was the person who wrote that letter for you?
A. A son of Mark Marcella.
Q. What did you do with the check and the letter?
A. You mean this letter (indicating exhibit No. 3).
A. Yes sir.
A. I sign that check for the bank.
Q. You sign the check?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What did you do with the check and the letter?
A. I sent the check and this letter to Mr. Berkey.
Mr. GEYER: I now offer in evidence this check and letter, the signature of Mr. Berkey having been identified.
The CHAIRMAN: Read the letter.
Mr. GEYER: Check on the "Pennsylvania Trust Company of Johnstown Pa., Johnstown, Pa. January 12, 1923, No..... Pay to the order of J. A. Berkey $1000.00 one thousand dollars, Arthur Turroni," and the endorsements testified to and interpreted by the bank man.
The letter accompanying the check being on the stationery of the "Marcella Hotel, 442 Washington Street, American and European Plan, M. Marcella, proprietor, Johnstown, Pa., January 12, 1923. Dear Sir:— In close your afine check for one thousand dolalrs ($1000.00) for my appayment in full for my bonds. Accept my Thanks. And Oblige Arthur Turroni." And the acknowledgment on the same letter in the handwriting of Judge Berkey. "I beg to acknowledge receiving your check for the $1000 bond. J. & S. Ry. Co., J. A. Berkey."

By Mr. GEYER:

CROSS-EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. When you took Miller into the court house in January or December you went in for the purpose of trying to sell that bond, didn't you?
A. No sir.
Q. Didn't you say your arrangement was you were to try and sell Miller a bond and you would get your money back?
A. Well the second time I was up.
Q. What was?
A. It was the second time.
Q. But you went in; did Miller tell you he was going to buy any bond?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Did you suggest it to him, did you tell him you want him to buy a bond?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Did you tell him you wanted him to buy a bond for $500?
A. No sir.
Q. How many did you tell him you wanted him to buy?
A. I didn't put any price.
Q. Did you know how much money Miller had?
A. No sir.
Q. Did you ask him?
A. No sir.
Q. You just took him in to see Judge Berkey and that deal you had with Miller was to try and get him to buy a $500 bond in order that you could get your money back?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And you would go then and give your bond to Miller? Is that right?
A. I give it to the Judge not to Miller.
Q. You were not to give it to Miller?
A. No. I give my bond to Judge.
Q. And the Judge was to give your bond to Miller?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And Miller was fined $100 and costs by the Judge?
A. Yes sir.
Q. When?
A. I think it was in January.
Q. About the same time?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And when did you find that Miller was not going to buy any bond?
A. Miller told me.
Q. When?
A. When?
Q. Yes?

Q. Who did the talking?
A. Victor did the talking.
Q. Did you all go into the Judge's office?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How long were you there?
A. About fifteen or twenty minutes.
Q. And when you came out of there, when you came out of the Judge's office you went right out of the court house, did you?
A. No, what do you mean?
Q. As soon as you got through in Judge Berkey's office, did you go out of the court house?
A. I suppose.
Q. Well you did, did you?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You went right in to the Judge's office and when you came out you went right away?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Who did you first talk to about this case? When did you first talk about this case?
A. Mr. Ray Patton Smith.
Q. Did you talk to any person else about it?
A. Yes sir.
Q. To whom?
A. Mr. Kooser.

Q. Who else?
A. Mr. Kooser.
Q. This is Mr. Kooser here (indicating)?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Did you talk to anybody else?
A. I talked with a good many people, I don't remember any more.
Q. How did you happen to come to talk with Mr. Kooser about that?
A. Because my wife she was up once to Attorney Kooser.
Q. And then you went up?
A. And then I met Mr. Kooser on the road.
Q. What?
A. Then I met Mr. Kooser and we talk together about it.
Q. When was that?
A. A month and a half or two months ago.
Q. Where, at Smith's office in Johnstown?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You were sent for to come to Smith's office, were you?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How many times did you see Mr. Kooser?
A. You mean in Johnstown?
Q. Yes, any place?
A. I see him a good many times.
Mr. GEYER: That is all. Have your honors any questions?
The CHAIRMAN: No questions.

THOMAS CATTEY a witness called in behalf of the complainant being duly sworn was examined and testified as follows on

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. What is your name?
A. Thomas Cattey.
Q. Where do you live Mr. Cattey?
A. I live at Johnstown, close to Johnstown.
Q. At Tire Hill?
A. At Tire Hill.
Q. Did you go with Mrs. Turrony and Mr. Turrony and Victor to see Judge Berkey?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Where did you see him first?
A. Somerset.
Q. Where?
A. Right in his Court room.
Q. In what part of the Court House?
A. In the library.
Q. What happened when you went in there?
A. Why, Mr. Victor Durrando he went in first.
Q. Yes.
A. To see if Mr. Berkey was there. Mr. Victor went in to see if Judge Berkey was in the library, in his office.
Q. Yes.
A. Then he come out and he say, "Come in, boys" so we went in there and he said he asked Mr. Turrony if he has any money along with him.
Q. Who asked that?
A. Judge Berkey.
Q. What did Turrony say?
A. Turrony say, "No, I have no money along."
Q. What was said next?
A. Mr. Berkey said, "Well, you go back home and bring up your money Wednesday."
Q. Was there anything said about $1000 on that day?
A. Why yes, Mr. Turrony said he had $1000 in bank, bail lying down in a Boswell Bank.
Q. What did the Judge say?
A. The Judge said, "Well we got that fixed up so you will be out of bond."
Q. You will be out of bond?
A. Be out of bond.
Q. Who had bailed you?
A. Mr. Turrony.
Q. Who had bail on Turrony?
A. Mr. Mark Marcella.
Q. Do you know how he bailed him?
A. I believe I can't exactly tell you time, at the time he bailed Mr. Turrony I was in the county jail.
Q. Now, Mr. Cattoy, did you go back with him on Wednesday?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Tell the gentlemen what happened on Wednesday?
A. On Wednesday we went up to Somerset Court House, we went up to Mr. Berkey so Victor he took Mr. Turrony on the side in the side room I didn't hear what he said to him, I could not say. Me, and Mrs. Turrony, sit together.
Q. How long was Victor and Turrony in that side room?
A. Oh, probably fifteen or twenty minutes.
Q. Then what happened?
A. Then they came out and talked together.
Q. Then Victor took Mr. Berkey in the side room about something, could you hear what was said?
A. No could not understand what was said.
Q. Then what did Victor do?
A. Well, Victor he said, "Well boys, I got to go, because the lawyers in Somerset County they hate me so."
Q. Yes.
A. Then he went, and then Mr. Berkey said, "How much money have you along?" and he said $500.
Q. Who said that?
A. Judge Berkey.
Q. Who said, "I have $500?"
A. Mr. Turrony.
Q. Yes, go on?
A. He went back to the safe and pull out a $500 bond.
Q. Who went to the safe?
A. Mr. Berkey, and he hand it over to Mr. Turrony and Mr. Turrony hand over $500 cash so he went back and he took another bond, $1,000 bond and bring it over to Mr. Turrony.
Q. Who went back and got a $1,000 bond?
A. Judge Berkey. So he says "Here Turrony I see you are good people and honest and I trust you with that $1,000 bond, pay me as soon as possible."
Q. What else was said?
A. Mr. Turrony said "I go to Boswell Bank and get that money out and pay you as soon as possible."
Q. What did the Judge do?
A. Mr. Turrony said, "You better give me paper so he know about my discharge from the case." So Judge Berkey gave him a note of the charge there would be nothing on the case any more. It will be O. K.
Q. Did he write that note for you there?
A. Yes he wrote a note and he said he must go to the District Attorney, and see if he will sign it.
Q. Was that the letter he signed? (Showing witness exhibit No. 1).
A. Yes sir.
Q. Then did he go?
A. Yes sir, he went downstairs he stay away about fifteen or twenty minutes. He said I had pretty hard time to get him to sign but finally I get him to sign it.
Q. Did he say anything else?
A. He said you people can go home and sleep tight and they not worry and more.
Q. Did you go away?
A. Yes.
Q. Did he ask you at that time to buy bonds?
A. Victor Durrando asked me if I want to buy $500 bond; I tell him I had no money.
Q. Had you money?
A. No at the present time I had no money.
Q. Did you go along to Newman to get the $1000?
A. No sir.
Q. Were you afterwards arrested in the United States Court?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Now Thomas, do you know the man you talked to that day was Judge Berkey?
A. Never knew him before.
Q. Did you see him afterwards?
A. I see him twice, Monday and Wednesday, that is the only time I see Mr. Berkey.
Q. Did you see him any time after that at all?
A. I see him once down in Elm Park, I cannot tell you exactly, along about two or three months.
Q. Do you know the man when you see him?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Do you see him here?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Where is he sitting?
The CHAIRMAN. Let him point him out.

By Mr. GEYER.

Q. Will you walk back to the Judge, is he sitting in the room, and point him out to us?

A. (Witness points out Judge Berkey)

Q. Is that the man you dealt with on these $1500 of bonds?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Was Victor with you?

A. Yes sir.

Q. What transaction took place in the Judge's Office?

A. I don't exactly get you?

Q. All of the transaction that took place on Wednesday was in the Judge's Office, was it?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And everybody there?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Anybody else beside you and Turrony, and Mrs. Turrony and Victor and the Judge?

A. No sir.

Q. Was anybody there?

A. Nobody there.

Q. What hour of the day was it?

A. About 11:00 o'clock.

Q. That was on Wednesday?

A. On Wednesday.

Q. You didn't see anybody around the court house that day?

A. No sir.

Q. Who did you first talk to about this case?

A. About this case?

Q. Yes?

A. I didn't talk to no one.

Q. You didn't talk to anyone?

A. No sir—

Q. You mean this is the first time you talked to anybody about this case.

Mr. GEYER: He didn't finish his answer.

The WITNESS: The only time I ever talk about this case was over in Somerset County on the 15th day of March, we get pinched for something over there and we talk about it.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:

Q. Whom did you talk to?

A. Ray Patton Smith, in Johnstown.

Q. Anybody else?

A. Yes.

Q. Is Smith the only person you talked to about this case?

A. I talked to him first and then Mr. Kooser.

Q. Anybody else?

A. No sir, that is all.

Q. How often did you talk to Mr. Kooser about this case?

A. Only once.

Q. When?

A. About three or four weeks ago.

Q. Where?

A. In Johnstown.

Q. How did you happen to see him?

A. On the street.

Q. Had you seen him before?

A. No sir.

Q. And you just happened to run across him?

A. Yes sir.

Q. How long had you known Kooser?

A. That is the only time I know Mr. Kooser.

Q. How did you happen to stop him on the street in Johnstown if you did not know him?

A. I ask a fellow who he was and the fellow point him out.

Q. Then you went up and accosted Kooser, did you?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Did you talk to him on the street or did you go to an office with him?

A. Went to an office.

Q. Where?

A. Smith's office.

Q. Smith's office?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Walked down street with Kooser to Smith's office.

A. Yes sir.

Q. How long were you in there?

A. A few minutes.

Q. About how long?

A. A few minutes.

Q. What does that mean?

A. Five or ten or fifteen minutes.

Q. That is the only time you ever talked to him?

A. Yes sir.

Q. He is the only person you talked to prior to this hearing and has anybody talked to you since you have been in Harrisburg?

A. No sir.

Q. When was your case disposed of?

A. My case?

Q. Yes?

A. On the 26th day of September.

Q. The 26th day of September of what year?

A. 1924.

Q. 1924?

A. Yes sir.

Q. What was the disposition made of it?

A. Why, Mr. Barnhart had the case in his hands.

Q. Where?

A. Pittsburgh.

Q. What was the sentence?

A. There was no sentence. We were supposed to have our case, we went to Pittsburgh, there was no one around. We went in a little room and Mrs. Turrony and Mr. Turrony and sat down there, and a couple hours after Mr. Barnhart came out and shook hands, and says "Everything is all over boys, go home."

Q. What was done with your case in Somerset?

A. In Somerset?

Q. Yes?

A. They tried us at the court.

Q. It was testified to by witnesses who just preceded you that you paid $100 fine and costs?

Mr. GEYER: No. No, that was the Miller case.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: The Miller case?
Tnat is all.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Were you ever called to Somerset in this case before Judge Berkey?
A. No sir.
Q. Never called up there?
A. No sir.
Q. You were never called on it.
The CHAIRMAN: May I ask a question?
Mr. GEYER: Yes.
The CHAIRMAN. Do I understand from the record that these two men, Arthur Turrony and Thomas Cattoy, were both indicted together?
Mr. GEYER. Yes.
The CHAIRMAN: Just the one case on the record?
Mr. GEYER. That is what I understand from the record, and I understand from the record also that a nol. pros was entered.
The CHAIRMAN. That would answer the Governor's question.

By Mr. STADTLANDER.
Mr. Cattoy, do you live in the same house with the Turronys?
A. I do now.
Q. Were you before?
A. No I was batching before.
Q. In the same house?
A. No five hundred feet away in some shanty.

By Mr. GEYER.
Q. Did you rent that house from the Turronys?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Was that the house in which the liquor was found?
A. Yes sir.
A. Yes sir.
Q. Was that what you meant when you said, a moment ago, that you were doing it yourself?
A. Yes sir.
Q. It was not a hotel?
A. No sir, little rooms.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. At the time that you were arrested, where was Mr. Turrony?
A. He just went into the town, him and the Mrs.
Q. Was he in your house when you were arrested?
A. No sir.
Q. And you say you live five hundred feet away from the Turronys?
A. Yes sir.
Q. In a private home?
A. That is not my—
Q. The house in which you live, that is a private house?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Now, when this conversation with reference to the bonds took place in Judge Berkey's office, who was present, did you say?
A. I and Mr. Turrony, Mrs. Turrony and Victor Durrando.
Q. And it was while you four were present that Judge Berkey spoke about those bonds, that is correct, isn't it?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What did Judge Berkey say to you in the presence of those four?
A. The first time?
Q. No the second time?
A. He asked Mr. Turrony if he had that money along with him and he say I have $500.
Q. What did Victor Durrando say?
A. He didn't stay there long enough, when first we went in there and then he take Mr. Turrony inside and talk to Mr. Turrony about something, I don't know.
Q. Were the four of you present? Victor Durrando, Turrony and his wife and you when Judge Berkey spoke about those Bonds?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You are sure about that?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You took an affidavit in this case, did you not, you went before a Notary Public and took an affidavit on the 23rd of January 1925, you swore to an affidavit didn't you?

Mr. WITKIN: Have you got the original affidavit here, Mr. Geyer?
Mr. GEYER: No, you have it on your file, I would not have it.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. I show you an affidavit and ask you whether that is your signature?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Now, you swore to the facts in that affidavit?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Didn't you say in this affidavit that the conversation about these bonds took place after Victor Durrando left?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Now, I just asked you whether or not you didn't have this conversation in the presence of the four of you and you said yes, now how do you explain that?
A. I mean the four of us, I made a mistake myself.
Q. Now, which is true, which is correct?
A. After Mr. Durrando left, we had the conversation.
Q. So that the answer you made there to Mr. Geyer's question and the questions asked by Mr. Beidleman with respect to the fact that Victor Durrando was present at the time these bonds were spoken about is not correct, is it?
A. No sir.
Mr. GEYER: My recollection is that he didn't say that.
Mr. WITKIN: He did in answer to my question.
Mr. GEYER: He didn't in answer to my question.
Mr. WITKIN: I asked him if all four were present and I mentioned no names.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: Of course he would not answer that to Mr. Geyer's question, they were so leading he would not let him go on.
Mr. BLUMBERG: Including the Judge, four were present.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. What did the Judge say, Mr. Cattoy, about the bonds, just what did he say?
A. He says, "Mr. Turrony, did you bring that money," he asked how much money he had. "No',, he said "$500 I have", so he went to the safe pulled out the $500 bond and handed that over to Mr. Turrony, and Mr. Turrony handed him $500 so he paid Judge Berkey, took the money out of his pocket. He walked over and got another $1000 bond and walked over to Mr. Turrony and said "Here, Mr. Turrony, I see you are an honest man and so on, here is another $1000 bond, I trust you for it, pay it as soon as you can". Mr. Turrony said "I don't have the money but I try to get the money out of the Boswell Bank".
Q. Was this $500 paid in cash or check?
A. Paid in cash.
Q. What were the denominations of the bills, do you know what sort of money?
A. That I cannot tell you.
Q. You could not tell?
A. I could not tell.
Q. Didn't you watch him pay the $500 and see what denominations it was?
A. I could not tell whether it was five or twenty or one hundred, I could not tell.
Q. What is your business?
A. Coal miner.
Q. For whom are you working?
A. Mr. Thomas Lochery.
Q. What is the gentleman's address?
A. Tire Hill.
Q. For how long have you been working for that company you just mentioned?
A. About a month.
Q. What was your business before that?
A. Coal miner
Q. Whom did you work for?
A. Berwin-White Coal. Company.
Q. Where are they located?
A. In Johnstown.
Q. How long did you work for them?
A. About two years.
Q. Two years straight?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What two years?
A. 1923 and 1924.

Q. I am talking about the last five years, what has been your business?
A. Coal miner all the time.
Q. In the last five years have you been working as a coal miner?
A. Yes sir.
Q. For whom have you been working in the last five years?
A. I worked for the Pittsburgh Coal Company there in Fayette County.
Q. How long have you been working for them?
A. I worked since I was thirteen years old.
Q. I am talking about the last five years, this is 1925? Who were you working for in 1923?
A. In 1923 for the Berwin-White Coal Company.
Q. In what capacity, what were you doing?
A. Digging coal.
Q. Did you work there late in 1923? The whole year?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Are you sure of that?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Whom did you work for in 1925?
A. The Berwin-White Coal Company.
Mr. MARSHALL: I do not think this is material.
Mr. WITKIN: I think it is important. There has been a charge made here against the judiciary, and it is my purpose to see and ascertain whether or not these people are people that should be believed, if they are worthy of belief. It has to do with their credibility, and I intend to make it my business to investigate and ascertain the facts they have given me with reference to their occupations.
Mr. MARSHALL: I have no desire to curtail anyone but personally I do not think it is material at all, and I would ask that you exhaust this matter as soon as possible.
Mr. WITKIN: It is my purpose to see that justice be done irrespective of which way justice is to be done.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. How long were you in jail, Cattoy?
A. When?
Q. In the case?
A. That was two days, from Saturday night until 3:00 o'clock Monday, in Somerset County.
Q. Whom did you work for in 1924?
A. For the Berwin-White Coal Company.
Q. Two years straight?
A. Yes sir.
Q. So you have been continuously employed as a coal miner during the years 1923-1924?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Steadily?
A. Yes, I have my statement down home, I can show you.
Q. You are still employed now as a coal miner?
A. Yes sir.
Mr. WITKIN: That is all.
Mr. MARSHALL: There is no doubt you are a coal miner.
The WITNESS: Yes sir.

W. CURTIS TREXALL, a witness called in behalf of the complainant being duly sworn was examined and testified as follows on

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. You are a member of the bar of Somerset County?
A. Yes sir.
Q. In 1923 you were the District Attorney in that county?
A. I was, sir.
Q. I show you a paper marked exhibit No. 1 being the letter of January 10, 1923, which is "I join with the Judge with this letter" signed "W. Curtis Truxall", is it?
A. Yes sir.
Q. This is your signature?
A. Yes sir.
Q. It was signed by you on that day?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Mr. Turxall I show you a letter dated September 24, 1924, addressed to C. J. Newman, Cashier, and signed "W. Curtis Truxall", is that your signature?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You wrote the letter?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You have heard the testimony of Mrs. Turrony?
A. Only part of it, I came in late.
Q. Mr. Truxall, will you tell us the circumstances under which you wrote the letter of September 24th, is it?
A. Yes sir.
Q. 1924?
A. Yes sir, my recollection is that Mrs. Turrony met me in the lobby of the court house and asked me if she could speak to me. We went from there across the street to my office and there she showed me a letter marked exhibit "A".
Q. Exhibit "A" is what we call it here?
A. Oh, exhibit "A", and in that letter she called my attention to the name "M. Marcella" that it was in error.
Q. Did you have any prosecution against M. Marcella?
A. No, I don't think so.
Q. And you had one, at that time, against Turrony?
A. Yes sir.
Q. This letter, exhibit No. 1, was intended to refer to what case?
A. That was, as I understood, Commonwealth vs. Turony and Cattoy, I believe.
Q. But it contains a reference that it is a case against Marcella?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And you say that was an error?
A. It was an error and that was the purpose of writing this letter here to correct that error.
Q. And you then wrote this letter?
A. Yes sir.
Q. That was given to her?
A. That was it exactly.
Q. That is explanatory of this letter?
A. Yes sir.
Mr. GEYER: We offer in evidence this letter of the District Attorney. I think it has not been offered previously but I believe you saw it, Mr. Beidleman.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: Yes, we saw it.
The CHAIRMAN: Did you read it?
Mr. GEYER: No, but I desire to read it now.

"W. Curtis Truxall, Attorney-at-law, Somerset, Pa., District Attorney, September 24th, 1924. C. J. Newman, Cashier, Boswell, Pa. Dear Sir:—Mrs. Turrony handed me a letter of Judge Berkey's dated January 10th, 1923, in which I joined at the bottom thereof. I find, upon examination of the record, that the Judge evidently made a mistake in the name of M. Marcella, where it should have been Arthur Turrony. A Nol. Pros was entered in this case and you were relieved from the Bond. The Nol. Pros. was entered at the time for the reason that the Court held all search warrants issued on the form of affidavit which was used in that case to be illegal, and all evidence secured thereunder could not be used in the trial of a case. Yours very truly, W. Curtis Truxal."

Mr. GEYER: We have no further questions of the witness.

CROSS EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Mr. Truxal, you state in your letter which you say you gave to Mrs. Turrony addressed to C. J. Newman ——
A. Yes.
Q. That a nol, pros. was entered at the time for the reason that the Court held all search warrants issued on the form of affidavit which was used in that case to be illegal; that determination of the Court was before this Turrony case came into the court, was it not?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And the Court had universally held these cases to be illegal?
A. Yes sir.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN.: That is all.

By Mr. BIDELSPACHER:
Q. In the Turrony case, you had requested the court to enter a nol, pros. had you not?
A. Yes, we talked it over.
Q. And your own written request is a matter of record?
A. It is.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. That was in July, 1923?
A. I should like to look at the record.
Mr. WITKIN: This is a copy of the record, July 3, 1923.

By Mr. BLUMBERG:
Q. Was it in line with your action in all other similar cases?
A. It was the first case of that kind.
We had brought probably six or seven cases prior to this on a similar form of search warrant and the court had quashed the indictment holding there was no violation. Mr. Scott, attorney for the Turronys, came to me and asked me whether I would compel him to go through the procedure again, and I said it has been ruled and I will move for a nol. pros. in this case.
Q. In other words, the motion for a nol. pros. came from you on a request from the attorney for the Turronys on the ground that the search warrant was illegal in this case?
A. Yes and it had already been ruled upon.

By the CHAIRMAN:
Q. May I ask you, Mr. Truxal, had you been requested to nol. pros. this particular case before Judge Berkey called upon you on this particular day?
A. Read that question?
(Question read)
A. I think that I was not requested by any person but I was asked what I was going to do, and I said I believed I would move for a nol. pros. and my recollection is that I held it off for awhile, waiting until we could get a decision from Supreme Court in other cases.
Q. That discussion was with Mr. Scott?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And when was that?
A. I don't exactly know when—my recollection is maybe a week or ten days before this case, I am not sure.
Q. Those people were represented by counsel Mr. Scott?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And for some weeks prior to the nol. pros being entered, you know they were represented by Scott?
A. No, a few weeks after the case came into the clerk's office, and Mr. Scott spoke to me, but I have no recollection of talking to him about the case; therefore, I think it was dismissed from my mind.
Q. A few weeks must have elapsed before it came into the clerk's office?
A. Not likely, I get the cases within five days.
Mr. GEYER: The record will show.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: The cases were returnable about January 9, if my recollection serves me.
Mr. WITKIN: I see it here on the file, January 9, 1923, according to your records.
The WITNESS. Very well.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. Then you say it was a few weeks after that that Mr. Scott spoke to you as representing Turrony and Cattoy with respect to this nol. pros.?
A. That was immediately after that but I cannot say the time.

By Mr. LUDLOW:
Q. Mr. Truxal, on January 10, 1923, the day after the information and return were filed, Judge Berkey brought this letter that is addressed to Mr. Newman and you signed at the foot these words "I join with the Judge in this letter" and signed your name as District Attorney?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What did the Judge say when he asked you to sign that?
A. My recollection is this: I think the Judge came down and stated that these people—that Newman had the money. I knew Newman, the cashier of the bank in which the money was tied up, and Newman was on the bond and had the cash and this would relieve it, and I signed readily so that he could give them the money.
Q. Did you know the day after the return that the proceeding was, in effect, illegal?
A. The day afterward?
Q. Yes sir.
A. I don't know, the first thing I knew about it was when Mr. Scott called my attention to it several days after, maybe a week probably two weeks.
Q. When the Judge said in his letter to Newman, "I find the proceeding was illegal and will not be prosecuted further" and you had joined below with the Judge in this letter, did you do that at the request of the Judge without a knowledge of the record?
A. No, I merely glanced at the letter and understood the purpose of the letter and probably forgot about it or I would have noticed the error in the name.
Q. But you did not sign the letter knowing all the facts in the case that was only filed the day before.
A. A return had been filed six months before that, seven months.
Q. This letter is dated January 10th,, the nol. pros. was in July. I want to get it straight for my own information. There is an inconsistency some place. Here is the letter (showing witness letter).
A. Oh, I see. At the time I wrote this I liked at all the papers, at the time I signed it.
Q. How long was the Judge in your office, do you recall, in discussing the matter?
A. I am not able to say whether the Judge was in, I don't recall.
Mr. LUDLOW: All right.

By Mr. BLUMBERG:
Q. You were familiar, as I understand, with the records in the case?
A. Oh, yes.
Q. You knew the type of search warrant on which he was arrested?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And you had these previous rulings by the Judge?
A. Yes, I glanced at the record before I came down here.

By Mr. BIDELSPACHER:
Q. Prior to the date of this letter?
A. Yes sir.

By Mr. BLUMBERG:
Q. You say you knew the facts as related by the Judge were absolutely so?
A. That is the way he had been holding.
Q. At the time of the request of the Court you knew it was actually so?
A. Yes, and I did it for the purpose of getting this woman her money.
Q. But you were familiar with the record.
A. Yes sir.
Mr. BLUMBERG: That is what we want to get at.

By Mr. LUDLOW:
Q. Do you usually return the bond before the court takes any definite action? I mean what was your practice of doing it there?
A. In that particular case the cashier of the bank went on the bond. Before going on the bond he had received from the defendants, as I understand, the money. Now, the cashier of that bank could not release that money until he knew the case was disposed of, and that was the purpose of my joining in the letter.
Q. Of course the case was not formally disposed of until July, seven months later?
A. I was not very diligent in presenting the nol. pros.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. These returns came to your office?
A. They come to the clerk's office.
Q. Then they come immediately over to you?
A. No.
Q. Your office is right next door?
A. I have access to them of course.
Q. Yes.
A. But I don't—I generally look over the cases.
Q. Was there any reticence on your part in the signing of that letter of Judge Berkey?
A. No sir.
Q. He came down and submitted it to you and discussed the matter, and you signed it without any trouble of any kind?
A. Yes sir.
Q. No argument about it?
A. No argument.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. After making an examination of the record in that case and with your knowledge of the previous decision in cases that had been handed down, you thought it was the proper thing to do, didn't you?
A. Yes sir.

By Mr. LUDLOW:
Q. Then when they said that Judge Berkey had difficulty in getting you to sign that letter at the foot of the letter, they made a mistake?
A. That is an error.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Mr. Truxal will you just permit me a moment -- the record here in this case indicates that this return was filed on January 9, 1923?
A. Yes sir.
Q. That would be filed in the office of the clerk?
A. Of the courts.
Q. How soon after the return is filed in the office of the clerk, in ordinary practice, do you see it?
A. Well it usually doesn't come to my attention until the case comes up for trial at the next grand jury, when we begin to make up our list of cases for the next grand jury.
Q. You don't go in there from time to time and get out the docket, but you wait until court approaches and then you get them from the clerk's office?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And on January 10th, you joined with the Judge in that letter?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Had you at that time examined the return in this case?
A. Yes, I think so, oh, I know I did.
Q. Did you notice in that return that the magistrate certified under oath that the defendants had plead guilty before the committing magistrate?
A. I would not say whether I did notice it or not.

By Mr. GEYER.
Q. Are you certain that you had seen the return in this case before Judge Berkey had talked to you, it would be unusual for you to have examined it, wouldn't it?
A. The reason I think I examined it, without any question, is because Mr. Scott had spoken to me about it.
Q. Before the return?
A. I think the return was in because I think Mr. Scott had spoken to me about it. I think he had it in my office, but I am not sure about it.
Q. You do not know when Mr. Scott talked to you about it?
A. I know Mr. Scott came in and my recollection is it was a week or ten days after the case, but I may be in error about that.
Q. I think, Mr. Truxal, you did hold up the actual entry of the nol. pros. awaiting a decision by the appellate court on the legality of this search warrant?
A. Yes, and I probably overlooked it.
Q. Did you give any notice to Sterling, the prosecutor of the action in this case?
A. I think Mr. Sterling came in the office and I told him about it.
Q. Was it before January 10th?
A. I cannot tell you.
Q. Did you advise Mr. Sterling to bring his action in the United States Court?
A. Mr. Sterling made that remark, and I said I wish you would.
Q. Was that the first time you told him that the case was going to be nol. pros.?
A. As far as I know.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: From what we know about the rules of evidence, I would say Mr. Geyer is cross-examining his own witness.
Mr. GEYER: They are not my witnesses, if you please, they are the witnesses of the Commonwealth.

HARRY STERLING a witness called in behalf of the complainant being duly sworn was examined and testified as follows on

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. You were the prosecutor of Arthur Turrony?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You were then a member of the State Police?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You are no longer a member of the force?
A. No sir.
Q. When was the first you had any notice or knowledge that the prosecution which you had brought was nol. pros.?
A. I don't remember the exact date.
Q. When was it in relation to court?
A. I think it was in the early part of 1923.
Q. Do you know whether it was before or after January 10th?
A. I don't know.
Q. And from whom had you notice?
A. Mr. Truxal.
Q. Was the notice given to you that it was going to be done or that it had been done?
A. I could not say. I was continually inquiring about different case which I would have there, whenever I was in Mr. Truxal's office, and I inquired about this case; I was then notified.
Q. What?
A. That I believe I was notified that it was going to be nol. pros., and later I think it was.
Mr. GEYER: That is all.

NUNCIO PACIFICO a witness called in behalf of the complainant being duly sworn was examined and testified as follows on

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. What is your name?
A. Nuncio Pacifico.
Q. Where do you live?
A. Jerome.
Q. In Jerome, Somerset County?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What is your business, Mr. Pacifico?
A. Miner.
Q. Mr. Pacifico, I show you a petition to the Commissioners of Somerset County which has your name signed to it and is sworn to by you? Did you recognize your signature?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Had you bought bonds from Judge Berkey?
A. Yes sir.
Q. When did you buy the first bonds from the Judge?
A. It was about 1921.
Q. What time in 1921?
A. Well, I am hardly tell you because I keep no record.
Q. Have you the bonds?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Will you let us see them.
(Witness hands bonds to Mr. Geyer)
Q. I show you certificate No. 503 for five shares of the stock of the Johnstown and Somerset Railway Company, which is dated the 29th day of March, 1921, and is made out in your name. Is that the day when you bought the first bonds?
A. Well, I guess it is.
Q. How many did you buy the first time?
A. $500.
Q. Did you buy any after that?
A. Yes, but I didn't bought them for the same thing.
Q. When did you buy the next lot of bonds?
A. You mean when I start the other two—oh, shortly after this one, I start $200 more.
Q. How soon after you paid these first ones did you buy the second ones?
A. Oh, not very long.
Q. How long?
A. About two weeks or so.
Q. About two weeks?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Did you pay for the first $500 of bonds?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How?
A. Oh, I sent my woman after that.
Q. In cash?
A. Well I guess she paid them in cash.
Q. You gave here cash?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Did you get your first $500 bond?
A. Yes sir.
Q. When you bought the next ones, how many did you buy?
A. I buy $200. You know I not finish pay the $500 so I owe $200, and I have a credit for that.

Q. You paid $200 and you got a credit on the $500, and you were to get the $500 when you paid the $300?
A. Whenever, I finish paying.
Q. Now, in this petition to the Commissioners of Somerset County you say that you still owe Judge Berkey $300. is that right?
A. Well, on the bonds.
Q. You still owed him $300 for the bonds?
A. When I pay that $300 then I get $500 bond.
Q. When you say in this petition that you still owe Judge Berkey $300, that is true?
A. Why yes, if I pay him then I get—
Q. $500 in bonds?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Now, you owed the County Commissioners $1000, didn't you?
A. Yes, that is between costs and all.
Q. You owe that $1000 for a fine that Judge Berkey put on you?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How much of that fine did you pay the commissioners?
A. It show you there some place how much I pay.
Q. Was it $700 that you paid the commissioners?
A. Seven hundred and some dollars.
Q. And the commissioners had started to collect the $300 from you, is that right.
A. No, no, they collect what is in Court.
Q. How much was the balance that yau owed the Commissioners?
A. Well, that paper will show you too.
Q. This paper will show it?
A. This paper shows.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: Now I object to that, this is his witness and we certainly ought to have the story properly told instead of counsel telling it for him.
Mr. GEYER: Let me correct right now, he is not my witness.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: You called him.
Mr. GEYER: I called him, yes, but I call him in an investigation and some of these witnesses are hostile, and I am asking for an explanation of record evidence. This is not a private prosecution.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: They certainly have not been hostile up to date.
Mr. GEYER: I contend that any member of the committee may take this affidavit which this man made, and to which he refers and to ascertain if it is correct.
Mr. WITKIN: The best evidence is his statement, not what he swore to in prior affidavit.
Mr. GEYER: That is true.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: If he makes statements contrary to his affidavit you can plead surprise, and then cross-examine him, but you have not that right now.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Mr. Pacifico, you had been fined $1000 and given a year in jail, haven't you?
A. I get a year in jail—oh, you mean $1000?
Q. You had been fined $1000 and got a year in jail and then the sentence of a year in jail was suspended by Judge Berkey, isn't that so?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And for that $1000 you gave a judgment to the county commissioners for $1000?
Q. How much had you paid the County Commissioners on that $1000.
A. The first beginning?
Q. Yes?
A. I pay about $150, maybe $200.
Q. How much do you still owe the County Commissioners on that $1000?
A. Well that would be $850.
Q. You have paid $850, is that right?
A. No, I paid $150 before the strike come out and when the strike came up I told them I could not pay so quick so I went up to the Commissioners, not the Commissioners, but the clerk, whatever you call him, and say I cannot pay nothing now at the present time.
Q. Yes?
A. Then after the strike come off maybe again then I start to pay on it.
Q. How much did you pay all told on that $1000?
A. I pay $725 or $750, something like that.
Q. And you still owed $250 or $275?
A. I still owe the rest.
Q. And then did you go before the Court?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Who went with you before the Court?
A. What do you mean.
Q. Well, when you went before the Court who went with you?
A. Nobody went myself, went up there.
Q. Who did you see?
A. Judge Berkey.
Q. What did you say to him?
A. I say to him if he could relieve a little bit.
The CHAIRMAN: Speak louder.
The WITNESS: Relieve a little bit.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Where was the Judge when you asked him this?
A. Up in chamber.
Q. Was there anybody else there?
A. My lawyer.
Q. Who was your lawyer?
A. Boose.
Q. What did you ask the Court?
A. I ask for relief a little bit on that bail.
Q. For relief on the $1000 you owed the court?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What did the Judge say?
A. He said we will try to do something.
Q. Did he do something?
A. Well, I guess he did because then what you call him—
Q. The county commissioners?
A. The county commissioners made out that papers.
Q. And left you off for the rest of the fine, is that right?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And you still owed the Judge $300 on the bond?
A. Yes, but he never asked me to pay it.
Q. He never forced you to pay it?
A. No.
Mr. GEYER: In this connection I offer in evidence a certified copy of the records in the proceeding against Nuncio Pacifico, charging these items, first proceeding to No. 56 September Sessions, 1921, for the purpose of showing that Nuncio Pacifico was arrested June 13, 1921, and on August 29, 1921, he plead guilty before bill found and on the same day was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and a fine of $1000 and to undergo simple imprisonment in jail for a period of one year, and that he stand committed on the same day the Court discharged him in charge of the probation officer for one year on the following terms and conditions: pay the costs of prosecution and report by letter once each month to the probation officer.
Mr. LUDLOW: What was the date of the sentence?
Mr. GEYER: The date of the sentence was August 29.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: What year?
Mr. GEYER: 1921. You will recall in the sequence of events he buys the first bonds on March 2, 1921 and a short time later he buys more bonds on credit.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: We don't have the date of that short time, is that two weeks?
Mr. GEYER: Two weeks. He was arrested on June 13, 1921, and on August 29, 1921, he is sentenced to pay $1000 fine and to a year of simple imprisonment but the sentence of imprisonment is suspended.
I next offer the proceeding to 101, December Sessions, to show that this defendant was, on October 13, which is approximately six weeks after his suspended sentence, again arrested on a similar charge, and on December 13, is called for trial and is found guilty. On January 9, 1922 he appears in chambers whereupon the court imposes the following sentence: That Nuncio Pacifico pay the costs of prosecution, a fine of $1000 and to undergo simple imprisonment in and for the County of Somerset for the period of one year and that he stand committed in the custody of the sheriff until discharged by the court later the same day. The court discharged defendant on probation for a period of one year on the following terms and conditions: Payment of costs and fine and that he accept the advice of W. H. Matthews.
Mr. LUDLOW: What is that?
Mr. GEYER: W. H. Matthews, evidently probation officer.
Mr. GEYER: Now, the next proreeding is 40, February Sessions, 1923, which shows that on the 2nd day of February, 1923, he was again arrested on a similar charge, and on May 15, 1923, he is called for trial. On May 18, 1923 the defendant was convicted and a motion for a new trial made, and on July 9, 1923, Judge Berkey arrested judgment directing the county to pay the costs on the ground that the verdict was against the weight of the evidence.

I also offer in evidence a certified copy of the record of No. 25, December Sessions, 1923, showing that the defendant was, on the 29th day of September, again arrested on a similar charge. On November 26, 1923, a true bill found, on December 14, 1923, case called for trial and the jury returned a verdict of not guilty but pay the costs.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: Do you find any fault with the verdict of "not guilty" by the jury?

Mr. LUDLOW: This fellow is not a coal miner.

CROSS EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:

Q. Pacifico, you have not been asked to pay anything on account of the bonds which you bought of this railway company since your first arrest, have you?

A. What do you mean?

Q. You have not paid anything on this bond that you say you bought long before you were first arrested?

A. No.

Q. You have not been asked to pay, have you?

A. No.

Q. What were the costs that you paid in that first case? One hundred dollars and how much?

A. Well, that is right.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: Will you let me see this record, please?

(Mr. Geyer handed record to Mr. Beidleman)

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:

Q. You were arrested another time about which Mr. Geyer has not said anything?

A. Never say anything?

Q. You were arested for blowing up a bridge?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And in that you were acquitted?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And the fellows who were convicted, the Board of Pardons pardoned just a few weeks after they went to jail, did they not?

A. Yes sir.

Q. You paid over $100 costs in each case, didn't you?

A. Yes, it cost about—

Q. Beside the fine? All of these sentences were imposed upon you by Judge Berkey after you had bought bonds, were they not?

A. Yes sir.

By Mr. BIDELSPACHER:

Q. Are you married?

A. Yes sir.

Q. How much of a family do you have?

A. Six.

By Mr. WITKIN:

Q. Paid seven hundred and some odd dollars on a thousand dollars fine?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And then you went and told the Judge you could not pay any more, that you had a wife and family?

Mr. GEYER: We can offer the petition.

By Mr. WITKIN:

Q. How much did you pay of the fine?

A. $750 or $725.

Q. Then you went in with your lawyer to Judge Berkey, is that right?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And told him that you had a wife and six children?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And asked him to let you off for the balance?

A. Yes sir.

Q. That you were hard up?

A. Yes sir.

By Mr. LUDLOW:

Q. Who sold you this stock?

A. Judge Berkey.

Q. Judge Berkey sold the stock?

A. The first one, yes.

Q. The first one?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you go to him to buy the stock?

A. No, my woman went.

Q. Is she here?

A. No.

Q. You had no personal talks with the Judge about the stock?

A. No.

Q. Now, you are working?

A. Yes sir.

By Mr. WITKIN:

Q. You probably took the advice of Mr. Matthews?

A. Yes sir.

Mr. GEYER: That is all.

JOHN S. MILLER a witness called in behalf of the complainant being duly sworn was examined and testified as follows on

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. What is your name?

A. John S. Miller.

Q. What is your profession?

A. Attorney-at-law, Somerset.

(Petition to county commissioners of Somerset County vs Nuncio Pacifico, No. 121, February Term, 1922, produced and marked complainants exhibit No. 7)

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. Mr. Miller, I show you a petition marked exhibit No. 7, in a case marked, "Commissioners of Somerset County against Nuncio Pacifico" to No. 121 February term, 1922, and ask you whether you recognize it?

A. I do.

Q. It is the petition of Pacifico to the county commissioners for relief from the payment of a fine?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Who prepared the petition, Mr. Miller?

A. I did.

Q. In whose instance?

A. The county commissioners.

Q. Were you representing the county commissioners?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Did Pacifico sign this petition?

A. He did.

Q. And swore to the facts contained in it?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Did you go before Judge Berkey with this petition?

A. No.

Q. Who did, if you know?

A. I don't know that anyone did.

Q. Where you present at the conversation with Judge Berkey at which the matter was considered?

A. Yes sir.

Q. When? You may use the petition to refresh your recollection, Mr. Miller, if it will aid you?

A. Apparently about November, 1924.

Q. Do you recall the circumstances of the interview?

A. I think I do.

Q. Will you relate them to the committee?

A. About that date Mr. Boose with Nuncio Pacifico. Mr. Boose being his attorney, came to my office, which is opposite the court house, and said, at least Nuncio said, he was sent to me as the county solicitor by the Judge. He said he had paid part of a fine of $1000 and asked for relief. I didn't give the thing very much concern because we didn't take the position, the county commissioners did not take the position of relieving sentence or relieving fines. Later in the day, perhaps in the afternoon, I was called to come to the Judge's chambers and I went over and saw Mr. Boose, Nuncio Pacifico and the Judge, and the question of relief of the balance of the fine was discussed, and—

Q. What if anything was said about Nuncio being indebted to the Judge?

A. I don't remember there was anything said at that hearing about it. I don't recall if there was.

Q. That petition that you have before you was filed with whom?

A. The County Commissioners.

Q. Was it filed before or after that conversation with the Judge?

A. After.
Q. What was said at that conference?
A. The conference before the Judge?
Q. Yes?
A. Among other things said, the Judge said he was not imposing a heavy sentence as he did formerly, and thought that Nuncio should be relieved of paying any of the fine, and if I recall, and if I am correct, he said that the commissioners should prepare a petition to him and he would sign it relieving Nuncio from the payment of any further part of the fine.
Q. And what was done after that?
A. There was a writ of execution in the sheriff's hands directed to the District Attorney. The sheriff, of course, under the writ was directed to collect the balance of the money. Information apparently reached him that relief was sought for Nuncio, and he came to us and asked about it. The commissioners requested me to go with the sheriff to see Nuncio, to see his circumstances anr conditions, to see whether or not the writ should be stayed. I went with the sheriff and with deputy Jones to the home of Nuncio. and Nuncio told, in the presence of the sheriff, Jones and myself, all the facts in this petition.
Q. Which you put in that petition?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And that is a copy of the petition which you have before you?
A. Yes sir.
Q. An exact copy?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What did you do with that petition?
A. I filed it in the commissioners office.
Q. Has it been addressed to the Judge?
A. Well the caption is to the county commissioners on the statement of the case asking for relief of the balance of the fine.
Q. And upon that basis has relief been granted?
A. I thing that the District Attorney stayed the writ.
Q. And no further effort made to collect it?
A. The District Attorney is here, he would be the best witness.
Q. And refreshing your recollection, what reason if any was given you by Nuncio as to his inability to pay these fines?
A. Well, the reason set forth in this petition, that the times are hard, that he had bought these bonds and still owes the Judge $300.
Q. Did he say what bonds he had bought?
A. Yes, he told me the bonds that were written in here are the numbers of the bonds that he showed to the sheriff and to me and the deputy, and they are the numbers which are written in this petition.
Q. How many bonds had he bought and paid for?
A. As I recall, he bought a bond of $500 and perhaps three of $100 each.
Q. And how many had he contracted to buy?
A. He said he had contracted to buy another bond at $500.
Q. Did he say from whom?
A. He said from Judge John A. Berkey.
Q. Did he say when he had contracted to buy this other bond from John A. Berkey?
A. If I can recall I would say some time during the year 1923.
Q. Was there anything said by way of special reference—

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Senator, is it incorporated in that petition?
Mr. GEYER: Yes, Governor.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: Will you let us see the petition?
Mr. GEYER: You had it.
Mr. HULL: No we didn't have, it.
Mr. GEYER: I know you had it.
Mr. HULL: Let us see it and then we will know what you are talking about.
(Mr. Geyer hands record to Mr. Beidleman)

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Senator, was there anything said in that petition or at any time that the reason that he could not pay was because he had a big family of children?
A. I don't recall that that was discussed, but I think the fact is that he has children, we saw some at his home.
Q. Another reason given was that he did not get any interest on his bonds, insn't that so?
A. He said that among other things.
Q. And the bonds had defaulted how long?
A. I think he said he never got any coupon or interest on them, and he stated that.

CROSS EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Senator, how does that happen to be prepared in two different kinds of type?
A. I think that wes filled in on a different machine.
Q. How did you happen to have it prepared in two different installments, was the petition prepared before you went to see Nuncio, or was it prepared after, or who did it, was it prepared before or prepared after you got there to see him, how did it happen?
A. Nuncio came to the commissioners' office and that same day that I had been to see the Judge, in the presence of us, he stated his complaints there and told us all about it.
Q. And this petition was to the county commissioners, prepared by you as solicitor for the county commissioners and the county commissioners acted on their own responsibility and not on the responsibility of Judge Berkey in making an order discharging the defendant from further liability on the balance of the fine?
A. Governor, they never discharged him, he is not discharged now. The lien remains the same, but my opinion is that the District Attorney stayed the writ.
Q. That is to say that the county commissioners acted on their responsibility that this man should be discharged, at least for the present, from the further payment of anything on account of the $1000 fine.
A. I cannot put it in that way, Governor.
Q. Put it your way, Senator.
A. Well, the Judge requested that nothing further be done, that they present a petition, that has not been done, but Nuncio stated there facts, and the District Attorney issued a writ and had control of the writ and stayed it.
Q. But the action was taken by the county commissioners, they were elective officers of the county of Somerset, elected to assume the responsibility of the administration of the affairs of the county, and their duty was independent of those of the Court altogether, was it not?
A. There has been no action taken by them.
Q. Yes, but if there was no action taken by them, how did it happen to be stayed, do you mean to say that the commissioners did not agree to it?
A. The district attorney stayed the writ.
Q. How did it happen that he stayed the writ if the county commissioners were insisting upon the writ being pressed?
A. Perhaps they did not insist.
Q. And that is to say that if the county commissioners did not commit themselves in writing, they at least verbally agreed that nothing further should be done to press the payment of that writ at this time?
A. Perhaps for the reasons alleged in the petition they may have felt and may now feel that they can wait until the defendant is able to pay the balance.
Q. Senator, was not that the reason that you yourself prepared that petition?
A. What is that?
Q. Was not that the reason that you, as county solicitor, prepared the petition?
A. Well, I would say that one of the reasons was because Judge Berkey requested that we don't collect further at this time.
Q. Didn't you, as county solicitor, prepare that petition, addressed to the county commissioners, in order that the county commissioners would have something upon which they could rest their responsibilities, and stay their collections on that writ?
A. If I understand you, I would think that was part of it.
Q. That is to say, Pacifico and his counsel, Mr. Boose, a reputable member of the Somerset County Bar, is he not?
A. Yes sir.
Q. One of the best lawyers you have in the county reputable in all his dealings, is he not?
A. Yes sir.
Q. He goes down with his client to the commissioners and yourself as county solicitor, and you discuss this thing open and above board in the judge's office, and then after that was done, you took the trouble to go down to Pacifico's house, which is not in Somerset, is it?

A. No.

Q. And get these facts and prepare the petition?

A. Now, your question is quite long and involved.

Q. I thought, Senator, by reason of your long connection with me in the Senate of Pennsylvania for a number of years, you were able to understand long questions.

Mr. GEYER: Maybe he doesn't agree with you in everything.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:

Q. This Man's home was fifteen miles away from Somerset?

A. I think so.

Q. And after this conference with the county commissioners and the judge and Mr. Boose, representing him as attorney, you made this long trip of fifteen miles away. didn't you?

A. I went with the sheriff when he went down there.

Q. You went there for the purpose of advising yourself as to the facts and conditions, and when you came back from there, you recommended that the county commissioners present this petition which you offered them.

A. They presented—

Q. And was not the reason the fact that you wented your client, the county commissioners, to have something upon which they could rest their responsibility?

A. Well, I think so.

By Mr. LUDLOW:

If Judge Berkey had not evidenced an interest in this case, would you have gone down fifteen miles to investigate the facts and report your conclusions to the county commissioners, is that your custom?

A. I think not, no, we have never done that.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:

Q. And therefore, Senator, you went down for the purpose of checking up whether or not it was true, is that right?

A. What do you mean by checking up?

Q. You went down and checked up the facts that were stated in the conference before the judge to see whether or not they were true and when you convinced yourself of their truth, you prepared the petition?

A. Well, you are making statements of the judge's presentation to the county commissioners on that, that is a little confusing to answer, Governor. Not everything occurred in the judge's chambers, because Mr. Boose and Pacifico first came to my office and told, me, Nuncio at least told me that he came there at the request of the judge.

Q. And Mr. Boose came with him?

A. Yes sir. Then in the afternoon I was called to the judge's chambers, and among other things the judge said that he thought we should not collect the balance of this fine.

Q. Notwithstanding what the judge may have said and what may have been his idea, this responsibility rested with the county commissioners, didn't it?

A. Well—

Q. Didn't it?

A. I think under the law not the commissioners, it is the duty of the district attorney.

Q. You were the solicitor and knew the conditions of the case? And the only persons who could stay that writ were the county commissioners?

A. The district attorney stayed it because he had issued it—

Q. He stayed it because the county commissioners agreed to it?

A. Ordinarily would not do it—

Q. I am not asking you that.

A. I was not present when they told him to stay the writ.

Q. So far as you are concerned, you made no effort to press the writ?

A. No.

Q. And that was because your client asked you not to?

A. That is one of the reasons.

Q. Now, Senator, if the county commissioners are acting upon the responsibility of the facts contained in this petition alone, and I ask you to look at it, there is not one single thing contained in the petition that you didn't have at Somerset, without the necessity of going down to this man's home, is there?

A. I didn't have the second affidavit.

Q. The man was there?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Is there anything in the petition there in the way of facts that you didn't obtain at Somerset?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Look at it, read the petition and advise yourself.

A. What do you have in mind, Governor?

Q. Well, Senator, the first thing contained in that petition which you found relative to the condition that you found at this man's home, fifteen miles away—

A. Well, when you say everything, you might as well know—

Q. I said anything, I didn't say everything.

A. Yes.

Q. What is there contained in the petition there that you could not have gotten in Somerset and didn't have before you went down?

A. Well, if Nuncio wanted to come up to me and make affidavit, of course, we could not have gone down.

Q. He was there, wasn't he?

A. Not at that time.

Q. Do you mean to say you went down and prepared the petition at his home?

A. No, not that. If you want the history of it—do you want it repeated?

Q. No, I am asking you for some history that you have not put in.

A. Ask me specifically and I will tell you.

Q. Isn't it a fact that you went down to this man's home, fifteen miles from Somerset, there found the number of people which he had in his family, found the conditions relative to the maintenance of the family, and inquired of the neighbors as to whether or not his condition was such as was represented by the Court, went down there and found that he had this large family of children and the poor condition surrounding them, out of work, discharged from the mines, strike trouble, isn't that the reason you went down to this man's home and learned the facts that are embodied in the petition?

A. First, Governor, there was no strike trouble. When we went there he had been working and he told us so. Next, he didn't tell us perhaps all of the facts when he came to see me and came to see the commissioners, and I don't believe that all of the facts were gone over in the Judge's chambers. Now if you will ask a specific question, I have no hesitancy to tell you anything you want to know.

Q. Senator, did you find the bonds down there at the house?

A. He showed bonds to the deputy, to the sheriff and to me.

Q. Down at the house?

A. Yes sir.

Q. That is where you got the numbers?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And then was the petition prepared after you came back?

A. No.

Q. Had been prepared before you went?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Then the only purpose of your going down to the house was to get the number of these bonds, and not to observe the condition of the man's family, and the living conditions there?

A. I think we wanted to know more about that.

Q. Then why didn't you set it forth in the petition?

A. I don't know whether it was necessary or important about those facts.

By Mr. WITKIN:

Q. Senator, at any rate, you took action after you satisfied yourself, as solicitor for the county commissioners, that it was the proper thing to do, that is correct, isn't it?

A. By this action—

Filed a petition so as to prevent further collection at that time from the payment of any more fine, after you satisfied yourself that was the proper thing to do?

A. I think we thought at that time it was proper to not insist that the district attorney collect the balance of the fine, because the man owns real estate, it is a first lien on the real estate and the county will not suffer anything in this particular case. But I may add again that I have never known of this being done, and would not have been done if he had not been able to call at Chambers and ask relief from further payment of this fine.

Q. You were only relieving him temporarily, as I understand, and he can be compelled to pay the balance of the fine?

A. I am very sure that the man owns real estate, and that the balance can be collected.

Q. Now, will you answer my question. You filed your petition after you satisfied yourself by your personal investigation that you were doing the proper thing as a representative of the county commissioners?

A. Probably so.

Q. Yes, probably so, but isn't that a fact, Senator, I don't want quibble on words.

A. Well, there seems to be a great deal of satisfying myself that the papers should be filed. Of course, I would not have filed it if I didn' think it should have been filed.

Q. So that about the time of your investigation you felt that it was proper to file that petition as representative of the county commissioners?

A. Yes, in the light the lien remained the same, that it can be collected, that he had slack work as he advised and indications were that if he had a little time it was probably collectible.

Q. What is that?

A. Unless, let me add this, if the Judge desires to change his sentence, if this relief in any way be proper and the court proceeds, of course the county commissioners would be bound by that.

Q. In addition to being requested by Judge Berkey to make this investigation, you were also requested by Mr. Pacifico's attorney to make that investigation and file that petition?

A. I don't think so.

Q. Did he accompany you to the Nuncio home?

A. No.

Q. Who did accompany you?

A. The sheriff and his deputy.

Q. The sheriff and his deputy, Mr. Boose had been in your office with respect to this petition, had he not?

A. Yes sir.

Q. He was representing Pacifico?

A. Yes sir.

Q. As I understand he first came with Pacifico to your office with respect to this transaction?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Before you made an investigation you had a conference with Judge Berkey and after that you made the investigation?

A. Yes sir.

By Mr. LUDLOW:

Q. What was the date, the approximate date of this trip of yours out to Pacifico's home?

A. It is the date that the paper bears, January 1925.

Q. Of this year?

A. Yes.

Q. Then you and the sheriff and the deputy sheriff didn't regard these bonds and stocks as being of sufficient worth to be held for the balance of that fine?

A. I cannot answer for the sheriff and the deputy.

Q. For yourself?

A. I am a director of a bank at home and I can corroborate Mr. Newman, they have no market value.

Q. How long have you been a bank director out there?

A. Twelve years.

Q. The same bank?

A. No sir.

Q. Different banks?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Has your board of directors ever taken up the question of the value of these bonds?

A. Their value has very frequently been discussed.

Q. Senator, we ought to get to some definite answer, "yes" or "no", you are trying to evade.

A. What do you want?

By the CHAIRMAN:

Mr. Luldow has asked whether or not the bonds had any definite value so far as your board is concerned?

A. They have no definite value as far as our board is concerned.

By Mr. LUDLOW:

Q. Would you loan money on them so collateral?

A. We would not.

Q. Have you felt that way for the last several years?

A. Yes sir.

By Mr. WITKIN:

Q. This proceeding such procedure, is not irregular in your county?

A. This is the first time I ever knew of this procedure.

Q. Was it irregular or was it proper?

A. You are asking me for an opinion?

Q. Yes. I want your opinion?

A. I think it was proper to stay this writ until he can pay it.

Q. And you still think it may be possible, you are still of the opinion that the action in this matter was the proper action to take?

A. I don't see anything wrong with it.

By Mr. STADTLANDER:

Q. The county commissioners filed a petition asking that this man be relieved?

A. Yes sir.

Q. That is still in your office?

A. The petition to the court is not.

Q. Some of these proceedings are in the county commissioners' office at the present time?

A. Yes sir.

Q. They have never been presented to court, no never been presented to court.

By Mr. LUDLOW:

Q. How long has he been a Judge?

A. Since, 1920, this is his sixth year.

Q. And he imposed the fine?

A. Yes sir.

(Upon motion of Mr. Witkin certain questions, answers and remarks were stricken from the record).

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: I think I have a right to ask whether or not he is unfriendly with Judge Berkey.

Mr. GEYER: If he has a right to answer.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:

Q. You are not friendly with Judge Berkey?

A. I think I am.

Q. At the present time?

A. I think so.

Q. Are you sure of it? Will you say now that you regard yourself as one of Judge Berkey's friends, or friendly to him?

A. I think I am.

Q. Do you say you are?

A. Yes.

Q. You are a friend of Berkey's are you?

A. Yes sir.

Q. If that is true Senator why did you go down to this place in January, 1925, and refer only to those bonds as the reason why these collections should be stayed?

A. We didn't refer only to that.

Q. You say that there is something else referred to in your position?

Mr. WITKIN: Slack times.

The WITNESS. Slack times, and we know that is true in the coal business.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:

Q. You said when you went down there he told you he had been working?

A. Yes, he had been working the day before. That day he was not working, Governor.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. You are familiar with the market value of these bonds in that vicinity?

A. To some extent.

Q. You know the price at which they have been sold in recent years?

A. I know of the bankrupt sale in which I was concerned.

Q. Sold at public sale?

A. Yes sir.

Q. With notice to the officers of the company?

A. I cannot say whether there was notice.

Q. With public notice?
A. Oh, I think there was public notice.
Q. What did they sell for?
A. I think they had a bid there on a $1000 bond of two hundred and twenty some dollars.
Q. Do you know of any other sales?
A. I don't myself.
Q. Do you know the prices at which they are held?
A. No, I don't.
Q. Or offered for sale?
A. No, I don't.
Q. Did your bank refuse to consider them as collateral in any amount?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And that was so for how long?
Q. You never took them as collateral, did you, Senator?
A. I could not answer that question.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Do you know what amount of money is invested in this road?
A. No, I don't know.
Q. You don't know how many miles of road there are?
A. I know approximately.
Q. Do you ride over the road?
A. No.
Q. Do you know the condition of the roadbed?
A. Not very well.
Q. You don't know the condition of the pole line, is that a fact, Senator, and you don't know the condition of the road?
A. I said I don't know very well.
Q. You cannot say that?
A. I don't know the condition very well.
Q. You don't know at all, do you, you never use it?
A. Oh, I pass over it sometimes.
Q. Then you do ride over the road?
A. No, I pass over the road where it crosses the public road and I see that much of its condition.
Q. You cross it?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You don't know the amount that is invested in this company?
A. No.
Q. You don't know their equipment?
A. No.
Q. Therefore, you are not in position to judge the value of the bonds?
A. I know the bonds from their market value, how the banks consider them.
Q. And that is based on one sale?
(No answer)
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: That is all.

B. B. BOOSE a witness called in behalf of the complainant being duly sworn was examined and testified as follows on

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. You are a member of the bar of Somerset County?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And you represented Pacifico?
A. Our office did, the firm of Boose and Boose.
Q. Did you appear at a conference before Judge Berkey on the question of his release from collection in the matter of this fine?
A. I did.
Q. Was there a formal petition prepared?
A. Not by our office.
Q. You were there when the last witness attended?
A. Yes, may I explain, Mr. Pacifico came to our office and said that he wanted relief upon his bond, and said something to the effect that he had been to see Judge Berkey, and Judge Berkey advised him to go and get his counsel that he might be adequately represented. He said further that Judge Berkey said something about seeing Mr. Miller, collector to the commissioners. Mr. Pacifico and myself left our office and went over to Mr. Miller's office. We spoke just a few words to Mr. Miller and then, as I recall, Mr. Pacifico and myself, later on in the day, went to Judge Berkey's chambers, and then we were there only a short time, possibly a minute, when Mr. Miller came in, and the conference to which Mr. Miller has just testified ensued. That is to say that Jude Berkey said, "I am not imposing as onorous sentences these days as I was at the time this sentence was passed, for the reason that $500 fine to-day is equivalent to a $1000 fine at the time this particular sentence was imposed." And he said further, "I think that this man ought to be relieved for that reason." And, as I recall, Mr. Miller said, "Well, I think it is more a matter for the District Attorney than it is for me. Judge Berkey said, "No, the county commissioners and you and solicitor to the county commissioners, can control that." I think that we all left Judge Berkey's chambers, and I had nothing more to do with it.
Q. That is substantially the entire conference as you recall it?
A. It is, sir.

CROSS EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. That is, Mr. Boose, Pacifico came in and said that you should come over and represent him as attorney in order that he whould be properly represented?
A. That is it exactly. As I recall, Judge Berkey instructed him to get counsel.
Q. And the discussion in the office there was full and free?
A. Absolutely.
Q. You were convinced that this application was right?
A. Yes, of course, he had been our client and I wanted to do all for him I could.
Q. What was said about the difference in sentence; is it true the condition, the times have been very considerably depressed in your county as against the time when this fine was imposed?
A. Yes, I am positively in accord with Judge Berkey's statement.
Q. A statement that a fine of $1000 reduced to $500 was in entire accord with the general practice of the court?
A. Yes, I believe they were reduced even more than that.
Q. So that there was nothing done in this case that would out of the regular and orderly procedure of your court?
A. Nothing that I see sir.
Q. And you had represented Nuncio in those matters that had gone before?
A. Our firm did. The senior member tried Mr. Pacifico's case.
Q. He was a client of the office?
A. Yes sir.
Q. For quite some time?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And the senior member of the firm was the one who did most of the work?
A. Yes sir.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: That is all.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Am I correct in understanding your statement of matters that you made no special effort with the court, but that Judge Berkey announced this view of the matter on his own motion?
A. Well, it occurred there in the course of the conference, and I don't know at whose initiative it was brought about.
Q. Did you say Mr. Miller got to the office shortly after you came?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And did Mr. Berkey begin this shortly after you came?
A. It was some time ago; I cannot quite remember.
Q. The matter as you have given it is substantially as you recall it?
A. Yes sir.
(Discussion as to time of next meeting off the record).
The CHAIRMAN: We will adjourn now until 7:30 o'clock this evening and desire to start promptly at that time.

EVENING SESSION.

JAMES E. WILLIAMSON a witness called in behalf of the complainant being duly affirmed was examined and testified as follows on:

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:

Mr. Geyer, I offer in evidence a certified copy of the record of the Court of Quarter Sessions of Somerset County, to No. 100 September Term 1923, in which Walter Borderczenski was arrested on a charge of operating a gambling device and bribery, or attempt to bribe, and particularly call your attention to these dates: On January 29, 1924 grand jury returns a true bill; on February 13, 1924 case called for trial. Jury called, selected and sworn and returned a verdict finding the defendant not guilty and the prosecutor E. T. Cohee to pay the costs.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. What is your position, Mr. Williamson.
A. Cashier.
Q. Of what institution?
A. First National Bank of Davidsville.
Q. Was Walter Borderczenski a depositor in that institution in the month of January 1924?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You were subpoenaed to bring with you certain checks of Walter Borderczenski, do you have them with you?

(Witness produces checks)

Check signed by Walter Borderczenski dated Davidsville, Pa., January 24, 1924, produced and marked complainants exhibit No. 8.

"Davidsville, Pa., January 24, 1924, No.—. The First National Bank pay to the order of Johnstown and Somerset Ry. Co. $100.00—One Hundred dollars—B No. 1530—Walter Borderczenski."

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. Exhibit No. 8 shown witness, is this the check?
A. Yes sir, it is.
Q. Are you familiar with the handwriting of Mr. Borderczenski?
A. It is.
Q. Have you seen him write?
A. I have.
Q. In your opinion is his signature to this check his genuine signature?
A. It is.
Q. Are you familiar with the signature of John A. Berkey, President", and tell us in whose handwriting this is?
A. I am.
Q. Have you seen him write?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Will you look at the endorcement upon this check, "Johnstown and Somerset Railway Company by J. A. Berkey, President", and tell us in whose hendwriting this is?
A. The handwriting of J. A. Berkey.
Q. Will you look at the endorsement of J. A. Berkey and tell us in whose handwriting it is?
A. In the handwriting of J. A. Berkey.
Q. Will you look at the bankers certificates on the back of this check and interpret them to us?
A. "Pay to the order of the Farmers National Bank, Somerset, Pa., Don M. Kimmel, Treasurer of Somerset County"?
Q. What does that indicate?
A. Evidently cashed there.
Q. Cashed there for whom?
A. For J. A. Berkey.
Q. The next endorcement?
A. It bears endorcement of the Farmers National Bank of Somerset.
Q. And the next endorcement?
A. I think it bears the endorcement of the Mellon National Bank of Pittsburgh, Pa.
Q. That would be the correspondent through whom it came into your hands?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And when was it paid by your bank?
A. Several days after January 24th.
Q. And you produce it from your bank?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Will you look at the face of the check, the words "Johnstown and Somerset Ry. Co." and the words "One hundred" as written out, will you tell us, in your opinion whose handwriting that is?
A. The handwriting of J. A. Berkey.

Mr. GEYER: We offer in evidence this check.

(Check handed to Mr. Beidleman)

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: All right.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. Mr. Williamson, will you produce a check dated February 14, 1924 of Walter Borderczenski?

(Witness produces check)

(Check signed by Walter Borderczenski dated Davidsville, Pa., February 14, 1924, produced and marked complainant's exhibit No. 9)

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. Mr. Williamson, look at the signature of Walter Borderczenski to this check and tell us in whose handwriting it is?
A. Walter Borderczenski.
Q. Will you look at the endorcement on the back of this check purporting to be the endorcement of J. A. Berkey and tell us in whose handwriting it is?
A. The handwriting of John A. Berkey.
Q. Will you look at the face of the check, particularly the name of John A. Berkey, the amount "Two hundred" and tell us in whose handwriting this is?
A. I am not sure about the handwriting in the body of the check.
Q. What is your best impression?
A. I would not like to say.

By Mr. WITKIN:

Q. How much is the check for?
A. $200.
Q. What is the date?
A. February 14, 1924.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. Will you look at the endorcement upon the back of this check and interpret them to us, where was the check first cashed by John A. Berkey?
A. The Farmers National Bank, Somerset, Pa.
Q. Under what date?
A. February 17, 1924.
Q. And where did it go next?
A. Mellon National Bank, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Q. That is the corresponding bank, is it, and returned to your institution when?
A. A few days after that through the Federal Reserve Bank of Pittsburgh.

Mr. GEYER: I offer in evidence this check which is dated February 14, 1924 on the First National Bank to John A. Berkey for $200, signed by Walter Borderczenski.

(Exhibit No. 9)

"Davidsville, Pa. Feb. 14, 1924. No.— The First National Bank Pay to the order of John A. Berkey $200 Two Hundred....00 Dollars Walter Borderczenski."

Mr. GEYER: Taking things in their order that is all for the present with this witness. I will call him a little later after other facts are introduced.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: No questions.

E. T. COHEE, a witness called in behalf of the complainant being duly sworn was examined and testified as follows on

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER.

Q. Mr. Cohee, where are you now employed?
A. Sergeant, Pennsylvania State Police force.
Q. Located where?
A. Washington in Pennsylvania.
Q. Were you the prosecutor in a certain case of the Commonwealth against Walter Borderczenski?
A. Yes sir.
Q. On a charge of operating a gambling device in Somerset County?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Did you appear in court on the 13th day of February, 1924, and testify in that case?
A. I did.
Q. Before what Judge was it tried?
A. The Hon. J. A. Berkey.
Q. What did you testify to?
A. Do you want the case right straight through?
Q. Yes.

A. Why, on November 22 we proceeded to the hotel operated by the defendant, the hotel Seanor, Somerset County, searching for liquor. We found no liquor violation but we did find a gambling violation.

Q. What was the device you found?

A. A punch board and its prizes.

Q. Was it used?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Whom did you find in possession of that place?

A. At the immediate time it was seized Mrs. Borderczenski was the only one there.

Q. Did you inquire of her who the proprietor of the place was?

A. Yes, she told me her husband was, that he was away, and would be back in half an hour.

Q. Whose name did you find upon the door or window of the place?

A. W. Borderczenski.

Q. What was the name of Mrs. Borderczenski?

A. Mrs. Walter Borderczenski, I don't know her name.

Q. Did you see Walter Borderczenski in the place?

A. Yes about twenty or twenty-five minutes after we arrived there he came in.

Q. Did you ask him who owned the place?

A. Yes, I met him at the door and asked him if he was the proprietor of this hotel and he answered "yes."

Q. What, if anything—you are telling us now the things you testified to in court?

A. Yes sir.

Q. What, if anything, did Walter Borderczenski offer to give you?

A. He gave me $150 to settle his case out of court.

Q. Was there anyone else present?

A. State policeman Joseph Wagner and Vincent Bunch.

Q. What did you testify you did after he gave you the money?

A. Testified that I placed him under arrest for attempted bribery.

Q. Did you ask him any questions at the time as to why he was giving you this money?

A. Yes, I asked what was the purpose of giving this money and he said so that he would not be arrested, and would not have to go to Somerset.

Q. And you testified to these things in open court?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Did you call any witness to corroborate you?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Who?

A. Private Joseph Wagner.

Q. At the conclusion of your testimony what ruling did Judge Berkey make?

A. The counsel for the defendant, as I recall it, made a motion that the defendant be discharged on the ground that he was not in actual possession of the place at the time of the raid, and that he was not the proprietor in as much as the hotel was in his wife's name.

Q. What did Judge Berkey rule?

A. Judge Berkey discharged the defendant on both indictments.

Q. What ground did Judge Berkey give for discharging the defendant on the charge of bribing an officer?

A. He said inasmuch as the man had not been guilty of any violation of law he could not be guilty of bribing an officer, and he set him free.

Q. What did Judge Berkey instruct the jury to do on these two charges?

A. Find a verdict of not guilty.

Q. What question did the Judge lead to the jury?

A. The question of placing the costs of the case.

Q. What did he instruct them?

A. He instructed that they would be allowed to place the costs upon the prosecutor, upon the defendant or upon the county.

Q. What did he say about the State Police, if anything?

A. He said that Somerset County was capable of taking care of their police matters and that they did not want any outside officers running in there making blunders, not knowing what they were doing and he thought they should be taught a lesson, or words to that effect.

Q. That is, in his charge on the question of costs?

A. Yes sir.

Q. What did the jury do?

A. Placed the costs upon myself.

Q. Were you in the courtroom when the jury returned the verdict?

A. Yes sir.

Q. What did Judge Berkey do?

A. He called from the bench, when the jury went out to the jury room I got up and left the enclosure and had gone back and sat in the last row in the court house, when they came in and found a verdict placing the costs upon myself, he said, "Bring that man up here."

Q. In what tone of voice?

A. A loud tone of voice.

Q. And did you go forward?

A. Yes sir, immediately.

Q. What did he say?

A. He told the sheriff to take charge of me and see that the costs were paid.

Q. You were taken in custody?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Did you give security for the costs?

A. The costs amounted to $48.78, and I put up $50 so that I could go to dinner, and after dinner I got in touch with my captain at Greensburg, and he suggested that I see the Judge and go along with the District Attorney and see if he could arrange for the Commonwealth to pay it on our voucher system.

Q. Did you communicate that to Judge Berkey after the noon adjournment?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Where?

A. In his chambers.

Q. What, if anything, did Judge Berkey say to that?

A. He agreed to it.

Q. What, if anything else, did Judge Berkey say to you as a state policeman?

A. He said, "I was all wrong on the prosecution of this case, that he did not want me to come in his county any more, and if I did to be mighty sure I was right or there would be a lot of trouble."

Q. Did you make any reply to it?

A. Not very much.

Q. What did you say about orders?

A. I told him if my superiors would order me in there, it would be necessary for me to go, that I didn't dare disobey.

Q. What did he reply to that?

A. To be sure I was right if I did come.

Q. Was anything said about the state police in Somerset County?

A. He said he did not want them there, they could conduct their own affairs.

Q. The costs were paid by the State on the regular voucher system?

A. I don't think they have been paid.

Q. How long have you been a member of the state police force?

A. Six years.

Q. And before that time in what service?

A. The United States Army.

Q. Do you recall the date of the verdict of the jury?

A. The date the case want to trial in Somerset was February 13, 1923.

Q. And the verdict returned on the same day?

A. Yes sir.

By Mr. BLUMBERG:

Q. 1923 or 1924?

A. 1924.

CROSS EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:

Q. You are sure you told the committee what the Judge said upon this question of costs, are you?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Do you know whether or not this case was stenographically reported?

A. I don't.

Q. I want to read to you what the court did say as stenographically reported and see if you want to change your mind as to what was said: "Both these indictments are misdemeanors and we will submit to you under all this evidence, though the prosecutor is a public officer, who should pay these costs. You may put them on the prosecutor, if you see fit, or you may put them on the defendant, or you may divide them between the prosecutor and defendant, in each case, in such proportion as you see fit under the evidence you have here or if this was a proper case for investigation and the defendant is here with clean hands, you may put them upon the county."

And further, "Now let us look at these circumstances: here are three officers of the State; a part of them were at Greensburg and another portion were at Bedford; they met at Bedford, made their whole trip across there, and then they got together and came over to Seenor in Somerset County. They say they had two warrants, a search warrant and an additional warrant for the arrest; they wern't offered in evidence in this case. Did they go to all that trouble to come here to hunt this punch board, or what were they hunting? Take all these circumstances into consideration. It is proper that the law should be enforced, but not to hunt 'penny dogs when there are lions in the State.'" Is that what he said?

A. I think that is part of it.

Q. Well, is that all? Was there more to it than that?

A. No sir, I would not say that because I do not know.

Q. What is that?

A. I would not say that because I do not know.

Q. You have testified in your examination in chief that certain other things were said to the jury, and I want to ask you whether that is exactly, those are exactly the words that were used by Judge Berkey upon the question of costs in this case?

A. I know that he did say that much.

Q. Did he say any more?

A. I cannot say that he did.

Q. Now, at the time this arrest was made you were located at Bedford?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And Bunch was also at Bedford, was he?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Two officers came from Greensburg up to Bedford coming by the Lincoln Highway, I suppose, to Bedford and you started out from there?

A. Yes sir.

Q. The other two officers were Ireland and Wagner, were they?

A. Yes sir.

Q. What became of Ireland?

A. What do you mean, what became of him?

Q. He didn't go along, Ireland left the party?

A. He went along to Seenor, and he and Mr. Wagner raided a poolroom near the hotel Seenor.

Q. And you and bunch raided the Borderczenski house?

A. That is it.

Q. And at the time this case was called for trial you didn't produce Bunch for a witness to testify, and you didn't know where he was notwithstanding the fact that he was a member of the State Police?

A. Mr. Bunch was away on a secret investigation of which I didn't have any knowledge.

Q. You testified that you didn't know where he was?

By The CHAIRMAN:

Q. You say you didn't know where he was?

A. Mr. Bunch was away on a secret investigation and I could not find out where he was.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:

Q. The persons who made this particular raid were you and Bunch?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And at the time you went in to the hotel dwelling of Borderczenski, Wagner was not there?

A. Not when we first went in, no sir.

Q. And you testified that you went to the Borderczenski place for the purpose of making a search for liquor, did you not?

A. Yes sir.

Q. At the time you left Bedford or before you went to the place, you procured a search warrant from a squire in Somerset County charging the illegal sale of liquors, and upon it you had a warrant for the arrest of Borderczenski both for the sale of liquor and also a search warrant for the purpose of making the raid?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And you testified at the time you made the raid you found no liquor violation?

A. No sir.

Q. You also testified, or Bunch, or Wagner testified that he had gone to this place and made a buy of liquor before, didn't he?

A. No, not Wagner; Mr. Bunch had gone.

Q. Bunch did testify that he went and made a buy. If you had a warrant for the arrest of Borderczenski on the charge of violation of the liquor laws why didn't you make the arrest on the violation that occurred a week or two before?

A. Because we had no evidence to submit to the court.

Q. Didn't Bunch testify that he had gotten liquor?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. Why didn't he have it analyzed?

A. Because he consumed it.

Q. He consumed it? This State police officer went in this hotel in Seanor and bought some liquor which he drank and took no other liquor away with him, is that right?

A. That is right.

Q. And on the strength of that you swore out a warrant which you used as the basis for the search warrant and went there expressly for the purpose of finding whether or not there was liquor in the hotel, did you not?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And you made a complete search of the place for the purpose of finding liquor, didn't you?

A. Yes sir.

Q. You also testified that you didn't find any?

A. No, there was no liquor. We didn't find any. There had been some liquor there, the wife of the defendant was standing alongside of it and as we entered the hotel, it was in a jar of some kind with a large mouth, she tipped it over before we reached her.

Q. How do you know that?

A. I saw it with my own eyes.

Q. Did you testify to that in court?

A. Yes sir.

Q. You testified to that in the Somerset County court did you?

A. No I won't say that I did.

Q. You won't say that you did. You also testified, or was it Bunch, that when you went into this hotel this so-called punch board was back of the bar, upon the counter, was not out to the public at all, didn't you.

A. You could see it by standing in front of the bar.

Q. The punch board was back of the bar, wasn't it?

A. It would be on what we call the back bar.

Q. Yes. and Bunch asked that it be put there on the counter. You didn't see anybody play that board except Bunch, did you?

A. No sir.

Q. And it was so testified in court, wasn't it?

A. Yes sir.

Q. It was also testified in court by you that Mrs. Borderczenski was the person who held the title to the premises, wasn't it?

A. Yes sir.

Q. It was also testified that when you went there Mrs. Borderczenski was in charge of the place?

A. She was the only one there.

Q. And at the time that Borderczenski was there the punch board was not played, and nobody made any attempt to play it?

A. That is right.

Q. And you testified that you were at this place approximately one hour to an hour and three quarters, didn't you?

A. I don't remember, I don't think I testified to that.

Q. You spent most of the time waiting for Borderczenski to come back?

A. I think I testified, if you look at the records, that we were there about three quarters of an hour and that we waited about half an hour for Borderczenski to come home.

Q. How long did it take to make a search of the premises?

A. Possibly twenty-minutes.

Q. And then you waited around there for him to come back?

A. Yes sir.

Q. You were there all told about an hour and a half?

A. About an hour I would say.

Q. And at the time you say you were looking especially for the purpose of getting liquor.

A. Yes sir.

Q. And found none?

A. No sir.
Q. You also testified that this money that was offered to you, you took Borderczenski out in the side room, didn't you?
A. No, he called us in the side room.
Q. You went into the side room, who went with you?
A. Mr. Bunch.
Q. Mr. Bunch and you, and Bunch is the person that was conspicuously absent from the trial at the time it occurred in Somerset County?
A. Unavoidably absent.
Q. Unavoidably absent, but not there, but he was the man, and not Wagner, who was there at the time this took place?
A. Wagner was there at the time it took place. He came in to me when he made his proposition, and he kept at the proposition, and I told him to save his money, he might need it when he got to Somerset.
Q. Did you testify to what you just said in court?
A. Possibly not in just so many words, but to that effect.
Q. Didn't you testify in court that at the time you played this punch board that Wagner was not there?
A. He was not, no sir.
Q. It is a fact that he was not there, isn't it?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And when he came back you had this money in your possession, and passed from you to Wagner and Wagner to Bunch.
A. No sir.
Q. What did you testify to?
A. Mr. Borderczenski had the money and he passed it in the presence of Mr. Wagner and Mr. Wagner asked what that money was for to which he replied, it was to settle his case.
Q. What was done with it? Did Bunch handle the money?
A. No. I had it and I handled the money.
Q. Was anything testified in court about Bunch handling that money?
A. It may have been.
Q. Do you know?
A. I don't recall.
Q. You dont know that; and instead of going to the District Attorney's office, you went over to Johnstown and took an automobile and rode back to Bedford?
A. That is right.
Q. And kept this money in your possession until you came into Somerset, a couple of months afterward for the purpose of having the case tried.
A. Yes sir.
Q. And when you came, when the case was tried a motion was made to discharge the defendant for lack of testimony and Judge Berkey directed a verdict of not guilty on the ground that you had not made out a case against Borderczenski because he was not there, and was not a party to the operation of the punch board and had nothing to do with it and directed that if no offense was committed there could not be any bribery for an alleged offense, that it was not a crime, didn't he?
A. That is what he did.
Q. And then submitted the question of costs to the jury and the jury found and directed that you should pay the costs?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And the costs were subsequently remitted by Judge Berkey?
A. I don't know that.
Q. You don't know that. You testified that after the noon adjournment you were called up in front of the bar, where this conversation—
A. I didn't testify to that.
Q. Where did you say the Judge was?
A. I said in his chambers.
Q. Did you go in there and see him alone?
A. No sir, I did not.
Q. Who was with him?
A. They were strangers to me.
Q. Was this conversation between Judge Berkey and you such as could be heard by the persons who were in the office?
A. Mr. Cober, District Attorney, was in there with me but I think he left before the conversation was over?
Q. Anybody else?
A. I think there were three or four others in there, but they were strangers to me.
Q. The conversation was in such language that it could be heard by everybody there?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You didn't know who any of them were?
A. No sir, I was never in Somerset County before.
Q. Never been there before and have not been there since?
A. Yes, I have been there since.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: That is all.

RE-DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER.
Q. Mr. Cohee, I omitted asking you what you did with the $150?
A. The Judge awarded the $150 back to the defendant.
Q. At the time of the trial?
A. Immediately, yes.
Q. I don't recall whether I asked had this punch board been punched?
A. Possibly twenty or thirty times, several times anyway.
Q. Before you saw it?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Are you able to say whether any of the prizes on the system had already been distributed?
A. Some of them were missing.
Q. Can you tell us how many?
A. Possibly three or four.
Q. And what was the character of the prizes?
A. Roger's silver, thermos bottle, penknives, razor, cigarette holders.
Q. What was the character of the punch board?
A. Ten cents.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. You testified they were nickle punches?
A. I said ten cents, I think. I am not sure whether it was five or ten cents.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. Did you arrest Borderckenski on a warrant?
A. No, I arrested him on sight.
Q. What caused you to arrest him?
A. Because those are our orders; when we see a gambling device in the open the proprietor is to be arrested.
Q. You knew as a state officer that in order to arrest a man on sight you must see him commit a misdemeanor, you knew that, didn't you?
A. Yes, I told him that he would eventually have to go to the squire so he might just as well go along then.
Q. You arrested him without a warrant did you not?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. You didn't see him commit any offense in your presence?
A. I was in the hotel when he was in there and as proprietor of the hotel he is responsible for the gambling device if it is in there.
Q. Would not the proper procedure be for you to issue a warrant and return and arrest him?
A. Yes sir, but if he was willing to go along with me and save a trip back, why not go ahead?
Q. In this trial did you testify to anything concerning Borderczenski committing an offense within your view?
A. No more than just what I told you?
Q. You, therefore, did not testify to seeing Borderczenski have anything to do with this punch board except that it was in his place?
A. That is all.
Q. And no one punched the board in his presence, and you so testified in court,, did you not?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And you say you waited there for some time before he first came in?
A. I think twenty minutes to half an hour.

By Mr. LUDLOW:
Q. The conversation you had with the Judge in the Judge's Chamber, about which Governor Beidleman cross-examined you, related only to the question of the costs did it not?
A. Yes, and he said that he wanted the placing of those costs to be a reprimand to the Department of State Police. He said that they thought they could take care of the county there and that they did not want outside officers running into the county and making arrests.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. Did he say anything to you by way of criticism of the state police for arresting people improperly when they had no warrant.
A. Not against the state police, against me personally.
Q. In his criticism of you, did he criticise you, as I understand, for making an illegal arrest?
A. He didn't say that in so many words.
Q. His criticism, as I understand your testimony, was based upon the fact that he as a judge thought you had acted improperly in arresting Borderczenski on the charge of keeping a gambling device?
A. Yes sir.
Q. As a matter of fact have you not orders from your superiors to make arrests in a legal manner?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And is it a fact that you knew when you made this arrest it was an illegal arrest whether the defendant was willing to go with you or not?
A. No, I would not think so.

By Mr. LUDLOW:
Q. You were present when the money was offered to you?
A. Yes, he was also arrested for bribery in addition to this gambling device. He was arrested on a bribery charge which actually took place in my view.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. That was after you placed him under arrest for operating a gambling device?
A. He recognized my man Bunch as having been there a few days before and purchasing this drink, and when he seen Bunch he became excited, and thought sure he was arrested for a liquor violation.
Q. Why didn't you use this warrant then?
A. Actually it was.
Q. But you didn't arrest on this warrant?
A. No sir.
Q. You knew, as a state officer, that convictions can be had on purchases of liquor, even if the liquor has been consumed, if the officer testifies to its smelling like whiskey. Why didn't you arrest him and execute the warrant that you had in your possession for the arrest of a man who was violating the liquor law?
A. I never heard of a conviction where there was no liquor put in as evidence, merely on the simple testimony of the officer that he purchased it. I have heard of no conviction.
Q. You have not heard of a conviction but you have heard of arrests?
A. I never heard of an arrest on that testimony.
Q. What was the date of the arrest and seizure?
A. November 22.
Q. 1923?
A. 1923, Yes.
Q. What time of the day was the arrest made?
A. About 4:00 P. M.

By Mr. BLUMBERG:
Q. Where did you take Borderczenski?
A. I took him to Justice of the Peace Myers, at Holsopple, Pa.
Q. What charges did you prefer against him?
A. Maintaining a gambling device and attempting to bribe.
Q. Is that the first time anybody ever attempted to bribe you?
A. No sir, but this man got so insistent that we took the money finally when we got tired listening to him, that is the reason he was arrested on the charge.
Q. There have been attempts to bribe you before?
A. Yes sir.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. Did you subsequently swear out a warrant for this man?
A. On what charge?
Q. On any charge?
A. I took the man to the squire and made information against him and I supposed the squire issued a warrant at that time.
Q. You say he gave you $150 in order to settle this case? A. Yes sir.
Q. But at the time he offered you the $150 you had not arrested him?
A. He was giving me this $150 so that he would not be arrested at any time on the charge of operating a gamblingdevice so that he would not have to go to the Somerset Court.
Q. You said, a few moments ago he offered you $150 to settle his case? What case did you erfer to, what case did he refer to when he gave you that $150?
A. The gambling case evidently.
Q. The gambling case?
A. The gambling case, evidently.
Q. You hadn't arrested him for the gambling case?
A. He didn't know he was arrested yet, I don't suppose, just knew we were there and eventually he would be arrested.
Q. Did you tell him he was under arrest?
A. I don't think so, in fact I know I didn't.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Mr. Cohee, isn't it a fact that the only testimony you gave in this case about this punch board was that Bunch was present and played it, and there was not a word of testimony taken in this case that anybody else had punched this board?
A. I know that I testified in court that Bunch had played the board.
Q. I want to read the questions that were put to you: "Q. You say you found this" referring to the punch board, "In the bar room of the hotel? A. Yes sir. Q. Where in the bar room was it? A. On the back of the bar, on the counter in front of the mirror. Q. Did you play the punch board or see anyone play it? A. I didn't play it; private Bunch of the state police, he was with me, took two chances on it at five cents a chance" and that is the only testimony there is of the boards being played or any punch marks on it, isn't it?
A. No sir.
Q. Who testified otherwise?
A. No one testified otherwise, the question was not brought up.
Q. So that the only testimony there was in this case of the operation of the gambling device, the action being tried by the District Attorney on one side and Mr. Boose of the firm of Boose and Boose on the other, the only testimony that developed of the operation of the punch board was in your own testimony, and that Bunch had punched it twice, that is to say there was not a bit or scintilla of testimony of the operation of the board of Broderczski or any indication that it had been played?
A. I don't recall that. It has been so long ago I would not say whether there was any other testimony like that or not.
Q. And you also admitted in the case that you did not have any evidence upon which to arrest this man for a violation of the liquor law, didn't you?
A. I don't recall.
Q. What is that?
A. I don't recall.
Mr. WITKIN: Have any of you gentlemen got a copy of the notes of testimony?
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: Just one, but we will see that the committee gets a copy.

By Mr. LUDLOW:
Q. Where will you be next week?
A. Washington, Pa.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. Where is Bunch now?
A. I don't know that, he is away on some investigation.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Sergeant, upon the question of the liquor, this is the testimony relating to that, isn't it: "Q. Where did you meet? A. They came from Greensburg to Bedford and met us there. Q. This was prearranged was it? A. Yes sir. Q. By telephone? A. Yes, sir. Q. That you were to come over to Seanor to make the raid? A. Yes, sir. Q. You came over there and searched that hotel and yet brought no prosecution for selling liquor? A. For the reason we didn't have a case." That was the testimony, wasn't it?

A. Yes but I possibly misunderstood the question there. I didn't testify that there was any prosecution brought before any court, and I didn't testify that there was any prosecution brought before a Justice of the Peace but the search warrant was introduced at the trial.

Q. The search warrant was not introduced in evidence, was it?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. You are sure the search warrant was introduced in evidence?

A. It came out in the cross examination.

Q. Isn't it true that the only thing that was done was that it was identified and it was never introduced and the jury never saw it?

A. The jury never saw the warrant.

Q. It was never introduced in evidence and your testimony here upon the record in answer to the question that I just read, "You come over there and searched that hotel and yet brought no prosecution for selling liquor?" and your answer was "For the reason we didn't have a case." That was your testimony, wasn't it?

A. When he asked that question I naturally would have—

Q. I am asking you if that was not what you testified to in regard to this, and that is all you did testify to in court?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Are you just restating what you testified to in court?

A. Yes, but I added a little to it.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: That is all.

By Mr. GEYER.

Q. Officer, you say the search warrant came out in court, will you explain to the committee how it came out and what happened?

A. I happened to have the search warrant in my pocket when I went on the witness stand, and I think the attorney for the defendant asked me the date that the search warrant was sworn out and I could not recall it for the second and I reached in my pocket, brought out the warrant and read the date off of it.

Mr. WITKIN: It was not his duty to introduce it, it was the District Attorney's business.

By Mr. GEYER.

Q. Whom did you give it to?

A. Mr. Boose asked to see it, and Judge Berkey ordered me to give it to him and he looked at it.

Q. You gave it to him?

A. To Judge Berkey, and I first handed it to Mr. Boose and he handed the warrant to Judge Berkey.

Q. What did Judge Berkey say about it.

A. He said the warrant was no good.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:

Q. Just again to refresh your recollection:

Q. Where did you get the search warrant? (Witness produces the warrant) From Squire Ickes at Boswell. Q. Will you let me see it please? A (Witness produces warrant and hands to district attorney)" You didn't give it to Mr. Boose at all, did you?

(No answer)

Mr. LUDLOW: Is there anything after that, immediately following?

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: Absolutely nothing in the whole case relative to the search warrant.

Mr. WITKIN: Any further questions of this witness?

Mr. GEYER: No, that is all.

Mr. GEYER: I offer in evidnce certified copy of subsequent prosecution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania against Walter Borderczenski to No. 72 September Session, 1924, charged violation liquor laws and call attention to these dates: July 4th defendant Walter Borderczenski—

The CHAIRMAN: July what?

Mr. GEYER: July 4,1924 Walter Bordaczweski gives bail and enters into recognizance for appearance at September session 1924; July 7th, defendant Mrs. Kovdula Bordaczewski and her bail entered into recognizance in the sum of $500 for appearance at September sessions 1924. Passing the dates of the return and so on—

Mr. WITKIN: What was the charge on the second bill?

Mr. GEYER: Violation of the liquor laws.

Mr. LUDLOW: What was the amount of her bail?

Mr. GEYER: $500.

Mr. LUDLOW: Each?

Mr. GEYER: Yes sir. September 6th, defendant plead guilty et de hoc. Whereupon sentence of Walter Bordczweski and Mrs. Walter Bordczweski, suspended upon payment of costs. September 17th an order issued to destroy three sixteen gallon kegs of beer and three-quarters of a quart of moonshine whiskey taken.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: How much moonshine?

Mr. GEYER: Three quarters of a quart.

HARRY F. BITTNER a witness called in behalf of the complainant being duly sworn was examined and testified as follows on

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

The CHAIRMAN: Just a minute, upon whose order was that destroyed?

Mr. GEYER: Judge Berkey.

By Mr. GEYER.

Q. Mr. Bittner what is your official position in Somerset County?

A. Prothonotary of Somerset County.

Q. Mr. Bittner I show you a certified copy of a judgment entered to No. 414, December term, 1924, in the Court of Common Pleas in your county, do you recognize this judgment?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Do you have the original note on which this bill was entered with you?

A. I don't.

Q. You don't? You were subpoenaed to bring it with you?

A. Yes, I guess I have.

Q. Will you produce it?

(Witness produces original note and hands it to Mr. Geyer).

Mr. GEYER: I ask that this be identified.

(Judgment note signed by Walter Bodaczewski dated July 8, 1924 produced and marked complainants exhibit No. 10 photostatic copy).

Mr. MOFFATT: What is the number of the judgment?

Mr. GEYER: 414, December term, 1924.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. Is this sheet together with the note attached the original on which the judgment was entered in the court?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Are you familiar with the handwriting of Judge Berkey?

A. I am.

Q. You have seen him write?

A. Yes sir.

Q. You have frequently seen him write?

A. Well, not frequently but a number of times.

Q. You certainly are familiar with his official signature on the records of the court?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Will you look at the notes on which the judgment was entered or the signature on the back of it, "J. A. Berkey", and tell us in whose handwriting it is?

A. It looks like the Judge's handwriting?

Q. You recognize it as such?

A. Yes sir.

Q. The judgment was entered to the use of the First National Bank of Davidsville, Pennsylvania?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Will you look at the face of the note, "J. A. Berkey", written on the face of it, and tell us, if you can, in whose handwriting that is?

A. I don't quite recognize that.

Q. You don't quite recognize it, do you think you recognize it?

A. I don't.

Q. You don't recognize it?

A. (No answer).

Mr. BLUMBERG: What is the date of it.

Mr. GEYER: July 8, 1924.

I offer in evidence this note dated "July 8, 1924, $500.00 Four (4) mos. afte rdate I promise to pay to the order of J. A. Berkey five hundred xx dollars without defalcation, value received, with interest. And further—do hereby empower any attorney of Court of Record within the United States or elsewhere to appear for—and after one or more declarations filed, confuse judgment against—as of any term for the above sum with costs of suit and attorney's commission of—per cent for collection and release of all errors, and without stay of execution and inquisition and extension upon levy on real estate is hereby waived, and condemnation agreed to and the exemption of personal property from levy and sale on any execution hereon, is also hereby expressly waived and no benefit of exemption be claimed under and by virtue of any exemption law now in force or which may hereafter be passed, all defenses are hereby waived. Witness my hand seal WALTER BADACZEWSKI J. & S. Ry bond No. 1465."

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: Let us see the note, please.

(Note handed by Mr. Geyer to Mr. Beidleman).

CROSS-EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:

Q. This note is dated July 8, 1924, exhibit No. 10, where is the indication on here to the use of the plaintiff, where is the assignee?

(Note handed to the witness by Mr. Owlett).

A. I don't quite comprehended your question.

Q. The note seems to be made by Bordenczenski to Berkey, where has he entered the note for the use of the bank at Davidsville against Berkey, where is the assignment of the note, showing the title of the Bank at Davidsville to the note?

A. I don't notice any on here.

Q. Who is shown as attorney of record in the case?

A. Francis J. Kooser and Earnest O. Kooser.

Q. And the regular attorney for the bank at Davidsville is Mr. Shaver, isn't it? The entries in your office show that the regular attorney for this bank at Davidsville is Mr. Shaver, and notwithstanding the fact that it was dated the 8th of July, 1924, when was that note entered on record?

THE CHAIRMAN: You may examine that record and find it.

Mr. GEYER: It is right on there.

A. December 4, 1924.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:

Q. It was entered of record December 4, 1924 about a month before the convening of the Legislature?

A. Yes sir

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: That is all. I think we ought to have a certified copy of that.

Mr. GEYER. I think we ought to have photographic copies of these notes, as there are certain matters to be predicatd upon the face of the note. Can it be arranged to have it done.

JAMES F. WILLIAMSON, Re-called.

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

(Discussion with reference to photestatic copies of exhibits off the record).

Mr. GEYER: I ask to have this copy of the record identified as an exhibit.

(Certified copy record in 414 December term, 1924, produced and marked complainants exhibit No. 11).

Mr. GEYER: Certified copy of the record to No. 414, December term, 1924, is presented and marked for identification exhibit No. 11, and offered in evidence which we understand is to be supplemented by a photostatic copy of both sides of the original single bill.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. Mr. Williamson, you were sworn?

A. Yes sir.

Q. What is your connection with the First National Bank of Davidsville?

A. Cashier.

Q. It appears that the judgment was entered in the Court of Common Pleas in Somerset County on a note dated July 8, 1924 given by Walter Borderczenski to J. A. Berkey?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Where is the original, may I see it?

(Witness hands original to Mr. Geyer)

I show you the original produced by the prothonotary and marked on the sheet exhibit No. 11, and ask you if you will look at the signature of Walter Borderczenski on this note you have testified about, are familiar with his signature, will you tell us, whether in your opinion this is in his own genuine handwriting?

A. I think so, he acknowledged it was before we discounted the note.

Q. Did you have any conversation with Walter Borderczenski before you discounted this note?

A. I did.

Q. Where?

A. At the bank.

Q. At what place?

A. Davidsville.

Q. Are you able to tell us what date?

A. Possibly along the 11th or 14th of July.

Q. What was the conversation?

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: I don't see how that could be binding on Judge Berkey unless it is within your broad latitude of ruling.

Mr. GEYER: I think this is the only matter in which I have gone into hearsay, and I submit that in this case we are permitted, if it leads to something else.

Mr. BLUMBERG. What do you intend to prove by this conversation?

Mr. GEYER: A statement made by Walter Borderczenski about the genuineness of this note and the purpose for which given.

Mr. BLUMBERG: I don't think you ought to go quite that far.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: This admission of the genuineness of the signature or the conversation had between he and Borderczenski certainly would not be binding upon Mr. Berkey.

Mr. WITKIN: Mr. Beidleman ought to have the right to cross examine Mr. Borderczenski as to what he said to Mr. Williamson, if he would not have it it would be manifestly unfair.

Mr. GEYER: Borderczenski is here.

Mr. WITKIN: That is the best evidence.

Mr. GEYER. When we approach the Borderczenski matter it will be necessary that you rule upon the matter of leading questions, and to rule whether or not I am as counsel here for a party to be bound by a witness's answer when I call him. I submit I am not. I am here in aid of the committee. When we call Borderczenski I will suggest to you that I have reason to believe that he is hostile, and I don't want to be bound by his answer, and suggest that you either permit me to cross examine him or you, as the committee of investigation actually do the investigating.

Mr. WITKIN: You would have a right to recall this witness if Borderczenski take the stand and testify to certain matters, and if you wanted to contradict his testimony you would have a right to recall this witness, but because you feel that a witness is hostile you cannot have hearsay testimony to establish his evidence.

Mr. GEYER: That may be understood then.

Mr. LUDLOW: Mr. Chairman, I suggest that this witness at this time do not testify as to what happened. If that be necessary he can stand down again and Borderczenski take the stand, and that it may be made clear to counsel for both sides that this is a committee of investigation, and the mere fact that either the Governor later on or Mr. Geyer calls a witness now is not like the ordinary courts, because these are proceedings, that if counsel cannot develop from question and answer we still have the power of subpoena. This is something we will come to when we arrive at it, and the question of whether there is a hostile witness need not enter into the case now.

(Discussion off the record).

The CHAIRMAN: If he appears to be an unwilling witness then we will meet the situation.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. I am correct in understanding that Mr. Borderczenski admitted the genuineness of this signature to you.

A. He did.

Q. You said you were familiar with the handwriting of Judge Berkey, will you look at the signature on the back of this note, "J. A. Berkey", and tell us in your opinion whose hendwriting that is?

A. The handwriting of J. A. Berkey.

Q. Will you look on the face of the note where the words, "Pay to the order of J. A. Berkey" appear, and tell us in your opinion in whose handwriting is the J. A. Berkey on the face of the note?

A. In the handwriting of J. A. Berkey.

Q. Look at the figures July 8th, and tell us in whose handwriting that is, if you can?
A. J. A. Berkey, to the best of my knowledge.
Q. Look at the notation at the bottom of this, "All defenses are hereby waived", in whose handwriting is that?
A. Judge Berkey.
Q. On the other side "J. & S. Ry. bond No. 1465," in whose handwriting is that?
A. Judge Berkey's.
Q. How did this note come to your institution?
A. Judge Berkey brought it there himself.
Q. Can you tell us about what date?
A. Along about the 8th or 9th of July, somewhere about that time.
Q. And what did Judge Berkey get from the bank for this note?
A. It was not discounted right away, I told Judge Berkey I would not discount the note until I got in touch with Mr. Borderczenski to see if he would honor the note.
Q. What did Judge Berkey say to that?
A. He said, all right.
Q. Afterwards did you have any communication with Judge Berkey?
A. Yes sir, he was away and called me, and I told him I had not decided as yet.
Q. When was that?
A. Along about the 10th or 12th somewhere along there in July.
Q. Afterwards did you have a conversation with him?
A. I think not in regard to that note.
Q. Did you take in the note?
A. I did.
Q. About when?
A. On the 15th day of July.
Q. What, if anything, did you give Judge Berkey for the note?
A. I didn't give it to Judge Berkey, it was given to—the proceeds of the note were given to Mr. E. L. Hauck and Mr. Wise of the Penn Public.
Q. At whose direction?
A. At Mr. Berkey's direction.
Q. Will you relate the circumstances of that?
A. After we got in touch with Mr. Borderczenski, and he said he would pay the note about the 15th Mr. Wise of the Penn Public Service Company of Johnstown, and Mr. E. L. Hauck, of the Railway Company, appeared at the bank and asked me what I had decided to do in regard to the note. I said I had not definitely decided. Mr. Wise said it was absolutely a question of getting the $500 or the Penn Public would cut off the current from the Johnstown and Somerset Railway Company.
Q. What did you do?
A. I discounted the note and gave them the proceeds.
Q. Did you have a conversation with Judge Berkey, as to whether or not you would give them the proceeds?
A. Yes, we had that understanding before he had gone away.
Q. Beforehand, when he offered it for discount, he told you to give the proceeds to the railroad company?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You spoke of a Mr. Wise for the railway company—
A. No, for the Penn Public Service Company.
Q. And the other gentleman was for the railway company?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What railway company?
A. Johnstown & Somerset.
Q. What was Judge Berkey's connection with the Johnstown and Somerset Railway Company?
A. President.
Q. You have been asked to produce a check of Walter Borderczenski, dated about September 6th, 1924, have you such a check?
A. I have one of September 8th, I think.
(Witness produces check which is marked for identification exhibit No. 12).
(Check signed by Walter Borderczenski, dated September 8th, 1924, produced and marked complainants' exhibit No. 12).

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. I show—you used the expression "September 8th, I think"· why did you use the words "I think"?
A. Well, it has been perforated right over the figure.
Q. I call your attention to the signature on this check of Walter Borderczenski, and ask you to tell me in whose handwriting it is?
A. Walter Borderczenski.
Q. Will you look at the body of the check, "Johnstown & Somerset Ry. Co.", and the "Three hundred", and tell me in whose handwriting that is?
A. The handwriting of J. A. Berkey.
Q. You may look at the signature on the back of the check, and tell us in whose handwriting that is?
A. John A. Berkey's.
Q. And this Johnstown & Somerset Railway Company?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Will you look at the bankers' stamps upon it, and tell us where this check was cashed?
A. Farmers National Bank, Somerset, Pa.
Q. What date, please?
A. September 8th.
Mr. BEIDELMAN: How much is the check?
Mr. GEYER: Three hundred dollars.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. What became of it afterwards?
A. It went to the Mellon National Bank, Pittsburgh about the 9th.
Q. And back to you?
A. Then to the Pittsburgh branch of the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland, and they returned it to us.
Q. Reached your bank when?
A. About the 11th or 12th.
Mr. GEYER. I offer this in evidence. It reads as follows: "Davidsville, Pa., September 8th, 1924. No.———— The first National Bank Pay to the order of Johnstown & Somerset Ry. Co. $300.00 Three Hundred xx Dollars, Walter Borderczenski". Endorsed "Johnstown & Somerset Ry. C."

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Mr. Williamson, on that date did Judge Berkey have the note, or did you have the note of $500 given July 8th?
A. We had the note.
Q. On that date did Judge Berkey or the Johnstown & Somerset Railway Company, turn over to you the proceeds of this check for $300?
A. It didn't.
Q. What happened to the five hundred dollar note which you had taken in from Judge Berkey?
A. It was placed on record after it was overdue. Placed on record after it was due nearly a month.
Q. And collected from Walter Borderczenski?
A. It was not collected.
Q. Have you not received any money?
A. We have not received the money.
Q. You have not yet received the money or any part of the $500?
A. We have not.

CROSS EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. You have not made any effort to get it, have you?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How?
A. I had Mr. Borderczenski in the bank on a number of occasions in regard to the payment of the note.
Q. Bordenczerski owns property?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You have not directed the issuing of any execution?
A. Not as yet.
Q. Who is the regular attorney for your bank?
A. C. L. Shaver.
Q. How did this happen to get into the possession of Kooser?
A. Well, I have had notes entered of record by different attorneys.
Q. You turned this one over when?
A. The 3rd or 4th of December.
Q. With directions to enter and issue execution?
A. Directions to enter and directions to enter action on the same day.
Q. What is that?
A. Directions to enter and directions to enter action on the same day against Walter Borderczenski.
Q. With Kooser as attorney?
A. I don't remember, I think not.
A. I think not, I would not say.

Q. You say you entered action on the 8th day of December?
A. I think it was on the same day, December 4th.
Q. Entered the second note December 4?
A. Yes sir.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: That is all.

By Mr. LUDLOW:
Q. I would like to ask just one question. Where is your Bank?
A. Davidsville.
Q. How far is that from Somerset?
A. From Somerset, about 20 miles I should say.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Mr. Williamson, at the time this note came to your bank did Borderczenski have an account there?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How much?
A. I don't know.
Q. Over $500?
A. No sir.
Q. Do you know the amount?
A. I don't.
Q. It was more than the amount of this note?
A. He had an account in savings at that time that I think was more. He had at one time an account larger than that, I don't know whether he had at that time.
Q. You don't know what it was?
A. No sir.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. Who is counsel for the Davidsville bank?
A. The regular counsel is C. L. Shaver.
Q. You say you had two notes entered December 4th?
A. December, or about that time.
Q. And the note is the note that was introduced in evidence?
A. Yes, the note of Walter Borderczenski and Kodyala Borderczenski, his wife.
Q. And this note was recorded by Mr. Kooser, and the other one by whom?
A. Boose & Boose have recorded some, John Miller has recorded some, Mr. Kooser and C. L. Shaver. Mr. Shaver recorded the majority of them, the big majority of them.
Q. Is there any explanation why two notes recorded at the same time are given to different attorneys?
A. Only that I met Mr. Kooser when I went to Somerset in the commissioners' office and gave him the note to enter.
Q. And did you have the two notes with you?
A. I don't remember whether I had the same day, I think possibly I did.
Q. You gave him the one?
A. I would not say whether I gave him the one or two.
By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. You say this conversation took place in the commissioners' office?
A. Yes sir.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. Did you meet Mr. Kooser by appointment on this note?
A. I didn't.
WALTER BORDECZEWSKI, a witness called in behalf of the complainant, being duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows on EXAMINATION.

Mr. GEYER: The witness is called, is it the thought of the Committee that I cross examine him?
Mr. WITKIN: Go right on.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. I show you a check marked exhibit 8, dated January 24, in the amount of $100, to the Johnstown & Somerset Ry Co., with your name signed to it. Did you sign that name?
A. Yes sir.
Q. To what person did you give this check?
A. How much?
Q. No, to what person did you give it.
A. I don't know, I sign lots of checks, you know, all kinds of checks. I don't know what for, I forget.
Q. Who filled out the check for you?
A. All kind of people that can write it good fill out some.
Q. Who filled out this check?
A. I cannot tell, I forget.
Q. It is to the Johnstown & Somerset Railway Company, does that help you to remember who wrote the check for you?
A. I cannot tell.
Q. Who is president of the Johnstown & Somerset Railway Company?
A. President?
Q. Yes, who is president?
A. I don't know for sure.
Q. You don't know who the president of that company is?
A. I don't know for sure, I hear it John Berkey.
Q. You heard John Berkey was the president?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Mr. Bordeczewski, did you have a case that was coming before the Grand Jury on the 29th day of February, 1924, with the State policeman?
A. I did.
Q. You did have such a case?
A. I did have, I don't know date.
Q. If you remember that you had a case that was coming into Court on the 29th of January, 1924, that is a year ago, would that help you to remember who wrote out the check for $100 on the Johnstown & Somerset Railways Company?
A. I don't keep account, I forget.
Q. You forget who wrote that check. Now, let me try it again.

By Mr. LUDLOW:
Q. Do you read and write a little English?
A. No, I cannot good.
Q. What language do you speak, Polish?
A. Yes.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Well Walter, this check says that it is for a bond No. 1530, does that help you to remember who wrote out the check?
A. I have it one bond for payment.
Q. What bond have you?
A. Johnstown & Somerset Railroad Company.
Q. How big a bond is it?
A. $50. A couple of year ago they take check in payment, but it and take another one on payments.
Q. When did you take this other one on payments?
A. I forget.
Q. Whom did you buy the bonds from?
A. From, buy from the president.
Q. Judge Berkey?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Walter, I show you a check marked exhibit No. 9, and show you the signature of Walter Bordeczewski, did you sign that check? (Check handed to witness).
(No answer).

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. That is your name on there?
A. Yes, that is my name.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Who wrote it, that check, do you know?
(No answer).

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. Do you know what you are reading?
A. Yes, I can read it no much.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. I will read it, it says, "Pay to the order of J. A. Berkey, $200".
A. That pay for that share, you know.
Q. Pays for a share?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Who filled out the check?
A. Somebody must have, I forget.
Q. Yes, somebody must have. Now, Walter, just a minute. You remember on the 13th day of December you had your trial in Court with the State policeman, you remember that?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And the State policeman had one hundred and fifty dollars of your money?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And you got that $150 back on the 13th, didn't you?
A. Yes, I don't know which day, I know I get it.
Q. You got it back on the day the jury decided the case, isn't that so?
A. Yes, I guess. He give me my money back.

Q. And the jury decided that case in your favor on the 13th, you remember that, don't you?
A. I don't know about 13. I don't keep account, I no know what day.
Q. The record shows it was decided on the 13th, Walter, and on that day you got your $150 back, and Judge Berkey tried that case, and the costs were put on the policeman, you won't ever forget that?
A. State policeman grabbed money from me.
Q. Did you get it back on the 13th?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And the case was tried before Judge Berkey. No, will you tell these gentlemen, what you sent Judge Berkey $200 for on the 14th?
A. I didn't see him, I just send him the check.
Q. You didn't see him, you sent him the check?
A. I sent him before you know.
Q. What did you send the check for on the 14th?
A. Well, I am pay him, check, you know, pay that note, that share.
Q. What share were you buying?
A. Jonnstown & Somerset Railway Company.
Q. How many did you buy all told?
A. I am buy a couple, a year ago one, and after that I buy another one. Lots of people buy just the same on payments.
Q. Did you buy those bonds in February, 1924?
A. I cannot tell you when I buy. I'm buy a long time before I was arrested.
Q. Did you ever ask anybody how much those bonds were worth and what you could buy them for from anybody else but Judge Berkey?
A. I no undrestand what you say.
Q. Did you ever buy bonds from anybody else but Judge Berkey?
A. Than by Judge Berkey, no.
Q. Did you ever buy any other bonds except Johnstown & Somerset Railway?
A. Yes sir, I'm buy one ship company in New York one time.
Q. How long ago was that?
A. Oh, about seven year ago.
Q. How much did you pay for that one?
A. I'm buy for $50.
Q. Did you ever buy any other bonds but that?
A. Yes, I buy.
Q. The street railway bond?
A. Yes.
Q. That is all you bought?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Well, when you bought those bonds from the Judge, did you pay any money to the bank?
A. To the bank?
Q. Yes.
A. I don't know.
Q. Did you have your property clear when you bought these bonds?
A. No.
Q. You didn't. How much was against your property when you bought these bonds from the Judge?
A. $1000 I think.
Q. Now Walter, do you remember the 4th of July—
Q. Mr. GEYER: Is the original note here? Mr. Bittner, have you the original?
(Note handed to Mr. Geyer by Mr. Kooser).

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Walter, I show you a note dated July th, 1924.
Mr. MOFFATT: Is that marked as an exhibit?
A. Mr. GEYER: Marked as exhibit 10.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. I show you your name, Walter Bordeczewski, on that note, do you see that writing?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Is that your writing?
A. It look like it. Yes.
Q. Did you see this note in the Davidsville Bank?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Did Mr. Williamson show you this note in the bank?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And did he ask you whether that was your signature?
A. Yes.
Q. Did he ask you whether you signed that note?
A. No, he don't ask that, he get the note.
Q. And he asked you whether you would pay the note?
A. He said, "You got note for pay".
Q. What did you say?
A. I say I think is all right, got to pay president.
Q. You think you got to pay the president?
A. Take this share you know, on the payment, make him note for three month, I got to promise to pay, I'm send it over there, must pay that note in the bank.
Q. Walter, did you buy bonds on the day you gave that note?
A. I'm send it over there, must pay that note in the bank.
Q. The day you signed the note did you buy the bond?
A. Yes.
Q. Where did you buy them?
A. I forget, but about a year ago.
Q. I am asking you where. You bought them from Judge Berkey, didn't you?
A. Yes.
Q. And where did you see Judge Berkey on July 8th, 1924?
A. In him office.
Q. In his office in the Court House?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How did you come to get there, did you go there?
A. Yes, I go.
Q. When had you seen Judge Berkey before that?
A. I no see, I ask people. It tells I'm buy there.
Q. You asked people where you could buy shares of that railway?
A. They tell me go see the president, some secretary, can buy. You can go up for them, find out, you can go Judge.
Q. Was that the first bond that you bought of that railway company?
A. That second.
Q. That was the second?
A. Yes.
Q. When was the first time you bought bonds of the railway company?
A. I buy from Judge.
Q. When, six months before?
A. Oh no, I buy first one about two year ago.
Q. About three years ago?
A. Two.
Q. Why did you want bonds of the Johnstown & Somerset Railway Company?
A. What for?
Q. Yes.
A. In company, lots people buy, I'm buy, I like have it you know, shares.
Q. Walter, you had been arrested on the 4th of July, hadn't you, just before you bought those bonds, hadn't you?
A. I buy year before that.
Q. No, but I am talking about this $500 bond.
A. I'm buy this before that too.
Q. You were arrested on the 4th of July, 1924, do you remember the time?
A. Yes.
Q. And you got bail on the 4th of July, didn't you?
A. Yes.
Q. And your wife gave bail on the 7th of July, didn't she?
A. Yes.
Q. And then you bought the bonds from the Judge on the 8th of July?
A. Not that day.
Q. What is that?
A. Not that time.
Q. You gave the Judge the note on the 8th of July, didn't you.
A. I'm forget, everything about it you know.
Q. But look at the note, Mr. Walter, isn't it dated the 8th of July, that is dated, isn't it?
A. No make right away that note.
Q. You didn't make it right away?
A. No.
Q. Didn't you sign a note on that day?
A. No sir.
Q. When did you sign that note?
A. Sign it after, but I can pay, I buy first for payment, if that can pay for that give me the charge and give me note for pay.

Q. Well, you came into court on the 6th of September on that case that you were arrested for on the 4th of July? You came into court on the 6th of September, didn't you?
A. Something like that.
Q. And you plead guilty, didn't you?
A. Yes.
Q. And the Judge told you to pay the costs and the rest of the sentence would be suspended, didn't he?
A. Yes, I'm pay.
Q. Didn't you go the next day, or two days after that and give the Judge a check for $300, did you?
A. Well, I'm pay that bond.
Q. Paid that on the bond, is that right?
A. $300.
Q. Pay $300 on the bond, two days after the suspended sentence, is that right?
A. That must be that.
Q. It must have been that time musn't it?
A. I no pay that first one. After I settled for that first one to.
Q. Now, Walter, look at that check for $300 dated about the time sentence was suspended, and tell us did you see Judge Berkey when you gave that check for $300?
A. I no see, I sent him.
Q. You sent it to him?
A. I sent him for that bond you see.
Q. Who filled it out for you, who filled that check out for you?
A. I cannot tell you, anybody could have.
Q. Anybody could have?
A. I'm not write, somebody write it for me.
Q. Somebody wrote it for you?

By Mr. BLUMBERG:
Q. Can you read English?
A. No.
Q. Cannot read English. How much money is this check for?
A. I can read that number, $200

By Mr. MARSHALL:
Q. Who is the check made payable to, whose name?
A. I cannot get that.

By Mr. BLUMBERG:
Q. What is the date of the check?
A. Eight somewhere.
Mr. LUDLOW: He can read figures.
Mr. BLUMBERG: He may not be able to read figures except it is money.

By Mr. BLUMBERG:
Q. Look at this check, how much money is this check for?
A. $200
Q. What is the date of that check?
A. Fourteen.
Q. What is before the fourteen?
A. I don't know.
Q. Who is the check made payable to, whom is it written to?
A. Berkey.

By THE CHAIRMAN:
Q. How do yop know?
A. I'm read some, you know, not everything.
Q. What makes you think John A. Berkey gets the money?
A. I'm pay him for it.
Q. No, I am asking you about that check, that paper. How do you know he gets the monye on that paper?
A. How is that?
Q. You said Berkey got it, how do you know?
A. That is the name, Berkey.

By Mr. LUDLOW:
Q. You know the name Berkey when you see it?
A. Sure I know, after I find out you see. I'm not read first time, I don't know.

By Mr. MARSHALL:
Q. You don't make a business of signing your name to checks without knowing what it is and how much they are for do you?
A. No, I pay him for this stock, I go pay and send it.
Q. I am not asking you that? Just answer my question. When you sign a check that is filled out for you by anyone else do you sign it without knowing the amount of money? You know whom it is going to before you sign it, do you not?
A. I cannot understand.
Mr. MARSHALL: Yes, I think that is clear. I want to know whether he knows.

CROSS EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: I don't think I am going to tackle it.

By Mr. BLUMBERG:
Q. Have you got the bonds with you of the Johnstown and Somerset Railway Co.?
A. Yes I got the bonds.
Q. Will you let me see them please.
(Witness hands bonds to Mr. Blumberg)
Q. Did you ever get any interest on these bonds?
A. I never ask.
Q. Did you ever try to get interest on those bonds?
A. No.
Q. Did you ever cut any coupons from any of those bonds?
A. I buy it, it was cut.
Q. You bought it, it was cut, did you personally cut any additional coupons from the bonds, either of them?
A. I don't know.
Q. These bonds here, that is the condition in which you received them, is that correct?
A. That is for that payment, you know signed check to pay for that bonds.
Q. Was it cut just like it is when you got it? You can take a lookt at it. (Handing bonds to witness) Was it cut that way when you got it?
A. It must be, I am not exactly tell, I am not look at this for the cut.
Q. Did you ever cut anything from these bonds?
A. Not me, maybe some time the lady at the house, I no cut.
Q. You never cut anything, did you? Now take a look at this bond (handing bond to witness) is this the condition in which you received this bond?
A. Yes I buy that that way.
Q. That is the way it was cut, did you ever cut any coupon off of that bond?
A. I'm not tell you exactly about that, why I buy.
Q. Did you ever cut anything off that bond?
A. No not me. Yes you know someone—
Q. All right, pass it back.
(Witness returns bonds to Mr. Blumberg)
Mr. GEYER: May we suggest that the bonds be offered?
Mr. BLUMBERG: He may refuse to let you have them.
Mr. MOFFATT. Let me see the other one while you are looking at that one.
(Bond handed to Mr. Moffatt)
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: What are the due dates, Mr. Blumberg?
Mr. BLUMBERG: The first coupon is July, 1923, and the second coupon July, 1924.

By Mr. BLUMBERG:
Q. When did you buy this first bond?
A. I buy it.

By Mr. LUDLOW:
Q. When, what time?
A. What time—oh, I think—after dinner.

By Mr. BLUMBERG:
Q. What year did you buy that bond from Berkey?
A. I'm not tell, I think when I buy, about two years another one, about a year ago, I'm not tell you exactly.
Q. One about two years ago, one about one year ago, that is retty nearly right, isn't it?
A. I can't tell exactly.
Q. Well you are going to sit here until we are through examining you. It is up to you as to when you are going to get away. Two years ago you bought the first one and then one a year ago. Is that right?
A. No I cannot tell you, I got no receipt.
Mr. MOFFATT: Maybe you would rather come back next week, would you?
(No answer)

By Mr. BLUMBERG:
Q. When you got through paying this first bond, did you say you bought it about three years ago?
A. I say about two.
Q. About two years ago, when did you get through paying for it?
A. I cannot understand what you say.
Q. When did you get through paying for the bond, you didn't pay all at once?
A. No, I didn't pay all at one time. I make payments.
Q. How many payments did you make on the first bond, more than two?
A. You know I can't figure it out yet, I know I owe him yet about $250.
Q. You mean you still owe money on that bond?
A. Yes.
Q. And you still owe money on this first bond?
A. Second.
Q. No, I am talking about the first bond, do you owe any money on the first bond?
A. I cannot say, I think no.
Q. You think that you don't owe any money on the first bond?
A. I count them both together, pay both one time.
Q. How much do you owe on both bonds?
A. I am owe about $250 yet.
Q. You say you owe $250 on the two bonds?
A. Yes.
Q. Didn't you tell us before that when you got through paying the first bond, then you bought the second bond?
A. I buy one first time, I no pay, you know, everything
Q. But when you got through paying the first bond, did you buy a second bond, or did you still owe money on the first bond when you bought the second bond?
A. I think I owe on the first one about $50, I don't know sure.

Mr. LUDLOW: There is a great deal I should like to get from this witness before we die, and if it meets with the approval of the committee I would suggest that this witness stand down and that he be brought back here under subpoena next Monday morning. In the meantime, I think Mr. Geyer and Mr. Beidleman can agree upon a Polish interpreter. We want to know what took place. It is very interesting for awhile. I request you as Chairman of the Committee to order him to return here next Monday and request Counsel to get an interpreter.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. What language do you speak, Walter?
A. Polish.

THE CHAIRMAN: We have not decided yet when we will resume our hearing.

Mr. GEYER: The witness produces bond No. 1465 for $500, which contains coupons, the last one being July 1923, prior maturities being cut. The witness also produces a bond No. 1530 of the Johnstown and Somerset Railway Company for $500, the last coupon being the one dated July 1924. May I call attention at this time to the fact that the note of $500 offered of record bears upon its face, said to be in Judge Berkey's handwriting, that it was in payment of bond 1465, which is the one which has the coupon of July, 1923 uncut, and the other bond which the witness produces and which he says was a prior purchase has the coupons cut down to the one of July, 1924. I want that notation to appear on record.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: I think your statement on that last bond is wrong?

Mr. GEYER: What is that?

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: I think your statement on that last bond is wrong, you said prior to 1923 was the one that was bought last, and the one that has the coupon cut to 1924 was the first.

Mr. GEYER: Gentlemen, if you will check the bonds with me, that is the sole purpose, the rest must depend upon the record as made. My recollection may be wrong but bond No. 1530, and let chairman confirm, bond No. 1530 has the coupons cut down to the coupon due—

THE CHAIRMAN: July 1924.

Mr. GEYER: And Bond No. 1465, also for $500 has the coupons cut down to—

THE CHAIRMAN: July 1923.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: That is what I said, it is only fair to assume that the fourteen hundred one was bought before the fifteen hundred one.

Mr. LUDLOW: Can these bonds be impounded here?

Mr. BLUMBERG: What is the purpose, we have the number and the coupon dates.

THE CHAIRMAN: We have the revenue stamp cancellation, the date of issue.

Mr. GEYER: I missed that, may I see it? What is the date there?

THE CHAIRMAN: September 2, 1921, is the cancellation date on bond 1530, and that is the first coupon which is dated July 1924, so you see it throws no light on it.

Mr. GEYER: And the other one is cancelled when?

THE CHAIRMAN: When the stamp was cancelled?

Mr. GEYER: What was the date of the other cancellation?

THE CHAIRMAN: I didn't make a memorandum of it, I thought it was not material.

Mr. GEYER: Probably it was at the time of the original issue, and that would not show anything. Probably the actual cancellation date was when the trustees certified them.

THE CHAIRMAN: I think we had better proceed with something else. It may be proper at this time to determine when we will proceed with the hearing, then we can give these gentlemen whatever instruction is necessary. My idea is when we start in on this next week that we continue until we finish, if possible.

Mr. GEYER: We are perfectly willing.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: We are perfectly satisfied with that provided, however, that when the other side finishes their case we have enough time to know how for the fishing expedition has gone, in order that we may have the chance to answer.

(Discussion as to time of next meeting off the record).

THE CHAIRMAN: The hearings will be resumed next Monday at 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon.

We want you to be (addressing Walter Bordeczewski) present at that time; don't fail. If you are not here we will send for you; understand?

THE WITNESS: Monday?

Mr. WITKIN: Monday, at 2:00 o'clock, do you understand?

THE CHAIRMAN: Bring those bonds back with you.

Q. That is, Walter was to get $300, the Judge was to get $200?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What kind of bonds were you to get?
A. $500.
Q. Did you ask anybody how much the bonds were worth?
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: I object to that.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Did you buy any bonds before?
A. No.
Q. At any time?
A. No.
Q. What kind of bonds did you want to buy?
A. Railroad, street car.
Q. Johnstown and Somerset Street Car?
A. Yes sir.
Q. That is what they were?
A. Goes close to my house.
Q. Can you tell us about when it was, what day it was you paid the Judge $200?
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: He said he paid, as I undrestand, Walter.
Mr. GEYER. He said he paid Walter and Walter gave it to the Judge.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Well, What day was it that the Judge got the $200?
A. I don't know, the 12th, 11th or 12th.
Q. Of what?
A. November.
Q. Your case came up in court in February, didn't it?
A. November.
Q. When were you to come to court?
A. 22nd November.
Q. Did you go to Court on the 22nd of November?
A. Yes.
Q. What became of your case?
A. Pay costs, paroled now.
Q. You paid the costs and you are paroled now.
A. I don't know how long.
Q. You know Mr. Baldwin?
A. Yes.
Q. Whom does he work for?
A. I work for him.
Q. For what company?
A. Penn Smokeless Coal Company?
Q. The Penn Smokeless Coal Company?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You worked for Mr. Baldwin how long?
A. Eleven years.
Q. One year?
A. Eleven years.
Q. Did you give Mr. Baldwin $100 to send to Judge Berkey?
A. My wife gave it to him.
Q. Did you give it to her?
A. Yes sir.
Q. To give to him?
A. Yes sir.
Q. When was that?
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: That is hearsay.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. When was that?
A. About a month ago.
Q. You told your wife to give Mr. Baldwin $100 to send to Judge Berkey? Is that right?
A. Put it down to bank, my wife, at Somerset, $100, that check belonged to Walter.
Q. That $100 belonged to Walter?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Do you know who sent the check?
A. Fellow from Davidsville Bank.
Q. Was that Mr. Williamson?
A. Yes sir.
Q. He is here now?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And you say you are under parole from Judge Berkey, you don't know how long?
A. No.
Mr. GEYER: That is all.
The CHAIRMAN: He gave $100 to his wife to give to Mr. Baldwin to send it to Somerset. He was going up to Somerset.

By Mr. BLUMBERG:
Q. Did you say that money belonged to your wife, that $100?
A. That money belonged to Mr. Walter.
Q. When you say Walter whom do you mean?
A. That fellow that was in here.
Q. Bordeczewski?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you say that money was your wife's money?
A. No.
Q. Whose money was it?
A. Me, myself, and Mrs.
Q. Your money and your wife's?
A. Yes.
Q. What was she supposed to do with that money, take it to Walter?
A. Take to Walter.
Q. Did you owe Walter money?
A. $200.
Q. You still owe Walter $200?
A. He had check for $300.

By the CHAIRMAN.
Q. You say you bought that bond November 11th or 12th?
A. Yes.
Q. How do you fix the date, how do you know it was not the 15th?
A. No, it was not before the 11th or 12th for sure.
Q. How do you know, how do you fix the date?
A. I not know, I haven't any date.
Q. You are just guessing at it then?
A. Yes.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: No questions.

By Mr. LUDLOW:
Q. You were arrested on November 14, 1924?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What were you arrested for doing?
A. They found by me moonshine.
Q. When did they find the moonshine, on that day?
A. On the 14th in the evening, half past eight.
Q. You didn't know before the 14th of November that they were after you?
A. I was never home there then, they arrest my wife first.
Q. Did they arrest her on that day?
A. Yes, in the evening in the night about 10:00 o'clock.
Q. When did you go before the justice of the peace or squire, when did you have your hearing?
A. Same night.
Q. Same night?
A. On that day.
Q. And you say you paid out this money to Walter?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And to the Judge two or three days before that?
A. Yes, about 11th or 12th.
Q. That is to say, you bought the bonds on the 11th or 12th and you were arrested on the 14th?
A. Yes.
Q. Why did you buy the bonds?
A. Because the street car go by my house, my home.

Q. Did everybody in front of whose house the car line runs buy bonds?
A. They make some money.
Q. Who suggested that you buy these bonds?
A. My wife.
Q. Who put the idea into the heads of the two of you, do you know?
A. (No answer)
Q. Who talked to you about it?
A. Lots of fellows down there got street car bond.
Q. You suddenly realized that the trolley was running by in front of your house, and you wanted to buy bonds?
A. Yes.
Q. And you did that two days before you were arrested?
A. Yes.
Q. And you had no other reason.
A. No.

By Mr. BLUMBERG: What happened at this man's trial?
Mr. GEYER: Your honor he entered a plea of guilty and the Judge suspended sentence upon payment of the costs, and he is now under parole.
Mr. BLUMBERG: For how long?
Mr. GEYER: He said he did not know how long.

By Mr. BLUMBERG:
Q. Was that the first time you were ever arrested?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Are you married?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How many children have you got?
A. Five children home and the woman.
Q. How long have you been in this country?
A. Twenty-nine years.
Q. About twenty-nine years?
A. 1896.
Q. How long have you lived in Somerset County?
A. Twenty years.
Q. That was the first time you were ever arrested?
A. Yes sir.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: Have you got a certified copy of this record?
Mr. GEYER: I have not yet, no.

By Mr. LUDLOW:
Q. Is it understood among your people down in your county, among you foreign folks that if you buy these bonds that you won't get into trouble with the courts?
A. No.
Q. You just bought it because the trolley went by your house?
A. Yes.
Q. And then you made moonshine and then you were arrested?
A. Yes, I never make moonshine.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. There was a still found in your place on the 14th?
A. A still, yes.
Q. How long had that still been there? Two days?
A. I don't know.
Q. A week?

By Mr. LUDLOW:
Q. How long had the trolly been running by your house?
A. I don't know, maybe three or four year.
Q. The trolly had been running three or four years, the still had been there a couple of months; you bought a bond two days before and you were arrested on the 14th, that is about right?
A. Before the strike.
Q. What is that?
A. Before the strike.
Q. When was the strike—
Mr. LUDLOW: I don't think that is material, just strike the question out.

By Mr. BLUMBERG:
Q. Have you got a bond?
A. Yes.
Q. Have you got it with you?
A. Yes
Q. Will you let me see it?
(Witness hands bond to Mr. Blumberg).

By The CHAIRMAN:
Q. You had just the one bond, had you?
A. Yes.
Q. When you bought this bond I understood you say you went to Judge Berkey's office to get it?
A. I and Walter.
Q. You and Walter?
A. Yes.
Q. Is that the Walter that sat here a few minutes ago and testified?
A. Yes.
Q. The two of you were together at the time?
A. Yes.
Q. Were you in the Judge's office or in the library, where did you see him?
A. Library, outside. His office.
Q. Did you have an appointment when you went to see him?
A. No.
Q. Did anyone arrange for you to see him before you went?
A. No.
Q. How did you know the Judge would me there?
A. I know the Judge would be there, I know him about fifteen or sixteen years, he was my lawyer at one time.
Q. Did he ever talk to you about these bonds?
A. No, I never talk about the bonds.
Q. Did he ever talk to you about the bonds?
A. No, no.
Q. What did Walter say to you when he spoke to you about getting bonds?
A. Asked me if I wanted to buy bonds.
Q. He asked you?
A. Yes, I buy one, I said, if he had one.
Q. And so Walter asked you if you wanted to buy a bond?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And you said you would buy it if he had one?
A. All right.
Q. What did he say, did he say we will go to Judge Berkey and get one?
A. No. He had one in the pocket.
Q. What did he say, where you could get one?
A. Well, Walter he had it in the pocket, I buy off him. (Indicating Walter).
Q. You say Walter had it in his pocket?
A. Yes.
Q. Where did he have it, where were you when you first learned that he had it in his pocket?
A. Was in the house.
Q. Was he in the court house or out in the town some place?
A. He was in my house then.
Q. Did he have this in his pocket when he was at your house?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Then was that the first time you decided to buy a bond?
A. Yes, then go up in Somerset and buy a street car bond, and he take me to Somerset.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: If you will just pardon an interruption, I take it that all of this inquiry is based upon the theory that this case has been disposed of, and this man is under suspended sentence. Mr. Shaver, who was his counsel, and the only person who does know anything about the case, tells me that the man is under bail for appearance at the May sessions, the case is not disposed of.
Mr. GEYER: The witness testified he is under parole.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: I don't care what he testified to, because his counsel knows what he is.
The CHAIRMAN: The thing I am trying to develop, I don't know whether it is clear on the record, are the circumstances under which he bought this bond. That is what I would like to have cleared up.

By The CHAIRMAN:
Q. As I understand Albino, the first time then that Walter mentioned to you about buying the bond was at your house?
A. Yes in my house and I asked him, I said I wanted to buy bond.
Q. He asked you? You say he asked you did you want to buy a bond?

A. Yes he asked me then, he said, "I have one in the pocket if you want to buy", and then he get it.
Q. That is the bond he had in his pocket, is it?
A. Yes.
Q. When was it that you went to Judge Berkey's Office?
A. Yes sir, I met him in there in the court.
Q. Was it the next day?
A. Same day.
Q. Walter had this in his pocket and then you went the same day to see Judge Berkey?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Why did you go to see Judge Berkey?
A. I want a new one, this is old—it has some pieces off.
Q. Was this the one Walter had in his pocket when he first spoke to you?
A. Yes.
Q. Then you went with Walter to Judge Berkey's office?
A. Yes sir, we went there to.
Q. The same day?
A. Yes.
Q. What did you say to Judge Berkey in regard to the bond?
A. I said I want to get a new one. He say he no have it.
Q. You came away with the same one, you broght the same bond back with you, is that correct?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And did this bond belong to Walter, the one Walter had in his pocket down at your home?
A. It belonged to Walter.
Q. To whom?
A. Walter.
Q. When you went to Judge Berkey's office you testified you gave Walter $200, is that correct?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What was that $200 for?
A. Well I don't know, maybe Walter know it.
Q. What did you give it to Walter for, was it for this bond?
A. For that bond.
Q. Then what did Walter do with the $200?
A. I think he give it to the Judge.
Q. Were you there when he gave it to him?
A. Yes I was in there.
Q. Do you know why he gave it to the Judge?
A. I don't know.
Q. Then you still owe Walter the remaining $300?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Have you paid that?
A. Not yet.
Q. Walter gave you this bond and you haven't paid for it?
A. No, I write a check to my friend Walter, bring the money $200 down there, send it to Somerset. $100 belong to Walter.
Q. Do you owe Walter $300 for this bond?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How much do you owe the Judge now?
A. Nothing to the Judge.
Q. You owe Walter $300 and he turned this bond over to you and you haven't paid for it?
A. No.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. Did you talk to Judge Berkey about this bond or just to Walter?
A. Yes sir.
Q. To whom did you talk to about it just before?
A. Just to Walter.
Q. What you said to Judge Berkey was that you wanted a bond with more coupons on it?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And he said he didn't have it?
A. No sir.
Q. Did Judge Berkey tell you anything else about this bond?
A. No.
Q. That is all you said to Judge Berkey and that is all he said to you about this bond, is that right?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You bought this bond from whom?
A. From Walter.
Q. That is Walter Bordeczewski?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And you agreed to pay $500 for this bond, is that right?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You agreed to pay Walter $500 for this bond?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You heard about this company, the Johnstown and Somerset Railway Co., did you?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Do you know anybody else that bought any of these bonds, did any of your friends buy bonds?
A. Sure my friends buy bonds, nine or ten years ago.
Q. You paid Walter $200 and you owe him $300 on this $500 bond?
A. Yes sir.

By Mr. BLUMBERG:
Q. Did you ever buy any other bonds besides this one?
A. No sir.

By Mr. LUDLOW:
Q. Did you every try to get anybody else to buy bonds?
A. No sir.
Q. When Walter called on you that night did you tell him you realized the trolley was running in front of your house and you wanted to buy bonds?
A. The trolley there long ago, right close in front of my house..
Q. Did you tell Walter that?
A. Yes sir.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. When Walter told you to buy the bonds, did he know that you had a still?
A. I don't understand.
Mr. GEYER: Oh yes you do.
The CHAIRMAN: Repeat the question to him.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Did Walter know you had a still?
A. A still?
Q. Yes, to make moonshine?
A. I don't know.
Q. Did he know you had a lot of wine?
A. No I got no wine.
Q. Did you give him anything to drink?
A. I gave him a glass of wine one time.
Q. Was that when he told you you had better buy a bond?
A. No not that time.

Mr. GEYER: We ask to have it noted on the record that this bond bears the No. 1773, in the amount of $500 and has coupons cut down to the one of July, 1925. This bond, like all the others, is signed by John A. Berkey, President, and attested by A. Kent Miller, Secretary.

Mrs. ALBINO KAOLI a witness called in behalf of the complainant being duly sworn was examined and testified as follows:

C. CARTA, an interpreter, was duly sworn to make true and correct interpretations of question and answer.

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Mrs. Caoli, you are the wife of this last witness?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Did you go with him to Somerset?
A. Yes sir, one day I went with him, yes sir.
Q. Did you see Judge Berkey?
A. Yes sir.
Q. When was this?
A. It was when I went with my husband.
Q. How long ago was it?
A. I don't remember.
Q. Well how many months ago was it?
A. Maybe two or three months.
Q. Did your husband take any money along?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How much?
A. $200.
Q. What did he do with it?
A. He give it to Walter, and Walter give it to Judge Berkey.
Q. Where was this?
A. In the room, I don't know where.
Q. In what building?

A. Into the court house.
Q. Was it before your husband was arrested?
A. I am not sure of it.
Q. Do you know what day your husband was arrested?
A. Maybe the 14th of November.
Q. What day of the week was it?
A. I don't know.
Q. Do you know how long it was between the time you gave this $200 and the time you were arrested?
A. Why he gave him the $200 when he gave him the bond.
Q. But the question is, how long was it between that time and the time of the arrest?
A. I don't know.
Q. Try to think whether it was before he was arrested or after he was arrested that you gave the $200?
A. I don't know, my husband gave him the money, I don't recollect.
Q. Do you know Mr. Baldwin?
A. Yes.
Q. He is your husband's boss?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you give him $100 to send to Somerset?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Do you know Mr. Williamson of the bank?
A. I don't know the gentleman.
Q. Did you tell Mr. Baldwin whom to send the money to?
A. I told him to send it to Somerset.
Q. Whom did you tell him to send it to in Somerset?
A. When I gave him that money I told him to send it to Mr. Walter.

Mr. GEYER: (To the interpreter, didn't she use the name "Judge Berkey" in her answer)

The INTERPRETER: Pardon me, I was going to ask her that question again.

(Question repeated to witness)

A. I sent it to Judge Berkey with the intention it be returned to Mr. Walter.

CROSS EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. You say Mr. Baldwin did that?
A. Yes sir.

JAMES E. WILLIAMSON re-called.

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. You have already been sworn?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Do you know Mrs. Caoli, the last witness?
A. I do not.
Q. Did you have any sum of $100 paid to your bank by Mr. Baldwin?
A. Yes sir.
Q. When was that?
A. Possibly about a month ago, I didn't keep any particular reference.
Q. What was the direction from Baldwin?
A. The direction from his was, it was a blank check signed from the check book of Albert Baker, I think the name Albert Baker was scratched out, but the check was signed in blank by Albino Caoli. Mr. Baldwin deposited $100 with instructions to me that I was to mail a check to Judge Berkey for $100 and write a note to accompany the check asking Judge Berkey to give him additional time on the balance to pay.
Q. Did you write this letter?
A. I just wrote a note and sent it with the check.
Q. Did you keep a copy of the note?
A. No sir.
Q. When did the check go off?
A. I think the day after Mr. Baldwin deposited it.
Q. But you don't recall the time?
A. No sir.
Q. This check was mailed in an envelope addressed to Judge Berkey with a letter of that import?
A. Just a little pencil sketch with it.
Q. By whom was the note in the letter signed?
A. By myself.
Q. Will you give us your best recollection as to what you said in that note, as near as you can recall it?
A. I said something to this effect, "Dear Judge, this man asks for additional time on the balance".
Q. Was it addressed to Judge Berkey?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And did it bear the return card of your bank?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Has it been returned?
A. Do you mean the letter?
Q. Yes?
A. No.
Q. The letter has not been returned?
A. No sir.
Q. Mr. Baldwin is a man of the highest integrity?
A. I think so.
Q. He was this man's foreman?
A. Superintendent.

CROSS EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. You got the Baldwin letter?
A. The Baldwin letter?
Q. Yes?
A. I never had any Baldwin letter.
Q. Didn't you say Baldwin sent a check to you?
A. No, he brought it in personally.
Q. And your conversation with Baldwin was all oral, there was nothing in writing?
A. Nothing in writing.
Q. And you kept no memorandum or copy of the note you sent to Judge Berkey?
A. No sir.
Q. You don't know what the $100 was for?
A. I don't, I didn't ask any questions.
Q. Did the check come back?
A. No sir.
Q. You have never seen this check?
A. No sir, not since I sent it away.
Q. The check has not been returned to the bank?
A. No sir.
Q. How long has that been?
A. About a month, possibly.

By The CHAIRMAN:
Q. Was it drawn on your bank?
A. Yes sir.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. Against whose account was it?
A. Albino Caoli, he was the maker of the check.
Q. Who was it made payable to?
A. The check was made payable to Judge Berkey, and the check was made in blank, and I filled in everything except the signature, Albino Caoli.
Q. And Mr. Baldwin brought you a blank check signed by Albino Caoli?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And you filled in the check for $100 to Judge Berkey?
A. Yes sir.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Had Caoli had an account with you before?
A. No sir.
Q. And was the blank check Mr. Baldwin brought was for what amount of money?
A. $100.
Q. And you deposited it to whose credit?
A. Albino Caoli.
Q. And then you sent this check?
A. Yes sir.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. As far as the bank records show, there is no indication as to who got the money?
A. We still have the money.
Q. You still have the $100 and the check has never been deposited?
A. No sir.

Mrs. ALBINO CAOLI re-called.

By Mr. LUDLOW:
Q. Mrs. Caoli who suggested that your husband buy these Johnstown and Somerset Railway bonds?
A. My husband suggested buy these railway bonds himself.
Q. How long had you and your husband known Walter?
A. Quite a long time.

Q. Had your husband ever been arrested before?
A. Never.
Q. Had Walter ever been arrested when you first knew him? Had their friend Walter ever been arrested in the last three or four years that they knew him?
A. Since we knew him, I don't know whether he was arrested or not.
Q. Did Walter ever say in your presence that if you bought these street railway bonds you would be safe from arrest?
A. No, no, no.
Q. Did Walter ever say that if you bought these bonds you could make moonshine?
A. No sir, my husband never made before moonshine.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. Do any of your friends own any of these bonds, do you know?
A. Yes some of our country people got bonds too.
Q. Do you know any of your country people who got bonds of the Johnstown and Somerest Railway Company that have not been arrested?
A. I think for a long time my friend buy a bond there and never was arrested, never.
Q. Do you know what they paid for these bonds?
A. Why sometimes $200 and in addition $100 more or so.
Q. Do you know whether they ever brought them cheaper than the amount of the bond, ever bought them cheaper; if the amount of the bond was $500, or did they buy what the bond cost?
A. I don't know sir.

WILLIAM J. DAVIS a witness called in behalf of the complaint being duly sworn was examined and testified as follows on

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

The CHAIRMAN: Is this the same case.
Mr. GEYER: No, a different case, an entirely different case.
Mr. GEYER: I have here a certified copy of the record in the case of the Commonwealth against Mrs. Frank Cola and Frank Cola to No. 107, December sessions, 1924; November 14th defendants entered into their recognizance; November 15 defendant, Mrs. Frank Cola, enters into her recognizance; November 17—that is all 1924—information and return filed; November 22nd, defendants waived the finding of true bill by the grand jury and plead guilty to within indictment; the same day defendants directed to pay the costs of prosecution and enter into recognizance for their appearance at February sessions 1925; November 24th 1924 defendant Frank Cola and his surety enter into his recognizance for appearance at February sessions; November 25th Mrs. Cola and her surtty enter into recognizance for appearance at February sessions, 1925; January 1st, petition of the District Attorney praying the court to order the destruction of two stills and coil, seven barrels of wine, two gallons of moonshine and one sample of beer presented and order is made as follows:
"Now January 2nd, 1925, the foregoing petition having been read and considered, the court orders and directs the sheriff of Somerset County to destroy all intoxicating liquor and property seized, as described within the petition, and make return to the court of compliance with this order," signed J. A. Berkey, P. J.; February 7, 1925 defendant Frank Cola called and appeared for sentence. Mrs. Frank Cola did not appear. Same day by order of court case continued to May sessions, 1925.
Mr. MOFFATT: That is the last notation in the case?
Mr. GEYER: That is the last notation.

Mr. WITKIN: That plea of guilty, for the gentleman's information, that is the preliminary hearing before the magistrate, and is not binding.

Mr. GEYER: No, this is a plea in court without bill found. You will recall the bill which was passed which permitted a defendant to enter his plea without a bill having been found.

Mr. WITKIN: Then, according to that record, the case is not disposed of.

Mr. GEYER: He has entered his plea of guilty, and the actual sentence has been postponed until May. I call attention to that on the question of the situation of this witness.

Mr. WITKIN: We have his name as Albine, and the record has it as Frank.
Mr. MARSHALL: These are the specifications of the new case?
Mr. GEYER: No, that is the case just closed.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. What is your name?
A. Davis, W. J.
Mr. WITKIN: What case is this?
Mr. GEYER: This is entirely a new and different matter.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. What former position did you occupy?
A. I was Deputy County Treasurer, clerk to the county treasurer, two years.
Q. What two years?
A. 1920 and '21.
Q. Have you in your possession a check from the county treasurer of Somerset County to Judge Berkey or the Johnstown and Somerset Street Railway Company in the amount of $5500?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Will you produce it?
A. Yes.
(Witness produces check).
(Check signed by M. M. Shober, dated October 4, 1921, produced and marked complainants exhibit No. 13).

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. I show you a check marked exhibit No. 13 and ask you whether that is the check?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Were you present when the check was written out?
A. No sir.
Q. Were you present when the check was signed?
A. No sir, not to my knowledge.
Q. Who was then the county treasurer of Somerset County?
A. Marling M. Shober, he writes his name M. M. Shober.
Q. Where is he now?
A. He is at home in Somerset County, I suppose.
Q. What is his condition of health?
A. He is an invalid you might say.
Mr. GEYER: May I call attention to the fact that I believe the records of this committee show that he was unable to attend in answer to a subpoena on account of his condition of health.
The CHAIRMAN: We have a certificate to that effect, I believe.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Were you familiar with the handwriting of M. M. Shober?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You were his clerk for how long?
A. Two years.
Q. You were his clerk on the date of this check, October 4, 1921?
A. Yes.
Q. When did you get this check?
A. When I settled with the bank, I did all of his business pertaining to the office.
Q. And as the deputy you got this check?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Are you familiar with the handwriting of John A. Berkey?
A. I have seen his handwriting quite often.
Q. Will you tell us, in your opinion, in whose handwriting is this check filled out other than the name?
A. I think it is Judge Berkey's handwriting; it looks very much like it.
Q. Did I ask you whether the signature on the check was the signature of Shober?
A. I don't know whether you asked me but it is.
Q. Will you turn to the endorsement on the back of the check, Johnstown and Somerset Ry. Co., by J. A. Berkey, President" and tell us in whose handwriting that endorsement is?
A. J. A. Berkey.
Q. Will you tell us whether on October 4, 1921, the county of Somerset was indebted to the Johnstown and Somerset Railway Company?
A. I don't know that.
Q. Do you know of any indebtedness to the Johnstown and Somerset Railway Company?

A. No.
Q. And you were the deputy in chagre of the office?
A. Yes.
Q. Mr. Davis, the treasurer was at that time somewhat of an invalid, was he not?
A. Yes.
Q. And because of that the duties of the office devolved entirely upon you?
A. Yes, I did all the office work. Besides that I had a clerk, my daughter was working the office several months during the hunting season and dog license season that I could not get away with the work myself.
Q. What was this check given for?
A. He loaned this money. I suppose, to Judge Berkey, I am of that opinion, or bought notes.
Q. Did you talk with Judge Berkey about it, at any time?
A. No.
Q. What happened at the end of the fiscal year in which this money of the county was paid to the Johnstown and Somerset Railway Company?
A. I think the county was short more than that note; approximately $6000 or $6800, if I remember rightly, I cannot recall.
Q. Can you tell how the additional amount was made up?
A. I think that the Shobers, I was not in the office after the audit was made, I retired from the office that autumn, on January 1, 1923, but I laid down to the auditors the county's work, the treasurer's work for that year.
Q. And in that you showed this as a loan from the county to the Johnstown and Somerset Railway Company?
A. Not from the county, from Shober.
Q. You show as a personal loan from Shober?
A. Yes.
Q. To the Johnstown and Somerset Railway Company?
A. I carried that along in my accounts, it was up to him because he loaned it to him, the action was up to him, however, it was up to him.
Q. By "him" whom do you mean?
A. The county treasurer.

Mr. WITKIN: Mr. Davis, do not answer questions if you are guessing, this is an important matter and a serious charge, and you ought to confine your answers to your own personal knowledge. If you know a thing answer it irrespective of what the answer may be. If you are not sure you need not answer, because we want definite answers and facts in the case.

The WITNESS: I went out of office.

Mr. GEYER: May I suggest that when a witness from this district uses the word "guess" and so on, he does not mean it in the sense that it is mere speculation.

Mr. WITKIN: The record should be practical. If he is telling facts and not thinking, that is for the benefit of the community at large, the record should show that he is not guessing on them. If he is guessing or thinking we do not want it, irrespective of what side you are looking at it. The record should show just what he states, and not show that he is using terms that are ambiguous.

Mr. GEYER: You don't understand how we country men use the word guess.

Mr. WITKIN: You say "we countrymen", you include yourself?

Mr. GEYER: Yes.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Will you tell us, Mr. Davis, how you carried this payment of money on the books of the county of Somerset?
A. I charged Mr. Shober with it.
Q. You charged the treasurer with it personally?
A. Yes sir.
Q. As moneys taken by him personally?
A. As I remember it, I think I carried it on my day book and that was the end of it.
Q. The day, book, as money paid personally?
A. I cannot recall for sure.
Q. Mr. Davis, you say that was carried into the account of the auditors at the end of that year?
A. It was, I had to account for this money.
Q. You spoke of another shortage, and additional charge to the $5,500 at the end of that year; do you know what the figure was?
A. No I don't, it sort of runs in my memory he was short about $6,800 or $6,500.
Q. Have you any recollection of how this shortage was made up?
A. I think by bank certificates.
Q. This shortage of between $6,500 and $6,800?
A. I think he bought bank certificates.
Q. And where were they?
A. He held them.
Q. Did the Johnstown and Somerset Street Railway Company, to your knowledge, give anything, any memorandum of obligation to the county of Somerset for this $5,500?
A. No they did not, but they did to Shober individually.
Q. Did you see that memorandum?
A. I did.
Q. Who signed it on behalf of the Johnstown and Somerset Street Railway Company?
A. John Berkey, I think—no I don't know, I was not there when he gave it.
Q. Did you see the signature?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And was the signature to that note the signature of Judge Berkey?
A. Yes—no, I would not say that for sure, I think it was made to the Johnstown & Somerset Street Railway Company.
Q. By?
A. I don't remember by whom, but Judge Berkey's name was on it.
Q. In whose handwriting were these words written Johnstown & Somerset Street Railway Company?
A. If I remember rightly, Judge Berkey's.
Q. And Mr. Davis, since that time you have had this note in your personally possession, have you not?
A. You mean—
Q. This check that you are producing?
A. Yes, and with some other papers.
Q. What other papers?
A. I had laid down the years work, as I told you before to the county auditors, and I kept copies of everything.
Q. But you have had this in your possession?
A. I had these copies and this check in my possession ever since. I was under bond and I protected myself.

Mr. GEYER: I offer in evidence this check, exhibit No. 13. "The Farmers National Bank, Somerset, Pa. October 4, 1921. No. 803. Pay to the order of Johnstown & Somerset Ry Co. $5,500. Five thousand five hundred xx-100 Dollars. M. M. Shober, Treasurer", being written on the printed check of "Marling A. Shober, Treasurer of Somerset County"; endorsement "Johnstown & Somerset Ry. Co. by J. A. Berkey, Pres."

CROSS EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Mr. Davis, you say you saw the note that was given to Mr. Shober for $5,500?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Was there any collateral pledged with that note?
A. As near as I can recall, there was about between $11,000 and $12,000 collateral.
Q. Did you examine the collateral?
A. Some of it.
Q. Did you regard it sufficient to cover the $5,500?
A. We had a note that was given to the Johnstown & Somerset Street Railways Company for $2,500 from one Charles Nepper, which was as good as old wheat in the mill.
Q. Charles Nepper?
A. I think his initals are Charles W. It may be Charles H., I am not so positive about that.
Q. What other collateral did you see?
A. I had a bank certificate, a certificate of deposit.
Q. From one of the national banks of Davidsville, how much?
A. $2.500.
Q. What else?
A. Two more notes, if I recall right, of $2,500 each.
Q. Made by whom?
A. I cannot recall the names.
Q. Did you regard them as good?
A. I didn't know the people.
Q. Anything else?
A. That is all I know.
Q. At the time this check was given by Mr. Shober, what were the earnings of Mr. Shober as County Treasurer, what did they amount to?

A. Approximately $16,000—no, between $13,000 and $14,000 at this time.

Q. So that at the time this check for $5,500 was given, Mr. Shober had standing as earned, as County Treasurer, moneys belonging to the county from thirteen to sixteen thousand dollars?

A. I don't know whether he had that standing.

Q. What was the amount earned?

A. It was between $13,000 and $14,000 that was earned at that time.

Q. A note was taken in the name of Shober personally, and not as County Treasurer, was it not?

A. Not as County Treasurer, had nothing to do with it.

Q. No. And for that note which was given by the Johnstown and Somerset Street Railway Company in the sum of $5,500, there was pledged this $10,000 worth of notes?

A. More than $10,000.

Q. More than $10,000?

A. If I recall right. I sometimes think that the note of Charles Nepper was $5,000, I may be mistaken on that, I cannot recall right; maybe it was $5,000, but I have not seen it since this time.

Q. Then from an examination of the collateral at the time you saw the note, you would state that there was more than a sufficient amount of money that was pledged and made collateral to secure that $5,500 note?

A. Yes sir.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: That is all.

By Mr. LUDLOW:

Q. Do you say there was a shortage, however when the county auditors audited this account?

A. Yes sir.

Q. There was a shortage of over $6,000?

A. Yes sir.

Q. So that no matter how much money Mr. Shober had in his account, no matter how many good notes he had, the fact remains it was overdrawn, and he owed the county over $6,000? when his treasurership was up?

A. Not when the treasurership was up.

Q. When the year was up?

A. When the year was up?

Q. This check for $5,500 was wrawn and signed by him as treasurer?

A. It was a treasurer's check.

Q. Was it not drawn on the monies belonging to the county in the bank deposit, Mr. Davis, belonging to the county?

A. That is the way I paid myself I paid myself every month with the same kind of check.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:

Q. He did not carry any personal account in the bank, did he?

A. I rather think he did. I am not so sure, he may not in this bank, but I am almost positive that he had a bank account, a personal account in one of the Berlin banks.

Q. He frequently paid for personal matters with treasurer's checks, didn't he.

A. Yes sir.

Q. And during the time that he was county treasurer, it was not unusual, in fact Mr. Shober used treasurer's checks for the payment, of a private account, didn't he?

A. He issued that kind of checks. He bought a judgment or a mortgage that his mother had given, he bought that, I think it was $1,000 or $1,500, but I don't remember who it was to, with what fund anymore.

Q. It was paid by treasurer's check?

A. I cannot say that voucher, but I know that on a judgment or a mortgage that was held by one Mrs. Beechy against his mother and he issued that check to take care of that mortgage or judgment, whatever it was.

Q. And when Mr. Shober finished his term as county treasurer, he settled with the county in full?

A. No, I was not there, I didn't prepare any of these settlements, but I suppose he did, I never heard anything.

Q. You were the bondsman, you say?

A. Oh no.

Q. Didn't you say you were one of the bondsmen?

A. No, I was under bond.

Q. I think you were on the bond?

A. That is why I kept this check, and kept copies of the work that I had done to protect myself until I covered my bond.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: That is all.

By Mr. WITKIN:

Q. What is your name?

A. Davis.

Q. Mr. Davis, no demand was ever made of you from the county or the bonding company that bonding you, to make good any deficiencies that occurred at the end of that year?

A. No.

Q. Because of the bond that you were under?

A. No.

Q. The county or no one else ever made any demand on you?

A. No sir.

Q. In answer to Mr. Beidleman's question you stated that Mr. Shober had earnings of about $13,000 to $16,000.

A. Fees, his commission amount to between $13,000 and $14,000 at this time. The first year his earnings were between $7,000 and $8,000. The last year it amounted to over $8,000. Taking it for granted that it would run about the same in nine months of the second year, that is when this check was issued, it would be three-fourths of $8000, or over $8,000, which would be $6,000.

Do you know whether or not, on the 4th of October, 1921, Mr. Shober had in the Farmers National Bank money of his own in excess of $5,500?

A. I don't know that, I don't think he had.

Q. Could you answer that qutstion in the affirmative or negative, I mean will you give us a definite answer?

A. I don't think he had that much earned.

Q. You say he had $13,000 of earnings up until that time?

A. Yes sir. He was buying paper, and I cannot tell whether he had that much, I knew the county didn't owe him that much at this time.

Q. Now you say that this note of Charlse W. Nepper was either $2,500 or $5,000?

A. Yes sir, which ever one it was, it was good. The bank certificate was good, as good as gold.

Q. And do you know whether or not Mr. Shober made this personal loan to the Johnstown & Somerset Railway Company, or did he give them a note of the county?

A. Personal loan.

Q. And the note of the Johnstown & Somerset Railway Company was a personal note to him?

A. Yes sir.

Q. I mean was a note of the company to him personally?

A. Yes sir.

Q. What rate of interest did it bear, if any?

A. I cannot tell you that, I don't know.

Mr. WITKIN: That is all.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. Mr. Davis, you stated that by that time he had earnings of something like $13,000?

A. Between $13,000 and $14,000 his earnings amounted to from the time he went into office up until this time.

Q. But he had withdrawn from time to time?

A. Oh yes.

Q. That is, against that?

A. Yes sir.

Q. So that on the day when these funds were taken from the county treasury, you are certain there was not $5,500 due to the treasurer for his earnings?

A. It was not all due to the county treasurer.

Q. That is, there was not that much due him from the county?

A. I don't think so.

Q. Were you with him the next year?

A. No.

Q. You have kept this note in your possession since the end of that year?

A. The check, you mean.

Q. Yes, the check.

A. Yes.

Q. It has been in your possession since the end of that year, with a lot of other papers?

A. With a lot of other papers that I have. I had given a bond for $10,000 and I wanted to have these things that I could show up that everything is straight and right, so far as I conducted the office.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. The treasurer was under bond too?
A. Heavy bond, also.
Q. The same bonding company?
A. Yes, the National Surety Company of Pittsburgh.
Q. As far as you know, there was no demand ever made by the county upon the National Surety Company to make good?
A. No, there was no demand or I would have found it out, I don't know of it though if there ever had been a demand made I would have found it out.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Do you have any other checks or vouchers in your possession during those years, except this one?
A. That is all.
Q. This one check?
A. Yes sir.
Mr. GEYER: We offer this check in evidence. May I read it? "The Farmers National Bank, Somerset, Pa., October 4, 1921, No. 803. Pay to the order of Johnstown & Somerset Ry. Co., $5500.00 Five thousand five hundred 100 dollars. M. M. Shober, Treasurer", being written on printed check of Marling M. Shober, Treasurer of Somerset County, endorsed "Johnstown & Somerset Ry. Co. by J. A. Berkey, Pres."

By Mr. BLOOMBERG:
Q. Mr. Davis, do you hold any office now?
A. I am supervisor of Somerset township.
Q. What does that mean, I don't know just what that means?
A. There are three supervisors to each township, and they take care of the public and the township roads of the township.

By Mr. LUDLOW:
Q. Second class township supervisor, are you not?
A. Yes sir.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Mr. Davis, you kept this check in your possession for your protection, did you not?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Some time ago you were arrested in the town of Somerset, were you not?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What was the change?
A. Driving a car while under the influence of liquor.
Q. Were you imprisoned?
A. In tht borough lockup.
Q. Did you send for Judge Berkey?
A. No.
Q. Did he come to see you?
A. No.
Q. Did you send anyone to him?
A. I went myself.
Q. You went to see him?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Did you demand of him that the justice of the peace or the burgess discharge you from that charge?
A. No.
Q. Did you know at that time—
A. I asked advice from him, and he told me to get an attorney. That Judge Berkey had been sentencing anyone convicted of that offense to imprisonment?
A. No, I didn't pay any attention to it.
Q. You didn't?
A. No.
Q. Was it at your suggestion, or with your knowledge, that Judge Berkey went to the justice of the peace and asked for your discharge in that case?
A. I don't know that he was ever there.
Q. You don't know anything of it?
A. No.
Q. Who was the justice of the peace?
A. F. B. Craver.
Q. The justice of the peace did discharge you, didn't he?
A. No.
Q. The case has not been returned to Court?
A. Yes sir.
Q. When was it returned to Court?
A. About a month ago.
Q. It has not yet been tried?
A. No.
Q. But as soon as you got into trouble you did go to Judge Berkey?
A. I went to get advice from him.
Q. Although you knew that he was no longer practicing law?
A. I knew that he was not practicing law.
Q. You knew he was on the bench as judge?
A. Yes.
Q. And you went to him for advice when you were arrested?
A. Yes sir.
Q. When were you arrested?
A. The 13th day of October.
Q. Of last October?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And when did you go to see Judge Berkey?
A. The following day.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. You live where?
A. Somerset township.
Q. What district?
A. Somerest township.
Q. That is the township of which you are supervisor?
A. Yes sir.
Q. There has been almost a unanimous demand of the people of that township that you supervise the construction of the highways of that township, hasn't there?
A. Well, they largely depend on me.
Q. You are regarded, not boastingly, as the best road builder in Somerset township?
A. Will you please call the county commissioners and let them testify to that.
Q. You build roads under the direction of the county commissioners, that is you have done work for the commissioners, I mean?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You practically have under your supervision all of the construction of the new roads in Somerset County, have you not?
A. No, I would not say that.
Q. But the great bulk of them?
A. I have had under my supervision more concrete road than I have had county roads, and I am going to build some next year.
Q. You build them under the direction of the county commissioners?
A. No, under my own direction.
Q. For the county commissioners?
A. Under my own direction and the members of the board.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. How long have you known Judge Berkey?
A. About 30 years.
Q. Did you take his advice as to getting a lawyer.
A. How?
Q. You got a lawyer after he told you to get one?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What is the name of your lawyer?
A. Ross R. Scott and Fred Beischer.
The CHAIRMAN: You don't want Mr. Davis back?
Mr. GEYER: Not unless he wants to come.
Q. We subpoened the secretary and treasurer to produce the books and records, and also we would desire to have the minute book of the Johnstown & Somerset Street Railway Company.

The CHAIRMAN: I understand the secretary and the treasurer of the street railway company have been subpoenaed.

Mr. GEYER: So there may be no misunderstanding, we shall want the minute book, and we shall also want to see the account book, showing what was done with certain funds.
Mr. WITKIN: You have subpoenaed those books.

Mr. GEYER: The gentleman now say there was no specific reference to the Minute Book. In addition to the one served, must we serve the second subpoenae?

The CHAIRMAN: Are there any other books that you want, any other matters?

Mr. GEYER: No. I think the other books are sufficiently described, but it may be that the Minute Book was insufficiently described.

The CHAIRMAN: Then we ask the officers to include in the books they bring, the Minute Book as requested.

Now we can say this, that we will commence on Monday afternoon at two o'clock and continue until nine or nine thirty in the evening, with the proper recess for dinner. We will promise you the greater part of Tuesday, either Tuesday afternoon or evening, and possibly we can arrange a meeting earlier on Tuesday forenoon.

The Chairman declared the hearing adjourned.

SENATE CAUCUS ROOM, HARRISBURG, Pa.

March 2, 1925.

The Members of the Committee were present.

CHAIRMAN MARSHALL PRESIDING.

The CHAIRMAN: This is the hour for the reconvening of the hearing. We have been informed that the train from Pittsburgh is late, and it has been suggested that we adjourn until four o'clock.

The Chair declared a recess until 4 o'clock.

And now, the hour of 4 o'clock having arrived, the Committee met pursuant to adjournment.

WILLIAM J. DAVIS, recalled.

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:

Mr. Davis, you testified that you were not present when the check for $5,500 from the county treasurer to the Johnstown & Somerset Railway Company was filled out. I believe I am correct in my recollection, am I?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Were you present at any discussion concerning that check with Judge Berkey?

A. No. sir.

Q. Or with the county treasurer before it was issued?

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: We object to this as being hearsay testimony.

Mr. GEYER: We have the peculiar situation of a county treasurer unable to attend, and I think this is an instance in which the hearsay rule should not be applied.

The CHAIRMAN: Was Judge Berkey present?

Mr. GEYER: He said no.

The WITNESS: No sir.

The CHAIRMAN: What was your question.

Mr. GEYER: It was, there was no prior discussion between the witness and the county treasurer about the issuing of such a check.

The CHAIRMAN: We will let the witness answer the question.

The WITNESS: There was no question, no argument.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. Was there anything said about it?

A. Shall I answer?

The CHAIRMAN: Yes.

The WITNESS: He stated that he was going to loan him that monye, that amount of money.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. Who stated that?

A. Marling Shober, the county treasurer.

Q. How long was that before you left the office?

A. I am unable to state that, possibly an hour, maybe only a half hour, maybe only five minutes, I cannot state that.

Q. Mr. Davis, how much of the work of the office was done by the county treasurer himself?

A. None.

Q. And all of the matters were attended to—

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: Certainly that cannot be material as to the amount of work that was done by the county treasurer, it could not in any way affect the moneys that were paid out by the county treasurer. Therefore, that inquiry cannot be material or relevant.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. Let me ask you in this way: Was there any other check signed that year by the county treasurer, not personally filled out by you?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. And for the two years that you had occupied that position?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. This is the only check which he signed in these two years which you had not made out, that is right, is it?

A. Yes, as near as I know.

Q. And you refused to make out this check?

A. I told Mr. Shober that I would not write out this check.

Mr. LUDLOW: What is your answer?

The WITNESS: I told him if he was going to loan this money, I said that is a matter for you to do. I said that is private business, that I won't write out the check or sign a check to that effect, I done nothing but the county's work in the county treasurer's office.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. You had been accustomed to signing the checks?

A. I signed every check, signed his name to every check. At first I signed his name "per W. J. Davis". I got tired of doing that, it meant a whole lot of extra work, and I made arrangements with the bank that we did the work or business that I sign his name only, and they knew my handwriting.

Q. This was the only check in the two years to which he personally signed his name?

A. Yes, as far as I know.

Mr. GEYER: That is all, sir.

CROSS EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:

Q. And the note that was given to secure the payment was made payable to the treasurer in his individual capacity and not as county treasurer?

A. In his individual capacity.

Q. And as you testified a week ago, or last week, the collateral that was deposited, in your opinion, was more than ample to secure the loan?

A. Yes sir.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: That is all.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. Mr. Davis, but one question. Was the county treasurer unable to sign his own name?

A. No, he signed his name to this check, you have that check in evidence here.

Q. I mean in your other practice.

A. No, he could have signed it.

Q. He was, however, infirm physically?

A. He was physically—he was nervous.

Q. Yes.

A. He fell, as I recall it, or as I was told by him quite often, he had a hard fall. He fell out of the silo, or fell down from the silo, which is pretty high. He happened to fall on his feet, but injured his ankles. Later on he was, however somehow disabled in his legs, and I think later on he stumbled and took a header down a mow hole through a barn floor, down headlong and injured his spine, which made him nervous, trembly. I could not—

Q. How frequently did he come to his office during those two years?

Mr. WITKIN: Do you think that is material?

Mr. GEYER: I think this question is about my last one.

A. I am sure, I am not afraid to tell the truth, but it is nearly four years ago, or will be four years, it was three years the first day of January past, but as I recall it sometimes he was not in for a month, two or three weeks. Sometimes every day for a week, sometimes not a day in a week, sometimes not in a month as his condition suited. He was a farmer and depended on his farm team hauling him back and forward.

Q. Then he left the entire operation of the office to you?

A. Yes, I filed a bond of $10,000, and he trusted the office to me.

Mr. GEYER: That is all.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:

Q. While the county treasurer was physically disabled, he was mentally strong, wasn't he?

A. I would say he had the same mental ability the two years that I served with him as clerk that he had when he was nominated and elected.

Q. There was no difference between his condition, both mental and physical when he was a candidate than what it was after he was elected and served a term as county treasurer?

A. I am not a doctor, but as far as I could tell, there was not.

By Mr. WITKIN:

Q. Who was present at that conversation between you and Mr. Shober, when you said that you would not make out that check?

A. No one, as I recall.

Q. In other words, it was only you and the County Treasurer?

A. No one.

Q. Judge Berkey was not present?

A. No, I considered that private business of Mr. Shober, and I didn't run his private affairs, that is the reason that I objected.

By Mr. MOFFATT:

Q. You stated that there was no difference in the mental and physical capacity of the Treasurer—

A. That—

Q. Wait a minute. From the time of his election during the time that you were serving in the office, how was, or what was his mental and physical capacity at the time of his election?

A. I might have made an error there. At times his physical condition was worse than others, that is, he got around better.

Q. Particularly his mental condition, what was that?

A. I said it was the same.

Q. But what was it at the time he was elected?

A. His mental condition.

Q. Just what was it?

A. All right, as near as I know.

ULYSSES S. SHOBER, a witness called on behalf of the complainant, being duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows on

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. You are a brother of the county treasurer referred to by the last witness?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And in recent years you have had charge of his property?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And have been managing his affairs for him?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Do you have in your possession a note growing out of the $5,500 transaction last testified to?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Will you produce it?

(Witness produces note).

(Note dated October 4, 1921, for $5,500 signed by Johnstown and Somerset Ry. Co., by J. A. Berkey, Pres., produced and marked Complainant's exhibit No. 14).

Q. Witness produces a note marked exhibit No. 14, are you familiar with the handwriting of Judge Berkey?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Is that his signature to the note?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Where did you obtain the note?

A. I got it from my brother in the County Treasurer's office.

Q. The note contains a notation of certain collateral?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Will you produce it?

(Witness produces notes noted on note as collateral).

A. There is an explanation—

Q. Wait. Produce what you have and then explain why you don't have the rest.

(Witness produces three notes).

Note dated September 20, 1921, in the sum of $2,500, signed Harvey Shaffer, produced and marked complainant's exhibit No. 15).

(Note dated July 6, in the sum of $5,000, signed by R. W. McGregor, produced and marked complainant's exhibit No. 16).

(Note dated 7-7-21, in the sum of $2,500 signed by Charles W. Knepper, produced and marked complainant's exhibit No. 17).

Q. I show you a note marked exhibit No. 17, in the amount of $2,500, being assigned to the Johnstown & Somerset Railway Company, by J. A. Berkey, are you familiar with Judge Berkey's handwriting?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Is that his signature?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Did you see him write that?

A. No sir.

Q. I show you another note in the amount of $5,000, dated July 6, 1921, marked exhibit 16, and call your attention to the endorsement on the back, is that Judge Berkey's handwriting?

A. Yes sir.

Q. I call your attention to the third note which you produced, which is exhibit No. 15, being a note of Harvey Shaffer, and call your attention to the back of it—

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: For how much is that?

Mr. GEYER: $2,500.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. Does it contain any assignment?

A. No sir.

Q. You said there was an explanation, what is the explanation?

A. That is the explanation there, the note given to Marling M. Shober as collateral, a certificate of deposit, a note of John A. Ream, a note of Charles W. Knepper, a note of R. W. McGregor. The notes you just read, there is a change in those. The Harvey Shaffer note has been substituted for the John O. Ream note.

Q. When was the substitution made?

A. I don't remember the date.

Q. When did you first learn of it?

A. This memorandum probably—no, I don't know the date.

Q. Where you present when the transaction took place?

A. No.

Q. With whom was it had?

A. The transaction?

Q. Yes?

A. With the Judge.

Q. Where was the Judge?

A. In the chambers.

Q. Did you call to see him?

A. I called to see him.

Q. At his request?

A. No sir, at my own.

Q. For what purpose?

A. At my brother's request.

Q. What did you say to him and what did he say to you?

A. I don't recall. I guess I went a little fast there. I don't recall just for what purpose I called to see him, but at any rate this question came up, and he asked me to make the substitution.

Q. What was the note that you gave him back, the Bank note?

A. The Bank note.

Q. Was it paid off?

A. No sir.

Q. Was there any reason given why he wanted to substitute?

A. No sir.

Q. All of those notes were given for bonds of the Somerset Railroad Company, were they note?

A. No sir.

Q. Which one was not?

A. None of them—oh, these notes here you mean?

Q. By the makers to the Johnstown and Somerset Street Railway Company?

A. I don't know that.

Q. Do you know for what purpose they were given?

A. No sir.

Q. Did you ever make any demand on the makers of those notes for the money?

A. No sir.

Q. There is a reference here to the certificate of deposit, was that certificate paid?

A. Yes sir.

Q. In what amount.

A. $1,000.

Q. And that leaves a balance of $5,500—

A. $4,500.

Q. $4,500 owing? Has any part of that $4,500 been paid?

A. No sir.

Q. Has any interest been paid on it?
A. No sir.
Q. Are you familiar with the fact that at the end of the year in which they were given, the account of your brother as county treasurer was short some $6,500?
A. At the end of the year, I was familiar with it.
Q. You knew then that it was short some $6,500?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Do you know how this shortage was paid to the county?
A. Yes sir.
Q. By whom?
A. By my brother who issued a check for part of it, and the accumulations of his salary for the balance of it.
Q. There was additional shortage of some twelve or thirteen hundred dollars, do you know that?
A. Well, that is what he paid off.
Q. That is what he paid off?
A. He issued a check to the county for that amount.
Q. Over $5,500?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Have you any personal knowledge as to how that shortage came about?
A. No sir.
Q. Do you know whether the funds when repaid to the county were repaid with interest or not?
A. No sir, I don't know.
Q. Did you make any investigation as to the solvency of the makers of this note?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What about the R. W. McGregor note?
A. At the time he took that note, it was all right.
Q. What is his present financial condition, he is in bankruptcy?
A. I don't know personally.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: Certainly if a man at a time a note was given was perfectly solvent, what happened three or four years afterward cannot be relevant here. A man four or five years after he takes a note, has some financial reverses and becomes insolvent you cannot charge that against a prefectly good note at the time it was taken as being a question of bad faith.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Let me ask you this question. Did you make any demand for the payment of this money of Judge Berkey?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Did you ever make any demand on the makers of these notes?
A. No sir.
Q. What, if anything, did Judge Berkey say to you when demands were made for the payment?
A. He told me that he was going to arrange for payment of the note.
Q. Now, will you tell us the present financial condition of McGregor?
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: I again insist upon my objection. This man has testified that at the time the note was given it was perfectly good. What has happened to the maker since that time, after this man was in possession of the collateral, certainly there is no allegation here that Judge Berkey had anything to do with the collateral at that time.
Mr. WITKIN: Do you intend to follow that up, Mr. Geyer, by showing that the subsequent insolvency, when it took place with respect to that note, might go back to this transaction?
Mr. GEYER: Yes, I believe we can show that McGregor was on $20,000 of such notes for the Judge, and it broke him. He became absolutely banrupt.
The CHAIRMAN: Can you produce testimony to that effect?
Mr. GEYER: Yes, the referee is here.
The CHAIRMAN: And your intention is to follow that with other testimony?
Mr. GEYER: As to the financial condition of McGregor and the reason that it is not now good.
The CHAIRMAN: We will admit the testimony and consider it for what it is worth.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Do you know how many others he has had, do you know he is in bankruptcy now?
A. I was told so the other day.
Q. Have you made any effort to follow these notes?
A. When?
Q. At any time?
A. Not the notes, no.
Q. You relied upon Judge Berkey's promise to take up the note and take up the collateral?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And nothing has been paid on it?
A. As I stated before—
Q. Except the $1,000?
A. No sir.
Mr. GEYER: That is all.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: Let us see the notes.
(Mr. Geyer handed notes to Mr. Beidleman).
Mr. GEYER: Pardon me, I want to offer in evidence these notes. My attention has been called to the fact that I fixed the signature of J. A. Berkey, it is the signature of the Johnstown & Somerset Railway Company, by J. A. Berkey, President.
I offer in evidence, and I should like to read—
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: I have no objection to your reading them in evidence, but we should have the right to cross examine on them first.
Mr. GEYER: I think I offer them in evidence before you cross-examine in orderly practice.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: Orderly practice surely is to permit the cross-examination and then determine the relevency of the notes after that.
Mr. GEYER: I think not.
The CHAIRMAN: Anything you want to put in the record you ought to put in at this time.
Mr. GEYER: I offer the notes in evidence, I have submitted them to counsel and I understand there is no objection to my offering them in evidence, and I ask that I may be permitted to read those notes.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: All right, in order to save time go ahead. I have no objections to it.
Mr. GEYER: The first note for $5,500, exhibit No. 14, dated October 4, 1921, on demand after date—I cannot read it, it may be value received—
Can you read this, Mr. Shober?
The WITNESS: The undersigned.
Mr. GEYER: The undersigned promise to pay to the order of Marling M. Shober five thousand dollars, fifty-five hundred dollars is written on the top of the note and five thousand dollars is written on the face of the note, without interest thereon, without defalcation, value received. And further containing a confession of judgment clause, "Signed Johnstown and Somerset Ry. Co., by J. A. Berkey, President", and bearing a notation, "Collateral—First National Bank, Addison, one thousand dollars; John O. Ream note $2,500; Charles W. Knepper, $2,500; R. W. McGregor, $5,000," The note bearing endorsement, "The John O. Ream note surrendered as collateral and Harvey Shaffer note substituted, J. A. Berkey."

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Mr. Shober, will you tell us is the notation in the handwriting of the Judge, above the signature J. A. Berkey?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And the face of the note as filled out is in whose handwriting?
A. I don't know whose handwriting it is.
Q. (Witness indicates the part above, is that in the handwriting of your brother?)
A. No sir.
Q. Exhibit No. 15, is a note dated September 20, 1921, for $2,500, on or before six months after date I promise to pay to the order of Johnstown and Somerset Railway Co., twenty-five hundred and no/100 without defalcation value received, containing the usual form of a non-negotiable judgment note. This note does not bear any assignment.
Exhibit No. 16 is a note in the amount of $5,000 dated July 6, 1921, six months after date I promise to pay to the order of Johnstown and Somerset Railway Co.; five thousand and 00/100 dollars; here follows the usual form of a non-negotiable judgment note, bearing an assignment, "Now, October 4, 1921, the within note assigned to Marling M. Shober as collateral security. Johnstown and Somerset Ry. Co., by J. A. Berkey, Pres."
Q. In your opinion referring to the assignment on the back of this note, in whose handwriting is it?
A. That is in the handwriting of J. A. Berkey, President.
Q. I call your attention to the filling out on the face of the notes, can you tell in whose handwriting it is?

A. No sir.

Mr. GEYER: The third collateral note is marked exhibit No. 17, dated 7-7-21, for $2,500, six months after date I promise to pay to the order of Johnstown and Somerset Ry. Co., twenty-five hundred and no/100 dollars, signed Charles W. Knepper, and bearing an assignment, "Now, October 4, 1921, the within note assigned as collateral security to Marling M. Shober. Johnstown and Somerset Ry. Co., by J. A. Berkey, President."

Q. Now, Mr. Shober, did you testify that the assignment is in the handwriting of Judge Berkey?

A. Yes sir.

Q. It is?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Mr. Shober, did you ever note that the note is for $5,500 while the figures, $5,500, appear in the corner of this note?

A. No.

Q. Never knew that before this time?

A. No.

Q. In your conversation with Judge Berkey did you discuss the amount of the note?

A. Yes sir.

Q. What amount was discussed?

A. $5,500.

Q. And you demanded payment in that amount?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Have you ever made any investigation to discover whether the makers of those notes had or claimed to have any defense to their payment.

A. Repeat that please.

Q. Did you ever make any investigation to discover whether the makers of those notes had claimed to have any defense to their payment.

A. No sir.

Q. What was the mental condition of your brother at that time?

A. Well I would have to say, like Mr. Davis, he was in the same mental condition when he made this note and is now as he was when he was nominated and elected as county treasurer.

Q. Was he, at any time, a man of strong mental condition and character?

A. He was normal.

Q. Is he able to come here?

A. No sir.

Q. Is he able to transact business?

A. Yes sir.

CROSS EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:

Q. Mr. Shober, this $5,500 note payable on demand, dated October 4, 1921, there has never been any question about the $5,500 liability, has there?

A. On my part, on my brother's part?

Q. Yes, There has never been any question raised that this $5,500 note was not good?

A. No sir.

Q. So that whatever may be written in the body of the note, there has been admission that it is a note for $5,500, and that has never been questioned?

A. That is correct.

Q. The first exhibit No. 15, being a note of Harvey Shaffer in the sum of $2,500, payable on or before six months after date, you knew Harvey Shaffer?

A. No sir.

Q. You don't know him?

A. No sir.

Q. You don't know that this note is absolutely good?

A. No sir.

Q. You did know the condition of McCregor in 1921?

A. No sir, I didn't.

Q. You said that at the time the note was given, it was good; upon what do you base that?

A. Upon what my brother had told me.

Q. Your brother had stated to you at the time this note was taken it was good, and he had made investigation and inquiry concerning it, is that right?

A. I suppose he had.

Q. Do you know Charles W. Knepper?

A. Yes sir.

Q. His note is in the sum of $2,500, dated the 7th of July, 1921, is Knepper worth $2,500?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Perfectly good, is he not?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Never been any question about the financial responsibility of Knepper, has there?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Since these notes have been taken you say that the certificate of deposit attached as collateral at the time the note was given was subsequently substituted?

A. No, you got that wrong, I think.

Q. The certificate was given at the same time the note was given?

A. What is that, sir?

Q. The certificate of deposit was given at the time the note was given?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And that was in the sum of one thousand dollars and that has since been cashed and applied on account of the indebtedness?

A. Yes sir.

Q. So there is now $4,500 due with a note of Charles W. Knepper in amount of $2,500 which you say is good, a note of Harvey Shaffer in the sum of $2,500, and a note of McGregor in the sum of $5,000 which are now held by you as collateral to secure the payment of $4,500 still due on that original note?

A. Yes sir.

Q. There has never been any question in your mind of the sufficiency of the collateral, of the liability and ability of Judge Berkey to pay these notes, has there?

A. No sir.

Q. And you didn't question the note in any way as to any loss that will be suffered on the part of your brother?

A. He won't lose a dollar, I don't think.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: That is all.

By Mr. STADTLANDER:

Q. Who told you that Mr. McGregor was in bankruptcy?

A. The Judge told me himself.

Q. You mean Judge Berkey?

A. Judge Berkey, yes.

By Mr. LUDLOW:

Q. Mr. Shober, have you ever made a demand on Knepper to pay his note?

A. No sir.

Q. Has your brother?

A. No sir.

Q. Why not, it is overdue?

A. Well as I view the paper, the first thing to do would be to collect the note itself, because the others is only collateral.

Q. And although Knepper's note fell due some time later in 1921, you felt that you would not demand the collateral until Judge Berkey made good on the note, is that your thought?

A. Yes sir.

By Mr. WITKIN:

Q. How long had you these notes in your possession?

A. I have them in my possession since about two years.

By Mr. BLUMBERG:

Q. Do you hold any county office, Mr. Shober?

A. No sir.

By Mr. LUDLOW:

Q. Have you made demand on the Judge for payment?

A. Yes sir.

Q. What was the reason given for not paying it?

A. He said that he would arrange for to pay it in the very near future, something to that effect.

Q. How long do you think you ought to wait before you proceed on those collateral notes?

A. Well, the very fact that I have demanded payment puts the notes on an interest basis, and the interest is what we want. Of course, the interest is what my brother wants any way.

Q. Have you received interest since you made the demand?

A. Not yet.

Q. When did you make the first demand?

A. About July in 1922.

Q. When do you expect to make the first demand for interest?

A. Well, I hardly know. Sometime.

By Mr. STADTLANDER:
Q. Did you serve notice on the makers of the collateral that you were making demand upon the principal in this case?

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. That demand made by you upon Judge Berkey was under the note of October 4, 1921, in the sum of $5,500, was it not?
A. With the $1,000 taken off.
Q. And that demand was made upon him as president of the Johnstown & Somerset Railway Company, was it not?
A. Yes sir.

By the CHAIRMAN:
Q. Mr. Shober, I understand you to say that the two notes of $2,500 are good?
A. Yes sir.
Q. The makers of those notes are solvent?
A. Yes sir.
Q. The maker of the $5,000 note, Mr. McGregor, is in bankruptcy or insolvent?
A. I understand, yes.
Q. You would depend then upon the two $2500 notes for your security of this $4,500 note, the balance?
A. First of all I feel that the Judge will pay the note himself, that is the Johnstown & Somerset Street Railway Company will pay the note without going any further.
Q. I am speaking only of the collateral?
A. Second, If that does not happen then I am depending upon the collateral notes.
Q. Two notes for $2,500 each?
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: Of course, Mr. Chairman, you cannot assume that this bankrupt estate will pay nothing.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. In your reference here to the Judge, did you speak to him personally or as President of the Johnstown and Somerset Street Railway Company?
A. As president of the Johnstown and Somerset Railroad Company in reference to those notes.

By Mr. BLUMBERG:
Q. Do I understand this money has been returned to the county treasurer in full?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What we are now considering then is a personal matto him personally or as President of the Johnstown and Somerset Railway Company.
A. Yes sir.

By the CHAIRMAN:
Q. I think you said, a few minutes ago, something to the effect that your brother had given a note to the county to secure the amount over and above the balance due on this note, the total amount of his deficiency?
A. Not a note, a check.
Q. A check?
A. By a check.
Q. How does he secure the amount of this note to the county?
A. There is no note to the county that I know of.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. You paid it out of his commissions, his salary?
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: There was no note given to the county.
The CHAIRMAN: The check was given out of county funds.
Mr. GEYER: Yes.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. And your brother has paid the county in full?
A. Every cent.
Q. So that the county is not out anything at the present time?
A. Not a thing, no sir.
EDWARD L. FOX, a witness called in behalf of the complainant being duly affirmed was examined and testified as follows on

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Where do you live?
A. Somerset.
Q. What official position did you occupy in the year 1921?
A. I was one of the three county auditors of Somerset County.
Q. As such did you audit the accounts of the county treasurer at the close of the fiscal year, 1921?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What, if anything, did you discover as to any shortage?
A. Well, at the beginning of the year we started our audit, and when we come to the treasurer's account the report had been laid before us as to the operations in the office by Mr. Davis, and I noticed a balance, I don't know what it was, one hundred and some thousand dollars, he had resigned in the meantime and there was a new deputy placed there, Paul Glessner. He told us there one day, and I said, "They have so much money in bank", and he said, "No sir, I don't have." I said, "That is strange." He said, "I will bring the books up." So the next day I found from his bank books of several banks, we went over the amount and the amount that was turned over to him was I, don't remember the amount exactly, but I guess it don't matter so much, possibly $6,800 short.
Q. When you say turned over to him, you mean the deputy?
A. Yes, the deputy.
Q. How much of the business of the office had he himself transacted?
A. The new one, you mean Shober?
Q. Yes?
A. Well, usually Mr. Shober didn't do any of the business, as far as I know.
Q. Why?
A. Oh, well, he is physically hardly able, he is a cripple.
Q. And mentally?
A. Well, mentally he is ordinary.
Q. Go on and tell what you did next?
A. Well, I told Paul Glessner that that money ought to be replaced.
Q. Paul Glessner, he is the deputy that succeeded Davis?
A. He succeeded Davis. That the money must be replaced, that that would not do. He said, "All right", he would take the matter up with the Shober's, and several days after that I asked him and he said, "It is all fixed up." He said, "it is all right", and I took his word for it; I didn't object any more, and we didn't do any more to the matter at all, because I knew at the time there was bond given for a large amount, and because his earnings as treasurer brought in considerable money during the year and the matter would be straightened out.
Q. And it was straightened out during that year?
A. So far as I know, yes.
Q. Did you audit his accounts produced at the conclusion of the year?
A. Next year?
Q. Yes?
A. Yes, next year.
Q. When you came to audit next year did you find this $6,500 or $6,800 had been put back in the treasury?
A. Yes sir.

CROSS-EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Mr. Fox, did you check up how much money Mr. Shober had drawn during the course of the year?
A. No.
Q. Do you mean that you found this shortage of $6800 based upon the total recipts, and what should be the total expenditures including the commissions of the treasurer?
A. No, it was the amount on hand in cash at the end of the year.
Q. Well, did you determine or did you notice whether or not the treasurer had drawn his money?
A. Drawn his money?
Q. Yes. Did you take any steps to find out where this $6800 shortage occurred?
A. I asked Mr. Davis where it occurred—well, the new treasurer, the new deputy did not have the amount of money the retiring deputy stated the treasurer's office had, cash on hand on the first of January.
Q. Well, did you check up how this shortage occurred, did you determine whether or not the treasurer had actually drawn the money out, or was that just a paper liability?

A. That was simply an amount that they had on hand, their cash. Of course, later on—this before we had completed the audit of that year.

Q. When you completed the audit that year what did you find out with respect to the expenditures?

A. That is the amount of the shortage?

Q. Did you find out whether that was a shortage that appeared by reason of the treasurer's salary having been checked off in full, or did you check it up as being an amount due the treasurer?

A. The amount was that much short.

Q. I am not asking you that. I am asking you whether or not in your determined shortage you included in there the actual payment that had been made to the county treasurer or whether you showed it against the account, or amount that was actually due him as county treasurer?

A. We had checked the orders issued by the commissioners. There is a great deal of the treasurer's operations, of his office, that are somewhat of a private business. When they pay themselves they issue their check for it.

Q. That is to say, when the county treasurer has a personal transaction he gives his check payable as county treasurer to the person with whom he has the personal transaction.

A. Yes sir.

Q. And that transaction strictly for the county was on the order of the county commissioners?

A. They issue orders, yes.

Q. So that any transaction that appeared by the issuance of a check on the county treasurer personally was regarded by the auditors as a personal transaction on the part of the county treasurer?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Then in your capacity as county auditor you say if you had submitted to you a check which is now offered in evidence you would have regarded it as a personal transaction upon the part of the treasurer, and not a transaction for the county of Somerset, is that right?

A. If that amount issued would overdraw the amount due to the county, who, of course.

Q. That is not the question I asked you. I asked you if you had submitted to you a check which was signed by the treasurer personally, as treasurer for the county, instead of being on an order by the county commissioners, you would have entered it as a personal transaction by the treasurer?

A. We didn't audit any of those personal transactions.

Q. That is not the question, you can answer it yes or no. Isn't it a fact that if that check had been presented to you in your capacity as county auditor signed by Shober as treasurer you would regard it as a personal transaction and disposed of it as such?

A. Yes sir.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: That is all.

RE-DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. Do you know Mr. Fox, whether this shortage existed after he got credit for his salary that year?

A. No, when this shortage occurred that was the beginning of the year.

Q. Yes, but I mean for the last year, for the year 1921 when you as auditor found he was short $6800?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Had he already had credit for his salary that year?

A. Well, I don't konw—yes he had on 1921. Let me see, I get mixed up in those years.

Q. This transaction happened in 1921 and you audited it in 1922?

A. Yes, I know in 1922 we audited it, the 1921 account.

Q. Yes?

A. And in the beginning of 1922 we found this shortage. Now, what do you want to ask?

Q. In order to determine this shortage, did you allow credit for the salary he was entitled to and still he was short?

A. Oh, yes, yes.

Mr. GEYER: Have your honors any questions.

The CHAIRMAN: No.

RE-CROSS-EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:

Q. What was the salary in 1921?

A. Shober's salary?

Q. Yes?

A. We didn't get his entire commissions. Two percent amounted possibly to something over $5,000, a straight two percent commission.

Q. How much over $5,000 did he get?

A. Did he get, did you say?

Q. Yes. How much was he entitled to?

A. I don't know, there was a great number of operations in the county treasurer that you don't get exactly, it may have amounted to $7,000.

Q. That is due to a different rate or not?

A. Well, he gets a commission on dog tax, and mercantile appraisal.

Q. Did you go in and check up these items or did you simply take the two sides of the report, one the receipt and the other the so-called expenditures and strike a total and charge the difference against him?

A. I checked that all up, yes.

Q. You don't know what they were for?

A. I don't know what they were for.

Q. Yes. Did you check up the vouchers?

A. Yes, always.

Q. Went over the whole matter?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And after you had completed your audit did you make any complaint to anybody?

A. Well, I went to Mr. Davis when I found the shortage and Mr. Davis had submitting the report that we were to audit here, submitted the report that we were talking about. I called it to Mr. Davis' attention and he said, "No", he said, "The account is short."

Q. Did you make a demand on anyone for the payment?

A. Yes sir.

Q. On whom?

A. On deputy treasurer Glessner. I told him that this ought to be made good.

Q. Do you know when it was made good?

A. No, I don't.

Q. You were county auditor for a period of how long?

A. Four years.

Q. Running from what time to what time?

A. 1920, 21, 22 and 23.

Q. Notwithstanding the fact that you found a shortage during the year 1921 you made no effort to check up whether or not the shortage was made good the way or manner in which it was made or by whom it was made good.

A. Not until next year. They only audit once a year.

Q. You found the next year that it had been made good?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Did you find out by whom it was made good?

A. No we didn't know exactly by whom the money was returned.

Q. Are you, as county auditor, charged with the responsibility or auditing county funds and you say you didn't advise yourself as to the person who made this good?

A. Possibly we should have done that but when we reported and had on hand enough cash balance to cover what the report required, that was all that was necessary.

Q. Did you make any further report to anybody except the deputy county treasurer?

A. No sir.

Q. Of this shortage?

A. No sir.

Q. Did you say anything to the Treasurer himself about it?

A. Not to the Treasurer himself. The Treasurer himself was not there.

Q. So that upon the simple suggestion made by you to the Deputy of the County Treasurer of this shortage, so far as you know the shortage was made good immediately?

A. I don't know when it was made good.

Q. The next time you examined the books you found the shortage had been made good, that is right, isn't it?

A. That occurred the following year.

Q. But the very next time that you looked at the books of the County of Somerset in the Treasurer's office you found that that shortage had been made good?

A. The next year, yes.

Q. And notwithstanding the fact that that was done you didn't even charge yourself with the responsibility of seeing in what way it was made good, or by whom it was made good?
A. Not any more than they put back that amount of money.
Q. That is all?
A. It didn't matter who put it back.
Q. Mr. Fox, you published the county auditors reports?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Did you publish this shortage?
A. No sir.
Q. Why not?
A. Well, the treasurer made it all good, said he would make it good.
Q. When did he make it good?
A. During the later months, we accepted his word for it.
Q. Before you were through with your audit?
A. Yes sir.
Q. So that at the time you made your audit you published it to the people of Somerset County that the accounts of the treasurer were square, did you not?
A. Yes sir, that year.
Q. When did the publication occur?
A. March, I guess or April.
Q. So that as early as March, 1922, you published the report of the county treasurer for the year 1921?
A. Yes sir.
Q. The fiscal year ended when?
A. December 31st.
Q. December 31st, 1921?
A. 1921.
Q. Do you know anything about the amount of commissions that the treasurer was entitled to have?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What?
A. Two percent of the orders paid.
Q. What else?
A. He got a commission of ten percent on the dog license, I guess.
Q. Anything else?
A. He had a commission on the mercantile appraisal work, I don't remember how much it is.
Q. Anything else?
A. Hunter's license.
Q. Any anything else?
A. I don't know that without looking at the record.
Q. Were there any commission payable on the bonds issued to secure the payment of the court house?
A. That went under that commission, went under the two percent.
Q. Now, Mr. Fox, how did you determine the amount of this shortage if you did not check up the amount to which the treasurer was entitled?
Mr. GEYER: He has already said he did.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: He has not said any such thing.
Mr. GEYER: Yes, he has. He said he checked up.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Did you check up the account as to whether or not the county treasurer had overpaid or underpaid himself?
A. We didn't know that.
Q. You didn't know that?
A. We didn't know what became of the money.
Q. So that on the question of the commission due the treasurer you didn't determine whether or not it was overdrawn did you or underdrawn?
A. Well—
Mr. GEYER: May I suggest to your honors that I understand the report is here.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: Of course, he is under cross-examination and I have the right to examine him as to his knowledge.
Mr. GEYER: I am only suggesting that I have learned that the report which is the subject of the investigation is actually here, in the auditor's book, and that will disclose beyond any doubt whether or not in arriving at the sixty-five or sixty-eight hundred dollar shortage credit had been given him for his salary.
Mr. WITKIN: Didn't you call this witness and put on this witness to show that there was a deficiency. You did not depend upon your audit but you called this witness who testified that there was a deficiency of $6,800. It appears to me that the Governor certainly has a right to cross examine this witness to find out upon what facts this statement was based and should be given wide latitude in his cross-examination. You called this witness for that purpose.
For the purpose of a record, Mr. Geyer, are you willing to have this witness's statement that there was a shortage of $6,800 withdrawn?
Mr. GEYER: I am not willing to withdraw anything.
The CHAIRMAN: I think there is documentary evidence. here to corraborate the testimony of the witness, that he is familiar with and made the audit, and he ought to produce it.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: This man was one of the county auditors and certainly knows about the account, or ouht to know.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Is that the report you referred to?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Does that contain all the commissions to which Mr. Shober, the treasurer, was entitled; does it show how they were made up?
A. Pretty much, I guess.
Q. Look at it and tell us whether or not that is true?
A. Certainly that is true.
A. Now, what do you want to know.
Q. Tell us how you determined the amount that was due the treasurer on that account?
A. Here is the statement of the treasurer's account, (indicating), now here is the amount; for the commissions, $5,718.30.
Q. How did you determine whether or not that was correct?
A. Why that was the amount of orders paid out by the treasurer.
Q. Only on orders of the county commissioners?
A. Only on orders of the county commissioners.
Q. How did you determine the amount that was due under the dog tax?
A. The dog licenses were all tallied up.
Q. Where is it in the account?
A. The dog license?
Q. Yes.
A. It is not in the account, that is a personal matter.
Q. Where is the hunter's license?
A. That was reported to the State.
Q. Is it in the account?
A. No sir, that is reported to the State department.
Q. Do you know how the monies were deposited; did he deposit them in his bank as county treasurer—the funds coming to the State?
A. I don't know.
Q. Where are the fisherman's licenses?
A. That is reported to the State in Harrisburg.
Q. Do you know whether or not he carried that account as county treasurer.
A. Yes sir.
Q. That was carried as county treasurer?
A. That is audited and accounted for in a separate book.
Q. Where is the notation for the commission on treasurer's sales?
A. Unseated lands?
Q. Where are they in that book?
A. They may not have occurred this year; they only occur every two years.
Q. Yes?
A. They only occur every two years.
Q. Is it a fact that the treasurer's sale occurred at a time so that they would be accounted for in this year.
A. Yes sir.
Q. Where is there anything in the account relative to the commission on mercantile licenses?
A. That is a separate matter again.
Q. Is that carried by the treasurer in his personal account or as treasurer?
A. As treasurer except that it is reported to the State department.
Q. Did you check up against this?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What, if anything, did you find?
A. I find this account all right.

Q. What do you take as your basis for determining that, do you have the vouchers?
A. Why, the vouchers received from the State and the county licenses received, and so on.
Q. Where is there anything in that book of accounts to show that this shortage had been made up. Is there anything shown there?
A. No sir, it is not shown in that book and I had the promise, the deputy treasurer's word that he would see that he replaced that money.
Q. So that so far as any public record so far as Somerset County goes, the record show the treasurer was square?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And there is no evidence of any indebtedness or shortage upon the part of the treasurer at the close of the fiscal year, 1921?
A. Certainly not when it was made good.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Mr. Fox, you produced a certain book here which is marked, "Auditors report, volume 1, Somerset County." In your testimony you have referred to page 36, of that book, is that correct?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And this book shows a balance on hand as of January 1, 1922, of $70,652.01?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And did the county treasurer have that amount of money.
A. Yes, at the end of the year.
Q. But did he have it at the time that the reported $70,000 of money on hand, or was that where the shortage was?
A. Let me see how that is. Would that be 1922?
Q. January 1, 1922, that would be the same year.
A. That was the beginning of the year, that was the amount he was supposed to have on hand.
Q. And you found that he did not have that amount of money?
A. No.

By The CHAIRMAN:
Q. You have answered it both ways?
A. Maybe I got mixed up on it.

The CHAIRMAN:
Q. Read the question just above there, Mr. Stenographer, the first question just asked by Mr. Geyer with reference to the $70,652.01.
(Question read)
The CHAIRMAN: What year is he referring to?
Mr. GEYER: To the end of the year 1921.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. So that your answer is that at the end of the year 1921, do I understand your answer to be that the amount that he was supposed to have was $70,652.01, which was the amount supposed to be on hand was actually on hand at the end of that year, 1921.
A. I would say on the first of January, 1922, to make it a little easier.
Q. The amount specified in your audit was on hand?
A. But understand, when we first went after the money the treasurer did not have that amount in his account.
Q. I didn't ask that, was it on hand the first of January, 1922?
A. No sir, that was the time the shortage occurred.
Q. When?
A. The first of January, 1922, that is the time we audited the accounts for 1921.

By Mr. LUDLOW:
Q. It was short then by how much?
A. It was short then I don't remember the amount, possibly $6,800.
Q. And you allowed the time then from the first of January, 1922, until the first of the following year for the treasurer to make it up? Is that what actually happened?
A. Really so because a bond was given by the deputy treasurer and he told me he would make it right, and allow that account to stand for awhile.
Q. But speaking from that record, the official record of your county, that record shows, does it not, that on the first of January, 1922, there was on hand the amount specified, to wit: $70,652.01, according to that record?
A. Well that was the balance the treasurer wanted credit for and he got it.
Q. According to that report does it show or does it not show whether that money was on hand according to your report on the first of January, 1922?
A. Well it shows that the money was on hand.
Q. So that according to your official report there was no shortage existing at this time, on the first of January, 1922, despite your testimony, that is right isn't it?
A. Yes sir. In these matters you assume a great deal.

By Mr. STADTLANDER:
Q. When do you start to make your audit?
A. The first of January, mostly the first Monday of January, every year.
Q. When do you complete it?
A. Oh, in the middle of March or earlier, it depends on the amount of work.
Q. Was that amount of money on hand the first of January, 1922, as set forth in your auditors report?
A. Yes, that amount, $70.000, was the amount you see of this report. The papers laid before us were presented by Davis who occupied this office during that year, and as I explained before instead of having $70,000 there he was short that much. They agreed to make it good, he said they would, and we assumed that, and, of course, gave the treasurer credit for $70,000.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. Do you know whether it was made good before March, 1922?
A. Yes, it was made good, when we went to audit it again it was all right, the accounts were all right.
Q. When did you actually complete your audit?
A. Which year?
Q. The end of that year?
A. That year?
Q. Yes?
A. Around the 10th of March.
Q. The report was printed in March; how long before the report was finished did you complete your audit?
A. Not very long, a week or two.
Q. At that time all the monies were on hand?
A. We assumed that and gave him credit for it.

By Mr. LUDLOW:
Q. You don't know it, do you?
A. No.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. But you certified to the public, certified that that was a fact and that that was true, didn't you?
A. Yes sir.
Q. I say you certified to the public that it was true?
A. I took the treasurer's word for it.
Q. And as a public officer taking your oath of office you certified that it was true?
A. Yes sir.

By Mr. LUDLOW:
Q. And also on your oath of office when you examined the books immediately following the first of January, 1922, whereas the book called for $70,652.01 you found it was short by more than $6,000 isn't that so?
A. Yes, that is so and we accepted the treasurer's word that he would make it good.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. Now what records have you here to show that there was shortage on the first of January, 1922 despite your auditors report?
A. I don't have any record.
Q. So that there is no record of any kind?
A. No sir.
Q. Is there a single thing to show that there was a shortage on the first of January, 1922?
A. No sir.
Q. And your published record in your county of which you are an auditor shows that there was no shortage on the first of January, 1922, is that correct?
A. That is correct.
Q. And yet you want us to understand that there was a shortage and it don't appear in the record?
A. That is really the case.

By Mr. BLUMBERG:
Q. This figure of $5718.30 which you referred to as being in your account, as commissions for 1921, do you know what items that includes?
A. You are speaking of the treasurer?
Q. I am speaking of the treasurer's commissions for 1922?
A. $5718.30.
Q. Yes, that is the item, how is that made up?
A. He paid orders issued by the commissioners in the sum of $285,915, was the sum of the amount of the orders that he paid and we checked this up.
Q. And you gave him two percent on that amount?
A. Two percent, yes.
Q. Do I understand that that item of $5718.30 does not include all the various other commissions to which the treasurer was entitled?
A. No, he got extra commissions as we explained a bit ago, dog license, mercantile appraiser's work, hunter's license, and, oh I don't know unless I would have that other book here.
Q. Do you know, Mr. Fox, what those other commissions totalled for 1921?
A. I cannot tell you now.
Q. Do you know whether those commissions were drawn during 1921?
A. Whether they were drawn?
Q. Yes?
A. Yes, they, no doubt, were.
Q. In your audit did you know that they were drawn?
A. No, we could not tell anything about that, no.
Q. So you disregarded all his other commissions but the two percent on the vouchers paid.
A. We took his account and all charges against him, with the monies received and with the money paid out.
Q. So that from your audit there it is impossible for you to tell us whether the treasurer received at the close of business, 1921, all the commissions to which he was entitled?
A. We could not tell that.
Q. You could not tell that?
A. No, they take that money out at their own pleasure, you know.

By the CHAIRMAN:
Q. They do that on a voucher, do they not?
A. They do it on a check like that fifty-five hundred dollar check, that is the way they do it.
Q. If they issued that check. you ought to have had that check in your audit the same as any other items, ought you not?
A. No, we didn't get that; you see it was paid out of the cash account and the others are orders paid, and we handle the orders paid.
Q. Isn't that an order paid when they put their checks through for commissions?
A. Well, that is a personal matter, that is the same as cash. Instead of issuing a check they may reach in the money drawer and take out that much money.
Q. Some record is made of it, is there not?
A. Their record, yes.
Q. Their records, do you audit them?
A. We don't audit their private account or record, only the public monies belonging to the public.
Q. I do not understand what your system is for paying such items, but it seems to me that the treasurer simply takes his commission out in cash or a personal check without any record that you can check up on; how can you determine when he has overdrawn his commissions?
A. For instance, in this case two percent commission if he would draw or take out more than two percent or use the money for other purposes, he would be short, of course.
Q. How are you going to determine if they don't have some system whereby you audit the checks that he draws for his own personal use?
A. That has been the custom there for many years. Maybe someone can come on the stand that will explain that to you, I don't know.
Q. It seems to me the proper way for the treasurer to draw his salary would be on a voucher issued by the county commissioners and O. Ked. by the controller?
A. It is not done that way at all.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. Your check up was simply on the vouchers of the county commissioners?
A. Yes sir, they are the agents of the county.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. You didn't check up the bank account at all, did you?
A. No sir.
Q. Paid no attention to the amount of the treasurer's account in bank?
A. That seems to be a private matter; however, it is a matter for the county treasurer who must produce the amount of money received, and the amount he pays out, of course, and have sufficient funds to cover whatever the audit calls for.
Q. And the only thing that you did audit were the vouchers of the county commissioners of the county treasurer(aren't they?
A. Yes sir, on—
Q. And if the county—
Mr. GEYER: Wait, he has not finished, he started to say "on", and you stopped him?
By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Go on, I beg your pardon.
A. The commissioner's order is issued, and as I said awhile ago, the other commissions, dog licenses, etc.
Q. And the county treasurer might have a bank account in half a dozen different banks, and you paid no attention to that at all.
A. Not at all, the only thing we have to go by is the cash account that they certify to.

By Mr. BIDLESPACHER:
Q. Do I understand you that it is the custom in your county for the treasurer to draw his own salary without an order from the county commissioners?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Doesn't it strike you that is a pretty loose way of doing business?
A. It has been done that way all the time I remember of. I never held any office, never had any experience except this office.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. You didn't make this law either?
A. No.

By the CHAIRMAN:
Q. Mr. Fox, may I ask you one more question: in determining the total amount of the receipts of the county treasurer, I suppose you have some system of totalling the total amount of deposits and receipts?
A. Of the receipts, yes, the tax list we have that.
Q. Does that list that you make a total of determine the amount of money that was on hand, and the total amount of money received by him during the period that you were auditing; did that include receipts from dog tax, fish license, mercantile tax, or don't you recall?
A. That seems to be handled as a separate account, this dog license.
Q. I am asking you was that in your grand total?
A. No, we took the tax list, the money received, this list here (indicating on book) money received.
Q. I understand. Now then in your total expenditures you take all the vouchers issued by the county commissioners.
A. Yes sir.
Q. And to get the amount that should be on hand you took the difference between those two totals, did you not?
A. Money received and money expended or paid out, yes.
Q. As I understand, when you did that there was $6,800 less cash on hand than the difference between those two totals should have been, that is correct, is it not?
A. I don't get that.
Q. I don't think you understand me correct, you took the total amount of receipts from all sources as the total amount of money that the treasurer received, did you not. That is correct is it not?
A. Yes that was done but when we found this shortage we simply took the cash balance.
Q. Don't mix the shortage up with the procedure we are in. To get the total amount of money that the treasurer received during the period that you were auditing you totalled the total amount of receipts from all sources.

A. Yes sir.
Mr. GEYER: May I suggest, for your information, that you look at this (indicating).

By Mr. STADTLANDER:
Q. You certified to the public that everything was correct, did you?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Then you misled the county of Somerset, did you not?
A. No sir.

By The CHAIRMAN:
Q. I think we can clear up a point here. The total amount of monies received is the total of the items as shown by his receipts?
A. Yes sir.
Q. The total amount of expenditures, you simply took the total of the vouchers that were issued by the county commissioners, the balance that he should have had was the difference between those two totals?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Now then, instead of having that balance, regardless of what it was, he actually had in cash, $6,800 less than the amount that he should have had as shown by that difference, is that correct? Do you understand the question?
A. I understand the question.
Mr. LUDLOW: What is your answer?
A. I understand the question all right.

By The CHAIRMAN:
Q. The answer to that question is "yes" or "no".
A. Yes, that would show the shortage certainly.
Q. No, it is not a shortage, read the question. I didn't ask you about a shortage. I don't think you got the question.
(Question read).
A. Yes sir.
Q. Instead of having that balance he had $6,800 less?
A. Yes sir.
Q. There have been several questions asked as to whether or not he did receive his commissions; if the commissioners issued a voucher for that commission it would be in that total for expenditures, would it not?
A. Yes sir.
Q. If they didn't issue a voucher you would not have any record of the amount he withdrew for salary, would you?
A. Well—
Q. Don't deviate. I understood you to say awhile ago that you didn't if they didn't issue a warrant for it?
A. They did not.
Q. Then you would not have a record of it?
A. Would not have any record of any money that he takes out just that way.
Q. Now then, if his commission amounted to the full amount of $6,800 for direct commissioners for county work, not including State commissions, if then it amounted to $6,800 that difference or shortage, so called, may have offset his commission may it not?
A. It would at the end of the year likely, yes.
Q. If it had amounted to that much?
A. If he would have left it stand.
Q. If it amounts to $6,800.
A. Yes sir.
Q. His commission did amount to $6,800?
A. In a year, yes, all his earnings.
Q. I mean for the period of the time you were auditing?
A. From the beginning of the year you mean?
Q. Whatever time you were auditing. When you got to a certain point you found it was $6,800 short; did the commission for the period you were auditing amount to $6,800 or did it omunt to $5,700.
No answer.
Mr GEYER: It appears there in an item, his credit.
The CHAIRMAN: I was asking him.
Mr. GEYER: He was given credit before that $70,000 was determined.

By The CHAIRMAN:
Q. What I was trying to get at was to clear up the question of commissions. If they have a proper system over there it don't make any difference whether they are paid before or after. The payments should have been shown on this list of vouchers. If they didn't do that—
Mr. GEYER: But inasmuch as it did not show that, you will find they gave him specific credit for his commission before they arrived at the balance of $70,000.
Mr. BLUMBERG: Only this commission on the $285,000 of vouchers that pass through his hands, and not commission on these various other items, such as dog tax, mercantile license, etc.
The WITNESS: These other monies from these other funds don't come into this fund at all but come into separate funds which are otherwise audited.
Mr. GEYER: Those funds are there, the difficulty is that we cannot read into the record that particular recapitulation.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. As a matter of fact, did you examine the various bank accounts of the treasurer as of the first of January, 1922?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Did you examine them yourself?
A. Yes, Mr. Glessner brought the bank books up and showed the balance that he received for and turned it over to me, and it was that much short of the amount that Mr. Davis had reported to us that should be on hand at the end of the year.
Q. When you examined the books again and found that there was no shortage in 1922—did you examine the bank books again?
A. No.
Q. Then you don't know whether the amount was made good by creadit on commissions or the payment of money?
A. I don't know, but it was made good.
Q. Can you recall whether there were additional deposits made in the bank in order to make that good, or was it made good by the credit of the commissions to which he was entitled, and which do not appear in this book?
A. I understand he gave his personal check for a part of it.
Q. And part of it was made up by giving credit for commissonens for which he was not given credit under this audit?
A. Yes sir.
Q. That is correct, isn't it?
A. Yes sir.
Q. So that we get it straight, Mr. Fox, as I understand it the deficiency that you speak of, the $6,800 from the first of January, 1922, to March, 1922, was made up in part at least by giving the county treasurer credit for commissioners other than the $5,700 mentioned herein as the result of other taxes to which he was entitled, that is correct?
A. To the best of my knowledge.
Q. And the amount of his check, you don't know?
A. The amount of his check?
Q. Yes the amount of his check?
A. I didn't see it.
Mr. GEYER: May I suggest that your question is misleading.
Mr. WITKIN: The witness answered.
Mr. GEYER: I think I have a right to call the attention of the misleading feature of your question.
(Informal discussion off the record)
Mr. LUDLOW: I think we can simplify this very much at this time by recalling Mr. Davis and finding out whether during the calendar year, 1921, the treasurer had received all of the commissions to which he was entitled before the auditors arrived at the alleged shortage, which makes a very great difference.
The CHAIRMAN: May I suggest that we call him when these gentlemen are finished.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. The purpose of your audit was to determine whether or not the county treasurer owed anything, was it?
A. Yes sir.
Q. As soon as you discovered that anything was owing the treasurer immediately made good?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And you certified to the people of Somerset County that the accounts of the county treasurer were correct and published it in several papers in Somerset County in order that the people of Somerset County might know, that is the truth isn't it?

A. Yes sir.
Mr. GEYER: That is all with this witness for the present.
Mr. LUDLOW: Mr. Davis, will you take the stand again.

WILLIAM J. DAVIS, re-called.
DIRECT-EXAMINATION.

By Mr. LUDLOW:
Q. Are you familiar with the book which is now before us?
A. No sir, that is the county auditors book, as I understand it.
Q. Do you know from your own records whether during the year 1921 Mr. Shober, the treasurer, was credited with all of the commissions to which he was entitled?
A. I think he was.
Q. Do you know whether or not during that year he had drawn all of the commissions to which he was entitled for every purpose?
A. I think so.
Q. Did that include the various commissions on sums passed over to the Commonwealth?
A. Yes sir.
Q. In other words as of the end of December, 1921, Mr. Shober as treasurer had received all commissions to which he was enttitled for that year, is that the fact?
A. I think so.
Q. Would you know if the contrary were the fact?
A. How?
Q. Would you know if the contrary were the case, are you not the only man that would know besides Mr. Shober, he is not here, and we ask you as his assistant.
Mr. MOFFATT: I presume, Mr. Ludlow, you mean the funds due from the county, and not the state. That would have nothing to do with the money he received or was entitled to from the county, all of the commissions. He admitted that he overdrew his commissions, his county commission account.

By Mr. MOFFATT:
Q. He overdrew his county commissions account?
A. The commissions, he could not overdraw his state commissions, because that was kept in the office, and nothing but what belongs to the State was sent to the State every month, hunter's license, fish license, mercantile taxes of all kinds, that was sent to the State department monthly, and the commissions kept from it?
Q. Each month?
A. Each month.
Q. And at the end of the year 1921 he had received all of his commissions on the county taxes for that year?
A. Yes sir.

CROSS EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Do you know how this shortage, the alleged shortage was made good?
A. No, I don't.
Q. You don't?
A. No.
Q. You don't know where Mr. Shober carried his accounts, do you, his private accounts?
A. He carried private accounts in several banks, but I could not tell you—
Q. So that when that money was drawn by him as county treasurer, you don't know what was done with the money or in what bank it was deposited?
A. No, other than that he had a private account, he carried most of the county monies in the Farmers National Bank at Somerset, and also had a private account there that I remember.
Q. And you knew nothing about the condition of that private account?
A. No sir.
Q. At the close of the year 1921?
A. No sir.
Q. He also had an account at the Berlin Bank, didn't he, a private account?
A. Yes, he had.
Q. So that he had several accounts and from your information and knowledge you are unable to say what was done with the monies that he drew from the county, and are unable to say whether or not he had sufficient amount of money to make good any indebtedness that he might have to the county at any time.
A. He had money enough to make good at any time.
Q. He had enough money at any time to make good any money that was due the county?
A. Yes sir.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: That is all.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. Was there any regulation made in your county that he was to place the money that was due the county in any particular bank?
A. No it was up to the county treasurer, he could place that money in any bank he desired.
Q. So if he took monies and placed them in his private account in other banks belonging to the county that was customary as county treasurer?
A. Yes he could place—
Q. And if he made good any deficit out of those monies he was making good deficits according to the proper manner.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. There is no obligation in the law to require—
Mr. GEYER: We object to this witness being asked to interpret the law.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: It seems they know as much about the law as you and I do.
Mr. GEYER: Apparently in this case they knew it but didn't follow it.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. I say, there is nothing in the law to require the county treasurer to carry the funds of the county in his name as treasurer, he can carry that in his private account if he wants to?
A. He could keep it in his pocket if he wanted to, put the money all in his pocket.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: So that the gentleman has interpreted the law properly, Mr. Geyer.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Do you know anything of the provision of the Act of 1860 which makes it a crime for anyone having in his charge or custody public funds to loan them out without interest to any individual or corporation, did you ever read that section of the law?
A. I didn't read that law.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. But you did refuse to draw this check?
A. I did not run his private account.
Q. You would not do it?
A. I didn't run his private account.
Q. You didn't draw this check?
A. No sir.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. You didn't draw this check either?
A. No sir.
Q. You didn't draw any of his other private checks either did you?
A. No. certainly not.

By Mr. LUDLOW:
Q. The check to which we have referred was signed as county treasurer, did you call it a private check?
A. He could sign it in any way that he desired to, that had nothing to do with the office.

PAUL GLESSNER a witness called in behalf of the complainant being duly sworn was examined and testified as follows on

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Mr. Glessner, you are the witness referred to by Mr. Fox as the deputy who succeeded Mr. Davis?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And with whom he talked about the question that your cash was short?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What was the condition of your cash?
A. There was a deficiency, I think, of $6,900 odd dollars.
Q. When did you discover it?
A. Well, I was informed of the fact when the accounts were turned over to me.

Q. When was that?
A. The first of January.
Q. And by whom were you informed?
A. By Mr. Davis.
Q. And when did you tell it to the county auditors?
A. I think at the completion of their audit, when they found the total amount of money that should have been in the treasury.
Q. Then you are familiar with this book, are you? (Indicating county auditor's book)
A. No, I cannot say that I am.
Q. Look at page 36, which shows a recapitulation of county funds, charging you with receipts amounting to $367,992.71, which credited you with orders and taxes, and also with treasurer's commissions on dog licenses, didn't it for $704.75, that is right, isn't it?
A. That was the amount due the treasurer, $419.20.
Q. The treasurer received credit for the dog license commission?
A. According to this audit, yes.
Q. And he received credit for the treasurer's commissions, also didn't he?
A. According to the audit.
Q. And then he showed that he should have on hand $70,667.01, that is right, isn't it?
A. Yes sir.
Q. He didn't have that much cash on hand by about $6,800?
A. $6,800 less.
Q. Then did you undertake in behalf of Mr. Shober to make good that deficiency during the year?
A. I did.
Q. Was it made good during the year?
A. It was.
Q. How?
A. We left his commissions stand for a number of months, and I think it was in August he issued his personal check for $1,400 which cleared the matter.
Q. You say he left his commissions stand, you mean he left his commissions for the year 1922?
A. 1922.
Q. Stand until August?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And at that time he had earned about $5,500 of this shortage, is that right?
A. He had earned a sufficient amount including $1,400 which he paid to cover the entire deficiency.
Q. And the defiiciency was returned by August?
A. Yes sir.

CROSS-EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. The county treasurer carried how many accounts?
A. We had three or four, I don't recall.
Q. Three or four?
A. Yes.
Q. His personal accounts were handled in what way?
A. We had a personal account during the time I was in the office.
Q. Did he have an account as treasurer, and did he draw on it for personal matter?
A. No, his commissions were paid at the end of each month and a check written to transfer this to his private account.
Q. That was after you went in as deputy?
A. That was during my term.
Q. Prior to that time he carried his personal transactions—his personal transactions were carried in the general accounts, were they not?
A. I am not in position to say, I didn't audit his accounts for the previous year.
Q. Your practice is that the county commissioners shall draw orders on the county treasurer for county bills?
A. For county bills, yes.
Q. In your term as deputy treasurer, how did the treasurer pay himself?
A. Well, we determined the amount of orders that were paid during the month and figured two percent commission which would have been the amount due him and issued a treasurer's check for the two percent.
Q. Without any intervention on the part of the county commissioners?
A. No intervention on their part.
Q. Was that the only bill that was paid by the county of Somerset without an order by the county commissioners, all the others were paid on orders by the county commissioners?
A. There was a certain exception there, the mothers' assistance fund, which the treasurer paid personally without the county commissioners intervention.
Q. So he administered that on his own personal payment by sending a personal check?
A. Yes sir.

By The CHAIRMAN:
Q. Just one question, Mr. Glessner. When you took charge of the office and found a shortage of $6,800 had the county treasurer withdrawn his commissions up to date?
A. Well, as I stated before I didn't audit the accounts for the previous two years, and would not be in a position to answer your question.
Q. Do you have any knowledge of his issuing any checks after that time for back commissions?
A. During 1922, do you mean?
Q. Any time after you went into office, do you have any recollection for any checks being drawn for back commissions?
A. There was one check of $1,400, I think.
Q. For back commissions?
A. For back commissions.
Q. That was for commissions earned prior to the time you went into office?
A. It was to take care of any commissions over-drawn prior to the time I went in.
Q. What do you mean by over-drawn?
A. Well part of this deficit I was told was due to the county treasurer overdrawing his commissions during the year 1921.
Q. You went in in January, 1922?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Now, my question was, do you know whether or not there were any commissions due from the county when you assumed office.
A. No, I am not in position to answer that, I didn't audit his accounts for the previous two years.
Q. I understood you to say a minute ago not in direct answer to my question, but you volunteered it, that a check had been given of $1,400 to replace overdrawn commissions. Now do you mean by that that he had overdrawn his commissions when you went into office?
A. I was so informed.
Q. Then, as a matter of fact you were informed that there were no commissions due him from the county, were you not?
A. From what I had been told, evidently there was nothing due him from the previous year.
Q. That is what I asked you in the beginning?
A. I misunderstood your question.
Q. If there was a shortage of $6,800 in his accounts when you took office, and there were no commissions due him from the county, then no part of that would be made up by commissions which would be due and owing to the treasurer, would it?
A. You mean from 1921?
Q. Yes, 1921?
A. No sir.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. But there is no doubt as to the financial responsibility of Mr. Shober in your mind, is there?
A. No sir.

By Mr. LUDLOW:
Q. Did you talk with Mr. Shober after you became deputy about his making up this deficit?
A. I don't know whether I talked with him or his brother, either one or the other.
Q. And you applied the commissions from 1922 on account of the old deficit at his instruction?
A. Yes sir.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. When did you become deputy?
A. January 1, 1922.

The CHAIRMAN: The committee will now take a recess to meet promptly at 7:00 o'clock this evening.

WHEREUPON, at 5:45 the commission took a recess until 7:00 o'clock P. M.

MONDAY EVENING SESSION.

Paul Glessner re-called.

(Book marked Ledger on the outside and day book on the inside produced and marked complainants exhibit No. 18).

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. Mr. Glessner, I show you a book now marked exhibit 18, which is marked on the outside "Ledger" and on the inside "Day Book", and ask you what this book is.

A. This is the day book for the year 1922.

Q. And as kept by whom?

A. By myself.

Q. I call your attention to the page opposite page 1 purporting to contain a statement of money, will you explain what it is?

A. Do you want me to read that in detail?

Q. What is it , first?

A. It is a memorandum account of the monies we received at the time I took over the deputy treasureship.

Q. And when was that?

A. January 1, 1922.

Q. And was this memorandum made at the time you took the monies over?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Will you tell us what monies you took over?

A. I recipted for $318.61 cash, a balance in the Farmer's National Bank of Somerset of $54,188.88, a balance in the Garrett Bank of $5,000 and a balance in the Meyersdale Bank of $5,000.

Q. Making a total of how much received?

A. $64,507.49.

Q. What corrections or adjustment did you next make?

A. Well there was outstanding tax for the previous year in the sum of $767.23.

Q. Leaving what net balance with you received in cash?

A. A net balance of $63,740.26.

Q. Turning over to page 1, what should have been the balance in cash as disclosed by the books of the treasurer?

A. $70,602.01.

Q. Making a difference of how much?

A. I must figure that—$6,917.75.

Q. Now, of what items is that made up?

By Mr. BLUMBERG:

Q. Just a minute, what is that exact amount?

A. $6,917.75.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. Eleven, isn't it?

A. Yes, that should be $6,911.75.

Q. Now, how was that balance returned in cash to the county treasurer? Turn to page 62 of the same book.

A. Under date of August 30, 1922, we show a receipt of $1,411.75, this being the personal check of M. M. Shober.

Q. And for what?

A. For what I understood—

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: Just what the book shows.

The WITNESS: Refund for amount overdrawn in 1921.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. And in the meantime what other sums had been returned to the treasurer?

A. We left his commission and fees accumulate.

Q. Amounting to how much?

A. Well, it is $5,500.

Q. And so the transaction was closed?

A. Yes sir.

By Mr. MOFFATT:

Q. What was the amount of that chcek, please?

A. $1,411.75.

CROSS EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:

Q. Mr. Glessner, when did Shober's time expire?

A. The first Monday in December, 1924.

Q. December 31, 1924?

A. No, we turned it over the first Monday in 1924.

Q. And it expired December 31, 1923, didn't it?

A. No, I would not say that the term expired until the first Monday in 1924.

Q. That was January, 1924?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And the condition of the bond of the treasurer is that he shall account to his successor in office, isn't it?

A. I think so.

Q. And there is no accountability to the county during that time, is there?

A. I am not familiar with that law, I could not say if there is or is not.

Q. Well the county treasurer accounts to his successor in office, doesn't he, and turns over the balance?

A. Yes sir.

Q. This dispute over this shortage is two years before the expiration of his term?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And during the term as treasurer and during the time you acted as deputy treasurer, you placed deposits where you pleased and they were the funds of the treasurer, were they not?

A. They were the funds of the treasurer, yes.

Q. Yes, he had a right to carry them in his pocket if he wished?

A. Well, I suppose so but I would not qualify.

Q. When there is an order drawn by the county commissioners on the county treasurer and that voucher is deposited in one of the banks they return it to the county treasurer don't they?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And he is the person that is directly accountable and not the county?

A. The treasurer is directly accountable.

Q. Yes, and far as you know the only time that he is bound to make an accounting is at the expiration of his term, and that accounting is to his successor in office, isn't that right?

A. I am not familiar with that, I cannot qualify.

Q. You never accounted to the county during the term of office, did you?

A. I made an accounting at the end of each year to the county auditor.

Q. And the county auditors made up their account at the end of each year to show whether or not there was anything due the county treasurer?

A. Yes sir.

Q. So he was not bound to pay at the end of each year?

A. I don't know that, he had sufficient balance in the treasury to take care of their balance.

By Mr. WITKIN:

Q. Who signed the checks while you were deputy?

A. I did.

Q. All of them?

A. All of them.

Q. Were there any checks issued except the ones you signed?

A. No sir.

Q. Did Mr. Shober sign any checks at all?

A. Not during the time that I was in the office.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:

Q. Who signed the $1,400 check, didn't he?

A. That was from his personal account.

Q. His personal account?

A. Yes sir.

By Mr. WITKIN:

Q. How was that check signed, as county treasurer?

A. It was not even signed by Mr. Shober as I recall it. His brother, U. S. Shober, was taking care of his personal affairs at that time, and the check was signed by M. M. Shober, per U. S. Shober.

F. L. FOX re-called.

Mr. BLUMBERG: This is another matter?

Mr. GEYER: Yes sir.

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. Mr. Fox, you have testified that you were county auditor, and as such audited the accounts at the end of the fiscal year, 1921?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And as such you prepared a report which is included in a book called "Auditor's Report, Volume 1, Somerset County", and a summary thereof contained on page 36?

A. Yes sir.

(Page 36, volume 1, of county auditor's report of Somerset County, produced and marked complainants exhibit No. 19)

Mr. GEYER. I offer in evidence the record of the county auditors' report as contained in the official docket and particularly a little note thereon which reads as follows.

The CHAIRMAN: What page is that?

Mr. GEYER: Page 36.

Mr. MOFFATT: For what year?

Mr. GEYER: For year 1921.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: Of course, you are offering the whole account.

Mr. GEYER: Oh, yes, but I am calling your attention to this in particular.

The collection of liquor licenses of J. W. Rephorn, county treasurer, in 1919, for licenses collected for the six months from July 1, 1919, to January 5, 1920, for which there was no return to the county auditors. The reason for the omission, J. W. Rephorn alleges that the sums were in litigation or abeyance pending the decision of the court, as to what disposition should be made of the monies collected. We the county auditors find four signed receipts that the total amount collected and not accounted for amounts to $3,575.37.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. Was that notation made at the conclusion of the deliberations of the county auditors?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Was that the subject of discussion with Mr. Rephorn, the retiring treasurer in 1919?

A. Yes sir.

Q. You may state whether or not it was also the subject of a conference between yourselves and Judge Berkey.

A. Mr. Rephorn refused to lay before us—

The CHAIRMAN: You might answer this question "yes" or "no" and then make your explanation.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. Did you discuss that with Judge Berkey?

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: When was this, in 1919?

Mr. GEYER: In 1921.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. In 1921 did you discuss this matter with Judge Berkey after he was Judge?

A. Yes sir.

Q. When?

A. I don't know the date exactly, I would have to say just what occurred in order to explain it.

Q. Tell what did occur with respect to this $3,500. First explain this: Whether that $3,500 during your term of office came upon the books or records of the county as money coming to the county treasurer or his successor?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Was it ever turned into the county?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. No, go on and explain.

A. We were unable to get an account of this liquor license money, Mr. Rephorn claimed it was in litigation, and I guess it was for a number of years. But we decided that it would have to be brought to a head so we subpoenaed Mr. Rephorn to appear before us, but he didn't come. I believe he was going to Meyersdale, so that the next day we went all over town and hunted him, one of the auditors went down to his office, and I went down the ther way. I found him down at Grove's garage, and I told him we wanted to get at this liquor license matter and wanted to get it disposed of somehow. We had a letter from Harrisburg about it, and he said, "Gentlemen, just come along over and see my attorney," or "lawyer," I don't know which. So we went with him and he went over to judge Berkey.

Q. Judge Berkey was then on the bench?

A. He was on the bench and in his chambers, and the matter was mentioned. I don't know what was said, but we wanted to get this matter straightened out, and Judge Berkey said, "Gentlemen, you cannot go back and audit a year's account that you have already audited." That was about all that was said, I guess.

Q. Where did you get the information that the $3,500 had been paid to Rephorn as county treasurer.

A. Well, we got the statement from the clerk of court's office, receipts and papers and other signed statements about the liquor license which money was paid into the clerk of the courts I guess, but we got our records there.

Q. You say the matter was in ligitation, what did you understand was the matter in ligitation?

A. Well, with reference to the money, whether this money should be refunded to these payees—

Q. You mean to the payers?

A. Yes, the payers, yes.

Q. Whether the license paid for the last half should be refunded to the people who had paid that to the county treasurer?

A. That was what I understood, yes.

Q. But the monies were not included or accounted for in the hands of the county treasurer.

A. No sir.

Q. Do you know how the ligitation ended?

A. I don't.

CROSS EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:

Q. What is that account there?

A. That is the account of the money as we found it in the Clerk of Court's office.

Q. For the year ending when?

A. The year ending, the money paid in the latter half of 1919.

Q. That was before Judge Berkey went on the bench?

A. I guess it was.

Q. Yes. And did you prepare that, was it prepared in your presence?

A. That list?

Q. That book, as you have it before you?

A. We auditors prepared that.

Q. In whose hand writing is it?

A. That is my handwriting.

Q. In your handwriting?

A. Yes sir.

Q. This question of the liquor license occurred when Judge Berkey was still a practicing lawyer?

A. I guess it did.

Q. And the question involved was in the interpretation of the Act of 1919 which allowed a refund of liquor licenses after the Act of 1919 was passed, didn't it?

A. Likely I guess.

Q. That is to say where liquor licenses were granted before the passage of the Act of 1919 there was a provision in the law that the person who had the license had the right to a refund from the treasurer for such part of the unexpired license, isn't that right?

A. I am not familiar with that part of the law.

Q. Do you know whether or not that was the question involved?

A. It may have been.

Q. So that at the time that audit was made there was no money due the county of Somerset, was there?

A. At what time.

Q. At the time you made that audit and made that notation?

A. Certainly there was money due.

Q. How much?

A. In 1920 we failed to get the matter laid before us.

Q. What was there in 1919, what monies were due in 1919?

A. That I am not sure.

Q. That was disputed, was't it?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And you closed your audit with that notation that this was in dispute?

A. No. Not in 1920 we didn't, this is 1921.

Q. What is that you have there (indicating on book)?

A. That is an account of the monies paid in 1919.

Q. 1919?

A. And the matter was never brought before the auditors.

Q. And what did you do with it in 1919?

A. We didn't do anything, because the treasurer said it was in litigation.

Q. Yes.

A. And could not account. It has been the custom there that any account that is in ligitation or not distributed the treasurer would hold it, hold it until the next year. The Standard Oil Company had a case of that kind and it was held over possible two years.

Q. What did you do in 1920 with it?

A. We didn't do anything, because the treasurer said he could not lay it before us.

Q. What did you do in 1921?
A. That is the account there. (Indicating)
Q. How much did you find to be due?
A. According to the records in the clerk of court's office, it is $3,575.37 I believe.
Q. To whom was it payable?
A. The county treasurer, that was in the county treasurer's hands.
Q. Yes, that amount of money you carried along in the county treasurer's hands and was said to you to be in dispute?
A. We never carriet it at all, we never had any notation or any account of it until this time.
Q. When did you make that notation, you said in 1919?
A. No sir, I didn't say 1919, 1921.
Q. You made the notation in 1921?
A. Yes sir.
Q. But you knew the money was in disute in 1919?
A. 1920.
Q. Did you know it was in dispute in 1919?
A. We knew there was an account of liquor license money held back.
Q. In 1919?
A. 1920.
Q. What do you know about any money that was held back in 1919 on the same account?
A. There was not any held back in 1919.
Q. There was not?
A. Not this way.
Q. There wasn't any money there in dispute for the licenses granted in 1919?
A. Well, part of 1919.
Q. What time do you hold your license court?
A. I think it was in February, or April possibly.
Q. In February. The license money that was due was paid during the month of February and would not that be paid in the month of February, if that is the time your license court is held, and the money that was in there at that time was bound to be in dispute before December 31, 1919, wasn't it?
A. Likely it was.
Q. Judge Berkey never granted any licenses, did he?
A. I don't think so, no.
Q. You know that he did not?
A. No.
Q. All of the applications that were presented to Judge Berkey were refused, were they not?
A. I think so.
Q. So that in December 1919 the same money that you say was in dispute in 1920 was also in dispute in 1919?
A. Not in our case, because we did not get any account until the year after the business is done.
Q. Do you mean to say that when that year ends, the fiscal year ends Desember 31, 1919, that you did not get this money for a year?
A. Not until 1920, the beginning of 1920.
Q. Yes. So that in January, 1920, you audited for the year 1919 and those sums were in dispute, were they not?
A. Yes sir.
Q. That was also true when you audited on January 1, 1921.
A. Yes sir.
Q. And also true when you audited on January 1, 1922?
A. Well that maybe so, that matter was closed that year.
Q. How was it closed?

Mr. GEYER: We have a certified copy.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: I am not asking for a certified copy, I am asking this witness.

Mr. GEYER: I submit that he does not have the right to cross examine when the witness has alleged that he does not know the court proceedings, when he said on direct examination that he didn't know what it was, he didn't understand it. If the true purpose of this inquiry is to get light—

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: What did you put him on the stand for if he does not know?

Mr. GEYER: I put him on the stand for the purpose of showing that these monies had been owing to the county and never been paid to the county, and Judge Berkey said it was none of their business. I will show the other facts—

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: The witness hasn't said that.

The CHAIRMAN: He has not brought the things out that you claim to show.

Mr. GEYER Yes, I think I have.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. The conversation that you said you had with Judge Berkey was that you went to see him about some fund that had not been accounted for, and the Judge said that you could not review an audit that had already been closed, didn't he?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And after the date for the last day for filing exceptions had passed?
A. We didn't go to see him as county auditors as the treasurer asked us to go along with him to see his lawyer.
Q. Then you did not go as county auditors?
A. Sure we did.
Q. Why did you go?
A. Simply because the treasurer asked us to go along over and see his attorney, and we simply went along with him.
Q. And Judge Berkey represented this case before he went on the bench?
A. I don't know.
Q. Do you know whether he represented the treasurer before he went on the bench.
A. I don't know.
Q. And when you went to see Judge Berkey, Judge Berkey said that the last day for filing exceptions had gone by, and you could not file exceptions after that day had passed, you could not reopen it?
A. He said we could not re-audit an account.
Q. You could not re-audit the account and you don't know what became of the money?
A. We never had audited that account, we never touched it.
Q. You don't know where the money is?
A. We don't know where the money is?
Q. Don't know whether the money has been paid back to the persons entitled to it?
A. To the best of my knowledge it is in the county treasurer's hands yet.
Q. Still in the county treasurer's hands.
A. Except what has been remitted. Mr. Rephorn told us that he had remitted to some of these people considereble of this fund, and we asked him then to lay before us his records and he said I have moved several times and lost the checks and records, my books, and he never gave us a thing.
Q. And the money had been collected by Mr. Rephorn, he was the person who was liable to the persons who had paid it, wasn't he?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And as these questions were determined, the amount that was determined, if the liquor applicant was entitled to his money Rephorn paid it?
A. Yes, whatever was refunded, if any, we have no record, the auditors have no knowledge of any of that because Mr. Rephorn never gave us any record whatever, and it was his business to place before us the amount of money refunded.
Q. Did the county auditors have an attorney?
A. Did they have an attorney?
Q. Yes.
A. No.
Q. Did they have one at that time?
A. No.
Q. You never had an attorney?
A. My first term we had, yes.
Q. Mr. Landis was the attorney for the auditors?
A. Only for one case, but—
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: That is all.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. What were you going to say?
A. I was going to say that we put the matter up to the county commissioners to make an effort to get this matter, and they simply failed to take this matter up and dropped it. They had a hearing and dropped it. Another thing we wrote the department at Harrisburg and explained this matter, the money in litigation, the money in the treasurer's hands, and they answered and stated, I don't know, the other auditor I think has that letter, and stated that the amount the State would recive, which is only one-third, or maybe less than that, was too small for it to send an attorney out there to take it up, so we as auditors did not go any further with it.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. Of course, Judge Berkey was not present when Mr. Rephorn said "Come over and see my attorney?
A. No sir, that was in the auditor's room where we worked. We simply went along, accompanied him you know.
Q. Then you went into the Judge's chambers?
A. We did.
Q. In the court house?
A. Yes.
Q. Who was present at that time?
A. The three county auditors and Mr. Rephorn.
Q. The three county auditors, Mr. Rephorn, the Judge and yourself?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And then you asked him various questions pertaining to this money?
A. There was not much said about it.
Q. You asked him a question about the money?
A. Somebody said what we came there for, I don't know whether it was Mr. Rephorn or one of the auditors.
Q. It may have been one of the auditors?
A. It may have been.
Q. And he answered you and gave you his opinion.
A. Yes sir.
Q. That was all that took place in the Judge's office?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And you went out?
A. We went about that account a little later.

By Mr. LUDLOW:
Q. The Judge just came on the bench, a new Judge?
A. It was about his second year, I guess.
Q. Was he the man that was meant as being the attorney?
A. I think so.
Q. There was no other attorney there, was there?
A. Oh no.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. When you say you think so you don't know?
A. What was that?
Q. When you say you think so, what do you mean by "You think so?"
A. What was the question?
Q. Mr. Ludlow asked you whether or not Judge Berkey was the man that was meant when Mr. Rephorn said he wanted to go and see his attorney, what do you mean by that?
A. I didn't know where he was going, he said, "Come along and see my attorney", and we trooped after him.
Q. This delegation went into Judge Berkey's office?
A. Yes sir.

The CHAIRMAN: What is the purpose of this particular testimony?

Mr. GEYER: We will show that the Judge had this money, or a considerable part of it, borrowed it from the former county treasurer.

(Certified copy of petition in the matter of Michael H. Sipe for refund of retail liquor license fees produced and marked complainants exhibit No. 20)

(Certified copy in the matter of the petition of Joseph T. McCormick for refund of retail liquor license fees produced and marked complainants exhibit No. 21).

Mr. GEYER: I offer in evidence now exhibit No. 20 and No. 21, similar proceedings, but exhibit No. 20 is entitled in the matter of the petition of Michael H. Sipe for refund of retail liquor license fees, in the court of quarter sessions of Somerset County to No. 24, February sessions, 1919, and No. 13, May sessions, 1920.

The CHAIRMAN: What is the name of the petitioner?

Mr. GEYER: Michael H. Sipe.

And if I may be permitted to summarize the petition goes on to aver that Michael H. Sipe on the 8th day of February, 1919, was duly granted a license by the court under the Act of 1880, known as the Brooks License Law, which said license became effective on the first day of April, 1919, and will expire on the 1st day of April, 1920. That prior to the 1st day of April, 1919, and before the license so granted was issued, your petitioner paid to the county treasurer of said county, the full annual license fee of $100 for the year ending April 1st, 1920. That on the 1st day of July, 1919, by reason of the enforcement of various Federal laws and regulations, he was prevented from selling under the license granted by this court, liquors herein before mentioned, whereupon on said date he abandoned the sale of all liquors, the sale of which was provided for in said license, closed up his place of business, and from the date mentioned to the present time fully surrendered all of his rights and privileges under said license, and has never since said date exercised any right thereunder. And he avers, that through inadvertence only he failed to make an actual surrender of said license to the clerk of this court, and he now offers to surrender the same. He, therefore, prays the court to make an order and decree, directing the county treasurer of Somerset County to refund to him the sum of $75, being the portion of the license fee paid by him for such license for the year ending April 1, 1920, based upon the unexpired portion of said year during which no rights under said license were exercised by him, to which he is entitled under the provisions of the Act of Assembly approved June 26, 1919, P. L. 673. The Act of 1919 authorized people who had paid a license fee to have a portion refunded in the event that they shall surrender their license during the year.

The CHAIRMAN: What is the date of that petition?

Mr. GEYER: The petition is verified under date of 27th day of March, 1920, and the order is made under date of March 29, 1920, by Judge Berkey, granting a rule on Shober, county treasurer of Somerset County, and upon Harmon M. Kephart, State Treasurer, and Charles A. Snyder, Auditor General of Pennsylvania, to show cause why there should not be refunded to the petitioner the sum of $75, the Act provided that it should be refunded on notice to the proper officers. There is a letter from Frank M. Hunter, Deputy Attorney General, addressed to the county treasurer, Somerset, Pa., in which he said, that they would not file any answer and would not appear. He was then acting as Deputy Attorney General. Here is an affidavit of service showing that the service was made upon William J. Davis, Deputy County Treasurer, of the petition and the decree, and by registered letter addressed to the State Treasurer and Auditor General. There is an answer of Marling M. Shober, county treasurer, which demands proof of certain matters and particularly raising the question, which was the question passed upon, that there was no surrender of the license as such. You will note that the petition said that inadvertently only it was failed to be surrendered. There is an opinion by Judge Berkey entered on January 27, 1921, discharging rule to show cause, and I believe I can correctly interpret the two page opinion by saying: that the petitioner is not entitled to the decree prayed for under the Act of 1919, is clear under the authority of Burkel's petition in re-license fee, 74 Pennsylvania Superior Court, 416, and that he is not entitled to the decree under the Act of June 26, 1919, P. L. 673, is established inasmuch as the petitioner admits that he did not surrender his license to the clerk of the court of quarter sessions, which admission under the language of said act is fatal to the petitioner. In effect, the decision is that having failed actually to surrender his certificate, he does not obtain the benefit of the Act, and, therefore, is not entitled to a refund of these monies from the county treasurer.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: I think you will find that that was based upon the decision of the Superior Court?

Mr. GEYER: I say he quotes the decision of the Superior Court on failure to return.

Mrs. MARY REPHORN, a witness called in behalf of the complainants being duly affirmed was examined and testified as follows on

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

Mr. WITKIN: I think it is the sense of several members of the committee, that if this is relevant we all want to hear it but what do you intend to prove?

Mr. GEYER: I think the matter will develop in the second question of this witness who is the wife of the former county treasurer, who is unable to be here, and who has certain notes from Judge Berkey of Somerset County in her possession.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. What is your name madam?
A. Mrs. Mary Rephorn.
Q. And who is your husband?
A. John M. Rephorn.

Q. Where is he now?
A. Somerset.
Q. He was county treasurer of Somerset County?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What is his present condition?
A. Well, he has partial paralysis, locomotor-attaxis.
Q. He is able to come here?
A. He may be able to come here, but I don't know whether he would be able to be on the witness stand.
Q. Do you have in your possession any notes given to your husband by the Johnstown and Somerset Street Railway Company to Judge Berkey or any of his associates?
A. Yes, I have.
Q. Will you produce them?
A. (Witness produces three notes) I don't know whether it is the Street Railway Company or not.)
(Note dated December 11, 1919, in the sum of $550, signed by J. A. Berkey and A. Kent Miller produced and marked complainants exhibit No. 22).
(Note dated April 14, 1919, in the sum of $410 signed by A. Kent Miller and J. A. Berkey, produced and marked complainants exhibit No. 23)
(Note dated March 6, 1919, in the sum of $1,200 signed by A. Kent Miller, produced and marked complainants exhibit No. 24).

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. I show you three notes marked exhibit Nos. 22, 23 and 24, and ask you whether those are the notes to which you referred?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Where did you get them?
A. I got them from my husband.
Q. Have you been recently attending to the financial affairs of your husband?
A. No sir, I have not.
Q. When did you get these?
A. I got these this morning but I had seen them before.
Q. When did you first see them?
A. In 1919.
Q. Do you have any knowledge of the handwriting of the people whose signatures are to these notes, do you know Judge Berkey's handwriting?
A. Indeed I don't.
Q. Do you know any other gentlemen who signed the notes?
A. I know A. Kent Miller but I don't know his handwriting.
Q. You don't?
A. No sir.
Mr. OWLETT: May we see those notes?
Mr. GEYER: Yes sir.
(Mr. Geyer handed notes to Mr. Owlett).

CROSS EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN.
Q. Madam, you saw all these notes in 1919?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Do you know what date in 1919 you saw them?
A. I don't know the month.
Q. The one dated March 6, 1919, is in the sum of $1200 and is signed by A. Kent Miller, and Judge Berkey's name is not on it, is it?
A. No sir.
Q. The next one is for $410, dated April 14, 1919, signed by A. Kent Miller and J. A. Berkey, isn't it?
A. Yes sir
Q. And the third one is for $550, dated December 11, 1919, signed by J. A. Berkey and A. Kent Miller, that was before Judge Berkey was on the bench, wasn't it?
A. Yes sir
Q Who asked you to produce these notes here?
A. I don't think anybody asked me to.
Q. Whom did you tell that you had these notes?
A. Mr. Boose gave me these notes this morning.
Q. Mr. Boose gave you the notes this morning?
A. Yes sir.
Q. At his office?
A. On the way down here.
Q. Do you know how he happened to get them?
A. I imagine Mr. Rephorn gave them to him.
Q. And he gave them to you on the train on the way down?
A. Yes sir.
Q. When did you last see the notes?
A. Last see them?
Q. Yes? Before this morning?
A. It was either the last of 1919 or the first of 1920.
Q. So that you have not seen these notes since the latter part of 1919 or the very early part of 1920 until Mr. Boose handed them to you on the train this morning?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Were you told what you were to come down here for?
A. I didn't know exactly what I was coming for.
Q. Who saw you, who asked you to come down?
A. Mr. Kooser.
Q. That is Mr. Earnest O. Kooser?
A. Yes sir.
Q. The gentleman sitting here (indicating Mr. Kooser)?
A. Yes sir.

RE-DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Who subpoenaed you?
A. The deputy sheriff.
Q. That is the sergeant-at-arms?
A. I got a subpoena from the deputy sheriff there at Somerset.
Q. That is, first your husband was subpoenaed, is that right, last week?
A. Yes.
Q. And then you reported here last week by a doctor's certification on file that he was not able to come, is that correct?
A. I have heard so.
Mr. GEYER: There is such a record is there not Mr. Chairman?
The CHAIRMAN: We have a certificate here concerning that, I don't remember whose it is.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. And then after that you were subpoenaed by the deputy sheriff to come and produce these papers, is that right?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Mr. Boose was your husband's attorney?
A. I think he had gone to him, yes.
Q. Do you know whether Mr. A. Kent Miller is related to Judge Berkey?
A. I think he is in a business way.
Q. In what way?
A. Well, I think he and Mr. Berkey have been connected with the street railway.
Q. Do you know whether he is an officer?
A. I think he is, but I don't know what.
Q. You don't know what office?
A. No.
Mr. GEYER: Have you any questions, Mr. Chairman?
The CHAIRMAN: In answer to your question I would say that the only health certificate that is in my possession is that of Dr. J. F. Bowman, Somerset, being a certificate that Marling H. Shober is unable to be here.
Mr. GEYER: Was there any affidavit for Mr. Rephorn?
The CHAIRMAN: I have none.

RE-CROSS EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Mrs. Rephorn, where is your home?
A. Somerset.
Q. In the town of Somerset?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How far is that from Meyersdale?
A. Twenty-two miles.
Q. Did your husband drive an automobile in Meyersdale last week?
A. No sir.
Q. How long has it been since he has been out of the house?
A. Out every day.
Q. Was he out yesterday?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Able to attend to his work?
A. Well, he don't have anything to do.
Q. He don't have anything to do but drive his automobile?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Drove it yesterday?

A. Yes sir.
Q. Do you know that there has been $1400 paid on account of these notes?
A. I dont know what has been paid.
Q. In other words, you know nothing whatever about the notes, you and your husband never talked about them, your husband gave you no information whatever concerning them, you have not seen them since at least the early part of 1920 until they were handed to you on the train after you left Somerset? And that notwithstanding the fact that your husband was out driving the automobile yesterday, is that right?
A. I saw those notes this morning in the Vancar hotel.
Q. Just to-day?
A. Yes, this morning.
Q. But from the arly part of 1920 down to March 2, 1925 you never saw them?
A. No sir, I didn't.
Q. You and your husband never discussed them?
A. No sir.
Q. Your husband never told you that there was a dollar paid on them, and you don't know that $1400 has already been paid on them.
A. I don't know what has been paid on them, I know he has been trying to get the money.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. The Governor asked you whether you ever discussed the matter with your husband, is that correct?
A. Concerning these notes?
Q. Yes? And what became of this $3500?
A. You are speaking of the liquor license money?
Q. Did you ever discuss it with him?
A. I did, I tried to.
Q. What did your husband tell you?
A. He told me that he had put the money out through Judge Berkey.
Q. That is your husband told you—
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: If your honors please I ask that it be stricken out. I ask that it be stricken out for the reason that it is hearsay, and under the testimony here in this case, admitted by this woman, her husband certainly is not incapable of coming here before this committee because as late as yesterday he was out in Somerset County driving an automobile, and they are now bringing this woman down here in an endeavor to slip something in in a hearsay way that they are afraid to put in direct.
Mr. GEYER: Let me say that there was nothing slipped in by way of hearsay. I distinctly asked the witness whether she ever discussed or had any conversation with her husband, and she said she had never discussed it, never talked to her husband about it. Our information was that the gentleman was unable to come and if there is any way of bringing him here, we would like to have him brought here. We were advised that his physical condition was such that he was unable to come.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Can you tell the gentlemen here whether your husband can come?
A. Well, he says he won't, he says he is not able.
The CHAIRMAN: If he is able to come and we want him we will issue a subpoena for him.
Mr. GEYER: We think he ought to be called.
The CHAIRMAN: We will direct a subpoena to be issued to bring him in.
Mr. GEYER: We want a ruling on Governor Beidleman's motion.
The CHAIRMAN: Mr. Geyer I would say we all know the fact that this testimony under the circumstances is strictly inadmissible, and we will disregard that testimony and will issue a subpoena to bring the husband in in this case and let him produce his testimony direct. Then he can testfy on this particular matter which I think ought to be satisfactory to everybody.

HARRY F. BITNER, recalled.
DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. You have testified that you were prothonotary and that you were familiar with the signature of Judge Berkey, and had often seen him write, is that a fact?
A. Not often, I have seen him write.
Q. You have seen him write?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Will you look at the signature of J. A. Berkey to a note marked exhibit No. 22, and tell us if you can, if that is Judge Berkey's signature?
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: What are those notes? Certainly if you are acting in the interest of time, if you are going to send for this man Rephorn to determine whether or not those notes are his and that they were signed and given by Judge Berkey, we are certainly killing a lot of it to have this man say that is Judge Berkey's signature.
The CHAIRMAN: I was going to interrupt, I didn't notice your last question?
Mr. GEYER: I am offering to prove Judge Berkey's signature to those notes. The last witness said she was not familiar with his signature.
The CHAIRMAN: We have never seen those notes, and don't have them on the record yet, as to who gave them or to whom they were given or by whom they were signed. At least I don't have it in my notes.
Mr. GEYER: Two of them are signed by J. A. Berkey, and all of them are signed by A. Kent Miller, and I am offering now to prove—
The CHAIRMAN: To whom were they given?
Mr. GEYER: They are all given to J. W. Rephorn; one is J. W. Rephorn, one is John W. Rephorn, and the other is J. W. Rephorn.
The CHAIRMAN: That is the gentleman for whom we directed a subpoena to be issued.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: That is the man for whom you have directed a subpoena to be issued and now you are asking the prothonotary whether or not he signed them.
Mr. GEYER: I want to prove the genuineness of those signatures and I am offering to prove the genuineness of those signatures.
The CHAIRMAN: If that is to be followed by any reason why you should have that information in at this time just for the purpose of proving the signature, we would admit it, but I think, as a matter of expediency, if the other gentleman is to be produced he could identify these notes.
Mr. GEYER: If he would.
Mr. CHAIRMAN: We propose to bring him if he is able to come.
Mr. GEYER: Suppose he denies the signature?
The CHAIRMAN: Then you can call the prothonotary.
Mr. GEYER: Then the prothonotary will not be here, I simply want to prove the signatures.
Mr. MOFFATT: He can prove the signatures while we are arguing about it.
The CHAIRMAN: Go ahead and prove them.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. I show you this exhibit 22, is that in your opinion a genuine signature.
A. It looks like it.
Q. Do you believe it is?
A. I believe it is.
Q. I show you exhibit 23, signed by J. A. Berkey, and ask you whether in your opinion that is his genuine signature?
A. It is.
Q. Are you familiar with the handwriting of A. Kent Miller?
A. I am not.
Mr. GEYER: I should like to introduce them in evidence but I will be compelled to call some banker here in the room and prove the signature of A. Kent Miller, or call Mr. A. Kent Miller himself.
A. KENT MILLER, a witness called in behalf of the complainants being duly sworn was examined and testified as follows on:

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. You are A. Kent Miller?
A. Yes sir.
Q. I show you a note marked exhibit No. 24 to J. W. Rephorn, purporting to be signed by A. Kent Miller, is that your signature?
A. Correct.
Q. I show you a note marked exhibit No. 23, purporting to be signed by A. Kent Miller, is that your signature?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Is that Judge Berkey's signature below yours?

A. Yes sir.
Q. I show you a note dated December 11, 1919, and marked exhibit No. 22, purporting to be signed by J. A. Berkey and A. Kent Miller, is that your signature?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And is that Judge Berkey's signature?
A. Yes sir.
Mr. GEYER: That is all.

CROSS EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. How much has been paid on account of those notes?
A. About $1,400.

By Mr. MOFFATT:
Q. What is the total amount of those notes?
A. $2.100.
Mr. GEYER: I offer in evidence exhibit No. 22, being a note dated December 11, 1919, on demand after date we promise to pay to the order of J. W. Rephorn $550, signed, J. A. Berkey and A. Kent Miller.
The second one dated April 14, 1919, marked exhibit No. 23, for $410, promising to pay that amount to John W. Rephorn on May 3, 1919, signed A. Kent Miller and J. A. Berkey. Exhibit No. 23 contains a notation on the back, "Received on November 27, 1919, from J. A. Berkey twenty ($20.00)—dollars—Received 15-23 rec'd from J. A. Berkey —$20.00 Rec'd Dec. 1924 from J. A. Berkey $50.00," probably $30 but I think $50.
Exhibit No. 24 dated March 26, 1919, thirty days after date I promise to pay $1,200 to J. W. Rephorn. The note contains the following notations; "By check Apr. 26, 1919, $500." I don't know whether that is $5 or whether it is $500. This is the Kent Miller note, and then there is a second credit of what looks like $500, maybe $5, and then there are credits in pencil which would indicate further credits from time to time in amounts from ten, twelve, fourteen and fifteen dollars amounting to $63. That is on the A. Kent Miller note.
Mr. WITKIN: Mr. Geyer, cannot we agree on the record as to what date Judge Berkey took office.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: The first Monday in January, 1920.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Now, Mr. Miller, notwithstanding what maybe on the back of these notes, there has been over $1400 paid on account of them has there not?
A. Yes sir.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. On which note has the $1400 been paid.
A. There is $1000—$1063, I don't see that he has credited the last $300.
Q. On the $1000 note there is a credit of $1063, is that right?
A. Yes, that is about right.
Q. And you say there is another credit of what?
A. Well, I gave him $300 less than three weeks ago?
Q. On which note?
A. I don't know where he put it.
Q. On which note did you tell him to credit it?
A. I don't know.
Q. On your note or Judge Berkey's?
A. I was going away and I just gave him a check, and I don't know how he credited it.
Q. Whose money was it you gave to him, yours or Judge Berkey's?
A. My own.
Q. One of these notes is signed by you first, in the amount of $410, and the Judge's name is below yours, does that indicate that Judge Berkey was bail for you?
A. No, not necessarily.
Q. And the other one indicates that it is signed by Judge Berkey and you second, does that indicate that you were bail for Judge Berkey?
A. Not necessarily?
Q. Whose debt was this?
A. Our joint debt.
Q. Joint debt, yours and Judge Berkey's?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What position do you hold in the Street Railway company?
A. I am secretary.
Q. And have been such for how long?
A. Since 1908.
Mr. JOHN D. LONERGAN, a witness called in behalf of the complainant being duly sworn was examined and testified as follows on

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. What is your business, sir?
A. Assistant Treasurer, Johnstown Trust Company Johnstown.
Q. How long have you been connected with that institution?
A. Since its organization in 1920.
Q. And before that time with what banking institution were you connected?
A. I was cashier of the first national bank of Lilly.
Q. Where is that?
A. It is twenty miles east of Johnstown.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: What is the purpose of the special qualification?
Mr. GEYER: I propose to prove the market value of the Johnstown and Somerset Railway Bonds in that community. Is there any question as to the gentleman's qualifications?
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: Not as to his banking qualifications.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. How long have you been in the banking business?
A. Since 1907.
Q. Since 1920 you say you have been with the trust company in Johnstown?
A. Yes sir.
Q. As such has it been your duty to know the market value of securities locally and otherwise?
A. I have been dealing in securities, more or less, for the different banks since coming on the mountain.
Q. Do you pass upon the market value of securities offered as collateral?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Do you know of the bonds of the Johnstown and Somerset Railway Company?
A. I have known of them.
Q. For how long?
A. Four years.
Q. What, in your opinion, is their present market value?
A. We have no quotations whatever on them.
Q. What value have you placed upon them as collateral?
A. We have never permitted them as collateral.
Q. Not in any amount?
A. Not in any amount.
Q. Has that been the subject of discussion and inquiry by your institution?
A. It has been.
Q. And of orders given?
A. Yes sir.

CROSS EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Do you know Mr. McAneny?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Secretary and treasurer of the Johnstown Traction Company?
A. Yes sir, I do.
Q. Do you regard him as well versed in values of street railways?
A. I would imagine he is.
Mr. GEYER: I certainly object to that, that certainly would not be evidence under any circumstance.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Do you?
A. I would imagine he is.
Q. Have you been over this line?
A. I have never ridden over it, I have been by it in a machine.
Q. When you say "by it", how much have you seen of it?
A. I have seen it from Johnstown through Davidsville and out to—
Q. Then you don't go within a mile of it at points between Johnstown and Davidsville, do you? some points where you are a mile away from the railroad between Johnstown and Davidsville, are you not?

A. Oh you are, but you can see every stick of timber on it.
Q. Do you know the size rails they have?
A. No, that is not part of my business.
Q. Do you know the kind of trolley wire they have?
A. No sir.
Q. Do you know the cars?
A. I see them.
Q. How many have you seen?
A. They pass my door every day.
Q. How many do they own?
A. I don't know.
Q. How many miles of track do they operate?
A. I don't know.
Q. How many bridges are there on the road?
A. I don't know.
Q. How long is the pole line?
A. I don't know.
Q. You don't know anything of the physical condition of this road, do you?
A. No, I don't.
Q. How do the cars of that company compare with the cars of other trolley companies?
A. A very nice car.
Q. Very fine cars are they, do you know how much is invested in the road?
A. No, I don't.
Q. Do you know how much the road is worth?
A. No, I don't.
Q. Do you know whether it is in continuous operation?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Running how long?
A. Since about the time I went to Johnstown.
Q. Operating over how many miles of track?
A. I don't know.
Q. Do you know the length of the road?
A. No, I don't.
Q. Do you know whether or not they are engaged in any additions to the road?
A. No, that is not my business.
Q. Do they have a power house?
A. They operate on the power of the Johnstown Traction Company.
Q. Do they have a power house themselves?
A. I don't know.
Q. You don't know anything about the condition of the road?
A. I never investigated the condition of the road.
Q. And the only thing that you are prepared to say is that the value of these bonds is such that you have not accepted any of them in your bank?
A. That is the idea.
Q. You don't pretend to say that they don't have any value?
A. The only thing is that we have not been accepting them.
Q. I am asking if you pretend to say that they don't have value?
A. In our estimation we would not accept them.
Q. I am not asking you that, sir. I am asking you whether you say that those bonds have no value?
A. I don't know whether they have value or not.
Q. You don't know whether they have or not. The thing in your opinion that would go to make up the value of the bond would be the physical condition of the road, wouldn't it?
A. Sure, the physical condition of the road and the ability to pay.
Q. Their ability to pay. Do you know anything about the bills that are owing by the company?
A. No sir.
Q. In fact, you don't know anything about this company, at all.
A. No, I don't know anything of the financial standing of the company.

H. J. WEIMER, a witness called in behalf of the complainant was duly sworn and examined and testified as follows on

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. Mr. Weimer, what is your business?
A. I am in the mercantile business.
Q. Have you had certain bonds of the Johnstown and Somerset Railway Company for sale?
A. Yes sir.
Q. In recent years?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How recently?
A. About six months ago.
Q. Did you endeavor to obtain a market for them?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How.
A. I went to see C. C. Smucker, of Boswell, and I talked to Judge Berkey and he told me he would have to hear from the finance committee first.
Q. Yes, what were you doing with them?
A. I got them in a bankrupt case; I was trustee in the E. C. Welch estate, and I tried to sell them.
Q. Whom did you sell them to?
A. Joe Levy paid me for them.
Q. Whom did you sell them to?
A. Levy.
Q. For whom?
A. Well, I asked Levy and Levy said, "You know who they are for", and I said "Really I don't know and I don't care; the money is what I am after." He said, "They are for Judge Berkey."
Q. What did you get for them?
A. $50 for $700.
Q. $50 for $700 of bonds?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And you had talked to Judge Berkey about buying bonds before that time?
A. Yes, and he said he would have to see the finance committee.
Q. Did he make any offer for them at all?
A. No, he didn't.
Q. Will you give us your best recollection as to day you sold them. If you have any memorandum which will refresh your recollection you may use it?
A. I have not but the referee in bankruptcy is here, he has that on file and maybe he can give you that date.
Q. Do you know how long ago, it was?
A. Three or four or five months I guess.
Q. And before making that sale had you made any other efforts to sell, had you exhausted your efforts to sell them?
A. Yes, I went to different ones.
Q. Could you get any better price than that for them.
A. No.

CROSS EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:

Q. The Mr. Levy to whom you refer is the Mr. Levy who sits by me, is it?
A. Yes sir.
Q. A member of the Somerset County bar. Where did you have this conversation with Mr. Levy wherein he said that he wanted them for Judge Berkey?
A. I didn't answer that way.
Q. What is that?
A. I didn't answer that way.
Q. How did you answer?
A. He said to me, "You know who they are for"; I said, "I don't know and I don't care." He mentioned it without me saying anything.
Q. What did he say, just tell us your conversation, we want to know the conversation?
A. When he gave me the check for $50 he said, "Do you know who is buying these bonds" or "Who they are for". I won't say which of these two expressions, and I said, "No, and I don't care," and he said without my asking—
Q. What did he say, tell us?
A. He said, "They are for Judge Berkey."
Q. Where did this conversation take place?
A. In Levy's office.
Q. Anybody there?
A. Not inside the room.
Q. This conversation was between you and Mr. Levy, was it?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What was the size of this bankrupt's estate?
A. What do you mean, indebtedness?
Q. Yes, how big an estate was it?
A. You mean the size of the indebtedness?
Mr. GEYER: Give him both.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. I mean the assets and liabilities?
A. The liabilities were $33,000 and the assets were about $9000.
Q. Who was the bankrupt?
A. E. C. Welsh and Sons.
Q. E. C. Welch and Son?
A. Sons.
Q. What were they?
A. They were in the automobile business?
Q. The automobile business?
A. Yes sir.

By Mr. STADTLANDER:
Q. Were those bonds sold at private or public sale?
A. Private.

By Mr. BIDLESPACHER:
Q. Do we understand you to say that you got $50 for $700 worth of them?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You mean by that face value of $700?
A. Yes, the value was $700 and I sold them for $50.

By Mr. LUDLOW:
Q. When the Judge said he would submit it to the finance committee, what did you understand him to mean, the finance committee of what?
A. The street railway company is what I undrestood.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Did you offer those bonds at public sale?
A. No.
Q. You just offered them to Levy?
A. No, I offered them to C. C. Smucker, at Boswell, and to Ross Scott, Attorney Scott.
Q. Who else?
A. I don't know who else.
Q. Well, just recall?
A. I spoke to different people about it.
Q. Who were they?
A. Well one was F. W. Besecker.
Q. Besecker, whom else did you— did you get on offer for them?
A. No.
A. I cannot recall any more.
Q. Who else did you speak to?
Q. Is that all?
A. That is all.
Q. These are the only persons you spoke to?
A. That I can remember.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Smucker is a bank man?
A. I believe.
Q. What kind of a bank is he connected with?
A. One of the Boswell banks.
Q. Is Mr. Smucker connected with the street railway company?
A. I understand so.
Q. As vice-president?
A. I think so.

CHARLES BRUBAKER a witness called on behalf of the complainant being duly affirmed was examined and testified as follows on

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. What connection did you have with your brother's estate?
A. I helped my sister-in-law settle up the estate.
Q. How long ago?
A. This last fall a year ago, 1923.
Q. In the fall of 1923? Did you have any bonds of the Johnstown and Somerset Street Railway Company for sale?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How did you sell them?
A. Public sale.
Q. With notice to the company?
A. Yes sir.
Q. To whom did you give the notice?
A. Well, the bills were advertised, I don't know whether there was direct notice but they were present at the sale.
Q. Who of the street railway company was present at the sale?
A. Mr. Smucker.
Q. What is his connection with the street railway company?
A. I think he is vice-president.
Q. Was the sale duly advertised?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Was it well attended?
A. Yes fairly well.
Q. What else was sold except securities?
A. Farm machinery, household goods.
Q. Regular full farm sale?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Sell the farm too?
A. Yes.
Q. How many bonds of the street railway company had you?
A. $5,000.
Q. What did you get for them?

By Mr. BIDLESPACHER:
Q. How much?
A. Mr. GEYER: $5,000.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. How much did you get for them? You may refresh your recollection by looking at your sale list.
Mr. WITKIN: Got the date on the record?
A. Mr. GEYER: Yes.
The WITNESS: Bond No. 401, $90 for a $1000.

By Mr. LUDLOW:
Q. What was the date?
A. September 30th.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. 1923?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Go on.
A. Bond No. 443, $1000, $95.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: Bond 443, how much?
A. Mr. GEYER: $95.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Go on.
A. 442, $1000, $100.
Q. Go on.
A. 444, $1000, $95.
Q. Yes.
A. 446, $1,000, $105.

By Mr. BLUMBERG:
Q. $105?
A. Yes sir.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. You had stock in the company too?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How much stock?
A. A certificate for $2,500.
Q. $2,500 par value?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What did you get for that?
A. $50.
Q. Did the same person buy all these bonds and stock?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Who?
A. Mr. Harvey Shaffer.
Q. Who is he?
A. He is the man that had bought the stock and bonds.
Q. Was he a creditor of the estate?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Were there any other bids except his?
A. One other, I think it was the president of the Hooversville Bank.
Q. Did you investigate the market value of those bonds before you sold them, as to what you might expect for them.
A. No sir, not directly, any more than what I heard.
Q. You had made inquiry as to what you ought to get for them?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And after your inquiry you allowed them to go at this price?

No cross examination.

By Mr. STADTLANDER:
Q. You were administrator of the estate?
A. No sir, my sister-in-law was the administratrix and I just assisted her.
Q. When did the decedent die?
A. In May, 1923.
Q. Had there been an inventory filed?
A. Yes sir.
Q. In the estate?
A. Yes sir.
Q. When was that filed?
A. I could not tell, a short time after.
Q. Did you have the value of that stock and bonds set forth in the inventory?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Was it priced?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Do you have the appraised value with you?
A. No sir.
Q. Was it appraised near what the bonds and stock sold for?
A. I don't think they were appraised as high, I am not sure.
Q. They were not appraised as high?
A. No sir.
Q. You received more than the appraised value?
A. I think so, I could not say exactly, I think about that.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Was the account filed in the Orphan's Court of your county?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And confirmed by Judge Berkey.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Who was your attorney?
A. Earnest Kooser.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. How long did your brother own these bonds?
A. Well, from the beginning, a year or so before.
Q. Do you know what he paid for them?
A. He paid $1,000 apiece for them. We had a receipt from J. A. Berkey for the full amount.

By Mr. BIDLESPACHER:
Q. Mr. Brubaker, have you got the date of this sale?
A. September 30, 1923.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Mr. Brubaker, will you tell us, did this make the estate insolvent.
A. Yes sir.
Q. By how much?
A. I don't know whether I could tell exactly but quite a sum.

C. C. WAGNER, a witness called in behalf of the complainant being duly affirmed was examined and testified as follows on

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Where do you live, Mr. Wagner?
A. I live in Somerset, Pa.
Q. What is your business?
A. I am secretary and treasurer of the Somerset Trust Company?
Q. How long have you been such?
A. I took employment with the Somerset Trust Company on the 30th day of March, 1906, and on the first day of April, I think, 1913, I was elected secretary and treasurer.
Q. And have been such since?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And you give your entire time and attention to the banking business?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Are you familiar with the bonds of the Johnstown and Somerset Railway Company?
A. Well, yes—what do you mean by familiar?
Q. Do you know there are such bonds?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Do you know the market price of those bonds, the price at which they have been bought and sold or offered for sale?
A. I understand they have been sold at par.
Q. By whom?
A. By the company.
Q. Do you know of sales at par from anybody else outside of the company?
A. No sir.
Q. Do you know of any other sales between stranger or between any other parties other than those in which the company was a party?
A. I have heard of sales.
Q. How many?
A. I don't know how many. I know of the sale Mr. Weimer mentioned and the sale that Mr. Brubaker mentioned.
Q. Do you know of any others?
A. I cannot recall the name.
Q. Do you know of other sales?
A. I cannot say that I do.
Q. Do you know of their being offered as collateral security?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Has the matter been the subject of discussion among your board of directors?
A. In a derisive way.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: In a what?
A. In a derisive manner.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Have those bonds had a market value within the last few years?
A. None that I know of.
Q. What has been the determination of your board of directors as to their value as collateral?
A. They have no value as collateral with our bank.
Q. Do you know whether or not your view has been held by other banks in the community?
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: That is objected to as hearsay, the other banks can speak for themselves.

By Mr. GEYER:
Mr. GEYER: If as a matter of discussion and policy determined on by the banks in the community, I think that is of just as much value as of his own bank?
Will you answer the question?
The WITNESS. I don't know of any bank taking them as collateral on a loan.

CROSS EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Mr. Wagner, you have been personally hostile to Judge Berkey, have you not?
A. Oh, in years gone by before his election.
Q. And you were one of the petitioners in this petition.
A. Yes sir.
Q. And you and Judge Berkey have never been friends?
A. Well only as we meet on the street and I go and see him.
Q. Your histility has been one that has existed over a period of very many years?
A. Yes, I would say since before his election.
Q. How many years before his election?
A. Do you want that answered?
Q. Yes, sure.
A. I have been hostile to Judge Berkey up until the time of his election from the time it was reported that he stuffed ballot boxes?
Q. When was that?
A. In the primary election shortly after I came to Somerset.
Q. When was that?
A. I would say, 1901 or 1902.
Q. 1901 or 02. So you have carried a personal hostility against Judge Berkey for twenty-four years?
A. Not personal but as the manner in which he has conducted things in a political way.
Q. Where you employed by Mr. Earnest Kooser at any time?
A. I think I was employed by Mr. Earnest Kooser to write petitions or deeds or abstracts of title when I was a stenographer.
Q. And have been very friendly to Earnest Kooser for a great many years?

A. Oh, since I knew him, yes sir.
Q. Does Kooser represent the bank that you have?
A. No sir.
Q. Notwithstanding the fact that you allege that Judge Berkey stuffed ballot boxes in 1901 he was elected under the non-partisan judicial bill in 1919 over four candidates by more than fifty-one percent of the total vote cast at the primary election, was he not?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And at that primary election Mr. Earnest Kooser was a candidate for Judge against him?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And in that election out of the total number of votes cast he got a total vote of a few over eight hundred, that is right?
A. I don't know just how many his votes were.
The CHAIRMAN: We don't care to curtail any testimony but we ask you to be brief in this matter and ask you to confine yourselves as nearly as possible to the issue.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: Except it be against the allegation that a man was stuffing ballot boxes, it would be a very high tribute, indeed, that a man in 1919 got more than fifty-one percent of the total vote cast at a primary election over four candidates for Judge of the several courts of Somerset County, and one of whom was the man who seems to be behind these proceedings.
The CHAIRMAN: We understand the purpose of your testimony but we would like to make it as brief as you can and stick to the point.
J. W. SNYDER, a witness called in behalf of the complainant being duly sworn was examined and testified as follows on

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Mr. Snyder, you are a banker?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Connected with what institution?
A. Citizen's National, Windber.
Q. How long have you been connected with that institution?
A. About twenty-three years.
Q. What is your position with the bank?
A. Cashier.
Q. How long have you held that position?
A. I have been cashier ever since I was there.
Q. Where is Windber?
A. The metropolis of Somerset County.
Q. I didn't ask what it was but in which part of the county it is?
A. It is in the extreme northern part of the county.
Q. How far from Somerset?
A. By the new road it is thirty-eight miles.
Q. Is it near the line or any part of the line of the Johnstown and Somerset Railway Company?
A. The Johnstown and Somerset Railway Company runs within six or seven miles of Windber, I would say.
Q. Has it been a part of your business to konw anything of the market value of securities, local and otherwise in your community?
A. Well, we try to keep a correct file of the local situtation in the bank as much as we can.
Q. Do you keep track of local securities just as you do of the secuities of foreign companies, is that right?
A. We try to have some data on every concern that we do any business with.
Q. Can you tell the gentlemen what, in your opinion, is the present fair market value of the bonds of the Johnstown and Somerset Railway Company?
A. Well, just at the present time they don't have any selling value, they are not limited anywhere, no market for them, and of course the interest is in default.
Q. How long is the interest in default?
A. I am not positive, I am almost positive it is about two years.
Q. And have you fixed a value on them, or what is the policy of your bank on the question of their value as collateral?
A. Oh, we would not take them as collateral at all.
Q. In any amount?
A. We would not take them in any amount. The bank would not take any defaulted bond as collateral.
Q. How long has this situation as to there being no market value for them continued?
A. Well, I imagine there was a market for them before they defaulted in interest, but I don't know what the price has been.
Q. You say there is no market now?
A. Well, they are not listed anywhere and, of course the sale is the same as the sale of a house, you have got to find a person to buy it.
Q. Do you know of any sales?
A. I don't know of any sales at all.
Q. Do you know how long since interest was defaulted?
A. I am not positive, I think about two years ago.

CROSS EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Mr. Snyder, you say you keep some data; what data do you have relative to the Johnstown and Somerset Street Railway Company as fixing the value?
A. I don't have any at all. We are unable to get a statement from them.
Q. You never made an effort to find out?
A. We cannot get a statement, they won't publish a statement.
Q. When did you ask for the statement?
A. I was referred by Judge Berkey when we tried to collect coupons to Smucker.
Q. Do you know this road?
A. I know where it is located.
Q. Do you know the condition of it?
A. No.
Q. Do you know the length of it?
A. I would say it was approximately ten or eleven miles long.
Q. Ever ride over it?
A. Never ridden on it.
Q. Do you know its condition?
A. It runs along the public road for a greater part of the way, and I have seen it from the road, but I have never ridden on it.

By Mr. LUDLOW:
Q. When you were referred to Mr. Smucker by Judge Berkey what did you do?
A. A number of our customers having the bonds, were trying to collect the interest, but there was never any definite place at which the interest was paid. The bonds read that the interest is payable by a New York Trust Company, or some of them, and I believe some are payable at Somereset. There were two general issues, one was about 1915 and the other one about 1921.
Q. You said you made inquiry of Judge Berkey and he referred you to somebody, did you go to that somebody else.
A. I think, Mr. Smucker, I believe is an officers of the company, said if we would send the coupons to him they would be paid.
Q. Did you do it?
A. We sent some to him and they were paid. Of course, they have not paid any, I understand, for the last two years. We have not been able to collect any arrears in that time anyway.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. You say that a number of people in your bank heve these bonds?
A. We have them there in the safe deposit boxes, left there for safe keeping.
Q. Quite a few people hold these bonds?
A. Oh yes, a great many of them.
Q. A great many people in the community?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Consisting of all classes of people?
A. Yes, they are pretty well distributed.

By Mr. BLUMBERG:
Q. Did you ask Mr. Smucker for a statement?
A. We got a verbal statement from him two years ago, the only statement we have been able to get. He said if it had not been for the strike they would have earned their interest.
Q. Did you ask anything about the physical value of the property?
A. I was not interested in that, because the earning capacity of the company would depend on the value of the bonds not on what the road cost.

Q. Irrespective of the value of the road?
A. If the road cannot earn the interest on the bonds, the bonds are not worth anything, no matter what the road cost.

By Mr. STADTLANDER:
Q. Did the strike interfere with the earning capacity of that road?
A. Oh yes, I think it did.
Q. How long did that strike last in your section?
A. Well, it was sttled,—different groups of men went back to work at different times at different mines.
Q. It extended over quite a period of time?
A. Some of them almost a year, some of them went to work sooner.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. That strike lasted two years, didn't it, Mr. Snyder?
A. Well, I think the men were all at work by the next April, those in our district were at work anyway.
Q. Do you know about the rest of the county?
A. Well—
Q. In the Jerome district?
A. Jerome, I don't konw exactly when Jerome went to work.
Q. The road don't run through your district?
A. No, the road runs through Hooversville and Jerome.
A. Jerome, I don't know exactly when Jerome went to
A. Well, of course, I don't know.
Q. Don't you know that the strike lasted for practically two years at Jerome?
A. No, I don't think so, but I am not certain, but I don't think it lasted more than one year.
By Mr. STADTLANDER:
Q. Didn't it paralize business generally out through that section?
A. Oh, yes.
Q. Everybody suffered?
A. It hurt everything?
Q. The banks also?
A. It hurt everything naturally—

By Mr. MOFFATT:
Q. How long ago was that?
A. I think it was two years ago, I think it started in April two years ago.
Q. Two years ago?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Started at that time?
A. Yes that is when the union meetings always start the first of April.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Isn't it a fact that business is still depressed in Somerset County as the result of the strike?
A. Well, it is not very good in Somerset County, but I would not think it is the result of the strike exactly, it is the result of the price of coal.
Q. So that the coal business since the strike started has been considerably depressed?
A. The coal business has not been good since the strike started.
Q. The worst it has been in years?
A. It is worse than it has been since the war.
By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Mr. Snyder, your recollection after two years is sometimes deceptive. Isn't it a fact that the strike started in April, 1921?
A. I am not positive, I just gave you my recollection.
Q. You just gave it as a general recollection?
A. Yes sir.
The CHAIRMAN: Is it your desire to offer any more witnesses along this line of testimony?
Mr. WITKIN: The committee thinks it has been pretty well covered.
Mr. GEYER: No, I will stop with that character of evidence.
Mr. GEYER: May I ask that all witnesses who are subpoenaed will be here promptly at the hour fixed because I cannot tell now which ones will be called first.
The CHAIRMAN. It has been arranged to continue this hearing to-morrow morning at 9:00 o'clock in this room.
The CHAIRMAN declared the hearing adjourned.
Senate Caucus Room, Harrisburg, Pa., March 3, 1925.

And now, Tuesday, March 3, 1925, the hour of 9:00 o'clock A. M. having arrived, the Committee met pursuant to adjournment.
Members of Committee present.

CHAIRMAN MARSHALL presiding.

The CHAIRMAN: Gentlemen, before we open the hearing this morning, I want to announce that we are planning and it is the desire of each and every member of the Committee to finish taking testimony in this case this week. We propose to run here this morning until the house convenes, and reconvene within a reasonable time after the House adjourns today, and take this afternoon and tonight and tomorrow in such hearings as counsel desire and are prepared to introduce testimony and on Thursday, if necessary. We are very anxious to finish this testimony this week, and it is the intention of the committee, we have an arrangement that four constitute a quorum, and if we cannot all be present, we can continue as long as we can have a quorum of four. By getting the testimony in, it will give the stenographers an opportunity of transcribing it between now and the beginning of next week. We will also make arrangements to divide the work for them, that one set of men will not have all the work and labor of transcribing the entire amount of testimony. We also ask you at this time to expedite your testimony just as much as you possibly can, in order to finish this week.
JOHN SHARKLEY, a witness called in behalf of the complainant, being duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows on

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Mr. Sharkey, where do you live?
A. Wimber.
Q. In Somerset County?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You have been asked to bring a certain check, dated May 12, 1924, from yourself to Judge Berkey, do you have that check?
A. No, I left that check at home, I forgot it.
Q. Was there such a check?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What was the amount of the check?
A. $200.
Q. Was it returned to you endorsed by Judge Berkey?
A. Yes sir.
(Exhibit, check dated May 12, 1924, No. 1745, signed by John Sharkey, to J. A. Berkey, produced and marked complainant's exhibit No. 25).
(Endorsement on check marked exhibit No. 25, produced and marked exhibit No. 26).
Q. I show you the photograph of a check or paper, being marked exhibit No. 25, and ask you whether you recognize this?
A. Yes, that is it.
Q. Is that a photograph of the check?
A. Yes sir.
Q. I show you exhibit No. 26, do you recognize it as an endorsement on the check?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How did you get this check to Judge Berkey?
A. I mailed it to him.
Q. Was that all the money paid to judge Berkey about that time, or were there other moneys paid?
A. In regard to what other moneys paid? What other moneys?
Q. Did you pay him any other money about that time?
A. Yes I bought $500 of bonds.
Q. How did you pay the other $300?
A. Why, in cash.
Q. And when did you pay the $300?
A. I think it was on the 21st of May.
Q. The check is dated May 12th?
A. Yes I am all mixed up on that, I got the check at home, but I thought it was on the 20th.
Q. Will you tell the gentlemen of the Committee about how soon after you gave the $200 check that you gave him $300?
A. Why, the day after, when he came to Wimber, I think it was.
Q. What year was this?
A. 1924.

Q. This last May?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Now let us see whether we have the dates. You gave him a check for $200, and the day after that you gave him $300 in Wimber?
A. I think it was the day after when he came to Wimber. I mailed this $200.
Q. And the payment of $300 in cash was made at least a few days, if not the next day after?
A. Yes, I think so.
Q. Have you a second check?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Where was the $300 in cash paid?
A. Why, at our hotel.
Q. You were then keeping a hotel?
A. I am keeping one now.
Q. In what part of the hotel was it paid to him?
A. In the office.
Q. What was said when you paid him $300 in cash?
A. Why, there was nothing said at all no more than I was to get a bond.
Q. A bond of what company?
A. Why, the Somerset & Johnstown Street Railway Company.
Q. What was Mr. Berkey's connection with that company?
A. Well, I don't know. I think he was president of the company?
Q. When did you arrange to buy the bond?
A. Why, I arranged about the 7th of May, I think it was.
Q. About the 7th?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And at whose instance or suggestion did you arrange to buy the bond?
A. Well, Mr. Boyle asked me to buy the bond.
Q. That is William Boyle?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Was there anything said as to the price?
A. No sir.
Q. What bond was it, a $500 bond?
A. A $500 bond.
Q. And you paid the judge $500?
A. I paid him $500.
Q. Did you get the bond?
A. Yes, I have the bond at home, I forgot it.
Q. When did you get the bond?
A. Well, I couldn't just say what day I got the bond, but I got the bond anyhow.
Q. Shortly after that?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And from whom did you get the bond?
A. Why, from Billie Boyle.
Q. He brought it to you?
A. Yes sir.

By Mr. BIDELSPACHER:
Q. Who?
A. Billie Boyle.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Will you furnish to us the original check which you say you forgot?
A. Well, I can send it to you, is that all right, and the bond too, but I just forgot it.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: We will admit your photostatic copies in lieu of the originals.
Mr. GEYER: I offer in evidence this check dated May 13th, 1924, from John Sharkey to J. A. Berkey, in the amount of $200, and the endorsement of J. A. Berkey.
NO CROSS EXAMINATION.
WILLIAM BOYLE, a witness called in behalf of the complainant, being duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows on

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Are you the man referred to by the last witness as Billie Boyle?
A. I guess I am.
Q. Did you deliver to him a bond of the Johnstown & Somerset Railway Company?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Where did you get the bond?
A. Sent by Mr. Berkey to my residence.
Q. That is, by Judge Berkey?
A. Yes.
Q. And do you know about what time it was sent to him?
A. Well, I could not exactly give the date, but it was some time in the latter part of May I think.
Q. Of last year?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And you were asked to produce a check from yourself to Judge Berkey, dated May 7, 1924 in the amount of $100, did you find that particular check?
A. I didn't, no sir.
(Check dated May 7th, 1924, signed by William Boyle to J. A. Berkey, produced and marked complainant's exhibit No. 27).
(Endorsement on check marked exhibit No. 27 produced and marked exhibit No. 28).
Q. I show you a photographic copy, marked exhibit No. 27, of a check dated May 7th, 1924, by William Boyle to J. A. Berkey, do you recognize that?
A. I do, yes.
Q. Is that the copy of your signature?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And did you write that check?
A. Yes sir.
Q. I show you a photostatic copy of the endorsement marked exhibit No. 28, do you recognize that as a copy of the endorsement on the check when it came back?
A. I do, yes sir.
Q. Have you looked for that check, Mr. Boyle?
A. I certainly had that check returned from the bank when I had my bank book balanced, but in some way or other I lost those two checks, or mislaid them someway, but I know that I gave the checks.
Q. And you know that it came back to you endorsed by Judge Berkey?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Mr. Boyle, why did you give this check?
A. Because I owed it.
Q. For what?
A. For bonds that I bought.
Q. Bonds of what company?
A. Of the Somerset & Johnstown Street Railway Company.
Q. What connection had Judge Berkey with that company?
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: We will admit that Judge Berkey was the president of that company. That has been proven a million times, and that is only lumbering the record.
Mr. GEYER: No, if the Committee please, I think it may be material to show that the witness knew that at the time.
Mr. LUDLOW: I imagine the Governor would not object if you asked him whether the Judge, at the time of the sale, was the president.

By Mr. GEYER:
(Receipt dated May 7, 1924, signed by J. A. Berkey produced and marked complainants exhibit No. 29).
Q. I show you exhibit No. 29 being memorandum of the receipt of that same date which you produced, is that in Judge Berkey's handwriting?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And did you get that when you paid the $100?
A. I did, yes.
Q. How large or how big a bond did you buy?
A. I agreed to buy $1,000.

By Mr. BEIDLESPACHER:
Q. How much?
A. $1,000.
By Mr. GEYER:
Q. With whom did you agree to buy it?
A. Mr. Berkey.
Q. And when?
A. On or about November 21st.
Q. And from November 21st until May, 1924, did you pay anything on that bond?
A. No sir.
(Check dated May 7, 1924, signed by A. Marinelli to J. A. Berkey in the sum of $200 produced and marked complainants exhibit No. 30).
Mr. GEYER: May I withdrawn that again, I had another item in mind.

(Check dated May 28, 1924, signed by Wm. Boyle, to J. A. Berkey, in the sum of $200, produced and marked complainants exhibit No. 31).

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. I show you a check dated May 28, 1924, to the order of J. A. Berkey, marked exhibit No. 31, and ask you whether that is your signature to the check?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And turning over to the endorsement, are you familiar with the signature of Judge Berkey?
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: What is the amount of that check?
Mr. GEYER: $200.
The WITNESS: Yes.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Is that Judge Berkey's endorsement?
A. To the best of my knowledge it is.
Q. To whom did you give this check?
A. Judge Berkey.
Q. Where?
A. I believe it was in Mr. Sharkey's hotel.
Q. Where do you live?
A. Windber.
(Check dated June 20, 1924, signed by Wm. Boyle to J. A. Berkey, in the sum of $300 produced and marked complainants exhibit No. 32).
Q. I show you exhibit No. 32 being a check dated June 20, 1924, to J. A. Berkey in the amount of $300 signed Wm. Boyle—
A. Yes.
Q. Is that your check?
A. Yes.
Q. And turning to the back of it is that Judge Berkey's signature?
A. Yes.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: What date is that?
Mr. GEYER: June 20, 1924.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. When did you give this check?
A. I cannot exactly state where I made the check, I cannot just exactly state.
Q. But it was given to him personally?
A. Absolutely so, yes.
(Check dated July 9, 1924, signed by Wm. Boyle to J. A. Berkey in the sum of $100 produced and marked com plainants exhibit No. 33).

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. I show you exhibit No. 33 being check dated July 9, 1924, Wm. Boyle to J. A. Berkey for $100 and ask you whether that is your check?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And the endorsement is the endorsement of Judge Berkey?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Can you tell where you were when you gave that check?
A. I don't know so, sir, I am not in position to say where I met him.
Mr. BIEDLESPACHER: What is the amount of that check?
Mr. GEYER: $100, dated July 9, 1924.
(Check dated August 28, 1924, signed by Wm. Boyle to J. A. Berkey in the sum of $100 produced and marked complainants exhibit No. 34)
Q. I show you exhibit No. 34 being check dated August 28, 1924, to J. A. Berkey in the amount of $100 signed Wm. Boyle, is that your check?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And the endorsement is the endorsement of Judge Berkey?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And do you recall when you gave him that?
A. No sir, I didn't keep any memorandum of where I met the Judge at any time.
Q. These checks, the first a photostat of May 7th, for $100, the second of May 28th for $200, the third of June 20, 1924, for $300, making $600, the fourth of July 9, for $100, the fifth of August 8th, for $100, making a total payment of $800, did you pay any more money than represented by these checks?
A. I paid $1,000 in all.
Q. That is you paid $200 in addition to these checks.
A. Yes sir.
Q. Do you know when you paid the $200?
A. I don't.
Q. Mr. Sharkey says that you suggested to him that he buy bonds?
A. I did, yes.
Q. When was that?
A. Well, sometime in May.
Q. Of 1924?
A. 1924, yes.

CROSS-EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Mr. Boyle, Did you have a photostatic copy made of that check?
A. I didn't.
Q. Who did?
A. I don't know.
Q. To whom did you give the check?
A. To Mr. GEYER.
Q. When?
A. Last evening, he requested that and I gave the check to him.
Q. I mean the check from which the photostatic copy is made?
A. I don't know what he done with my check.
Q. I mean that the photostastic copy is made of?
A. I never gave any checks until last evening when they called me to the office.
Q. Until last evening?
A. At the adjournment here.
Q. I ask you where the check is or to whom you gave the check from which this photostatic copy is made?
A. I didn't give him this check, I didn't have it myself.
Q. Do you know how that was made?
A. I don't know, sir.
Q. Do you know how it got out of your possession?
A. No sir.
Q. Did you ever deliver it to anybody?
A. No sir.
Q. So that the copy was made without any authority and without your delivering it to anybody.
A. Without the original copy of the check.
Q. You knew nothing about it?
A. Nothing at all about it.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. There is no controversy between yourself and myself, I have produced all the checks you gave me?
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: I am not saying that.
Mr. GEYER: You insinuated.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. I produced all the checks that you gave me last night?
A. Yes, with the exception of this (indicating photographic copy of check). I don't know anything at all about this copy.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. That is to say last night you gave Mr. Geyer four checks?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And that one (indicating photostatic copy of check) you don't know anything about you never authorized anybody to make a photostatic copy of it?
A. No sir.
Q. That was taken away from you without any authority?
A. I never produced this check.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. You produced to me last night under the same date, which is here, didn't you?
A. The receipt of the $100 check that I gave, yes, but not the check.
Mr. GEYER: I understand.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: I am not disputing that, Mr. Geyer. I asked him how the check got out of his possession in order that you might have a photostatic copy made of it.
The WITNESS: It never got out of my possession. I have got it in my possession some place in the house right now.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Did you never give it to anybody to photostat?
A. No sir, I didn't.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. But you did give the original to Judge Berkey?
A. I did, I owed it to him and I paid what I owed.
Q. Mr. Boyle, who was Tony Orlando?
A. He works for me.
Q. He was your bartender.
A. Yes sir.
Q. And he was your bartender on the 7th of May, 1924, was he not?
A. Yes sir.
Mr. GEYER: Those are all the questions we have.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: All right, that is all.
The WITNESS. May I have those checks.
Mr. LUDLOW: Will Mr. Boyle stay a little awhile until we see what the testimony is going to develop?
Mr. GEYER: Yes.
Mr. LUDLOW: And Mr. Sharkey, too.
Mr. GEYER: Yes.
The CHAIRMAN: Do you want to offer these?
Mr. GEYER: Certified copies of the record. I offer in evidence certified copy of the record to 118, May sessions, 1924, in the court of quarter sessions of Somerset County, showing a charge in the case of William Boyle and Tony Orlando, violation on the charge of Charles I. Knepper.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: Of course, there is one thing, we are entitled to and that is to see the papers, before counsel on the other side offers it in evidence.
Mr. GEYER: Gentlemen, if I am required—
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: We are entitled to see the paper.
Mr. GEYER: Pardon me, I didn't interrupt you. I think when I offer a certified copy of the record which proves itself, I am entitled to offer it without first showing it to the other side, as I would if I were offering a paper to which they might make objection.
Mr. WITKIN: Would it not be just as easy to show it to counsel before?
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: Whether it is a certified copy or not.
Mr. STADTLANDER: I think counsel on the other side have a perfect right to see a paper to see whether it is properly authenticated.
Mr. GEYER: I am perfectly willing to let them see it.
The CHAIRMAN: You may read that into the record, but let them see it before you offer it and carry it into the record.
(Mr. Geyer handed papers to Mr. Beidleman).
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: If your honors please, I object to this as not being a certified copy of the record. It is a copy of the docket entries and does not contain the indictment, information or anything else. It is simply a certified copy of the docket entries. If you want to show a record we are entitled to have the record.
Mr. GEYER: I submit we are not required to show for any purpose not relevant all of the proceedings which were had, if we show the docket entries, show the date of prosecution, charge and the sentence.
The CHAIRMAN: Mr. Beidleman, these papers only purport to be a certified copy of the docket entries. The certificate on the second page signed by the clerk of the court of quarter sessions is simply a certificate that the foregoing is a true and correct copy of the docket entry as the same remains of record before the court.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: Mr. Geyer, offered it as a certified copy of the record. It is a certified copy of the docket entries, and it is not a fair thing to ask you gentlemen to make an inference from this testimony, from these docket entries, when the record itself disclosed just what took place.
The CHAIRMAN: We would only give it consideration to the extent that it was a docket entry, and if there is any better evidence that that he should produce it. In the transcript of the records on the docket they have merely made a motion and that is all we have before us. This is an outline of the case.
Mr. GEYER: This is for the purpose of showing that at the time he bought the bonds and made these payments his bartender was under prosecution, to which he plead guilty for violation of the law and was sentenced by Judge Berkey.
Mr. OWLETT. There is absolutely nothing on the record to show when he bought these bonds?
Mr. GEYER: Let us argue one matter at a time. The question now is whether the certified copies of docket entries are evidence.
Mr. OWLETT. I am merely correcting a mis-statement of yours.
The CHAIRMAN: If the docket entries are admissible, if Mr. Beidleman wants to produce the whole record he can do it. We will admit that as a docket entry which it purports to be.
Mr. STADTLANDER: Mr. Geyer, you correct your statement then that it is a copy of the docket entries instead of a certified copy of the records.
Mr. GEYER: This is 112, May sessions, 1924, and inadvertently I said, "record", it is "the docket entry" and not the complete record.
The CHAIRMAN: I would read into the record that it is a certified copy of the docket entry.
Mr. GEYER: This purports to be a certified copy of the docket entry as the same remains of record before the court at No. 118, May sessions, 1924, certified by the clerk of the court under the seal of the court.
The CHAIRMAN: Against what defendants was it?
Mr. GEYER: William Boyle and Tony Orlando.
It shows an information made on April 19, 1924, on the oath of Charles I. Knapper. On April 24, 1924, William Boyle discharged for lack of evidence. On April 24, 1924, Tony Orlando and Andrew Timko enter in their recognizance in the sum of $1,000 for appearance of defendant at May Sessions, 1924. On April 25th, 1924, the information and return filed. On April 30th, 1924, Grand Jury return true bill on all counts. On May 15, 1924, defendant pleads guilty et de hoc whereupon the court imposed the following sentence: now, 15th day of May 1924, the sentence of the court is that you pay the costs of prosecution, a fine of $100, and that you stand committed in the custody of the high sheriff of Somerset County until discharged by due course of law.
(Certified copy of docket entry to No. 118, May sessions, 1924, in the case of Commonwealth against William Boyle and Tony Orlando produced and marked complainants exhibit No. 35).
(Certified copy of docket entry to No. 113,September sessions, 1922, in the case of Commonwealth against John Ott and William Boyle produced and marked complainants exhibit No. 36).
Mr. GEYER: I next offer in evidence a certified copy of the docket entries in the court of quarter sessions of Somerset County to No. 113, September sessions, 1922, in the case of Commonwealth against John Ott and William Boyle on the charge of violation of the liquor law, which discloses, and I pass by the intermediate entries, that on September 7, 1922, defendants plead guilty to the first count in this bill. Whereupon the court imposes the following sentence: Now, the seventh day of September, 1922, the sentence of the court is that you pay the costs of prosecution and that you stand committed in the custody of the high sheriff of Somerset County until discharged by due course of law.
Mr. WITKIN. What date is that?
Mr. GEYER: 1922, I don't recall the date.
Mr. MOFFATT: September 7, 1922.
(Certified copy of docket entry to No. 50, May sessions, 1922, in the case of Commonwealth against William Boyle produced and marked complainants exhibit No. 37).
Mr. GEYER: I next offer in evidence the certified copy of the docket entries to No. 50, May sessions, 1922, in the case of Commonwealth against William Boyle, charge violation of the liquor laws, which discloses the following: on May 4, 1922, case called for trial; jury selected, sworn or affirmed, and after hearing evidence on charge in court said jury returned verdict finding the defendant, William Boyle, guilty in manner and form as indicated. On May 8, 1922, motion to arrest judgment presented and filed, and a rule at bar returnable the first Monday of June, 1922. Same day motion for new trial presented and filed, a rule at bar returnable first Monday of June, 1922, argument docket page 217, September 7, 1922, rule dismissed and following sentence imposed: and Now the 7th day of September, 1922, the sentence of the court is that you pay the costs of prosecution and stand committed in the custody of the high sheriff discharged by due course of law.
Mr. WITKIN: Is that exhibit 36?
Mr. GEYER: That is exhibit No. 37.
(Certified copy of docket entry to No. 41, December sessions, 1923, in the case of Commonwealth against William O. Boyle and Joseph Orlando, produced and marked complainants exhibit No. 38).
Mr. BIDELSPACHER. Is that William O. Boyle?

Mr. GEYER: Yes.

The CHAIRMAN: Is it the same man?

Mr. GEYER: I think so, but I will recall him if there is any question about it.

Mr. GEYER: I further offer in evidence certified copy of the docket entries of the court of quarter sessions of Somerset County, to No. 41, December sessions, 1923, against William O. Boyle and Joseph Orlando, showing the charge made, and the defendant and John Sharkey enter into their recognizance in the sum of $2,000 for their appearance of the defendant at the December sessions, 1923. On October 13, 1923, R. R. Myers, counsel for defendant, presented a petition praying the court to refuse to permit the district attorney to use or attempt to use as evidence before the grand jury or petitit jury any of the articles seized by illegal search warrant. Now, October 13, 1923, rule at bar rule returnable October 13, 1923, J. L. Berkey, see argument docket volume 1, page 264. October 13, 1923, answer to petition filed, November 7, 1923, petition of defendant for withdrawal of bench warrant granted and filed. November 8, 1923, withdrawal allowed. November 26, 1923, grand jury returns true bill, H. R. Kretchman, foreman. December 13, 1923, on motion of district attorney, recognizance of each defendant forfeited in open court, and respited to February sessions, 1924. December 15, 1923, on motion of district attorney case continued to February sessions, 1924. February 9, 1924, defendant plead guilty et de hoc whereupon the court imposed the following sentence: now, the 11th day of February, 1924, the sentence of the court is that you pay the costs of prosecution, a fine of $100, and that you stand committed in the custody of the high sheriff of Somerset County until discharged by due course of law.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. Mr. Boyle, there was a certain proceeding in court in which a sentence was imposed in February, 1924, upon William O. Boyle and Joseph Orlando. Are you the William O. Boyle?

A. My name is not "O. Boyle".

Q. Are you the defendant that appeared in court that day in answer to that charge?

A. I was the defendant in court.

Q. You were found guilty and fined $100?

A. I was.

Q. In February, 1924?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And who was Joseph Orlando?

A. He was my bartender.

By Mr. LUDLOW:

Q. Is he the same man who was arrested with you on the other occasions?

A. Yes sir.

Q. So that the other records referring to him as Tony Orlando, Tony Orlando was the same man?

A. Yes sir. Pardon me, but as I understood the attorney here to say that I was under indictment when I bought those bonds, that is not so. I agreed to buy those bonds in 1921, in November, and I was not living in Somerset County at the time when I agreed to buy those bonds.

Q. With whom did you agree to buy those bonds?

A. With Judge Berkey in Johnstown.

Q. But you didn't pay anything on account until you had been arrested three times and found guilty a couple of times?

A. No, the reason, I didn't pay was that my mother died, and financially I was not in a position to pay anything on the bonds.

By Mr. WITKIN:

Q. Did you ever buy any more bonds than what you agreed to pay for in 1921?

A. No sir.

By Mr. LUDLOW:

Q. When did you actually get the $1,000 bond?

A. I got two $500 bonds.

Q. When did you get the first one?

A. I got both of them together.

Q. When?

A. In the month of May.

Q. 1924?

A. 1924.

By The CHAIRMAN:

Q. When did you ask John Sharkey to buy bonds from Judge Berkey?

A. Well, I believe it was in the forepart of May.

Q. What year?

A. 1924.

Q. That was after you had been arrested several times and your case disposed of?

A. No, my case had not been disposed of at that time, that one case.

Q. One case you were arrested in 1922, another one in 1922, and the other one in 1923?

A. Yes.

By Mr. LUDLOW:

Q. Sharkey was on your bond in your last case, wasn't he?

A. Yes sir.

By The CHAIRMAN:

Q. You had been arrested three times then prior to the time you asked John Sharkey to purchase bonds?

A. No, twice only, I think?

Q. At least twice?

A. Yes sir.

CROSS EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:

Q. These cases for which you were prosecuted were beer cases were they not?

A. Yes sir.

Q. They were so-called near beer cases?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And in the case that was brought against you in 1924 the alderman discharged you there for lack of evidence, didn't he?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And you were not called upon to answer in the court in 1924?

A. No sir.

Q. That case was never returned?

A. Not in that case.

Q. And when you did appear in court in February, 1924, to answer the cases brought against you in 1923 the court imposed a fine of $100 and costs in that case?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Do you know whether or not that was the uniform sentence imposed by the court at that time?

Mr. GEYER: We object, if your honors please, how could this witness know what the uniform sentence was.

The CHAIRMAN: I don't imagine that that is hardly a fair question, because he would not be supposed to know, not being a court official and not being in court at all times, although he was frequently arrested.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: Well, people know what is going on, and it has been my experience in my own court that people keep in closer touch than some of us who are practicing law.

Mr. WITKIN: Suppose you ask him if he knows, first.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:

Q. Do you know whether or not this was the uniform sentence at that time in so-called near beer cases?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Do you know whether or not the district attorney consented to this sentence at that time?

A. He did, yes.

Q. The district attorney appeared in court and agreed to it, didn't he?

A. Yes sir.

Q. That was so in the other case, was it not?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And they were two different district attorneys, were they not?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And each of the two district attorneys appeared in open court and agreed that this is the sentence that should be imposed?

A. Yes sir.

Q. At whose instance, Mr. Boyle, did you come here?

A. Why, the deputy sheriff subpoenaed me.

Q. Who had seen you before that time?

A. No one.

By The CHAIRMAN:
Q. Mr. Boyle, you said that these sentences were imposed with the consent of the district attorney. Is it customary in your county, in cases of this kind, for the Judge to consult with the district attorney before imposing sentences in cases where you enter a plea or where you are convicted?
A. I think so. I have seen it done several times where they both conferred together.
Q. In regard to the imposition of the sentence?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Where did this conversation take place?
A. Well, at one time before the open court.
Q. Discussed in court?
A. Yes sir.

ANGELO MARINELLA, a witness called in behalf of the complainant being duly sworn was examined and testified as follows on

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Mr. Marinella, where do you live?
A. Windber.
Q. I show you a check, heretofore marked exhibit No. 30, dated May 7, 1924, in the amount of $200 to the order of J. A. Berkey, purporting to be signed by A. Marinella, do you recognize this check?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Is that your signature?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Do you know the signature of Judge Berkey?
A. No sir.
Q. Was this check returned to you in due course through the banks?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What did you give this check for?
A. We bought a $500 bond for the lodge.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. For what.
A. For the lodge.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. What was the lodge?
A. The Loyal Order of Moose, Windber lodge.
Q. This is a personal check, can you explain that?
A. I had $200 of the lodge funds in my possession, and I didn't want to carry the money with me. My lodge books were at home and to facilitate matters I just gave my personal check and appropriated the $200, and deposited it in my name.
Q. Did you see Judge Berkey yourself?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Where?
A. Upstairs in the lodge room.
Q. He is a member of the lodge?
A. Not that I know, not of our lodge.
Q. When did you see him?
A. About 8:00 o'clock at night.
Q. On this same day?
A. Yes, the same day.
Q. What conversation did you have with him?
A. Well, not much of a conversation. I know that we had a discussion in the lodge of buying a $500 bond.
Q. When did you discuss that?
A. I don't remember, one or two evenings before, that would be three or four weeks.
Q. It had not been discussed within three or four weeks before the check was given?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What were you to pay for the bond?
A. $500.
Q. What denomination bond were you to get?
A. We bought one $500 bond.
Q. And paid $500 for it?
A. No, we didn't pay $500, we are supposed to pay $500.
Q. How much did you pay for it?
A. $250 altogether.
Q. How was the balance of the $500 paid or secured?
A. We gave him a note, I believe, for the balance which was $300.
Q. Does he hold that note, or have you notice that it has been negotiated by the bank?
A. I got notice from the Addison Bank of Somerset County to make payment on it and I paid $50 on it for the lodge.
Q. And you paid $50 on it at that time to the bank?
A. Yes sir.
Q. I believe at that time your lodge was building a home?
A. No sir, we were talking about building a home.
Q. And when you bought the bond you gave the check for $200 and a note for $300?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Did your lodge run a bar?
A. Yes, we sell near bear, cigars and candy.
Q. Did you have any check on the analysis of your near beer?
A. Not that I know of.

Mr. GEYER: I offer in evidence this check marked exhibit No. 30.

NO CROSS EXAMINATION.

(Certified copy of Docket entry in the case of Commonwealth against John Sharkey, to No. 14 December Sessions, 1921, produced and marked complainant's exhibit No. 39).

(Certified copy of docket entry in the case of Commonwealth against John Sharkey to No. 39 December Sessions, 1923, produced and marked complainant's exhibit No. 40).

Mr. GEYER: I offer in evidence certified copy of the docket entries in the case of Commonwealth against John Sharkey, to No. 14 December sessions, 1921, showing that upon November 7, 1921, defendant waived the finding of a true bill by the Grand Jury, and plead guilty to the indictment, whereupon the Court imposed the following sentence: Now, the 7th day of November, 1921, sentence of the Court is that you pay the costs of prosecution, and that you stand committed in the custody of the high Sheriff of Somerset County until discharged by due course of law.

The CHAIRMAN: What was the charge in that case?

Mr. GEYER: The charge was selling liquor without a license.

I also offer in evidence a certified copy of docket entries in the case of Commonwealth against John Sharkey to No. 39 December Sessions, 1923, charge violation of liquor laws, which discloses the following entry: November 28th, 1923, defendant pleads guilty to sale of beer, whereupon the Court imposed the following sentence; now, 28th day of November, 1923, the sentence of the Court is that you pay the costs of prosecution, a fine of $100, and that you stand committed in the custody of the high sheriff of Somerset County until discharged by due course of law. December 8th, 1923, petition of district attorney praying the Court to order the destruction of 8 barrels of beer presented and oder made as follows: December 8, 1923, the above petition having been read and considered, the Court orders and direts the Sheriff of Somerset County to destroy all intoxicating liquor seized, as described in the petition, and to make return to the Court of compliance with this order. By the Court, December 14, 1923, I caused the following property to be destroyed; 8 barrels of beer. So answers John W. Griffith, Sheriff.

Mr. WITKIN: I may say at this time that I personally am interested, and I presume some of the other members of the committee are, in ascertaining whether or not any other liquor cases were brought before Judge Berkey in which the defendants were people who had not bought or purchased any bonds, the sentences were greater or whether they were not, or whether there was any marked difference between the sentences imposed in those cases, and the sentences imposed in cases where the persons who were defendants had bought bonds or had agreed to buy bonds. It seems to me, and I am just giving you my opinion, so that you may be governed in the production of your testimony, I think it is very important that we should know whether or not the inference here, there is no question about it that is being drawn, perhaps correctly or perhaps incorrectly is that the paties who bought bonds had got light sentences and were released from custody. It appears to me that that ought to be followed in the proper pursuance of the case by evidence of what was done in a large number of othe liquor cases tried by Judge Berkey. Of course, there are other cases similar in character, there is, no doubt about it. That is just my view, and my statement in the matter. The rest of the committee may or may not agree with me, I have not taken it up with them. A Judge's sentence in a case is a matter of discretion. An impeachable offense is not proper use of his discretion it is abuse of discretion, and to a certain degree not in accordance with the law. Now in order to show an abuse of discretion, and in order to show that a judge who is sitting on the bench was influenced by the fact that bonds were bought by people who were arrested and brought before him for trial, why then it appears to me that the only way to show that is not by the mere presentation of a record showing a man was fined and paid the costs, that may be in Judge's leniency at heart; it may be that the facts presented before him make him think that that is the proper sentence. The whole purpose is to show that when a person bought a bond they were brought before him for sentence and that sentence of the court was a fine and that they were discharged or something to that effect. Now, it appears to me that it is not merely a case of presenting the matter in the presentation of the case by the prosecutor, or whatever name you might call the persons presenting this case, it is presenting testimony to show that there was a difference in this case than in other cases where parties had purchased or had not purchased bonds. I personally feel that this is very important, and if you have the information or can procure it I would be very much interested to have.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: We have the district attorney here, and we have a number of the members of the bar to show just exactly what you ask.

Mr. GEYER: May I reply? I expect to have evidence showing just what happened to people who refused to buy bonds. Further, may I suggest, replying to your suggestion, that you mistake, in part, our purpose. We are showing, here, as we believe, defendants who have been recently and are about to come into court for adjudication b- this Judge, and we are showing the Judge selling to them securities at their face, which have a market value of much less, and we need not show anything which amounts to absolute bribery if we show such a course of conduct as brings the administration of the law by that Judge who deals with the litigants into disrepute, then we have brought ourselves squarely within the Judge Archbald case.

Mr. WITKIN: You and I may have different views as to what is necessary. In order to follow up this line of evidence, I am not talking about other lines of evidence, but there has been produced evidence in the answer of the witnesses that a lot of people bought bonds at face value, bankers had customers of all kinds, men of all ranks in the community who bought bonds—

Mr. GEYER: In 1921.

Mr. WITKIN: Well at various dates. You may be more familiar with that than I am, but in this particular line of testimony it seems to me that in order to make it stand out that you ought to follow it, now, you may or you may not follow it, it is merely a suggestion of mine—

The CHAIRMAN: Mr. Beidleman says that he proposes to furnish the very information that you are asking for, so I suggest that we proceed.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: I would suggest that we have a number of members of the bar here, and the district attorney is also here, both district attorneys, the district attorneys who served during the entire encumbency of Judge Berkey.

The CHAIRMAN: I understand you will meet that suggestion he has raised. Let us proceed on with the case.

J. H. LEIGHTY a witness called in behalf of the complainant being duly affirmed was examined and testified as follows on

DIRECT EXAMINATION

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. Where do you live, Mr. Leighty?

A. Rockwood, Pa.

Q. What is your business?

A. Hotel.

Q. What hotel do you keep there?

A. I run the Merchant's Hotel.

Q. Were you arrested on January 16, 1922 on a charge of violation of the liquor law?

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: January when?

Mr. GEYER: January 16th.

A. January, you say?

Q. Yes.

A. Possibly it was around about that time, I cannot just remember.

Q. And when the case came to court in January, 1922, did you plead guilty?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And were sentenced to pay the costs?

A. Yes sir.

Q. You were again arrested in April, 1922, on the same charge?

A. I believe so.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: When?

Mr. GEYER: April, 1922.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. And on October 22nd, you plead guilty to the charge, didn't you?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And you were again sentenced to pay the costs?

A. Yes sir.

Q. That is right?

A. Yes sir.

Q. On June 22, 1922, an injunction was obtained against you restraining you from selling liquor on the premises, wasn't it?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And that case came up for a hearing and on June 26th, 1922, just a few days after that, you were arrested on an attachment for violating the injunction, were you not?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Then you came to a hearing on June 30, 1922, on the charge that you had continued to sell after the injunction was granted, that is so?

A. That was the same day it was served on me, I finished up the day, the 22nd of June, I think.

Q. On July 31, 1922, there was a hearing before Judge Berkey, wasn't there?

A. I believe so.

Q. And you were then sentenced to pay a fine of $500, and to pay the costs of the fifteen witnesses, and the cost of the procedeeding, and the court ordered that if you paid the witnesses you did not need to pay the fine, is that so?

(No answer)

Q. Well you were fined $500 and the costs in that proceeding, were you not?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And you never paid the $500 fine, did you?

A. I don't think I was fined $500. The best of my recollection I was fined $100 and paid the fine.

By Mr. WITKIN:

Q. Who granted the injunction in your case?

A. Judge Berkey.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. Have you any bonds of the Johnstown & Somerset Railway Company?

A. Yes sir.

Q. How many?

A. I have $1000 I think.

Q. When did you pay for them?

A. I have a $1000, I believe, shares and bonds, and I paid for them in 1921.

Q. Did you buy any after that?

A. No sir.

Q. Did you buy them in November, 1921?

A. I bought them in September, 1921.

Q. 1921?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Paid cash for them?

A. No, I gave notes.

Q. When did you pay the notes?

A. I paid the notes when they came due, six months from the time they were given.

Mr. BIDLESPACHER: There is no evidence as to what he plead guilty to, what charge he plead guilty to in open court on January 16?

Mr. GEYER: Violation of the Liquor law.

The WITNESS: That was selling near beer. I was never arrested for selling liquor, never in my life. Under the Woner Act I didn't dare sell anything, I believe, according to law, could not sell anything, not even less than one-half of one percent, and under those conditions—

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:

Q. Mr. Leighty, there was a dispute as to whether or not you could sell near beer without a license.

A. There was a dispute at that time.

Q. And those cases arose on prosecutions for violations, and the question was whether or not, by reason of the condition of the law, it was necessary to take out a license to sell near beer?
A. Yes sir.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. You had been selling near beer without a license?
A. It was done pretty much all over the country. It was simply a dispute—
Q. Had you been selling near beer without a license?
A. Near beer, that was under the Woner Act, and according to the law at that time you did not dare sell even less than one-half of one percent.
Q. The indictment didn't charge you with selling near beer?
A. Liquor.
Q. But you plead guilty to the indictment?
A. I never sold liquor.
Q. You were not indicted for selling near beer without a license, were you?
A. I was, yes. That is what this charge should read.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. That is probably so, but it is a violation of the liquor law?
A. At that time under the Woner Act we didn't dare sell even near beer.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. Then both of these charges were for selling near beer without a license.
A. Yes, I was never arrested for selling liquor, moonshine.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: At that time there was a dispute in the courts that to sell near beer you had to have a license; other courts permitted the sale of near beer without a license. Then you got the Act of 1923 that abolished the whole proposition, and now anybody can sell near beer.

By the CHAIRMAN:
Q. You bought these bonds in September, 1921?
A. In September, 1921.
Q. A thousand dollars worth?
A. $1000, yes, I gave four $250 notes.
Q. That is what I want to ask you about, how many notes you had given?
A. When they came due they were lifted.
Q. Were they, all four, payable in six months, or did they expire in six months time?
A. Yes, at the expiration of six months.
Q. All four became due then about March, 1922?
A. Yes, I think so, I think it was about March 6th.
Q. Did you pay the $1,000 in March, 1922 when they matured?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You were first arrested in January, 1922?
A. Arrested in January, I believe January 1st.

CROSS EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Mr. Leighty, how long have you kept a hotel?
A. I have been in the hotel business in Rockwood since, 1903, the first of July, 1903.
Q. In 1903?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You never had any trouble until you were arrested on this charge of selling near beer without a license?
A. No sir, never was, never in no trouble.
Q. From whom did you purchase those bonds?
A. I purchased them from,—well, he was a salesman, an agent, you may say an agent for the Somerset & Johnstown Railway Company. I cannot speak his name now, as near as I know it was on the notes or some writings I have.

By Mr. BIDELSPACHER:
Q. Did I understand you to say that you paid those notes in full when they became due?
A. Yes sir.
ELLA BARR, a witness called in behalf of the complainant's, being duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows on

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Do you own a hotel in Somerset?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What is the name of the hotel?
A. Somerset house.
Q. Do you have a bar?
A. I have, but I rent it.
Q. Whom do you rent it to?
A. (Witness addressing Mr. Norman Berkey, what is his name) William Dietz.
Q. How long have you rented it to him?
A. About a year.
Q. Had you known him before that time?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How does it happen that you don't recall his name?
A. I never can keep that man's name. When I have to call for him I have got to ask somebody his name.
Q. Before you rented did you run it yourself?
A. Yes sir.
Q. I believe it was closed for awhile?
A. Yes, it was closed for awhile.
Q. Who closed it?
A. Why, I guess, Judge Berkey.
Q. And then it was opened again?
A. Yes, I opened it myself.
Q. Did Judge Berkey permit you to open it?
A. No sir.
Q. Did he do anything after you opened it again?
A. How do you mean do anything?
Q. You say he closed your bar.
A. Well, I had rented it to a Billy Bills and he closed it.
Q. And then you opened it yourself?
A. I opened it myself.
Q. There was nothing said about your opening it?
A. No sir.
Q. How long was it closed?
A. I don't recollect how long it was closed.
Q. Four months?
A. No, I guess about six.
Q. When did you open it?
A. I don't recollect the day any more.
Q. What year?
A. About three years ago, I suppose.
Q. About three years ago. Have you any bonds of the Johnstown and Somerset Railway Company?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How many?
A. $5000 - $6000.
Q. When did you get them?
A. Well, I bought them when that man was around, Mr. McQuade, the agent.
Q. Anybody solicit you to buy them?
A. No sir.
Q. No one at all?
A. Not more than I bought them from the agent, Mr. McQuade.
Q. Was any representation made to you why you should buy them?
A. No sir.
Q. Think a minute. Did you make any statements to any persons that there were representations made?
A. No sir.
Q. You have not?
A. No sir.
Q. Is Judge Berkey indebted to you?
A. No sir.
Q. In any amount?
A. No sir.
Q. Do you have a $2,100 note against Judge Berkey?
A. A $2,100 note?
Q. Yes?
A. That is on the bonds.
Q. No, don't look back there look this way. Don't you hold a $2,100 note against Judge Berkey?
A. A private account?
Q. Yes madam.
A. Yes sir.
Q. What was that for, Mrs. Bair?
A. Well, I just loaned it to him.
Q. When?
A. I don't just recall the date.
Q. That is in addition to the bonds?
A. No indeed, it is not in addition at all to the bonds.
Q. You bought $5,000 worth?
A. $6,000.

Q. No, look here. Look at the gentleman above there, they are better looking. You bought $6,000 of bonds from McQuade?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And you paid for them?
A. Yes sir.
Q. In cash?
A. No, I paid every three months $500.
Q. And did you give notes?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And did you pay those notes?
A. Yes sir.
Q. All of the $6,000?
A. Yes sir.
Q. In addition to that you have Judge Berkey's note for $2,100?
A. Yes, that one is a private note.
Q. What are the bonds? Are the bonds a hotel transaction?
A. Well that was the bonds.
Q. That was a hotel transaction was it?
A. No, I don't know, it belongs to myself, I don't know what you would call it.
Q. Why did you say the note was a private transaction?
A. Well, it was not in connection with the bonds.
Q. It was not?
A. No sir.
Q. Did you loan him $2,100?
A. Yes, on a loan?
Q. When?
A. I don't remember the date.
Q. How long ago?
A. I really could not tell you unless I look at the note.
Q. Have you got the note?
A. I have, at home.
Q. Is it one year or two years?
A. (Turning to Mr. Norman Berkey. How long is it Mr. Berkey?.
The CHAIRMAN: He is not testifying in the case. We will call him if it is necessary.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. You were subpoenaed to produce that note?
A. Not my private affairs, I was only supposed to bring my street car line bonds.
Q. Mrs. Bair who is the gentleman you turn to in the room?
A. Nobody but Mr. Berkey over there, he always took care of my business, Mr. Norman Berkey.
Q. Is he related to Judge Berkey?
A. No sir—oh, I don't know if he is or not.
Q. Did he transact all of your business?
A. He is my clerk and he attends to all of my affairs.
Q. You have been with him all the time since you came down here, haven't you?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You have been with him all the time since you came down here?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Give us your best recollection when you gave Judge Berkey this $2,100?
A. I could not unless I have the note.
Q. Is it a year?
A. I suppose so.
Q. Is it two years?
A. I really cannot tell you unless I see the note.
Q. Has he paid any interest on it?
A. No sir.
Q. Has he paid anything on the account of the principle?
A. No sir.
Q. Isn't it in that book? Have you any security for the note?
A. No sir.
Q. Is it more than three years ago that you loaned him $2,100?
A. I really could not tell you unless I had the note. I would not like to say, I don't know unless I see the note.
Q. Had you loaned him any money before that time?
A. No sir.
Q. Who arranged this loan of $2,100?
A. Nobody but myself.
Q. Where?
A. In the hotel.
Q. How did it come about?
A. I don't recollect.
Q. What was the conversation, did he ask you or did you ask him?
A. Well, I had Mr. Berkey, transact all my business.
Q. That is you had Norman Berkey transact all of your business?
A. Norman Berkey transacted all my business; he can tell you more about it than I can.
Q. Do you know Brinker Jones?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Do you know John H. Bender?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Did you have a conversation with them about your financial dealings with Judge Berkey?
A. No sir, I never did.
Q. You did not?
A. No sir.
Q. Did you have any conversation with any other people about your financial relations with Judge Berkey?
A. No sir, nobody but Mr. Norman Berkey.
Q. You never talked to any of the other people?
A. No sir.
Mr. GEYER: If the Committee please, we have evidently an unwilling witness.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: You really have been cross examining her with leading questions.
Mr. GEYER: May I submit that this is a matter which we feel is properly for the committee to do the examining, after you determine the course of action in the Bordeczewski case.
Mr. WITKIN: Do you want to cross examine?
Mr. GEYER: I should like to show under the hearsay evidence rule, for the purpose of refreshing her recollection just what she at that time stated this transaction was.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: That is objected to. Whom do you want to offer for that purpose?
Mr. GEYER: Mr. Bender and the other gentleman whose name I have mentioned.
The CHAIRMAN: Are they present?
Mr. GEYER: They were subpoenaed.
Mr. WITKIN: Have you finished with this witness, Mr. Beidleman has the opportunity to cross examine.

CROSS EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Mrs. Bair you are the proprietor of a hotel, where?
A. Somerset.
Q. That is the leading hotel in the town of Somerset?
A. I don't know that.
The CHAIRMAN: Mr. Beidleman, would you mind taking up your cross-examination after the recess?
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: Surely.
The CHAIRMAN: The Committee is due in House now,
WHEREUPON, at 10:20 o'clock A. M., the CHAIRMAN declared a recess to meet after the adjournment of the House.

SENATE CAUCUS ROOM.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

And now, the hour of 3:00 o'clock P. M., having arrived, the committee met pursuant to adjournment.
Members of the committee present.
Chairman MARSHALL presiding.

ELLA BAIR re-called.
DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Mrs. Bair, you are keeping the only hotel in Somerset?
A. No sir.
Q. Who else does?
A. The Venear and the Belmont.
Q. They have bars?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How long have they had bars?
A. I really could not tell you that.
Q. Have you talked to Judge Berkey about this matter since you were subpoenaed for this hearing?
A. No sir.
Q. When last did you see him?
A. I have not seen Judge Berkey for a month or more.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. How long?
A. A month.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: A month or more.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. When did you last see him in your hotel to your knowledge?
A. I suppose about a month.
Q. Did you see him there within the last week?
A. No, I didn't.
Mr. GEYER: Does the committee have any questions of the witness.
The CHAIRMAN: When we adjourned, Mr. Beidleman had started his cross-examination.

CROSS EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Mrs. Bair, what is your hotel property worth?
A. About $80,000.
Q. Is there anything against it?
A. No sir.
Q. How long have you owned it?
A. I really could not tell you, I suppose about five years.
Q. Following the sale of Judge Berkey's home by himself he and his family lived at your hotel, did they not?
A. They lived there two months, about a year ago I suppose.
Q. Did his entire family live in your hotel?
A. Yes, Mr. and Mrs. Berkey.
Q. Mr. and Mrs. Berkey lived there about six months?
A. Well, maybe it was six months, I just cannot recall.
Q. I understood you to say that you bought these bonds from salesmen in 1921?
A. I suppose it was about 1921, I suppose about four years ago.
Q. There was a campaign on at that time to sell bonds, wasn't there?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And you bought during the period of that campaign?
A. Yes sir.

By Mr. LUDLOW:
Q. Was Judge Berkey on the bench when you bought those bonds?
A. I cannot tell you that, if he was or not. I bought them of a salesman.
F. J. SPRINGER a witness called in behalf of the complainant being duly sworn was examined and testified as follows on

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. What is your middle letter, "J"?
A. J.
Q. Are you sometimes known as F. C. Springer?
A. No sir.
Q. Or F. G. Springer?
A. No sir.
Q. What is your business Mr. Springer?
A. Hotel proprietor.
Q. Where?
A. Holsopple.
Q. How long have you been operating that hotel?
A. About a year and a half.
Q. What did you do before that?
A. I was boss roller in the Cambria Steel Mill.
Q. Have you any bonds in the Johnstown and Somerset Street Railway Company?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How many?
A. Three.
Q. Totaling what amount?
A. $700.
Q. From whom did you buy them?
A. From C. C. Smucker.
Q. What is his connection with the company?
A. I cannot tell you.
Q. How did you come to buy them?
A. Why, I got acquainted with him through a business transaction, and he came and hunted me up after I bought that property, I bought it through him, and he got me interested, in buying some bonds, and I thought it was all right and I bought $500 the first time.
Q. What did you pay for them?
A. $488.
Q. Why $488.
A. Why, the coupons detached.
Q. With the coupons attached?
A. Detached.
Q. Up to what time were the coupons detached?
A. Up to the time I bought them, I guess July 1, 1924 (Referring to bonds).
Q. That is they were detached down to July 1, 1924?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Have you any check or memorandum showing when you bought them?
A. Yes sir.

(Witness produces check dated February 5th—)
The WITNESS: Pardon me, that is the wrong one.
Q. Check dated December 14, 1923 to the order of C. C. Smucker for $488, that is signed by you, Mr. Springer?
A. Yes sir.
Q. That is the time you bought the $500 bond?
A. Yes sir.
Q. When did you buy the other bonds?
A. I bought them on February 5, 1924.
Q. For how much?
A. For $100.
Q. And from the same person?
A. From the same person, yes.
Q. Did you seek him or did he seek you?
A. He came to see me pretty often.
Q. When did you buy the next bond?
A. April 10, 1924.
Q. From the same person?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And the same amount, $100?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And you have the check here in your possession?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Are you the F. G. or F. J. Springer who was arrested on March 12, 1924?
A. Yes sir.
Q. On an information made by Charles J. Harrison?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And did you appear in court May 13, 1924?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And there enter a plea of guilty?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Do you know anybody by the name of F. G. Springer?
A. No sir.
Q. If there were such a person you would probably know him, would you not?
A. I don't know.
Q. Somebody with name as near yours as that?
A. Oh, yes I guess I would.
Q. Was there on the day when you were in court any F. G. Springer, or did you believe that was yourself?
A. My name is F. J.
Q. You thought there was a mistake in the name?
A. Naturally.
Q. In any event you are the person?
A. I suppose so.
Q. On May 20, 1924, are you the Springer who was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and a fine of $300?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Are you the person on whom a rule was granted to destroy six gallon jugs of wine, six quart bottles of wine and three half barrels of beer?
A. I don't know.
Q. Do you know anything about that?
A. I didn't have any wine in my possession at that time, to my knowledge.
Q. Do you know whether any wine purporting to have been found on your premises was ordered to be destroyed?
A. There was vinegar there when I took possession of the property that belonged to a previous owner.
Q. What was found on your premises to which you plead guilty?
A. They said it was wine, but I know I didn't have any wine.
Q. What did you plead guilty to?
A. That was there when I got there.
Q. What did you plead guilty to?
A. Why they said it was high power beer. I don't know, never had it tested.

Q. Are you the F. J. Springer who was arrested on June 21, 1924, for violating the liquor laws, and who was bailed by Anton Mosca?
A. Yes sir.
Q. On September 12, 1924, did you enter a plea of guilty?
A. I believe my attorney did.
Mr. BIDLESPACHER: What date?
Mr. GEYER: September 12, 1924.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. You believe your attorney did?
A. Between me and the attorney we made a plea.
Q. Were you not there?
A. Yes, I was there.
Q. Do you know why he plead guilty for you?
(No answer)
Q. Do you know why he plead guilty?
A. We plead guilty.
Q. Did you agree to come back on September 13, 1924?
A. I believe that was the decision. The plea, as I understood it, between the district attorney and my attorney they would continue that if I would agree, if I signed an agreement that I would not come up within three months on that charge they will drop that charge. That, as far as I know, was the way it was.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. You said this agreement was between your attorney and the district attorney?
A. Yes, I was there and they got me to sign that agreement, and that is what I understood.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. The agreement was that they would drop the charge if you would not come up on a similar charge again for three months.
A. Yes sir.

CROSS EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Who was your attorney?
A. Norman T. Boose.
Q. Will you let me see that record, please?
(Mr. Geyer handed record to Mr. Beidleman)

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Mr. Springer, it says in substance, the agreement that was made which appears in the record of these notes, that above case was set for trial on Thursday, September 11, 1924? That upon representation made by the defendant that he yould come into court on Saturday, September 13, 1924, and enter a plea of guilty to the charge lodged in the indictment against him, the case was continued until said day at 1.30 in the afternoon. The case was then called by the district atorney for sentence, whereupon counsel, without reading all of it, whereupon an agreement was made by the district atorney and counsel for the defendant that he would enter a plea of guilty to the charge notwithstanding the irregularities in the prosecution, and that sentence of the court should be postponed until the Saturday previous to the second Monday in December, upon payment of the costs by the defendant, when final disposition would be made. You were not called for sentence were you?
A. Yes, I was.
Q. Didn't you enter into your own recognizance upon the agreement of the district attorney, for your appearance and the case has not yet been disposed of?
A. No sir.
Q. What is that?
A. It has not been disposed of.
Q. The case has not yet been disposed of, and the district attorney and your counsel after consulting Judge Berkey agreed that should be done.
A. Yes sir.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: That is all for the present.
Mr. WITKIN: Did you offer that as part of the record in this case?
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: I didn't offer it but I intend to offer it.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Did you understand Governor Beidleman's question, that this was done after consulting Judge Berkey?
A. The Judge was sitting on the chair, and my attorney and the district attorney came together and they said if I would sign an agreement that I would not be in on the same charge within three months that they will drop this, that is my understanding.
Q. Do you mean to say that the Judge didn't know anything about it?
A. I don't know, sir.
Q. Did they talk to the Judge at any time?
A. Not that I know of, sir.
Q. You don't know whether they talked to him there about it or not?
A. No sir, I don't.
Q. Have you paid the costs and the fine in the first case?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What happened when you went back in December?
A. In December.
Mr. BEBIDLEMAN: Did he say "yes?"
Mr. GEYER: He said, "Yes."

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Did you go to court in December?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What happened?
A. I was called for sentence, and His Honor asked the district attorney what he had to say and the district attorney, I believe as I recall, he said that I was still in business, which I am not. Then His Honor, said, the way I understood, that I would have to be re-arrested to make this charge hold and he gave him three more months to prove it.
(CERTIFIED COPIES OF DOCKET ENTRIES IN THE case of F. J. Springer produced and marked complainants exhibits Nos. 41 and 42).
Mr. GEYER: I offer in evidence the certified copies of the docket entries marked respectively exhibits Nos. 41 and 42 in this proceeding as testified to by the last witness.
H. B. KLINE a witness called in behalf of the complainant being duly sworn was examined and testified as follows on

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. You are H. B. Kline?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What is your business?
A. I run a hotel.
Q. Where?
A. Scalp Level, Somerset County.
Q. How long have you operated that?
A. Since 1906.
Q. You were arrested on November 13, 1924?
A. Yes, I was.
Q. And did you, on November 21, 1924, waive the finding of a bill and plead guilty to the indictment?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And was sentence then suspended upon the agreement that you pay the costs?
A. Yes sir.
Q. In that proceeding was there and three-quarter gallons of moonshine-whisky destroyed?
A. Yes, they took it, I don't know whether they destroyed it or not but they took it away.
Q. They took it away from your place?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You paid the costs and further sentence was suspended?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Have you any bonds of the Johnstown and Somerset Railway Company?
A. Yes, I have.
Q. How many?
A. $1,500.
Q. What did you pay for them?
A. I paid the money for them.
Q. $1,500?
A. Why sure.
Q. When?
A. I bought them bonds way ahead in 1911.
Q. When did you pay for them?
A. I paid for them at that time.
Q. By check?
A. I paid it off by note.

Q. When did you pay the note?
Mr. LUDLOW: Is it material if the bonds were purchased in 1911?
The WITNESS: In 1911, I can't tell you just when I paid them off.
Mr. GEYER: It may be material as to when they were paid off, in the light of the action of some of the witnesses who paid for them when they got into trouble.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. When was the last payment made on the bonds?
A. I can't tell you that any more.
Q. Six months ago?
A. Oh, long ago, four or five years ago.
Q. Did you pay them within a year after you got them?
A. Yes, paid them off.
Q. Have you the bonds?
A. Sure I have.
Q. May we see them?
A. Yes, you can see them.
(Witness produces bonds).
Mr. GEYER: Witness produces bond No. 1056 with the coupon dated January 1, 1923 attached; also bond 117, both bonds being in the amount of $500.
Mr. WITKIN: What is the amount of that bond, No. 1117, with coupon of January 1, 1923, attached?
Mr. GEYER: $500.
Witness also produces the following numbered bonds, 475, 322, 323, 474 and 321, each in the amount of $100, 321 having the coupon January, 1923, attached.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: That coupon certainly does not indicate the date of the purchase of the bond. It indicates that the interest was paid.
Mr. GEYER: I know it does not, I am simply describing the bonds.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: I don't object if you are offering it for the purpose of showing the time at which the bond was bought.
The CHAIRMAN: I don't think it adds anything to the record.
Mr. GEYER: I simply want to show the character of the coupons.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Did you ever get any interest on the bonds?
A. Interest, yes.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. How often?
A. Twice I guess.
Q. From who did you buy the first bonds?
A. I got them from Mr. Berkey, the first bonds.
Q. Where?
A. Right at home.
Q. In your place of business?
A. Sure.

By Mr. LUDLOW:
Q. Before you put those away, may I be looking at them while the gentleman is examining you?
A. Yes. The first bond I bought in 1911.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Of what company?
A. What?
Q. Of what company?
A. The Johnson Railroad Company, street car line.
Q. Mr. Kline, are you certain it was as early as 1911?
A. In 1911 when Ruple and Berkey ran for Judge.
Q. Are you sure it was this bond?
A. Yes, I am sure.
Q. It was one of those bonds you produced here?
A. Yes, right after Ruple and Berkey ran for Judge the first time. He was not on the bench at that time.
The CHAIRMAN: If these bonds were all purchased long before he was arrested, what is the significance?
Mr. GEYER: There is none if the testimony is correct, but in 1911 my impression was there was no bond issue authorized. I am looking now for the date of the bonds.

By Mr. LUDLOW:
Q. Issued November 22, 1915?
A. One $500 bond I bought at that time.
Mr. LUDLOW: This is the first day of September, 1915, (Indicating bond).
Mr. WITKIN: And also bond No. 1117 was issued the first day of September, 1915.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Mr. Kline, these bonds bear date the first day of September or October, 1915. Do you still say you bought one of them as early as 1911?
A. One I had bought at that time, I thought.

CROSS EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. You bought all of them before Judge Berkey was on the bench?
A. Before he was on the bench.
Q. And they were all paid for before he went on the bench?
A. Yes sir. One day Mr. Kooser wrote me to come there about two years ago, that he would like to see me, he wrote me a letter to come up there he wanted to see me and I never went. He wrote me another letter to come to see him but I didn't go.
Q. You mean Mr. Earnest Kooser?
A. Mr. Earnest Kooser, yes.
Q. He wrote a letter for you to come to see him two years ago?
A. Yes sir, up to Somerset.

By the CHAIRMAN:
Q. You didn't go?
A. No sir, I didn't, I stayed away.
The CHAIRMAN: We do think it is pertinent here. We don't know what he may have wanted you for.
Mr. LUDLOW: Will you not, Mr. Chairman, that all of these bonds are dated 1915, the date of issue.
RALPH E. GRISWOLD a witness called in behalf of the complainant being duly sworn was examined and testified as follows on

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. What is your connection with the office?
A. Secretary of the Commonwealth.
A. Have charge of the records of the foreign and domestic corporations, assumed names.
Q. Have you made an examination of the records in your office as to the corporate history of the Johnstown and Somerset Railway Company?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Will you tell the committee first on what date it was incorporated and under what name?
A. Somerset Street Railway Company, incorporated February 11, 1909.
Q. With an authorized capitalization of how much?
A. $66,000.
Q. What is the next record in your office on this corporation?
A. On July 18, 1912, there was filed proceedings in extension of route.
Q. Any change in capitalization or indebtedness at that time?
A. None of record.
Q. What is the next record?
A. On July 27, 1915, the name was changed from Somerset Street Railway Company to Johnstown and Somerset Railway Company.
Q. What is your next entry?
A. We find no further entries.
Q. Has any return ever been filed in your office of an increase in the capitalization of the corporation above $66,000?
A. There is no record there.
Q. Or of any increase in the indebtedness of the corporation?
A. I find no record there.
Q. Or any return of any increase there actually made?
A. None of record.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: I have no question.

By Mr. LUDLOW:
Q. Is it a Pennsylvania or foreign corporation?
A. A Pennsylvania. It was incorporated by this Commonwealth.

FRANK H. LEHMAN a witness called in behalf of the complainant being duly sworn was examined and testified as follows on

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. Mr. Lehman, you are in the office of the Auditor General?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Have what work in your charge?

A. Taxation of corporations.

Q. Domestic corporations, and foreign corporations?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Have you made an examination of your files in the matter of the Johnstown and Somerste Railway Company?

A. Yes sir. There was a request made this morning and we made an examination of the files.

Q. According to the records of the Auditor General's office, what is the capital stock of the corporation?

A. $66,000.

Q. Did you have any notice of the increase of the capital stock of he corporation beyond that amount?

A. No sir.

Q. Has any bonus been paid in capital stock beyond that amount?

A. No.

Q. Have you any record of the corporate indebtedness of the company?

A. No. it does not appear that they had any indebtedness.

Q. So far as your record discloses, had it any obligations outstanding?

A. There is nothing in the records to indicate that.

Q. Have you any capital stock and loans reports of the corporation?

A. Yes, we have a capital stock report, no loans report, in my recollection.

Q. When is the last capital stock report?

A. My recollection is 1912.

Q. Have you it before you?

A. Yes.

Q. Will you look and tell us for what year the company filed capital stock reports?

A. There were two capital stock reports filed and my personal recollection is—I will just verify that—yes, there were two capital stock reports filed, one for 1910 and the other for 1912.

Q. When was the one filed for 1910?

A. December 5, 1910.

Q. And when was the one filed for 1912?

A. February 13. 1913.

Q. Do either of those indicate any corporate indebtedness or bond issue?

A. No.

A. Do they indicate any capitol stock in excess of $66,000.

A. No.

Q. Mr. Lehman, it would be important to know whether your file is complete and whether you are certain that those are the only reports which were filed by the company?

A. We made a very thorough search of the files and in addition to that we looked at our records and found that those are the only reports filed. We made an estimated settlement against the company.

Q. When?

A. We made an estimated settlement against the company on June 3, 1915, and there is an estimated settlement made against the company on capital stock for the years 1911 and 14

Q. What became of that estimated settlement?

A. Well—what do you mean by what became of it?

Q. Was there any appearance by the company, any appeal or a protest?

A. No.

Q. Was the tax paid?

A. No, my recollection is not.

Q. Tax not paid?

A. No.

Q. Did you give us the date when you made the estimated settlement?

A. Yes, I gave you the date when the estimated settlement was made, that is when the technical settlement was mad out on the stock in the Treasury Department, June 3, 1915.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:

Q. June 3, 1915.

A. Yes sir. The signature of the Auditor General was attached June 2, 1915.

By Mr. LUDLOW:

Q. For what years are they?

A. For 1911 and 14.

Q. Did a notice of such estimation go out in due course?

A. Yes, it is indicated on the face of the settlement that copy was mailed June 9, 1915.

Q. What is the next record of estimated settlement you have?

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:

Q. Up to that time settlements were made against the Somerset Street Railway Company, were they?

A. The Somerset Street Railway Company for 1910; Somerset Street Railway Company for 1912; Somerset Street Railway Company for 1911 and 14; Somerset Street Railway Company for 1913.

Q. When was that estimated settlement made?

A. The estimated settlement was March 30, 1914, copy went out April 1, 1914.

Q. What is your next estimated settlement?

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:

Q. That is for what year, 1913?

A. Yes, that is for 1913. The next is Johnstown and Somerset Railway Company.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. For what year?

A. For the year 1915.

Q. Yes.

A. The settlement was made or the estimate rather was made November 10, 1916, and copy was mailed November 17, 1916.

Q. Mr. Lehman, does your estimated settlement indicate you had any knowledge of increase in capital stock or indebtedness?

A. No.

Q. Do any of these indicate that you had any notice or knowledge of any increase?

A. No.

Q. What was your next estimated settlement?

A. For the year 1916, the estimate was made on December 14, 1917, copy was mailed December 30, 1917.

Q. Your next?

A. This was an estimate made for the years 1917 and 18, on February 3rd, 1920, and copy—

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:

Q. February 3, 1920?

A. Yes sir.

Q. For 1917 and 18?

A. 1917 and 18. The copy was mailed on February 6, 1920.

By Mr. LUDLOW:

Q. Is there any increase in capital?

A. We arbitrarily increased the capital. We did that in pursuance of a regular practice to call the company.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:

Q. What does that report show you are reading now?

A. It shows an estimate on the basis of $85,000 for both years, 1917 and 18. There was, however, no information or basis for that other than our regular practice of increasing the amount for the purpose of eventually securing a report.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. On the theory that if you get it too high they will finally come in and tell you?

A. It is not only theory, it is a fact.

Q. Until you have gotten beyond their limit they don't come?

A. Yes, as we term it, we "call them."

Q. What is your next one?

A. That is the last one.

By Mr. LUDLOW:

Q. 1918 is the last year covered?

A. Yes sir.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Now, Mr. Lehman, to any of those estimated settlements was there any return or reply or protest or any action whatsoever by the company?
A. Not so far as I can determine from the record.
Q. Did it ever have any effect?
A. Yes, I beg your pardon; there was some correspondence in connection with the first settlement I have here.
Q. Mr. Lehman, we are not interested in the details of it.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: We are interested in the details, just tell him to read it.
Mr. GEYER: Pardon me, I thought you didn't want us to know. If you are willing let him go it.
The CHAIRMAN: Go ahead and answer.
The WITNESS: Shall I read the correspondence?
The CHAIRMAN: Yes, whatever is necessary to expedite the matter.
Mr. WITKIN: What is the substance of it?
The WITNESS: It is a pretty brief letter, dated July 3, 1911, addressed to A. E. Sisson, Auditor General, signed by J. A. Berkey, President, Somerset Street Railway Company, and read as follows: "We are in receipt of a bill for taxes against the Somerset Street Railway Company. We fail to see why you should assess taxes against us. The report we have does not warrant it. Will you kindly advise us reason for so doing. We feel we should be exonerated under our report."

By The CHAIRMAN:
Q. That was in 1911?
A. That was in 1911 the first report filed by the company.
Q. Did you have any other replies since that time?
A. No, there is no correspondence attached to any of the rest of the estimates or reports.
Q. As we understand, your custom is to make up and estimated settlement and compute your tax in your estimate, and send it out to them, and you always make it high enough that if they owe anything they call your attention to the excess?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And you received no replies from any notice?
A. None whatever.
Q. What is the custom in your office in cases of that kind? Do you keep that up do you not follow that up?
A. Yes, we keep on calling them, we keep on raising it and eventually they do come across, if they continue to exercise their corporate privileges.
Q. Those estimated settlements, did you send out later estimated settlements for the years for which you had previously sent them, or did you just send them out for the next year.
A. That is what we did.
Q. Does the last year include the years preceding?
A. No.
Q. Then you really drop those preceding years each time you send a new one?
A. Oh no, the settlement is open against them on our books.
Q. Nothing paid?
A. Nothing paid.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. You never made any estimated settlement high enough?
A. Of course, in this company the subsequent history is this—I don't know whether you are interested or not and I don't want to give you anything that you don't want—
The CHAIRMAN: Let us have it.

By Mr. BIDLESPACHER:
Q. Is that from your records?
A. Yes sir.
The CHAIRMAN: We don't want to go into all kinds of matters unless they are pertinent in the question.
The WITNESS: I don't know, I cannot determine that.
Mr. WITKIN: Let us have the subsequent history.
Mr. GEYER: I don't know it either.
The CHAIRMAN: My only point is that he may take an hour to give us history that is not pertinent.
Mr. WITKIN: How can we tell, if he doesn't know.
The WITNESS: There is not very much to it.
Mr. WITKIN: Tell us briefly the subsequent history.
The WITNESS: It was this: some time in 1920, or subsequent thereto, possibly in 1921 or 1922, there was some question as to whether the Auditor General had collected the taxes closely enough, and in order to relieve himself of the responsibility he prepared a list and sent it up to the Attorney General and told him to collect the tax, if he could. The result of it all was a letter from the Attorney General to the affect that he had investigated these various corporations and he said, we are returning herewith data and files submitted to us by your department with respect to the corporations named in the attached list. With respect to those corporations, we will advise that they be removed from your active ledgers inasmuch as we have been unable to locate them or make any collections of the taxes due. This letter was signed by George Ross Hull.

By Mr. LUDLOW:
Q. What is the date of it?
A. I didn't read the entire letter.
Q. What is the date of the letter?
A. September 27, 1922.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. This corporation is in that list?
A. This corporation is in that list, it is on page 4 of the list. I will read the entire letter, if you want it, although I think you don't care for it.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Mr. Lehman, have you dropped—did you thereafter put it on the "Out of existence list?"
A. It was then marked out of existence on our ledger.
Q. And so far as the records of the Auditor General go, this corporation has been out of existence four years, is that right?
A. Yes.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. When you say "out of existence", there was never a discontinuance of this company filed with your department?
A. No.
Q. When you say "out of existence", you mean so far as these taxes are concerned, you place them on the inactive ledger?
A. Put them in the "morgue" as we call it.

CROSS EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. It is not the practice of the Auditor General's office to mark a company out of existence unless you have an affidavit from some person connected with the company?
A. I cannot say that. Very frequently it is done on the basis of an affidavit, we have, however, marked them out of existence where it was impossible to get any affidavit or anything at all on them. The purpose is to drop the dead wood, get rid of them.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. But this company was not marked out of existence?
A. Yes, it is marked "out of existence" on our ledgers.
Q. Did you send any more reports to them?
A. Not after they are marked "out of existence", unless we subsequently acquire some information to the effect that they are active.

By the CHAIRMAN:
Q. It is evident here that quite a large amount of bonds were issued by this company during the year 1915. Ordinarily when a corporation issues a block of bonds, increases its indebtedness, you receive a report of that, do you not, in your department?
A. Yes, it should be filed.
Q. Did you receive such a report from this company?
A. We have no evidence of it in our files.
Q. I beg pardon?
A. We have not been able to find it in our files.
Q. Did you look for it?
A. Of course, I did not personally examine the files, but I gave instructions to make a very close examination.
Q. You did not find any record of the company?
A. No.
Q. If it had been made you would have it in your file?
A. I would assume so, although as I say I did not personally examine the file.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. May we see those two reports that were made, Mr. Lehman?
A. Yes sir.

Q. These reports show that no stock had been issued up to the time these reports were filed, and the company was in the process of financing then?

A. That is the way it was.

PETER HOFFMAN a witness called in behalf of the complainant being duly affirmed was examined and testified as follows on

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:

Q. Mr. Hoffman, where do you live?

A. Scalp Level, Somerset County.

Q. How near is that to the town of Somerset?

A. Thirty miles, I think.

Q. In which portion of the county is it?

A. The extreme northern portion.

Q. Some of us are beginning to learn the geography of Somerset County? What is your business?

A. Nothing now, retired farmer—perhaps.

Q. Had you any other business than that of a farmer?

A. No, never had any.

Q. Do you know Judge Berkey?

A. I did.

Q. Did you know him in 1921?

A. Yes, long before.

Q. Did you have any business dealings with him concerning the purchase of bonds of the Johnstown and Somerset Railway Company?

A. I did, yes.

Q. Will you tell the committee what they were?

Mr. BEIDLEMAN: Is this in 1921?

The WITNESS: In the first place his salesmen came to me and induced me to subscribe for some of the bonds. I turned them down and informed them I had no money. Of course, the first approach was they brought a letter from the Judge, an introductory letter from the Judge, showing that they were authorized to sell these bonds.

Q. By the way, have you a copy of that letter?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Can you tell the gentleman whether it was a personal letter or whether it was a form letter? Do you know what I mean?

A. No, I can't, it wasn't a personal letter—no, I don't think so; it simply stated that these men were authorized to sell and handle and receive money for the Johnstown and Somerset Street Railway Company.

Q. And by whom was it signed?

A. Judge Berkey.

Q. Were you familiar with his signature?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And did you recognize his signature?

A. Yes. It was a fac-simile signature stamp.

Q. Can you state whether it was on his official or whether it was on the street railway letterhead?

A. I cannot tell.

Q. Did you, after that, have any conversation with Judge Berkey about it?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Where?

A. That was in his chamber, in the Judge's chamber.

Q. How did you come to go there?

A. Well, after I had subscribed for these bonds, evidently the Judge was not satisfied with the amount that I subscribed, then he sends Cohen down with a personal letter to my place and induced me again to subscribe for more.

Q. How many did you subscribe for in the first instance?

A. $5,000.

Q. You say the second letter from the Judge was a personal one?

A. It was a personal letter.

Q. Can you tell on what stationery it was?

A. No I can't tell on what stationery.

Q. Did you keep the letter?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Can you tell us the contents of the letter?

A. Yes, I think I can. It started out, Mr. Peter Hoffman, dear sir: I have chosen you as one of the directors of the Johnstown and Somerset Railway Company but in order to become a director it is necessary for you to subscribe for an additional $5,000 as my representative, Mr. Cohen, will explain and then Mr. Cohen started to explain.

Q. What did he then explain to you?

A. Well, he explained that I was not subscribing for those bonds, to hold the bonds, that they would take care of the bonds, but I was to have the stock for lending my credit, and in order to become a director it would be necessary for me to have that stock, and I was to hold the stock in order to become a director; and he said then further, they were doing the same thing to a few others and named S. B. Lehman and Harvey Shaffer; they were doing the same thing. Finally I thought this was an opportunity to get a written agreement from the company that they would do what they promised, that they would take care of these bonds and release me.

Q. Did he say anything as to who was to put up the money to take those bonds off of your hands?

A. The Judge did that later on when I saw the Judge.

Q. You are telling that in your own way?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Go ahead.

A. Mr. Cohen was to bring this agreement from the Judge when he delivered the bonds, I had wanted an agreement before, and he said that he had nothing to show to the company that I had subscribed unless he has the subscription. Then I left him go and I told him I would not take the bonds unless this agreement was with them. Then a few days later he slipped those bonds in my house, and had the Mrs. to receipt for them, and told the Mrs. again that I would not have to pay for those bonds. He left a note that I was to take care of those bonds till he called for them or something like that.

Q. Did he show you a prospectus of the company when he came to see you?

A. No sir, I didn't see any.

Q. Go on, Mr. Hoffman, and tell in your own way what happened?

A. Then later, a week or so later, I met Mr. Cohen at Hooversville, and I asked for this agreement, the one he was to bring when he delivered the bonds, and he stated that the Judge was so busy that he could not write it out, but it was all ready that the Judge knows all about it, he has everything arranged with the Judge, and when I go up to Somerset to call on the Judge then he would give it to me. In the meantime, I got notice from the banks that they are holding my notes, there are two of the banks that are holding my notes. Of course that was a surprise to me that the notes were discounted and I went up to see the Judge.

Q. You say it was a surprise to you, why?

A. Because the agreement was that the note should be kept in the Equitable Trust Company as assets, should not be discounted until the road is built and the notes delivered and the bonds lifted.

Q. Lifted by whom?

A. By the street railway company, or by the Equitable Trust Company rather.

Q. Now you say you then went to see Judge Berkey?

A. I went to see Judge Berkey.

Q. What happened?

A. I met him in his chambers and informed him of this, and I told him about the agreement or understanding that we had, and he asked me a few questions, some questions. Asked whether I had that personal letter, and so on, and then he said, "Now we will take care of you, we will lift those notes for you". He said, "But we have not got the money now." First he asked me to carry, if I could not carry some of those bonds, and I informed him that I could not, that I had no loose money, that the little money I had I gave to my children to pay for their homes. He said, "We will take care of you, but", he said "we cannot do it now". He said, "You renew the notes, cut the coupons and renew the notes, and then when they come due again we will be in shape to lift those notes and release you"., and then commended me for coming in, coming to him and not making a fuss to other people about it, about the loan. He said, "Now this is strictly confidential. We cannot pay it off all but we will do this for you", and he said, "I know you always stood by me in politics, and so forth, and we will do this for you." Of course he lifted me up, and I thought he would do what he promised.

Q. Did he give you any note or writing?

A. No, he didn't give me any writing at all.

Q. Now what happened next, Mr. Hoffman?

A. The next I discovered he is not going to do what he promised?

Q. How did you discover that?

A. Well, I had another consultation with him and I saw he was getting hasty and didn't want to do anything he promised.

Q. When was that second conversation with him?

A. That was when the last two notes were about due, when I got notice from them that they also discounted them I went to see him again.

Q. Then what did you say?

A. Well, he promised again that their bond salesman would be in again about the matter, and as soon as they had the money they would release me, lift the notes and release me.

Q. In what years was this?

A. This was in 1921, running to 1922.

Q. Was he then Judge?

A. Oh yes.

Q. Where were your conversation with him?

A. The first conversation was in his chambers, the second conversation was in his railroad office, I think on the third floor of the building.

Q. Of what building?

A. Well, I don't know what they call it really, he had his office in there in the beginning.

Q. Another building in Somerset?

A. Another different building, yes, an office building.

Q. What happened next?

A. At that time he induced me to renew the notes, he went on the back again, with the promise that he would lift them when they came due. One note was on the Davidsville Bank. I sent the notes up to the banks when they came due, and he cut off the coupons then, and gave me a check for the coupons.

Q. Who gave you the check?

A. Berkey.

Q. When was that?

A. That was at the last meeting I had, the last conversation I had with him.

Q. I don't know whether you fixed the date of this, Mr. Hoffman.

A. That I think was in January, 1922—no, it was in February perhaps. January or February, I think perhaps it was in February.

Q. Had you tried to collect those coupons before?

A. I had not been trying to collect the coupons because I didn't think I had bought the bonds at all, and I didn't want the coupons.

Q. Then what happened next, Mr. Hoffman?

A. The Davidsville Bank returned the check and the note and demanded payment, that they would not renew it, and then I sent this note to Newman, and in the meantime when Smucker was along, and Smucker, after the Judge was called out said, "If anything turns up that is not satisfactory in any way, call on me". He said, "The Judge is so busy and I am not so busy I will attend to it at once?

Q. What position did Smucker occupy with the railroad company?

Q. Vice-president of the company.

Q. What is his first name?

A. Christ, C. C. I think he writes it.

Q. Go on.

A. Then I sent this note over to Smucker and asked him to help me out of this, that I didn't want to have any trouble. Smucker never answered, and finally I got a little discouraged about it, and as I passed through Davidsville I stopped in to see the cashier, Mr. Williamson, and he said that Smucker never had showed up, and in our conversation he told me that Smucker and the Judge are very unreliable, and I discovered in the meantime some of those very things that were not true, that the bonds were not underwritten by the trust company, and the trust company was not financing the road, and so on, and I seen that I was tricked, so I consulted an attorney the next thing.

Q. Yes.

A. Consulted Ray Patton Smith of Johnstown, and Kooser happened to be in town.

Q. In Johnstown?

A. The same day, so I called him in for consultation and finally we filed objection to the notes.

Q. In the mean time been entered?

A. Yes, the notes had been entered, and when I saw Williamson he said the notes were entered, and showed me a copy.

Q. You say you filed objections to the notes?

A. And the next I filed objections, and asked for the opening of the judgment.

Q. That is in Judge Berkey's court?

A. In Judge Berkey's court.

Q. Who acted upon that petition?

A. Judge Sloan.

Q. When was it heard?

A. I cannot tell that, the record would show.

Q. How many notes had been entered, Mr. Hoffman?

A. All four of them was entered, I know one of those notes, that one had not been entered at that time.

Q. When was this, Mr. Hoffman, that you filed objections, as you called it, to the notes?

A. I don't have the date of that.

Q. About how long ago?

A. Oh, it was in 1922, some time in the summer.

Q. Of 1922? Can you tell it in your own way what happened to that objection to the notes?

A. Judge Sloan heard it, and of course he would not open the judgment, so we filed an appeal in the Supreme Court, and the Supreme Court reversed it and sent it back. Then we had another hearing in January in Somerset, and Judge Langham of Indiana County sat.

Q. That is this last January?

A. This last January.

Q. And in the hearing what happened?

A. In the hearing why they continued it, and we filed objections to a paper that they had which we considered a forged paper, and so we filled objections to it and they continued the case.

Q. The matter is now for trial in the Court?

A. Yes sir?

(Prospectus of the Johnstown & Somerset Railway Company, entitled "The Road to Revenue", produced and marked complainant's exhibit No. 43).

Q. I show you a four page folder marked exhibit No. 43, and ask you whether you ever saw this or a copy of it, Mr. Hoffman?

A. If I mistake not, the salesman had something similar to that.

Q. Will you look at it a little more closely, and tell us whether it is to the best of your recollection a copy of what the salesman had?

A. I think that is, I am not so sure. I don't remember this paper particularly, but it was something similar that I saw some place.

Q. Mr. Hoffman, have you told us all that the agent told you about the trust company having agreed to underwrite and certify that road?

A. No, I have not told you all.

Q. Will you tell us?

A. The first they did was, of course, to introduce themselves, and claimed they were from the Equitable Trust Company of New York. Then they stated they were financing and underwriting the bonds of this corporation, and stated further that they had their expert engineer on this road to ascertain whether it was a profitable proposition, and their expert reported that as far as the road is built, would likely procure—is worth as much as it would cost to build it through to Meyersdale.

Q. What if anything was there said about Judge Berkey?

A. After I refused to subscribe, told them I had no money they said, "Now the Judge is in position to do you considerable favors, and you had better subscribe".

Q. Did you discuss any of those matters with Judge Berkey?

A. No, I didn't, when I was in he agreed that he would take care of me, and I thought it was not necessary to know all of my ammunition that I would have.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:

Q. It was not necessary for Judge Berkey to know all your ammunition, is that what you said?

A. That is what I said, it was not necessary for him to know it all.

By the CHAIRMAN:

Q. May I ask one question in order to clarify a matter before we proceed. Mr. Hoffman, the first $5,000 of bonds, did you pay for those?

A. No, I have not paid for any.

Q. Were those the ones for which you gave the notes?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Now the second $5,000 of bonds that you subscribed for, did you give notes for those?

A. I gave notes but they were to hold the notes in the Equitable Trust Company as assets?
Q. As what?
A. As assets in the bank so that they could use their money to build the road, and after the road was built, they would return them.
Q. That is what I wanted to know, which of those notes was it that was later—that you were called upon to pay, the notes that you gave for the first $5,000 or the second, or both?
A. For the first. For the second $5,000 the note is in litigation.
Q. You were later called upon to pay the $5,000 of notes which you gave in payment of the second alottment of bonds?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Have you paid for the first?
A. No, I have not paid for any.
Q. You didn't dispute your obligation under the first, so far as your agreement is concerned, did you?
A. Well, yes, I was not under any obligation, I considered it not an obligation because the notes, all of the notes, were simply to be held as assets in the bank, and to be returned, and they were not to be paid and the remark was made by the Jews there and everything in the presence of my wife, it was not to cost me one cent, that I was not to pay those notes.
Q. And that is the agreement under which you bought all of the bonds?
A. All of the bonds, yes.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. When were the notes made payable?
A. Six months after date. The first I guess was July 26, 1921, and the second September 20, if I remember, of 1921, six months after date.

By Mr. STADTLANDER:
Q. With whom did you have that agreement?
A. The first with Cohen and Sachs, and the second with—no, the first with Sachs and another salesman, and the second with Cohen.

By The CHAIRMAN:
Q. Did you have any agreement with Judge Berkey on this?
A. Judge Berkey promised that he would—
Q. Did you have any agreement with Judge Berkey?
A. Not until I had a conversation with him.
Q. You consulted with him about it?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Did you have any agreement with him?
A. No agreement.

By Mr. BLUMBERG:
Q. Did you consult with Judge Berkey before you bought the first $5,000 worth?
A. No, I didn't.
Q. Was there any agreement made between the salesmen and yourself that you were to be a director in this concern, when you bought the first $5,000?
A. Not the first $5,000.
Q. Was it an outright purchase of bonds by you?
A. No, I didn't consider it an outright purchase.
Q. You gave your notes in payment of them, didn't you?
A. I gave my notes with the understanding that they would hold them in the trust company as assets.
Q. Did you understand that you were being presented with $5,000 of bonds?
A. Presented?
Q. You say you were not supposed to pay your notes?
A. They were not to present them, but lift them after the road was built.
Q. How were you going to pay for those bonds?
A. I don't pay at all if I can help it.
Q. What was your arrangement as to the payment of the first $5,000 of bonds?
A. No more arrangements made than that.
Q. And you simply loaned your name to this company?
A. I was loaning my credit, yes. That was what I was to do.
Q. You were satisfied with an arrangement of that kind?
A. I had confidence in Judge Berkey that this was all right. I didn't think that Judge Berkey would allow a set of men to go into Somerset County and misrepresent things the way they did. I had a good bit of confidence in the Judge.
Q. Were you retired at that time?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Did you make any independent investigation of this company before you agreed to buy the first $5,000 block?
A. No, I didn't.
Q. Did you ever have any other business investments besides this one?
A. Well, I think I have to some extent..
Q. Did you always go into a business investment without making an investigation?
A. I never went and invested in anything if I didn't know before it was all right.

By Mr. STADTLANDER:
Q. Where there any confidential relations between you and Judge Berkey?
A. Yes, considerably.
Q. Was it the relationship of attorney and client?
A. No, not as an attorney, but in politics and other business dealings, I had a lot of confidence in him.
Q. Then you had other business dealings with Judge Berkey?
A. Not just directly, more than in a political way, perhaps.
Q. You were identified in politics together, is that the idea?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And you placed confidence in Judge Berkey through politics?
A. Well not just exactly through politics, in a certain sense it was, but he always treated me all right and I never had any occasion to doubt anything.

CROSS EXAMINATION.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. You are a retired farmer?
A. Yes sir.
Q. With how many banks are you identified?
A. Well, with two perhaps.
Q. And in what capacity?
A. Director in one.
Q. And in what capacity in another?
A. Only a stockholder.
Q. And that you have two boys that are bankers, have you not?
A. No, one is a cashier, and one works in the bank.
Q. And the third son is a lawyer, isn't he?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You have had considerable experience yourself in the sale of stocks, have you not?
A. Sale of stocks, no sir, I never sold any.
Q. Did you sell any stock in the Johnstown Warehouse Company?
A. No sir.
Q. Terminal warehouse?
A. No sir.
Q. Were you identified with that company?
A. I have some stock in it.
Q. Didn't you solicit your neighbors to buy stock in that?
A. No sir.
Q. Where is the Johnstown Terminal Warehouse Company?
A. In Johnstown.
Q. In business or out?
A. They are in business.
Q. Practically "busted"?
A. No sir, the contractor is to begin, well, just now, this time, the 2nd of March I guess.
Q. You were also the county treasurer of Somerset County for a term or two were you?
A. For one term, yes.
Q. When was that?
A. In 1905 and 08.
Q. So you have a long line of connection with financial transactions in Somerset County and elsewhere. have you not?
A. I have to a certain extent, yes.
Q. Where is the bank of which you are a director?
A. Hooversville.
Q. What is the other bank with which you are identified?
A. Windber.
Q. The Windber bank, did you say?
A. The Citizen's of Windber.

Q. And you have been director in that institution for how long?
A. I don't know, perhaps ten years.
Q. What is that?
A. Perhaps ten years, perhaps more.
Q. And you were identified with the bank for which Mr. Snyder testified—
A. That is the Citizen's of Windber.
Q. What did you?
Q. You were an officer and director of that bank at one time were you not?
A. No sir.
Q. At the time you subscribed for the first $5,000 of those bonds you hadn't had any talk with Judge Berkey at all.
A. No, I didn't.
Q. And you subscribed with the condition that you were not to pay for them?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Did you have a subscription receipt of any kind?
A. No, I don't think I did.
Q. You didn't, your agreement was with the salesmen of the bonds?
A. With Newman and Sax.
Q. What was that agreement?
A. The agreement was that they would hold them in the Equitable Trust Company until the road was built, then return the notes and retire the bonds.
Q. In the meantime you were to be a director of the company?
A. No sir, not at that time.
Q. You then made the agreement with those salesmen that you would take $5,000 of the bonds with the understanding that they should remain in the custody of the Equitable Trust Company until the line was built and then they would be returned to you?
A. Yes, that was to be in a year's time.
Q. How were you to profit by that?
A. No profit at all, simply loan my credit to Judge Berkey as an accommodation, that was all; there was no profit.
Q. You were to subscribe for $5,000 of those bonds as an inducement to the people in Somerset County to buy, is that right?
A. No sir, that was not any consideration at all.
Q. What were you to do, what was the $5,000 of bond to be subscribed for, why was your name to be used if it was not for that purpose?
A. I don't know that my name was used at all, I was simply to subscribe, I though I was doing Judge Berkey a favor. That was what they asked me to do.
Q. You thought you were doing Judge Berkey a favor by agreeing to take $5,000 worth of bonds which were to remain with the Trust Company who were the holders of the notes, never to be of any use to anybody and when the road was completed and the bonds were retired they were to be returned to you; did you expect the road to be built on wind?
Mr. GEYER: Your question is so involved and so misleading. the witness did not say the bonds were to remain in the Equitable Trust Company, the notes were to remain, and as the question now is asked it assumes a number of things that are not in accord with his testimony.
The WITNESS: Let me talk. The salesmen stated that they needed these notes in the Equitable Trust Company as assets, that they could not take the money out of the bank without having some assets in the bank, and they wanted to hold these as assets until the road is built, and that then they will return the notes and lift the bonds.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Did you ever get the bonds?
A. Yes, they delivered the bonds.
Q. They delivered them to you. Will you tell, Mr. Hoffman, in your previous experience how you expected these notes to be delivered to the Trust Company and not used if they were going to construct the street railway?
A. I said they were going to hold the notes as assets or whatever they said, just as they said hold the notes as assets in the Equitable Trust Company while they used their own money.
Q. Did you expect them to raise any money on them?
A. Certainly if they have to get money they need assets in the bank.
Q. You were to give your notes with the understanding that they were to be used for the purpose of raising money by which the road was to be constructed?
A. They were to use their own money.
Q. Did you expect your notes to be negotiated for the purpose of raising the money?
A. No sir, I didn't. It was the understanding not to.
Q. Then of what use were the notes to be?
A. The notes were simply as assets, to be held in their bank while they were using their own money, that is the way I understood it.
Q. Did you sign any paper in connection with this subscription?
A. No sir.
Q. None at all?
A. No sir.
Q. You gave the notes immediately to the salesman did you?
A. They took the notes along.
Q. Then you next bought $5,000 more from two other salesmen?
A. No only one other one, when Cohen came by himself.
Q. Cohen came by himself?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And up to that time you had not seen Judge Berkey?
A. No, I had not.
Q. So that before you had any conversation with Judge Berkey whatsoever about these bonds, you had subscribed to the extent of $10,000?
A. On account of Judge Berkey's personal letter and what Cohen told me, that the Judge sent him there to get me to subscribe for an additional $5,000.
Q. Did you check it up with Judge Berkey?
A. I did afterwards.
Q. How long afterwards?
A. I cannot tell you just how long. Well, I got notice that the first two notes—probably four months after the first.
Q. That is to say, you subscribed for those $10,000 of bonds and never talked to Judge Berkey until you had had notice from the bank that the notes were due and that they demanded payment?
A. That is right.
Q. And then you went to see Judge Berkey about it?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Upon what notes were you sued?
A. I have not been sued on any yet.
Q. You had a case in the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania growing out of these notes, didn't you?
A. We filed objections.
Q. I am asking you if you didn't have a case in the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania on these notes?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And you filed several different affidavits of defense, didn't you?
A. I don't remember how many?
Q. You remember that after the case came back from the Supreme Court for the first time, you alleged in an affidavit of defense that they were forgeries?
A. That was immediately after that, in January.
Q. That was after the case had been in the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, had been tried in the court below, judgment had against you, taken to the Supreme Court and then brought out and you filed an affidavit that they were forgeries, didn't you?
A. That paper, only one paper.
Q. But you raised that question after the case had been in the Supreme Court two years after the suit was originally brought against you?

By The CHAIRMAN:
Q. Explain what paper you refer to as being a forgery, the notes or some other paper?
A. There was another paper in addition to the note, and I think I can repeat it correctly, it was something like this: "This authorizes you to discount this in any bank or banks without any objections or effects."

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. A certificate of "no objection?"
A. A certificate of no objection, that is the paper I call a forgery.

By The CHAIRMAN:
Q. Did you sign such a paper?
A. No, I didn't sign a paper.
Q. I say, did you sign such a paper?
A. Did I, no sir.
Q. Was your name written to this particular paper by someone?
A. My name was on there and looked considerably like my writing, but I never signed such a paper.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. You never raised the question until after it came back from the Supreme Court?
A. About that paper?
Q. Yes.
A. I didn't know there was such a paper while it was there.
Q. And when you filed that affidavit, it was the seventh one that you filed?
A. I didn't count them, I don't know.
Q. Isn't it a fact, Mr. Hoffman, that during the proceeding on this case against you that was in the Supreme Court, you filed seven different affidavits of defense?
A. I just said that I don't know that.
Q. Do you know what you signed?
A. I know that I saw the papers but I cannot just exactly tell what they were.
Q. Do you know whether or not you signed more than one?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How many did you sign?
A. I don't know, I told you.
Q. Have you got any idea?
A. Well there may be three or four, I don't know.
Q. Did you sign one alleging that the certificate of no defense was a forgery after the case came back from the Supreme Court?
A. I didn't know that they had such a paper, I—
Q. Was it raised in the original trial?
A. No, it was not in the original trial.
Q. Was it in the pleadings?
A. In the pleadings, perhaps, it may have been but not in the trial.
Q. And a year before you filed any answer, wasn't it?
A. Had no occasion to file an answer before.
Q. You didn't have occasion to file it. And who disposed of the case in the court below?
A. Judge Sloan the first time and the other is not disposed of, it is pending.
Q. One time it was before Judge Sloan, another time before Judge Langham, wasn't it?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Were you ever elected director of this company?
A. No sir, never wanted to be.
Q. Ever talked to anybody about being elected director?
A. No sir.
Q. What did you mean awhile ago by saying word was given to you that you would have to subscribe additionally in order to become a director?
A. When that was presented to me my thought was this was an opportunity to get a written agreement drawn and I didn't consider the directorship any at all then, but I thought this was my opportunity to get a written agreement from the company that they would take care of these bonds as they promised. I just got a little uneasy about not having an agreement from them for their promise.
Q. And your action on becoming a director of the company was being used by you as a matter of deceit and deception to procure some agreement?
A. Why should I make it deceit and deception. I said—
Q. I am asking you is that so? You can answer "yes" or "no"
A. No sir, not at all.
Q. Why did you let anybody under the impression that you wanted to become a director?
A. I never did.
Q. Didn't you say you did?
A. No sir, I didn't.
Q. Let us understand what you did say?
The CHAIRMAN: I think he has explained that clearly.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: He said no that he did not.
The CHAIRMAN: He said there was a proposition made to him that if he would subscribe money they would make him a director, and he said that it was not the directorship he wanted but he thought it was an opportunity to get an agreement to protect him on his subscription. I think that is clear, and the only reason I object to this is because I think we are losing lots of time.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Did you suggest to anybody that you wanted to be a director?
A. No sir, I did not.
Q. When Cohen said something to you about becoming a director, what did you say to him?
A. I didn't say anything to that, in regard to that.
Q. Then you took the $10,000 worth of bonds without any agreement?
A. I did, yes, with the understanding that he is to bring the agreement when he delivers the bonds.
Q. And you didn't have any agreement that you should be made a director of the company?
A. No agreement. He stated that.
Q. What did you say to that?
A. I said nothing about it, I didn't care for it.
Q. Did you say so?
A. No, I didn't say anything.
Q. Why didn't you?
A. Because I didn't care for it.
Q. Didn't you say that you had spoken to Judge Berkey and told him about becoming a director?
A. No sir, I didn't.
Q. You didn't?
A. No sir.
Q. So that there was no agreement on your part or anybody's part that you should become a director of this company?
A. No sir, not more than what those Jews said I didn't want to be a director.
Q. What was the inducement on your part to take the second $5,000.—to get an agreement that the company would take care of the first $5,000—
A. That was the only reason.
Q. To get an agreement that they would take care of what?
A. Of the bonds and stock.
Q. What were they to do with the second $5000?
A. That was the same. The Jew said that the other two had left now, and they left every thing in his hands, that he is the Judge's private secretary you know too, and he said he will take care of these first $5,000 of bonds just as he had promised under that same agreement.
Q. Who were you to get the agreement from?
A. Berkey or the company was to send it.
Q. Did you talk to Judge Berkey about it?
A. No sir.
Q. You didn't talk to him for three months afterwards, or four months?
A. No, not quite so long.
Q. Not until after the notes had become due and demand had been made upon you for payment?
A. Yes, after the notes were discounted, then I went to see him.
Q. Did you do anything to help the company along?
A. No sir.
Q. Did you suggest to anybody the purchase of bonds?
A. No sir.
Q. Did you talk against the company?
A. Not at that time.
Q. When did you start talking against it?
A. I cannot tell.
Q. When?
A. I cannot tell you.
Q. When did you go to Smith's office in Johnstown?
A. That was at the time I found the notes, the first note, had been entered.
Q. How did you happen to get to Smith's office?
A. Smith had been my attorney.
Q. What is that?
A. Smith had been my attorney.
Q. Mr. Earnest Kooser happened to be in Johnstown that day and just dropped in?
A. No, I called him in, I saw him in Johnstown and I called him in.
Q. You called him from Somerset?
A. No, I called him from Johnstown. I saw him in Johnstown, and I knew him and I took him in for consultation.

Q. How did you know he was in Johnstown?
A. I don't know how I found out but somebody remarked he was there, someone saw him.
Q. Kooser had been the person representing you in your litigation.
A. Kooser and Smith, both of you.

By the CHAIRMAN:
Q. Mr. Hoffman, did the personal letter that you received from Judge Berkey when you bought the second $5,000 have anything to do with your buying the second $5,000?
A. Oh, yes, it was altogether on the Judge's letters and the relationship or friendship that I had with Berkey that I bought. I told the judge—
Q. Pardon me, in that letter he said that he had, as I understood you to testify, already selected you as a director, and in order for you to serve it would be necessary to buy $5,000 more?
A. Yes sir, that was—
Q. No matter, you stated that the inducement of being a director was not so much what you considered in buying but in order to get an agreement—
A. That is it.
Q. —to protect you on the purchase of your first $5000?
A. That is exactly it.
Q. I ask you, how did you expect to get that agreement, you have not stated how or from whom you expected to get it?
A. Cohen said right away that I could get that paper, the Judge and I have talked it over and I can get that agreement for you all right. Well, I said, all right and then he started to fill out the notes. I said, "Wait, you bring that agreement first; then we will do that." Then he stopped suddenly and looked at me saying. "You know without a subscription I cannot ask for an agreement. I must have this subscription before I can ask for an agreement, but I will bring that agreement when I bring the bonds. I foolishly left him go with the notes expecting that he would bring the agreement when he brings the bonds.
Q. Why didn't you defer signing the notes until you had gotten your bonds?
A. That was the reason, he said he must have the notes before he can ask for an agreement. He said, "If I have no subscription I cannot ask for an agreement."
Q. You could have signed the subscription and then given the notes when he delivered the bonds to you, could you not?
A. Yes, I could, but I had so much confidence in Judge Berkey and in those people at that time that I did not do that.
Q. Did you consummate to the deal at that time in pursuance with your conversation with the agent or because of the personal letter delivered to you from Judge Berkey?
A. Yes.
Q. Which?
A. Because of the personal letter, the personal letter and the friendship.

By Mr. BLUMBERG:
Q. In answer to the Chairman's question, at one time you say it was on the faith of the personal letter that you subscribed for this new block of stock, and another time you say because you wanted an agreement, now which was it?
A. Well with this letter then I thought, when this letter came, I thought this was my opportunity to get that agreement. It was rather the agreement that I was after now.
Q. Then it was not on the basis of the letter that you subscribed to this new $5,000 block of stock but because you thought that by making this subscription you could get an agreement covering this first $5,000 block, is that so?
A. Yes sir. It was probably the two together. If the personal letter would not have been along with this at this time, I would not have hardly considered it, but when he sent his personal letter and asked me to subscribe I thought by subscribing now I could get this agreement. It was really the two, the personal letter—if it would not have been along I would not have subscribed then.
Q. Now it is the combination of both of those circumstances that induced you to subscribe for the second block?
A. Yes, it is the combination of both those two.
Q. Now, you say you delivered those notes on the representation of the salesman that he would later procure this agreement for you?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Didn't you as a banker know that if those notes were negotiated into the hands of some innocent third person that you would be responsible, that that defense would not apply to you?
A. I would have known it but I had confidence that it would not be done, that was the trouble. I was expecting this agreement.
Q. Whom were the notes made payable to?
A. The Johnstown and Somerset Railway Company.
Q. Not to judge Berkey personally?
A. No sir.
Q. And you knew that this corporation had a complete board of directors, it was not a one man corporation was it?
A. I knew that, yes.
Q. Did you believe that this note would not be negotiated by the company because you had a lot of confidence in Judge Berkey?
A. I believed that the Trust Company would hold those notes as they promised. When they were financing this road, and I understood at that time, and believed, that they were financing this road, and under-writing the bonds, etc. I believed they would hold them; I didn't expect that Judge Berkey would allow any set of men to go into Somerset County and misrepresent things as they did.
Q. Did you ever make any inquiry as to whether those men did represent the Equitable Trust Company of New York?
A. I did later on.
Q. Did you have the second block of bonds delivered to you?
A. Yes, he slipped them in my house. I would not have accepted them, if I would have been at the house without this agreement.
Q. Do you have the $10,000 worth of bonds now?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Did you ever collect any interest on the bonds?
A. No sir.
Q. Did you ever present them for interest?
A. No sir, no more than when the Judge asked me to renew the notes, he asked for the coupons and gave me a check and asked me to pay.
Q. How much was the check for?
A. I don't remember what it was.
Q. And this check represented what, did you say Mr. Hoffman?
A. Represented coupons that he took off.
Q. The interest on those bonds?
A. The interest on those bonds, yes.
Q. Do we understand that you were to gain to the extent of the interest on those bonds even though you tell us that you would not pay for the bonds?
A. What is that question?
Q. You told us that you were not to pay for the bonds?
A. Yes sir.
Q. That was the understanding?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And you now tell us that you accepted a check in payment of interest for some of the bonds?
A. With the promise that before the notes came due again that they would lift the notes and release me. With that promise Judge Berkey endorsed the notes again.
Q. Yes, I understand, but I am trying to get at this, Mr. Hoffman; you say that a check was given to you for some coupons representing interest accrued on the bonds?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And you accepted that check?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And you used that check?
A. That check to pay the interest.

Q Am I to understand that in that way you were to profit by permitting your name to be used as a director of this company?
A. My name was not used as a director.
Q. Irrespective of the fact that you would not pay the bonds you expected to get the interest on the bonds?
A. Simply to give them time to get money. They said their bond salesman would be in about the 1st of May, and if they sold more bonds and be in shape they would lift these notes; simply to extend the time is what I understood.

By Mr. LUDLOW:

Q. Didn't you use the proceeds of Judge Berkey's check to pay the interest on these same notes?

A. Yes, I used it.

Q. Did you have any profit left there for yourself on any part of the coupons?

A. No, it didn't reach; I don't think. This is five percent and I had to pay six percent on the notes.

Q. In answering my colleague's question you said you took Judge Berkey's check for the coupons, you gave the coupons to the Judge and turned the proceeds of the check with some of your own money over to the bank to pay the interest on those notes; is that right?

A. Yes, that is right.

By Mr. WITKIN:

Q. Mr. Hoffman, how long after you purchased the first $5000 worth of bonds did you receive the second $5000 of bonds?

A. One was the 26th of July and the other one the 20th of September.

Q. The 20th of September?

A. The 20th of September.

Q. Of the same year?

A. Of the same year, before I knew that the Equitable Trust Company was not underwriting those bonds or financing it.

Q. When did you first find that out?

A. Well, I don't know exactly—

Q. After the second purchase?

A. Some time after the second purchase. I did not know anything of it when I went to see Judge Berkey, at least I am not sure.

Q. When did you go to see Judge Berkey? After the second purchase or before?

A. After the second purchase.

Q. How long after?

A. Some weeks later.

Q. Prior to the due date of the notes or after the due date of the notes?

A. Prior to the due date of the notes.

Q. Now you said that the $5,000, the second lot of bonds, were slipped in while you were away; that is correct?

A. Away from the house.

Q. When you came home you found the bonds there without the agreement?

A. Yes, with a little slip of paper signed by Cohen that I was to take care of those bonds until he calls for them, signed E. A. Cohen, instead of the agreement.

Q. Where is that slip?

A. That is in the possession of the attorney.

Q. Now, Mr. Hoffman, did you say that you would not have accepted the bonds, why did you not immediately return the $5,000 of bonds to the source from whence they came as long as you didn't get the agreemtnt that you had expected to get?

A. Well, I left that go a little bit, and in the meantime I saw Cohen in Hooversville.

Q. May I ask you first without atttmpting to interrupt you, why didn't you make an attempt to immediately return them when you had an express agreement that these bonds were to be delivered with another paper; when you got the bonds and the paper was not there why didn't you return them immediately?

A. I should have done that.

Q. Was there any reason why you didn't do it?

A. I didn't hardly know what to do, that is it?

Q. Is that your only explanation?

A. That is about all. I saw that I was tricked then.

Q. You saw that you were tricked then?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And then you waited several weeks until you accidently met this other gentleman, the one you referred to, where?

A. In Hooversville.

Q. When?

A. It was not several weeks, it was some days, a week or so before, I don't think it was two weeks.

Q. If you had been tricked why did you delay the matter until you accidentally met the man that broke his agreement with you, why did't you as an ordinary practical business man make immediate complaint?

A. Well, I did not know just what to do. I was just at a loss, at that time, to know what to do; and I expected to get up and see Judge Berkey as soon as I got a little time. I was just busy at the time helping to erect the old folk's home there at the time.

Q. Prior to the due date of these notes, you found that you had been tricked, you found that you were not getting the agreement you referred to, that is correct isn't it?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Did you ever make any attempt to return this second lot of $5,000 worth of bonds after you discovered that you had been tricked and the agreement was not forthcoming?

A. Yes, I went to see Judge Berkey about it.

Q. Answer my question, please. Did you ever offer to return or make anv return of this second $5,000 lot of bonds?

A. Yes, of course.

Q. To whom and when?

A. Judge Berkey.

Q. Did you have the bonds with you when you went there?

A. Yes I had in my pocket.

Q. What effort did you make to return them?

A. I told him what the agreement was, and he said they didn't have the money now, at the present time, but when they did get the money then they would lift the notes.

Q. Yes, but Mr. Hoffman, you stated that you would not have received those bonds, didn't you; that is correct, isn't it?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And you stated that you went to see Judge Berkey with those bonds, that is correct?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And you never intended to pay the money for which you had given notes on this second lot of $5,000 bonds, did you?

A. No.

Q. Then why did you come out of Judge Berkey's office with those very self same bonds which you knew you were not going to pay him for?

A. Because I didn't have the notes, and I wanted to leave the bonds whenever I got the notes.

Q. What was that?

A. I didn't have the notes, I could not get the notes back, and then I didn't think of offering the bonds when I could not get the notes.

Q. Now, Mr. Hoffman, you didn't intend to pay those notes, did you?

A. No sir, I didn't.

Q. Then as I understand it, you kept the bonds and intended to hold them until you got your notes back? Is that correct?

A. I thought that was the proper way to do.

Q. With respect to this certificate to which you ultimately filed an affidavit of defense averring forgery, when did you first know that that certificate was in the pleadings in your case?

A. When I saw their answer; after it came back from the Supreme Court we filed an additional answer and in their answer to our answer, if I mistake not, they had this thing stated.

Q. Did you know that that certificate was in the original pleadings filed in your case?

A. No, it had not been that I know of.

Q. Would you say now that it was not in the original pleadings in your case?

A. No, not to my knowledge.

Q. The original pleadings, were they served upon you or upon your counsel, do you know?

A. Not on me.

Q. On you?

A. No, not on me.

Q. Did you ever read the original pleadings?

A. I think I did, yes.

Q. Would you say, now, whether or not that certifiacte that you ultimately allege is a forgery was in the proceedings?

A. I did not notice it, I don't recall it at all.

Q. Now, when did the interest on those first $5,000 of bonds fall due?

A. The first $5,000, I think, in March.

Q. Of what year?

A. I think, 1922.

Q. Just one other question, Mr. Hoffman: when you gave the notes on the $5,000 lot, on the first $5,000 lot, did you intend to pay those notes?

A. No sir.

Q. So that all the notes that you gave in this case at the time you gave the notes you never intended to pay for them?
A. No, I was not to pay them.
Q. Did you ever return or make an attempt to return the first $5,000 lot of bonds?
A. Yes, I offered them all.
Q. When did you offer the first $5,000 lot?
A. The first $5,000 I had when I had the consultation with Judge Berkey the first time. I had them in my pocket ready to hand over, and when I saw him the second time I had all in my pocket.
Q. The first time you saw Berkey you didn't have the second $5,000 lot?
A. I don't remember that now. I think I had altogether.
Mr. STADTLANDER: I am getting sick of listening to this re-hash and a lot of irrelavent stuff, and if you persist in listening to it I am going to quit. I am serving notice right now that I don't intend to listen to it.
The CHAIRMAN: Mr. Stadtlander, I think we are spending a lot of time on things here, rehashing them that we have had several times. I don't like to arbitrarily cut off a colleague who is appointed the same as I am to get the facts, but I am anxious exceedingly anxious, that we expedite this matter as much as we can. I cannot see that we are getting any place asking the same question over and over, and getting it on the record a dozen times; I think it is a mistake and we ought to all eliminate that line of inquiry as far as possible unless you have some particular point to clear up. It is not our function to throttle anything of that kind. We want all the testimony that is presented, and get it as clearly as possible, but I would ask the members of the committee as well as the attorneys to co-operate in expediting this hearing as far as we can. We must finish this testimony this week for various reasons. There is other work to be done after this testimony is taken.
Mr. BLUMBERG: I am going to take the opportunity of questioning this witness, and if the remarks of my Colleague, Mr. Stadtlander, are intended for me I am going to make my position clear. I do not intend to be stifled along any line of inquiry that I desire to make of any witness that appears before this commitee. If I have any reason to disbelieve their story or question their good faith, I intend, as a member of this committee, to pursue it along those lines and I now intend to ask the witness a few other questions?

By Mr. BLUMBERG:
Q. Did you ever sell any bonds in Somerset County?
A. No sir.
Q. Did you ever lend your name to the sale of any in Somerset County?
A. I never lent it, but I know these Jews used my name afterwards?
Q. Did you ever recommend to your friends in Somerset County the purchase of any bonds?
A. I don't know that I did.
Q. Did you hear, at any time, of the Louisiana Rice Company?
A. Rice Company?
Q. The Louisiana Rice Company?
A. I have heard of it.
Q. Did you ever buy any bonds in that company?
A. No sir.
Q. Did you ever induce any of your friends to buy any bonds in that company?
A. No sir.
Q. You know who the Dunkards are?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You have some influence with the members of that congregation?
A. I am a member of that congregation.
Q. Did you induce some members of that congregation to purchase stock in the Louisiana Rice Company?
A. No sir.
Q. Did you assist in any sale of stock in the Somerset Terminal Development Company?
A. No sir.
Mr. BLUMBERG: That is all.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. The interest payments that were made to you were they upon the first $5,000 or the second $5,000?
A. I cannot tell you. I have the bonds in my pocket. Berkey took off the coupons, whether off one or both, but he took enough off to pay for the interest, I think. I don't remember just what the amount had been, whether he took them off all of them or not.
Q. Do you recall which bonds you had with you?
A. I had all the bonds which I had with me.
Q. That was at the second interview with Judge Berkey?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And you say you didn't deal in any bonds, sell any bonds at all?
A. No sir, not at all.
Mr. LUDLOW: I don't want to prolong the record, but has this witness testified any place to the Louisiana Rice Company or anything about the Dunkards?
The CHAIRMAN: Not to my knowledge.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Were these notes which you gave judgment notes?
A. Yes sir.
Q. They are judgment notes and they were not negotiable?
A. No.

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. Mr. Hoffman, you said that Judge Berkey gave you a check for the amount of these coupons?
A. That is my recollection, yes.
Q. And you paid that check for taking up the interest on those notes?
A. No, I didn't use that check because it represented two notes, and I had to deposit it in bank in order to get it separated.
Q. Did you pay any of that money that you got on the check to anybody?
A. I paid it for the interest on the notes.
Q. And isn't it a fact that you sent a renewal note to the Davidsville bank with a check and they sent it back to you?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Did you get the money on the check?
A. It was never drawn.
Q. Did you use it?
A. I used it, it was never drawn out of my assets.
Q. You say you got a check from Judge Berkey, signed by Judge Berkey?
A. I think so.
(Check dated March 9, 1922, signed by C. C. Smucker to the order of Peter Hoffman produced and marked respondents exhibit No. A1).
Q. I show you exhibit A1 being a check dated March 9, 1922, given by C. C. Smucker to the order of Peter Hoffman, on the First National Bank of Boswell, Pa., and endorsed by Peter Hoffman and I ask you whether you received that check?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And is that your signature or endorsement?
A. Yes, it looks like it.
Q. Who got the money?
A. I drew the money.
Q. For what?
A. For paying the interest on the notes.
Q. Did you pay any interest on the notes?
A. Yes sir.
Q. To whom?
A. The Meyersdale Bank.
Q. Where?
A. Meyersdale, renewals.
Q. How did you pay it?
A. I paid it with a check.
Q. What was the amount of the check you paid the Meyersdale Bank?
A. If I remember it was $75.
Q. $75, to whom else did you pay any money?
A. To the Citizen's Bank.
Q. The Citizen's Bank of what?
A. Windber.
Q. How much?
A. $75, I think.
Q. Pay anybody else?
A. Yes to the Stoyestown Bank also.
Q. On what notes?
A. On notes the same as the other, with the promise that after it would become due the second time that Judge Berkey or the company would take care of the notes.

Q. You didn't have an agreement at that time with any bank?
A. I had a verbal agreement with Judge Berkey directly.

By Mr. WITKIN:
Q. Didn't you just tell Mr. Stadtlander awhile ago that you had no agreement with Judge Berkey?
A. That is, not a written agreement, I meant—I had a verbal agreement.
Q. Didn't Mr. Stadtlander, one of my colleagues here, ask you if you had an agreement with Judge Berkey and didn't you say "No?"
A. I had reference to the written agreement; that is what I meant.
(Answer filed by Davidsville Bank to affidavit of certificate of no defense produced and marked respondents exhibit A 2)

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. I show you respondent's exhibit No. A-2 being an answer filed by the Davidsville bank, wherein they put in full the affidavit of certificate of no defense, on page 4 of the answer (indicating on bottom of sheet)—
A. Well, that was after; I think that was after the court reversed, after it had been to the Supreme Court.
Q. You are sure of that are you?
A. I think so; I don't remember; I am not sure.
Q. You saw that did you?
A. Yes, I saw that.
(Affidavit of no defense filed on the 14th day of January, 1925, produced and marked respondents exhibit No. A-3).

By Mr. BEIDLEMAN:
Q. I show you respondent's exhibit A 3 and ask you whether that is your affidavit of no defense wherein you allege it was a forgery?
A. Yes sir.
Q. That was filed in the Court of Common Pleas of Somerset County on the 14th day of January, 1925?
A. Yes sir.
Q. That is the last affidavit that you filed?
A. I think so, yes sir.
CHARLES R.McMILLAN a witness called on behalf of the complainant, being duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows on—
Mr. GEYER: Will you please stand aside for a few minutes?
C. C. WAGNER, re-called.

DIRECT EXAMINATION.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. You have been sworn?
A. Yes sir.
Q. It has been testified by you that you have been connected with the Somerset Trust Company for a number of years. Did you have any offer for bonds of the Johnstown and Somerset Railway Company made by anyone purporting to represent Judge Berkey?
A. Yes sir.
Q. By whom?
A. By a Mr. McQuade.
Q. When was that?
A. In the latter part of 1921.
Q. What was requested of you?
A. He came over to see me and said that Judge Berkey had sent him there to see if we would not discount $35,000 worth of notes that he had sold street railway bonds for.
Q. What offer if any, was made if you would discount them?
A. That Judge Berkey would give us all the Orphans Court business.
Q. Was he then Judge of the Orphans Court?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What threat, if any, was made if you would not discount them?
A. That we would not get any.
Q. What reply, if any, did you make?
A. I told him we were not buying Orphans Court business that way.
Q. Did you take—
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: If somebody went there and made a ridiculous proposition of that kind, without Judge Berkey being present, this certainly seems to us that this is hearsay.
Mr. GEYER: It may be—
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: It has been testified to that he has been Judge Berkey's enemy for twenty-four years.
The WITNESS. I did not say that.
Mr. GEYER: That may be, but we propose to follow it up by showing that Judge Berkey carried out the threat of not giving them any Orphans Court business which this representative said Judge Berkey told him to make.
The CHAIRMAN: His testimony, I understand, is that this other man should have said that.
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: Yes.
The CHAIRMAN: That is not what Judge Berkey said?
Mr. BEIDLEMAN: Judge Berkey was not there, and he is testifying to what the other man said. And there is no rule of evidence under which it is admissible.
(Argument off the record)
The CHAIRMAN: Is Mr. McQuade here?
Mr. GEYER: No sir.
Mr. MOFFATT: Who is Mr. McQuade?
The WITNESS: He is an agent for the railway company.
Mr. MOFFATT: He is an agent for the railway company?
The WITNESS: He was a bond salesman.
Mr. STADTLANDER: That has nothing to do with Judge Berkey at all.
Mr. BLUMBERG: Where is he?
The WITNESS: He was living in Somerset County, I don't know where he is now.
The CHAIRMAN: Mr. Geyer, I think that in view of the character of this testimony, we will permit you to show by this witness that he was requested to discount these notes, and that later this business was taken away. Eliminate the hearsay testimony as to any conversation, and then we will consider it for what it is worth.

By Mr. GEYER:
Q. Mr. Wagner, you refused to discount the notes?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What, if anything, afterwards happened on applications for the appointment of your Trust Company in the Orphans Court of that county.
A. In several cases we were refused appointment.
Q. Are the people here who made the requests for your appointment?
A. Why, some of them are.
